SO MUCH FOR MR. CARTER'S NOD TO THE THIRD WORLD! DID YOU KNOW HE'S ALREADY HOME?
WELL, OF COURSE, PHRED! HE HAS TO HOST THE ANNUAL HUMAN RIGHTS AWARDS BANQUET THIS WEEK!
OH, SAY, THAT'S RIGHT! YOU SENT IN YOUR NOMINATION FORM YET?
YOU BETTER BELIEVE IT! WITH ALL THIS NEW INTEREST IN AFRICA, BENIN FINALLY HAS A REAL CHANCE!
LOOK AT THE CURVE ON THIS CHART WE PREPARED! THE INCIDENCE OF CURTAILED LIBERTIES HAS DROPPED OFF SIGNIFICANTLY! AND CHECK OUT THESE BEFORE-AND-AFTER PHOTOS OF TYPICAL POLITICAL PRISONERS!
WOW! WHAT A DIFFERENCE!
COMPLETELY UNRETOUCHED! AND WE GOT AFFIDAVITS, TOO!
4-5
G B Trudeau

PEANUTS

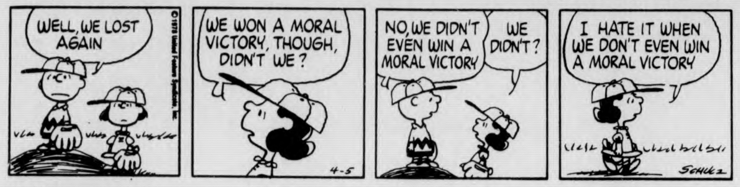
by Charles Schulz



WELL, WE LOST AGAIN
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
WE WON A MORAL VICTORY, THOUGH, DIDN'T WE?
4-5
NO, WE DIDN'T EVEN WIN A MORAL VICTORY
WE DIDN'T?
I HATE IT WHEN WE DON'T EVEN WIN A MORAL VICTORY
SCHULZ

B.C.

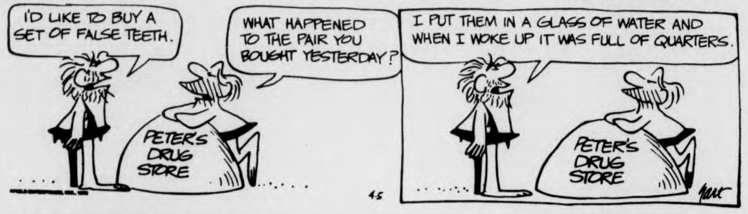
by Johnny Hart



I'D LIKE TO BUY A SET OF FALSE TEETH.
WHAT HAPPENED TO THE PAIR YOU BOUGHT YESTERDAY?
PETER'S DRUG STORE
I PUT THEM IN A GLASS OF WATER AND WHEN I WOKE UP IT WAS FULL OF QUARTERS.
PETER'S DRUG STORE
4-5
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

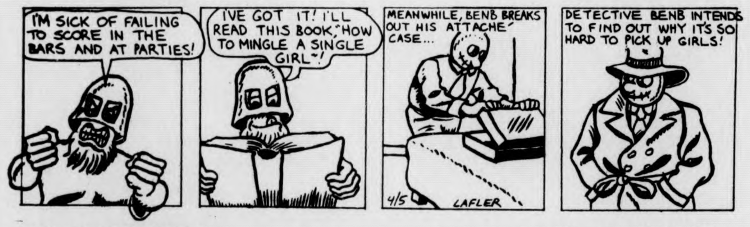
by Steve Lafler



I'M SICK OF FAILING TO SCORE IN THE BARS AND AT PARTIES!
I'VE GOT IT! I'LL READ THIS BOOK, "HOW TO MINGLE A SINGLE GIRL"!
MEANWHILE, BENB BREAKS OUT HIS ATTACHE' CASE...
4/5
LAFLER
DETECTIVE BENB INTENDS TO FIND OUT WHY IT'S SO HARD TO PICK UP GIRLS!

THE WANDERER

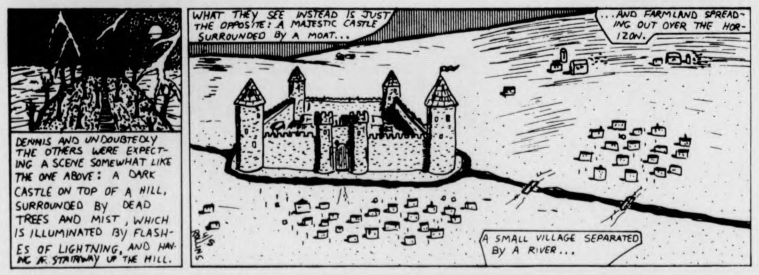
by Mark Rollins



DENNIS AND UNDOUBTEDLY THE OTHERS WERE EXPECTING A SCENE SOMEWHAT LIKE THE ONE ABOVE: A DARK CASTLE ON TOP OF A HILL, SURROUNDED BY DEAD TREES AND MIST, WHICH IS ILLUMINATED BY FLASHES OF LIGHTNING, AND HAVING A STAIRWAY UP THE HILL.
WHAT THEY SEE INSTEAD IS JUST THE OPPOSITE: A MAJESTIC CASTLE SURROUNDED BY A MOAT...
...AND FARMLAND SPREADING OUT OVER THE HORIZON.
A SMALL VILLAGE SEPARATED BY A RIVER...
ROLLINS

WALLY DORF

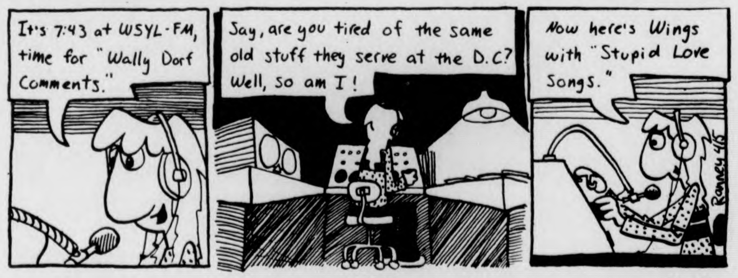
by Rob Ranney



It's 7:43 at WSYL-FM, time for "Wally Dorf Comments."
Say, are you tired of the same old stuff they serve at the D.C? Well, so am I!
Now here's Wings with "Stupid Love Songs."
Ranney 4/5

BACK AGAIN

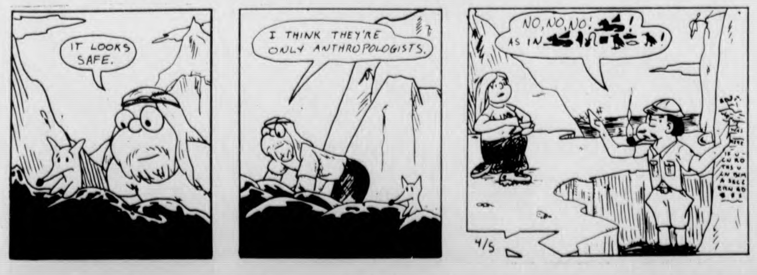
by K



IT LOOKS SAFE.
I THINK THEY'RE ONLY ANTHROPOLOGISTS.
NO, NO, NO! !
AS IN !
4/5

Your Birthday

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5

Born today, you are a very exceptionally independent individual, and do not work well with others. You must beware going into a business partnership. You will have particular difficulty adjusting to a business situation where you will have to cooperate with relatives. You do not object to others doing thngs their way, but you wish the same privilege.

You are an expansive person away from your profession. In purely social relationships you are helpful, cheerful, enthusiastic, and ready with a new way to cement a relationship. You insist on keeping personal relationships separate from career.

You do not work to make yourself understood. Your attitude is one of every man for himself. Those who fail to grasp your intentions must remain ignorant of them. Those who take the trouble to understand you add a new dimension to their enjoyment of life.

Also born on this date: Bette Davis, actress; Melvyn Douglas, actor; Chester Bowles, diplomat.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthddy star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6

ARIES(March 19) — Finish old dealings before tackling new ones. Rearrange priorities at home.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — A move involving the whole family brings much nervous strain. Try to avoid arguments.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — A decision about advancement is pending. Don't jeopardize your position through laziness.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — What had proved profitable may now bring loss. Investigate changes in the project.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Examine the project you plan to undertake. There may be unpleasant surprises.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Double-check everything before you pay the bills. A windfall may be coming today.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Question authority tactfully, or you may find the answers not to your liking.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Return phone calls, answer mail, catch up with old friends in new situations.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — A change in another's local social position may be good fortune for you.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Finances improve through increased earning possibilities. Concentrate on work.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Try a straightforward approach. You may reduce tension at work considerably.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Employer or employee, you should be able to call your shots today. Rely on self-knowledge.

Copyright, 1978,
United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate

ACROSS

1 Actress ---- Daniels
5 Spice
9 "----- Bulba": Gogol novel
14 -- -- even keel
15 Ending for Hel or Rub
16 Mideast Arab
17 Augments
18 Restriction
20 Divan
21 Bad ---: Famed spa
22 Compositions
23 Good faith: Arch.
25 Geography book
27 Spool
29 Knock
30 Afr. village
34 Astern
36 Give opposing evidence
38 Combine
39 TV worker: 2 words
42 Corn breads
43 Take illegally
44 Snoop
45 Fret
46 Portuguese coin
47 Gr. letter
49 Engine
51 Rides the breakers
54 Of the forearm
58 Airline for Naples
60 Editor's word
61 On the horns -- - --------
63 Metric weight
64 The Hunter
65 Secular
66 Collar type
67 Gangster's gals
68 ---- cap
69 Philosopher ---- Descartes

DOWN

1 Speak with pride
2 Biblical witch's home
3 Poor luck: 2 words
4 Sword-shaped
5 Mickey and Minnie
6 New Mexican Indian
7 Builder: 2 words
8 Essential being 9 Neophytes: Var.
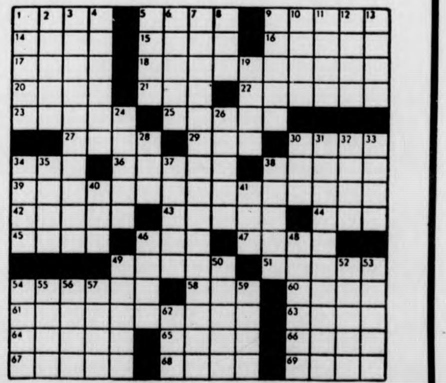
10 Island near Ireland
11 Siege
12 ---- Domini
13 Poses
19 Ambush
24 Animal groups
26 Machine tool
28 Lease
30 Part of an hr.
31 Having three parts
32 Seaweed
33 Disavow
34 Snakes
35 Length unit
37 Harass
38 Actress Vera -----
40 Untried
41 Arrest
46 "Piano ---- Blues"
48 Wild boar, for one
49 Conduits
50 Flaxlike fiber
52 Murderer
53 Gem
54 Space
55 ---- Cuban rhythms
56 Irish legislature
57 Heathen deity
59 Measure by steps
62 Venison source

Tuesday's Puzzle Solved:

HELP MELD SIRED
ALAR OLIO PLANE
VOTE LIMN RINSE
EGEST SPOLIATED
SENSOR STAND
UNIT EST PRE
STOREFRONT SAIL
HOPES OUT SKINK
ORAD SURETHINGS
TOL WEB REAP
MORAL ALPINE
LEMONADES LETON
AMEND ONTO RAID
SMITE UTAH ELSE
SANER ROTO DYED



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22

Sullivan excites Fenway faithful

BOSTON [UPI] — The Boston Red Sox will be hard pressed this year to match the excitement they have generated during the off-season.

With the season starting this week and the home opener coming April 4, the Red Sox have their fans in a frenzy.

While Red Sox fans always have loved their team, they will display a pennant fever this season that should pitch New England into a baseball tizzy never witnessed before.

The reason for the fans' unbounded enthusiasm is traceable to one man, Haywood Sullivan. The soft-speaking, gentle-faced man sauntered through an undistinguished catching career, survived a term as Charles O. Finley's manager in Kansas City and settled quietly into a position as director of player personnel for the Red Sox in 1966.

Now that Sullivan is the man in control, though, he has doffed the conservative mask to reveal himself as a bold gambler.

In six seasons since taking over as general manager, Sullivan has:

—spent $4 million of the Yankees trust's money to buy four free agents.

—made seven trades that have netted 10 players, including a pair of young All-stars; —jettisoned 10 players to complete trades or trim the roster.

The result is that Boston has two potential 20-game winners in Mike Torrez and Dennis Eckersley, a base stealer and good defensive second baseman in Jerry Remy, a left-right relief combination in Tom Burgmeier and Dick Drago that takes the pressure off over worked Bill Campbell, and solid utility infielders in Jack Brohamer and Frank Duffy.

Sullivan's moves have given Red Sox fans every right to be excited as never before.

★ Batsmen face Harvard

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

"He did a good job at SMU," Bergquist said. "He took a real step back toward the effectiveness he had last year.

"He was having trouble with location, but I think he'll still be one of the top pitchers in New England this year."

Bergquist also plans on using freshman John Gallagher as his designated hitter. Gallagher is currently batting .414 with nine hits in 19 at bats.

Sophomore Doug Alyward, coming off a four-for-five performance in the last game of the SMU tourney, will also start in the outfield. Senior Charlie Ciccone will be behind the plate.

Bergquist said he hopes the Minutemen can duplicate their 18-hit attack which they displayed against Vermont in the SMU tourney.

Sports Notices

TENNIS — Tryouts are being held for women's varsity tennis. Anyone interested should show up at NOPE courts between 4-5:30 p.m.

SCHEDULE CHANGES — The following facilities will be closed: Boyden pool, April 8 & 9; NOPE pool, April 20 at 7 p.m.; Boyden gym April 15; NOPE gym, April 8.

WRIST WRESTLING — Entries are due today. Competition starts April 10.

CO-REC SWIMMING — Entries are due Wed., April 5. Competition begins that evening.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Women's softball team 3 University of Lowell 1
TODAY
Baseball at Harvard 3:00 p.m.
Men's Lacrosse at UConn 3:00 p.m.
TOMORROW
Women's Lacrosse at Boston Univeristy 6:00 p.m.

DVP
Martin Luther King Jr.
'Prophet of Peace'

Tuesday, April 4
Student Union Ballroom 8:00 p.m.
Gospel Singer Evangelist
Shirley Caesar
and the Caesar Singers

Wednesday, April 5
Student Union Ballroom 8:00 p.m.
Dr. Charles Martin,
Editor of the Journal of Negro Education

Thursday, April 6
Student Union Ballroom 8:00p.m.
Voices of New Africa House Choir (UMass)
Rhani Harris and Family Love

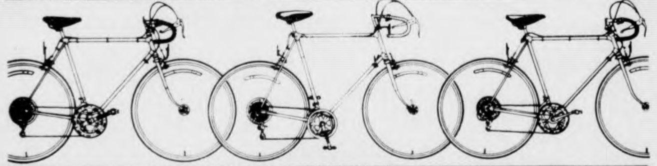
All events are free
and open to the university and community.

11th Annual
Martin Luther King, Jr.
Memorial Lecture Series

AMHERST CYCLE SHOP

Get your bike ready for spring:
general check $8 (on 10-speed).

See our new Fuji bikes
Rampar 1027- a quality 10-speed
for $117.95



253 Triangle St.
549-3729

the Right Choice
For Your Summer '78

THREE SUMMER SESSIONS (Day & Evening)
May 22-June 23 / June 26-July 28 / July 31-Sept. 1
ATTEND ONE, TWO OR ALL THREE SESSIONS
WEEKEND COLLEGE BEGINS JULY 1, 8 or 9

Over 1350 Courses from A to Y in Liberal Arts and Sciences, Fine Arts, Business Administration, Education, Library and Information Science (Graduate only) and Professional Accountancy . . . also Summer Institutes and Workshops . . . Taught by a faculty dedicated to excellence.

An exciting country/city experience . . . Beautiful 350-acre campus with residence halls, restaurants, theatres, sports facilities, etc. Nearby are beaches, parks, and golf courses. A half-hour away are all the cultural attractions of Manhattan.

Visa, BankAmericard and Master Charge accepted.

For the summer bulletin,
phone (516) 299-2431
or write Office of Summer Sessions, Box C

VISITING UNDERGRADUATE AND GRADUATE STUDENTS INVITED

LONG ISLAND UNIVERSITY
C.W. post center
GREENVALE, NEW YORK 11548

Summer courses are also available at the Suffolk Branch Campus, Brentwood, L.I. • (516) 273-5112

The Right Choice . . . For Your Summer '78 © 1978

Get Into Spring With The PENTAX® K1000

- Shutter speeds 1 sec. to 1/1000 sec.
- Fast f/2 50 mm lens
- Accepts full system of Pentax bayonet mount lenses
- Easy to use built-in meter camera with 50mm f 2.0 lens

tripod CAMERA SHOPS
219 Main St. Northampton, Ma. 01060 584-6040
98 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Ma. 01002 253-3039

Ramblings of a reporter

Diary of Sox in Sunshine State

Ed. Note. Assistant Sports Editor Walt Cherniak offered his services, and part of his spring break, to give the UMass community a glimpse of the Red Sox in the midst of their exhibition season.

By WALT CHERNIAK
Collegian Staff

The Boston Red Sox. There's something strangely mystifying about this team, these glamorized champions of New England hearts, that isn't evident in any of the other Boston area sports franchises. They aren't just ballplayers, but rather a rare blend of folk heroes and family; a team the New England fan feels a part of.

So, in an attempt to find out what they were like behind the scenes (which I did) as well as grab some of the legendary Florida sunshine (which I didn't), I recently looked in on the Bosox in the midst of their spring training session. The results, if not surprising, were at least interesting.

Thursday, March 16 — Cocoa, Fla. — The sign said "Astrotown," and everything in sight bore the orange hue of Houston's National League entry. It was a record-high 89 degrees when we landed in Orlando at about 11:30 a.m., and the weather in Cocoa was about the same. The sun felt great, but not nearly as great as seeing baseball again.

Boston jumped on top early, scoring three runs in the first off starter Joaquin Andujar, two of them coming on a mammoth home run by Jim Rice, a towering blast which disappeared well over 500 feet from home plate. Red Sox starter Mike Paxton was not that effective in his three innings, giving up four Astro runs, but Bob Stanley and Jim Wright combined to shut out the Houston gang over the last six innings. A solo homer by George Scott proved to be the winning hit, as the Sox won 6-4. Rice went three for three before retiring in the fifth, as Stanley picked up the win and Houston's Joe Sambito was tagged with the loss.

Strangely enough, I discovered that these Florida baseball fans have rooting habits all their own, as they take their seventh inning stretch before the inning begins, rather than before the home half of the inning. Gives the retirees time to get on their feet, I suppose.

Friday, March 17 — Winter Haven, Fla. — It was St. Patty's Day in Winter Haven, which, as all the signs told us, was "The Winter Home of the Boston Red Sox." The Bosox Club and a slew of other New Englanders had descended upon this sleepy central Florida community with only one thing in mind: Red Sox baseball. It felt like Boston too. Temperatures were in the low 50's and stayed that way for two days.

The complex itself was remarkable, as we found out while watching and chatting with some of the ballplayers as they practiced that morning. Bill Campbell said his elbow didn't hurt, but chose not to pitch. Bob Stanley chose not to play golf. The Red Sox chose not to win. The Detroit Tigers, backed by the home run punch of Tim Corcoran and Charlie Spikes, jumped all over Reggie Cleveland and held on to win a Fenway-type game, 12-9.

Luis Tiant dislocated a finger when hit on the hand with a first-inning line drive and had to leave the game. John Poloni and Jim Willoughby looked good, but it wasn't enough, as Cleveland gave up 10 runs and 11 hits in three innings of work. Jim Slaton was the winning pitcher for the Tigers.

Saturday, March 18 — Winter Haven, Fla. — The temperature today peaked at a balmy 58 degrees, with continued windy conditions. Dwight Evans seems to be running well, despite a pulled thigh muscle suffered three days earlier.

Where the Detroit game was a typical Sox slugfest, today's game was completely the opposite, as the Minnesota Twins beat Boston, 3-1, before the second straight sell-out crowd. Millionaire free agent pitcher Mike Torrez worked four and two-thirds innings, yielding solo homers to Glenn Adams and Rob Wilfong, but took the loss, as Dave Goltz, Pete Redfern and Tom Johnson limited the Sox to six singles. Dick Drago and Tom Burgmeier also looked well on the mound.

Probably the highlight of the day was watching the "Splendid Splinter" working with Dwight Evans in the batting cage after the game. Ted Williams stayed pretty much in hiding, but came out to work with Evans, Carbo, and Fisk for about an hour.

Sunday, March 19 — Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. — This finally was the game. The Red Sox and the Yankees, great any time of year. We stood in line for almost two hours waiting for bleacher seats to go on sale. Scalpers further down the line commanded up to $10 for their tickets. It was just like September, and few of the fans seemed to be from Florida.

Once inside, we witnessed a media show-case, as reporters and photographers were all over the place, outnumbering the players and coaches at least two to one. Tony Kubek was there. Peter Gammons, Larry Whiteside and Dave O'Hara were there. Dick Stockton, Ken Harrelson, Ned Martin and Jim Woods were there for the Red Sox, and Phil Rizzuto and Bill White were there for the Yankees. But the media person who stole the show was CBS' Phyllis George, whose autograph was as much in demand as the ballplayers. She did interviews with Bill Lee and Reggie Jackson while the crowd whistled and yelled.

Mike Torrez shook hands with ex-teammate Reggie Jackson and they were immediately swarmed by photographers and writers. Billy Martin led a caravan of some twenty reporters up and down the first base line. Scott, Rice and Jackson posed together for the cameras. Carl Yastrzemski was interviewed by a Miami Herald writer for the next day's paper. It was like the World Series.

Finally, the game began. Bill Lee started for the Sox, and young Gil Patterson for the pinstripers. Rice singled home Rick Burleson in the first to give Boston an early lead, but the Yankees bunched some weird hits into three third inning runs off the "Spaceman," and added a fourth to gain a 4-1 lead when Lee departed after the fifth.

With a three-run lead, Martin pulled Munson, Jackson Nettles, Chambliss and Piniella, and replaced them with Narron, LeFebvre, Stanley, Spencer and Smith (Murderers Row II?). Any way, the Sox scratched back while Rick Wise mowed down the motley Yankee replacements, as Sam Bowen singled home a run. Bernie Carbo followed suit, and a clutch triple by Butch Hobson off Neal Mersch (Yes, Neal Mersch) tied the score.

The game was still tied in the ninth. Billy Martin put in ace reliever Sparky Lyle, who shut out the Sox in his one inning, but the Yankees couldn't score off Wise, who finished with four strong innings of shutout work. Rookie Allen Ripley was just as impressive, as he mowed down the Yanks in the 10th and 11th.

The Sox finally broke through in the 12th, against Bob Kammeyer this time. Bob Bailey drew a walk and reserve catcher Bo Diaz sliced a line drive triple down the right field line to drive home what proved to be the winning run.

Ripley withstood a dropped fly ball in the 12th, and the Red Sox had won the game, 5-4. Ripley pitched well in getting the win, and Kammeyer took the loss. It felt almost like the real thing.

The next day, the Red Sox took off for Puerto Rico, and we took off for the beach. It had been an interesting four days. The Sox were 2-2 over that period, and their pitchers had given up 23 runs — 21 by the starters. Newcomers Torrez, Drago, Burgmeier and Brohamer all looked good enough, but it was second baseman Jerry Remy who impressed the most among the new men; hitting line drives, making the plays and running the bases like no one else on the Sox club. Jim Rice and Rick Burleson were stroking the ball well, and Carl Yastrzemski was Carl Yastrzemski, hitting at about .550 for the spring.

Bucs nip Sox

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. [UPI] — Bill Robinson hit a two-run homer and John Milner added a solo home run yesterday when the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Boston Red Sox 3-1 in an exhibition game.

Robinson snapped a scoreless tie in the fourth inning by hitting his fifth home run of the spring with Omar Moreno aboard. Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, who took the loss, gave up his second homer of the game in the sixth to Milner.

Dwight Evans accounted for the Boston run with his fourth spring home run, this one in the fifth inning off Will McEnaney, who got the Pittsburgh win.

Spinks champ?

COLUMBIA, S.C. [UPI] — Muhammed Ali said yesterday the World Boxing Council was wrong to strip Leon Spinks of his heavyweight title and indicated he expects to fight Spinks in September, probably in New Orleans.

"It wasn't fair to take Spinks' title," said the former heavyweight champion, who met with reporters before speaking to a juvenile justice seminar.

"He didn't even have two months rest," Ali said. "It was the worst thing in the world."

Spinks decisioned Ali in a 15-round fight earlier this year.

Spinks, who was stripped of the title because he would not agree to fight Ken Norton before meeting Ali, had a right to wait 11 months before he had to start negotiating for his next title fight, Ali said.

"They (WBC) didn't hurt Spinks; they made him bigger," Ali said, noting Norton has the title but is not making any money with it.

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY
3 Miles From Northampton
3 Miles From Amherst
OPEN: MON.-FRI. 9:30 to 5:30 p.m., SAT. 9:30 to 3 p.m.

TIRES
CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.
MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

SPRING INSPECTION
SPECIALS

FIRESTONE, B.F. GOODRICH, GOODYEAR
LEE, ARMSTRONG, ZENITH, and many more first quality

BIASPLY - 4-PLY POLYESTER

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 600x12 | Lee Ltr. Bk. | 19.95 |
| 615x13 | Lee Ltr. Wht. | 21.95 |
| A78x13 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 16.95 |
| B78x13 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 20.95 |
| C78x14 | General White | 21.95 |
| D78x14 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 22.95 |
| E78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 23.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 24.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 25.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 27.95 |
| 560x15 | Goodyear Bk. | 19.95 |
| 600x15 | Pirelli Bk. | 23.95 |
| 685x15 | Fire. M/Sport | 26.95 |
| G78x15 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 25.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 27.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire. Pe. Wht. | 32.95 |

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX.

BIAS PLY - FIBERGLASS BELTED

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| A78-13 | Lee Wht. | 25.95 |
| B78x13 | Fire. Wht. | 26.95 |
| C78x13 | Cust. Wht. | 26.95 |
| C78x14 | Fire. SRB Wht. | 29.95 |
| E78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 27.95 |
| E78x14 | B.F.G. Wht. Blem | 26.95 |
| F78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Fire. SRB Bk. | 31.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 36.95 |
| G78x15 | B.F.G. Bk. Blem. | 28.95 |
| G78x15 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 31.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire. SRB Blk. | 34.95 |
| H78x15 | Prowler Wht. | 35.95 |
| J78x15 | Fire. SRB. Wht. | 37.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 36.95 |
| L78x15 | B.F.G. Blk. Blem | 32.95 |

WHITEWALLS $2.00 MORE PER TIRE.

RADIALS
MICHELIN, GENERAL, B.F. GOODRICH, DUNLOP, CONTINENTAL, LEE, FIRESTONE, ARMSTRONG, AND MANY MORE. ALL AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

B.F.Goodrich

B.F. GOODRICH
BELTED T/A 60

BELTED T/A 70/60

Bold raised white letters and 70/60-series profile give the Belted T/A an aggressive performance appearance, mileage and stability of polyester/glass construction, wide nine rib tread for handling and traction

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. Tax and Sales Tax.

T/A
PERFORMANCE TIRES

| SIZE | SALE PRICE | F.E. TAX | RIM WIDTH | TREAD WIDTH |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| F60x14 | 40.00 | 2.85 | 6-9" | 8" |
| G60x14 | 42.00 | 3.04 | 6-9" | 8½" |
| L60x14 | 46.00 | 3.57 | 7-10" | 9½" |
| G60x15 | 43.00 | 3.07 | 6-9" | 8¼" |
| L60x15 | 48.00 | 3.69 | 7-10" | 9½" |
| B70x13 | 31.00 | 2.06 | 5-6½" | 6" |
| E70x14 | 35.00 | 2.44 | 5½-7" | 6" |
| F70x14 | 36.00 | 2.57 | 5½-7" | 6½" |
| G70x14 | 37.00 | 2.73 | 6-8" | 6¾" |
| G70x15 | 38.00 | 2.80 | 5½-8" | 6¾" |
| H70x15 | 42.00 | 2.99 | 6-8" | 7" |

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY
Cash and Carry or Bank Americard (VISA) Master Charge
OPEN Mon.-Fri. 9:30 to 5:30 p.m. SAT. 9:30-3 p.m.
586-2544

FACES
SATIN SHORTS
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Gorillas prepare for UConn match

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

And now ladies and gentlemen, we have the University of Connecticut's version of lacrosse. Oh, you didn't know that the Storrs campus had any other program outside of men's basketball and a sometimes decent football team? Well it does, lacrosse.

And get this: the Huskies play New Haven, Wesleyan, and even Clark. What's that you ask? Do they play Cornell? Well, no. Huh-do they play Rutgers? Ahh, not this season. Hofstra? Well, they knew where it is. Syracuse? Ahh, not in so many words.

UConn plays UMass, which plays Syracuse, so using the circular principle of common opponents, in a roundabout way, I guess the Huskies do play Syracuse. Who knows at this point.

In any case, I do know the Huskies are taking on the Gorillas today at 3 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. Unfortunately for those of you UMies out there who might have viewed the Minutemen practicing outside yesterday, and are now itching for a home game, the Schedule God says you'll have to wait exactly one more week for that big event, as this one's in Storrs.

Sandwiched between that home opener (Vermont) and today's content with the Huskies, is a Saturday encounter with Syracuse in New York.

But it would be a drastic mistake for the 'Crossers to be looking past the UConn matchup today. Though UMass took the Huskies to the cleaners last year, something like 22-7, the team isn't the same as their '77 one. If nothing else, they have a year more of experience behind them. Plus, the past has no direct influence on future or present outcomes.

Actually, maybe it's unfair to judge a team by its schedule, and not having seen them play yet.

Currently the two state school teams do have one thing in common — both the Huskies and the Minutemen have played one game, UMass lost to Cornell 17-7, while Yale defeated UConn 11-3.

There's no doubt this win would mean a lot to both squads. UMass doesn't need a loss, as that would not be looked upon too favorably by the people who rate the teams nationally. UConn, with this as one of its big games, would not only like to upset Massachusetts because it would even up its record and lift the team's spirits (not that morale is down), but because it is UMass — the number one team in New England.

Don't think UMass has everything to lose and nothing to gain — anytime you win, it's better than losing. Although a win over a team like Cornell isn't looked upon as the same as a win over a UConn, they both count the same in the standings — that is either way, a 'W' is added to the team's overall record.

Net results ... look for a non-cocky UMass, and a psyched UConn — which could lead to an interesting game ... with respect to the Huskie's schedule, they do play Brown, UNH, and Army ...

Gorilla attackman Brooks Sweet (14) as he cuts around the Cornell crease with a 'Big Red' hot on his tail. Teammate Dave Martin (7) is in the background checking out the action (Staff photo - John LeJeune)

'Grateful' UMass nine take on Harvard today

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

The UMass baseball team won't be playing at home today, but the Minutemen are grateful to be competing at all.

UMass was slated to open its 17-game home season this afternoon against Harvard, but a water-laden Earl Lorden Field put an end to that. The unplayable field forced UMass coach Dick Bergquist to ask the Crimson to either postpone the game or move it to Harvard's home field.

The two schools were unable to meet later in the season, thus necessitating the switch to Soldiers' Field for today's 3 p.m. game.

The Minutemen, 4-10, will be facing an 8-0 Crimson squad. Harvard will be opening its Northern season, as it has just returned from its annual Florida trip.

The Crimson did not play any top-rate collegiate teams there, according to assistant sports information director Bob Donovan, but it did emerge victorious from a seven-game tourney.

Ten-year coach Loyal Park plans on starting Larry Brown today. A senior right-hander, Brown is already 3-0. He was named co-host Valuable Player of the Florida tourney. Brown has won seven straight games over the span of two seasons.

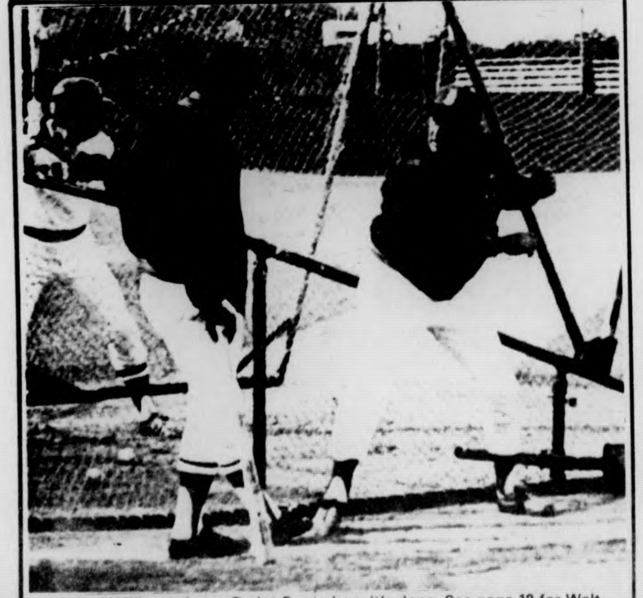
Sophomore leftfielder Mike Stenhouse was the other MVP down south. He is hitting .428, coming off a .475 performance a year ago. Stenhouse also drove in a Crimson record 40 runs last season.

First baseman Mark Bingham (.383 last year) and shortstop Burke St. John (.323), both sophomores, are Harvard's other big offensive guns.

The Crimson, 22-7 last season, are minus three players. One graduated, another is taking a year off, while a third signed with the New York Yankees.

UMass coach Dick Bergquist said he will start senior Tom Nigro on the mound. Nigro, 1-2, is coming off an appearance in the Southeastern Massachusetts Tournament. He was not involved in the decision.

TURN TO PAGE 18



Ted Williams shows Dwight Evans how it's done. See page 19 for Walt Cherniak's Winter Haven story. (Photo by Brett Rushon)

Batwomen trip ULowell

By BETH COLLINS
Collegian Staff

LOWELL — Senior Carol Bruce opened the UMass softball season with a bang here yesterday as the Minutewomen defeated the University of Lowell, 3-1.

Bruce ripped the first pitch of the game for a single, setting up co-captain Susan DiRocco, a torrid .429 hitter last season, for her first RBI single.

That was all the UMass nine needed until the sixth inning when a persistent Lowell team scored its only run with a walk and consecutive base hits. The Minutewomen retaliated with two runs in the bottom of the sixth on a Cheryl Meliones walk and Kathy Horrigan single which paved the way for a clutch triple by sophomore Sue Peters.

Peters shone from the mound, pitching four and one-third innings and only giving up one hit. Reliever Gail Carter was credited witn the save as she got the nod in the fourth inning when the Minutewomen found themselves in a tight situation.

A steady, confident defense was the key throughout the game as Pat Oski, Jen Parker, and Elaine Howle each came up with key plays for the Minutewomen.

Second year mentor Diane Thompson said defense was the key to the Minutewomen's win.

"I was very pleased with the defense out there today. They were poised and confident for the whole seven innings."

The unseasonably cold weather dampened the debuts of three UMass starters, but Jen Parker, Kathy Horrigan and Fran Cornacchioli were all instrumental in the win. Transfer students Parker and Horrigan each came up with two of the UMass seven hits. Cornacchioli, up from the '77 JV squad, contributed to the solid defense.

The UMass batswomen hope to continue their winning ways as they travel to Eastern Conn. this weekend for their first doubleheader.

Steve Zack

An epitaph for the Celts

As if contained in an iron lung, the Celtics mercilessly waited for someone to pull the plug and allow them to die peacefully. Last Sunday afternoon, the Indiana Pacers defeated the Celtics 123-120 thus ending any chance the Celtics had at making the playoffs.

For the men in green it has been anything but a satisfying season.

Off to a bad start, fans, media, and club personnel looked for a scapegoat, and as the saying goes, "you can't fire the whole team," so in compromise the management fired the coach, Tommy Heinsohn.

Team dissension began to abound and Heinsohn saw in the thick of it. It was no secret that certain team members were less than enthusiastic about their leader.

Despite the arrival of Tom Sanders, the losing did not subside to any great effect and further "scapegoating" was employed. This time it was Charlie Scott.

It was said by fans and media that a backcourt of Scott and White just wasn't feasible anymore, despite the fact that it brought them a championship two seasons ago. So, Scott was shipped to Los Angeles in return for Kermit Washington, a player the Celts didn't have the services of for more than a month, Don Chaney, not the Chaney of years past I might add, and a first round pick, something the team desperately needed.

When Washington returned, White began his sabbatical: contract dispute and bone spurs sent JoJo home for the year. This produced a backcourt of Dave Bing, 34, and John Havlicek, 38. The two have unequalled experience and skill but they lack the main ingredient, speed. Offensively, the two were dynamos with Bing penetrating time and time again and Havlicek showing his mastery of the shooting touch. Defense, however, was another story; they played as their ages might indicate, slow and shaky. The two were asked to stop the league's premier backcourt men, and time and time again they were unable to do so.

Sidney Wicks is a story unto himself. Signed on the first day of the season, Wicks managed to play poorer and poorer, rescued only by Washington's ability to grab the rebounds that Sidney only stared at. Washington also allowed Wicks to go back to the role he had with the Portland Trailblazers, that of a shooting forward.

With White out and Curtis Rowe continually taking time off for a bad knee, Red Auerbach began signing players to ten-day contracts in hopes of finding an answer to all his worries.

Ernie DiGregario lasted through back-to-back ten day pacts and was signed for the remainder of the season only to find himself wallowing on Tom Sanders' bench.

Zaid Abdul Aziz and Bob Bigelow were gone before anyone knew they were there.

The Green Machine struggled throughout the season, hoping to come around in time to grab the final playoff spot, but it was not to be.

All that's left is the future.

Havlicek is leaving, Cowens might be leaving, and White probably wouldn't mind leaving. To add to this, Bing won't know about his returning until after the draft. And to top it all off, Kermit Washington, come season's end, will be a free agent, and despite his saying that he would like to stay in Boston where he is wanted, you have to believe he'll go where the money is.

On the bright side is the Celtics' draft. Provided that Red stays out of this one, the team could do excellent in the "race for the rookies" with two first round picks (their own and one from Los Angeles in the Scott trade) and at least one second round pick (the Fred Saunders trade to New Orleans).

For now, it is best to forget this year and look forward to next.

---

UM minority figures called inaccurate

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

The UMass minority population figures cited last week in a Chronicle of Higher Education article are "grossly inaccurate," according to the assistant to the Associate provost.

Carroll Lamb, yesterday said the 1.4 per cent black population of the 4 per cent total minority population cited was "exceedingly low" in comparison to actual figures. He said UMass is far in excess of the figures and instead estimated a 6.6 per cent minority enrollment.

"By multiplying the cited percentages by the number of students enrolled, it would mean that only 267 black students attended UMass," he said. "My guess is that total minority enrollment is actually as high as 1,200 students," he added.

Director of Admission Deidre Kedesdy yesterday said Lamb's estimate of 1,200 minority students was fair, based on the number of students enrolled in the Bilingual Collegiate Program and the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students (CCEBS). These two programs have an

TURN TO PAGE 4

The UMass student population is 96 per cent white and 4 per cent minority, according to recently compiled data.

The information comes from 1976 figures published last week in the Chronicle of Higher Education. The data comes from the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

Among the Five Colleges, Hampshire's population is 94.4 per cent white; Smith's is 91.8 per cent white; Mount Holyoke's is 88.6 per cent white; and Amherst's population is 85.8 per cent white.

UMass population is 1.4 per cent black, 0.6 per cent Asian, 0.7 per cent Hispanic, and 0.2 per cent American Indian.

Amherst's is 8.2 per cent black, 2.2 per cent Asian, 2 per cent Hispanic, and 0.1 per cent Indian.

Mount Holyoke's percentage breakdown is 5.7 per cent black, 1.3 per cent Asian, 1.3 per cent Hispanic, and 0.1 per cent Indian.

The student population at Smith is 4.9 per cent black, 1.1 per cent Asian, 0.5 per cent Hispanic, and 0 per cent Indian.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 114 THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Students occupy Whitmore

100 vow to remain

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

The approximately 100 students that remained in the Whitmore administration building after an occupation yesterday said last night they would remain in the building overnight or until their demands were met.

The occupation story was written by Collegian staffer Mark Leccese with reports from Collegian staffers Jon Klein, Joe Quinlan, Beth Segers, Garde Wells, and Laura Kenney.

One hundred and fifty students demanding rights for student tenants in dormitories yesterday broke through a locked door in Whitmore and pushed past two police officers to occupy a portion of Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery's office.

Dean of Students William F. Field last night said students who remained in the building all night would be trespassing, because the building was closed. Dean Field announced at about 11 p.m. that the students were officially trespassing.

"The students haven't had action in the past. They only want to obtain their rights as human beings to be covered by the state health and safety code. To that end, people are willing to go to jail. We have exhausted every other end. These people are basically conservative. They're living in hard conditions."

Yesterday afternoon, the students refused to speak to administrators other than Bromery, and insisted they would wait in Bromery's office until he returned.

Three state vehicles had their tires slashed near Whitmore, according to UMass Director of Security Saul L. Chafin. Other students, about 5-7 in number, were seen rummaging through an office in the Office of Budget and Institutional Studies. The students stole tags and other paper items, in addition to disturbing material in desks and drawers.

Bromery was called out of a meeting of the UMass trustees in Boston at 3:30 p.m. to return to Amherst and speak with the students.

He arrived in the Whitmore building at 6 p.m. and went into a closed meeting with several high-level administrators and two representatives from the protestors.

The students in Bromery's outer office chanted, "We want Bromery! We want Bromery!" and "Decent housing is a right! UMass students have to fight!" while Bromery was in the closed meeting.

The protestors gave Bromery a list of eight "non-negotiable" demands, which included changes in the newly established room choosing policy (see related story, pg. 3), the demand for a student dormitory lease, and the demand that all Pierpont residents be allowed to return to Pierpont in the fall.

John Hunt, the associate provost for special programs and Southwest master-director James Matlack's boss, announced any students who wish to would be allowed to return to Pierpont this fall. The announcement which nullified Matlack's plan to limit Pierpont residency to freshmen and sophomores.

Fred Preston, associate vice chancellor for student affairs, speaks to protestors gathered in a corridor outside Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery's office yesterday afternoon. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

"My answer to that demand," Hunt said, pausing, "is yes!" The protestors loudly cheered Hunt.

The protestors confronted Chancellor Bromery and Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury with their demand for a lease.

Woodbury said that he had received the lease March 1, and that he and his staff were reviewing it. Woodbury said that some administrators were holding a meeting to discuss the lease today. When the students demanded that a council of students be present at the meeting, Woodbury agreed.

When the students demanded that Bromery agreed to support the lease, Bromery said, "I haven't even read it yet." He said the responsibility for adopting the lease was with the UMass trustees, not himself.

When pressed on whether he would support the lease to the trustees, Bromery said, "it would be misleading for me to say that now. I have to check out the legal ramifications first. If that's fine, then no problem. But I'm not going to give you a blank check."

The protest march began in front of Pierpont at 1 p.m. The protestors walked through the Student Union and the Campus Center and then headed for Whitmore carrying banners and chanting.

When the students reached Whitmore, security guards chained two of the three entrances closed. Twenty protestors were already in the building, who said they had anticipated the locking of the doors.

Notice

The Student Government Association will re-convene tonight in Thompson 104 at 7 p.m.

Dad is head MBM prober

Students proud of political father

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

UMass students Dana and Donna Cohen both agree that their father, state Representative Gerald Cohen, D-Andover, never asked to head the investigation into the state's contract with McKee-Berger-Mansue to (MBM), the firm hired to supervise construction of the $150 million UMass-Boston campus.

"Nobody wanted to do it," said Donna. "Some of the reps were sitting around discussing who was going to run the MBM investigation and somebody said, 'Gerry, why don't you do it?' and he said, 'all right'."

With those words, 43-year-old Gerald Cohen, an attorney serving his fourth year in the legislature, became a central figure in the first board legislative investigation of public corruption in recent years.

Rep. Gerald Cohen (D-Andover) who has become a central figure in the MBM probe.

Cohen is the chairman of the special investigative subcommittee of the Legislature's Committee on Post Audit and Oversight. The subcommittee is investigating allegations that MBM made illegal payoffs to such top state politicians as Mayor Kevin White and Senate President Keven Harrington in order to secure lucrative state building contracts.

Also under investigation are alleged overpayments made to contractors working on the University of Massachusetts Medical School project in Worcester.

Name Has Been Prominent

In the past month, Cohen's name has been on the front pages of newspapers throughout New England. He is featured in this week's edition of the Boston Phoenix. Donna and Dana said people have told them that stories about their father are in papers from Washington D.C. to Phoenix, Arizona.

Dana, 19, a sophomore and business major who lives in Pi Kappa Alpha, said he is happy about the sudden surge of publicity surrounding his father.

"I think he's really excited," said Dana, "I know I'm excited. I'm proud."

Donna, 21, who will receive her B.A. in interpersonal communication in June is currently taking three graduate courses, is just as thrilled.

"I think it's exciting to pick up the Globe every morning and see his name. I never paid attention to that stuff (politics) before. Now, I'm really involved," she said.

Both Active

The oldest of the four Cohen children (there are two boys at home), Donna and Dana both have the same dark, black hair. They are casual and outgoing, asking almost as many questions as they answered, as they sat side by side on a sofa outside the Coleegian offices on the bottom floor of the Campus Center.

Dana, a member of ARCON, the Volunteer University Tour Guide Service, said he loves the activity of fraternity living but has little political interest at this time.

"I change every other day," he said, adding that he might run for Greek Area Representative next year.

Donna is interested in a career in politics and law, especially politics and the media. She has applied to Boston College Law School and is taking courses in politics, public administration, and public opinion.

She is a judge on the Student Judiciary Committee and she said she has attended many of the subcommittee meetings in Boston.

As an undergraduate, she accompanied other UMass students to Boston to march in front of the State House in protest of budget cuts for the University.

"My mother said she didn't think I should go march outside the building where my father worked," said Donna.

She said she is "fascinated" by her father's job.

Dana and Donna Cohen

"You would see all the books and papers he carries around," she said, "He really does his homework. He knows what they (those giving testimony) are going to say before they say it."

According to Donna, a typical work day for her father starts at five a.m. and ends around midnight.

Best Education For The Money

The Cohens chose UMass as their college primarily because they pay for their own education and UMass "offered the best education for the money."

Besides, as Dana said, "up here, you rarely run into the same person twice."

As a freshman, he was in the UMass Chorus and the UMass Vocal Jazz Group. Now, he uses his talents to make money.

He works at the Jolly Bull restaurant on Route 9 as a "singing waiter" on Saturday nights. The waiters serve dinners until 10:30 p.m., and then entertain patrons by staging musical productions.

"Its the most perfect job you can get," Dana said. "What do you do Saturday night by party, anyway?"

Reacted Differently

Both reacted differently to last week's "shock waves" on Beacon Hill, created when their father "violated an unwritten rule" of the legislature when he subpoenaed the bank records of Senate President Kevin Harrington. The action prompted Harrington to attempt to discredit Cohen by calling him "a documented liar."

Donna said she could understand the legislature's reaction.

"I don't think people expect someone with only two terms of experience to be involved in something like this," she said, "Its like on of the brothers in a fraternity investigating another."

Dana viewed Harrington's allegation objectively.

"Either he has a lot of information he hasn't revealed or he's running scared," he said.

According to the Cohens, their father will run again when his term expires in November, but he won't use his highly publicized position to further any other political aspirations.

"That's not his objective really," said Dana.

Donna agreed, "He just wants to be a representative. He wants to do the best job possible with the position," she said. "His family comes before anything else. He wouldn't put personal goals first."

. . . newslines . . .

Bromery slates briefing in response to requests

In response to press requests for more access to the chief executive of the UMass-Amherst campus, Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery today will hold a 30 minute briefing for the press at 9 a.m. in the Whitmore administration building.

It was recently disclosed that Bromery will resign in 1979.

Joining Bromery at the briefing will be Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor: Amy Kaplan

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor: | Myrna Hershman |
| Copy Editor: | Fran Basche |
| Sports Layout: | Stephanie Richardson |
| Ad Layout: | Karen Libucha |
| Head Darkroom Tech: | Marilyn Mankowsky |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Free safety inspections set for spring cycling

Two free bicycle safety inspections will be held to help Amherst bicyclists get ready for spring riding.

One inspection will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the Haigis Mall on the horseshoe near Whitmore. The rain site will be Curry Hicks Cage. A second inspection will be held April 15 from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. in the south parking lot of Amherst Regional High school.

The inspections are being made possible by the Bicycle Safety Committee of Amherst in cooperation with other local organizations.

The inspections will include testing of pedals, bike frame, handlebars, wheels, brakes, chains, and other items.

Woody Herman at FAC with UM jazz group

Woody Herman, renowned saxaphonist, clarinetist, singer, and bandleader will bring his 17 piece "Young Thundering Herd" to the Fine Arts Center on April 13.

The University Jazz Ensemble with Jake Epstein as conductor will perform a short set before Herman and the "Herd" take the stage.

Tickets for Woody Herman and the Thundering Herd are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box office and usual locations.

Vietnam critic to speak at UMass on Friday

Noam Chomsky, a critic of American involvement in Vietnam, speaks Friday in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m. on human rights and foreign policy in Latin America.

Chomsky was a critic of American foreign policy during the Vietnam War. He attempted to bring to public attention the issue of the role of the intellectual in the formation of government policy.

More recently, Chomsky has been advocating the rights of Palestinians, according to the groups sponsoring Chomsky's visit to UMass the Western Mass. Chile-Latin America Solidarity Committee.

---

At trustees meeting

Faculty, staff picket

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — UMass-Boston faculty and staff picketed here yesterday at a Board of Trustees meeting to protest the Administration's contract proposal offered the union.

Approximately 150 members picketed in the courtyard of the University while trustees attended a luncheon in the library. After an hour, the protestors gathered in a hall opposite the library and gave the trustees an open letter as the trustees left the library en route to the administration building where the board met.

Protesters lined the hallway and shouted "contract now" as the trustees hurried by. The trustees were not physically harassed. The protesters cheered Interim UMass President Franklin K. Patterson when he emerged because of reports that he has "disowned" the proposed contract.

The letter of protest stated the faculty's dissatisfaction with the contract, which establishes "congeniality, punctuality, and attendance" as criteria for tenure. The letter was signed by the Faculty-Staff Union, the Massachusetts Teachers Association, and the National Education Association.

The Board went into a three hour closed executive session where the faculty protest reportedly was not discussed. Trustees did discuss collective bargaining and heard a report from the presidential search committee during the session.

During the closed session, Amherst Campus Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery was called back to Amherst to deal with the takeover of his office by students.

Bromery left in good spirits while other administrators joked about his predicament.

After the executive session was convened, the trustees were forced to hurry through remaining business because of time limitations.

Board Chairman Joseph P. Healy made public Bromery's letter of intent to resign in 1979 which was sent to the board last month. Bromery is being considered for permanent UMass president and said he wants to be considered as equally as other candidates who are not employed by the University.

The Student Affairs Committee reported they had voted to continue mandatory residence hall and dining commons requirements. The Amherst campus Undergraduate Student Senate recently discovered the trustees had failed to extend their mandatory room and board requirement beyond June 1977.

The failure to extend the policy was termed an "oversight".

However, the trustees said the vote to reinstate the mandatory room and board should not be considered board policy.

Student trustee Marion (Pinky) Batiste said the failure to make the requirement board policy could be an indication of possible change in the requirement.

In other business, the trustees appointed trustee Samuel L. Sawtelle to represent them on the State Board of Higher Education.

The trustees also voted to allow Students United for Public Education to make a half hour presentation to the board at their May meeting. The organization opposes the proposed plan for centralizing state higher education.

The board then voted to award a Masters of Arts and Sociology degree to a terminally ill woman who has been attending classes at the University's Boston campus.

A student looks concerned as Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery meets with students during yesterday's occupation of the Whitmore administration building. (Staff photo by Patrick O. Dobbs)

Housing plan changed; deadlines extended

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

In the face of overwhelming opposition, the UMass Administration modified their stance on the roommate choosing and room risking aspects of their new dormitory housing plan and extended the application deadlines by one week.

According to Paul Hamel, assistant to Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury, students who wish to change dormitories may now choose the roommate they wish to live with and no longer risk losing their current room if they don't get their first choice dorm request.

Hamel explained the changes as follows:

Students who wish to live with someone who already resides in a desired dorm, must contact their current Head of Residence and obtain an exit card, which they fill out and bring to the Housing Office.

The roommate on the receiving end must contact their head of residence and fill out an entrance card for the person who will move in. He then takes this to the Housing Office. The Housing Office will match the two cards and assign student room accordingly.

Should two students want to move to a new dorm together, they must fill out identical entrance cards and bring them to the Housing Office. There, they are stapled together and treated as a single unit.

In the case of lotteries, double applicants will be considered the same as singles and have the same random chance.

"We changed this aspect because we discovered that a great majority of people who want to change dorms want to live with friends," Hamel said. "We feel this method is the fairest for everyone."

Dorm residents who want to try for another dorm but don't want to risk their present room, Hamel said, "need only list their room as their third choice and they are guaranteed of getting it back."

"Your present room is reserved until you either receive an assignment of your choice or choose to return," he said.

The new deadlines are: Tuesday, April 11 for students remaining in their current rooms, and Monday, April 17 for students who plan to switch dorms.

Negotiations determine bill for FAC damage

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

Officials at the Fine Arts Center and the Union Program Council say negotiations between themselves will determine the final repair bill the council will pay for burn damage done to the center's rugs at a March 12 Geils concert.

The Union Program Council sponsored the Geils concert.

John A. Jenkins, acting director of the Fine Arts Center, yesterday said no final estimate has been reached for the damage, but he does not believe it will reach the earlier reported figure of $6,000.

"I just don't have a good enough indication yet," he said, "of what part of the damage can be repaired by the Physical Plant as part of everyday maintenance. The figure could vary widely, but I don't think it will be as high as $6,000."

Jenkins said the question of repairs would not be settled for "probably a month or more."

Once a final damage estimate is reached, Jenkins said the Fine Arts Center and the Program Council will negotiate over the portion of the repair bill the council is responsible for.

A spokesman for the council said the organization could not afford to pay a $6,000 bill, but added that he did not think the bill would be that expensive.

Jenkins has said that the Geils incident would not lead to the elimination of rock concerts from the Fine Arts Center. He said the Fine Arts Center staff will have to decide in the future how many high energy rock acts can be booked into the center without stretching the staff too thin.

"I can't see prohibiting the concerts," he said, "but we are going to have to develop more careful guidelines for better crowd control."

The Union Program Council is also sponsoring Friday night's David Bromberg Band and Maria Muldaur concert at the Fine Arts Center. Jenkins said security will be increased and he is expecting a much "more sophisticated crowd" for that show. He said he is optimistic there won't be "the same type of thing that happened at the Geils show."

Questions and answers on lease proposal

By BILL SUNDSTROM
Collegian Staff

The proposed lease for dormitory residents, passed this semester by the undergraduate Student Senate, is presently a major topic of discussion among both students and administrators. The following are some questions and answers about the proposal and its implications for the university.

Q. What is a lease?

A. A lease is a legal contract entered into by landlords and tenants which stipulates the legal responsibilities of both parties. In the case of the proposed student lease, the landlord would be the University of Massachusetts and the tenants would be UMass students living in the residence hall system.

Q. How was the present lease proposal arrived at?

A. During late October and early November of last year the senate established a lease task force, which worked on drafts of the proposal during November and December.

After some consultation with Robert L. Campbell, Residential Resource Management director a final draft was prepared and passed unanimously by the senate on February 22. The task force is presently lobbying student support for the lease and meeting with administrators, who are reviewing the proposal.

Q. What would the responsibilities of the tenants [students] be under the proposed lease?

A. Basically, the rules for dormitory residents would remain much the same as they are now. The lease proposal requires tenants to "honor the terms and conditions stated in the booklet entitled 'Regulations and Policies' ... " These include rules regarding appliances, endangering behavior, etc.

Q. What would the responsibilities of the landlord [UMass administration] be?

A: The university would be legally compelled to comply with state housing and sanitary codes. It would also be required to perform requested dormitory repairs within five working days, except when the needed repairs constitute a threat to health and safety, in which case they would have to be made within 24 hours. "Substantial" violations of these clauses could mean rent rebates to residents or termination of the contract at the student's option. The administration would not be responsible for damage due to student negligence or fault.

Q. If the lease were established, what major effects would it have on residential life and the administration?

A. In the words of Campbell, the lease "is not a panacea, but only a means to an end." The lease does not make any changes in administrative structure. Rather, it legally binds the administration to ensure some basic standards for living conditions.

The results of room-to-room canvassing by the Student Organizing Project suggest that many practices which would be illegal under the lease are presently commonplace in the residential areas. Recent stories in the Collegian have documented health code violations in the dorms which presumably would have to be rectified under a lease arrangement.

Enforcing the contract, however, would be difficult. Whether students would have the time or resources to use the university when violations occurred is questionable.

As far as the administration is concerned, some major reorganization might be necessary to fulfill obligations of the contract. One area where change would probably come is in the dorm maintenance area: two administrative units (Residential Resource Management and Physical Plant) are involved in maintaining the dorms, but they are responsible to different vice chancellors. Consequently, when Residential Resource Management wants Physical Plant to repair something, they have no direct authority over the personnel which make the repairs.

Harrington to discuss contribution

BOSTON [AP] – Senate President Kevin Harrington will meet next Tuesday with legislative investigators to discuss a $2,000 corporate contribution following a week of what one committee member called "gamesmanship."

Harrington accepted a counter-offer yesterday from the legislature's Post Audit and Oversight Committee to meet with them privately in the Senate Ways and Means hearing room. The Salem Democrat suggested next Tuesday at 11 a.m.

That offer was accepted by the full committee later in the day.

Rep. Robert Fortes, D-Boston, a member of the subcommittee conducting the probe of the state's relationship with the New York consulting firm McKee-Berger-Mansueto, said Harrington would be asked to testify about several areas of interest to the committee.

Those include a $2,000 check made out to him by MBM in 1970 and cashed at his Salem bank; any conversations he may have had with officials of MBM; his relationships with employees of the Bureau of Building Construction and with William Masiello, head of a Worcester architectural firm.

Harrington informed Sen. Francis X. McCann, D-Cambridge, chairman of the committee, that the terms, which were virtually identical to those dictated by Harrington, were agreeable.

"I don't care where we meet him," McCann said, "as long as it's under oath. If we can't subpoena him, this is the next best thing."

A transcript of Harrington's testimony will be made public "as soon as possible" under the arrangement.

In other developments, the full Post Audit Committee voted yesterday to approve three subpoenas for records wanted in connection with the MBM investigation.

One subpoena went to Jimmy's Harborside Restaurant for the meal tabs accumulated by Masiello. According to one published report, Masiello either met with or paid for the meals of Sen. James A. Kelly Jr., D-Oxford, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee; Charles Hamilton of the Massachusetts State Lottery Commission, and Charles Kougeas, a lobbyist for Boston Mayor Kevin H. White.

Both White and Kelly were named by MBM President Gerald McKee as the intended recipients of MBM checks. Masiello reportedly served as the conduit for some of those payments.

The committee also subpoenaed the bank records of William Masiello, his brother Frank and the two corporate names they have used – Elm Park Associates and Masiello Associates.

Senate President Kevin Harrington

DID YOU KNOW?

WE OFFER
COLOR PROCESSING
BY Kodak

B/W photographic paper

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass. amherst

Carter mulls N-bomb choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) – A White House spokesman said yesterday President Carter is weighing "the capability and intentions" of the Soviet bloc and "the inclinations of NATO allies" in trying to decide the fate of the neutron bomb.

"The president has not made a final decision on the neutron bomb," press secretary Jody Powell said in discussing Carter's deliberations on whether to ban the radiation weapon or put it into production for deployment in western Europe.

Some administration sources have said they believe Carter is leaning against production, at least in the immediate future.

Powell said the decision has been "a major focus of activity" since the president since he returned from his overseas trip Monday. He declined to set any deadline for an announcement but said the decision-making process, including consultation with members of Congress and NATO allies, "won't drag on."

★ Minorities

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

enrollment of more than 800 students and do not include those minority students in the University's general population, she said.

Kedesdy compared the 6.6 per cent estimate of minority population on campus with the 4 per cent of minorities living in the state. She also said UMass accepts 95 per cent of its students from in-state, a policy not decided by the admissions office.

"We would love to have more out-of-state students as well," she said. Kedesdy said Amherst College, with an 8.2 percentage black student enrollment – the highest in the Five College Area, "caters extensively to out-of-state students and has lots of money in terms of scholarships and financial aid for prospective students."

Kedesdy said UMass will begin this fall a further effort to reach minority students but she does not consider the present enrollment figures to be low in comparison to the statewide minority population.

"I don't think it's bad at all, but I don't want to rest on that," she said.

Kedesdy said in addition to the usual recruitment process of visiting all high schools in the state to talk with students and guidance counselors, the admissions staff will "reach out to community centers, encourage high school dropouts to get a General Equivalency Diploma, and possibly use radio announcements to make students aware of the university."

A need exists to expand the remedial services open to minority students on campus, Kedesdy said, before UMass can be sure it can accommodate an increased minority enrollment. The services include tutorial help for students in writing, basic math and rhetoric.

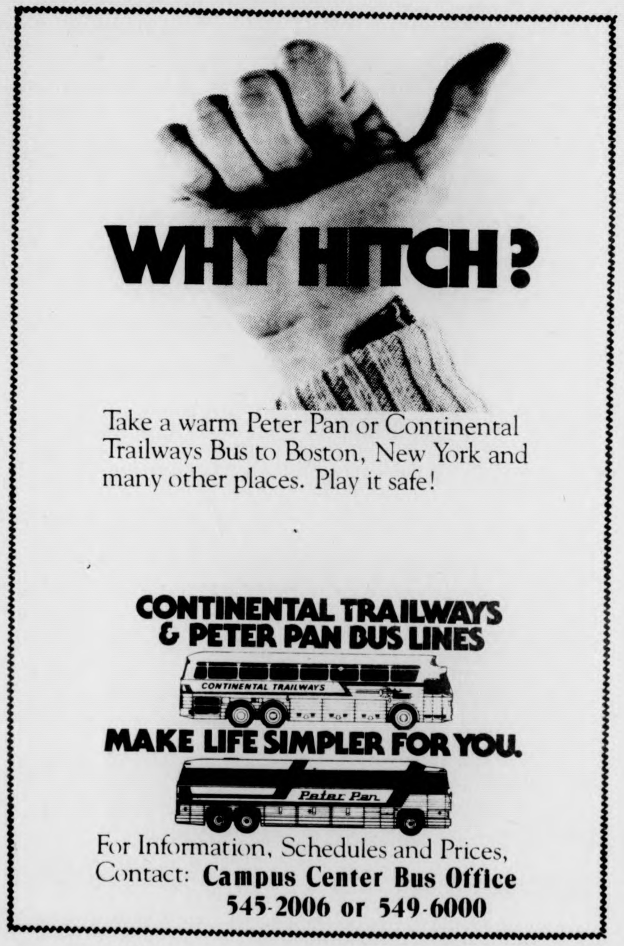
"I believe the services are here but need expansion," she said.

She said the services are needed to aid some of the minority students who might come to UMass. Kedesdy said she believes there are three groups of minority students: highly talented high school students sought after by public and private colleges; students who "at least survive in high school"; and those who never take the Scholastic Aptitude Tests because they are not in high school.

She said the final group would be the hardest to attract to any university.

A spokeswoman at the Amherst College admissions office yesterday said the admissions office is aware their college has the highest percentage of minority enrollment of the Five Colleges and also said the nine per cent figure puts them "in the forefront" of colleges across the nation.

She said Amherst College "actively recruits minority students as far away as California because minorities do not have a tradition of education at a place like Amherst." She also said the percentage of minority students at Amherst has no bearing on the college's federal aid.



WHY HITCH?

Take a warm Peter Pan or Continental Trailways Bus to Boston, New York and many other places. Play it safe!

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices,
Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549-6000

The Distinguished Visitors Program in conjunction with the Men's Conference
presents

SAM JULTY

Author of "MSP" (Male Sexual Performance)

Sunday, April 9, 1977 1:00 P.M. Free Admission Campus Center Auditorium

Sadat calls Carter 'partner' in peace

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) – President Anwar Sadat said yesterday President Carter is now a "full partner" in the quest for a Middle East peace and predicted peace talks with Israel will resume.

"The American role is very important," Sadat said, discussing the search for peace during an informal chat with some 80 journalists and communications specialists from five continents.

"President Carter is a full partner and he has agreed on this conception. For me this is very satisfying," he said. Sadat recalled that during his February visit to Washington he had asked congressmen "to take their share as full partners."

"President Carter has taken his share and through an evenhanded policy I think we can reach the moment when the peace talks can be resumed," the Egyptian president said.

"I am an optimist by nature," he said. "All I can say is that I shall never let down the hundreds of millions all over the world. I shall be doing my best and I continue with perseverance until this mission is completed."

Sadat said he had told Defense Minister Ezer Weizm,visited him last month, that he was welcome to return "whenever there are new ideas to start with and to make us speak the same language instead of two languages."

He sidestepped a question as to whether Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begi was "an obstacle to peace" because of his rejection of demands for Palestinian rights and Israeli withdrawals from occupied Arab lands.

"What I feel is this: Mr. Begin should be flexible and I told Weizman this when he visited me."

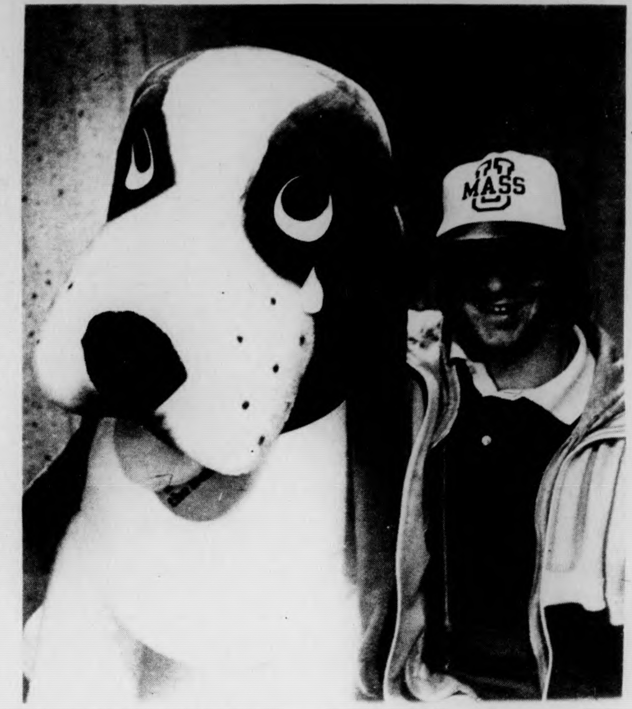
Asked about the issue of the Palestinians, Sadat said Egypt can negotiate the principles of an agreement with Israel but cannot make detailed proposals.

"On the details," he said, "the Palestinians should speak for themselves."

Sadat said he has no preconditions for resuming peace talks with Israel, but added, "there are some elementary principles that should be heeded. Those principles I think the whole world acknowledges – that there should be no trespassing on others' land or others' sovereignty."

Sadat smiled broadly and seemed relaxed during the chat with the foreigners – in Cairo to discuss prospects for cooperation between the international news media and a developing world – at his office in the ornate Abdin Palace.

Sadat said that whatever happens mim, he believed the Egyptian peace initiative will continue because "it is the will of my people and not my personal idea.



Bogart the Basset and Paul Harkins relax in the Campus Center yesterday. Bogart, along with three other stuffed animals, are being raffled by Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity this week. (Staff photo by Stephen G. Robinson)

The Campus Center casts its reflection into the calmness of the Campus pond (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

THIS COULD BE THE START OF SOMETHING BIG

It could be your big chance for a scholarship that pays you $100 a month, plus all tuition, books and lab fees.

If you want to devote a part of your college curriculum to classroom and laboratory training in leadership, management, Air Force history and traditions . . . and you can qualify, it could be for you.

Air Force ROTC leads to an Air Force officer's commission. And that means responsibility, challenge, service to your country. It means taking on big responsibility.

Look into the Air Force ROTC program at your campus. Check out the benefits of an AFROTC scholarship. It could be the start of something big . . . it could be the start of a lasting relationship with the United States Air Force in dedicated service to your country.

CALL 5-2437

AIR FORCE ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

Bluewall Bar

Happy Hour

Friday, April 7

2 for 1 Powerhouses 3-6

News in brief

FTC advises limits for oil companies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government antitrust officials said yesterday they have decided Congress should limit the amount of coal and uranium the big oil companies may own — a move that could require more than $108 billion in divestitures.

Alfred Dougherty Jr., chief of the Federal Trade Comission's Bureau of Competition, said he would present those views at a congressional hearing later this month as a means of preventing the energy market from being monopolized by a few big firms.

he FTC's staff analysis said oil firms have been buying up coal for the past two decades to the point that two of the four largest producers, Consolidation Coal and Island Creek Coal, are owned respectively by Continental Oil and Occidental Petroleum.

Jet fighter crashes in Cape Cod waters

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. [AP] — A Connecticut Air National Guard F-100 Super Sabre jet fighter crashed yesterday into the waters near No Man's Land, a military gunnery range south of Martha's Vineyard, an Air National Guard spokesman said.

The single-engine aircraft was one of a flight of four F-100s on a gunnery mission out of Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, Sgt. John McHugh said.

A coast guard boat and helicopter were called to the area after the 2:30 p.m. crash. The pilot's name was being withheld pending the outcome of the rescue effort.

The cause of the crash was not known, McHugh said.

Carter to veto farm aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will veto a multibillion dollar farm aid bill, his press secretary said yesterday, and a House farm leader added odds would favor Carter on any congressional attempt to override the veto.

Chairman Thomas Foley, DWash., of the House Agriculture Committee said he planned to vote for the bill. But if there is a veto, "0t is very questionable whether there are sufficient votes in the House to override."

Foley, who tried and failed earlier to win conference adoption of a smaller-scale bill, said, "We're just trying to do what can be done (to help farmers) within our time limits."

A Senate-House conference committee yesterday finished formal action approving the legislation, setting Oct. 1 as the date on which increased grain and cotton crop support loan rates would take effect.

At the White House, press secretary Jody Powell said Carter indicated in a meeting with Democratic congressional leaders he would reject the bill because it would be inflationary.

Carter to speak on inflation soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Faced with a shrinking dollar abroad and an expensive farm bill at home, President Carter has decided to make a major address next week to spotlight the stubborn problem of inflation, White House officials said yesterday.

Congressional leaders who had breakfast with Carter said his top-priority concern was inflation, which has been rising faster than the White House expected.

White House press secretary Jody Powell shortly afterward announced the president would make "a statement on inflation, the dollar and energy" within a week or 10 days.

It was considered possible Carter would use a Tuesday meeting with newspaper editors as a forum.

As one anti-inflationary move, aides said, Carter will veto a pending farm bill mandating big increases in farm price supports if it passes Congress.

House Majority Whip John Brademas of Indiana said Carter "expressed great hostility to the farm bill which he said would be extraordinarily inflationary and that it would be a very bad bill for farmers as well."

BEAT THE CROWD

We're now open Thursday nights till 9:00
Saturday hours 10:30-5

people's market in the student union

LOOK UP! LOOK DOWN! LOOK OUT!
HERE COMES THE BIGGEST BOND OF ALL!
007
ALBERT R. BROCCOLI
HARRY SALTZMAN
SEAN CONNERY
IAN FLEMING'S "THUNDERBALL"

Tonite, Thursday, April 6
7:30 & 10 p.m. CCA - $1

Sport Shake...a delicious way to shape up and keep in shape!

Vanilla, Chocolate, & Strawberry flavors

Available now in all Munchys stores in the refrigerated section next to the yogurt

Stop by Munchys and taste for yourself!

April 5, 6, & 7 from 4:00-6:00 p.m.

Four Seasons
Package Store
DISCOUNT LIQUORS
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall

Schaefer Beer
12 oz. N.R. bottles
$4.99
case

Popov Vodka
$4.69
quart

Dewars Scotch
$15.69
1.75 liters
(59.2 oz.)

Riunite Lambrusco
$1.99
fifth

Tuesday, April 4 to Saturday, April 8
We reserve the right to limit quantities

---

Why Tech Hifi.

We guarantee everything.

We offer you a selection of 100 quality brands. And we back every one of them with our own Buyer Protection Plan. You'll get it in writing, right on your sales slip.

Our 7-Day Moneyback Guarantee protects you if there's anything you don't like about how your equipment sounds or looks in your home. We give you seven days to return the components and get your money back. No questions asked.

Our Buyer Protection Plan also includes a 12-Month Loudspeaker Trial, and a 2-Month Defective Exchange Guarantee.

We even guarantee our prices.

How low are Tech Hifi's prices? So low we guarantee them in writing. If any authorized dealer beats the price you pay at Tech Hifi within 30 days after your purchase, we'll refund the difference to you. Which means, it's impossible for any other store to undersell Tech Hifi.

Our salespeople know what they're talking about.

We're hifi hobbyists, not just salespeople. All of us keep up with hifi technology, and we enjoy talking about it. So whether you're a newcomer to hifi, or an audio engineer, you'll find us glad to take the time to explain anything you want to know. Before you pick your stereo, pick our brains.

You can play in our soundrooms.

When you begin shopping for stereo, it's important to find a store that will let you play with equipment, not just look at it. At Tech Hifi we encourage you to come into our soundrooms and play any of the 100 brands on display. Tell our people what price range you're interested in. They'll set up lots of systems for you to play and compare.

Our brand-name "packages".

Every week we offer special "package" val featuring famous brand components. You can bu Tech Hifi package for as little as $169, or as muc several thousand. The package shown here is o this week for $419. It combines a refined Nikko 3 5 stereo receiver, phase-accurate Ohm E loudspeakers, and a precise Sanyo TP636 belt-driven semi-automatic turntable, with ADC cartridge.

$419

We think this combination offers better all-around performance than you'll find any other place for the money. But don't take our word for it. Come play in our soundrooms this week, and judge for yourself. NIKKO SANYO ADC Ohm master charge

tech hifi
VISA

79 South Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3100
Stores also throughout Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

from our perspective

Support the demonstration today

The J.P. Stevens Company, which is the country's second largest textile corporation, has an almost incredible record of labor exploitation and labor law violations. The company has repeatedly committed acts considered unfair and illegal by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

Stevens has thus far been successful in its efforts to thwart union organizing in its plants, particularly in the South. Although the company has been found guilty of anti-union coercion and intimidation on a number of occasions, it has preferred to put up with the relatively slight fines imposed rather than allowing its workers to unionize.

In addition, Stevens has a record of job discrimination against women and blacks — this includes a finding of "guilty" for these charges at the plant in Roanoke Rapids, North Carolina.

The situation is serious and requires the attention and concerted effort of as many people as possible. The company's intimidation tactics have made unionization virtually impossible, this by the admission of the NLRB. In the one plant where Stevens workers are unionized, the NLRB has ruled that the company bargained in bad faith with the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union.

A national boycott of Stevens products has been organized by a variety of concerned groups which have recognized that the only way of dealing with Stevens is to hit the company where it hurts: in the pocketbook. Stevens plans to be recruiting on campus today, and students have organized a demonstration against the company to begin at the Student Union at noon. We urge you to support the demonstration, and to join the boycott.

Information regarding J.P. Stevens, the boycott and the efforts to protest the company's behavior will be available in Goodell Hall much of the day.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Letters

Adolescent politicians

To the Editor:

Upon reading April 4th's front page article on the SGA convention, I became thoroughly revolted. Although few things make me want to throw up, the descriptions of the goings-on at this convention did. The wheeling and dealing between Tyson, Gordon, Smerling, and countless other aspiring adolescent politicians is painfully similar to the game practiced by more notorious statesmen — past and present.

I wonder whether these embryonic Nixons really take themselves seriously, or whether they merely consider it all a huge game of Monopoly. Either way it is rather pathetic to see supposedly enlightened students piddle away our funds and resources just so they can land on Free Parking or put hotels on their own private Boardwalks.

I can only thank God — or whoever calls the shots here at the University — that the power of these jerks is as limited as it is. If they had any substantial power or effectiveness, I'd be scared to see what they would do with it.

David Kingsbury

Collegian should come clean

To the Editor:

The Collegian, as the only community-wide newspaper, has a responsibility to students to present issues in a clear "objective" manner. But it is clear that in the past weeks, particularly in its relationship with the SGA, that the Collegian has once again abused this responsibility.

Yesterday's attack against Brian DeLima in the form of a "news" story is a prime example of "objective" journalism with political goals. One had only to turn to the editorial page to see that. One also has to consider the Collegian's sources of the allegations against DeLime [Jon Hite and Jay Martus, Karen Kelly, etc.] to know these allegations may be of dubious validity. Many students are unaware of the politics of these sources, and if they were they would have been better prepared to judge a so-called "objective" news story.

As the Collegian moves toward independence from student funding, [another point not many students are aware of], it is removing itself from its responsibility to the students on this campus.

Case in point was the denial last semester of distribution of Outfront, a student funded alternative newspaper. Outfront wanted to distribute itself through the Collegian, as Nummo News does, and was denied the opportunity. Yet we have been inundated with pull-outs from Ford Motor Company and Disney World propaganda. Corporate America can affort to pay what a student group can't, and their interests supersede those of students. We begin to ask ourselves whose money bought the Collegian's equipment and whose money supports it every year.

Concerning the recent SGA presidential election, the student populace has been flooded with information from the Collegian concerning the lack of validity of the SGA. Upon closer inspection, we find that the joke candidacy of Edelstein-Goverman and the none - of - the - above candidacy of Bob Melia arose from the hidden bastions of the Collegian.

The Collegian still receives some of its funds from the Student Senate, thus it is still ostensibly a student newspaper. Yet student needs are being overlooked in favor of power plays, games, and higher advertising revenues. It is time for the community to take a hard look at the Collegian, who pays for it, who runs it, and for what purposes. We suggest the Collegian come clean on its mighty pursuit of financial independence and explain what this independence will mean for students.

To us it means continued lack of consideration for the university community it represents; the continuance of its drive for the corporate dollar.

Sadly, it also represents a complete waste of what could be a dynamic forum for the interaction of ideas within the University community.

Barbara J. Roche, former Executive Editor of the *Collegian
Patrick Whelan, former Speaker of the Undergraduate Senate
John Epstein, former Governmental Affairs Chairperson
Ben Strohecker, student

Students United for Public Ed.

To the Editor:

A three ring circus called Student Government elections has repeatedly been given front page publicity in the Collegian while other issues of at least equal importance to students have not been given enough attention.

Students United for Public Education is an RSO group working to halt the decline in quality education in the public university system. SUPE's program is for:

1. No budget cuts.
2. No tuition hikes.
3. No to the Parks Plan for Reorganization or any plan like it.
4. No public money to private schools.
5. No students or faculty on budget cutting committees.

These issues affect all students — black, white, Latin American and Asian. We must work together to fight for these issues or we will be defeated separately.

Briefly, the goals of SUPE for this semester have been to educate and organize students on campus concerning our program and, because this is a student issue, SUPE is also starting to organize students on other state campuses to support or actively work for our program.

For SUPE, higher education is a right and not a privilege. Right now we have to organize other students in order to guarantee this as a right for all.

This Thursday evening, April 6, SUPE is holding an open meeting in Campus Center 803 at 8 p.m. for all interested students. Please attend.

Elaine Osborn
Rona Weiss
and members of SUPE

Responsible journalism?

To the Editor:

If an error was made regarding the front page article of March 31, it was not in printing the story, but rather by apologizing for it. The article serves to remind us that the media is not to be regarded as an infallible source of truth, and that any journalism should be approached with a certain degree of skepticism. Unfortunately, we will not be reminded again until next April first, by which time we will have once again complacently put our blind faith in what we read. Friday's issue was an act of responsible journalism, and need not be apologized for.

Matt Rogers

More letters on p.-22

A D
1
HEY COSMO! WE HAVEN'T HAD A GOOD HOUSING SCREW FOR A WHILE... AN IDEAS?
3

Cla

bob melia

J.P. Stevens, the nations second textile manufacturer and number on law violator, is recruiting at UMass tod the recruitment effort will be boycotte issue seems clear-cut. Stevens degrad humiliates its workers, pays them sta wages, intimidates union organizers general conducts its operations wit shred of human decency.

On the surface, the boycott shoul the unqualified support of every stud this campus. Yet I must qualify my su will take part in the boycott. But readi literature and talking to some of the b organizers makes me very, very uneas boycott is part of "the struggle for ec justice at J.P. Stevens," and that "economic justice," is what bothers

There is no economic justice anyw America, nor will there ever be massive structural change occurs. 'J carries with it implicit normative notations. The word is meaningless u is connected to other words, wor equality, dignity and freedom. Our ec system operates in accordance with n these values. It is inegalitarian, forces to perform tasks which rob individu their dignity, fails to provide a decent those superfluous to the production p and systemically limits the freedom dividuals to develop and express uniquely human qualities. To speak t most boycotters do, of obtaining ec justice within the framework of our ca economic system is to speak in tradictions.

A tacit assumption made by these people worries me even more.
assumption is that workers (and othe be bought-off from pressing huma

By MICHAEL SHAPIRO

Thursday afternoon, alas, the w had arrived. I bolted out of my 11: headed for home, Southwest. I got a Campus Center when I was attacked petitioners who were dying fo autograph. I told all of them that I ignorant froshman and knew nothing unionization, could give a shit abou
State, didn't agree with decriminaliza pot, and never heard of Amherst To told them to pick a number between o four and whoever guessed it would g signature. Actually I was so confused

Below The Salt

Massachusetts Daily Collegian VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 114 Thursday, April 6, 1978

Staging the Open Road

Woody thunders into FAC

Woody Herman clarinetist, saxaphone player, singer, and bandleader brings his 17 piece Young Thundering Herd to the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, University of Massachusetts on Thursday April 13 at 8 p.m.

Tickets for Woody Herman and the Young Thundering Herd are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office and New England Ticketron locations.

The University Jazz Ensemble, Jake Epstein, conductor, will perform a short set before Woody and the Herd take the stage. The Jazz Ensemble is comprised of students at the University.

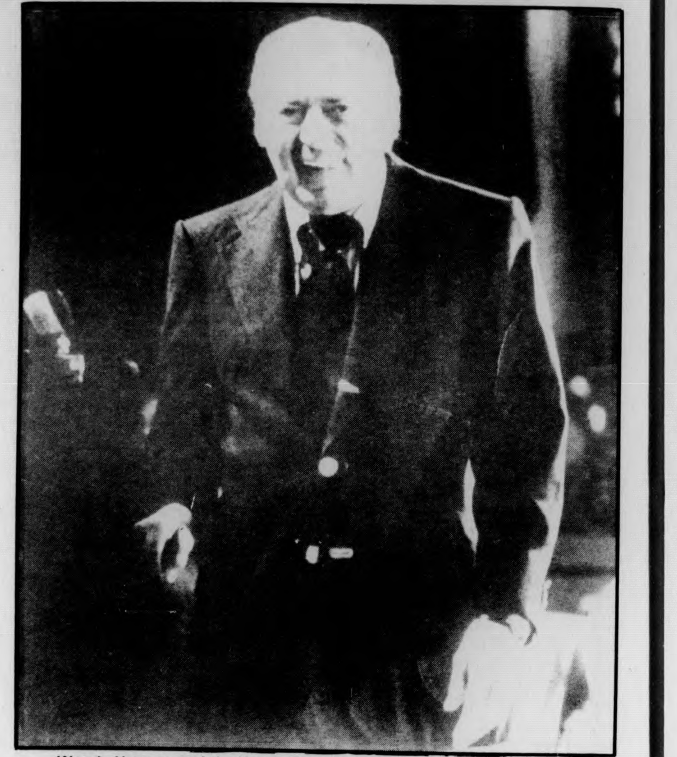
Woody Hermanas been a major influence on the contemporary jazz scene throughout the world. He has been performing since the age of eight, when he entered show business as a child prodigy clarinet player and tap dancer.

Woody became famous when he recorded a number based on a brass riff. It was called "Woodchopper's Ball", and it became an instant hit. Since then it has become almost legendary, and has sold over five million copies. After "Woodchopper's Ball", Woody hit the charts again with "Caldonia". It became an immediate hit and has been identified with Woody ever since.

In the late 40's and early 50's Woody kept his big band alive while other big bands failed. In the last 25 years, Woody has been in the forefront of current music and has drawn audiences of all ages. In the 60's he created a unique blend of big band and 60's rock. Now in the 70's, Woody still draws a large audience wherever he and the 17 piece Young Thundering Herd roams.

In October 1977 The City of Houston declared "Woody Herman Day". The mayor read a special proclamation and the day's activities were culminated with a concert by Woody and the Thundering Herd in the Astrodome. During the performance, which was televised, Woody conducted 6,000 youngsters from all over Texas in a special arrangm his "Woodchopper's Ball".

Tickets for Woody Herman and the Young Thundering Herd are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office and Ticketron locations. Ticket prices are: General public-$7,6,5. UMass students:$3.50,3,2.50. Senior citizens and other students are $6,5,4. For more information, call (413) 545-2511.



Woody Herman and the Young Thundering Herd will chop some wood next week, on stage at the FAC

Below The Salt

food

Seafood dining at a moderate price. Page 12.

records

Another fine record review centerfold. Page 14.

Valley talent helps make a record. Page 16.

music

Dexter Gordon, Andy Pratt deliver. Page 19.

books

Insurgent literacy; three book reviews on one page. Page 13.

about the cover:

Jason Harvey waits at roadside with wardrobe for ride into future.

The Salt Below

A'sst. Editor

Bob Armstrong

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A'sst. Editor | Mary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacy Belkind |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |
| Food Editor | Lauren Traub |

takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requires that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt".

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topic of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submission can be made at the Collegian offices 113 Campus Center, 545-3500.

HAHJEE'S PLACE

The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.

Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.

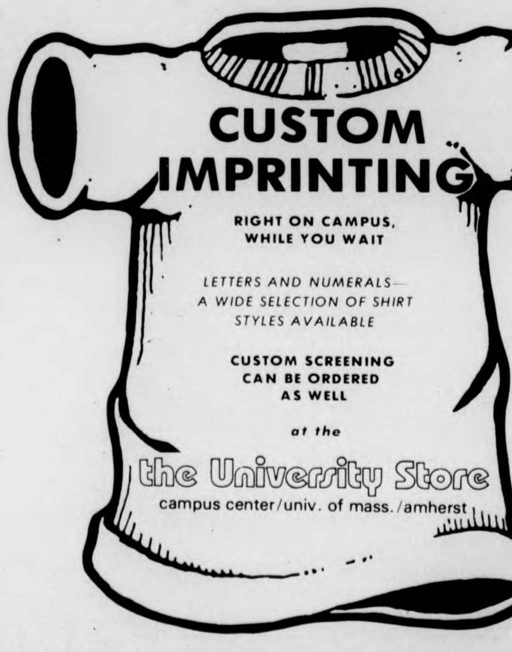
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

THE LOOK OF TODAY

His & Her Precision Hair Styling

Ye Curling Iron

Triangle St. Amherst 549-4412



CUSTOM IMPRINTING

RIGHT ON CAMPUS, WHILE YOU WAIT

LETTERS AND NUMERALS— A WIDE SELECTION OF SHIRT STYLES AVAILABLE

CUSTOM SCREENING CAN BE ORDERED AS WELL

at the

the University Store

campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Life story staged in 'Open Road'

by REBECCA GREENBERG & FELICIA GULACHENSKI

What do Natalie Cole, Buffy St. Marie and Jason Harvey have in common? Just as Ms. Cole and Ms. St. Marie got experience in performing here at UMass, Jason Harvey is doing the same. His new show, "Open Road", will be performed in the Southwest Theatre in the Hampden Student Center April 12-15 at 8:00.

"Open Road" is an original one man musical autobiography written and performed by Jason Harvey. The show takes place on a highway with a young man hitchhiking, reminiscing about his life experiences while waiting for a ride. The young man's life is expressed through music with intermittent monologues.

"The style of music varies from disco, rock, blues, jazz, country and western, and show music," Harvey said. "The songs are like my diary... they are social statements trying to convey youth issues, racism, and sexism." They are based on Harvey's "experiences in foster homes, juvenile prison, and dealings on the road."

The show took two years to write, and it's being offered as a senior project to complete his degree in musical composition and performing arts in the University Without Walls program.

med in nightclubs in New York, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Paris, and Copenhagen, and has included some of the music from this show in his act. He has performed locally doing a show at The Concertorium in Northampton entitled "Until the Day I Die", and "From Street Dancing Tramps to Snazzy Razz-Ma-Tazzed Jazz" at UMass in 1976. He has studied jazz dance with Alvin Ailey in New York, and mime at the School of Mime in Paris.

Harvey said that lots of things have influenced him to go into show business. He met Donovan in Ireland, and "just being around a songwriter" was incentive. His natural inclinations have motivated him since first grade, when "I was pulled off the stage by my teacher for pantomiming a global shape every time we sang the verse in "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands." We had been told to keep our hands by our sides, but it was impossible for me to obey--there was a feeling inside of me that I had to express."

"Open Road" is a five-college effort. It is directed by Kathy Benomi, a senior theatre major at Smith College. Margaret Mills, a film theatre major at Hampshire, is the coordinator. The choreographer is Yves Toussant, a senior dance major at UMass. A Hampshire music major, Ann Lieber, is the piano accompaniest. The show is being supervised by Johnston Campbell, who is the Director of the Southwest Theatre, and Josie Abity, a theatre professor at Hampshire.

It is planned to take the show to Boston and New York; any "cricks" are being worked out here. Harvey feels the musical has an appeal to everyone. "It says something to everyone--it is a young man looking at this country....It takes people on a journey, sort of like a modern fairy tale, but a lot heavier."

Tickets are $1.50 and may be purchased at Faces of Earth in Amherst, Amherst Audio in Northampton, and at the door on the night of the performance.

> 'The songs are like my diary... they are social statements trying to convey youth issues, racism, and sexism.'-- UMass student Jason Harvey, on his show 'Open Road', opening in Southwest April 12

Jason Harvey relates autobiography in song and dance "Open Road."

"You're a good show, Charlie Brown"

theater

Reviewed by AMY KAPLAN

The recent production of Your A Good Man, Charlie Brown has proved once again that the UMass Music Theatre Guild can put on an entertaining, delightful evening of theatre completely produced and directed by students. From the minute the curtain opens and the light, bouncy music begins, the audience is taken into the world of childhood, where Valentine's Day and baseball games seem of primary importance.

The play is composed of many, small scenes which seem to have originated from comic strip episodes. The cast of six characters act and behave as children and the bright costumes and free gestures make this believable. The first act consists mainly of episodes concerning one or two characters and includes such topics as Charlie Brown eating lunch alone and spotting the little, red-haired girl, Lucy incessantly flirting with Schroeder, and Linus explaining his great love for the immortal blanket. The humor in these scenes lies mainly with Schultz's written dialogue which is predictably funny. However, the cast does a fine job of executing these lines in an almost spontaneous way. The scenes in the second act are mainly ensemble ones, and it is here that the finely choreographed dancing can best be seen. In such scenes as "The Baseball Game" and the "Glee Club Rehearsal" the comic strip characters come to life as typical children engaged in everyday activities. Lucy is aptly played by Heidi Winer as the crabby, ill-tempered big sister to the shy, insecure Linus, played by Ovidio Vargas.

The scenes between Lucy and Schroeder are especially humorous as Schroeder demonstrates that his first love is the piano. James Coelho, as Schroeder, has the long fingers, shock of unruly hair, and refined aura of a budding musician, does a particularly good job in the "Glee Club Rehearsal" number as the frustrated musician who expects perfection from the squabbling children, who are more interested in fighting over a pencil than in practicing music. Schroeder's gestures as a pianist are complemented by his lovely bass voice, which we unfortunately are treated to hearing in a few musical numbers.

Another fine performance is to be found in Kevin McNamara's characterization of Charlie Brown. His nasal tone, sad eyes, and dogged determination to succeed make him pathetic as the born loser who no one wants to send a valentine to.

The simple set consisting of large, colored blocks and Snoopy's dog house is used effectively for a variety of settings and the use of lighting on a white backdrop effectively sets the mood for both day and night time episodes.

However, it seems that more of the stage could have been decorated. The use of lighting is especially effective in the scenes where Snoopy becomes a fighter pilot in a dark sky, and the orange-yellow sunset signifies daybreak. Snoopy, played by Rob Winiger comes across fairly well as the lovable dog who is almost human, however, his tenor voice was too high nr nmbers.

In conclusion, the energetic, lively rendition of the Peanuts comic strip was a delightful change from so many of the depressing and often bland movies and plays. There was nothing innovative about the dancing or the music, but the humorous script and the fine acting combined to make it a highly recommended show.

安城中國飯店

AMHERST CHINESE FOODS

You'll be surprised to find such excellent authentic Chinese cooking right here in Amherst. The only restaurant in the area to receive the American Dining Society's Good Dining Award.

Lunch Specials 1.15 and up
Closed Wednesday
62 Main St., Amherst
253-7835

MILLER 12 OZ. CANS
$6.89

HEINEKEN $3.49

KARLSBRAU BEER
$1.35 three-pack

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
388 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384 256-8433

the Restaurant

Soups-Salads
Sandwiches
Quiches
Bagels and Spreads
Baked Goods

Homemade
and Always Fresh

at Faces next to the Amherst Post Office
hours: 9:30 to 6:00 256-8955

Captain's Table admirable

The Captain's Table
48 Damon St.
Northampton (584-6080)
Lunch weekdays II:30-3:00
Dinner Tues. thru
Sat. 5-10:30
Sun. 1:00-9:00
Damon St. is the right
immediately
over the bridge to Northampton on rte.9.

Reviewed by LAUREN TRAUB

food

The Captain's Table is popular with a wide age group of people who appreciate carefully and well-prepared food. The 30 minute wait to be seated on a recent Saturday nite is testimony to its popularity. The lounge, which is entered through a narrow hallway from the dining roon is a nice place to enjoy a drink while waiting for a table in the dining room or during happy hour which happens daily from 4 to 6, when all drinks are 69 cents. Until the dining room re-opened a few weeks ago after an unfortunate fire, dinners were temporarily served in the lounge. The dining room is square and open, with lit candles in glass casting a pleasant glow. A green water glass with fresh flowers was also on each table recently in celebration of the re-opening. Paper placemats mark each place over the wooden tables.

The menu offers an admirably diverse and well-planned selection with its 27 entrees, and that doesn't even include the Friday specials of fresh swordfish, scallops, fried clams, or fisherman's platter. Five whole-lobster dishes include boiled live (chicken) lobster for $4.95, baked stuffed lobster with mushroom crabmeat, or shrimp stuffing ($5.50 - 6.50) and Lobster Savannah which is lobster meat in cheese wine sauce with mushrooms, green peppers and pimentoes, which is then baked in the lobster shell. These dinners include the salad bar and baked, french fried, or mashed popatoes. All of the other entree prices include appetizer of soup du jour or juice, the salad bar, potato and vegetable.

Beef and seafood make up the bulk of the menu, but veal, chicken and pork are each represented by two offerings, roast turkey is available on Sundays. Two combination dishes - filet mignon with baked stuffed shrimp ($7.75) and the filet with King crab legs ($8.25) are offered for those who can't bear to choose. The steak and baked stuffed shrimp had three good-sized shrimp and a small but tender filet mignon which was cooked as ordered.

Veal Oscar ($6.95) is served as a heaping pile of breaded and fried (real) veal cutlets with freshly cooked asparagus and small sweet morsels of crabmeat garnishing it, with a white sauce over it. This is the kind of dish which shows you that the chef really knows what he is doing. This dish can't be carried off unless the delicate veal, crabmeat and asparagus start out being of top quality, and are handled carefully during preparation. These were. The breading on the veal could perhaps have been a little thinner, but overall this was an exquisitely pleasing dish.

Chicken Cordon Bleu with wild rice on the side ($6.25) also showed attention to quality with the flavorful thin slices of ham and melted cheese which were literally packed inside the boneless chicken breast. Fresh lobster chunks in butter ($7.95) are the prize without the struggle, so naturally you pay to have someone else do the work of extracting the precious meat from the shell. This fact, combined with the high price of lobster meat makes this a small portion of sweet lobster chunks in butter.

The menu lists roast prime ribs of beef ($8.25) as available only on Fridays, Saturday, and Sundays, but the Captain's Table is now featuring the prime ribs at a special price of $5.95 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nites.

The salad bar features a large bowl of crisp, dry iceberg lettuce with red cabbage or carrot shreds, chick peas, pitted black olives, herbed green cottage cheese and corn relish as some of the more colorful options.

The bread basket brought to our table contained warm French bread (that was a little too steamy inside) and an innovative offering of crisp Syrian bread wedges with grated cheese baked on. The soup du jour was cabbage, in a nicely flavored broth. French onion soup ($l.25) has a good thick layer of melted crusty cheese with a crouton baked into it.

Homemade pecan pie and cheesecake are consistent with the high quality of the rest of the food. Our only minor complaints were the 60 or 70 minutes it took from the time we placed our orders until the entrees were served, but it was a busy Saturday nite (most people's first weekend back at school in the area) and some of that hour was occupied in consuming soup, bread and salad. Also our waitress forgot to bring the vegetable, and the french fries looked like they had taken a second dip into the fryolator. But overall in my two visits to the Captain's Table, the thoughtful preparation and high quality of the food, and the pleasant personell have far outweighed the minor lapses. My compliments to Chef Proprietor Steve Kloc.

C & C LIQUORS
Next To Town Hall, Amherst
FREE DELIVERY ON CAMPUS
253-3091

SEBASTIANI GALS. $5.99

SCHLITZ LITE 12 oz. CANS $6.90 case $1.80 six

1976 BEAUJOLAIS $2.99

BOSCH BEER NOW IN STOCK
'COME TO THE MOUNTAINS'

Bromberg-Muldaur
tix available at box office or call 545-2511

Hair Fashion Accessories

Functional, of course—but more important, our combs, barrettes, headbands, and bobbies are beautiful fashion accents. Classic tortoise-shell designs, luminous enamels, rich and subtle solids. A fine gift idea. 1.25 - 6.00

A refreshing place to shop!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-9, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

For pizza out of this world, call
The Hideout
183 North Pleasant St. • Amherst
WE DELIVER 256-0441

books/ Feminism, feelings, fantasy

Our Blood, by Andrea Dworkin
Harper & Row, N.Y. 1976
Hardcover, $6.95

Reviewed by LEAH FRITZ

Andrea Dworkin's second book, Our Blood, is now available at bookstores.

For those of you who read Women Hating or have attended any of Andrea's lectures, that statement should be sufficient to send you rushing out for a copy. You didn't know it was out, otherwise you'd already have it--and you didn't know because the male-dominated press kept it a deep, dark, secret. The only kind of women's "liberation" the media celebrates these days is the kind Jerry Rubin got excited about in the '60's when he said "After the revolution we'll have. . . free women."

Our Blood is a collection of Dworkin's lectures delivered on college campuses, at wonen's centers--wherever a group of feminists assembled during the past two years to grope toward a fundamental analysis of how we got into the pickle we're in. Together these discourses form an astonishingly coherent theory, presented in the clear, forceful style of one of America's great writers--by any standards.

Dworkin traces the malady misogyny--that pandemic which turns the sons of women into imperialists, homocidal maniacs, rapists, and thieves of our souls--back to its source in traditional heterosexual relations. With a tender touch for that frailty into which women have been driven for survival and from which it is so nearly impossible for us to extricate ourselves, she describes the infinitely varied strategems, conscious and unconscious, obvious and always thorough, which have been used to effect our subjugation. It is a bitter story, but one that we must face of we are finally to end it. Dworkin's beautiful prose makes that story almost bearable, and we become imbued with a new courage because she has had the courage to endure these terrifying insights and share them with us.

Our Blood is not a "how to" book: it diagnoses the ailment, details the symptoms, and hypothesizes a cause. But we must do the healing, and Dworkin suggests that the means may be within our reach: "Only when manhood is dead--and it will perish when ravaged feminity no longer sustains it--only then will we know what it is to be free." To give up our primary survival mechanism in a situation of such grave peril is no simple task. The forces which oppress us will continue to do everything in their power to suppress radical analysis--they will use all of the techniques documented here.

Therefore, whether or not Dworkin's arguments convince you totally, they provoke the kind of discussion without which truth doesn't have a fighting chance. I urge you to buy Our Blood while it is still in hardcover to keep the book alive. It is, in any case, one that you will want in your permanent collection, along with "A Vindication of the Rights of Women" and "A Room of One's Own."

This review originally appeared in: City Women, Janury 1977, p. 16

Andrea Dworkin will lecture on the topic of "Protective Oppression: What The Right Offers Women" in Mahar Auditorium, Tuesday, April 11 at 8:00 p.m. The lecture will be sponsored by the UMass Distinguished Visitors Program.

Hard Feelings
By Don Bredes
Bantam Books
341 pp., $1.95

Reviewed by ALEX STEIN

Hard Feelings has been called "the New Generation's Catcher in the Rye." If Catcher had been written today, this is the form it probably would have taken.

Don Bredes introduces us to Bernie Hergruter, a sex-obsessed 16 year old who is vastly more interesting than Holden Caulfield. Hergruter, too, is running, but from something more threatening: a bully named Richard. Richard has a stump for one arm, a switchblade and a Nazi machine gun from WWII. Bernie has known for some time that Richard was mad at him, but it took Richard's poisoning of Bernie's dog to convince him.

So he runs for his life. He boards a bus and goes to Cleveland where he meets Latham. Latham tells Bernie that he must stand up to Richard or lose his self-respect. A few days later Bernie realizes that Latham is right and returns to face up to Richard.

But it is not as easy as he had thought, and he spends the next few weeks avoiding Richard. Eventually he can run no longer, and Bernie faces up to the violent confrontation that marks his passage to manhood.

In between we meet a cast of fascinating minor characters, including Bernie's three girlfriends, his best friend, who tries to tell Bernie that a plan is needed to fight Richard.

Con Bredes has captured the essence of growing up in a masterfully witty picture. Novels like this have become far too scarce lately. I am looking forward to Bredes' next novel, even if it's only half as good as Hard Feelings.

The Simarillion
by J.R.R. Tolkien
Pub: Houghton Mifflin
1977, 365 p., $10.95

Reviewed by DRU WHITTEN

The Simarillion is a collection of myths that lie behind Tolkien's Lord of the Rings. They are, however, unnecessary for its understanding. All the myths relevant to The Lord of the Rings are incorporated within that story. The Simarillion's value lies instead with the light it shines on Tolkien's imagination. In the Forward to The Simarillion Christopher Tolkien describes his father's unpublished material as "a continuing and evolving creation extending over more than half a century." Even though versions of the myths were left out to make it publishable, The Simarillion remains an illuminating look at Tolkien's mythology.

As an "evolving creation," The Simarillion was never polished and set aside in finished form. The resulting inconsistencies in tone make the beginning slow reading. The myths in this first half are largely background material containing many characters that become confused in the reader's mind. There is an index of names, but it takes patience to constantly turn to it. If you can muster the patience, however, it is worth it. It is here Tolkien introduces such universal subjects as Creation, battles between good and evil, and the nature of the gods.

After reaching "Of Beren and Luthien", in the middle, the tone changes dramatically and the reading becomes effortless in comparison. The characters suddenly become three dimensional because Tolkien concentrates on exploring the emotion and reaction of just a few. If you can make it to this point you have overcome the major obstacle and are free to digest the numerous themes. I think the initial effort is worth the time it takes because it pays off with a deeper understanding of Tolkien's imaginative mythology.

Friday Night Fever
No Booze Plenty of Spirits
April 7th Blue Room Worc. D.C.
8:30 - 1 50's, 60's & 70's Music
$1.25 adv. ticket sale.
& at the door

HATCH BAR
FRI. & SAT.,
APRIL 7 & 8
The Great Pretenders

'Critics Howl'

Salted Records, Inc.

1. Pharoah Sanders 2. Warren Zevon 3. Sea Level 4. Be-Bop Deluxe 5. B.T.O. 6. Journey 7. The Outlaws 8. John Hall 9. Manfred Mann 10. Kool and the Gang

Love Will Find A Way
Pharoah Sanders
Arista

Reviewed by K. STEPHEN SHAIN

Everyone has gotten "Bensonitis" these days and Pharaoh Sanders is no exception. Seeking obviously to broaden his own base and sell more records, Pharaoh Sanders has collaborated with Norman Connors, Lenny White, Phyllis Hyman and superstar impressario, Clive Davis, to produce an album that will offend the purists, frustrate the crossover buffs, delight the dance mob and will become for just about everybody who doesn't really like "jazz", their token jazz recording of the next year. Though Love Will Find A Way is a mongrel, it is far from being a dog.

Perhaps the most exciting cut on the record (and perhaps its biggest saleable feature) is Marvin Gaye's "Got to Give It Up!". Compressing the time down to a little over six minutes amd mixing the horns forward and the bass down, Pharoah has created a sound that does for the saxaphone what Chick Coraea did for the electric piano.

"Everything I Have is Good" croons Norman Conners in Pharaoh's steed, culminating the album with a rationale and somewhat of a rehash of the "Creator Has A Master Plan" sound that had made Pharaoh so famous.

Clearly Pharaoh is moving away from the infinite boundaries of Coltrane country towards the squatters'settlement of Donald Byrd, Freddie Hubbard, and other former masters and time-honored musicians who now so precariousluy perch themselves upon the precipice of superstardom. Bearing more similarity to Grover Washington than to Archie Shepp, Sanders sax playing is clean, slick and professional and is likely to do well in our marketplace culture.

Warren Zevon
Excitable Boy
Asylum

Reviewed by TOM ANDERSON

For those of you who like to see little-known songwriters emerging from obscurity with albums of their own, meet Warren Zevon. Although Zevon does have previous band experience, his most notable achievement is the fact that Linda Ronstadt has recorded several of his songs, including her currint hit "Poor Poor Pitiful Me". I'm happy to report, however, that the songs on this album (his second solo venture) are considerably superior to those which Ms. Ronstadt has chosen to immortalize. This disc clearly reveals that Warren Zevon's genius lies in his ability to write unusual lyrics, and sing them convincingly. Take, for example, the title tune, which traces a psychopath from his first strange act to rape and murder. "Werewolves of London" chronicles the adventures of a werewolf who searches out Chinese restaurants and also mutilates little old ladies.

Zevon is more than a writer of strange lyrics, however. His music and piano playing is professional and solid, and the backup roster of musicians and singers reads like a "Who's Who" of pop: Linda Ronstadt, Jackson Browne, Karla Bonoff, Jennifer Warnes, and Mick Fleetwood and John McVie of Fleetwood Mac. The music is reminiscent both of Ronstadt and Browne, which should come as no surprise. Jackson Browne, a close friend of Warren, co-produced Excitable Boy and co-wrote one of the songs. In my mind (or ears), Zevon manages to produce a sound with a lot more guts than either Ronstadt or Browne. While comparisons with Dylan or Springsteen are certainly premature, Zevon's husky voice rendering poetic, if unusual, lyrics is in somewhat the same vein. Excitable Boy certainly is not the album for everyone. People who consider John Denver profound will be at a total loss to understand the songs contained here. But for the rock listener interested in intelligent lyrics and reasonably compelling music, Warren Zevon defifinitely has something to say.

Cats on the Coast
Sea Level
Capricorn

Reviewed by GERARD HALLAREN

Sea Level's second album, Cats on the Coast, is one of the most interesting albums that I have heard in a long time. It very effectively blends the super slick sound of 70's R&B with some fine guitar playing reminiscent of days gone by. This is a disc which cannot be labeled disco, jazz or R&B, but if this album is to be taken as a sign of the future we then have alot to look forward to.

The album consists of eight cuts, four vocal and four instrumental. The four instrumental tunes demonstrate effectively the band's main strengths, that is; tight musicianship coupled with top quality solos and leads. Leading the band are Jim Nalls and David Causey with their cool and sophisticated leads often mixed into separate channels. Sax player, Randall Bramblett, displays more than adequate sax-ability in his many leads and introductions. The rest of the band provides a tight rhythm section and harmonies that would make Art Tatum jealous. Rounding out the band we have Randall Bramblett and Chuck Leavell with adequate vocals which don't interfere with the rest of the band. Basically I feel that the album is a good one and thoroughly worth listening to. But , however good the musicians are, a band generally needs time to develop fully and Sea Level's lack of experience shows through on this album. This is noticed through the lack of innovation and advancement of now ideas. Experience comes with time, but this band is still strides ahead of other similar R&B artists (most notably Steve Winwood). Sea Level with their latest release, Cats on the Coast, has made a very respectable showing and deserve to be praised.

Be-Bop Deluxe
Drastic Plastic
Harvest

Reviewed by R.B. NERENBERG

With their successful live LP recently behind them (Live! In The Air Age), Bill Nelson and the rest of the Be-Bop Deluxe have wasted precious little time in getting this new one, Drastic Plastic, out.And while there's no questioning the quartet's instrumental prowess, the same pregnant question of the past still remains unanswered and hanging over their collective heads---why, oh why, can't they exhibit any real degree of emotional intensity? Drastic Plastic is a technically efficient work,but most of it sounds like uninspired music Being played by pre-programmed automations. Nelson's vocals, particularly, pack about as much emotional wallop as an ostricized ostrich's. His lyrics are interesting to ponder over, but the same old monotonous delivery robs them of the true emotional impact which they could and should generate.

Still, this is not an album totally devoid of merit. As previously mentioned, the LP's instrumentation is much above average; these Be-Boppers need not take a back seat on this account. However, should you feel pinched for time, skip side one entirely (except for "Surreal Estate") and proceed immediately with side two, which is definitely more dynamically varied.

Bill Nelson may be doing all he can in order to promote his brand of scifi rock, but if he really wants it to lead somewhere, he'd best stop singing like a rumply robot, For this one, chalk up a "show some emotion" B-

B.T.O.
Street Action
Mercury

Reviewed by BRETT MILANO

A lead guitar emerges through a sea of distortion, developing into a chord progression which would make Ted Nugent seem subtle by comparison. A gravelly vocal emerges through the din: "Gotta mo-o-ove on down the road, yeah!" You guessed it, folks: those BTO boys are at it again. There is one slight difference this time around: the group is no longer legally allowed to go by their full name of Bachman-Turner Overdrive, since founding member Randy Bachman abandoned ship to go solo. Bachman took with him his nasal vocals and his occasional melodic sense, which seemed out of place in this band anyway. Other than that, the band's formula is essentially the same: piles of crunching power chords and vocals delivered with all the urgency of a freshman at a frat party. As usual, there are a couple of tunes that stand out: the title track is truly potent, and "Down the Road" could be BTO's next hit single as soon as they delete the charming line "ain't got time for no candyass" from it. I can, however, detect a notable lack of inspiration here, as some of these songs seem to be modelled after earlier BTO hits. "Down the Road," for example, resembles "Roll On Down the Highway", and "Long Time For a Little While" sounds [illegible] than a bit like "Looking Out For Number One." But then the average BTO fans probably aren't interested in such details: what they want is to hear heavy metal played with a maximum of power and a minimum of subtlety. If that's what you want, that's what you get.

Journey
Infinity
Columbia

Reviewed by TOM AVERSA

I don't like the new Journey album. George Tickner, former rhythm guitarist and songwriter has been replaced by vocalist Steve Perry, who now handles most of the lead singing. Unfortunately, Journey now puts a heavy emphasis on vocals. Perry's hoarse screaming only takes away from the band's sound.

In the quest for commercial success, Journey has abandoned their mostly instrumental format. The Journey of the past, which featured Neil Schon's incredible guitar finess, Aynsley Dunbar's expertise on drums, Greg Rolie's keyboards, and Ross Valory's steady bass, has been reduced to a run-of-the-mill, hard rock outfit trying desperately to produce an AM hit. Schon's leads, (still very nice), are limited to short bursts, while Dunbar's drumming on Infinity could be accomplished by any of the drummers that have appeared in the Hatch recently.

As far as musical ability, Journey has undergone a regression. The only thing anywhere near infinite about this album, is the amount of bucks that they could make off it. Now that they have reduced their instrumentation and included syrupy sweet [illegible] and [illegible], Journey's product can be peddled to the ignorant masses. "Lights," "Wheel in the Sky," and many other tunes on Infinity have definite hit potential. The album in itself is far from worthless, however. It's just that when compared to their previous albums, Infinity is nowhere.

The Outlaws
Bring It Back Alive
Arista

Reviewed by R.B. NERENBERG

This two-record live set could've established The Outlaws as the numero uno Southern rock band. It could've, for with Lynyrd Skynyrd (to whom this LP is dedicated) now existent only as a memory, the field's wide open. Bring It Back Alive obviously invites comparisons to Skynyrd's One More From The Road, but the dynamic energy of the latter is nowhere in evidence here. This album should burn with high energy. Unfortunately, The Outlaws just don't sound as accomplished on stage as they do in studio; they desperately need a strong frontman a la Ronnie Van Zant to take charge of everything.

Having added a second drummer (Dave Dix) has not had any significant effect on the band's overall sound. The songs presented here, with virtually no exception, all sound more polished and are thereby more enjoyable on the original studio albums from which they come. Even the classic "Green Grass And High Tides," whose twenty minute rendition encompasses all of side four, sounded tighter and more concise on the group's first album, when it was only half as long.

But don't slam the cell door shut on these [illegible] just yet. They still have the musical [illegible] necessary to achieve the sort of widespread popularity that looms just over the horizon. The only thing is, they'll have to attain it via studio, not live, albums. Though the quality of mercy is indeed not strained, for this one I grant The Outlaws a "they'd have done better to have brought it back from the studio" BC.

John Hall
Asylum

Reviewed by RICK ALVORD

How many of you people out there in listening-land know who John Hall really is? Remember Orleans? He and his wife were the driving force behind that band. As the band began to disappear, John Hall began doing studio work along the country rock blue lines. Well, now, those that he gave his services to in the studio have returned by working in his studio. The important thing to remember though is that Hall does not advertise this on the outer jacket to help sell the album. John Hall merely advertizes himself on his cover. When opening the jacket the eyes are dazzled with an array of artists like Garland Jefferys, Carly Simon, James Taylor, Lowell George, The Persuasions, and Bonnie Raitt to name the more well known.

John Hall has a long history of musical work, but this is his debut solo album. His musical style and ideas are basically the same only his vehicle of expression has changed. Now he uses Fender Rhodes and clavinets to replace the funky guitars of the past. The guitar is still there, but it is quite far in the background or as a lead. The funkyrhythmguitar is virtually non-existant.

The songs on the album deal mostly with male female relationships and all of the insecurities involved. The best song to deliver this message is one that he wrote in 1975 called "Good Enough" (previouly released by Bonnie Raitt)."Give me the Right" is an accoustical tune which explains the frustration involved when one loves another, but the other doesn't feel the same. The lyrics, "but if you won't let my love through there's nothing else I can do, but get down on my knees to you beggin' you please...give me the right" sum up the feeling of the song. Haven't you ever felt that way? It's pretty humiliating, huh?

The album is well recorded and very well produced. Hall's anthems can be understood and related to by anyone. They are not about special specific people whom are unknown to you and I. They are right there for us to listen to and enjoy, or maybe cause us to lament more. Listen to the album and you will find that it's good enough for you.

Manfred Mann's Earth Band
Watch
Warner Brothers

Reviewed by TOM AVERSA

Manfred Mann, thirty-six year old keyboard player and founder of the Earth Band, has his roots in many different types of music. After studying piano in his native South Africa for fourteen years, he came to England in 1961 to form a jazz group. He then gained renown in the pop scene with a band Manfred Mann, (notable hits were "Do Wah Diddy Diddy" and Dylan's "Mighty Quinn"). After a brief jazz-rock experiment in a band called Chapter III, Mann formed the Earth Band in 1971. Five years, seven strong albums, and a few personnel changes later, the Earth Band finally hit real commercial success with The Roaring Silence. This album, with the help of the single version of "Blinded by the Light", made Mann once again famous.

Well folks, Watch, the new Earth Band album, will definitely prove to be Manfred Mann's largest selling album. Mann has found the perfect formula: catchy riffs and sweet melodies without sacrificing any instrumental expertise. Mann plays all keyboards. Chris Thompson sings and plays rhythm guitar. Chris Slade, (a veteran of all eight Earth Band albums) drums. Pat King, (a newcomer) is on bass. Dave Flett continually amazes the listener, with his intriguing lead guitar.

"Circles", (already severely overplayed), "California", and "Davy's on the Road Again" all could become huge AM hits. However, "Drowning on Dry Land", "Chicago Institute", (visions of 1984), and "Martha's Madman" are all bizzare tunes which display the Earth Band's full potential. A live rehash of "The Mighty Quinn" is thrown in to round the album out. With Manfred Mann around, we can be sure to have some quality music on both AM and FM radio.

Kool And The Gang
The Force
Delite

Reviewed by MARIO BARROS

When someone listens to Kool & The Gang, one is hearing house party funk at its much imitated best. This tight self-contained band came to prominence at the end of the 60's with a soul searching but nonetheless funky piece called "Who's Gonna Take The Weight." They then went to further prominence with much ado about nothing cuts like "Chocolate Buttermilk" and "Raw Hamburger" with the music much tastier than the titles. By now, they had established themselves in House Party circles with their records causing many a sweaty good time and wearing out a lot of rugs.

With The Force, the Gang strikes up some of those tight bodymovers and at times, they even generate some almost irresistable audience participation with the chanting party mood. We hear a little of the old Gang when we stop at the delightfully infectious "A Place In Space." As the cosmic winds blow further into the side, we see the tree bending dangerously over to the Commodore's "Brick House" when we hear "Slick Superchick." The Gang does return to their old selves as they settle into The Force with a little more conviction.

The Gang turns the whole project out on its own. They go after you with no "hired guns." This type of honesty has to be appreciated in this day of "producer's music," where the producer monopolizes everything right on through to the liner notes. By "keeping it in the Gang", the group displays a tightness that does nothing but add to the tight, jamming, New York styled music that sprung right up from the streets of that fair city.

The Force should serve as a lesson and an example that party music can be a little on the socially irrelevant side but can also be honest. Listen to the LP and have a good time.

Suicide Commandos make a record

Make a Record
Suicide Commandoes
Blank

Reviewed by SYBIL WALKER

This record is a fine example of local talent that has found moderate success and a fringe following on the shirt-tails of a movement that currently referred to as the 'New Wave'. Songwriter and lead guitarist Chris Osgood went to Hampshire College before re-uniting with two other native Minnesotans, David Ahl and Steve Almaas, to form what is the Suicide Commandos.

The music they play is an expressionistic rendering of sixties' rock n' roll and they play with inexhaustible energy and very little sentimentality. This reviewer had the fortunate experience of hearing The Commandoes live in their second New York City appearance at CBGB's, mecca for New Wave Rockers.

It was here especially that the Suicide Commandoes had a chance to prove themselves. If there is any place that this band would recieve a response or validation of their music, it's on the pitty stage of this dive bar. Our small contingent travelled 600 miles through a raging snowstorm and much weather to hear this band in an appropriate setting. After nine gruelling hours stuffed in the back seat of a Buick Skylark I was rewarded by four very different but equalling amusing sets. It wasn't so much the content but the form that differed between them. Their repertoire is seemingly limited but, in fact, they are very concerned with accurate presentation of both original material and selected covers. There isn't much variation to the tone of the music but what a listener can be sure of is a few interesting changes during semi-conscious rock. Nothing as excitingly paced as, say, the Ramones (Who are the masters of timing in pop punk) and the vocals aren't as offensive as the Sex Pistols, but they aren't as self-piteous as Lou Reed. (They never reach those depths of emotion, either.)

The lyrics are a sort of cross between dissatisfaction with social norms (You gotta die 'cause you are so dumb..We don't like it cause you aren't any fun...) and bewilderment: (Why? why? I'm wanted by the FBI..) Frustration with the chains that bind us (Oh bondage, up yours) which are such a consequence of the maddening machination that constitute the Modern Age is another theme. Several songs are representative of (What could be interpreted as) the student's dilemma. (I need a new car with a radio...I need a big man to tell me where to go..) This led me to question bassist Steve Almaas about the period in which the brilliant 'Match/Mismatch' and 'Call of the Wild' were composed. Between telephone conversations in a New York apartment he responded to my queries. (Non-stop touring is more difficult to organize and execute than one would imagine.) (Deleted because of Space.)

This record with it's youthful insistence is somehow political, but they also do a terrific version of the Monkees' song 'She' which shows a certain connection with an established past that some might find comforting. Call it 'Political Wimp Rock' if such a thing exists. Fast,decisive and very tight, the Suicide Commandos know what they want to play and perform with calculated precision.

4 poems

1

I awoke this morning before the dawn to sing an old verse to a brand new song and before you Woke to face a new day
I told you those things
I always wanted to say

2

As I was
I was not because I was not as I was

3

"                                        "

4 it was noon the sun was blazing i told him to draw a portrait hung above me in a likeness so great it was to be back inside the tavern the gunslingers ran through a vegamatic it slices dices rolled as the girls sang of better days came and went to bad it was for poor mrs.

abercrom sitting in a batter of chocolate making zits on faces which ran white in the mime show and tell began and school ended

STEVEN JAY KRAVITZ

More records to rock n' roll by

Ted Nugent
Double Live Gonzo
Epic

Reviewed by ALICIA CUNEO

The music on Ted Nugent's Double Live Gonzo album comes through with the intensity of Deep Purple's Machine Head and could probably come close to acquiring the popularity of Peter Frampton's double live album, Frampton Comes Alive. The album was recorded between June 1976 and November 1977, from Texas all the way up to the Springfield Civic Center. The album's music is extremely captivating. It doesn't come across as noise generated to sound like hard core rock and roll, such as what Kiss might do. The music is definitely a demonstration of the astonishing musical ability of Ted Nugent and his band. The great guitar riffing of Nugent can keep you entranced for hours. The album has many high points, one definitely being the song "Stranglehold." The song proves Nugent's and his band's great musical mastery of writing and performing. The album contains the live versions of some familiar Nugent songs, one being his recently popular "Cat Scratch Fever." The album is comprised of eleven awesomly concentrated true to life rock and roll cuts. Ted Nugent's Double Live Gonzo album, with all its intensity and gushing guitar wizardry, will indubitably launch him and his band into the limelight glitter of hard core rock and roll superstars.

The Tubes
What Do You Want From Live
A&M

Reviewed by R.B. NERENBERG

A few years ago, The Tubes were a refreshing new band with a unique sound and a very unique stage act. Well, a few years have since gone by, four Tubes albums have been released (each one being progressively inferior to its predecessor), and believe me, this band's sound has been shot straight to hell. They still present a unique, startlingly outrageous stage show, but the actual music they perform sounds like something staged for those keen on regurgitation (thank-you Monty Python). This two record set contains nothing more than abysmal renditions of such previously stellar songs as "White Punks on Dope", "Mondo Bondage", "What Do You Want From Life?" and the Beatles' "I Saw her Standing There." Just listening to what The Tubes do to these numbers is enough to curdle one's cream. Stay away from this disc; if you want to hear The Tubes that badly, check out their first album on A&M, not this out of tune loser. About as useful as used toilet paper, this album craps out with a "straight down the tubes" D.

FACES

STICKPINS

Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

COLLEGE DRUG STORE

NEW ADDITIONS TO OUR FRAGRANCE LINE

THE ONLY OUTLET NORTH OF SPRINGFIELD

WE CARRY A COMPLETE SELECTION WITH TESTERS

4 MAIN ST. AMHERST
253-2523

SUPER FRYE SALE

Women's 16" Tall
Black Cherry Pull on
reg. $65

SALE
$39.95

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

Bars, Movies, and Good Food

"The Place that made Amherst Famous"
OLE'
40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS
(16 Draft)
MEXICAN & AMERICAN FOOD
NEW ENGLAND FRIED CHICKEN
SANDWICHES & SNACKS
"THE DRAKE VILLAGE INN"
85 Amity St. Amherst 253-2548

WOODY HERMAN and his YOUNG THUNDERING HERD
And The UNIVERSITY JAZZ ENSEMBLE
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL THURSDAY APRIL 13 8PM
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE (545-2511 MONDAY-FRIDAY 9-4 PM)
AND AT ALL TICKETRON LOCATIONS

Dickinson House
presents
MONTY PYTHON'S
"AND NOW FOR SOMETHING COMPLETELY DIFFERENT"
S.U.B.
Sat., April 8-7:15, 9:00, 10:45

The rusty nail Inn

THURS., APRIL 6
FAT
$2.00

APRIL 9
DUKE and the DRIVERS
$2.00

APRIL 10-11
BEV ROHLER
$1.00

APRIL 12-13-14
BRICKER BAND
$2.00

APRIL 15
LOUDON WAINWRIGHT
$4.00

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
APRIL 7 and 8
JONATHAN EDWARDS
COVER $4.50

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

CALVIN Theatre
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310
NOW NOW
IT'S GOT HEAT.
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
R
...Catch it
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER EVES AT 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

The Pleasant St. Theater
By the director of
"Jonah who will be 25 in the year 2000"
Alain Tanner's RETURN FROM AFRICA
at 7 and 9:15
Next week: Chaplin Festival
27 Pleasant St./Northampton 586-0935

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $6.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
"THE FUNNIEST COMEDY TO COME BROADWAY'S WAY IN YEARS!" —Clive Barnes, N.Y. Times tom mallow by arrangement with morton gottlieb presents
Kathryn Crosby Tony Russel
Same Time, Next Year
Broadway's smash hit comedy
by bernard slade scenery by william ritman costumes by jane greenwood lighting by tharon musser associate producer james janek original new york production directed by gene saks directed by warren crane
Friday, April 14 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets on sale March 31. Gen. Pub. $7, 6, 5. UMass Student $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

Look No Further for Good Entertainment

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

SHIRLEY MacLAINE ANNE BANCROFT
The Turning Point
PG ① SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00) 7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WINNER OF 2 ACADEMY AWARDS
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG ② SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45) 7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda
JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG ③ SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG ④ SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers—B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

NOW, AREA PREMIERE AT TWO LOCAL THEATRES!
Academy Award Nomination

SOPHIA LOREN
MARCELLO MASTROIANNI
a special day PG

The AMHERST Cinema
eves- 7:00 and 9:00
Mat. Sat/Sun-5:00

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in Northampton
eves- 7:00 and 9:00

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5, RIVERDALE RD.
WEST SPRINGFIELD
TEL. 733-5131

BARGAIN $2.00 til 2:30
MATINEES EVERYDAY

LATE SHOWS-FRI.& SAT.
WE HONOR MASTER CHARGE

THE FURY R
Mon-Fri – 215-715-930
Sat-Sun – 215-435-715-930

SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
Mon-Fri – 210-730-945
Sat-Sun – 210-435-730-945

the Goodbye Girl PG
Mon-Fri – 215-730-950
Sat-Sun – 215-440-730-950

MEL BROOKS in HIGH ANXIETY
A Psycho-Comedy PG
Mon-Fri – 200-730-950
Sat-Sun – 200-350-540-730-930

PG STAR WARS
Mon-Fri – 215-730-950
Sat-Sun 215-445-730-950

"STRAIGHT TIME" R
Mon-Fri 200-745-950
Sat-Sun 200-355-550-745-950

a funny love story.
"House Calls" PG
Mon-Fri 200-800-1000
Sat-Sun 200-400-600-800-1000

TURNING POINT
Starts Fri.
M-F 2:15, 7:25, 9:40
Sat, Sun 2:15, 4:45, 7:25, 9:40

IS HE THE BEGINNING OF THE END?
IS HE
THE OMEN
R
Showing Friday, April 7
7:00, 9:15, 11:30 p.m.
at the S.U.B. $1.00 admission

A Tribute To ELVIS in "Speedway"
with Nancy Sinatra Bill Bixby
6:30 - 9:45
plus
BRIAN'S SONG
8:20 - 11:30
Thurs., April 6 Mahar Aud.
All for $1.00

COMING to DAVID'S
OF MT. FARMS MALL — THE AREA'S NEWEST "CLUB"

TUES. APRIL 4
•MAKESHIFT STRING BAND!
COUNTRY AND BLUE GRASS —

WED. APRIL 5
JAKE EPSTEIN QUINTET!
"JAZZ"

INTERNATIONAL & VEGETARIAN CUISINE

THURS. APRIL 6
CAROL CRAWFORD
&
• ALL THAT JAZZ

FRI.-SAT. APRIL 7-8
MIDNIGHT SHIFT

TEL. 586-1878

SUNDAY — APRIL 9
DINE IN THE Middle East 6:30-10:30 p.m.
ENJOY THE MUSICAL SOUNDS & CAPTIVATING DANCING ON OUR STAGE
MUSIC, LIVE SHOWS, FOLK DANCING & DINNER AT LOW SUNDAY PRICES

Charlie's
HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢
TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

Dexter Gordon wails at SUB

Reviewed by MARIO BARROS

While the lightning crackled outside, inside, the thunder was rolling out of the bell of Dexter Gordon's saxophone. Gordon and his tight three piece band delivered a rousing 2 set show that left a more than capacity SUB crowd nursing both feelings of awe and joy.

Gordon took the stage before an audience that immediately embraced his warm presence. Without wasting any time, he broke into "Our Secret Love Isn't a Secret Anymore", a proper choice to set the joyous and festive air for the evening. By the time he got into "Panther", it was easy to see that Gordon and his horn were one in rendering the sound that was so much of an expressive force this evening. It was interesting to see that at the end of a number, while the audience paid tribute to the artist, Gordon paid tribute to his sax.

For the most part, Gordon's playing was forceful as he attacked the chords and was totally in command of even his most improvisational riffs. The band provided an energetic backdrop for him as they played with drive and spirit. It was nice the way they dept a continuing flow of music by resting two members of the band while the third soloed. Rufus Reed soloed thrice on the bass, twice very well. His first solo was well-received as he deftly fingered a strong solo with some drum accompaniment to punctuate the drive. His second was at times listless as possible fatigue may have been the reason. His third was the most intriguing as he took a nasty bow to the bass and made it cry longingly for some 3-4 minutes.

Gordon himself played rather economically. He made up for the absences however when he approached the mike to spew some more of his quiet fire into it. Amazing to note was the effortlessness in putting out such powerful music. It was so simple for him - like mother nature flexes her might with a bolt of lightning.

His previous lecture/demonstration at Hampshire College is evidence that Mr. Gordon is being very active upon his return to the States. It's good to know that he's making himself so available to the public that appreciates him so much.

Dexter Gordon was responsible for season's finest concert to date.

David Wertman's Sun Ensemble Center Stage Southwest
DAVID WERTMAN
Hamden Student Center
Thurs. April 6th 8 PM.

Andy Pratt's "told-tales" at Hatch

Andy Pratt
The Hatch, UMass
Thursday, March 30, 1978
Reviewed by MARK HARRIS LEVITAN

On short notice the Union Program Council booked singer Andy Pratt into the Hatch and managed to fill the place reasonably well. The price was right and the bar was open, but those coming to dance were disappointed, as the dance floor was covered by tables. Under the right circumstances, tables are suitable for dancing on, but this was not to be. Pratt appeared without his band ("They cost too much") and tried unsuccessfully to fill the gaps in the music with his voice and piano.

Pratt's voice is versatile, ranging from a fine tenor to an extremely sharp falsetto. He writes good material,including some very upbeat and positively danceable tunes, and I've found his albums to be well-arranged whether he was backed up by a band, or accompanied only by his piano. The dancing numbers lost their drive when he attempted to stick to arrangements used with a rock band. Without a band to keep him tight, he allowed himself to wander on some dangerously embarassing tangents. Instead of turning "All I Want Is You" into a song of classic proportions that it could be, he dragged it aimlessly through a choppy ragtime piano interlude and then completely overused his falsetto on it. He overused the falsetto all night, almost relying on it when his lower voice got scratchy.

Of course some of Pratt's songs are nice piano or guitar ballads (he strummed a few songs), and I admit these were performed engagingly, especially when opening singer Robin Laine and her guitarist came on for some backing vocals. But there was an air of indulgence that only the vocal Pratt fanatics managed to ignore, and despite the fact that the man is talented and makes good records, he probably shouldn't be wandering around without a band. It may cost him more in the end.

"Same Time" opens

"Same Time, Next Year," the Bernard Slade comedy starring Kathryn Crosby and Tony Russel will be presented at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, University of Massachusetts/Amherst on Friday April 14 at 8 p.m.

The new smash comedy hit follows the lives of two married people, not married to each other, who over a period of 25 years secretly meet one weekend out of each year.

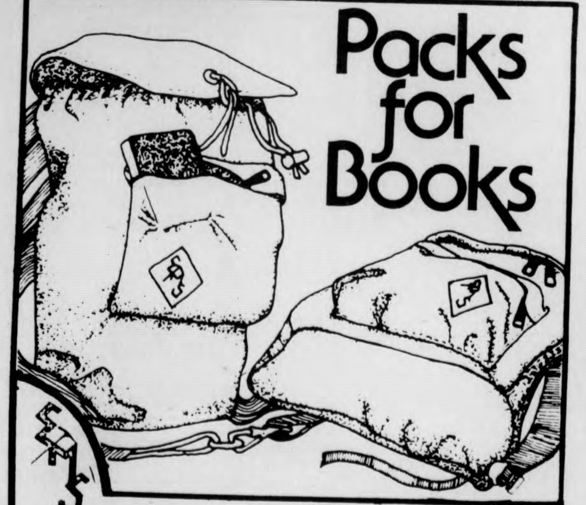
The comedy, which jumps ahead five years for each of the six scenes, uses costumes which immediately tells the viewer what has happened to these people during each of five years.

Clive Barnes called "Same Time, Next Year, the funniest comedy about love and adultry to come Broadway's way in years." William Raidy Newhouse Newspapers called it "the funniest and most delightful comedy of the season... a rare, goodtime in the Theatre."

Since the show premiered on broadway, March 1975, it has been an international success. Now in its third year on Broadway, the comedy has grossed a phenominal $21,137,000.00. Theatre experts believe this is the highest gross ever for a straight play. The figure does not include all United States and Canadian productions, as well as 23 foreign productions.

Tickets for "Same Time, Next Year" are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office and all Ticketron locations.
Ticket prices are: General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens and other students are $6, 5, 4. For more information, call (413) 545-2511.

FACES
STRAW HATS
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.



Packs for Books
Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon. - Fri. 9:30 AM - 9 PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM - 5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504
VISA
master charge

Get it on your chest.

Any design or logo Screen Printed on T-Shirts for dorms, teams, clubs, concerts, parties, etc. 20 colors, 15 styles including reg. T's, sweats, shorts, trim T's, French and European cut, and long sleeve T's, etc. No order too large or too small. Write for catalog or call
FORTE PRINTING
P.O. BOX 211
FLORENCE, MA 01060
Campus Rep
Steve Milligan
545-3539

Calendar

music

April 6
Voices of New Africa House and the Rahni Harris Gospel Singers, Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Program, SUB, 8 PM.
David Wertman Sun Ensemble, Center Stage, Southwest at 8 PM.

April 7
Jimmy Castor Bunch, Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst at 8 PM.

April 9
David Bromberg Band and Maria Muldaur, FAC Concert Hall, 8 PM.
University Chamber Orchestra, Bowker at 8 PM.

April 10
Clarity Duo featuring Michael Gregory Jackson and Paul Maddoz, David Murray Trio, Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst, 8 PM.

April 12
The Madrigal Singers, Bowker at 8 PM.

theater

April 6, 7, 8.
"The Real Inspector Hound", Curtain Theater, FAC at 8 PM.

April 7, 8, 9.
"Every Father's Child", Fayerweather Theater, Amherst at 8 PM.

dance

April 8
Amherst Ballet Theater, premiere performance, FAC at 1 & 8 PM.

film

April 6
"Thunderball" Campus Center Auditorium at 7:30 and 10:00 PM.
"The Decision to Drop the Bomb, & Hiroshima-Then, Now and Never," Merrill II, Amherst at 7:30 PM.

April 7
"The Omen," Mahar Auditorium at 7, 9:15 and 11:30 PM.
"Funny Face," Seeleye Hall, Smith at 7:30 and 9:30 PM.
"What's Up Tiger Lily?" Woody Allen's earliest, Gamble, MHC at 7:30 PM.
"Fearless Vampire Killers," directed by Polanski starring Tate, Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire College at 7:30 and 9:30 PM.
"Network," Merrill I, Amherst, 8 & 10 PM.

April 8
"Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," early Gene Wilder, Wright Hall, Smith at 2 PM.

April 9
"Network", Merrill I, Amherst, 8 & 10 PM.
"Girl Crazy", Wright Hall, Smith, 2 & 4 PM.

April 10
"10 Days that Shook the World", Gamble, MHC at 7:30 PM.

April 11
"The Double Day", Thompson 104 at 8 PM.
"Siberian Lady Macbeth", Soviet film with English sub-titles, Thompson 106 at 8 PM.

April 11
"Satyricon", Fellini, Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire, 7 & 9:15 PM.

April 12
"Groove Tube", SUB at 7, 9, & 11 PM.
"The Great Dictator", whose remains? Pleasant St. Theater, 9:15 PM.

For your information

Groups and organizations wishing to have an event listed in the Calendar section of Below the Salt may submit a typed notice, listing the event's date, time, and place. A short, descriptive sentence telling about the event may also be submitted.

Type the notices at 67 spaces per line, and triple space between the lines. The deadline for the Thursday edition of Salt is the preceeding Sunday at 6 p.m.

INTONATION KILL YOUR SON?
NRutma

FACES

scatter pins

Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

DVP
Martin Luther King Jr.
'Prophet of Peace'

Tuesday, April 4
Student Union Ballroom 8:00 p.m.
Gospel Singer Evangelist
Shirley Caesar
and the Caesar Singers

Wednesday, April 5
Student Union Ballroom 8:00 p.m.
Dr. Charles Martin,
Editor of the Journal of Negro Education

Thursday, April 6
Student Union Ballroom 8:00p.m.
Voices of New Africa House Choir (UMass)
Rhani Harris and Family Love

All events are free
and open to the university and community.

11th Annual
Martin Luther King, Jr.
Memorial Lecture Series

FACES

SATIN SHORTS

Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

fying the boycott

concerns by giving them material compensation; better pay and benefits. In other words, workers will forfeit real justice in return for (to use their phrase) "economic justice". Real justice is much more complex and cannot be separated from freedom. Economically that freedom includes, but is not limited to, freedom from insecurity (unemployment) and freedom from a lifetime of working at a job that deadens one intellectually and emotionally.

A union cannot provide real justice, although it can provide the appearance of such justice. It does raise the living standards of workers, as measured materially, and for that reason alone is worth supporting. But such a crude, material calculus cannot measure, or even conceive of, the social relations and values which are also vitally important determinants of the quality of life. A union will not change the power-relationships that subordinate Stevens workers to the corporation and which caused one Stevens worker to say, "At J.P. Stevens, before we started organizing, it wasn't much different than slavery. No lunch hour. Just eat your sandwich while running your machines. And then Stevens closes the plant. They shut us out.... that's what they said they'd do and that's what they did. Teach us a lesson."

> 'With a union, Stevens workers will get a lunch hour. But they... will still be told what to do and how to do it.'

With a union, Stevens workers will get a lunch hour. But they will still be taught a lesson. They will still be told what to do and how to do it. They can still be laid off at manegerial whim. And to top it off, UMass students are being offered a chance to help exercise that whim. Join J.P. Stevens, we will be told today, and you can enjoy the job security, good pay, pleasant working conditions and good fringe benefits that we refuse to give to our manual workers.

To put it bluntly, we are being asked to sell-out. Jobs are hard to get today, and in return for one, we are being asked to participate in impoverishing our fellow human beings. Those who go to talk with the Stevens representatives are reinforcing the myth that workers, students and everyone else will sell-out if the price is right, supporting the view that individuals can be coerced or bribed into supporting an inhuman system with a half human face. Such individuals do not realize the damage they are doing to themselves and to others, and they deserve more pity than contempt.

But the administration deserves more contempt than pity. By accepting Stevens recruiters, they are making a mockery of the principles a university stands for. UMass is specifically charged with developing socially sensitive and responsible individuals. The invitation of the Stevens corporation reveals that the university is just interested in supplying trained labor to corporations, regardless of the social practices of those corporations. Ultimately, to do this successfully requires the supression of the values that give meaning to our lives and the intimidation of those individuals who have the integrity to express them. In a word it requires fascism, and that is what worries me most.

Support the values we all hold important. Support the boycott but make it clear that you don't support the smoke-screen of "economic justice." There are far more important issues involved.

Bob Mélia is a Collegian Columnist.

F.U.C.O.F.F.

though that the students from Kent State wanted to unionize and legalize pot so stoned students could tow their own cars.

Causes. Word has it that there are more causes than students. Next thing you know, there will be a group organizing to boycott General Motors because there shoulder-strap and seatbelt combination discriminate against african pygmies.

Well, I've been here long enough, and it's about time I too got involved in a cause. With the help of the entire student body, this can be a campus wide effort. The cause is devoted to renaming the Student Government Association. We all read that students have a voice in what goes on around here. Personally, I think that's an overrated statement. Theoretically, we're supposed to let our student senate representative know how we feel. We all know how much a farce the SGA is so there is a movement afoot to rename the SGA. From now on, the SGA will be referred to as the FUCOFF, Forum Utilizing Concepts of Fred Flintstone. They resemble a comical cartoon more than a student government. Because of this recent development, the new co-presidents should not be Tyson and Gordon or Bishop and Dion but none other than Hanna and Barbera.

Attack Bakke decision

By MARK BRIER

Allan Bakke; for many people that name has become a dirty word.

Ever since he sued the University of California Medical School arguing that "underqualified minorities" were admitted ahead of him, many could smell a rat. The corporate owned media quickly picked up on his case and, along with leading politicians, have been pushing the theme that the fight of oppressed nationalities for equality has gone too far, causing "reverse discrimination". Sometime this April, the Supreme Court will rule on the Bakke case, and as this sweeping attack on minority nationalities is dragged out into the light of day, more and more minorities and whites alike are joining the fight against it. A national demonstration is planned for April 15, and on April 12 the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade is calling for a national armband day on college campuses.

Why is the Bakke case an attack on minorities? Ask any one of thousands of black youth hanging on the street corners in the city ghettos with almost twice the unemployment rate of white youth. Ask a young Puerto Rican student struggling with inadequate bi-lingual programs in public school. Ask an unskilled Chicano laborer stuck on the bottom rung of the ladder in his-her workplace. If the Bakke case wins, the rulers of this country will use it to write off any attempts to improve their conditions as "infringing on whites".

The media has rallied support for Bakke by posing the question, "Should the white people today have to pay for the sins of their ancestors who oppressed minorities? The facts show that national oppression didn't end with slavery, nor with the sixties, or even when Jimmy Carter took office; especially when he chose a notorious southern racist to be attorney general. The concessions that were won as a result of the widespread sit-ins, marches, and ghetto rebellions of the 1960's have been under attack ever since. Programs for minority admissions to higher education, special job training and other forms of affirmative action have never been held sacred by government budget cutting experts. Some of us even remember when New York City had an open admissions college system free of tuition. The Bakke case is just a concentrated assault of the gains of the sixties, and an attempt to push minorities further down in society, behind the smokescreen of "reverse discrimination". By pitting the needs of minorities and whites against each other the ruling class hopes to get over with their attacks.

Is it true that white people have to suffer in order for minorities to get what they need? No way. White people as a whole have never benefited from national oppression, and are not responsible for the current attacks on minorities. It's the high and mighty money interests and the profit system they command that's always pushed low-paying jobs, rotten housing, and segregation on minorities to extract super-profits. Caught in a deepening economic crisis, the capitalists are putting the squeeze on everyone from independent farmers to coalminers to college students. It's ironic that at the same time these capitalists are cutting back funding for higher education (along with other social services) and there are fewer openings than ever in grad schools, they tell white students that the minorities are keeping them from getting ahead. The same message is put out to white workers, to throw sand in their eyes and cover up the real source of the problem.

We say make the system pay for its ongoing crimes against minorities and everyone else. By cutting through the bull and taking a stand against Bakke, we're saying straight out that the ruling class can't get away with pushing minorities down into second class status. We won't fall for their divide and rule tactics promoted so articulately in Time and Newsweek. By uniting thousands of all nationalities to smash the Bakke decision, we will be taking a stand against all national oppression and strengthening our ability to deal with the source of all oppression, the imperialist system.

Already students have held marches and rallies to expose and attack the Bakke decision. While waiting for the Supreme Court ruling we can't afford to sit back and hope for the best. The "highest court in the land" is in no way independent of the political influence of the capitalists. In fact it's an integral part of their profit system. So on April 12 students across the country will wear armbands to rally support for the fight. Following this thousands will converge on Washington, D.C. on April 15. Join us!

Mark Brier is a member of the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade.

Dorm petition

To all Heads of Residence and dormitory staff:

Please post a copy of the memorandum from Gerald A. Quarles, Housing Office, to all Heads of Residence on the subject of room choosing to inform your residents of the irrationality of this plan. We ask your support of the following petition.

We, the undersigned students of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst vehemently oppose the recently adopted revision of the university housing policy. We feel that the policy contradicts the aim of the proposal which implies that random placement of residents will insure an equal opportunity for all concerned housing applicants, when in fact the Housing Task Force which is comprised of merely two Heads of Residence and one student does not adequately represent the on-campus community.

We also oppose the manner in which this policy has been railroaded to approval without an official announcement and without sufficient time for response from those directly affected. We demand that an alternative proposal be drawn up by a group more sensitive to the rights of the on-campus community, i.e. students and dormitory staff.

A small faction of "out-of-touch" committee members have no right to control the lives and the environment of the campus residents. We feel that this Task Force has a moral obligation to comply with the requests of the students regarding the present housing situation.

The residents of Cance House

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Handicapped students committee

To the Editor:

We, as handicapped students, are writing to express our dismay with the incorrect information contained in the article on the expansion of the UMass bus system that was in the Wednesday, April 5 Collegian. We are especially concerned with that part of the article that reads, "Plans are also being considered to greatly improve the lift-equipped van service for handicapped students. A committee chaired by the director of parking and transportation with representatives from Environmental Health and Safety and from the handicapped student population will try to implement the expansion by September, 1979."

This is in fact not the case. At the present time there is no input from handicapped students on such a committee. In fact, handicapped students would not be willing to serve on this committee, given its present direction. Our reluctance to participate stems from the committee's present unwillingness to consider modification of buses, as a means of augmenting the present handicapped van system.

A transportation sub-committee of the newly-formed Handicapped Students Collective is researching the possibility of a fully accessible transportation system here at UMass, that would benefit all students. That is, a fully accessible system would serve not only the needs of the permanently disabled, but would serve the needs of the temporarily disabled and those of senior citizens as well.

Sandy Cohen and four others

Films' misrepresentation

To the Editor:

Steven Bauer may have a right to feel persecuted following last week's needless quarrel over the showing of Inserts, a film whose satirical elements I thought were plainly obvious. However, by characterizing Sam Peckinpah's Straw Dogs as "sadistic" pornography, Bauer commits a similar error of misrepresentation.

Bauer's summary of Straw Dogs' plot is totally inaccurate: the Dustin Hoffman character never becomes a "murderous beast" out to seek vengeance for the rape of his wife [indeed, he is never made aware of the rape]. Instead, he unwittingly finds himself in the middle of a life-and-death struggle against the town hooligans, who have besieged his house and are quite prepared to kill him. The fact that he survives by his intelligence and guile rather than physical superiority hardly recommends this film as a "vicious macho fantasy." Also, to claim that his wife enjoyed being raped is to ignore the frequent flashbacks she suffers later which clearly horrify and sicken her.

If the audience cheers the decapitations and shootings in Straw Dogs, then perhaps they should reexamine their own attitudes about violence. Peckinpah wants his films to involve us and give us something to respond to emotionally. That he succeeds is a tribute to his technique. Certainly, violence can be pornographic [witness the "Dirty Harry" movies,] but as Mr. Bauer has stated in the past, one must assume that an audience is intelligent enough to decide for itself.

Hans Schulz

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo: Onkyo TX4500 55w/ch; EPI90 speakers and Philips TT, call 549-3732, $350 firm. Ask for Atul.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

Pioneer SX-525 receiver, 25 watts per channel, $135 or BO. 546-6868.

4 sale—Panasonic stereo, 8 tr. recorder, turntable, over 50 tapes, headphones, albums included. $225. Call Pat, 549-1326.

AUTO FOR SALE

66 VW bug, reliable, good eng., needs minor work, $150, 323-4362—mornings.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

1975 Vega Hatchback: automatic, rustproof, exc. cond. Only $1595 or BO. 253-3113.

1973 red VW Super Beetle, good cond., $1300. Call 283-5275.

1971 Super Beetle, good condition, hi mileage, motor in good condition, best offer, call 247-9257.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi 256-0677.

71 Audi radials, front wheel drive, ring valve job, 30mpg, disc brakes, 256-0511.

Steal—73 Maverick, PS/AC, no rust, 2 snows, more, exc. cond., $1675 or BO. Scott, 5-2642.

For sale—1971 Duster, reliable slant 6, good shape, call 546-5293.

1971 VW Fastback automatic, radio, very good shape, $925 or BO. After 5, 665-3946.

69 Ply. Fury, gd. cond., many new parts, FM stereo, gd. tires w/ snows, $390. 549-0054.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

Sleight of hand taught by experienced magician, contact Bill, 253-9824, after 5.

FOR RENT

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Tent—8x14 ft. canvas w/ ground cloth, $80, call Paul at 5 & 11 p.m., 253-5061.

Ladie's Frye boots, size 8, barely worn, rust color, sell for $45, call 549-1515.

72 Gibson, $150, call Jeff, 546-5100.

Waterbed—new, still in btx. Warranties valid. Includes 10 yr. warranteed mattress, solid pine frame, heater—thermostat, liner, deck & riser. $185. Call 617-762-9049. Neil.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549 1330.

Raleigh Professional: used one month; all campagnolo. Must sell. Call 549-3732, $450 or BO.

1969 VW again! New starter—runs good, 1-467-3465, $175 firm.

B&W television 19", $65, portable typewriter $30 or BO. Call 253-2174.

Refrigerator 5cu. ft., exc. cond. 546-6675.

Beer cans—all kinds, foreign and domestic. Willing to trade, buy or sell. Call Pete, 546-6438.

S&G Enterprises is back in time for spring with full line of famous name BBall shoes at guaranteed lowest prices. Call 6-9611, Al.

Kenwood 2055 turntable, 6 mths. old, exc. cond., $150 or best offer. Call 253-2782.

Bike/5 spd./$20/v. good/Jun/586-3100/ext. 2596.

TV for sale, GE B&W, good cond. $40 or BO, 549-3530, after 5.

Womens leather coat, size 7, like new, price negotiable. 546-7482.

HELP WANTED

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn 38117.

Want to get involved? Here's your chance! Volunteers needed to assist the Collegian in a market survey and other advertising projects. Contact Linda Vene, downstairs in the Campus Center.

Fashion model needed for spring show. Experience not necessary. Neat appearance a must. Call 6-8089 and leave message.

Counselors: Adirondack Boys' camp; 7 weeks; $450-550; Swimming instructor (WSI); Trip Leader; Riflery Instructor; Driver; Office Manager (typing); 39 Mill Valley Rd., Pittsford, N.Y. 14534.

Summer Camp for boys seeks University students with dedication for its 8 week dorm counselor/instructor positions. Openings are for those with skills in swimming (WSI pref.), riflery, axemanship, tennis, nature conservation and photography. Board, room and laundry with salary of $550 to $850. For application write: Mowglis, School of the Open, East Hebron, N.H. 03232.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Summer Openings — for appt. call: 253-2597.

Travel this summer and make $315/ week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

INSTRUCTION

Statistics—Math Tutoring; Program designed for individual needs; John 253-2036.

Piano Lessons For ambitious beg. or int.; creative, intensive approach; low rates. Classical, pop & theory. Studied at Mnhtn. & Indiana Conservtrs. Gregory Nissen, 546-5545.

LOST

March 18 PPan bus rte Bos—Amh; pntngs and drawings; reward; call Lauren, 256-6218.

Palm tree pin at Bluewall March 30, great sentimental value. Reward, 549-6322.

MOTORCYCLES

1975 TS185 Suzuki, exc. cond., $500. Call 253-7610, after 5.

Kawasaki KZ400 red & chrome, 5250 miles, excellent condition, w/ helmet $940, call 549-0179.

PERSONALS

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Pinocchio is coming.

Red Sox BBall Cards Need many for a friend. Other teams too. 665-3412.

Bryan— Congratulations if you did get it and if not, congratulations when you do!!! GILLIAN

Christian Women; Live in a Christian suite in Cashin. Call Dawn at 546-4133.

SERVICES

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Alterations for your spring wardrobe. Dressmaking by appointment. Call M-F 5-10 p.m. Most Sundays all day, 256-8403.

Experienced writing teacher available for tutoring and editing: essays, term papers, resumes, job application letters. Call 665-4275, keep trying.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Condidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

Typing—$.60/page. Call 549-6655.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Exciting classes in silversmithing, batik, spinning, kiln building, stained glass. Begin April 17 at Leverett Craftsmen. Call 253-9062.

Fast services and sales—Call Valley Typewriter And Business Machines, Co. Licensed technicians. Guaranteed repairs. Lowest prices in the Valley. Free pick-up, delivery, free estimates. 665-3290.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul—$24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

TO SUBLET

Why sit on waiting lists? Sublet our 2 br. apt. in summer & it's yours in Sept. Bus route & walking distance to campus. 549-6152.

Apt. available May 31-Aug. 31 at Puffton with option to rent next yr. 549-1216.

Sublet 3 bdrm Townehouse Apts. Avail. 6/1/78, rent reduced to $250/mo. near laundry, Watroba's, bus stop. Option to renew lease! Call 549-6820.

Ptly furn, 2 bdrm apt, Colonial Vlg. On bus rt, laundry fac., pool. 5/27-8/31. 170/mo, includes util. 256-8687.

Lg 2 bdrm, $220/mo, util incl, avail 6/1, Col Vlg, opt to renew, call eve, 256-6489.

3 bdrm Townehouse, N. Amherst, 6/1-9/31 with lease option, fully equipped, on bus route, next to laundry room, rent negotiable. Call after 5 p.m., 549-6684.

Summer sublet, lg. 3-br. apt. in S. Amherst, $280/mo., neg., 256-6681, after 5:00.

June 1-Aug. 31—2 bedroom apt., 7 minute walk to campus, air conditioned, rent negotiable. Call 549-6340.

1 bdrm apt, Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

1 bdrm apt, beaut. loc., AC, all util. pd. Cats OK, quiet, avail. 6/1, $165/mo. 549-1582.

3 bdrm, DW, AC, pool, tennis, close to UM bus route, $250 mo. Avail 6/1, 549-3665.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt. $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

2 BR, 2 Baths semi-furn., 1 mi. to campus, on bus rt., pool, courts, store nearby; 6/1—8/31 w/ option;call 549-1764.

2 Bedroom; furnished apt; South Meadow; price neg.; for Jun, Jul, Aug; call 545-1919 or 253-7420, Paul.

Beautiful, sunny, spacious apt.; 2 bdrm., pool, balcony overlooking pond. Call 549-2856 for further details.

TRAVEL

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Artist wanted to paint portrait from 8x10 photograph. Please call Gary at 546-9642. Thanks.

Singer/guitarist for wedding June 17. We have compositions. Help us make our day memorable. Please call 665-3166

WANTED TO RENT

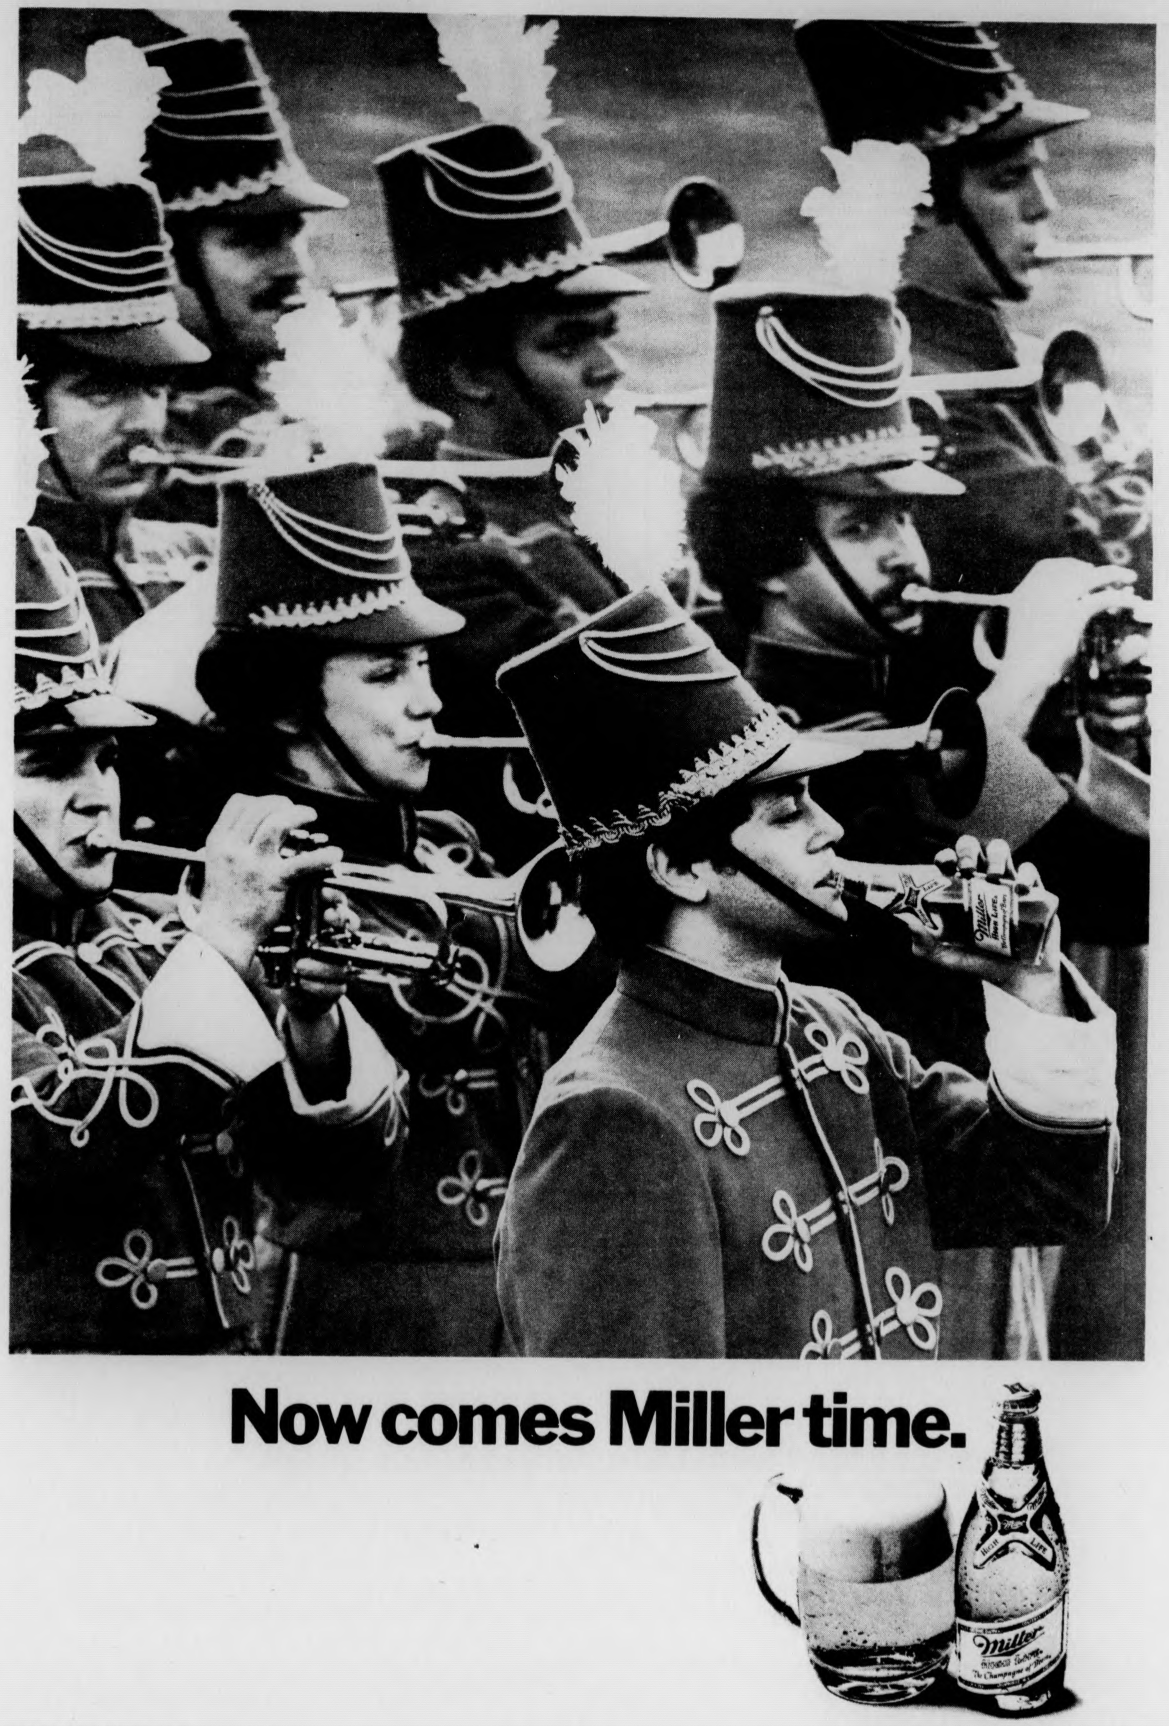
3 students need apt./house in N'hampton, beg. June 1 or Sept. 1. Call 546-1207.

Quiet female student seeks rm. or sm. apt. in Amherst, 6/1 or 9/1. 546-8354, eves.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---



© 1977 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Notices

COALITION FOR ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY EARTH DAY

There was a mistake in yesterday's notice. The Mandatory meeting for all interested in participating is tonight. Last meeting before the celebration. 7:30 p.m. CEQ office SU 306. Call 545-0618.

ABORTION ACTION COALITION MEETING

Legislative action to stop Mass. from cutting off Medicaid funding for abortion. Emergency meeting! Thursday, April 6, 8 p.m. CC 802.

PE BANQUET INVITATIONS

Invitations are in and can be picked up at PE office in NOPE. Limit is one per person and reply card is due by April 21. Seating requests can be made on back of card.

PERSONAL CAR ATTENDANT WORKSHOP

Will be held on April 8, 8:45 a.m. - 5 p.m. Morrill 4-N. Register by April 6, $1 fee, pay at door. Call Paul Applyby 545-0892 or Sandy Cohen 546-9588 for more info.

ORGANIZERS TRAINING SESSIONS

Jerry landsdowne, chairman of the Urban Studies department at Portland State will lead a workshop today on "Leadership and Group Effectiveness," sponsored by SOP. 4 p.m. CC 178. For more info call 545-2415.

PETITIONS

Will be circulated this morning in the Student Union in front of the candy counter to get student support for opposition to the new housing policy.

CAMPUS-WIDE PERFORMANCE

"Rotation and Revolution" — a masked ceremony into the solar system. Asteroids and people especially welcome to participate. April 6th, 12:30 p.m. by Campus Pond. (Raindates: April 7th, 10th, see posters

DISCUSSION AND FILM OF DANGERS OF RADIOACTIVE WASTE

Sponsored by Mass. PIRG Wed. April 5 at 7:30 904 CC.

MEDIA WORKSHOP

Headlines and making news, April 6, Thurs., 7:15 p.m. Porter Lounge, Converse Hall, Amherst College, Mass PIRG Training for Political Action Series.

MIDDLE EASTERN GET TOGETHER

Wed Apr. 5, 7-10 p.m. CC 174-176, Music, Dancing, fun. Everyone bring mezza, drink or middle-eastern sweets. Call Karen 546-8338 Please come.

ACTION PLANNING PRO-ABORTION MEETING

8:00 p.m. CC rm 802, Thurs. nite. Lobbying planning for immediate action on medicaid abortion issue. Call Julie 256-0104 for more info. We need your help.

COLLEGIATE FLYING CLUB

Will meet Wed., April 5, at 7:30 p.m. in CC 804. All invited.

LOST

Puka and turquoise necklace Boyden gym area 3-27-78. Reward. Call 546-8744.

LECTURE

Extrafloral nectries: Bait for scarecrows (ants) by Dr. Barbara Bethley, Dept. of Ecology and Evolution, Stoney Brook. To be presented Thurs. April 6 at 4 p.m. in Fernald Hall Conference Room. Refreshments at 3:30 p.m.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB

Meets tomorrow night in CC 178 at 8:00 p.m. Lesson sign up and Gen. info. Members: please bring notarized waiver forms, if you plan to take a lesson. All welcome.

Undergraduate Student Government Association will reconvene

Thursday night

April 6 7:00 p.m.

in Thompson 104

"Some people think Army Nursing is the rifle range and pulling K.P. It's really amazing how little they know."

—Lieutenant Mary Ann Hepner

"Though I'm an Army Nurse, I can also pursue outside interests like dress-designing and sailing.

"One of the pluses of Army Nursing is the nature of the nurse/patient relationship. I don't treat patients like numbers. I follow their progress. I visit them after the acute part of their illness is over. They are so appreciative. It's really part of a nurse's job to help the patient through an illness.

"To me, it's an important job . . . My family is very proud of me. I'm the first person in the family to join the military.

"The Army is a place of self-discovery. It's a total learning experience."

If you'd like to join Mary Ann Hepner in the Army Nurse Corps, here are a few facts you should know. Army Nursing is open to both men and women, under the age 33, with BSN degrees. Every Army Nurse is a commissioned officer.

You are not required to go through the Army's standard basic training: instead you attend a basic orientation course. Your initial tour is three years—just enough to try the job on for size.

For more information about opportunities for Registered Nurses in the Army Nurse Corps, you may write: Army Nurse Opportunities, Northeast Region, U.S. Army Recruiting Command, Fort George G. Meade, MD 20755. Or, you may telephone the nearest Army Nurse Opportunities office. Call collect to . . .

In Boston: 617-542-6000, Ext. 122
In New York: 212-986-7613
In Pittsburgh: 412-644-5881
In Philadelphia: 215-597-9588
In Baltimore-Washington, D.C.: 301-677-5001

Ask for information about . . .

The Army Nurse Corps

DC menu

Today — LUNCH: Cold Cut Deli, Macaroni and Cheese. Basics: Mac. and Cheese, Bulgar and Bean Salad. DINNER: Baked Chicken, Reuben Sandwich. Basics: Baked Chicken, Potato Mushroom Delight.

Tomorrow — LUNCH: Fishburgers and Turkey Divan. Basics: Lentil Spinach Stew, Turkey Divan. DINNER: Baked Fish, Sirloin Steak. Basics: Baked Fish, Fiesta Rice and Cheese.

ANNUAL RED TAG SALE OF OFFICE PRODUCTS

2-DRAWER FULL SUSPENSION FILE
Letter size drawers with nylon rollers. All steel construction. 8 decorator colors — white, yellow, orange, blue, green, tan, walnut, black. Our Reg. Price $45.00
SALE $39.90

CHECK THIS VALUE!

SCRIPTO BALLPOINT PENS
Medium point. Black, Blue, or Red ink. Reg. 3.00 Dozen
50% OFF SALE 1.50 Dozen

RING BINDERS
[illegible]
NOW JUST 1.99

WHITE LIQUID PAPER
Fast drying typing correction fluid
Reg. $1.10 ea.
Price cut 28% 79¢

SAVE 30%
BOND PAPERS
[illegible]
JUST 2.79 Ream

SCOTCH MAGIC TAPE
1296 PER ROLL
ONLY 1.39 Roll
NOW 1.09 Roll

ULTRA-FINE FLAIR PENS
Metal supported porous point, black, blue, red, green. Reg. 69¢ ea.
SALE PRICE 59¢

STACKABLE PLASTIC LETTER TRAYS
Stack to any height, snap together without posts. Choice of 10 colors. Reg. 2.49 Save 20%
JUST 1.99 Each

SAVE OVER 15% ON RUBBER BANDS
Quarter-pound boxes in choice of sizes. Reg. 1.05
Only 89¢ Per Box

FILE FOLDERS
Heavy 11 pt. manila stock 1/3, 1/5 or straight cut
LETTER SIZE $4.99 BOX OF 100
LEGAL SIZE $6.88 BOX OF 100

SUPER SHARP, SUPER LIGHT SHEARS
7" shears Reg. 4.98
Just 3.89

HIGH QUALITY WOOD PENCILS — CUT 45%
No. 2 or medium degree Reg. 1.45 Dozen
Only 79¢ Dozen

THREE-HOLE PAPER PUNCH
Spaced for 3-hole punching of 8½ x 11 sheets. Black finish metal. Reg. $6.25
Only $4.99

SAVE UP TO 1/3 OFF ON HARDBOARD CLIPBOARDS
Letter size Reg. 1.35
Just 89¢

EXECUTIVE KO-REC-TYPE
Typewriter opaquing film. Flakeproof. One package corrects 8,500 errors. Reg. $3.00 Save 20% $2.39 Pkg.

"PENDAFLEX" HANGING FOLDERS
Letter size 1/3 cut Reg. 9.00
Sale 7.25 Box of 25

INDEX CARDS
Plain or Ruled
3 x 5 32¢ PER 100
4 x 6 53¢ PER 100
5 x 8 84¢ PER 100

5-POCKET STEEL CORRESPONDENCE FILE
Keeps books, catalogs, papers in order. Black or Desert Tan. Reg. 10.50
Reduced to 9.49

The Paper Clip Ltd.
25 Pleasant St., Amherst, Ma. 01002
Open Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30

DOONESBURY

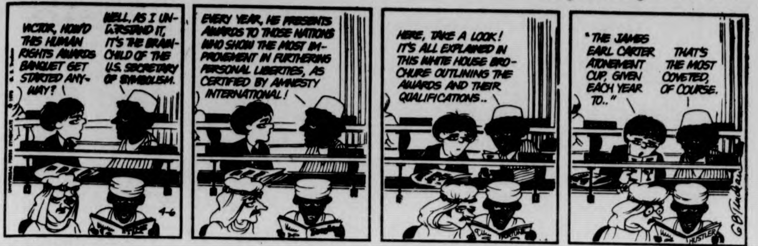
by Garry Trudeau



VICTOR, HOW'D THIS HUMAN RIGHTS AWARDS BANQUET GET STARTED ANYWAY?
WELL, AS I UNDERSTAND IT, IT'S THE BRAINCHILD OF THE U.S. SECRETARY OF SYMBOLISM.
EVERY YEAR, HE PRESENTS AWARDS TO THOSE NATIONS WHO SHOW THE MOST IMPROVEMENT IN FURTHERING PERSONAL LIBERTIES, AS CERTIFIED BY AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL!
HERE, TAKE A LOOK! IT'S ALL EXPLAINED IN THIS WHITE HOUSE BROCHURE OUTLINING THE AWARDS AND THEIR QUALIFICATIONS..
"THE JAMES EARL CARTER ATONEMENT CUP, GIVEN EACH YEAR TO.."
THAT'S THE MOST COVETED, OF COURSE.
HUSTLER
4-6
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS

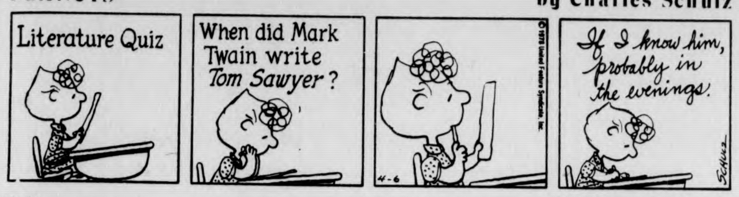
by Charles Schulz



Literature Quiz
When did Mark Twain write Tom Sawyer?
If I know him, probably in the evenings.
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
4-6
SCHULZ

B.C.

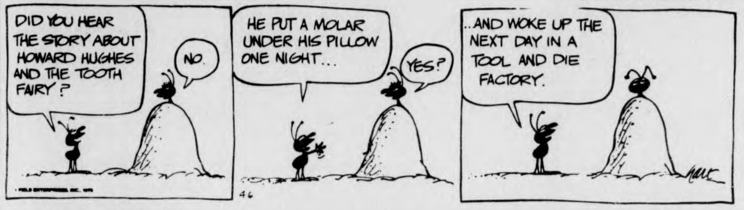
by Johnny Hart



DID YOU HEAR THE STORY ABOUT HOWARD HUGHES AND THE TOOTH FAIRY?
NO.
HE PUT A MOLAR UNDER HIS PILLOW ONE NIGHT...
YES?
..AND WOKE UP THE NEXT DAY IN A TOOL AND DIE FACTORY.
46
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

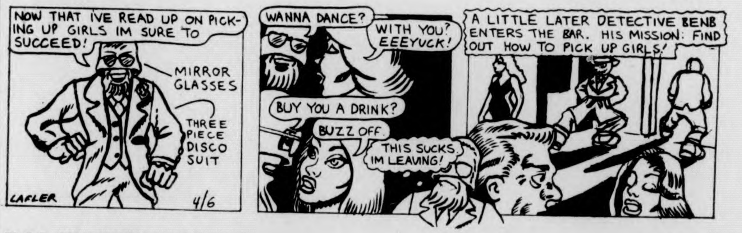
by Steve Lafler



NOW THAT I'VE READ UP ON PICKING UP GIRLS I'M SURE TO SUCCEED!
MIRROR GLASSES
THREE PIECE DISCO SUIT
LAFLER
4/6
WANNA DANCE?
WITH YOU? EEEYUCK!
BUY YOU A DRINK?
BUZZ OFF.
THIS SUCKS. I'M LEAVING!
A LITTLE LATER DETECTIVE BENB ENTERS THE BAR. HIS MISSION: FIND OUT HOW TO PICK UP GIRLS!

THE WANDERER

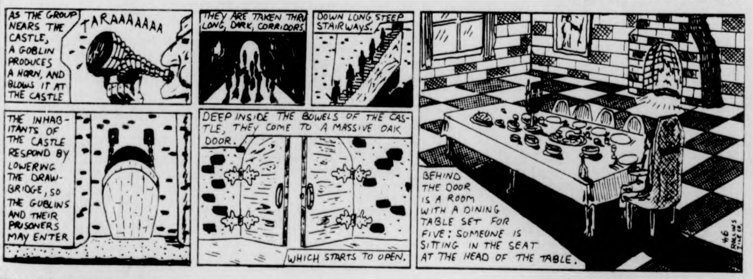
by Mark Rollins



AS THE GROUP NEARS THE CASTLE, A GOBLIN PRODUCES A HORN, AND BLOWS IT AT THE CASTLE
TARAAAAAAA
THEY ARE TAKEN THRU LONG, DARK, CORRIDORS.
DOWN LONG STEEP STAIRWAYS.
THE INHABITANTS OF THE CASTLE RESPOND BY LOWERING THE DRAWBRIDGE, SO THE GOBLINS AND THEIR PRISONERS MAY ENTER DEEP INSIDE THE BOWELS OF THE CASTLE, THEY COME TO A MASSIVE OAK DOOR.
WHICH STARTS TO OPEN.
BEHIND THE DOOR IS A ROOM WITH A DINING TABLE SET FOR FIVE; SOMEONE IS SITTING IN THE SEAT AT THE HEAD OF THE TABLE.
46

WALLY DORF

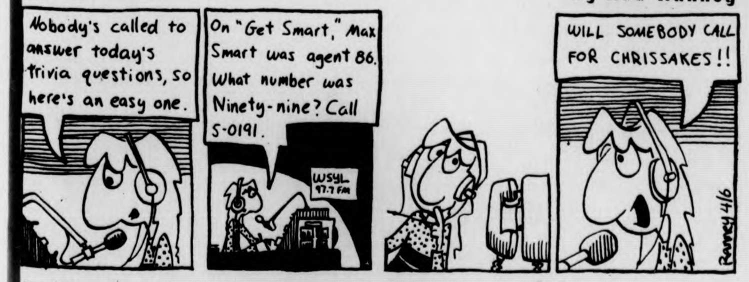
by Rob Ranney



Nobody's called to answer today's trivia questions, so here's an easy one.
On "Get Smart," Max Smart was agent 86. What number was Ninety-nine? Call 5-0191.
WSYL 97.7 FM
WILL SOMEBODY CALL FOR CHRISSAKES!!
Ranney 4/6

BACK AGAIN

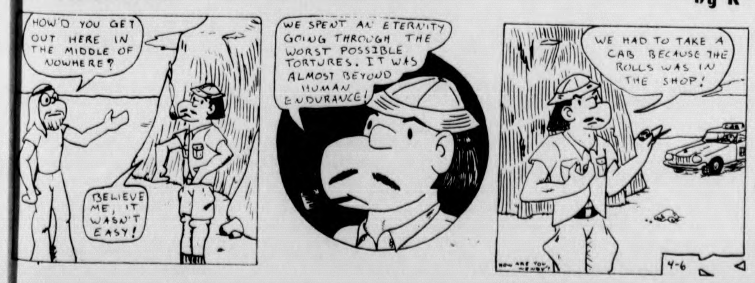
by K



HOW'D YOU GET OUT HERE IN THE MIDDLE OF NOWHERE?
BELIEVE ME, IT WASN'T EASY!
WE SPENT AN ETERNITY GOING THROUGH THE WORST POSSIBLE TORTURES. IT WAS ALMOST BEYOND HUMAN ENDURANCE!
WE HAD TO TAKE A CAB BECAUSE THE ROLLS WAS IN THE SHOP!
4-6

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, APRIL 6

Born today, you are overly generous, and must be on guard against giving so much time to others that there is not enough for yourself. Unless you are careful, you could sacrifice success and happiness doing for others what you should be doing for yourself. Learn to regulate your generosity, and to give your family top priority.

Somewhat disorganized, you need a partner to keep the books straight. You tend to exceed your budget, and also to bite off more than you can chew. In both cases, you put yourself in a no-win position that will cause those who depend upon you to suffer.

Neither jealous nor possessive, you do not impose frustrating restrictive behavior on yourself or anyone else. You are not inclined to show your feelings, even to those who may return your affection. Your focus is generally on things outside yourself; your feelings may often go unnoticed.

Also born on this date: Janet Lynn, Olympic figure skater; Merle Haggard, songwriter.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Hold your present position. If you change your mind, you jeopardize your argument.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Show superiors your ability to get along with people. Don't enter an office squabble.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Be cautious in business dealings. Co-workers may try to keep you from advancement.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Early news affects the coming weekend. Try not to overreact to adverse criticism.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Profits may not be great, but keep to present methods. Changes are coming.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Dividends accrue hourly if you handle difficult business with a smile. Children need advice.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — If you wish to use an opportunity for travel today, tell others your whereabouts.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — An unexpected call for help brings out your best late today. Trust your instinct.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Grant another a favor, but don't expect one in return. Today is for altruism.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — First-hand information is necessary for you to fulfill expectations. Go to the source.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Go more than half way to help another succeed. Rewards accrue in the near future.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — A romantic morning must give way to an afternoon of work. Profits come later today.

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Rancid
5 Thick piece
9 "The Sound of -----"
14 Crystalline substance
15 Assistant
16 Salted away: 2 words
17 Narcotic herb
19 Fall flower
20 Islamic evil spirit
21 Pungent flavor
23 Compass point
24 Canonized
27 Grain for brewing
29 Money: Slang
31 Machine shop tools
35 A "T" of "TNT"
37 Caught with a lasso
39 Farm sound
40 Tramp
42 Handrail support
44 Different
45 Attorney -----
47 The ---- -- the green
49 Man's nickname
50 Sway
52 Sitting room
54 Cover a room surface
56 Perform again
59 Myth
62 Understood
64 Practical
65 Similar 67 Astonishes
70 Consume greedily
71 Chemical compound
72 Principal part
73 Clothe
74 Risque
75 Sea eagles

DOWN

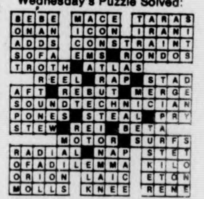
1 Yokels
2 N. Antilles island
3 Trifling
4 Baseballer Al ------
5 Tool
6 Prevaricate
7 Asian port
8 Darken
9 "Down-Under" bird
10 Make unstable
11 Ramachandra's wife
12 Chills
13 Sure thing: Slang
18 Organic compound
22 Chum
25 English town
26 Deceitful one
28 Chem. class
30 Control exclusively
32 Rowdy one
33 Moderate
34 Meat-vegetable dish
35 The former one
36 Set system
38 Shut out
41 Bakery items
43 Knowledge
46 Diminutive
48 ----- de-lis
51 Fit out
53 Per schedule: 2 words
55 Unsuccessful runner
57 ----- as a whistle
58 Tries out
59 Medit. island: Abbr.
60 Winglike
61 Bestow
63 Albacore
66 Entity
68 Sinbad's bird
69 Kind of wood

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved:



BEBE MACE TARAS
ONAN ICON IRANI
ADDS CONSTRAINT
SOFA EMS RONDOS
TROTH ATLAS
REEL RAP STAD
AFT REBUT MERGE
SOUNDTECHNICIAN
PONES STEAL PRY
STEW REI BETA MOTOR SURFS
RADIAL NAP STET
OFADILEMMA KILO
ORION LAIC ETON
MOLLS KNEE RENE

Pro baseball predictions

Collegian sportswriters Steve Buckley, Rich Eckel, Judy Van Handle and Steve Zack size up the season.

AL East

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian

BUCKLEY

1. Boston — No more nine game losing streaks.
2. New York — A long, hot summer in Jacksonian America.
3. Detroit — My prediction: Stardom for Lou Whitaker.
4. Cleveland — Pawtucket Indians making a fair showing.
5. Baltimore — Not even with Earl Weaver.
6. Milwaukee — Bando over the hill. Robin Yount the only really good performer. Hisle grossly overrated.
7. Toronto — I thought for sure that they would trade for Fergie Jenkins, but even if they did...

ECKEL

1. New York — As the commercial says, "I love New York... I Love New York..." Especially Mr. Gossage.
2. Boston — It's going to be close but BoSox fall short. One sobering thought: What if Jim Rice had 20-20 vision.
3. Detroit — Mark Fidrych and the Detroit Shakedown will shuffle to the top of the division.
4. Baltimore — The Duke of Earl may have his weakest pitching staff in Oriole memory.
5. Cleveland — They may not win more games but they'll make more money selling hot dogs with Rick Wise pttching his patented four-hour game.
6. Milwaukee — This team is not going to make their city famous.
7. Toronto — Neither will this one.

VAN HANDLE

1. Boston — May still be a starter shy, even with Eckersley, but pitching is vastly improved.
2. New York — Jack Givens was one golden goose. Rich Gossage will be another. But Venus DeMilo outfield and sore arms hurt.
3. Detroit — The Rose will bloom and the Bird will sing.
4. Baltimore — Don't the Red Sox wish they had Mike Flanagan?
5. Milwaukee — Like the outfield, not the pitching.
6. Cleveland — The Cleveland Red Sox? The Boston Indians?
7. Toronto — At least it's English-speaking Canada.

ZACK

1. Boston — hard to believe that the Sox actually traded for a pitcher under thirty years old.
2. New York — Careful, this team could self-destruct in sixty seconds.
3. Baltimore — Only Earl Weaver keeps this team from total failure.
4. Cleveland — Young and learning.
5. Milwaukee — Wonder which will go flat first, Larry Hisle or the city's beer supply.
6. Detroit — A "wingless" bird.
7. Toronto — Winless birds.

AL West

BUCKLEY

1. Texas — Locker room strife, but that never stopped A's and Yanks.
2. Kansas City — That picture of Clint Hurdle on the cover of Sports Illustrated was the kiss of death.
3. California — Angels rue the day they ever signed Don Baylor.
4. Minnesota — Hisle and Bostock are gone. Are Carew and Wyeneger right behind them?
5. Chicago — Any team that signs Ron Blomberg for that kind of money deserves a second division finish.
6. Seattle — The fact that they are in the same division with Oakland is all that keeps this team out of the cellar.
7. Oakland — This entire situation is very disheartening. Charley Finley used to say that everything he did was for the good of baseball. He can't even say that any more.

ECKEL

1. Texas — Brad Corbett is an enterprising sort and has finally bought himself a pennant.
2. Kansas City — Freddie Patek may be crying for a long time after this season.
3. California — Don Aase helps, but this is an organization that seems destined to lose.
4. Chicago — I had great respect for Bill Veeck until he signed Ron Bloomberg for $600,000.
5. Oakland — The Amherst A's ...
6. Minnesota — Calvin Griffith is not a realist. Empty your pockets, man, this area deserves more.
7. Seattle — Why Jim Burton in the ninth inning Darrell?

VAN HANDLE

1. Kansas City — The reports of its death have been highly exaggerated.
2. Texas — Any team that wants Fergie Jenkins can't be that good.
3. California — Exotic (Rarce Mullininks) and hard-to-figure (Don Baylor) bunch, but have ability to take it all.
4. Chicago — Love those uniforms.
5. Minnesota — What hath Calvin wrought?
6. Oakland — About what Charlie O. has.
7. Seattle — Washed out to sea.

ZACK

1. California — I also picked Duke to beat Kentucky.
2. Texas — Fergie Jenkins is not a factor.
3. Kansas City — Failure in the big ones has taken its toll.
4. Minnesota — The best of the rest.
5. Chicago — Brought seventy-one players to camp and seventy of them outplayed Ron Blomberg.
6. Seattle — Darrell Johnson.
7. Oakland — Misery loves company, unless it's Charlie O.

NL East

BUCKLEY

1. Philadelphia — Strong team in a weak division.
2. Pittsburgh — For the first time in modern history, Pirates strong forte is pitching. However, now they are one or two bats shy.
3. St. Louis — Good hitting but weak in overall defense. Don't you think that Lou Brock is one on the greatest ballplayers of our generation?
4. Montreal — Someday, Dick Williams will be back on top. Someday.
5. Chicago — No lights, but air conditioning comes to Wrigley Field. Introducing the Dave Kingman fan...
6. New York — You won't confuse these pinstripes with the ones over in the Bronx.

ECKEL

1. Philadelphia — This would be a runaway if Danny Ozark were replaced.
2. Pittsburgh — John Candeleria and pray for rain....
3. St. Louis — Lou Brock is the western version of John Havlicek.
4. Chicago — Would like to see them win and see what happens to the night time World Series game.
5. Montreal — Should Dick Williams speak French or English?
6. New York — Come home Tom Seaver, come home...

VAN HANDLE

1. Philadelphia — You gotta love Tug McGraw.
2. Pittsburgh — Catching and bullpen weak.
3. Montreal — Like the outfield and free agent finds.
4. St. Louis — No power and outfield a question mark.
5. Chicago — Kong Kingman is a defensive klutz. Remember, no DH here.
6. New York — Running on Empty.

ZACK

1. Pittsburgh — Willie Stargell's last stand.
2. Philadelphia — Something prevents this team from winning it all — it's called choking.
3. Montreal — Great young outfield, good old infield, decent pitching; a threat in the near future.
4. Chicago — Kingman just might break Roger Maris' home run mark.
5. New York — Despite Joe Torre, win no more.
6. St. Louis — As bad as the 1967 team was good.

NL West

BUCKLEY

1. Cincinnati — Tom Seaver is my hero. This team is awesome.
2. Los Angeles — I'm still mad at them for not beating the Yankees.
3. Houston — Best pitching prospects in majors, but prospects do not a pennent make. Keep an eye on this team, though.
4. San Francisco — Bay Area a bad place to be for baseball fans this summer.
5. San Diego — Over 25 billion bored.
6. Atlanta — Penny pinching Ted Turner will have John Diew playing second base by all-star break.

ECKEL

1. Cincinnati — Mr. Seaver is capable of anything with this lineup behind him.
2. Los Angeles — They'll draw 3 million this year if the stadium isn't washed away.
3. Houston — This is the Detroit of the National league. The team of the 80's.
4. San Diego — Gone Tenace would have trouble beating Bob Montgomery out as a Red Sox backup catcher.
5. San Francisco — A sentimental favorite...Remember Juan Marichal, Willie Mays, Willie McCovey....
6. Atlanta — Ted Turner deserves nothing better.

VAN HANDLE

1. Los Angeles — Pitching first-class for a team which has enough hitting.
2. Cincinnati — On the other hand, only Tom Seaver is top-rate. Ask '77 Red Sox about hitting carrying a team.
3. Houston — A nice little ballclub.
4. San Diego — Give the Red Sox one of your lefties, huh?
5. San Francisco — Vida will be very Blue.
6. Atlanta — Oh dear. Must we?

ZACK

1. San Diego — This team is not just a bunch of Kroc.
2. Cincinnati — Slowly descending.
3. San Francisco — This team is very Blue, and loving it!
4. Los Angeles — Down into Chavez Ravine.
5. Houston — With Cabell at shortstop, fifth place.
6. Atlanta — Ted Turner's bargain basement.

Sox head north with win but without Willoughby

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. [UPI] — The Boston Red Sox yesterday sold veteran relief pitcher Jim Willoughby to the Chicago White Sox for an undisclosed amount of cash.

The transaction got Boston down to the 25-man limit before its season opens April 7 in Chicago. Willoughby made six spring training appearances, pitching nine innings, allowing 14 hits and six earned runs.

Willoughby was 6-2 last season with two saves, despite missing more than two months with a broken leg. Willoughby, 29, had a 14-16 record with 20 saves and a 3.55 ERA in three seasons for Boston.

To make room on their roster for Willoughby, the Sox named right-handed pitcher Don Kirkwood as a "player designated for assignment." The Sox have 10 days to sell or trade the 28-year-old Kirkwood. If they do neither, they must release him and pay his full salary.

Meanwhile, Jim Rice drove in eight runs with a pair of homers, a single and a sacrifice fly and Fred Lynn added a two-run homer yesterday to power the Red Sox to a 16-1 pasting of the University of Florida.

Rice and Lynn cracked two-run homers off Kerry Kellogg in the fourth inning and Boston scored three more times in the fifth on an RBI single by Jack Brohamer, a fielder's choice and Rice's sacrifice fly.

Rice socked a three-run homer off Craig Pippin in the seventh and singled in two more runs during a six-run, eighth inning uprising.

Blue debut

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. [UPI] — Vida Blue, making his first appearance for the San Francisco Giants, pitched three scoreless innings yesterday but the Chicago Cubs went on to beat Bob Knepper and the Giants, 4-0 in their final Cactus League exhibition game.

Blue surrendered only one single, struck out two and walked two, saying afterwards, "I was sort of apprehensive about this appearance."

The Cubs got five-hit shutout pitching from starter Dennis Lamp and relievers Willie Hernandez and Manny Seoane, the latter two working one inning each. The Cubs scored all their runs on four fourth-inning singles and a pair of walks off loser Knepper.

Valley typing

VALLEY TYPING OFFERS HIGH QUALITY COPIES ON PITNEY BOWES PBC FOR RESUMES, PAPERS, THESES

Resume copying
On colored paper—8 cents
On white bond—7 cents

Thesis copying
First five copies—6 cents
Over five—4 cents

10% discount on copying for theses typed by us

256-6736
M-F 10-6, Sat 10-2

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

A VODKA
&
GIN QUARTS
SPECIAL

ICE COLD
KEG BEER
$21.00
And Up

SPECIALS
Liebfraumilch
Fifths and Magnums
Tuborg
12 oz. cans and bottles

In-door Savings too good to be advertised. Come see for yourself!
- UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
- NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
- AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS
In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

Sports calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Baseball 2 Harvard 3
Men's lacrosse 15 UConn 6

TODAY
Men's golf vs. Yale-Amherst at Yale 1:00 p.m.
Women's lacrosse at BU 6:00 p.m.

TOMORROW
Baseball at AIC 3:00 p.m.
Men's tennis at Tufts 3:00 p.m.
Women's golf vs. Mt. Holyoke at Hickory ridge 1:00 p.m.

Men's golf opens season against Yale & Amherst

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass Mens golf team will be hoping for some nice, warm weather this afternoon as it opens the Spring season with a triangular match against Yale and Amherst College at the always tough Yale C.C. down in New Haven.

For the Minutemen, the match will be the first of four triangulars, which coach Ed Vlach plans to use to experiment with his lineups, with the hope of coming up with the best five players for the Salem State, Mass. State and New England tournaments, coming up later in the Spring.

According to Vlach, most of the players on the team have played very little golf thus far this spring and will no doubt be rusty at the Yale match.

Vlach said he planned to go with a lineup of captain Jim McDermott, Chuck Dempsey, Jeff Orr, John Lien, Vic Lahtein, Bill Campbell and Mark Duggan.

The match will be an 18 hole contest, with the best five of seven scores counting.

Vlach said he drew his lineup almost entirely from performances from last fall, when McDermott, as co-captain, was the teams best consistent low scorer, and Orr, Lien, Lahtein and Campbell, although erratic at times, turned in low rounds that helped win tournaments.

Dempsey, although he did not play last fall, is a veteran from seasons past that Vlach is hoping can come through with some low numbers and help fill the void left by Flynt Lincoln, who transferred to the University of Florida.

Yale and Amherst College, although not particularly strong teams, will have an advantage over the Minutemen going into the match. Both teams spent Spring vacation down south, and got some valuable warm weather practice that most of Minutemen have not had.

Vlach said he felt the warm weather practice would be a real advantage on a course like Yale, a long, tight, well trapped layout with tough greens and a lot of out-of-bounds. The course is a tough one to score on, especially this early in the year.

Stickwomen to face BU

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's lacrosse team makes its spring debut tonight at 6 p.m. on Boston University's home turf.

B.U. is the first of an eleven game schedule for Frank Garahan's squad. The JVs under the tutelage of Mary Murray face Northeastern on the 13th.

Many of Garahan's troops are familiar to UMie field hockey fans. Veteran Judy Kennedy turned in her stick this fall for a cross. At Center Kennedy provided the backbone for the team last season.

On the defense will the Gayle Hutchinson, a defensive standout in field hockey, and an essential member of the national qualify stickers, Kelly Salls. Joining them will be Olivia Lovelace.

Grace Martinelli, a starter since her freshman year, and a scrappy Lisa Methfessel will fill the defense wings.

Cari Nickerson, the third leading scorer in 1977, is slated to start at attack wing. Other starters on attack are last years fourth leading scorer Julie Hall, Allison Toney, Kathy Gipps and first year player Sue Kibling.

In goal will be Robin Jennings. Jennings is making her varsity debut this evening.

Other stickers prepared for action are Joan Bulman and Laura O'Neil on defense.

The Minutewomen's mentor is confident of a win, but realizes other factors may affect the outcome. Foreign to the Minutewomen will be the Terriers' astro turf and playing under the lights at Nickerson field. As always, opening game gitters can hamper performances. In last year's opener the Minutewomen tied Northeastern, a less potent team. However, UMass finished with a successful 10-2-1 record. The twelve are potentially one of top New England squads this season.

Oakland stays

SEATTLE [UPI] — American League President Lee MacPhail said yesterday the latest action by the Oakland Coliseum board of directors means there is no chance to move the Oakland A's to Denver this year if the board sticks to its decision.

While MacPhail was flying from Denver to Seattle for Wednesday night's Major League baseball opener, the Oakland Coliseum board decided to terminate any further negotiations concerning the San Francisco Giants playing half their home games at Oakland.

"If what they're saying is a final position, it obviously keeps us from doing anything in the 1978 season," MacPhail said shortly after arriving in Seattle.

The American League president said he would want to study the Oakland Board decision before making any further comment.

After two days at Denver, MacPhail said before departing he thought it would be possible for the A's to be transferred to Denver before the end of the season.

Sports notices

TENNIS — Tryouts are being held for women's varsity tennis. Anyone interested should show up at NOPE courts between 4 - 5:30 p.m.

SCHEDULE CHANGES — The following facilities will be closed: Boyden pool, April 8 and 9; NOPE pool, April 20 at 7 p.m.; Boyden gym, April 15; NOPE gym, April 8.

Chi Omega invites
All University Women to open rush parties

April 8 Saturday- Cookout 12-1:30
April 10 Monday-The dating game 7-8p.m.
April 12 Wednesday-haircutting demo 7-8 p.m.
April 26 Thursday- Sundae party 7:30-8:30 p.m.

Located in Fraternity/ Sorority Park
Please RSVP by 3p.m. the day of the party
Rides will be provided
For rides and more info call
545-0162 545-2092
Hope to see you there!

☆☆☆ SPECIALS!! ☆☆☆

PRELL CONC. TRIAL SIZE 75 OZ. $.15
SPECIAL TRIAL OFFER 1978 Liquid Prell... At the 1958 Price
LIQUID PRELL 3.5 OZ. $1.02/.49
CREST 5 OZ. $1.42/.79
SAFEGUARD SOAP $.25
CHLORTRIMETON DECONGESTANT $1.98
SUMMERS EVE TWIN $1.20/.99 SINGLE $.65/.49
L'OREAL HAIR FIXER TRIAL SIZE .49/.35
TINACTIN CREAM $3.90/3.50
Now approved for the Soflens* Bausch & Lomb (polymacon)
NO MORE MIXING FOR SOFT LENS WEARERS!
Save on the economical new 8 ounce bottle of BoilnSoak. A PREMIXED sterile saline solution for rinsing, heat disinfection and storage of soft contact lenses
BOILN SOAK 6 OZ. $2.10/1.69
Super shine, super body, super fresh-smelling hair.
FABERGE ORGANIC SHAMPOO CONDITIONERS $2.25/1.89

COUPONS— CUT OUT AND RETURN FOR DISCOUNT
TAMPAX ANY SIZE 40's $.25
SUDAFED SYRUP OR TABLETS $.25
Fast! Sore Throat Relief
CHLORASEPTIC LIQUID OR LOZENGES $.20

COLLEGE DRUG STORE
4 MAIN ST. 253 - 2523 AMHERST

ONE STOP SHOPPING
EXCLUSIVELY FOR CAMPERS AND BACKPACKERS

Store Hours 9-5:30 p.m. Weekdays 9 to 5 p.m. Saturday
April thru July: Thursday & Friday nights 'till 9
(413) 584-4895

ANNUAL SPRING SALE
& EARLY BUY

STARTS SATURDAY, APRIL 1st
Continues thru Sat. April 8th

- Super Sale on 1977 Tent Styles
- Early Buy on 1978 Tent Styles, Trailer Awnings and Dining Flys
- Selected Items Throughout the Store at Reduced or Special Prices

DON GLEASON'S CAMPERS SUPPLY offers one of the largest selections of camping and backpacking equipment available in Western New England. You'll find everything you need to make your camping more enjoyable, all under one roof, including a large display of set-up tents for your inspection. Visit us now.
Free 96 page catalog with copy of this ad.

Don Gleason's

CAMPUS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET, NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
FROM AMHERST TAKE RT. 9 TO NORTHAMPTON AT CENTER OF TOWN (WHERE LIGHTS ARE) TAKE A LEFT PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH AND A LEFT OF RT. 5

SHOP EARLY FOR BEST SELECTION, QUANTITIES ARE LIMITED
Master Charge, Visa, Bankamericard accepted

Gorillas taste a 'Sweet' victory

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Conn. — Highlighted by 'the Brooks Sweet show," the defensive play of Roger Coe, Rich Donovan, Pete Klement, and Tom Keenan, and the return to their hard hitting style of play, Garber's Gorillas dismantled UConn, 15-6.

With both the Minutmen and the Huskies engaged in a knock-down, drag-out battle, Sweet quickly, quietly, and effectively wheeled and dealed his way to seven goals to pace the offensive attack.

At the outset of the matchup, you'd have thought neither Sweet nor any of his teammates would get to touch the ball, much less get an opportunity to score a goal. While Sweet, David Martin, and Pit Martin witnessed the 'action' (or lack of it) from midfield UConn unveiled its lacrosse version of North Carolina's four-corner offense (stall-ball). And they exhibited it in extraordinarily boring fashion.

For almost a full three minutes they passed and passed and passed the ball without hardly looking in the direction of the UMass goal. Just pass, pass, pass. Catch a couple zzzzzzzzz from the sidelines.

The general idea behind the stall was to (1) bore UMass (2) bore the fans — all twenty of them (3) both of the above. Actually, the undermanned Huskies were trying to avoid being blown out by UMass in the first quarter, and hopefully stay in the game longer. And it worked, somewhat.

It worked until UMass took over both the game, and the lead.

UConn starting goalie Pete Schwartz had no idea the shootout he was in for in trying to hold down the Huskie fort.

The shootout began with Ed Murray's crossbar shot which unfortunately didn't connect with the threads. The trio of Murray, Norm Smith and Pitt Martin got together for a scoring bid with Scwartz making the save on a low drive.

UMass midfielder Ed Murray (dark shirt) fires a shot at UConn goalie Pete Schwartz. Pit Martin (31) is no doubt wishing the shot good luck. (Staff photo, John LeJeune)

Sweet cut across the front of the UConn crease in what is becoming a trademark move of his, and swept a low shot past Schwartz. Ahh, but look out; though eight minutes had gone by, in came the 'Stall squad' again. However, it was ineffective against the close checking, and bruising hits. It was only a matter of time.

Mike Lewis, who played a super game, handed off to Pit Martin, who from 20 yards fired the ball into the top webbing, nudging UMass to a 2-0 lead.

Smith passed the ball over the UConn goal to Sweet, breaking toward the net, who connected on his second of the night. To prove the play was no fluke, the same pair teamed up again moments later to do it again. UMass was up 4-0 after one quarter.

In the second period, Schwartz made two clutch saves. He first held off Brooks from right in front. He duplicated his performance by shutting the door on a Smith shot (excellent play from UMass goalie 'Duck' Goldstein, who moved the ball up field, to Murray at halffield-pass to his right to a streaking Pit Martin, off to Smith for the shot).

Goldstein sparkled in keeping UConn's Jim Albert, who exhibited some fancy footwork, from putting the host squad on the board.

Sweet connected on an over-the-shoulder shot, for a 5-zip lead. Next sequence: Chris Corin (behind UC net) to 'Pit' (out front) to Sweet (alone at the right post); you guessed it — goal. 6-zip.

The eventual game winner came when Smith's blazer hit the post and seconds later, the man of the hour, Sweet, rolled it past the far post, 7-zip. At the half it was UMass 8 (Murray, after leaving UC defender in his tracks, walked in alone) UConn 0.

As they had in the first half, the defense held off UConn reasonably well (UConn didn't have too many first half scoring bids — being a man down most of the time didn't help their efforts any).

Batsmen bedeviled by Crimson rally, 3-2

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

CAMBRIDGE — It dissolved as suddenly as sugar poured into coffee or a sand castle hit by onrushing waves.

The UMass baseball team saw a two-run lead slip through its fingers yesterday as Harvard came from behind to defeat the Minutemen, 3-2, here at Soldiers' Field.

Actually, the damage came quickly, suddenly, and without warning. Behind a superlative pitching performance by Tom Nigro, UMass entered the bottom of the sixth inning leading the Crimson, 2-0.

Nigro had allowed only one hit and two walks in five innings of work, and appeared to be in complete control of the proceedings. But then it happened.

Harvard's Charlie Santos-Bush led off the inning with a double to center field, and then advanced to third on a single to center by Mike Stenhouse.

Nigro quickly got behind Mark Bingham and then threw a high fastball. The cleanup hitter deposited the UMass pitcher's hummer high over the rightfield fence,and the Crimson had its ninth straight win.

The painful fact of the whole matter to the Minutemen was that they doubled the hit production of Harvard, 8-4, and yet could not come up with the win.

"They bunched their hits and made them count," UMass coach Dick Bergquist said. "I wish we had had more hitting with men on base."

Intelligent baseball had given UMass its two runs. The first run came on an opportunistic play. John Gallagher grounded a single to right with one out in the second inning. A double shot off the bat of Charlie Ciccone advanced Gallagher to third, and as the throw came in to the infield, he never stopped running.

The relay home was boxed around by catcher Joe Wark, and Gallagher slid home safely.

A subsequent right field single by Neal Lojek put runners on the corners, but the golden opportunity for another run was then squandered. Leo Kalinowski struck out swinging and Mike Stockley then lined out, again to right.

Some further alert baserunning in the fifth inning produced the second Minuteman run. Kalinowski atoned for his earlier whiff with a line single (curiously enough, again to right). Stockley then lined a solid double down the left field line. Kalinowski raced home as the cutoff man was undecided as to where to throw the ball.

Another single by Ed Skribiski put runners on first and third in an instant replay of the second inning. And again, UMass was unable to capitalize on the situation when Doug Aylward grounded sharply to third and Mike McEvilly fouled out.

Two chances for insurance runs came back to haunt UMass, of course, when Nigro had his only bad inning of the game.

Two other last-ditch scoring attempts also failed. Aylward was doubled off second in the eighth after Dale Stone lined out hard to center. And in the ninth, after Ciccone hit his second single of the afternoon, pinchrunner Mark Sullivan advanced to second on a wild pitch. But there he died, when Lojek and Kalinowski both grounded out.

"I thought we did a decent job today," Bergquist said. "We played very alertly and displayed some heads-up baseball out there."

Nigro's job had to be especially encouraging to the coach. The senior righthander's log showed seven innings pitched and only four hits, in addition to the same number of strikeouts.

Dave Tewhill came on to pitch the eighth, and he also fanned a batter in his first appearance since the Florida trip.

But the man on the Crimson mound — Carry Brown — made the Minutemen work for their offense in this especially well-played, fast-paced game.

"Brown's a good college pitcher," Bergquist said of the ex-quarterback who raised his record to 4-0 with the win. "He mixed his speeds well. But he's no better than Nigro.

"Harvard's a good team," the coach continued. "If they play that way all the time, they'll do some damage in New England."

For the 4-11 Minutemen, the game gives the portent of good things to come. Ciccone's two hits and defensive work pleased Bergquist, and Nigro's outing also brightens matters considerably.

But the two squelched rallies and the Crimson outburst pu a damper on the game. UMass fought hard, but in the end, it was not quite enough.

And, of course, Mike Bingham played for the wrong team.

Steve Buckley

Opening Day memories

When it comes to baseball, there is perhaps no better way of separating the "observer" from the "diehard" then to simply talk about that great American tradition known as Opening Day. The observer picks up baseball around June or July, takes in a few games, and thinks Carl Yastrzemski is amazing.

The diehard, on the other hand, is ready to go on Opening Day — a day he has breathlessly awaited since the last pitch of the previous World Series. (He also thinks Carl Yaztrzemski is amazing.)

Ah, Opening Day. I've been to about five such affairs, but I have vivid recollections of each and every Red Sox opener since 1966; the first year that I openly admitted my addiction.

And some great openers there have been! Herewith a few of my favorites (or most memorable):

1967: Sox win opener at Fenway, then travel to The Stadium for Yanks opener. Rookie Billy Rohr, in his first big league appearance, no-hits Bombers for eight-plus innings. Yaz keeps the no-hitter going with one of his greatest catches ever: that diving grab off the bat of Tom Tresh. Then Ellie Howard comes to the plate. Goodbye no hitter and goodbye Billy Rohr.

1969: Tony Conigliaro makes his dramatic comeback after missing the entire 1968 season, and hits a late inning homerun. Sox knock Dave McNally, who would go on to post one of his finest seasons, out early and win game in extra innings. Bill Landis is winning pitcher, and in fact is victor in first three Sox wins in '69.

1970: The best one I ever went to: Yaz makes great catch off of Yankees' Horace Clark on first pitch of game. Aparicio and Griffin make great fielding plays, but the star of the game is Duane Josephson, who goes three for four and makes great block of the plate that Bobby Murcer still has not seen. Sox roll.

1972: The year of the strike. The season opens two weeks late and the Sox find themselves in Detroit for opener. Boston fans are delighted as first three Sox batters reach base to open game, but Mickey Lolich reaches back for something extra and Sox are stymied. This was the famous game in which Luis Aparicio passed Carl Yastrzemski at third base to kill potential rally. Remember, Detroit beat the Red Sox by only half a game that year ...

1973: Winds are blowing out in Fenway and Sox beat Yanks 15.5. Love it.

1975: A good game to go to. Hank Aaron makes American League debut and Tony Conigliaro again returns to Boston, getting base hit in first bat. Oh Yes, Sox beat Brewers.

1977: Believe it or not, there was something good about this game. The inability of Bill Campbell to get any anybody out helped us to appreciate him all the better later on in the season.

And tomorrow we begin anew. Remember, no matter what people say about a Yankee runaway this year, when the first pitch is thrown they're in a tie for last ...

By the way, I am one of those who thinks that the Red Sox will beat out the Yankees this season, but a few things still bother me. For one thing, who is the defensive outfielder on the Sox bench? Don't tell me that with Evans, Lynn, and Yaz in the outfield they don't need one, either. Boston may wind up missing Rick Miller a lot more than you think. Why did the Sox send down Sam Bowen? I thought that he was a defensive specialist. Who cares if he can't hit — the Sox have enough sluggers.

A problem that bothers me concerns another facet of the bench: speed. Do not be fooled: Frank Duffy and Jack Brohamer are good defensive fill-ins in the infield, but neither men are gifted in the speed department. The same applies to Bob Bailey, Bernie Carbo, and (of course) Bob Montgomery ...

... One thing still bothers me. Why the Hell is Ken Holtzman still on the Yankees? He obviously does not figure in their plans, and he is not one of Billy Martin's favorites. I thought for sure that he would be on another team by now. Maybe he and Bob Montgomery will get together and write a book. How about "A World of Splinters" or something like that? Sorry.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 115 FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Occupation ends quietly

'Media event' says Bromery

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery yesterday called the occupation of the Whitmore Administration Building a "media event", and said the occupation resulted in little damage to property in the building.

He also said the net effect of the occupation on Wednesday on Whitmore by 150 students would be negative.

Bromery said the minimal security present during the occupation was because the administration did not want the occupation to turn violent.

Bromery made his remarks at a press briefing yesterday morning in Whitmore. The briefing was not a result of the occupation and scheduled prior to Wednesday.

"The only thing some students didn't have were make-up men," Bromery said. "I have to admit, though, we've been assessing the situation and except for an inflated phone bill, there wasn't much real damage."

Bromery said tires slashed on three state cars were done by "fringe" persons and were not directly related to the occupation.

Students who were in Whitmore Wednesday night as part of the occupation were using office phones to make personal calls and were also seen rummaging through desks and drawers. Selected phone lines were shut down after a time Wednesday night. One student who was searching through a desk in the Office of Budget and Institutional Studies said the students were "looking for propaganda."

Bromery said the occupation was useful "internally", but "the net effect was negative".

"Most of the calls I got were negative," Bromery said. "They (the students) instantly negate any positive publicity when they stage a sit-in."

Bromery said the occupation had a "therapeutic value" because it acted as a "pressure valve" for student objections.

Bromery said the first concern of the administration was to avoid violence and try to "contain" the occupation.

"There's not much you can do in a building like this," Bromery said of Whitmore. "I could have called out all my security guards and they still would have been outnumbered 2-1."

"The thing was to start a dialogue and decide on what's going to happen," Bromery said. "We knew what was going to happen at 10:30 last night. It just took seven hours to do."

"This is the only four-year window in time you can do that (stage a sit-in) and not have to pay for it."

Students occupying the office of Chancellor Randolph Bromery Wednesday afternoon while protesting a proposed change in dormitory residence. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Students end vigil at 5 a.m.

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

At 5 a.m. yesterday the students who had occupied Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery's outer office for 17 hours took down their banners, swept the floor, emptied the wastebaskets and talked quietly about going somewhere to watch the sun rise.

The 75 protestors straggled out of the Whitmore administration building into the chilly morning with a five-point agreement that had been hammered out by students and administrators during the tension-filled night.

The agreement included a stipulation that "the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs will be responsible for doing what is necessary to negotiate a lease or contract for housing that is mutually satisfactory to resident students and administration" and the agreement that all Pierpont students would be allowed to return to their rooms next semester.

Dean of Students William F. Field announced at 10:30 p.m. that the building was officially closed and the students were trespassing. Rumors began to circulate that state police were coming in to clear the building. The protestors stationed student guards at each entrance to the building to watch for the police, but no police action was taken.

"I always worry about the problem of violence." said Vice-chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury who spent much of his 40th birthday talking to demonstrators yesterday. Woodbury was ranking administrator in the building after Bromery left at 11:30 p.m.

The latest agreement came from a list of seven demands that were taken into a closed meeting between four administrators, four students, and Jim Starr, attorney for Student Legal Service Office, at 12:30 a.m. The first meeting lasted until 2:30 a.m., when the four students went out to talk with the congregated students in Bromery's outer office and administrators huddled behind closed doors.

The student representatives continued to shuttle between closed meetings with the administrators and meetings with the protestors until the final agreement was signed by the student representatives and administrators at 5 a.m.

The administrators who signed were Woodbury, Field, Dr. Frederick R. Preston, Associate Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs, John A. Hunt, Assistant to the Provost for Special Programs, and Sally A. Freemen, Director of the Community Development Center. The student representatives who signed the agreement were David Barenberg, Karen Pollens, Peter Kracht, and L. Kyle Hoffman.

The protestors had originally presented a list of 14 demands to administrators early in the afternoon. That list was changed for the evening meeting with Bromery to consist of eight "non-negotiable demands and seven negotiable demands.

The final list of seven demands, from which the agreement was reached, was presented to administrators at the 12:30 a.m. meeting.

This list contained a demand that the administration "agree to make a decision within three weeks as to negotiating a student contract with students." This would be a collective bargaining situation, and would set up a student union.

It was this demand that the administrators refused to recognize. Acting Vice-chancellor Woodbury said to the students, "The Chancellor is adamantly against collective bargaining. He feels that it is illegal, and to even talk about it in public would be to admit that it was a possibility."

Woodbury said yesterday afternoon, "People came in to talk about the housing problems and then they started to talk about something completely different."

TURN TO PAGE 6

Woodbury postpones Stevens recruitment

By MARK ULRIKSEN
Collegian Staff

Acting Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury yesterday postponed the J.P. Stevens Company campus recruiting session, thereby negating a confrontation between the recruiter and the J.P. Stevens Boycott Committee.

The boycott committee had set up a booth in Goodell Hall next to the Stevens Company recruitment booth. At 8:45 a.m. Assistant Director of Placement Clarkson S. Edwards told the recruiter the session had been "postponed".

Woodbury reached his decision to postpone the session at "around 11" Wednesday night while students still occupied the Whitmore Administration Building.

"I had to make judgments about the protection of orderly process, orderly safety and an orderly protest," Woodbury said. At that time it made sense not to allow it (Stevens' recruitment). There wasn't much time for a warning to be given."

Edwards was notified by Woodbury through Daniel W. Fitzpatrick, associate dean of students. "I wasn't told why he should leave," Edwards said. "I was told to tell him the session was postponed. The recruiter understood the situation and left."

At 11:15 a.m., Boycott committee member Fran Fanning presented Woodbury with two committee demands. The organization urged the University not to purchase any Stevens company products and to postpone for the duration of the boycott any Stevens company recruitment on campus. Woodbury turned down both requests.

"For some time UMass has been an open campus for recruitment," Woodbury told the boycotters. "We take no ideological stand. Our job is to make recruiting possible without making moral judgements about those companies."

Woodbury said the question of purchasing Stevens company products was a legal one in which his influence does not matter.

Fanning said, "We didn't ask him to cancel the recruiting, just to postpone it for the duration of the boycott. As he displayed earlier today, this is in his power. But he said no."

"We feel that if we can make decisions in the best interests of the University, then this is in the University's best interests," said Fanning.

At noon the Woodbury matter was temporarily put aside as the boycott committee gathered on the steps of the Student Union Building to hear Joseph Coyne speak. Coyne is president of the Roanoke Rapids, Central Labor Council in North Carolina.

An estimated 100 students and protesters listened to Coyne cite what he said are some of the textile mills's injustices. "The average textile laborer in North Carolina makes $8.61 an hour, " he said, "while the Stevens worker makes $4.10."

Coyne told his audience the Stevens Company is the largest violator of labor laws in the country. "I'm recruiting support and justice for the worker in the South," he said. "The North went South to free the blacks. Now the North can go south and free the working man."

After the 20-minute speech, Coyne and the protesters marched to Whitmore where they were met by Woodbury.

After explaining to the students how and why he ordered the postponement, Woodbury fielded questions from the crowd.

One student said he felt if the University doesn't make a statement about the Stevens company then it would appear the University

TURN TO PAGE 22

Inside

Marshall gives praise to former colleague

By ARNOLD WARSHAW
Collegian Staff

Speaking of his former law professor, colleague and friend, Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall last night said the late civil rights proponent Charles Houston did not have as hard a life as many blacks, but he spent all his energy trying to improve their situation.

"He didn't suffer as much as some Negroes did — he was from the upper-middle class," said Marshall, "but he spoke for a whole lot of negroes in that day and a whole lot of other people."

Marshall was nominated for the Supreme Court by President Lyndon B. Johnson in June, 1967, and is the only black ever to be appointed to the court. Earlier in his career, as Chief Legal Counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Marshall argued successfully before the Supreme Court in the Brown vs. Board of Education, Topeka case. In that historic case, the court found unconstitutional "separate but equal" racial segregation in public schools.

Marshall spoke to a crowd of over 800 last night at Amherst College. His speech inaugurated the "Charles Hamilton Houston forum on Law in a Just Society" to be held annually at Amherst beginning next year.

Houston, an Amherst College graduate who preceded Marshall as head of the legal staff of the NAACP in the 1930's, led the legal fight to challenge the constitutionality of racial segregation.

Speaking for about 35 minutes, the 69-year-old Associate Justice spent most of the time relating anecdotes about "Charlie" (Houston) and the fight against racial discrimination.

Vice Dean of Howard University's all-black law school, "he (Houston) raised it in two years from the 'dummies' haven,' to a fully accredited law school," Marshall said. "You see in those days, Harvard, Yale and Columbia Law Schools were bragging that they were training clerks to work for big law firms," said Marshall.

"Charlie Houston was training lawyers to go out and fight and die in the courts for what they believed in."

In his raspy voice, Marshall repeatedly spoke of Houston as "a man of vision, he loved life, he loved people."

Marshall also told of his travels with Houston around the southern United States during the depression and coming in contact with many poor black people "who'd never seen a dollar bill."

"Things aren't that much better, my friends," Marhsall said. "Sure, negroes are better off than they were in the '30's, but so is everybody else. The gap gets larger and larger every day."

"Charlie only insisted on getting for the Negro what he was entitled to," Marshall said.

Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall spoke to a crowd of over 800 people last night at Amherst College. (Staff photo by Fran Weinberg)

Time Magazine correspondent, Ruth Galvin spoke yesterday on women's issues at Smith College. (Staff photo by Jon Geller)

Correspondent speaks on women's movement

By FRAN BASCHE
Collegian Staff

A Time senior correspondent who covered the National Women's Conference in Houston said yesterday the conference brought respect to the women's movement and showed people the movement should be "perceived as a force to be reckoned with."

Ruth Mehrtens Galvin, a 1942 Smith College graduate, spoke to 65 women at her alma mater about "What Happened at Houston and What it Means to Women," in a lecture sponsored by the Sophia Smith Collection Lecture Series.

Galvin also discussed media coverage of the Houston conference and advocacy journalism with students who remained for the wine and cheese served after her 45 minute speech.

Galvin said the diversity of the delegates, especially the minority representation, was an asset to the conference. The diversity was achieved, Galvin said, by governmental efforts to insure that all women were represented and delegates, at large were appointed to assure a diverse socio-economic group at the conference.

Bringing different women together, Galvin said, created a sense of comradeship, "I haven't felt since I left Northampton."

Galvin said the fact that the conference was federally funded was "highly significant." Galvin said women have a history of being volunteers "lending their efforts to help support causes — and doing a remarkable job — in raising funds from private sources."

"For the first time," Galvin said, "women have said 'let Uncle Sam do it.' " Galvin said this move "signifies that what women stand for and what women want is just as important as the army, the navy, and the post office," other federally funded departments.

Galvin said participation was the key to change. "It's those who participate who decide the laws — freedom has its price and its price is participation," she said.

Galvin said it was the first time all kinds of minority women have actively participated together in the women's movement on a national basis. The minority resolution approved at the conference grew out of this diversity, Galvin said. "It brought isolated women together," she said.

Galvin said the 2,612 mile torch relay from Seneca, New York, where the first national women's conference was held in 1848 to Houston, showed the delegates that "women can do anything."

"How does it look now?" Galvin asked her audience.

Galvin said there is an interim committee to watch over the implemention of National Plan of Action that was approved at the conference, but this committee has no money.

Galvin urged the women present to write their representatives in congress "whatever side you're on," to urge the government to action on the plan and to provide monies for it. "Recognize your freedom and use it," Galvin said.

Smith College student Sharon Talbot, a delegate from Maine who helped form a youth caucus at the Houston conference, said after Galvin's speech it was important that youth be recognized at the conference because the women's movement often loses momentum because of a generation gap.

Galvin after her speech said she was pleased with the media coverage of the conference. Galvin said many editors sent men to cover the historic event because they did not want advocacy reporting of the event. Galvin said the editors' reasoning stemmed from many women's stories being written in advocacy style.

Talbot noted she noticed most of the media people at the conference were women.

Galvin said she does not believe in advocacy journalism. "We, as journalists, should tell what happened — advocacy journalism only tells one side."

Linguistics expert to talk

By PETER COX
Collegian Staff

Professor Noam Chomsky, writer, lecturer, and expert on linguistics, tonight will speak on human rights and American foreign policy in Bowker Auditorium.

The lecture is sponsored by the Western Mass. Chile-Latin American Solidarity Committee.

Chomsky, Institute Professor of Linguistics and Philosophy at MIT was a well known and outspoken critic of American involvement in the Vietnam war. His many articles and lectures as well as his support for draft resistance expressed his opposition to the war. Chomsky revealed the role of the academic community in helping to formulate American policy in Vietnam. He countered the academic community involvement by organizing those intellectuals who opposed the war, even at the international level. His membership in the Council of the International Confederation for Disarmament and Peace was one of many of his anti-war involvements.

Besides his political activism, Chomsky is considered the founder of modern theoretical linguistics. His research work in linguistics, cognitive psychology, and philosophy have laid the ground work for several new areas of theory and study in these fields.

Recently Chomsky has focused his attention on contemporary political issues, specifically the conflict in the Middle-East. He is a strong advocate of Palestinian rights and human rights in general.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Judy Van Handle

| | |
|---|---|
| Copy Desk | Mary Matson |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Head Darkroom Tech | David Olken |
| Photo Staff | John LeJeune, Jon Geller, Fran Weinberg |
| Sports Layout | Steve Zack |
| Black Affairs Layout | Terrell Evans |
| Happy Birthday | Joe Q. |
| O.W.S. | D.A., J.V.H. |

"It's opening day, so go Sox!"

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

SGA adjourns

No quorum achieved

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Student Government Association Electoral Convention did not meet last night since there was no quorum at the meeting held in 104 Thompson.

The next meeting is scheduled for Monday at 7:00.

Tonight's convention was scheduled to vote on a ballot including candidates Donald Bishop and Bob Dion and the candidacy of Shelly Gordon and Herb Tyson. These two tickets were the two top vote getters in the last convention session which was held on Thursday, March 30.

A quorum in five factions is needed for the meeting to convene. The factions are the residential areas, Greeks, commuters and the Undergraduate Student Senate.

In other developments David Leary resigned his position of co-chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee which runs the election.

"The process is good. I'm disgusted with the people in the process," said Leary. "People have begun to abuse the system," he added. To give an example of this abuse, he said that people in the Greek area were asked not to pick up their credentials to prevent a quorum. Greek area Vice President Bob Davidson said this statement, "was simply not true." Leary also cited academics as another reason for his resignation.

Leary said he will stay in the student government. "To quit the Senate would be counterproductive," he said. "This thing has to be cleaned up." Leary said that factionalism between different power groups was "destroying the senate."

Leary said a primary should be held if a large number of candidates choose to run in future presidential elections.

OHAG elections hit by student disinterest

By PATRICIA KEEFE
Collegian Staff

Due to lack of student interest, only one name appeared on the ballot in yesterday's Orchard Hill Area Government elections.

Garry Marshall of Grayson was elected president.

Insufficient publicity, communication breakdowns and little student interest were cited by several OHAG officers as reaons for the lack of candidates in the election.

The election was to have been held March 15 and 16. At a meeting held prior to the election, elections were extended due to a lack of publicity, according to then area treasurer Marshall. He said, "certain people were designated to do the job and failed to do so. Publicity was conducted to an extent, but was incorrectly done, causing a lack of candidates and interest." He estimated that most of the people in Orchard Hill probably did not know they could run.

Citing a lack of cooperation and information, area Secretary Stephani Weigand said the lack of publicity "was mainly my fault." She said she was never told explicitly when the election would be, nor that the publicity was her responsibility.

"I would expect the president would organize some system of publicity. I tried to form a committee within the body, but no one feels committed — even in the government," Weigand said.

Acting OHAG President Mark Hergenrother said that while he did outline a system, there "wasn't a hell of a lot of management here." Hergenrother said lack of management was partly his fault. Early this week he dropped out as presidential contender because he said he lacked the necessary free time to perform his duties.

Hergenrother blamed a lack of communication as a barrier to both government management and student interest. He said, "communication within the dorms is very bad, it's even worse with area officers. There is a lot of prejudice put out in that people tend to think events are restricted to certain groups."

Marshall said, "where the government at the present time hasn't provided much for the students; I can see why people are apathetic." He said he felt OHAG is going through "a new birth" after a low point.

Hergenrother blamed students saying that "the bulk of students are immature, won't ask questions and are uneducated as to services available to them; maybe by senior year, they'll be able to find their diploma." He said students must take the initiative.

Hergenrother said the numberone problem is how the money is divided up. "People who get the bulk are able to either intimidate or speak well. He said a lot of people are upset that the Third World Center gets about 30 per cent of the budget while having an area population of 3-4 per cent.

Sylvan Area Government has also been hampered in their elections due to a lack of candidates. "No one, I mean no one signed up, so there was no election," said Sylvan Area President Joel Jordan. He added that even within the area government there is difficulty obtaining a quorum as people often do not show. On the other hand, Northeast Area President Diane Lauricella, said the people in her area are beginning to change, and that often, more than a quorum is present.

Jordan, Lauricella, and past Southwest Assembly President Diane Fessenden all agree that students these days are more interested in their studies, that they are tired of political controversy on campus, haven't the time and don't feel they will be affected by issues.

The sun, provider of heat and light, takes a breather yesterday during the Planetary Festival near the Campus Pond yesterday. (Staff photo by David Olken)

NEAG sponsors party as alternative to alcohol

By MARIA MESSITT
Collegian Staff

An experimental non-alcoholic party will be offered as an alternative type of entertainment tonight in Worcester Dining Commons.

The idea for the party, advertised as "Friday Nite Fever" and sponsored by Northeast Area Government, was conceived by Hamlin Social Chairman Doug Alden. "We're not putting down alcohol. We're just offering an alternative," he said. Alden, in cooperation with other Northeast chairpersons, presented the idea two weeks ago, and was awarded funding by NEAG at that time.

Alcohol tends to be the star attraction at parties, according to UMass Alcohol Education Counselor Ken Hunt. "The biggest pitfall with alcoholic parties is in regarding the alcohol as the central reason for being there. Too many people associate parties with alcohol," said Hunt.

"We're trying to show people in Northeast and UMass that there are alternatives to programming other than beer," said NEAG President Diane Lauricella. "Coffee houses are popular at UMass, and they don't offer alcohol. This could encourage other areas on campus to offer similar alternatives," said Lauricella.

Alternatives to alcohol will include ice cream cones, popcorn, soda, a dance contest, a disc jockey, and a raffle of $35 worth of albums. Admission is $1.25.

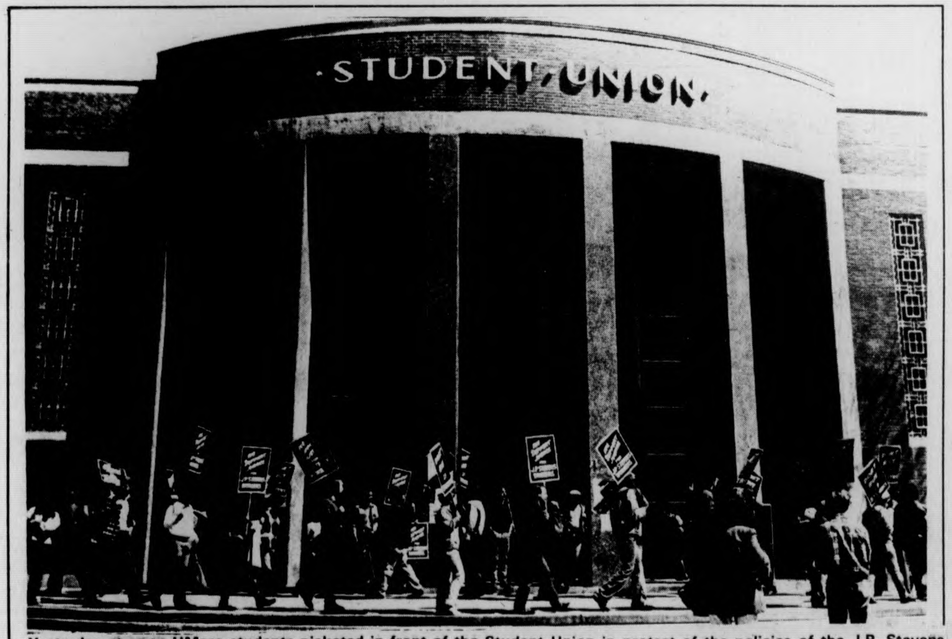
Reactions to the experimental party from UMass Greek officials are similar to the views of Northeast area sponsors.

"Too many Greek events in the past have centered around alcohol. Our new alcohol policy will de-emphasize the importance of alcohol in Greek events," said Greek Council Vice President Bob Davidson.

Director of Greek Affairs Shannon Ellis recently passed a ruling limiting liquor licenses in the Greek community to Fridays and Saturdays only. The policy also limits the number of licenses to one fraternity or sorority per week.

"The reason for a party is to get together with people. If your purpose is to get smashed, you don't need a party," said Ellis. "Alcohol, like music, is something that's added on. It's possible to have a good time without alcohol," she said.

"I think it would be a good experiment to try a party of this nature. I'd like to see it spread across campus," said Greek Council President Ted Erickson.



Yesterday at noon UMass students picketed in front of the Student Union in protest of the policies of the J.P. Stevens Company. See related story on page 1. (Staff photo by Jon Geller)

Housing delay

Room choosing for next semester in campus dormitories has been delayed until Monday to allow housing officials and students time to learn the new policy developed yesterday, according to the office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs.

The new policy does not affect students who have already signed up for a room and wish to keep it according to a statement from the office. Details of the new policy appear in an advertisement in today's Collegian.

— MARY MATSON

Black Affairs

Employing the ultimate weapon

By TERRELL EVANS
Black Affairs Staff

"There will never be a really free and enlightened State until the State comes to recognize the individual as a higher and independent power, from which all its own power and authority is derived, and treats him accordingly." Henry David Thoreau, Pamphlet on Civil Disobedience.

Civil disobedience, throughout history, has proven to be one of the most effective and workable forms of resistance to authority. Basically, civil disobedience is the idea of refusing to cooperate with authority by clogging the mechanisms by which that authority operates.

Classic examples of civil disobedience, or nonviolent resistance, are the movements in India led by Mohandas Gandhi, and the Civil Rights movement led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the 1950s and 60s.

A nonviolent resistance worked in India and in parts of America, it can work here on the UMass campus, if students decide to use it against the administration.

With the proper amount of student involvement and publicity, student groups can form in an organized manner to urge students not to shop at the University store until UMass administrators begin to treat students not as numbers but as people.

As students, we can boycott outside the doors of the Dining Commons on campus and ask other students not to eat there until the University's administrators support a tenant's lease with students being covered by state health and safety codes.

Students, in large numbers, can go to Whitmore, stand in lines and crowded offices, to express their displeasure with administrative policies.

We can begin to actively and loudly boycott this university's day-to-day sources of income until grievances are heard and answered favorably. Sources of income include the Candy counter, the Coffee shop, and the Hatch.

Civil disobedience in the UMass situation is better than violence, or any other acts of violence because they only last for a certain length of time and can be ignored. Nonviolent resistance is an ongoing process.

When civil disobedience, is counteracted with violence, then tyranny reigns, and the tyrant goes on display before the world whole. This administration, if it answers students' nonviolent resistance with violence will have to answer to the nation.

Civil disobedience works at the very heart of authority. It disrupts its natural flow at the very heart of authority. It disrupts its natural flow, frightens it, threatens it and pressures it to act or perish.

As part of the 11th Annual Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Lecture series, Dr. Charles Martin, editor of the Journal of the Negro Education, spoke this past Wednesday, April 5, in the Student Union Ballroom. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

Saudi Arabia slavery

By JAMES LEWIS JR.
Asst. Editor Black Affairs

A documented report in the magazine, "Jerusalem" by Mark Diodge and David Yanowski states that there are 600,000 to 750,000 black slaves from African countries presently in Saudi Arabia today. The report was documented from United Nations reports, Time Magazine, the Malawi Times, Eldridge Cleaver's "Statement From Prison," and many other published magazines.

The report states ".... one method of acquiring slaves involves phoney 'travel agencies' that go into Africa to offer cheap trips to the Holy Cities attracting pilgrims to Saudi Arabia. Once there, they were arrested for having no travel documents and enslaved." Another method of acquiring slaves from Africa is during the pilgrimage to the Holy Cities of Mecca and Medina, thousands of pilgrims are charged for the expensive "fees which the pilgrim is charged by the religious functionaries to touch the Kaaba and to perform all the obligatory holy duties. The only solution for the pilgrim is to sell his servants his children. Most of the time some ten or eleven thousand more pilgrims journey to Mecca than the number who return from that pilgrimage."

The report, documenting Sean O'Callaghan in his book entitled "The Slave Trade" stated: "Running away is regarded as the most serious offense for which the slave is mercilessly flogged (Whipped). For a second offense his private parts are removed, he is skewered to stakes in the desert, and left to die a horrible lingering death."

Quoting some more "In 1972 Professor Adrea Rosenberg of Adrea Rosenberg of

TURN TO PAGE 5

Bringing the 11th Annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Lecture Series to a memorable close, UMass's own Voices of New Africa House Choir and the Rhani Harris and Family Love singers performed to an appreciative audience last night in the Student Union Ballroom. (Staff photo by Dave Olken)

Editor's Editorial, the subject of 'Freaking'

I want to do that 'Freak' dance?

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

"Freak, freak, freak!"

It is not unusual to attend a UMass party and hear these familiar words being chanted. Afterall, there is a dance called the "freak" and quite naturally the freak chant would follow the freak dance, right?

Is there anything wrong with freaking? Possibly. What seemed in the beginning to be just another dance, apparently is evolving to a more advance level of freakness.

While out nightclubing in any large city, say for example New York, one can watch large groups of people on the dance floor literally freaking out and on one another. Men on women, women on men, it seems not to matter.

This freak dance carries with it a strange (or should I say freak) set of laws. One law being, "The right to freak on an individual or group of individuals without prior consent." How often have you seen one person while freaking with a partner, turn around only to find someone else freaking (at close range) behind him or her? This is done quite often among friends, yet it is increasing in frequency among total strangers.

As it stands now, I am one who enjoys doing the freak. What disturbs me is the thought of just how freaky, will the freak become.

'Freaky Deaky' vs. Benefit?

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

"Freaky Deaky" vs. Benefit dance?

While on the subject of freaking, I would like to point out and raise a rather sticky issue. Partying.

Normally partying is no big deal, one either does it or doesn't. Yet the tone of the matter changes considerably when talking about parties held at any one of the surrounding area colleges. From this point on the tone will change considerably.

Last Saturday, April 1, UMass and Amherst College hosted parties at their respective schools. The parties at UMass included a benefit affair for the children attending the Che Lumumba school, and a party held in Emerson dorm located in Southwest. Amherst's party featured a "Freaky Deaky" dance contest.

As it turned out, the party held at Amherst reportedly was jam packed and highly successful. From first hand knowledge, the benefit party held at New Africa House, suffered badly.

Apparently many people viewed the various parties in terms of which party was most likely to draw the largest crowd. No arguement can be had here, for it stands to reason that where the most people are, is where usually the most fun is to be had.

The point of discussion here is the almost total lack of consideration and support given to the Che Lumumba school, and the children who attend it.

The Che Lumumba school is an alternative education system, that strives in a progressive nature for the teaching of truth and the maximum development, and expression of its students. Many Third World children at UMass attend the school, as well as a number of whites.

By not supporting the benefit that night, a strong statement of non-support was indicated to the school, and most sadly the children.

If this situation should occur again, it is my hope that people who decide not to attend a benefit affair such as the one for the Che Lumumba school, will at least stop by and contribute to the benefit. The type of behavior and attitude demonstrated last weekend is inexcusable and sickening.

Children are our future, who should know this better than the descendants of an enslaved people.

Thoughts

Not everything that is faced can be changed,
But nothing can be changed until it is faced.

James Baldwin

Black Affairs

Announcements

Music Moves and Is Music

There will be a presentation entitled, Poetry Moves and Is Music this coming Sunday, April 9 in Hampden Theatre located in Southwest.

Various events are scheduled including music by Majee Green and Floyd Williams, singing by Lyn Walker, dancing by Pamela Benn to "Sisters Song" written by Zoe Best. Gail Hall will read poems on women, Brenda Wilcox accompanied by bass player Robbi Rough will speak about the celebration of Black womenhood.

This event is sponsored by the Southwest Women's Center. There will be a donation at the door.

Corrections

In Black Affairs March 29 issue incorrect information was presented in the article on the International Students Association. The name of the organization is International Students Association and not International Studies Association as printed last week.

Also the upcoming International Fair was incorrectly written as Affair.

This past Wednesday's April 5 issue of Black Affairs, the picture of Shirley Ceaser was taken by Collegian staffer Pat Dobbs. Also the story about the Black music workshop was written by Sadiqy Parker, and not Sadiya Parker as it incorrectly appeared.

Picture of the Week; Behold the children. It has been said that we all must become like children again before we are to understand the teachings of God. These children who attended the three day Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Lecture Series, were photographed in the midst of enjoying Shirley Ceaser and the Ceaser Singers who performed this past Tuesday, in the S.U.B. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

The question of present day slavery in Saudi Arabia

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

Metropolitan State College conducted an interview with an official of the Arabian-American Oil Company. Rosenberg was informed that: 'One of the most difficult problems he had to deal with as a paymaster for ARAMCO was the knowledge that the entire Black labor force did the dirtiest and heaviest menial labor in oil fields were slaves. The company well knew that after each payday the Blacks would have to turn over their paychecks to the "government, i.e., members of the King's family'."

In April 1973, the Tribune De Geneve' described in detail the slave trade route from Africa to the Arab countries in the 1970's.

Eldridge Cleaver was quoted as stating in print "Once while traveling through Bamako, Mali, the cab driver flew into a rage when we asked him to take us to the Algerian Embassy. When he learned that we actually lived in Algeria, he concluded that we were crazy. 'Man', he said irritatedly, 'don't you know that the Arabs still have Black slaves?' He was right, although I didn't find it out until later. Many Arab families can afford to, keep one or two black slaves to do their menial labour. Sometimes they own an entire family. I have seen such with my own eyes.

The United States presently is paying off a 40 billion dollar dept. to Saudi Arabia, for purchasing oil. The United States is careful not to offend Saudi Arabia and is under economic pressure to get their oil elsewhere. African slaves in Saudi Arabia come from Ghana, Algeria, Lybia, areas of the Sahara region away from governmental authority; North Africa; they carry off children from African village areas.

This could have been one reason for Sadats' peace initiative and breaking with the Arab front. It would be important for the United States to live up to foreign policy of Human Rights.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

THE GYM TEACHER JUST BELTED PEE WEE, LUTHER!
4·7
HE DID?
FOR WHAT?
BRANDON JR
THE CLASS WAS DOING SOME DEEP BREATHING EXERCISES AND WHEN PEE WEE INHALED...
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate
... HIS PANTS FELL DOWN!

THE NEW CENTURIONS
WITH
George C. Scott

Thursday. April 13. — 7. 9. 11.p.m. Admission-$1.00—Mahar Aud.

Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers—B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

UNITED
TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE INC.

all make car and truck
transmissions

Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged

236 Pleasant St
Northampton, Mass
584-6790

People's Gay Alliance cordially invites all people to a

GAY DISCO

Friday, April 7
9:00-1:00

10th floor CC
$1⁰⁰ donation

music by Michael S. Roif

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

Kent Whalon
—Licensed
Optician

We are Specialists in:
- FASHION EYEWEAR
- CONTACT LENSES
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

Guerrillas may bargain with Israel for bodies

[AP] — Palestinian guerrillas claimed yesterday they were holding bodies of Israeli soldiers killed in an incident inside a guerrilla-held portion of southern Lebanon. Sources said they would try to bargain for the body of a female terrorist who led the March 11 highway attack inside Israel that touched off the big Israeli push into Lebanon.

Conflicting reports of the number of dead ranged from three to five, the first Israeli casualties reported since a cease-fire was declared March 21. Israel claimed the guerrillas had ambushed an Israeli jeep Wednesday four miles south of the port of Tyre.

The incident was reported as U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim sent a message to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin urging "speedy" withdrawal of the invading forces from southern Lebanon.

Diplomatic sources at the United Nations reported that the 21-nation Arab bloc will call for a Security Council meeting to consider possible sanctions against Israel for refusing to remove its troops.

In Jerusalem, a U.N. spokesman said Israel yesterday had presented a plan for partial withdrawal of its forces.

Israel reported three dead in the Wednesday ambush. Palestinian guerrillas in Beirut claimed four were slain and one captured "unharmed," and the United Nations said its reports indicated all five were killed.

The Palestine Liberation Organization claimed the jeep was an Israeli patrol trying to infiltrate guerrilla-held positions, and sources said the PLO would try to bargain for the body of Dalal Mograbi, 22, the female guerrilla who led the March 11 terrorist attack inside Israel.

The United Nations asked the International Red Cross to arrange the return of the Israeli casualties to their homeland.

In other developments, the Israeli Foreign Ministry said it does not believe its use of U.S.-supplied arms in the invasion of southern Lebanon was a violation of a 1952 U.S.-Israeli arms pact.

On that matter, U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told Congress he believed Israel had acted in self-defense after the terrorist raid on its civilians and would not recommend any action against Israel.

The 1952 arms pact allows the United States to suspend military aid to Israel if it determines that U.S.-supplied arms were used illegally.

But Vance said Israel, while acting in self-defense, may have violated U.S. law by using excessive force against Palestinian strongholds and going beyond the six-mile strip it had initially planned to invade.

An official announcement in Jordan said King Hussein will send emissaries to all the Arab capitals with a proposed agenda for an Arab summit conference on the current Middle East situation.

Author Sam Julty to speak

Sam Julty, author of Male Sexual Performance and spokesman for the emerging men's movement, will be the keynote speaker at a conference on men and masculinity Sunday. His lecture "Are We Separatists?" will be given at 1 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium.

The conference, entitled "Men Supporting Men," will offer workshops, discussions, and films dealing with men's changing role in society and the need for men's support groups. "Rape Culture," "Men's Lives," and "The Word is Out," a film exploring gay lifestyles, will be shown.

Following the conference, an evening of men's music will be presented in the Blue Wall at 8 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the UMass Men's Centers, the People's Gay Alliance, and area men's support groups. Registration begins at 10:30 a.m. in Campus Center 162. Student fee is 50 cents, others $1.

— DIANE BURAK

Society elects new members

The Massachusetts Society of Professors yesterday elected a new slate of officers at a general membership meeting.

The MSP is the Amherst campus branch of the faculty union.

Professor James Cathey of the German Department was elected to a two year term as society president.

Dodie Thompson, John Bracey, Howard Brogan, and Bruce Laurie were all elected as association vice-presidents.

The society membership elected G. Ernest Anderson, Jr. as secretary.

Grant Osborn was elected treasurer.

In other elections, the society chose an [illegible]t member executive board, a Nominations and Elections Commission, and a slate of delegates to a Massachusetts Teachers Association convention in May and a National Education Association convention this summer.

★ Vigil ends

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

David Barenberg, a spokesman for the protestors and a former member of the Student Organizing Project, a unionization group, said, "The problem is of student input in the decision making process. What we need is a process of input into the decisions so that bad proposals don't come about. If we had this, there would be no need for protests like Wednesday's."

The protestors took over Bromery's office Wednesday at 3 p.m. A march began at Pierpont and and ended and Whitmore, and drew about 200 demonstrators.

Campus security chained the doors to Whitmore shut when the demonstrators approached the building, but 20 Pierpont residents had entered the building earlier, went up to Bromery's office, and gained access through a side door.

Several students broke the mail room door, and the crowd of demonstrators flooded into Whitmore and up to the corridor in front of Bromery's office.

Preston came out to speak to the students in the corridor. The students demanded to speak only to Bromery, and the chancellor was called out of a UMass Board of Trustees meeting in Boston and hurried back to Amherst.

After Preston spoke, a scuffle between the two police officers and 25 students broke out, and the students forced their way into Bromery's outer office.

COMING to DAVID'S

OF MT. FARMS MALL — THE AREA'S NEWEST "CLUB"

TUES. APRIL 11
•MAKESHIFT STRING BAND!
COUNTRY AND BLUE GRASS —

WED. APRIL 12
JAKE EPSTEIN QUINTET!
"JAZZ"

INTERNATIONAL & VEGETARIAN CUISINE

THURS. APRIL 13
CAROL CRAWFORD
&
• ALL THAT JAZZ

FRI.-SAT. APRIL 14-15
HARMONY ARBOR

TEL. 586-1878

SUNDAY-APRIL 16
DINE IN THE Middle East 6:30-10:30 p.m.
ENJOY THE MUSICAL SOUNDS & CAPTIVATING DANCING ON OUR STAGE.
MUSIC, LIVE SHOWS, FOLK DANCING & DINNER AT LOW SUNDAY PRICES.

Lunch time in the patio of our La Rojeña distillery.

When our workers sit down to lunch they sit down to a tradition.
When they make Cuervo Gold it's the same.

Every day at just about eleven the wives from Tequila arrive at the Cuervo distillery bearing their husbands' lunches.

Lunches that have been lovingly prepared in the same proud manner since men first began working here in 1795.

It is this same pride in a job well-done that makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

ROOM CHOOSING PROCESS
Read Carefully

Due to the confusion which has resulted from the new room choosing process, the following is an outline of the entire room choosing sequence.

Phase 1: Intra-dorm movement (students must contact their head of residence no later than Thursday night, April 13, 1978)

1. All students who wish to remain within their dorm, either in the same room, or in another room within the dorm contact their head of residence no later than Thursday, April 13, 1978.

2. Students planning to request another dormitory during Phase 2, but who do not wish to lose their current assignment if their request is not fulfilled must also contact their head of residence and sign up for their current room during Phase 1. This is critical if the student wants to guarantee their old assignment.

3. Students wishing to move to another dorm, and to LIVE WITH A PERSON ALREADY IN THAT DORM take the following steps.

   A. The person moving out of their current dorm contacts their head of residence, fills out an "EXIT" card, and hand carries the card to the housing office.

   B. The student already in the dorm receiving the roommate contacts the head of residence in their dorm, and fills out an "ENTRY" card stating that the person coming in from the other dorm is to room with him/her. The head of residence forwards this card to the housing office.

   C. Both the "EXIT" and "ENTRY" card must be received by the housing office correctly filled (the cards must match each other) for the assignment to be made.

   D. THIS APPLIES ONLY TO THOSE CASES WHERE ONE STUDENT IS ALREADY LIVING IN THE DESIRED DORMITORY.

Phase 2: Intra-dorm movement (students must submit their housing preference cards to the housing office no later than Tuesday, April 18, 1978)

1. Students who wish to request another dorm assignment obtain and fill out a Housing Preference Card. This card is submitted to the housing office, and is processed on a space-available basis.

2. Students who wish to guarantee their old assignment if they do not get their requested new assignment MUST REQUEST THEIR CURRENT ASSIGNMENT as their last choice. THEREFORE, STUDENTS ARE ASSURED OF THEIR OLD ASSIGNMENT ONLY IF THEY HAVE SIGNED UP FOR BOTH PHASE 1 AND PHASE 2.

3. Students wishing to move to another dorm AND TO LIVE TOGETHER IN THAT NEW DORM AS ROOMMATES must each fill out housing preference cards which request identical choices (accept their last choice, if they wish to return to their old dorm if they do not get their new choice), staple the card together, and send them in to the housing office. Assignment will be made on a space available basis for both students. If the new request cannot be fulfilled, and the students did not request their old spaces back, they will be assigned together to the same dorm.

NOTE WELL: The housing preference card only allows selection of a particular dorm. The individual heads of residence are responsible for actual room assignments within a dorm. Therefore students requesting to move into a dorm and live together may both be assigned to the same dorm, but if no empty room is available, they will have to be assigned to the available rooms within that dorm, unless the head of residence can make other arrangements.

ALL STUDENTS WHO HAVE SUBMITTED A HOUSING PREFERENCE CARD ON OR BEFORE FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1978 MUST RESUBMIT ANOTHER, NEW, REQUEST FORM.

ADDRESS ALL QUESTIONS REGARDING THIS NEW POLICY TO YOUR HEAD OF RESIDENCE

from our perspective

Demonstration effective

Wednesday's demonstration was a good example of how students, when organized, can effect change to a large degree. Anyone who lives in a dorm knows how bad conditions are, and residents of Pierpont surely had the support of all students who could just as easily been driven out of their dorms by administration fiat.

The demands that were met by the administration represent real progress in the continuing struggle to get the people to run this university to recognize the rights of students who pay for this institution to have a say in the way it is administrated. The incredibly stupid room choosing plan was changed, the Pierpont plan was thrown out, and a promise to begin real negotiations on the lease proposal, along with a guarantee to reimburse students for damage to their property due to negligent maintenance, are all the result of a concerted student effort. We can do nothing but thank those who stayed the night to effect these changes.

But much more needs to be done.

The students at this university should not have to take over an administration office in order to get heard. We should have a governance system which will be able to represent the students with a voice, and this entails a reorganization of the ineffective SGA system. Until that time though, we must diligently let our voice be heard on such issues as collective bargaining for students, a real plan to bring the living conditions in the dorms up to standards of health and safety, and the deteriorating state of our minority and other academic programs.

In a related development, Vice chancellor of students Woodbury cancelled the appearance of J.P. Stevens on campus yesterday but stated that they will be allowed on campus at a later date.

It is obvious Woodbury cancelled Steven's appearance for fear that the already organized students at Whitmore would move to let a company that has no regard for the rights of working people know what they think. The Collegian would like to call for a statement from Woodbury that J.P. will not be allowed to recruit on campus, that the administration will not buy J.P. Stevens products, and that the policy of open recruitment on campus be changed to take into account the policies of those we allow to recruit on campus.

All policy editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Board of Editors.

Letters

On Pierpont

To the Editor:

Without summarizing all the complications and negotiations surrounding my relationship with Pierpont, let me offer several corrections to the letter in today's Collegian which present a "brief history."

I came to the first session with the Pierpont student committee with a careful list of the issues, structural and behavioral, that I thought had to be resolved. The committee also had prepared a list and we discussed the broad shape of a house governance system. To advance more "concrete outlines" at that time would have hampered the free flow of ideas and responses which characterized our sessions. [Progress was hampered by the unexplained disappearance of the committee's apparent convener after the first session who failed to pass on important information to other members.]

Both draft proposals from Pierpont had good points but they were not finished documents and were, at time, inconsistent. I drew up a more inclusive draft based upon these proposals and upon the rough consensus arrived at with the committee. On some points, notably in the area of specified behavior, the committee did not agree to inclusion [though working was changed] but I thought such a listing important, in part to establish jurisdiction for the internal Judiciary Board of Pierpont to respond in such cases.

The idea that some form of "social contract" would be signed as a condition for living in the dorm was endorsed by the committee [indeed, several members wanted a more stringent application and clearance process which I ultimately dropped from the final draft]. The document presented to the house stated that the details of the "social contract" section would be negotiated and further edited prior to September. No one was or would be asked to sign anything until opening day next fall.

Along with other staff involved in the situation, I continue to work for and hope for a resolution which promotes and institutionalizes the needed improvements in conditions and quality of life for all persons associated with Pierpont.

Jim Matlack

Men's conference workshop list

To the Editor:

The following workshops will be offered at the Men's Conference this Sunday: from 2:15-3:45, "Male Sexual Health Issues" [men only, Steve Cawley and Dave Gitlin, Peer Sex Education counselors]; "Men's Paid Work and Family Roles", [Joe Pleck, UMass Faculty, Center for the Family]; "Marriage: Changing Sex Roles and Stress" [men only, William Taylor, Area Director, Orchard Hill-Central]; "What Happens in Men's Groups" [men only, Kent Poey, UMass Mental Health psychologist]; "Men, Rape and Violence" [Doug Friedman, MARV; "Creative Movement for Men: Sensitivity, Strength and Myth" [men only, Dan Peterson, UMass Dance Faculty]; "Integrating Personal and Political Liberation" [men only, Steve Bengis, psychologist]; "Counseling and Gay Issues" [men only, Jeff Jerome, PGA counselor]; "Creative Writing and Sexual-Political Responsibility" [Jon Stoltenberg, writer]; "Making a Decision About Personal Psychotherapy" [men only, Rich Halgin, UMass Psychological Services]; Film: "The Word is OUt" [Paul Amato, UMass Head of Residence].

From 4:15-5:45, "Reclaiming Our Intuition" [men only, Larry Goldfarb, Room To Move counselor]; "Men's Movement: National Organizing" [men only, Sam Julty, DVP Speaker]; "Affirmative Action" [Jim Wallace, UMass Head of Residence]; "Men and Children" [men only, Boston Men's Childcare Collective]; "Sensuality and Spirituality: False Dichotomy" [Peter Sabey, Campus Minister]; "Developing Anti-Porno Strategies" [Jon Stoltenberg, writer]; "The Word is Out": film and discussion [Paul Amato and Paul Gosselin]; "Men and Alcohol: What Would Your Mother Say?" [men only, Zev Michael]; "The Thrill of Victory and the Agony of Defeat" [Rob Gilbert, UMass Head of Residence]; "Abortion: Men Write the Laws; Women Do What is Needful" [Tom McCrory, National Abortion Rights].

Frank Dorman
UMass Men's Centers

Mountaineer insulted by ad

To the Editor:

As a mountaineer, I find your advertising on page 9 of Wednesday's Collegian, advertising Busch Beer, insulting. I resent being stereotyped as a beer guzzler which practicing my sport, while in actuality, mountaineering demands that all faculties be unaffected, as the mountain itself is usually unforgiving to those under the influence.

Steven Tuckerman

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

Anti-

By BROOK STATES

I want to bring something to the attentio of the university community. Yesterday morning, when I went up to the Revolutionary Student Brigade office in the Student Union I found its windows covere with obscene racial slanders. These vil epitaphs were scrawled on top of posters advertising the demonstration in Washington, D.C. to overturn the Bakke decision.

The Bakke case is ugly business. It is a attack on the rights of minorities won in 60' through struggle. Its view is that the brutal history of racial oppression is now behind u and minorities have achieved parity with whites and that in some cases affirmative action and the gains of the sixties have tipped the balance in favor of minorities. That crap is blown away by the bitter reality of 20 per cent unemployment among Black youth compared with an 8 per cent national

The

By GEORGE SOMMERS

Unquestionably, the biggest problem facing America today is the diminishing energy resources. We must consider realistic alternatives to importing oil, which serves only to drain dollars out of the nation's economy. The only Americans benefitting from the current situation are the big oil companies who reap obscene profits through tax loopholes and unfair laws created by a few friends in Congress, such as Sen. Russell Long, owner of an oil company.

President Carter, caught in the present bind, seems to be looking at nuclear power as an alternative. This is contrary to the "nuclear power only as a last resort" stance he took as a candidate in the '76 election. Carter was apparently convinced by conservative Republican energy czar James Schlesinger to soften his anti-nuclear views. Although the president's environmental record is excellent otherwise, his acceptance of nuclear power has caused anguish among environmentalists.

The known dangers of nuclear power are many and varied, and there are doubtlessly unforeseen problems of grave magnitude. Workers in nuclear plants and citizens around these plants are threatened by disease stemming from leaking radiation. The Boston Globe recently revealed that workers at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard had a far greater cancer rate than the general

SPORTS
SPECIAL
1978
2
MARKU LINDMAN '78

Fastest Sport On Two Feet

Laxmen set for big year

by RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

They've lost a lot from last year's team — Menna, Spooner, Patterson, Michaud, Pappas to name a few-fifteen in all and replaced them with ex-Chimps (jv squad) and twelve freshman (two transfers). But don't look for this to be a building year or anything like that- Garber's Gorillas will be as competitive as they have in past seasons.

"On attack, we lost 103 goals (Menna, Spooner, Patterson), which is virtually impossible to mukp" said Coach Dick Garber in a pre-season interview. "I think the defense is equally strong, if not a shade better, because we have a little more depth" he added. He continued "the major difference in our attack is not their shooting, but we're much slower, we don't have the speed there. These guys are steady...."

The attack will be spearheaded by co-captiain 'Pit' (Paul) Martin a "hellava shooter", who is Paterson's replacement; a transfer from Farmingdale, Brooks Sweet- "quick, changes direction, excellent player"; Pit Martin, freshman 'Skip' Vosburgh, to name few.

"We have a lot of new faces," Garber stated. "Fran Yung , Harry Conforti, and Nike Lewis are back, and will probably be on together with Steve Dahl (transfer). On freshman line we have two kids from Long Island, Pete Schmidt and Tom Walters along with two Eastern Massachusetts kids in Bill Anderson and Rich White." "It (midfield) looks to be very sound-even though they're new."

Defensively, the protector of the net has remained the same with 'Duck' Goldstein probably to get the startting job- with Jeff Cohen and Eric Banhazl waiting in the wings. In front of the crease helping out the goalie will be Co-captian Rich Donovan, flanked by Ton Keenan, Pete Lement, Roger Coe, Marc Sussman, Doug Brown, Bill Coke, and a host of others (for reasons of space, sorry).

As for the schedule its "the toughest one we've ever played" although no North Carolina game this year. "We've replaced NC with Army, which is supposed to a have a super team this year. Now that we've made the tournament (last year) and they haven't, it becomes desirable for them to play us- which is good, this year we'll have Army here, next year Rutgers again."

Vermont (next Wednesday), Brown, Williams, Hofstra, and Harvard also will be here for games while the Minutemen will travel away to face Syracuse (tommorrow), Rutgers (next weekend), Boston College (get some friends together for this one-under the lights on the Eagles home court), UNH, Springfield, aand Dartmouth.

So there you have it- a short composite of this year's squad. But don't just take my word on the team-go see for yourself. The fastest moving sport on foot- its here to stay.

Note: Apologies to the unsong heroes, not mentioned above......

Gorilla's foes no bananas

By BILL EDELSTEIN
Collegian Staff

It's not going to be an easy road to the NCAA Lacrosse Playoffs this year—not that there was ever a season with a prepackaged invitation—but,according to UMass Head Coach Dick Garber, ten teams could be fighting for the final three spots of the eight-team tornament.

"Cornell, John Hopkins, Maryland, Navy and Virginia have the top five spots pretty well secured," Garber figured. "That leaves North Carolina, North Carolina State, Washington & Lee, UMass, Army, Rutgers, Syracuse, Dartmouth and maybe Hofstra and Brown to battle it out for sixth, seventh and eighth. The bottom 10 teams in the top 15-ranking all have a shot," the coach said. "It would be easier to get an invitation to dinner at the White House."

Garber called this season's slate the toughest a UMass lacrosse team has ever faced—including last year's murderers row which included North Carolina, Cornell and Rutgers. Cornell and Rutgers have come back for more of the Gorillas this annum, as have Syracuse and Hofstra, and along with Army, the five clubs constitute the sternest tests UMass will be confronted with.

"Army is the pivotal game for the playoffs," noted Garber. "They're regaining the type of team they used to have before the Vietnam War chased a lot of good athletes away from the Military Academy. Also, five of the students suspended from the West Point for cheating on an exam were lacrosse players, and they're back this year."

You might remember Rutgers from last year's UMass last-seconds come-from-behind victory. Rutgers has what it considers to be their best team ever this year.

Syracuse has already played seven games this season, with a 6-1 result, and they've moved two of their top midfielders to defense to shore up what was a weakness for them last year.

Hofstra has had its troubles so far, with three opening losses including an 11-10 squeaker to New Hampshire. UMass, itself, has already fallen to Cornell, and Garber feels that the Gorillas can't afford a loss to any of the other top teams on the schedule.

"If we do lose another of these games, we have a second chance to get into the playoffs by being New England champs," said Garber.

This wouldn't guarantee a playoff spot either, and a claim to the title would entail defeating tough Harvard, Dartmouth and Brown squads, and unpredicatable New Hampshire.

A feeder system in action

by MICHAEL MONAHAN
Collegian Staff

Should the swamps in front of Boyden Gym ever dry up, the UMass J.V. lacrosse team will be able to open its 1978 schedule.

" This has been the worst winter-spring for outdoor action since I've been here at UMass," said coach Peter Connolly. "Dick Garber has been great about sharing Boyden with us, so we've been able to get in some stick work, otherwise we would only be running."

The team has been working out since March 1st (with Spring break off), yet has only been outdoors once. The lack of outdoor drills causes Connoly some concern. "One of the biggest aspects of lacrosse," said Connolly, "is controlling ground balls, and we've had almost no work on it because in the gym the balls bounce too high and outdoors we litterally have to dig them out."

Nevertheless, Connolly feels the UMass program should do well this season. "The J.V. team has lost only once in the last three years," he said "we do well with the schedule we play, and we play everybody in the area."

That kind of record is a good indicator of the strength of the UMass lacrosse program. Connollly said the number of quality players that come to UMass leave a good number of players for the J.V.team. "80 or 90 players come out for lacrosse and of that number, 30 or so make the varsity" he said, "the rest make up the J.V. team. The top 20 or so players on theJ.V.team are very good players who, with a little more experience and consistency, have the potential to make the varsity." The rest of the team is made up of first year players and those who lack the experience to play the high calibre of varsity lacrosse played here at UMass, according to Connolly.

Because of the two levels of talent and experience on the J.V. team, the team plays, in essence, two schedules. In some games the top 20 or so players will see most of the action, while the other games those who do not see regular action will play, Connolly said.

Connolly admits the difficulty of being one coach for a team of 40 players. "There is a lot of self-coaching going on out there because I'm spread pretty thin," he said "I can't give individual instruction to a team of 40 players, but if a player wants to listen, he can learn, because I've played some and I know what I'm talking about."

University of Massachusetts
Union Program Council
PRESENTS
David Bromberg and Maria Muldaur
April 9th
Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall
8 p.m.
Tickets: UMass Students-$4.50, 5, 5.50
General Public- $5.50, 6, 6.50
Tickets available at: Fine Arts Center Box Office and all Ticketron outle
UPCOMING CONCERTS
Tower of Power April 23 F.A.C.

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $6.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

With Ease And Supple Grace

'Gazelles' nat'l champs?

Jim Gleason
Collegian Staff

No sooner was the announcement of the formation of the National Championships made than women's lacrosse coach Frank Garahan set his team's goals.

For the first time in the history of women's lacrosse, there will be national playoff and that's what Garahan has set his sights on. In order to qualify, the Gazelles would have to win the New England Championships at the end of the season. Only one team from the New York-New England region is picked.

"I'm very optimistic about this year's team," said Garahan. "We have the potential to be the best team in New England."

The team has lost half of its starters from last year's 10-2-1 team including its first, second and fifth top scorers plus three top defnsemen. Evie Sneeden and Nancy O'Neil, the two leading scorers, have graduated, along with Cindy Hartstone. On defense, Garahan has lost goalie Mary Murray, Chris Basile and Debbie Aimes.

But he has a roster of talented and experienced players including an exchange student and a transfer which he said will adequately fill the void.

The roster includes goalie Robin Jennings. Last year, as a freshman, she played junior varsity and shared the varsity duties with Murray. Although Garahan said she was not severely tested on the JV team, he feels she is a good varsity goalie.

On defense will be two-year veterans Gayle Hutchinson, Kelley Salls and Olivia Lovelace.

Sophomore Joan Bulman, who played JV's last year, will be the fourth defenseman and will be played, said Garahan.

On the defense wings, there will be Grace Martinelli, who is a standout at her p tion, and Lisa Methfessel, who is playing in her third year.

Laura O'Neil is the third wing and although she won't be a starter, Garahan said she has "good game sense and I wouldn't hesitate to put her in."

At center is senior Judy Kennedy, of whom Garahan said, in her third year of varsity, "is just beginning to get the finesse moves than only an excellent lacrosse player has." She made the All-New England Third team last year.

On attack wing is sophomore Carri Nickerson, who was the third leading scorer on last year's team with 25 goals and 12 assists. She was picked to go to the nationals as one of the outstanding players in the East. With an extra year of experience with her, Garahan is expecting better things.

Fiona McAllister is an exchenge student from England who Garahan says has no trouble fitting in, even with her different style of play. "She was coached by Celia Breckinridge, who is one of the top international coaches, which is a credit to her ability. "She is already one of the top players,"said Garahan.

Sue Kibling is the third attack wing and although it is her first year of college competition, Garahan says she has a tremendous amount of natural ability.

The starting offensive positions will be handled by Julie Hall, Jean Hackett and Debbie Hartley.

Outdoor trackmen stronger

by Kevin McCaffrey
Collegian Staff

With winter fading and spring showing signs of arrival, it's no wonder Coach Ken O'Brien is optimistic about the team's outlook this track season after a dismal indoor ledger.

"The past has borne out the fact that we've had better success outdoors that indoors. This can be attributed to the better outdoor facilities and the absence of a long layoff which crippled us this, and every winter," he said.

UMass possesses one of the finest outdoor tracks in New England, claiming the services of an all weather surface which greatly enhances the training program. The university's facility will be the site of two major meets this season. The Minutemen will host the UMass Relays April 15th, as well as the New England Championships May 13th and 14th.

The squad enters the new season with a trail of winter disappointments behind it. Targeting the indoor schedule as a means to a successful end, the team fell short of the predicted mark as it finished a distant third in the Yankee Conference Championships. YanCon power UConn snared the title away from a renovated Boston University squad.

"We were shattered by illnesses and injuries this winter," explained O'Brien, "With the addition of the longer distance events, the 440 intermediate hurdles and the longer sprint races which cater to our dash men, the team has much better scoring potential outdoors."

Several track performers define the Minutemen's spring scoring capabilities. Seniors Mark Healy and John Richards have "reached the fringe of Championship competition in the 440 hurdles," but have failed to taste victory because of injuries. An added incentive to complement their skills this season will be the fact that they're concluding their four year membership in a UMass uniform.

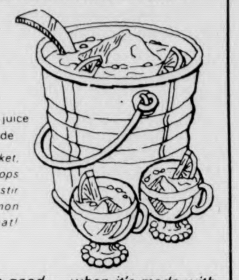
Joe Martens, the smooth striding veteran performer, will test his legs in the 440 yard dash, which rendered a runner—up position in the YanCon indoor championships this year.

Stetson Arnold and Mike Quinn, All—American holdovers from cross country, hope to overcome the ailments that hindered their performances this past season.

"Both Mike and Stet have potential in the mile and six mile, but lost too much of their training background to compete at those distances. They will probably concentrate their efforts on the three mile this spring," said O'Brien.

University of Massachusetts
Union Program Council
PRESENTS
Tower of Power
April 23
Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall
8 p.m.
Tickets: UMass Students-$4.50, 5, 5.50
General Public- $5.50, 6, 6.50
Tickets on sale April 10
Tickets available at: Fine Arts Center Box Office and all Ticketron outlets
No cans, bottles or smoking in concert hall
UPCOMING CONCERTS
To Be Announced

Bell's
Pizza
"Forget the rest
Bell's is Best
549-1311 253-9051
65 University Drive



Invite the bunch...
Mix a great, big bucket full of Open House Punch!
Serves 32 . . . tastes like a super cocktail!
Greatest drink ever invented! Mix a batch in advance, add ice and 7UP at the last minute . . . serve the crowd right out of the bucket! Smooth 'n delicious. Wow!

Recipe
One fifth Southern Comfort
3 quarts 7UP
6 oz. fresh lemon juice
One 6-oz. can frozen orange juice
One 6-oz. can frozen lemonade

Chill ingredients. Mix in bucket, adding 7UP last. Add a few drops food coloring (optional) and stir lightly. Add ice, orange, lemon slices. Looks and tastes great!

You know it's got to be good . . . when it's made with
Southern Comfort®
SOUTHERN COMFORT CORPORATION, 100 PROOF LIQUEUR, ST. LOUIS, MO. 63132

Don't get caught with high winter heating bills!

2 bedroom garden apartments from $255
Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE- heat and hot water

NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS

For Your Convenience:
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

★ Minimum 10 month lease available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours—Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

PETE'S PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST

FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Call: 256-6828 for FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)

NIGHTLY 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. 6:00 p.m.-10:30 p.m.

HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT

家 酒 園 南 湖

Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
+ Open 7 days a week +

Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

LUNCHEON SPECIALS:
SWEET & SOUR PORK
SWEET & SOUR CHICKEN
OR CHICKEN CHOW MEIN
$1.95

Mon.-Fri. only
11:30-2:30

DINNER SPECIALS $3.75
Mon-Wed 5:00-8:00 p.m.

10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252

Banquet Facilities

THIS SPRING... WALK ON WOOD
CLOSED-BACK & MEN'S too

Golden Temple Emporium
35 N. Pleasant Amherst.

The Collegian
is looking for a
Finance Manager
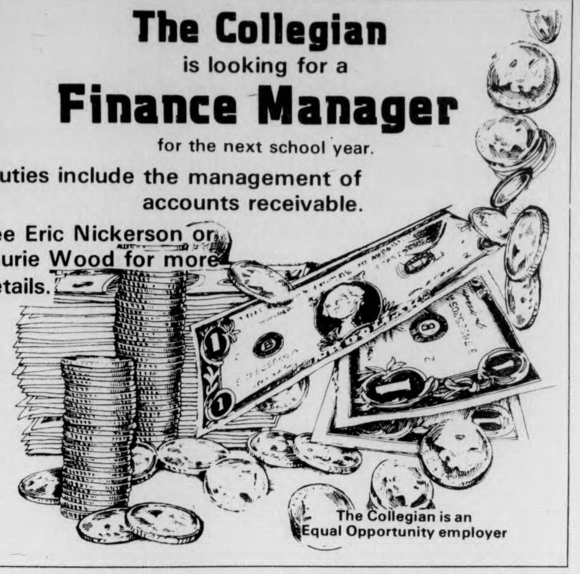
for the next school year.
Duties include the management of accounts receivable.
See Eric Nickerson or Laurie Wood for more details.



The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity employer

SPRING SCHEDULE

Varsity Baseball

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| April 7 | A. I. C. | | Away | 3:00 |
| April 8 | Northeastern | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| April 13 | Springfield | | Away | 3:00 |
| April 15 | New Hampshire | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| April 16 | Holy Cross | | Away | 2:00 |
| April 18 | Boston College | | Home | 3:00 |
| April 19 | S.M.U. | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| April 20 | Fairfield | | Away | 3:00 |
| April 22 | Maine | (2) | Away | 12:00 |
| April 26 | Dartmouth | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| April 27 | Bridgeport | | Home | 3:00 |
| April 29 | Rhode Island | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| May 3 | Connecticut | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| May 6 | Providence | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| May 8 | Connecticut | | Away | 3:00 |
| May 9 | Springfield | | Home | 3:00 |
| May 12 | Amherst | | Home | 3:00 |
| May 13 | Siena | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| May 15 | Brown | (2) | Home | 1:00 |

COACH: DICK BERGQUIST

Softball (Women)

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| April 8 | Central Conn. | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| April 11 | Keene State | | Away | 1:00 |
| April 13 | E. Connecticut | (2) | Away | 6:00 |
| April 16 | New Hampshire | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| April 18 | Westfield St. | (2) | Away | 2:30 |
| April 20 | Springfield | | Home | 2:30 |
| April 22 | Boston State | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| April 24 | Bridgewater | | Home | 3:00 |
| April 28 | Connecticut | (2) | Home | 2:00 |
| April 29 | Rhode Island | | Home | 2:00 |
| May 2 | So. Connecticut | | Home | 2:30 |
| May 6 | Vermont | (2) | Away | 1:30 |
| May 9 | Springfield | | Away | 2:30 |

COACH: DIANNE THOMPSON

J. V. Softball (Women)

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| April 11 | Keene State | | Away | 3:00 |
| April 15 | Franklin Pierce | (2) | Home | 12:00 |
| April 20 | Springfield | | Home | 4:00 |
| April 24 | Bridgewater | | Home | 3:00 |
| April 27 | Smith Col. | | Away | 3:00 |
| April 29 | Rhode Island | | Home | 3:30 |
| May 1 | Berkshire C.C. | (2) | Home | 2:30 |
| May 2 | So. Connecticut | | Home | 4:15 |
| May 9 | Springfield | | Away | 2:30 |

COACH: JEAN LAMBERT

Lacrosse (Men)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 8 | Syracuse | Away | 1:30 |
| April 12 | Vermont | Home | 3:00 |
| April 15 | Rutgers | Away | 1:30 |
| April 17 | Boston College | Away | 7:00 |
| April 19 | Brown | Home | 3:00 |
| April 22 | Williams | Home | 2:00 |
| April 26 | Hofstra | Home | 3:00 |
| April 29 | New Hampshire | Away | 3:00 |
| May 3 | Army | Home | 3:00 |
| May 6 | Harvard | Home | 2:00 |
| May 8 | Springfield | Away | 3:00 |
| May 10 | Dartmouth | Away | 3:00 |

COACH: RICHARD GARBER

J.V. Lacrosse (Women)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 13 | Northeastern | Away | 3:30 |
| April 18 | Smith College | Home | 5:00 |
| April 20 | Williams College | Away | 5:00 |
| April 26 | Bridgewater St. | Home | 4:15 |
| May 2 | Mount Holyoke | Home | 4:15 |
| May 11 | Plymouth State | Away | 1:00 |

COACH: FRANK GARAHAN

J.V. Lacrosse (Men)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 8 | Naval Academy Prep | Home | 2:00 |
| April 11 | Dean Jr. Coll. | Away | 3:30 |
| April 14 | Tufts | Home | 3:00 |
| April 15 | Rhode Island | Away | 2:00 |
| April 19 | Brown | Home | 3:00 |
| April 22 | Williams | Home | 2:00 |
| April 29 | St. Michaels | Away | 1:30 |
| May 6 | Harvard | Home | 2:00 |

COACH: PETER CONNOLLY

Lacrosse (Women)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 12 | Brown | Home | 3:30 |
| April 13 | Northeastern | Away | 3:30 |
| April 18 | Smith College | Home | 4:00 |
| April 20 | Williams College | Away | 4:00 |
| April 26 | Bridgewater St. | Home | 3:00 |
| April 29 | New Hampshire | Home | 11:00 |
| April 29 | Rhode Island | Home | 3:00 |
| May 2 | Mt. Holyoke | Home | 3:00 |
| May 3 | Springfield | Away | 3:00 |
| May 11 | Plymouth State | Away | 3:00 |

COACH: FRANK GARAHAN

Track (Women)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 15 | UMass Relay | Home | 10:00 |
| April 22 | B.C. Relays | @ Boston | 10:00 |
| April 28 | Vermont | Home | 3:00 |
| May 13 | New Englands USTFF | @ Springfield | |

COACH: CHARLOTTE LETTIS

J. V. Baseball

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| April 10 | Holyoke C. C. | | Home | 3:30 |
| April 12 | Quinsigamond C.C. | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| April 15 | Becker Jr. | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| April 18 | Assumption | (2) | Home | 1:00 |
| April 20 | Connecticut | | Home | 3:00 |
| April 24 | Berkshire C.C. | | Home | 3:00 |
| April 26 | Dartmouth | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| April 29 | Springfield | (2) | Away | 1:00 |
| May 3 | Westfield St. | | Away | 3:00 |
| May 4 | Westfield St. | | Home | 3:00 |
| May 6 | Springfield | (2) | Home | 1:00 |

COACH: JIM BEDARD

Varsity Track (Men)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 8 | Boston College | Away | 11:00 |
| April 14-15 | UMass Relay | Home | |
| April 21-22 | B.C. Relays | @ B.C. | |
| April 28-29 | Penn Relays | @ UPenn | |
| May 6 | Yan-Con Champ. | U.Vt. | |
| May 13-14 | New Englands | Home | |
| May 20-21 | IC4A's | @ Univ. of Penn. | |

COACH: KEN O'BRIEN

Golf (Women)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 7 | Mt. Holyoke | @ Hickory Ridge | 1:00 |
| April 14 | Mt. Holyoke | @ Hickory Ridge | 1:00 |

COACH: JANE McGAHAN

Tennis (Men)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 7 | Tufts | Away | 3:00 |
| April 12 | Middlebury | Home | 3:00 |
| April 13 | M. I. T. | Away | 3:00 |
| April 18 | Holy Cross | Home | 3:00 |
| April 22 | Central Conn. | Away | 1:00 |
| April 23 | Boston College | Away | 2:00 |
| April 25 | Springfield | Home | 3:00 |
| April 29 | SUNY @ Albany | Away | 1:00 |

COACH: STEVE WILLIAMS

Golf (Men)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 18 | Amherst/Dartmouth | @ Hickory Ridge | 1:00 |
| April 20 | Boston Col./Holy Cross | @ Pleasant Valley | 1:00 |
| April 25 | Harvard/Providence | @ Lincoln, R.I. | 1:00 |
| April 30-May 1 | Salem St. Tourney | @ Manchester, Ma. | |
| May 4 | Div. 1 Tournament | @ Yale | |

COACH: ED VLACH

Rugby

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 8 | Concord (NH) RFC | (A-B-C-D) | away |
| April 15 | Dover(NH) RFC | (A-B-C) | away |
| April 17 | Amherst College | (A-B) | home |
| April 22 | Dartmouth College | (A-B-C-D) | away |
| April 26 | Trinity College | (B-D) | home |
| April 29 | Springfield RFC | (A-B-C) | home |
| May 6 | University of New Brunswick | (A-B) | home |
| May 7 | Harvard Business School F's | ---- | away |
| May 13-14 | NERFU Tourney | A | Providence |
| | Brown University | B-C-D | Providence |

Crew

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| April 8 | Mt. Holyoke, Williams, UNH | So. Hadley, Ma. | Women |
| April 9 | UNH | Sportsman's Marina | Men |
| April 15 | Trinity, URI | Lake Wickaboag | Men |
| April 16 | Conn. College | New London, CT | Women |
| April 22 | Northeastern | Sportsman's Marina | Women |
| April 29 | Coast Guard | New London, CT | Men |
| | Coast Guard, Brown | Providence RI | Women |
| May 6 | New England Invitationals | Worcester, MA | Women-Men |
| May 12, 13 | Dad Vail | Philadelphia Pa. | Men |
| May 14 | Eastern Sprints | Pittsfield, MA | Women |

UMASS
Amherst

Tennis equipment and apparel

*****

Squash frames and balls for the 70 plus game

*****

Custom stringing and repair

Empsall's Sport Shop & Laura Girard Shop
84-86 Green Street, Northampton
584-3924 584-4003

rock your Soul with Joshua a band of Christians

SAT. April 8TH
AT CAPE COD. LOUNGE
8 p.m.
FREE!

Diamonds: (Wo)man's Best Friend

Bergquist's boys ready

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
COLLEGIAN STAFF

Judging from its first 15 games of the season, it appears the UMass baseball team is in for a long year.

After all, a 4-11 record does not give much cause for optimism. But the Minutemen have run afoul of the traditional bugaboo of New England college baseball- bad weather - and with a little cooperation from Mother Nature, UMass could turn things around in a hurry.

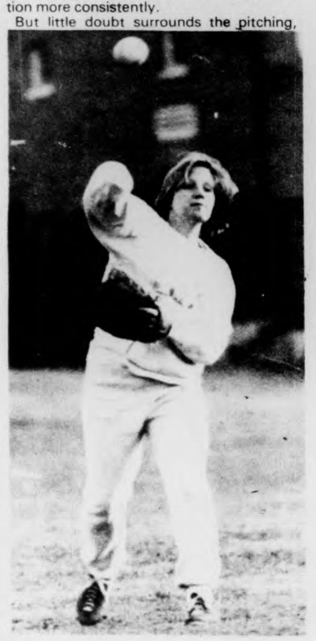
Without question, the Minutemen have the pitching to be a successful team. It is the hitting, or lack of it, which concerns coach Dick Bergquist.

"We need more punch," he said. "Against SMU and Siena (in the tourney), the players thought they should have hit their pitching better. In the first three games of the tourney, no one hit in clutch situations."

The Minutemen finally broke out of their slump with an 18-10 win over Vermont, which prompted Bergquist to say that "we really hit the ball."

But it now remains to be seen whether the club can get that kind of offensive production more consistently.

But little doubt surrounds the pitching, with which Bergquist is very pleased.



Doug Welenc, the most impressive pitcher thus far, is coming off a 2-2, 3.77 ERA freshman year. He had his third straight good outing when he hurled a complete game, 2-1 win oner SMU. He allowed just six hits.

Tom Nigro, who has been UMass's steadiest hurler over the past two seasons, has been laboring in the early going. Most recently, Bergquist removed him from the 3-1 Siena extra-inning loss after he had walked three in his first five innings of pitching.

Nigro is following a 5-4, 2.14 ERA season. All four of his losses were by one run. In 1976, Nigro was a spectacular 7-1.

"I think Welenc and Nigro could be two of the best starters in New England," Bergquist added.

Chris Collins figures to be the Minutemen's third starter. He struck out five and gave up just six hits in a 2-1 loss to SMU. An Amherst native, Collins hurled for the junior varsity last season.

Mike Yacysnyn, a senior transfer from Clemson and UConn, will be a spot starter and long reliever. He was the losing pitcher in the Siena game, but Bergquist said Yacysnyn pitched seven solid innings.

Dave Tewhill hopes to be the stopper in the bullpen. He was 3-4 with a 4.42 ERA last season, and is also one of only two lefthanders on the eight-man staff.

The primary offensive weapons should once again be shortstop Ed Skribiski and outfielder Mike McEvilly.

Skribiski, who led UMass with a .357 average last season, has been mired in a slump since the opening game of the year. He is batting only .146.

"He's making good contact, though," Bergquist noted, "He's only struck out six or seven times. We've been working with him to have him hit down on the ball and not pop up. He feels a little better now."

Skribiski, who shifted over to short to replace the graduated Jim Cullen, has been fielding the position well, according to Bergquist.

McEvilly, meanwhile, is leading the club with a .333 average after batting .310 and socking four home runs last year. McEvilly has also hit the only Minutemen roundtripper this season.

John Gallagher, a freshman from Amherst is hitting .434. He is 10 for 23 in limited appearances, and Bergquist said he should see action at designated hitter.

"Mike Stockley (.254 in'77) and Skribiski make a good secondshort combination, while Leo Kalinowksi (.262) is doing a good job at third," he reported.

Dale Stone (.289) is the incumbent at first.

Other outfielders include leftfielder George Kelley (.231), centerfielder Neal Lojek (.246) and rightfielder-leftfielder Mark Sullivan, who was out of school last year. Doug Aylward, listed on the roster as a pitcher, also playsleft field.

Softball: experience/youth

By MELISSA GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

The UMass Women's softball team launched its fifth year of competition last Tuesday when the 14-member squad played the University of Lowell under coach Dianne Thompson and her assistant Nancy Jean Lambert. UMass won, 3-l.

Eight starters, including co-captains Sue DiRocco and Cheryl Meliones are returning. DiRocco, the 1977 Minutewomen MVP, returns at shortstop. Meliones, also the UMass field hockey co-captain, has been combatting nerve damage in her elbow, but hopes to continue at catcher.

"I think we have an excellent team," said Meliones. This sentiment was echoed by Thompson, and with good reason. Her squad compiled an impressive 16-2 record in 1977. Last year the maroon and white split with Springfield, the region d nationals qualifier.

,The infielders, like their teammates, are adaptable. First base, left vacant by graduate Heidi Dickson, has several con3 tenders including Gail Carter, Kathy Horrigan, Patricia O'Connor and Jennifer Parker. All of the canidates play other positions as well.

Rhonda McManus plays second base while Chris Verdini returns at third. DiRocco can catch or play short.

Junior Elaine Howle's speciality is third base, but she can play other positions when called upon. Beth Collins, a sophomore, can change from a battery mate to an outfielder.

Rounding out the infield is Fran Coracchioli, who was promoted from the jayvees where she batted.500.

The Minutewomen lost one of their top hurlers, Gail Matthews, to graduation. However, two sophomores of the 3-member starting rotations are back. Carter comiled a 4-0 record along with a 1.52 E.R.A. Sue Peters was 6-0 with an E.R.A. of 1.56. Peters also led the team in strikeouts with 21.

Horrigan, Parker and O'Connor should add strength to the pitching corp. Sophomore transfers Horrigan, from Berkshire Community College, and Parker, from Southern Connecticut, should see action on the mound.

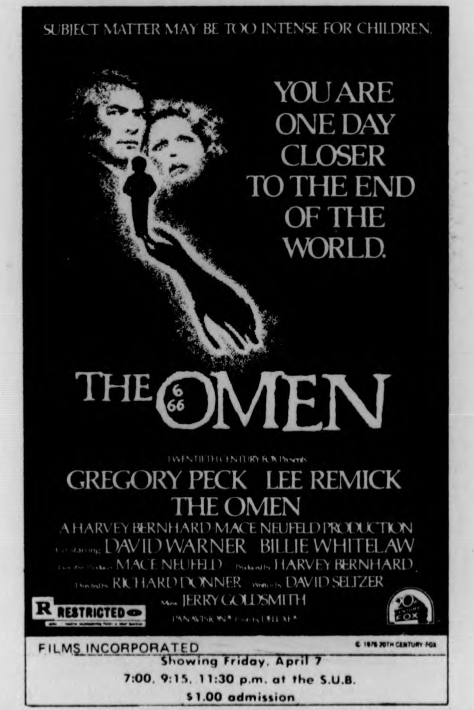
O'Connor, who played for the Westfield Whips in the American Softball Association, is an asset to the staff.

Completing the diamond are the outfielders. Carol Bruce is a veteran center fielder along wih with Patricia Oski, a right fielder. Peters alternates between hurling and left field.

All games are played on the field behind NOPE.

Friday Night Fever
No Booze Plenty of Spirits
April 7th Blue Room Worc. D.C.
8:30 - 1 50's, 60's & 70's Music
$1.25 adv. ticket sale,
& at the door

Dickinson House presents MONTY PYTHON'S
"AND NOW FOR SOMETHING COMPLETELY DIFFERENT"
S.U.B. Sat., April 8- 7:15, 9:00, 10:45



SUBJECT MATTER MAY BE TOO INTENSE FOR CHILDREN.
YOU ARE ONE DAY CLOSER TO THE END OF THE WORLD.
THE OMEN
TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX Presents
GREGORY PECK LEE REMICK
THE OMEN
A HARVEY BERNHARD-MACE NEUFELD PRODUCTION
Co-starring DAVID WARNER BILLIE WHITELAW
Executive Producer MACE NEUFELD Produced by HARVEY BERNHARD
Directed by RICHARD DONNER Written by DAVID SELTZER Music JERRY GOLDSMITH
R RESTRICTED
PANAVISION® Color by DELUXE®
FILMS INCORPORATED © 1976 20TH CENTURY FOX
Showing Friday, April 7
7:00, 9:15, 11:30 p.m. at the S.U.B.
$1.00 admission

Finesse Or Some Brute Force

Have a scrum, anyone?

by STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Your typical UMass sports team features those exciting collegiate entities such as recruiting, cuts, bids at nationwide recognition, and the like. You've seen it in basketball, football, and all the other biggie sports on campus.

Now, when a sport such as rugby is mentioned, none of these characteristics applies. Yes, UMass does have a rugby team, but it is a "club sport" and as such is run under different guidelines than other sports.

The UMass rugby club does no high-school recruiting, but rather seeks out students already enrolled in the institution.

"I'd say that almost 90 per cent of our players have never played any rugby before," explained Dr. R.L. Laurence, the team's coach, or faculty advisor. "The club isn't limited to students, though. We've got grad students, faculty, and even continuing ed. people playing."

The team's schedule is not adorned with top college competition either.

"We can handle most of the colleges we play," said Laurence. "But we play a lot of independent rugby football clubs like Concord(N.H.) REC and these teams are pretty tough."

In fact, the team had a 3-8 record in last fall's games, losing most of its tilts with independent teams.

While other sports feature one strong varsity team, the UMass RFC has an "A side" which is usually determined three days before each contest. This is followed by a "B side" which also competes, and a "C side."

"We have an A captain, B captain, and C captain," said Laurence. "They get together with me a few days before a game along with a few other players and we pick the starting lineups."

The club is a member of the New England Rugby Football Union (NERFU) and will be looking to wim its annual tourney May 13 and 14.

"We have essentially a new team," said Laurence. "We really got nailed with graduation a year ago and we didn't do enough on campus recruiting last fall to develop a strong team."

The top UMass player this spring is expected to be senior captiain Mark McCabe. McCabe, who plays prop for UMass, also plays for the New England side (the rugby form of all-star team), but as a hooker. McCabe is the only player featured on the New England side at this moment but other players, such as Pete Bates, are potential candidates, according to Laurence.

"We have a number of good players, said Laurence. "MaCabe is just one of them."

The diversity of this team can be shown by taking Tom Callahn as an example. A 1971 UMass grad, Callahan is a back row player who doesn't let opposing players bother him, no matter what they say. Callahn is deaf. He is a former wrestling champion and currently works for the Clark School for the Deaf.

A 1971 alumnus? Grad students? That's the UMass rugby team.... If the pressure is in the faces of many athletes here on campus, it certainly is not seen in these rugby players.

"We have to accept the fact that our players have other things to do," said Laurence. "We don't ask for a total commitment as in other sports. Any one who wants to play for us will play as ltng as they realize their limitaions in playing a new sport. Once they do that I think they can have a really good time."

The Rugby team has already played three games against Virginia, Maryland and George Washington, but these games did not feature the top UMass players.

Netwomen seek matches

by Art Simas
Collegian Staff

Starting its second season of competition during the spring semester, the UMass women's tennis team hopefully will play seven or eight matches.

Unlike the fall, the spring season has no definite matches planned according to a master schedule. Coach Billy Yu is in the process of getting some scrimmages against Five College competition in April.

"Because we don't have a set schedule, it's really decided on the whims of the coaches when we can get together," Yu said.

Thirteen women have been practicing at Hampshire College on Wednesday nights since early March. Only three, Captain Cathy Sullivan, Dawn Minaai and Jennifer Ranz are seniors. Yu said he was pleased that he has such a young team and his main concern for this spring is on developement for next fall.

Part of the developing process Yu spoke of was the mental toughness of the players. For Yu, "Being mentally tough in a tie breaker or other critical situations is the mark of a good tennis player. Other mechanical deficiencies can be developed and worked on later," he said.

Vying for the number one spot in singles are two freshmen, Cathy Maher and Lee Robb. Sullivan also played singles in past years but switched to doubles last fall in the Massachusetts Association of Intercolligiant Athletics for Women (MAIAW) tournament in Worcester.

Yu said, "Our number one doubles is as strong as the singles. They (Sullivan and Ranz) went to the finals of the MAIAW and made the quarter finals of the New England tournament at Amherst last year."

Comparing doubles and singles play, Sullivan said, "It's two totally different games. You have to know your partner inside and out, meaning that you've got to know where the ball is going to be played even before she hits it."

Maher, who played number one singles in the fall, agreed with Sullivan about the positioning of partners and added that the doubles player "has to be a good volleyer too. You can't stand back on the baseline—you've got to come to the net," she said.

Looking ahead to the spring season, Yu said, "We probably have the strongest team in UMass history, despite our 5—4 overall record during the fall."

Crew team's life a stroker

by Steve Westra
Collegian Staff

Spring has arrived and some men's thoughts turn not to love, but to the upcoming crew season.

The UMass team completed intensive indoor training at the end of February to chase the ice from the Connecticut River. It has practiced on the icy waters for over a month, including two practices a day over spring vacation, in preparation for its first spring race.

The last competitive contest for the men's crew was the Head of the Charles Regatta in October. The elite eight finished 25th of 40 in a field composed of the best crews in the country. The intermediate eight was not given an official finish due to a small misunderstanding with another crew.

The spring season will open Sunday on the Connecticut against the crew of UNH.

Steve Loomer, men's freshman coach, is busy readying two eights for the arrival of the cats. This year's crew is the second coached by Loomer, a UMass grad. If the crew can remain healthy they should be quite competitive.

The varsity men have been training under new coach Chick Leonard. Leonard, also a graduate and oarsman from UMass, hopes to bring the same success to the varsity crew as he did to the freshman crews of the early 70's.

The varsity men will pit two eights against UNH. UNH's crew program is relatively new, but has improved quickly under a new coach. Leonard is making no hasty speculations.

THINK SPRING!
It's time to run down to Fenton's for your Running Shoes
adidas nike
Onitsuka Tiger
377 Main Street, Amherst 253-3973
FENTON'S ATHLETIC SUPPLIES

Footworks
$17.00
colors (canvas): navy, black, chino, and white
SEE ALL THE STYLES AT BOLLES SHOES
★ 2 LOCATIONS ★
★ 8 MAIN ST., AMHERST
★ HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS, RTE. 9, HADLEY

Netmen show experience

by MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

The men's tennis team is characterized by an unusual combination of youth and experience. Only one of the six singles positions is occupied by a senior--two are filled by freshmen. But all are seasoned players for the college level and they appear confident.

"I think this is the best team we've ever had since I've been here," said junior Alan Green, UMass' top singles player.

And Green has a lot to compare it with. Last spring the team, considered to be one of the best in UMass history, took fifth place at the New England Championships--UMass' finest showing ever.

This year's team lost the Yankee Conference Championship last fall to UNH by a mere point. Considering that clashes between academic and tennis schedules jumbled the lineup throughout the season, the second place finish was quite a feat.

This season is different, however. The clashes won't exist, but the competitin will be tougher. More importantly, the team has a new coach, and he's not a grad student who plans to leave in two years like his predecessors. Steve Williams is ranked among the top ten tennis players in New England and he teaches the game for a living.

Williams believes the players will improve under his reign because "seeing deficiencies in the game is what I do."

"Doubles is his specialty," Green said, "which is good for us because that's where we used to take our dives."

In fact, doubles could be the team's strongest area. Williams has paired Green and Sharton at first doubles. The two are aggressive serve and volley players and will force the play against opponents. Green and Sharton also play first and second singles respectively.

Green missed most of the fall matches because of late afternoon classes. His 8-0 singles record of last spring attests to his consistency. Sharton won the second singles division at the Yankee Conference Championships last fall.

For the other two doubles teams, Williams has combined a soft hitter with an aggressive net attacker. While one keeps the ball in play, the the other will be looking for the winner..

Although Williams said the pairings may change, it appears that senior captain Steve Heyl will team up with freshman Keith Hovland. Heyl is methodical and keeps the game at a steady pace, while Hovland is a hard hitter.

Heyl is the third singles player and likes to take his time to set up winners. Hovland, at sixth singles, is an aggressor with a lot of potential. He filled in at fourth singles against Vermont last fall and stunned Mark Conpagnon, 6-4, 6-1.

Finally, sophomore Dave Nowak and freshman Mark Huetteman comprise the third doubles team. Nowak isn't a hard hitter and Huetteman isn't known for his soft touch.

At fifth singles, Nowak softballs his opponents to death from the baseline. He avoids the net and waits for the other guy to make a mistake. Huetteman won the sixth singles at the Yankee Conference Championships and has earned the fourth singles position.

The season opens today with a match at Tufts. Also on the Minutemen's schedule are: Middlebury, MIT, Holy Cross, Central Conn., Boston College, Springfield, and SUNY Albany.

MIA CLOGS OF SWEDEN

SEE ALL THE STYLES AT:
BOLLES SHOES
★ 2 LOCATIONS ★
★ 8 MAIN ST., AMHERST
★ HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS, RTE. 9, HADLEY

THIS COULD BE YOUR LUCKY DAY

An Air Force ROTC scholarship can mean a lot when you need help with college finances. It pays tuition, books and lab fees ... and gives you $100 a month for other college costs. This could be just what you need to permit you to fine tune your concentration on your studies. It could mean the difference between not making it at all, and going out on your own with a good, solid college degree.

The Air Force is a great way to be on your own. As a commissioned officer, you'll have responsibility with your very first job. You'll find an atmosphere of dedication, trust, and reliance, and you'll jump right into managing people and expensive resources. You'll have an excellent starting salary — good financial security.

It can all start with a decision to check out AFROTC. Find out how you can get a scholarship. See what we offer, then show us what you can offer in return. It just might be our lucky day, too!

CALL 5-2437
AIR FORCE ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

Shape Up With SPORT SHAKE

Sport Shake...a delicious way to shape up and keep in shape!

Vanilla, Chocolate, & Strawberry flavors

Available now in all Munchys stores in the refrigerated section next to the yogurt

Stop by Munchys and taste for yourself!

April 5,6, & 7 from 4:00-6:00 p.m.

FACES

UMBRELLAS

Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

COSMIC WIMPOUT

Wimpout originated in Eugene, Oregon. It was discovered by two travelers who took the game all over the country. Folks in Oregon, California, Hawaii, Colorado, Illinois, New York, and Massachusetts really liked to play.

The basic game was pretty simple but everywhere people added new rules. It got so all the rules boggled the minds of the new players. Teaching a few rules at a time made the game easy to learn, but friends would look at you in a funny way and say, "Hey, come on, you just made that up." Thus this rulebook....

After a while the players began to get a little weird. Some of them began to do things like hike up to the top of a beautiful mountain to take in a righteous view only to end up playing Wimpout when they discovered a natural playing surface. On another occasion some especially bold players walked deep into Central Park on Halloween so they could roll under the full moon at Midnight.

Anyway, Wimpout is a lot of fun. But it's more than an experience; it's a game.

The game that found a home at UMass! Watch for the annual tournament coming soon— practice now!

Games available at only $1.99 at

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Come to the "CLASS HAPPY HOUR" at the Top of the Campus
Every Friday
65¢ "Mich" Bottles
Tired of draft beer, plastic cups and getting your feet stepped on?
Come and enjoy the relaxed atmosphere at the Class Happy Hour every Friday
3:30-6:30 with 65¢ bottled Michelobs and Bar Drinks 99¢ plus free Munchies.
St. Patty's Day is coming to the TOC. See tomorrow's Collegian for details.

akke harassment

average or a popular-doctor ratio of 700 to 1 overall in the U.S. and 3,800 to 1 for Blacks.

The Bakke case is happening in the context of an economic crisis and presents many problems for white people as well as minorities. Places in school are more scarce; jobs afterward are more difficult to find. But how is it possible that minorities are taking places away from whites when minorities are still grievously and outrageously underrepresented in higher education, and when minorities are twice as frequently without jobs? It doesn't make sense. In fighting to overturn Bakke, these facts must be brought out again and again, so that past understanding can be solidified and more gains made in dealing with the real source of discrimination, and unemployment and all the difficulties the American people, white as well as minority, must face in everyday life.

The characters that wrote those disgusting things on the window (or the ones that burned the crosses last year) only do their work in the dead of night, like all sewer rats. They are doing the dirty work of the capitalists in setting up the minority community for further and more intense discrimination, which is just what the profit system has always meant for minorities. It is also an attempt to divide — Black and White, for their rule. This must be answered.

Today the banner on the railing of the Student Union, that advertised the Anti-Bakke Demonstration was stolen, This kind of harassment and intimidation will not stop us from uniting with students and other people against the oppression of minorities; and it will not stop us from fighting against all attacks brought on the people by the capitalists.

On to Washington, D.C. April 15.

Brook States is a member of the Revolutionary Student Brigade.

nuclear monster

populace. The nuclear industry still can't figure out how to dispose of radioactive waste. There is the ominous possibility that

"In case of emergency, repeat after me: Our father..."

errorists may seize nuclear materials to wreak havoc.

The most frightening aspect of nuclear power, however, is that the industry itself refuses to take full responsibility in the event of a nuclear accident. In 1957, the nuclear industry managed to persuade Congress to pass the Price-Anderson Nuclear Liability Law, putting a ceiling on the amount of damage costs a nuclear power plant would be responsible for in the event of an accident. The top limit was $560 million with taxpayers footing another $435 million of the bill. Federal studies estimate that an accident could result in losses totalling up to $280 billion, in which case injurred parties would receive a few pennies for each dollar loss.

Airlines, explosives manufacturers, and chemical manufacturers assume full responsibility for possible accidents. The chances of accidents with these industries are low, though damage costs high, just as it is with the nuclear industry. The law was struck down in a recent U.S. District Ct. case brought by a North Carolina environmental group, but is to be appealed very shortly in the Supreme Court, with powerful reinforcements on the industry's side.

Jimmy Carter should realize that nuclear power is not the savior some make it out to be; it is costly and dangerous. At any rate, he can't afford to alienate his environmentalist supporters, who may turn to staunchly anti-nuke Gov. Jerry Brown in 1980.

George Sommers is a Collegian commentator.

Apartment life

kevin knobloch

In the world of college residential living in Amherst, apartment dwelling has traditionally represented the next step up from the confines of dorm living, the Mercedes of living quarters, if you will. As inexperienced and unsuspecting dorm people flood the rental offices during the approaching months to seek out this Camelot, guidance of some nature will be needed. Let this column, then, become a manual to "the good life".

Let no one kid you, apartment life is a jungle. For those accustomed to three square meals a day, quality aside, and a well ordered dormitory room, apartment living can quickly become a world of ill fitting window curtains, blobs of toothpaste marring one's image in the bathroom mirror and adhesive kitchen floors. Allow me to explain.

Dangers lurk throughout an apartment, but nowhere is one's well being as threatened as it is in the kitchen. Unwashed dishtowels have been known to attack the solitary late night snacker. Phone messages and mail are apt to become lost in the desperate clutter that calls the counter home.

The modern kitchen is a haven for appliances, which create a host of new problems to deal with. The garbage disposal, located somewhere beneath the sink, appears at first to be a constant source of entertainment. However, one must take the utmost care not to be taken in by the exhilarating sight of limp celery stalks meeting a twirling death at the hands of a gurgling disposal blade. Yes, chicken bones are best for its noise effect, but stainless steel spoons cause more grief than enjoyment and should be avoided.

The electric dishwasher serves as an ideal hiding place for dirty dishes should company be on their way over and may be occasionally run should the need for clean dishes arise. In the refrigerator department, beware of the long forgotten cucumber or grapefruit half, tucked behind the salad dressing and olives on the third shelf, which will instinctively notify you of its loneliness by emitting an odor resembling the elephant stalls at Barnum and Bailey.

The apartment chef should be knowledgeable, versatile and have dulled taste buds. Defrosting tops the list of skills to be mastered. Popular time-tested dishes include spaghetti and ketchup, spaghetti and tomato sauce and spaghetti with bread and butter. For a tasty alternative, hamburgers topped with cheese are sure to please the most picky of eaters. And, for those who choose to stubbornly hold out for superior culinary delights, lasagna is just the dish and may be obtained by taking Route 2 to Route 495 to my mother's house.

When it comes to housekeeping, the Felix Ungers of the world beware. The Oscar Madisons' far outnumber your colleagues in sterility. The degree of an apartment's cleanliness may be swiftly determined by examining the nucleus of any household, the bathroom. If the tiles remind you of a giant laboratory culture, with stiff towels hanging in disarray on an overcrowded rack and strange growth in every crevice, the dwellers have apparently mastered the Madisonian technique.

Bill paying has a major role in apartment living, and represents a skill that may be tapped again and again throughout life — avoiding the due date. Bills to ignore rent, telephone and electric, while more important items include cable television, food and dope bills, which, of course, are a must to any civilized dwelling.

Decor is as important to the apartment dweller as sturdy lounge furniture is to any dorm. To the already respectful and graphic works of Mattise, Dali and Escher may be added expose pix of Cheryl Tiegs, Sylvestor Stalone and Farrah (is she really on the way out?). Shelves lined with colorful bound books (you needn't have read them), oversized stereo speakers and a dart board (punch a few holes in the wall for effect) will fill out the living room. If available, a leatherbound backgammon board or wood carved chess set should be left out in full view to help impress.

The apartment dweller may notice a vicious competition between the television and stereo for his-her attention. Television viewing should be limited to Andy Griffith reruns (is Floyd the barber really on drugs?), Saturday Night Live and a popular sitcom like Soap or Mash. The evening news, 60 Minutes and educational programming are the losers here, as studies must be fit in somewhere.

Anyone interested in subletting?

Kevin Knobloch is a Collegian columnist.

Stranded at sea

By DAVID BIGGERS
and QUANG LE

We would like to bring to the attention of the UMass community the tragic plight of Indochinese refugees, or so-called "boat people" who, after fleeing from Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos, are left to an uncertain future at sea.

Currently, several Asian nations, Japan in particular, impose highly restrictive regulations on commercial ships bound for their ports. These regulations require that before captains can bring in refugees they have picked up at sea, they must obtain a written guarantee from their home governments assuming responsibilities for resettling the refugees elsewhere. Because of this time-consuming and costly process, many ships have ignored the pleas for help from boat people who are stranded on tiny fishing boats in crowded conditions, running out of fuel, food and water.

In cases where ships suffer disasters, do not other ships rush to assist them irrespective of nationality?

We are deeply saddened by the tragic consequences of our inability to solve this problem which leaves thousands of children, women, and men stranded in the ocean, drowning or starving to death while ships pass them by.

It is sadly ironic that so much concern and attention is brought to light about the killing of dolphins while little has been expressed about the estimated 10,000 human lives lost in the ocean.

In view of the foregoing, a Coalition to Save Asian Refugees at Sea has recently been formed on campus to air discussion of this critical and urgent problem. A petition is being circulated to university organizations requesting their endorsements. We petition, regardless of political ideology, with a genuine concern for our fellow human beings.

Last week, President Carter approved the elements of an interim refugee policy that will permit admission into the United States of all boat people refused asylum elsewhere. With such a guarantee, the Japanese government has no reason to refuse temporary sanctuary to refugees.

By means of the petition, to be sent to both the Japanese and United States' governments, and to the United Nations, the Coalition urgently requests that Japan and other Asian nations modify their unnecessary and inhumane stands. We ask for your support in helping to save thousands of lives.

David Biggers and Quang Le are members of the Coalition to save Asian Refugees at Sea.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian
student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor, [illegible] P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Learning Tomorrows seminars

Regularly enrolled UMass students, both graduate and undergraduate, can register at no cost for one-credit workshops being offered at the Learning Tomorrows Conference on the Future of Education. The workshops will take place during the conference, to be held April 18-21. Each workshop involves approximately two (2) hours class-time each day of the conference, attendance at a variety of presentations at the conference, and a paper to be completed by the end of Spring Semester. Credit workshops that are still open for enrollment include:

1. Future Approaches to Resolving Education Conflicts — Jeffrey Eiseman. This workshop focuses on new roles for professional mediators, new technologies available for resolving conflicts, and new expectations for disputing parties to "fight constructively."

2. Education for Intimacy — Jack Wideman and Evan Coopersmith. An opportunity to explore and develop ways to cultivate natural intimacy in work as educators, therapists, consultants, or administrators.

3. Fountainheads of Educational Change: Snipe Hunting Adult-style — William Wolf. An exploration of the processes of communication of knowledge, technology transfer, and knowledge diffusion and utilization. In education, who says what to whom by what channel to what effect and for what purpose?

4. Quantitative Models in Educational Planning — Ernest Anderson. A workshop on technical tools for educational planning, focusing on Delphi techniques, Cross Impact Matrices, Pert Methods, Linear Programming and Simulation Modeling.

5. Envisioning Alternative Futures: Methods for the Classroom, Section 1 — Peter H. Wagschal and Duane Dale. Focuses on methods which broaden people's options for the future and which can be used in classrooms from mid-elementary level through high school. Including, for example, creative problem solving techniques and systems approaches to learning.

6. Envisioning Alternative Futures: Methods for the Classroom, Section 2 — Dwight W. Allen-Neal Norris (Same as Workshop 5)

7. Collaborative Program Workshop — Linda Abrams. Focuses on new models for more complete participation of all affected parties in development efforts. Experience from a variety of collaborative programs in developing countries will be described and analyzed.

9. Reality Techniques in the Classroom: Get off your Textbook Merry-Go-Round — George Urch-Carol Stefanik. A demonstration of ways to incorporate real-life situations and problems into regular classroom activities on the high school level. Including videotapes of such techniques as they have been used.

10. Curriculum Development for the Future — Harvey Scribner-Kathe Chatwood. A review of the basics of curriculum design and a survey of alternative models for curriculum theory, implementation, and evaluation. Practical emphasis will be on Future Studies methods and materials.

11. Toward a Science of Education — Dan Jordan. A review of the most recent developments in educating the whole person. Including brain functions, diet, health, self-concept, and learning environments.

Students may register for no more than one workshop. Anyone interested should contact: Melenna Bonnella, Room 113, Office of Records and Registration, Cont. Ed., Hasbrouck.

Notices

LOST

Four subject notebook, Friday, March 31 in Bluewall. If found, please return to info desk or call 545-2871.

FOUND

Textbook of Working Physiology, by Astrand and Rodahl, Wed. night between Whitmore and SBA. Call Ben 5-0924.

TWO ACTORS NEEDED

Student doing independent study, Albee's, Zoo Story, needs 2 dedicated persons for 1 month to perform in final project. Call Mike 546-7982, 412 Coolidge.

BLOCK PARTY

Second annual Springmania is coming on May 5.

CONTRACEPTION EDUCATION FOR MEN

Workshop offered Monday, April 10 at 7 p.m. in University Health Center, room 302.

C.O.S.A. SUPPORTERS MEETING

Students interested in forming an organization that can coordinate student interests and actions across campus are meeting Sunday, April 9, 7 p.m. in Campus Center 803.

COSMIC WIMPOUT RULE COMMITTEE

The Cosmic Wimpout Rule Committee wants suggestions for the Rules for Tournament — Give input to Rob Gilbert, 19th floor of Washington Tower.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo: Pioneer receiver, Ohm C speakers, AR turntable, $350, call 256-6106.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

Stereo: Onkyo TX4500 55w/ch; EPI90 speakers and Philips TT, call 549-3732, $350 firm. Ask for Atul.

4 sale—Panasonic stereo, 8 tr. recorder, turntable, over 50 tapes, headphones, albums included. $225. Call Pat, 549-1326.

AUTO FOR SALE

66 VW bug, reliable, good eng., needs minor work, $150, 323-4362—mornings.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

1975 Vega Hatchback: automatic, rustproof, exc. cond. Only $1595 or BO. 253-3113.

1973 red VW Super Beetle, good cond., $1300. Call 283-5275.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

Steal—73 Maverick, PS/AC, no rust, 2 snows, more, exc. cond., $1675 or BO. Scott, 5-2642.

For sale—1971 Duster, reliable slant 6, good shape, call 546-5293.

1971 VW Fastback automatic, radio, very good shape, $925 or BO. After 5, 665-3946.

73 Fiat wagon, standard, 54,000 miles, excellent condition, $1400. Tel. 586-0604.

71 Ply Cricket, 4 spd., gd. cond., $400, 253-3963, after five.

69 Skylark—PS, PB, A/C, posi, t. whl., radio, sprg. ins. Stckr—call after 6, 253-2656.

1973 Chevy Impala, 2 door, mint condition, low mileage, must sell, call Pat after 6 p.m., 256-6670.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

Sleight of hand taught by experienced magician, contact Bill, 253-9824, after 5.

FOR RENT

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Wms 26" 3-sp. Raleigh bike. BO. 6-8235.

Must sell 61 Dodge Phoenix. Dependable Bomber, $200, call Nancy at 586-2944.

Tent—8x14 ft. canvas w/ ground cloth, $80, call Paul at 5 & 11 p.m., 253-5061.

Ladie's Frye boots, size 8, barely worn, rust color, sell for $45, call 549-1515.

'72 Gibson, $150, call Jeff, 546-5100.

Waterbed—new, still in box. Warranties valid. Includes 10 yr. warranteed mattress, solid pine frame, heater—thermostat, liner, deck & riser. $185. Call 617-762-9049. Neil.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549 1330.

Raleigh Professional: used one month; all campagnolo. Must sell. Call 549-3732, $450 or BO.

1969 VW again! New starter—runs good, 1-467-3465, $175 firm.

S&G Enterprises is back in time for spring with full line of famous name BBall shoes at guaranteed lowest prices. Call 6-9611, Al.

Kenwood 2055 turntable, 6 mths. old, exc. cond., $150 or best offer. Call 253-2782.

HELP WANTED

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free info—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Want to get involved? Here's your chance! Volunteers needed to assist the Collegian in a market survey and other advertising projects. Contact Linda Vene, downstairs in the Campus Center.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn 38117.

Fashion model needed for spring show. Experience not necessary. Neat appearance a must. Call 6-8089 and leave message.

Counselors: Adirondack Boys' camp; 7 weeks; $450-550; Swimming Instructor (WSI); Trip Leader; Riflery Instructor; Driver; Office Manager (typing); 39 Mill Valley Rd., Pittsford, N.Y. 14534.

Summer Camp for boys seeks University students with dedication for its 8 week dorm counselor/instructor positions. Openings are for those with skills in swimming (WSI pref.), riflery, axemanship, tennis, nature conservation and photography. Board, room and laundry with salary of $550 to $850. For application write: Mowglis, School of the Open, East Hebron, N.H. 03232.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036. (212) 736-6595.

Summer Openings — for appt. call: 253-2597.

Travel this summer and make $315/ week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

INSTRUCTION

Statistics—Math Tutoring; Program designed for individual needs; John 253-2036.

Piano Lessons For ambitious beg. or int.; creative, intensive approach; low rates. Classical, pop & theory. Studied at Mnhtn. & Indiana Conservtrs. Gregory Nissen, 546-5545.

LOST

Lost—a tan leather "cowboy" hat on Apr. 4. If found, call 549 6563. Reward!

March 18—PPan bus rte., Bos.—Amh., pntngs and drawings; reward. Call Lauren, 256-6218.

Palm tree pin at Bluewall March 30, great sentimental value. Reward, 549-6322.

MOTORCYCLES

1975 TS185 Suzuki, exc. cond., $500. Call 253-7610, after 5.

Kawasaki KZ400 red & chrome, 5250 miles, excellent condition, w/ helmet $940, call 549-0179.

PERSONALS

RCM Jr.—happy anniversary a few days early! So bizz, what are you doing for the next 26 months? Never mind that, what are doing the weekend of April 22? I've got an offer you can't refuse, babe! I love you, SED.

Saffire, 18 months are only the beginning. Travel is in our future but I'm sure we won't be separated. Thanks. ESSS.

Red Sox BBall cards. Need many for a friend Other teams, too. 665-3412.

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Pinocchio is coming.

Christian Women; Live in a Christian suite in Cashin. Call Dawn at 546-4133.

SERVICES

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Alterations for your spring wardrobe. Dressmaking by appointment. Call M-F 5-10 p.m. Most Sundays all day, 256-8403.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Condidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—$.60/page. Call 549-6655.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Exciting classes in silversmithing, batik, spinning, kiln building, stained glass. Begin April 17 at Leverett Craftsmen. Call 253-9062.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul—$24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

Fast service and sales—call Valley Typewriter and Business Machines, Co. Licensed technicians. Guaranteed repairs. Lowest prices in the Valley. Free pick-up, delivery, free estimates. 665-3290.

TO SUBLET

Sublet cheap at Puffton Vill. for June 1. Call 549-6195 or come to 105 Puffton.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

Large bdrm. avail. in 1½ bdrm. Puffton apt. 5/31-8/31, $95/mo. 549-1377.

2 bdrm. Cliffside apt., 6/1-8/31, opt. to renew. Pool, air cond., bus rt. 665-3190.

3-4 bedrm. duplex, avail. 6/1. $300 + util. (cheap!) 10 min. walk to town & 5 Coll. bus. 584-0177, N'hampton.

Why sit on waiting lists? Sublet our 2 br. apt. in summer & it's yours in Sept. Bus route & walking distance to campus. 549-6152.

Ptly furn, 2 bdrm apt, Colonial Vlg. On bus rt, laundry fac., pool. 5/27-8/31. 170/mo, includes util. 256-8687.

Lg 2 bdrm, $220/mo, util incl, avail 6/1, Col Vlg, opt to renew, call eve, 256-6489.

Summer sublet, lg. 3-br. apt. in S. Amherst, $280/mo., neg., 256-6681, after 5:00.

June 1-Aug. 31—2 bedroom apt., 7 minute walk to campus, air conditioned, rent negotiable. Call 549-6340.

1 bdrm apt, Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

1 bdrm apt, beaut. loc., AC, all util. pd. Cats OK, quiet, avail. 6/1, $165/mo. 549-1582.

3 bdrm, DW, AC, pool, tennis, close to UM bus route, $250 mo. Avail 6/1, 549-3665.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt. $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

2 Bedroom; furnished apt; South Meadow; price neg.; for Jun, Jul, Aug; call 545-1919 or 253-7420, Paul.

Beautiful, sunny, spacious apt.; 2 bdrm., pool, balcony overlooking pond. Call 549-2856 for further details.

2 BR, 2 Baths semi-furn., 1 mi. to campus, on bus rt., pool, courts, store nearby; 6/1—8/31 w/ option;call 549-1764.

TRAVEL

Bike trip! Wt. to bike with a group through Eastern Europe this summer? Brussels to Budapest. 7½ wks. No experience assumed. I did it last summer and it was great. Write: Alex Lipson, 2 Garden Terr., Cambridge, MA 02138, tel.: (617) 547-1127.

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Looking for people to share apartment in Maine: Ogunquit, Wells, Kennebunkport area this summer. For info call Pam at 546-7095.

Artist wanted to paint portrait from 8x10 photograph. Please call Gary at 546-9642. Thanks.

WANTED TO RENT

Quiet female student seeks rm. or sm. apt. in Amherst, 6/1 or 9/1. 546-8354, eves.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

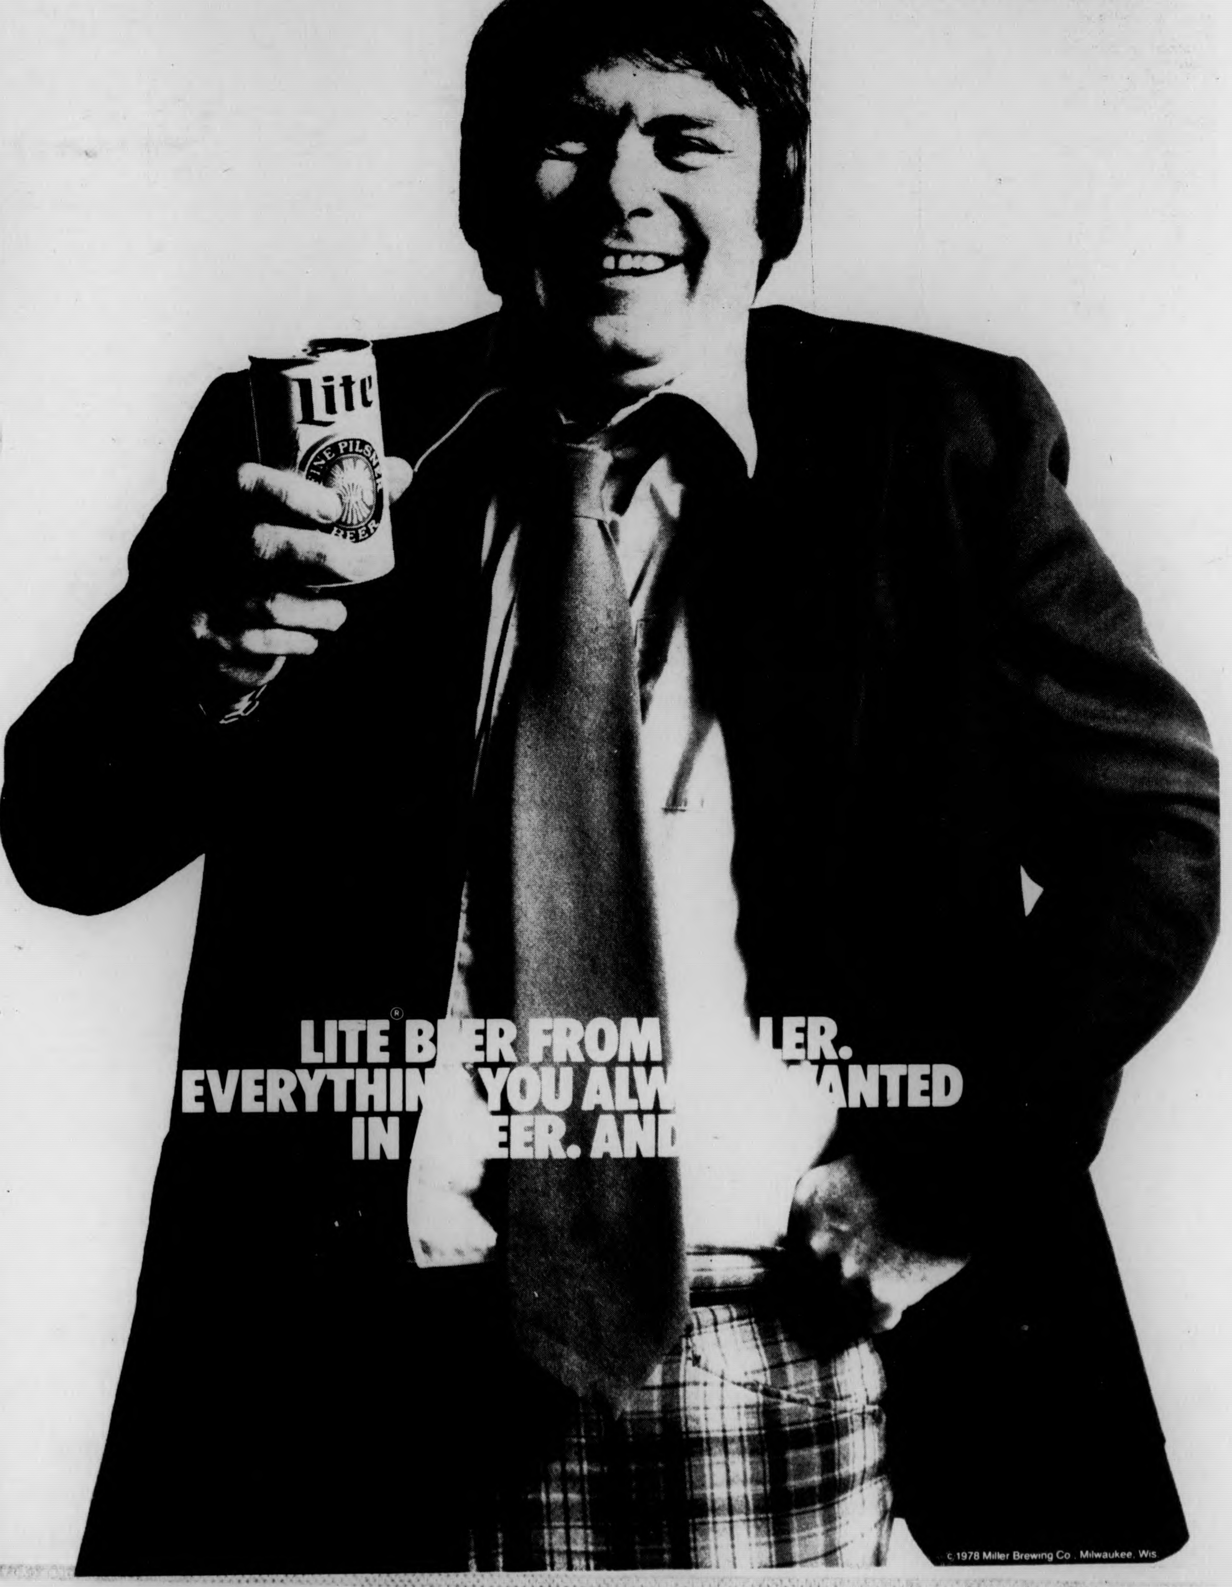
"I LIKE LITE MORE THAN I LIKE REFS. MUCH MORE."

Tom Heinsohn
Famous Basketball Coach



©1978 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

DOONESBURY

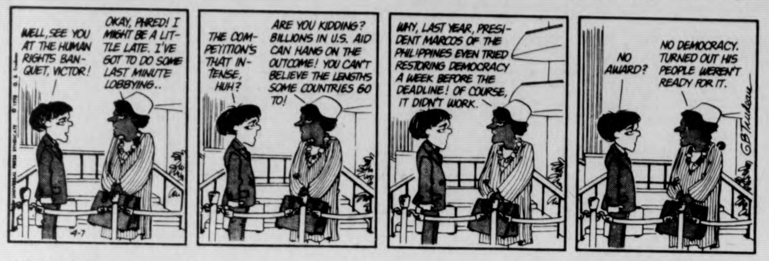
by Garry Trudeau



WELL, SEE YOU AT THE HUMAN RIGHTS BANQUET, VICTOR!
OKAY, PHRED! I MIGHT BE A LITTLE LATE. I'VE GOT TO DO SOME LAST MINUTE LOBBYING..
THE COMPETITION'S THAT INTENSE, HUH?
ARE YOU KIDDING? BILLIONS IN U.S. AID CAN HANG ON THE OUTCOME! YOU CAN'T BELIEVE THE LENGTHS SOME COUNTRIES GO TO!
WHY, LAST YEAR, PRESIDENT MARCOS OF THE PHILIPPINES EVEN TRIED RESTORING DEMOCRACY A WEEK BEFORE THE DEADLINE! OF COURSE, IT DIDN'T WORK.
NO AWARD?
NO DEMOCRACY. TURNED OUT HIS PEOPLE WEREN'T READY FOR IT.
4-7
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS

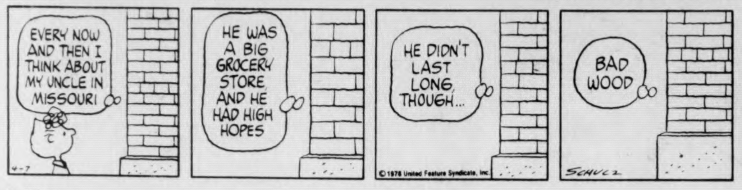
by Charles Schulz



EVERY NOW AND THEN I THINK ABOUT MY UNCLE IN MISSOURI
HE WAS A BIG GROCERY STORE AND HE HAD HIGH HOPES
HE DIDN'T LAST LONG, THOUGH...
BAD WOOD
4-7
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

B.C.

THE DINOSAUR JUST KNOCKED OUT ONE OF HIS TEETH.
GREAT! HAVE HIM PUT IT UNDER HIS PILLOW FOR THE TOOTH FAIRY.
DON'T BE SILLY...
WHAT WOULD A DINOSAUR DO WITH FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS?
4-7
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

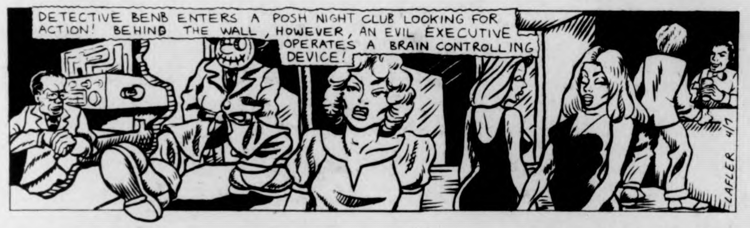
by Steve Lafler



DETECTIVE BENB ENTERS A POSH NIGHT CLUB LOOKING FOR ACTION! BEHIND THE WALL, HOWEVER, AN EVIL EXECUTIVE OPERATES A BRAIN CONTROLLING DEVICE!
LAFLER 4/7

THE WANDERER

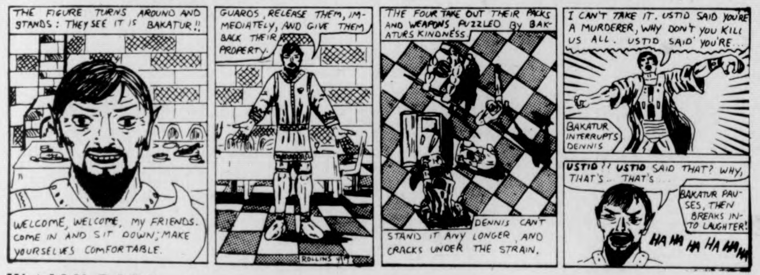
by Mark Rollins



THE FIGURE TURNS AROUND AND STANDS: THEY SEE IT IS BAKATUR!!
WELCOME, WELCOME, MY FRIENDS. COME IN AND SIT DOWN; MAKE YOURSELVES COMFORTABLE.
GUARDS, RELEASE THEM, IMMEDIATELY, AND GIVE THEM BACK THEIR PROPERTY.
ROLLINS 4/7
THE FOUR TAKE OUT THEIR PACKS AND WEAPONS PUZZLED BY BAKATURS KINDNESS.
DENNIS CAN'T STAND IT ANY LONGER, AND CRACKS UNDER THE STRAIN.
I CAN'T TAKE IT. USTID SAID YOU'RE A MURDERER, WHY DON'T YOU KILL US ALL. USTID SAID YOU'RE...
BAKATUR INTERRUPTS DENNIS
USTID?? USTID SAID THAT? WHY, THAT'S... THAT'S...
BAKATUR PAUSES, THEN BREAKS INTO LAUGHTER!
HA HA HA HA HA HA

WALLY DORF

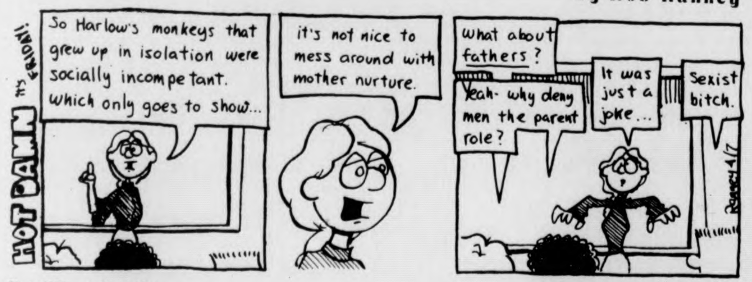
by Rob Ranney



It's FRIDAY!
HOT DAMN
So Harlow's monkeys that grew up in isolation were socially incompetant. which only goes to show...
it's not nice to mess around with mother nurture.
What about fathers?
Yeah- why deny men the parent role?
It was just a joke...
Sexist bitch.
Ranney 4/7

BACK AGAIN

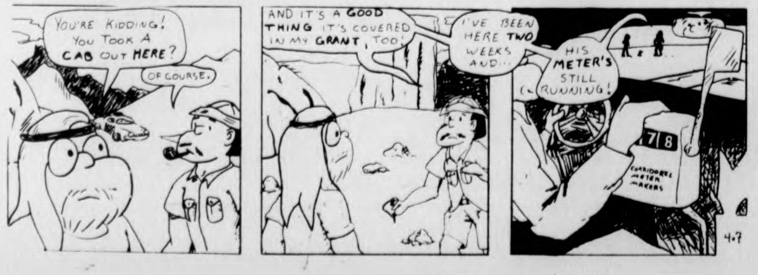
by K



YOU'RE KIDDING! YOU TOOK A CAB OUT HERE?
OF COURSE.
AND IT'S A GOOD THING IT'S COVERED IN MY GRANT, TOO!
I'VE BEEN HERE TWO WEEKS AND...
HIS METER'S STILL RUNNING!
7 8
CORRIDORE METER MAKERS
4-7

Your Birthday

FRIDAY, APRIL 7

Born today, you have a restless nature, but dedicated to intellectual and emotional growth, so that you can subdue your restlessness for the sake of your development. You take all the time you need to study, but you insist on having time for establishing relationships. In short, you try to be well-balanced, "well-rounded."

There is something of the philosopher about you. Others are intrigued by your silent response to events which generally elicit volatile reactions. You accept whatever happens, living with the one bad and sharing the good. You aspire to perfection, but you know it is beyond you.

You arB flexible about others' behavior, but tend to be overly demanding about your own means of accomplishing what you want. You do not easily excuse yourself for failures. You expect to make mistakes, but not to make the same one twice.

Also born on this date: William Wordsworth, Romantic poet; James Garner, actor.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, APRIL 8

ARIES(March 28-April 19) — Don't be deceived by appearances. Take what you hear and see with a grain of salt.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Be more cautious than usual when traveling today. Emotional responses run high.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Foresight insures success, but you will do well to learn from hindsight too.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Prosperity may cause troubles in relationships. Jealousy appears later.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Your aspiring nature may be disappointed by events early today. Later hours are better.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Today is good for showing optimism, but not letting it fool you. Gains come later.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Self-discipline lets you time the right move correctly. Make no hasty decisions this morning.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Resourcefulness brings success. Don't be afraid to try something different.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Another's unscrupulous action must not hurt those you love. Prevent repercussions.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Shrewdness is essential. You cannot go far enough on sentiment to make it count.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Press your luck. Today will bring everything reasonable that you desire.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Happiness and success are not necessarily partners. Be sure you want what you're working for.

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Circus employee
6 Caress with the lips
10 Moola
14 Fred Astaire's sister
15 Water-bound land
16 Arm bone
17 Georgian's neighbor
19 Cut lengthwise
20 Cows' stomach linings
21 Big Calgary event
23 Taut
25 Filthy place
26 As you say
27 Remainder: Abbr.
29 Chinese tree
31 Finale
33 Oil: Prefix
34 Of bristles
36 Airplane area
40 Far ----
42 Curio
44 Extinct
45 Vertical stair part
47 Of a nerve branch
49 Church vessel
50 Irish setter
52 China: Comb. form
53 Curler's cap
54 Elementary initials
57 Mine product
59 Go -- ---: Fight
61 Large animal
64 Short business trip
67 Flair
68 Of any kind at all
70 Descended
71 French composer
72 Anoint: Archaic
73 Scout units
74 TV distortion
75 Act playfully

DOWN

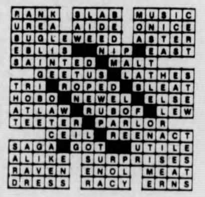
1 Perception
2 City in Judah
3 Of no value
4 Marry on the QT
5 Eases up
6 Relatives
7 Fertility goddess
8 Wooden strips
9 D.C. or Ottawa body
10 Tooth edge
11 Tin Pan -----
12 Mean
13 Dislikes
18 Publisher
22 Asiatic starling
24 Penetrate
27 Dutch settler
28 Russian range
30 Festive dos
32 Performed
35 Extent
37 Cruising: 2 words
38 Prayer wheel user
39 Netherlands export
41 Man's nickname
43 Light boats
46 Sala
48 "... I'll take the --- ----.."
51 Snarls
54 Draw - ---- on
55 "----- of the Yukon"
56 Fetter
58 Frome or Allen
60 Sports site
62 Noun endings
63 Luminous ring
65 Feminine nickname
66 Squirrel's nest
69 Drag

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday's Puzzle Solved:



RANK SLAB MUSIC
UREA AIDE ONICE
BUGLEWEED ASTER
EBLIS NIP EAST
SAINTED MALT
GEETUS LATHES
TRI ROPED BLEAT
HOBO NEWEL ELSE
ATLAW RUBOF LEW
TEETER PARLOR
CEIL REENACT
SAGA GOT UTILE
ALIKE SURPRISES
RAVEN ENOL MEAT
DRESS RACY ERNS

ENTERTAINMENT

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5, RIVERDALE RD.
WEST SPRINGFIELD
TEL. 733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEES $2.00 til 2:30 EVERYDAY
LATE SHOWS-FRI.& SAT.
WE HONOR MASTER CHARGE

THE FURY R
Mon-Fri – 215-715-930
Sat-Sun – 215-435-715-930

SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
Mon-Fri – 210-730-945
Sat-Sun – 210-435-730-945

the Goodbye Girl PG
Mon-Fri – 215-730-950
Sat-Sun – 215-440-730-950

MEL BROOKS in HIGH ANXIETY
A Psycho-Comedy PG
Mon-Fri – 200-730-950
Sat-Sun – 200-350-540-730-930

PG STAR WARS
Mon-Fri – 215-730-950
Sat-Sun 215-445-730-950

"STRAIGHT TIME" R
Mon-Fri 200-745-950
Sat-Sun 200-355-550-745-950

a funny love story.
"House Calls" PG
Mon-Fri 200-800-1000
Sat-Sun 200-400-600-800-1000

TURNING POINT
Starts Fri.
M-F 2:15, 7:25, 9:40
Sat, Sun 2:15, 4:45, 7:25, 9:40

NOW, AREA PREMIERE AT TWO LOCAL THEATRES!
Academy Award Nomination
SOPHIA LOREN
MARCELLO MASTROIANNI
a special day PG
The AMHERST Cinema
eves- 7:00 and 9:00
Mat. Sat/Sun-5:00
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in Northampton
eves- 7:00 and 9:00

DID YOU KNOW?
WE OFFER COLOR PROCESSING BY Kodak
B/W photographic paper
the University Store
campus center univ. of mass. amherst

CALVIN Theatre
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310
NOW NOW
IT'S GOT HEAT.
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
...Catch it
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER EVES AT 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9–HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW–TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

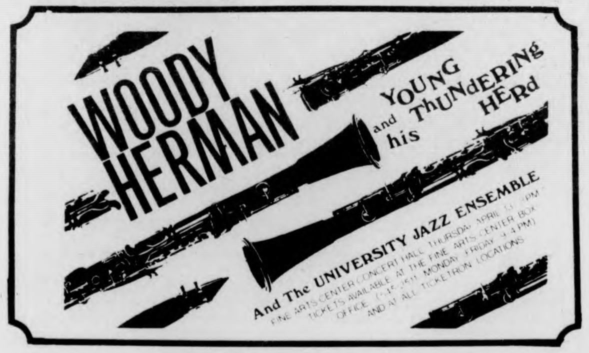
SHIRLEY MacLAINE ANNE BANCROFT The Turning point
PG ① SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WINNER OF 2 ACADEMY AWARDS
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG ② SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG ③ SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG ④ SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

The Devil In Miss Jones
CCA— Monday, April 10
$1.00 Admission — 4, 5:30, 7, 8:30, 10, 11:30
Sponsored by Zeta Nu



WOODY HERMAN
and his YOUNG THUNDERING HERD
And The UNIVERSITY JAZZ ENSEMBLE
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL THURSDAY APRIL 13 8PM
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE (545-2511) MONDAY-FRIDAY 9-4 PM) AND AT ALL TICKETRON LOCATIONS

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
Sunday HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT
Thursday Nite til 11:30pm
MICHELOB NIGHT
40¢ Drafts 60¢ Bottles
Prizes

Bluewall Bar
Happy Hour
Friday, April 7
2 for 1 Powerhouses 3-6

Track teams invade BC's Hill

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's and women's track teams will join forces tomorrow for an assault on Chestnut Hill to take on the corresponding forces from Boston College at noon.

The men's team has a 3-1 record after last weekend's pentagonal meet at BU with Northeastern, Fitchburg and Brandeis. NU continued its dominance over UMass with a substantial victory. The Minutemen, with strong performances in the hurdles and the jumps, nipped BU, and easily outdistanced their other two foes.

The women, on the other hand, are 1-0 after running the University of New Hampshire off Llewelyn Derby Track on the way to a 97-35 win. Seven freshmen played key roles in the UNH meet.

BC's women's squad is an unknown quantity, but while the men's team is a known item, it is highly unpredictable.

"There's no question they have the talent," said UMass Head Coach Ken O'Brien. "Whether or not they get it on the track for a given meet is a different story."

BC has a strong complement of sprinters, including 9.5 man Phil Hazard and 9.6 burner Mike Curry. The Eagles also boast a pair of quality distance runners in steeplechaser Dick Hayden and two miler Billy Roach.

The middle distances are not a weak point for the Eagles, either, with Leo Vercollone and Bill Gajewski able to switch between the mile and half-mile.

The Minutemen have a rejuvenated hurdle crew manned by Dan Kelly, Jan Enis, Paul King, John Richards and Mark Healy. The jumps are also big, with Don Dowden a 6'10" high jumper; and Brady Mayer, John Slepetz, Bruce Parsons and Keith Alston consistent scorers in the long and triple jumps.

On the women's squad, sickness, injury and defections have played what might seem to be a big part in weakening the team, but if the UNH meet is a harbinger of things to come, New England and the East Coast had better watch out.

Sue Kibling, Kathy Contini and Gail Emond are not out for the team this spring. Eastern intermediate hurdle finalist Chris Perron has been attempting a comeback, but is injury plagued. Patty Owen, a 5'8" high jumper, did not come out for the team.

Captain Bonnie Bukowski has suffered from a cartilage irritation, and according to coach Charlotte Lettis, has not been able to put in any distance training, but "still looked strong against UNH, despite her lack of background work."

Barb Callanan is also suffering from irritated cartilage, but still ran what Lettis termed a "gutsy effort in the two mile relay, despite only being able to run two or three times a week."

Tina Francario and Diana Sealy have been sick, Linda Welzel was injured until late February and Anne Bradshaw is just coming back after sitting out the whole fall season. Bonnie Shulman hasn't run since the winter due to a leg injury, Sue Swartz is coming back after taking some time off, and in the latest incident, Linda Stillman may have broken a finger after taking a spill in the UNH meet.

Rather than making the Minutewomen an object of pity, the various maladies haven't seemed to hinder them at all. With veterans like senior Nancy Cominoli sprinting and hurdling; seasoned (though only sophomore) performers like Cindi Martin, Sealy and Karolyn Shea; other veterans like Debbie Farmer, vastly improved Laurie Wolf, Sue Mulligan, Moni Scott and Ginger Bulman; and promising rookies Eileen Everett, Priscilla Wilson, Cathy Harrington, Sue Ares, Anna Mathieu and Liz Skelton; the team may perform other debacles as Monday's.

The biggest cause for the smiles creasing Lettis and O'Brien's faces is the large and talented weight crew. Kelly Butler won the shot and discus against UNH, and with Mary Ann Stravinskas and Karen Sweeney backing her up should garner a lot of points. State champ Karen Snow took the javelin easily, with Diane Crawford and Stravinskas not far behind.

Sports Notices

TENNIS — Tryouts are being held for women's varsity tennis. Anyone interested should show up at NOPE courts between 4:00 and 5:30 p.m.

SCHEDULE CHANGES — The following facilities will be closed: Boyden pool, April 8 and 9; NOPE pool, April 20 at 7:00 p.m.; Boyden gym, April 15; NOPE gym, April 8.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Yale 397 Men's golf 403 Amherst 410
Women's lacrosse 7 Boston University 0

TODAY
Women's golf at Mt. Holyoke 1:00 p.m.
Men's tennis at Tufts 3:00 p.m.
Baseball at AIC 3:00 p.m.

TOMORROW
Baseball at Northeastern (2) 1:00 p.m.
Men's lacrosse at Syracuse 1:30 p.m.
Softball at Central Connecticut (2) 1:00 p.m.
Men's J.V. lacrosse vs. Naval Academy Prep. 2:00 p.m.

Softball team faces CCSC

By BETH COLLINS
Collegian Staff

A 1-0 UMass women's softball team will be the guest of a Central Connecticut season opener in a doubleheader scheduled to begin at 1:00 Saturday.

UMass swept a doubleheader from a strong Central team last season, 2-1 and 7-6 in cold, rainy weather.

Conn., however, has lost five starters from its '77 squad; two to graduation and three are ineligible due to grades.

Coach Dianne Thompson feels ready for good competition and is optimistic about Saturday's games.

"Central has a young and inexperienced team and we'll be trying to capitalize on their weaknesses."

Starting on the mound for the Minutewomen will be sophomore Susan Peters. Peters is already 1-0 on the season as she pitched UMass to a 3-1 victory over ULowell last Tuesday. Soph Gail Carter, who boasted a 4-0 record last season, is slated to make her debut in the nightcap.

A switch in the infield brings a sharp looking Elaine Howle to the hot corner while sophomore Rhonda McManus, who'se been swinging a potent bat of late, looks hopeful at second base. A veteran of last year's squad, Rhonda has been nursing a sore shoulder since spring break.

★ Stevens boycott

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

is supporting the company. "And I don't think the students want J.P. Stevens on campus," he said.

"The great difficulty," Woodbury replied, "is in sorting out those values. We're not value-neutral. The University has to ask what value we hold most dear. Our value is an 'open campus'. If we ask questions about every recruiter that comes here...."

Woodbury assured the students that they would be given sufficient notice when the Stevens recruiters return to campus.

One student protester seemed to sum up the feelings of many of the boycotters. "Many universities took positions against the war," he said. "There is a precedent of universities taking positions on issues. At the least, UMass should take a firm position on this issue."

HATCH BAR
FRI. & SAT.,
APRIL 7 & 8
The Great Pretenders

Gorillas take on Orangemen

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

The Minutemen embark on their second weekend excursion when they travel to Syracuse, New York for a Saturday 1:30 encounter with the Orangemen. UMass by virtue of the UConn victory has evened its record at 1-1. Syracuse, coming off a 21-4 destruction of St. Lawrence, has upped its record to 4-1.

Syracuse has revamped its lineup from last year, when they had a goals against average of just under 17. Looking back at last season (they finished at 8-6) Coach Roy Simmons Jr. stated "It was obvious that we could score goals. We needed defense." So the Syracuse mentor took his midfielders and switched them to defense. "I want to have our best ten players on the field at the same time."

The Orangemen have two returning All-Americans in Tom Abbott and Joe Donahue, who, going into the UMass game, have 15 points apiece (behind Tim O'Hara with 19 pts.).

In a telephone interview with Assistant Coach Jay Gallagher he had this to say: "UMass has an outstanding defense, making it difficult to score on them by slowing it down and setting up. I'm hoping we can run our fast break effectively."

Will Syracuse take lightly that Gorilla 'Crunch' should it make an appearance? "I think we can adjust to any style of play" added Gallagher.

The matchup should be an exciting one: UMass, minus a percentage of last year's potent offense, faces a Syracuse team which also has experienced a cutback in offensive power (with the middie to defense switch). The twenty-one goals against St. Lawrence shows they have some offensive zip, but remember, St. Lawrence isn't exactly known as a powerhouse squad.

Both teams have strong defenses, with the added help of their goalies. For UMass, 'Duck' Goldstein should be the manning the net, with Jim Maloy holding down the fort at the other end of the field for Syracuse.

'Crosse checks: ... Syracuse has what could be construed as a unique lineup — all of their starting players except one comes from within ten minutes of the school — that is, they're all local boys. "We depend on the best kids in the area" pointed out Gallagher. The one 'outsider'? — goalie Maloy — who is from the same area as Chris Corin and Skip Vosburg of UMass.

Vosburg got his first goal of the season in the UConn game ... also figuring in the scoring (for lack of space in yesterday's paper) Pit Martin had a goal and an assist, Norm Smith two goals and two assists; Bruce Nagle and Dan Ianiello each had a goal, and Chris Corin grabbed an assist ...

Netmen prepare for Tufts

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

UMass men's tennis coach Steve Williams is hoping his top singles and doubles team can do the job today against Tufts because he's got problems in the lower half of his lineup.

The first year mentor is not very confident about his team as it travels to Medford for a 3 p.m. match.

"We're strong at one and two (singles)," Williams said. "But we're going to have troubles in doubles until we get teams established. We've got to come up with a third doubles team that can win."

Tufts coach Rick Shapiro voiced similar doubts about his team, even though four of last year's six singles players are returning.

"I don't think we're completely ready," Shapiro said. "We're strong in the middle singles (two through four), but I haven't been pleased with our doubles."

The Minutemen have — until recently — been practicing indoors since the middle of February. Tufts went south for spring break and compiled a record of 3-2-1. Last spring Tufts beat UMass, 6-3.

Williams said he wasn't sure who would play the lower singles. Dave Nowak and Keith Hovland, originally slated for fifth and sixth singles, "have not been playing that well," according to Williams.

Freshman Sergio Strepman may replace either Nowak or Hovland, but Williams said he didn't know if Strepman could play up to that level.

UMass stalwarts Alan Green and Ricky Sharton, at first and second singles respectively, should give Williams some comfort, however. Both have looked good in this last week of the preseason.

The match of the day could be in first singles where Green takes on Tom Potter. Although Shapiro said his top man wasn't real strong, Potter managed to surprise a few people at the New England's last year.

The first doubles team of Green and Sharton has been playing well, according to Williams, and is the least of his worries.

Recent practice, including a scrimmage with Clark University, has left Williams uncertain about his other two doubles teams. Last week both Williams and his players said that doubles could be one of their strong areas.

Pairings for the lower doubles are unknown, even to Williams. Possibilities are captain and third singles player Steve Heyl and Hovland, and fourth singles player Mark Huetteman and Nowak.

Women's crew in home meet

Having opened up their season with B.U. last Saturday, the women's crew team faces off against their number one rival, Mt. Holyoke on Saturday at Brunnel's Marina and is at home for their only home meet of the season on Sunday against UNH at the Sportsman's Marina on Rt. 9 in Hadley.

Both the varsity and novice eights were victorious in the BU 1500 meter race. The varsity got off to a lead from the start of the race and won going away in the time of 5:51.3. Boston University's crew finished about thirteen seconds and three lengths of a boat later at 6:03.2.

The novices raced with a strong headwind in a downpour of rain. They were ahead from the beginning and went on to a post a two-length victory in the time of 6:29.2, beating BU by about eight seconds.

The JV wasn't as lucky as the varsity and novices. Rather than getting a constant wind like the other two eights did, the wind shifted on them as they came through a bridge on the Charles at the 400-meter point. They had led till that point when a tailwind turned into a headwind. BU passed them and went on to win by seven seconds with a time of 6:22.0.

UM golfers finish 2nd in tri-match

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass Minutemen played some pretty decent golf yesterday afternoon, but ran into a sharp-shooting Yale squad that played tough on its home course, and had to settle for second place in a triangular match played at Yale C.C. in New Haven.

The Minutemen, playing in their first match of the season, finished with a respectable 403 total (best five scores counting), just six strokes behind Yale. Amherst College took third place with a 410 total.

The low scorer for the linksters was senior Chuck Dempsey who fired a 79, one of five sub-80 rounds of the day. Rounding out the UMass scoring, Jeff Orr and John Lien shot 80's, freshman Marty Hunt, playing in his first match for UMass, shot 81, Vic Lahtein and Bill Campbell shot 83's and captain Jim McDermott, who had a tough day with his driver, shot an 84.

The low medalist for the match was Peter Terivainien, the senior standout from Yale, who turned in a 73. Bill Long and John Hopinik, both of Yale, shot 75 and 78 respectively. The only other sub-80 round of the day was turned in by Jim Busby of Amherst College.

Considering the time of year and the difficulty of the course, not to mention the lack of practice time prior to the match, the Minutemen played very well, and coach Ed Vlach was elated with his team's performance.

"I'm very, very pleased with our scores." said Vlach. "Considering the fact that most of the players had done nothing but hit a few shag balls so far this spring, we did very well."

Parking Lot Sale
MEN'S DRESS SHIRTS
Plaids, stripes, assorted solids
Values to $15.00
$4.99
FASHION JEANS
For men and women
$3.99 to $4.99
WALKING SHORTS
For women
In khaki and white
Regulary $13.00
$1.99
A. SMILE BAGGIES
Flap pocket, colored denims
for men and women
$3.99
PASTEL PAINTER'S PANTS
For men and women
$3.99
THE LODGE
at harvard square
Amherst, Rt. 9 — next to McDonald's. 584-9690
Store hours: Monday to Friday 10-9, Saturday 10-6

Stickwomen top BU Terriers, 7-0

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — It took them a while to get moving, but once they did, the women's lacrosse team rolled to its first win of the year, a 7-0 victory over Boston University.

Coach Frank Garahan was "very pleased with the win", adding that he didn't expect his team to do so well in their first competitive action this year.

"Everything went smooth but I was surprised that we were able to get into our offense so early in the year. I didn't expect that to come around for another few games yet."

The game did start off as Garahan expected it would, with neither team playing well or taking charge. For ten minutes, both teams showed first-game effects by not passing or catching well.

With about fifteen minutes left in the first half, co-captain Judy Kennedy scored the team's first goal of the season, and only goal the team was to need, unassisted.

Jean Hackett, who just returned to the lineup after being taken out with a cut above her eye, scored the second goal on a long shot as the Terrier goalie was screened.

Carri Nickerson scored the third goal as she came down the middle after taking a pass from Kennedy, who was on the right.

The team's fourth goal and last of the half was scored by senior Sue Kibling, who was playing the first game of her college career. She took a pass from Julie Hall, who was behind the net, and let a shot go into the lower left hand corner.

At halftime, Garahan made numerous substitutions, allowing all of his players to see action.

As in the beginning of the game, both teams again started slowly. BU, after managing only one shot on goal in the first half, had several good chances, as they broke in alone, but goalie Robin Jennings was equal to the task. She made eight second half saves and played a fine overall game, said Garahan.

Kennedy scored her second goal of the game on an assist from Laura O'Neil and also assisted on the sixth goal by Julie McHugh.

The sixth goal impressed Garahan as Kennedy, after co-captain Gayle Hutchinson broke up a drive, raced the length of the field and found McHugh ten feet in front of the goal.

The final goal was scored by senior Kathy Gipps, who like Kibling, was playing in her first collegiate lacrosse game. She took a pass from Carri Nickerson, turned and fired a low shot into the goal.

The only frustrations for UMass was they had two goals, one by Hall and another by Allison Toney, disallowed because their sticks were in the crease.

As expected, Garahan complimented his defense for the shutout. "Our defense was excellent, even with the subs I put in. I would have to say that Kelley Salls was the standout as she continually took the ball away and made good clears".

Offensively, the Gazelles were led by Kennedy with two goals and two assists. Carri Nickerson and Sue Kibling each had a goal and an assist.

UMass outhustled BU in ground balls, 23-14.

Garahan said that he was pleased with the team handled themselves without two of its top players, Fiona McAllister and Debbie Hartley. Both missed the game with previous commitments.

It was the first competitive action the team has faced so far this season for the team has been unable to find teams to scrimmage.

Hartley was reported OK and will miss no games.

Rugby Anyone? With temperatures becoming more and more comfortable, most sports-minded people are thinking about spring and baseball. These UMass students, however, have something completely different in mind, choosing instead to participate in a little game of friendly, and hopefully bloodless, club rugby.

Triple play not enough

CINCINNATI [UPI] — The Houston Astros pulled off an unusual triple play in yesterday's National League opener against the Cincinnati Reds when they got three outs in one play without a ball being hit but lost the game, 11-9.

The stage was set in the seventh inning, with Joe Morgan at third base, George Foster at first and Dan Driessen at the plate.

Relief pitcher Joe Sambito struck out Driessen and Foster tried to steal second on the play. Catcher Joe Ferguson threw to shortstop Roger Metzger covering second to trap Foster, but then Metzger saw Morgan leading too far off third and fired to third baseman Enos Cabell, who tagged out Morgan.

Cabell then threw back to Metzger at second just in time to nab Foster and complete the triple play.

Collegian Sports

Bat-men in weekend tilts

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

The UMass baseball nine will try to get back in the winning groove today when they travel to Springfield to take on American International College (AIC). Northeastern will host the Minutemen Saturday in a doubleheader.

The batsmen sport a 4-11 record (2-3 up North) going into this weekend's action and will face a tough AIC squad. The Yellow Jackets have a 5-5 record, but were 3-0 on their northern schedule going into yesterday's game with Westfield State.

AIC coach Rich Bedard is expected to go with other freshman Dave Pettengill (1 win 2 losses) or Junior Tom Carroll who carries a 2-1 record and a sparkling 1.25 ERA. The Yellow Jacket's hitting is led by Chris Olinski, a senior outfielder, with a .355 average, Bill Cornetta, senior outfielder, .344 and Bob Drury, sophomore catcher, .333.

Bergquist will send sophomore Chris Collins to the mound today. Collins has not seen too much action, but Bergquist was pleased with his effort against Siena College last weekend.

Although AIC is a division two school, UMass coach Dick Bergquist says they have a fine baseball program. "Three years ago their program was having problems, but coach Bedard has revitalized it," Bergquist said.

It appears the Minutemen might be facing a week Northeastern squad Saturday, but Bergquist is leery about the Huskies. "Two years ago we beat them 15-3 in the first game of a doubleheader and then lost in the second 2-0. Last year we beat them in the SMU tournament, then they turned around and beat us in a doubleheader at Lorden Field," Bergquist said.

The Huskies bring a puny .180 team batting average into Saturday's games and an inflationary 7.2 team ERA. They have dropped their first five games and have been outscored 37-16. Shortstop Marty Raffol is the team's leading hitter at .273. Captain Joe Annese at .235 and catcher Bob Murray with a .231 average are the next two leading producers.

Junior Mike Ford has been the top pitcher with a 2.84 ERA and no decisions, but it is not known if he will start one of the games Saturday.

Doug Welenc, who was impressive against SMU and on the Florida trip will get the nod in one game, but Bergquist is undecided on the second pitcher.

Bergquist said he does not expect any major lineup changes. However, there could be some depending on whether the opposing pitcher is right or lefthanded. He also said catcher Charlie Ciccone has recovered from arm problems and is throwing well now.

Volleyball

The UMass volleyball club will host Williams College, Amherst College and Westfield State at the spikers first tournament at NOPE at 12 p.m.

Since its inception last fall, the UMass volleyball club has become a major competitor in New England Volleyball. The team is sparked by two stalwart setters, senior Arnie Roberts and freshman Darryl Cain. Steve Richter, Al Morel, Larry Adams and Kirk Peters generate a quick attack, while the offensive power is supplied by hitters Don Love, Mark Savel, Jim Grosslein, Millard Rose and Rich Shoum.

Bill Edelstein

Not an easy job

Baseball is not an easy game to predict. For instance, in 1976, a Red Sox team which had come a bloop-single away from winning the 1975 World Series finished 15½ games behind a team which was demolished by a common World Series foe. Therefore, it is understandable that my colleagues had such a difficult time in yesterday's Collegian, trying to forecast a coherent placement of Major League clubs.

However, thanks to a source whose name I can neither divulge, pronounce nor spell, I have acquired first-rate, second-hand information on the exact order of finish of these teams. Due to space limitations, only the American League results will appear here. National League standings will be posted on the next brick to fall from the university library.

EAST

1. Pawtucket — Nee Cleveland. The Indians will move to Rhode Island due to financial problems and homesickness. This not only guarantees a better turnout of fans, it will also make the Paw-Indians a winner. Minor League ballparks are notorious for having poor lighting and McCoy Stadium is no exception. The opposition will never get to see the game.

2. Toronto — This is the key season in the Blue Jays' Two Year Plan. Last year they concentrated on instilling a sense of overconfidence into the enemy, this year they make their move.

3. Milwaukee — The Brewers have been slumping in recent years, but the entire team breaks out like acne this season. Only Clearasil keeps them from the division title.

4. Detroit — An incredible influx of good, young players propels the Tigers to victory in 80 per cent of their afternoon games. Night games are past the team's bedtime, though, and the Tigers fall short of the coveted .500 mark.

5. Baltimore — The loss of both third base coach Billy Hunter and pitching coach George Bamberger leaves manager Earl Weaver friendless. Weaver gets a terminal case of the vapors and the Orioles are blown away by July.

6. New York — The "Reggie Bar" becomes the official training table food of the Yankees, creating a team of bloated, overweight players. New York sets a record for "most times thrown out at first base after hitting a homerun."

Burned Down: Boston — Bill Lee loses his first home start, and lights a commemorative bonfire on the pitchers mound which accidentally torches Fenway Park. The city of Boston refuses to build a new sports facility.

WEST

1. Seattle — An "Iron Mike" is put on the field to throw batting practice to the Mariners and Darrell Johnson decides to leave it in to pitch for the rest of the season. The machine finishes the season 81-0 and wins the Cy Young Award.

2. Chicago — In an effort to save money, Bill Veeck does away with home plate. Suddenly, opposing pitchers can't find the plate either.

3. Minnesota — The Twins stage a coup the second week into the season and remove owner Calvin Griffith to stocks on the pitchers mound, throwing overripe guavas at his face. Other teams join in, but the Twins get more hits. Attendance rises dramatically.

4. Oakland — Charlie Finley won't sell, so the city of Denver moves to the Bay Area. Opposing teams can't figure out how to scale the sudden mile-high rise to the stadium, but the A's can't get down. The team finishes .500.

5. California — Gene Autrey acquires Roy Rogers' horse Trigger as a free agent. Trigger breaks up close games with speed on the bases, but his fielding is suspect.

Mucked-Out: Kansas City — The Sewage system for the water fountains in Royals Stadium backs up, bathing the field in grime. Owner Ewing Kaufman goes into the land-fill industry.

Disbanded: Texas — Even Brad Corbett's vast fortune cannot keep Ferguson Jenkins in gopher balls. Rangers stock is sold to the Republic of Haiti which transforms Arlington Stadium into an oversized rabbit ball.

---

BREAK THE CHAIN OF OPPRESSION THROUGH UNITY

VOLUME 5 ISSUE '10

NUMMO NEWS

Prime Minister Begin Snubs Black Caucus

By ABDUL ALEEM SEIFULLAH

During his official state visit to the U.S. for talks with President Jimmy Carter, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem begin refused an invitation to meet with members of the Congressional Black Caucus.

A spokesman at the Israeli Embassy in Washington informed Caucus members that Mr. Begin's schedule was "too crowded" and declared ostensibly that the Israeli Prime Minister "hoped" to meet with them at another time.

However, according to Congressman Parren Mitchell, chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, Mr. Begin was not too busy to schedule meetings with other members of Congress, including the House International Affairs Committee.

"I can speak for myself and I think I can speak for the rest of the Caucus members. There will not be another attempt made to initiate a meeting with either Mr. Begin or anybody from the Israeli Embassy," Mr. Mitchell told Bilalian News.

"If he wants to initiate a meeting with us, fine. We will entertain his recommendation," he said.

In contrast to Mr. Begin's refusal to meet with Caucus members, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat spent more than an hour with the Bilalian congressional representatives when he visited Washington in the latter part of 1977.

"Well, of course, President Sadat had a very crowded schedule to keep but he was able to find some time to meet with us...Anwar Sadat said, "I think it's important to speak with those who represent more than 25 million black Americans,"' Mr. Mitchell related.

The congressional leader said Caucus members wanted to discuss a number of topics with Mr. Begin, including "the apparent discriminatory treatment given to black tourists who go to Israel, who are subjected to some rather rigorous kinds of examinations.

"We're also concerned about the black group from Chicago that attempted to settle in Israel, that has run into all difficulties."

Mr. Mitchell said the Caucus also wanted to talk with Mr. Begin concerning the presence of Israeli invasion forces in Lebanon.

"In the Caucus, we are concerned about achieving a world at peace somewhere down the line. We want that. And we felt —at least I did — that we wanted to meet to explain that the Israeli presence in Lebanon was simply unjustifiable."

Military Pact with South Africa

NEW YORK [LNS] — Despite the U.N.'s mandatory arms embargo against South Africa, several of the prime recipients of U.S. military aid are putting the finishing touches on a defense treaty that would link them with the white supremacist state. According to the privately circulated London newletter Arms International, plans for a defense pact between South Africa, Israel, Iran and South Korea are now in their final stages, with the possibility that Argentina and Brazil might join at a later point.

The newletter points out that ties between these countries have become increasingly close. It quoted, for example, a group of U.S. Congressman who toured Southern Africa late last year and came back to report that a formal defense agreement had been drafted.

Israel, it points out, recently agreed to build fast missile patrol boats for South Africa or to provide technical assistance for those being built in South Africa itself. Meanwhile, some of the Shah's ever-expanding fleet has been refitted at South Africa's Simonstown naval base as have those of the Argentinian navy.

The ruling family in Iran has long had close connections with South Africa. The Shah's father was exiled there by Britain during the war and the Shah himself has substantial personal investments in South Africa.

Israel is said to have started arms deliveries to South Africa after the 1973 Middle East war, when, according to Arms International, it found that it had more American tanks and other hardware than it could use.

Suppporters Back Yvonne Wanrow

NEW YORK [LNS] — Yvonne Wanrow still faces another trial, even though her murder conviction was overturned in 1977 by the Washington State Court of Appeals and the State Supreme Court. The state is now retrying her, this time on first degree murder charges.

Wanrow's lawyers appeared in court in Olympia, the state capitol, March 13 to challenge the legality of the murder statute under which she was convicted.

Supporters were also there, filling the courtroom during the hearing and crowding the street outside. Before and after the session Native Americans conducted ceremonial dances on her behalf.

Wanrow, a Colville Indian, was convicted in 1973 of second degree felony murder and first degree assault by an all-white jury for fatally shooting William Wesler and wounding his companion. Wesler, a repeated child molester, was drunk and incoherent when he broke in at 5 a.m. and threatened to molest Wanrow's children and nephew. Wanrow shot Wesler as he lurched toward her 3-year-old nephew on the couch.

In the state's current retrial attempt the prosecution is pursuing a highly unusual tack: instead of "manslaughter," Wanrow is charged with felonious assault, during which a murder occurred. This "felony murder" charge is more severe and doesn't require the state to prove premeditation was involved. The court will issue its decision on the defense motion challenging the felony murder charge within several months.

Bakke's School Discriminates in Foreward, Not Reverse

NEW YORK [LNS] — A University of California professor has come up with a set of charges that could blow the Bakke "reverse discrimination" case out the window. That is, if the charges ever get heard.

Paul Goodman, president of the Faculty Union at UC-Davis, recently charged that the school, contrary to both the California Supreme Court's opinion and supporters of Allen Bakke, does in fact discriminate against Third World students at its medical school.

Bakke has charged that he is a victim of reverse discrimination because of a University admissions policy that reserves 16 out of 100 places in its medical school for Third World students.

In a letter to University General Counsel Donald Reidhaar, Goodman made the following charges against the school:

-Since it's inception, the UC-Davis Medical School has never admitted a Black student under regular admissions procedures.

-The Med School attempted to apply a quota to cut Third World student admissions to a minimum by routinely turning qualified Third World applicants away under the regular admissions program.

-Med School Dean John Tupper reversed regular admissions committee procedures in order to admit sons of prominent political and medical figures.

-Black students admitted to the Med school have been subjected to racial slurs, discriminatory grading and disciplinary measures.

-The Med School falsified minority admissions statistics by counting foreign Third World students in its "affirmative action" reports.

Goodman has offered to furnish the names of students and faculty members at Davis who will back up his allegations. Copies of the letter have been sent to every regent, the American Civil Liberties Union and the NAACP.

It is now up to the University of California, Allen Bakke's legal opponent, to ensure that the U.S. Supreme Court has all the information Goodman is prepared to provide before the court hands down its decision.

The university's sincerity in fighting against Bakke and for affirmative action already became suspect when it was revealed that a University admissions officer encouraged Bakke to bring the suit challenging the Third World admissions policy. Now, the reasons why UC might be reluctant to air Goodman's charges as a way to win in court are only too obvious.

Puerto Rican Roots

By ISMARO VELAZQUEZ

Like to many other Puerto ricans, I have spent a lot of time thinking about my origins, trying to establish to my own satisfaction what goes into our ethnic cultural, social and political makeup. The fact that most of my life has been divided between New York and Jan Juan does not make the task easier, but perhaps it makes it more interesting.

Born in Puerto Rico, I was taken to New York when I was a year-and-a-half old. Even then I already had a back-and-forth heritage. My father had originally gone to New York in 1918, so I guess you could consider him one of the pioneers of his time. Having returned to P.R. in 1933, he couldn't make ends meet and decided to return to the U.S.

We lived in El Barrio, a warm, friendly place, as I recall it. I went to P.S. 168 and to St. Lucy's Catholic Church where, for one whole week, I was an altarboy serving the 6:30 Mass; the hours were not to my liking, especially on cold winter mornings. But New York in the early 1940s was an exciting place to grow up. There was school, class outings to the Bronx Zoo, swimming lessons at the Boy's Club, visits to the Hayden Planetarium. With my two buddies, Ronald Stingelin (of Swiss parentage) and Martin Forde (English and Russian Jews), I would go to movies and shows around town.

New York then began to explode before our very eyes. My father's bodega on 100th Street was broken into several times, something practically unheard of in our neighborhood. Worse still, he and my mother were held up by two thugs in the building where we lived. Pop was nearly killed. He figured that after 28 years in the States, he had had it.

Back to P.R. in 1946, on the famous Marine Tiger, the troop-carrier which, after the war, started plying the lucrative route between New York and San Juan. My first memory of San Juan is from the deck of the Marine Tiger. The sun had barely risen over the Atlantic very early on a Sunday morning, our fourth day out of New York, and ttousands of Ricans were on deck trying to get their first glance of the island. Just as in the history books, someone suddenly cried out "Alli esta — alli esta la isla." Sure enough, a long, hazy outline on the horizon proved to be our Mecca, our small, overpopulated, beloved island of Puerto Rico.

I was shortly to learn that for a Puerto Rican raised in New York, it takes time and effort to become a native in his own land. English was fine for New York schools and playing in the streets of Manhattan. But, in San Juan, Spanish is the medium, and you'd better speak it the way others do, or else. Then there is the slower way of life — it's too hot for rushing around. Things are done, but they are done at a leisurely pace. You see someone rushing around in San Juan, and you can be sure he's from New York.

There is another important cultural dichotomy, or trichotomy — the many strands that have interlaced and overlapped to make up the people of the Island. Taino indians, our earliest ancestors, were hard workers who tilled the land and plied the seas in search of a livelihood. Then came our Spanish forefathers, who set up thriving agricultural communities throughout the Island and imported our third strain of ancestors, African slaves, to work the sugar cane fields. Tainos, Spaniards and Africans gave us the cultural and ethnic mixture that produced today's puertorriqueno, who can range from a negra in Loiza Aldea to a blond, blue-eyed jibaro from the mountain towns of Lares.

For Ricans living in the States, a sort of tug-of-war exists between trying to maintain and affirm our multiple Latin roots, while at the same time blending into the mainstream of Anglo-Saxon, American life. Unlike other immigrant groups, however, we tend to hold on more strongly to our cultural blanket of "puertorriquenidad." After all, we are only a few hours and less than a hundred bucks away from home. We can return whenever we feel the urge to do so. Having shuttled back and forth between New York and Puerto Rico so many times that I feel like a human yo-yo, I have to admit to two very strong cultural strains, each playing out their tones and tensions within me. And the photographers whose work is shown on these pages seem also to be searching for the strengths to be found in both lands.

For many of us, this shuffling back and forth becomes a way of life, an unsettling, unsettled life style that makes it harder to establish roots at either end of the air tunnel between Puerto Rico and the mainland. The more enterprising of those boricuas errante have become the new Phoenicians, the ones that start mini-colonies all over the world, seeking elusive roots and identities. For the less fortunate, to be errante means a nightmare of alienation, poverty, drugs, mental illness and the dehumanizing life of the ghetto. But there is for all a uniting threat in our puertorriquenidad — from the superficial manifestations of food, song and dance to the deeply ingrained sense of family generosity, elaborateness and equality.

In considering our blend of two cultures, the Hispanic, or Latino, seemes to me the purer, more idealistic of the two, the Anglo-Saxon, or American, the pushier, more practical way of life. But we use both, sometimes more successfully than others. By chance, by geographic and historical accident, we were made to grow as a divided nation, some of us on an island in the Caribbean, others in the U.S., still others sprinkled throughout the four corners of the world. We are wanderers. With our hearts finally anchored on this small island, we got out to the wider world to know it and to learn from it and to return with our experience and fortune and plow them back into our fatherland. That is our form of partiotismo.

I think in the end that being Puerto Rican necessitates being able to adjust to practically any situation, anytime, anywhere. On one level, it's glorying in the changes of seasons in the States — and also luxuriating in the year-long summmers in Puerto Rico. On a deeper level, it's feeling pride in our Spanish-Taino-African heritage, as well as frustrated by our slow emergence from being an "under-developed" nation; it's the hard work as well as the love of music, dancing and singing, it's five million brothers and sisters knowing that being Puerto Rican has lost its previous stigma and is now looked upon as a badge of courage, talent, brains, good looks.

And I believe that we carry that knowledge, that special sense of ourselves wherever we go, whether in New York or San Juan or in still more foreign spots. I have heard innumerable stories by well-traveled compatriotas about strange places where they have met Ricans. A friend touring Morocco, for example, was attracted by a crowd gathered around an Arab snake charmer. When the friend's wife made a comment in Spanish, the snake charmer interrupted his act and, in unmistakably Puero Rican-accented Spanish, said: " Ustedes son de la Isla, verlad? Yo soy de Morovis." Wherever we are, somos puertorriquenos.

From NUESTRO MAGAZINE

National Council for Black Studies
Second Annual Convention
April 15-18, 1978

Modular -Moderators

Module I. Black Studies and Elected Officials
Professor Jim Smith
Black Studies Center
Wayne State University
Detroit, Michigan
Module II. Black Studies: Curriculum Development K-12
Professor Douglass Gills
History Department
St. Augustine College
Raleigh, North Carolina
Module III. Black Studies: Introduction to Afro-American Studies — College Materials
Dr. Carlos Brossard
Forbes Quad 250 South Bouquet
University of Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
Module IV. Black Studies: Using Oral History to Develop Materials for Junior, Senior and College Levels
Dr. Otis Scott
University of California
Sacramento, California
Module V. Black Studies: Teacher Training
Dr. Beverly O. Ford
College of Human Development and Learning
The University of North Carolina at Charlotte
UNCC Station
Charlotte, North Carolina
Module VI. Black Studies: Political Prisoners
Ms. Renee Gaddy
The University of North Carolina at Charlotte
UNCC StationCharlotte, North Carolina

Ms. Rosemary Suckings
529 Manhattan Avenue
New York, New York

Mr. Reginald Irby
The University of North Carolina at Charlotte
UNCC Station
Charlotte, North Carolina
Module VI. Black Studies: Political Prisoners

Presenters

Module I. Black Studies and Elected Officials

Michigan State Representative George Cushingberry
Michigan State Representative Joe Young
Michigan State Senator Ed Nelson

Module II. Black Studies: Curriculum Development K-12

Mr. William C. Green, Director
Division African-Afro American Studies
The School District of Philadelphia
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Module III. Black Studies: Introduction to Afro-American Studies — College Materials

Dr. Ron Bailey
Northwestern University
Evanston, Illinois

Module IV. Black Studies: Using Oral History to Develop Materials for Junior, Senior and College Levels

Dr. Ben Wilson
Western University
Kalamazoo, Michigan

Module V. Black Studies: Teacher Training

Dr. Phillip T.K. Daniel
Northern Illinois University
DeKalb, Illinois

Module VI. Black Studies: Political Prisoners

Dr. Charles Cobb
Executive Director
United Church of Christ
Commission for Racial Justice
287 Park Avenue South
New York, New York

Critique Panel

Module I. Black Studies and Elected Officials

State Senator Bill Owens
State House
Boston, Massachusetts

State Representative Theo Mitchell
State House
Columbia, South Carolina

Dr. Leroi Ray
Western University
Kalamazoo, Michigan

Dr. William Nelson
Ohio State University
Columbus, Ohio

Dr. A. Geiger
N.C.B.S. Regional Representative Region IV
Sacramento, California

Module II. Curriculum Development K-12

Dr. Theodore Spiegner
Chairperson, Board of Education
Durham City Schools
Durham, North Carolina

Mrs. Katie Foushee
Public School Teacher
Fayetteville, North Carolina

Mrs. Pearl Gray
Director of Black Studies
The University of Oregon
Eugene, Oregon

Module III. Black Studies: Introduction to Afro-American Studies College Material

Rev. Americus Hawkins
N.C.B.S. Regional Representative
University of Texas
Houston, Texas

Dr. Perry Hall
Black Studies Center
Wayne State University
Detroit, Michigan

Dr. William Jones
N.C.B.S. Regional IV Representative
Director of Black Studies
University of Florida
Tallahassee, Florida

Mr. James Porter
UNC-Chapel Hill
Chapel Hill, North Carolina

Dr. William U. Harris
Educational Testing Services
Princeton, New Jersey

Module IV. Black Studies: Using Oral History to Develop Materials Junior and Senior High Level

Dr. Leonard Jefferies
City College
New York, New York

Dr. Curtis Porter
Director of Black Studies
University of Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Dr. James Stewart
The University of Notre Dame
South Bend, Indiana

Mrs. Trellie Jefferies
Durham, North Carolina

Professor James Lewis
N.C.B.S. Region Representative
University of Albuquerque
Albuquerque, New Mexico

Module V. Black Studies: Teacher Training

Mrs. Gwen Brightful
Philadelphia Public Schools
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dr. Geneva Smitherman
Director of Black Studies Center
Wayne State University
Detroit, Michigan

Professor William Pitts
University of Colorado
Boulder, Colorado

Dr. Harold Bailey
N.C.B.S. Regional Representative
The University of Mexico
Albuquerque, New Mexico

Module VI. Black Studies: Political Prisoners

Dr. Helen Othow
Johnson C. Smith University
100 Beatties Ford Road
Charlotte, North Carolina

Dr. Andress Taylor
Federal City College
1343 H Street N.W.
Washington, D.C.

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR BLACK STUDIES

Module I. Black Studies and Elected Officials

| SESSION I | SESSION II | SESSION III | SESSION IV |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sunday, April 16, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(PRESENTATION) | Sunday, April 16, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(ANALYSIS & SYNTHESIS) | Monday, April 17, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(INTERNALIZATION) | Monday, April 17, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(UTILIZATION) |
| Moderator: Jim SmithPresenter (s)George CushingberryJoe YoungEd Nelson | Moderator: Jim SmithCritique Panel:Bill OwensLeroy RayWilliam NelsonAl Geiger | Moderator: Jim SmithGroup Leaders:To be elcted within the group | Moderator: Jim SmithDevelopment of Action Plan for each region. |

Module II. Black Studies: Curriculum Development K-12

| SESSION I | SESSION II | SESSION III | SESSION IV |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sunday, April 16, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(PRESENTATION) | Sunday, April 16, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(ANALYSIS & SYNTHESIS) | Monday, April 17, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(INTERNALIZATION) | Monday, April 17, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(UTILIZATION) |
| Moderator: Douglass GillPresenter(s)Mr. William C. GreenRegional Participants:Pearl Gray | Moderator: Douglas GillCritique Panel:Dr. SpiegnerKatie FousheePearl GrayDr. William U. HarrisRegional Participants:Pearl Gray | Moderator: Douglass GillGroup Leaders:MODULE: IIITITLE: Black Studies: | Moderator: Douglass GillDevelopment of Action Plan for each region. |

Module III. Black Studies: Introduction to Afro-American Studies-College Materials

| SESSION I | SESSION II | SESSION III | SESSION IV |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sunday, April 16, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(PRESENTATION) | Sunday, April 16, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(ANALYSIS & SYNTHESIS) | Monday, April 17, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(INTERNALIZATION) | Monday, April 17, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(UTILIZATION) |
| Moderator: Carlos BrossardPresenter(s)Ron Bailey | Moderator: Carlos BrossardCritique Panel:Americus HawkinsDr. Perry Hall | Moderator: Carlos Brossard | Moderator: Carlos BrossardDevelopment of Action Plan for each region. |

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR BLACK STUDIES

Module IV. Black Studies: Using Oral History to Develop Materials for Junior, Senior and College Levels

| SESSION I | SESSION II | SESSION III | SESSION IV |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sunday, April 16, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(PRESENTATION) | Sunday, April 16, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(ANALYSIS & SYNTHESIS) | Monday, April 17, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(INTERNALIZATION) | Monday, April 17, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(UTILIZATION) |
| Moderator: Otis ScottPresenter(s)Ben Wilson | Moderator: Otis ScottCritique Panel:Leonard JefferiesCurtiss PorterTrellie JefferiesJames LewisJames Stewart | Moderator: Otis Scott | Moderator: Otis ScottDevelopment of Action Plan for each region. |

Module V. Black Studies: Teacher Training

| SESSION I | SESSION II | SESSION III | SESSION IV |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sunday, april 16, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(PRESENTATION) | Sunday, April 16, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(ANALYSIS & SYNTHESIS) | Monday, April 17, 197810:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon(INTERNALIZATION) | Monday, April 17, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(UTILIZATION) |
| Moderator: Beverly FordPresenter(s)Phillip T.K. Daniel | Moderator: Beverly FordCritique Panel:Gwen BrightfulGeneva SmithermanHarold BaileyBill PittsJames Porter | Moderator: Beverly FordGroup Leaders: | Moderator: Beverly FordDevelopment of Action Plan for each region. |

Module VI. Black Studies: Political Prisoners

|  |  | SESSION III | SESSION IV |
|---|---|---|---|
|  |  | Monday, April 17, 197810:00 a.m. - 12 noon(PRESENTATION) | Monday, April 17, 19782:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.(ANALYSIS & SYNTHESIS) |
|  |  | Moderator: Renee GaddyRosemary SuckingsGroup Leaders:Slide PresentationSpeaker: Dr. Charles Cobb | Moderator: Renee GaddyRosemary SuckingsDevelopment of Action Plan for each region. |

Historical Perspectives

On March 18-21, 1975 a Black Studies National Conference was held at and sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The focus of the conference was "Black Studies: Paradox with a Promise?" Although invitations were extended nationally, the conference registration fell below the 200 expected.

The Conference attempted to stimulate thought on four basic questions concerning Black Studies. Position papers on Black Studies regarding Where? Who? Why? and How?, were presented by scholars from the Southeastern region. Several individuals prepared presentations about the form(s) their programs have taken. Participating were Federal City College, the University of Pittsburg, the University of Massachusetts, New York University and others.

Among the conclusions reached during the conference was that if Black Studies programs are to remain viable and to gain in stature: (1) ways and means must be identified by which they can be evaluated, (2) support is needed in identifying and describing models that are functioning in diverse institutions and (3) support is needed in identifying and describing a communications network that will allow dissemination of information about these programs.

During the final plenary session it was agreed that each participant would commit himself-herself to some follow-up action in support of the concepts of a communications network.

Dr. William Nelson

Dr. William Nelson Jr., is Chairman of Dept. Afro-American Studies at Ohio State University. Dr. Nelson Jr. received his B.S. in 1962 at Arkansas AM.&N. College, he majored in History and Government. He received his M.A. in 1964, from Atlanta University, in Political Science, a PH.D. in 1971, from University of Illinois in Political Science with concentrations in Urban Politics and Political Parties. He is the author of several articles on public policy and Black elected officials. Last summer he had published Electing Black Mayors: Political Action in the Black-Community, Ohio State Press.

Dr. Carlene Young

Carlene Young, Ph.D.

Raised and educated in Detroit, Michigan; B.A., Sociology; M.A., Sociology; Ed. D, Educational Sociology; Ph.D, Social Clinical Psychology; Chair, Afro-American Studies Department, San Jose State University; Former Chair, Sociology, Oakland Community College, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan; Instructor, Wayne State University and University of Detroit; Public School Teacher, Detroit Public Schools; Author of text, Black Experience: Analysis and Syntheses, Leswing Press, 1972; "Black Scholars and the Social Sciences," in Black Scholar; "The Struggle of Black Entrepreneurs," in Executive; Areas of specialization are in cultural values and beliefs systems.

Dr. Charles Henry

Charles P. Henry has a Ph.D. in political science from the University of Chicago and has served as an APSA Congressional Fellow with Senator Hubert Humphrey and with the Congressional Black Caucus. He is the author of several articles on black politics and American culture and has recently published a book on race and public policy with Lorenzo Morris. Last year he was a member of the Planning Committee for the 1st NCBS Conference and served as a panel chairperson. Currently Dr. Henry serves as Director of the Center for Black Studies and Assistant Professor of Political Science at Denison University.

Dr. John C. Walter

Dr. John C. Walter, is Director of Afro American Studies at Bowdoin College. Dr. John C. Walter received a B.S. (Cum Laude) at Arkansas M.M. & N. College in Mechanical Engineering-History in 1956, and M.A. in American History in 1968, at University of Bridgeport and a Ph.D., Afro-American History, 1971 at University of Maine. He is the author of Black Political Radicalism in the Harlem Renaissance, Western Journal of Black Studies, Summer 1977

Presentations

Literature: Professor Michael Thelwell UMass
History: Professor Ernest Allen UMass
Education: Professor Johnella Butler UMass
Exchange Programs: Professor Bernard Bell and Dovi Afesi UMass
Keynote Speakers: Leonard Spearman, Acting Deputy Commissioner of Higher Education
Guests: Senator Edward Brooke, Mass. State Senator Bill Owens, Chancellor Randolph Bromery, Mass. Secretary of Education Paul Parks and Dr. Bertha Maxwell (Chairperson Nat. Council Council on Black Studies)
Awards to: Sonia Sanchez, Bill Evans, Max Roach and Dick Gregory

---

Cuba Is A Four Letter Word

Al cabo de 17 anos de exilio, la opportunidad de visitar a Cuba se presento repentinamente. Como me trataran?, pense. Como voy a sentirme alli? Sere simplemente una turista en mi propio pais? Tal vez me sentire como la popular cancion de Facundo Cabral: "No soy de aqui, ni soy de alla ... ". Y asi me senti durante los primeros dias, pero poco a poco la atraccion de las cosas de uno, el paisaje, la gente, el sol, el mar, me hicieron sentir de nuevo en casa.

Como miembro de una delegacion internacional de periodistas, pude visitar docenas de fabricas, escuelas, astilleros, centrales azucarerou, complejos agricolas, puertos pesqueros. Vi a un pueblo trabajando muy duro, a una juventud preparandose para manana.

Un rapido viaje a Caibarien, el pueblo pesquero donde naci, fue una fuerte sacudida emocional. Los parientes, y casi todo el pueblo, me recibieron con jubilo, con alegria, pero tambien con lagrimas. Lagrimas por tantos anos de § eparacion. Lagrimas de esperanza por las posibilidades de un futuro en que las familias se puedan visitar, un futuro en que los cubanos no esten divididos entre "los de aqui y los de alla", un futuro basado en la realidad de hoy y no en la fantasia de ayer, un futuro en que Cub$ § ea d3 nuevo la patria de todos los cubanos.

The last thing I remember was a collage of violet-blue-turquoise water and a chunk of green shore neatly framed in the window. It was the very first time I had flown in an airplane, the first time I left my country. I was 17 years old and I cried as I looked out the window of the old Cubana Airlines two-propeller plane on that twelfth day of August, 1961. The Bay of Pigs invasion had taken place four months earlier. My family and I were on the way to the Promised Land of Miami; we did not expect to return soon.

Circumstances in a new land — mastering the language, learning new habits, simply surviving — pushed the expectations even further back in our hearts and minds. Yet for the next 17 years newspaper columnists in the exile press kept promising us that "by Christmas we'll once again be in the Cuba de ayer." The Cuba of today was all the while depicted as a veritable chamber of horrors. It was a place where people went hungry, where children were taken away from their parents by force, and where everyone was made to cut sugar cane 18 hours a day. Cuba became a four-letter word.

For me, the opportunity to spend Christmas in the Cuba de hoy arrived unexpectedly. With great trepidation I set out to discover what really was happening on the island. Doubts assailed me: How will I be treated there? Will I be a tourist in my own country? Will they call me companera? And what shall I call them? All the way to Montreal, and then to Havana, the lines of a popular song by Facundo Cabral kept running through my head.

No soy de aqui, ni so6 de alla ...

The first thing I saw was a mass of winter clouds over the island. Not a glimpse of a shimmering, multicolored sea. But as the aircraft swept lower and lower, the palm trees started to take shape. And as suddenly as a tropical storm hits an unprepared island, I was hit, right in the eyes, by all that green exuberance — the quiet, gentle landscape I knew so well. Again tears came to my eyes. In the next 12 days this was to happen much too often for my somewhat Anglicized sense of emotional propriety.

Mine was not a nostalgic visit. I was traveling as a journalist, a guest of the International Preparatory Committee for the XI World Festival of Youth and Students. In July 20,000 students from all over the world — including at least 400 from the U.S. — will meet in Havana for a week. And a group of journalists was there to report on the preparatory activities taking place throughout the island, especially a massive campaign which the people of Cuba are conducting to raise 50 million pesos for the Festival.

The first few days I felt "foreign," I felt torn, I felt like Cabral's song. Everytime I was introduced as "a journalist from the United States who was born here," I became the center of attention. Everyone wanted to know how old I was when I left, how long I had been away, what I thought of the new Cuba. I had to duck many a colleague who wanted to interview me.

Everything was familiar and strange at the same time. Since I am from the provinces and had seen Havana only twice briefly before, I had no frame of reference — except what I knew through hearsay, books and movies. The city was shabbier than I had expected. But despite peeling paint and dark, quiet streets, I fell in love with it. With the narrow sidewalks of La Habana Vieja, the broad avenues of the modern sector, the oceanfront Malecon — the Grant Corniche of that transformed Alexandria — which barely keeps the ocean away from city streets. By the end of my stay, I ran after crowded buses, stood in line at restaurants and slept very little, just like a true habanera. Oh, and that strange feeling (for a New Yorker) of walking back to the hotel, alone, at 3 a.m., knowing I was safe. By then, I was humming a very different tune, one I heard many times during my visit.

Cuba, que linda es Cuba ...

The program scheduled for our international group of 20 journalists was very crowded. We were taken to schools, factories, sugar mills, shipyards, fishing ports, construction sites. I have never seen people working so long and with such enthusiasm. Even the knowledge that we were being given the "delux five-peso foreign journalist tour" could not detract from the impact of all that commitment and energy. We were impressed. Yes, there were too many long-winded, rehearsed speeches and repetitious slogans. We were also aware that we did not have time to seek out those fundamental flaws which other visitors have noted — the curbs on liberties, the muffling of criticism, the stifling bureaucratization.

On the other hand, not a single Cuban, whether funcionario, factory worker or member of the Party tried to do an "all is well" selling job on us. Everyone was quick to point out the problems, the difficulties of daily life, the queues, the rationing, the housing shortage, the inadequacy of transportation facilities. But what Cubans now call los anos dificiles are considered gone, and there is a sense that there is no way to go but up.

The whole country is sprucing up to receive those thousands of young visitors during the Festival. Strikingly modern hotels are being built for growing numbers of tourists. At the Marazul, a brand-new luxury hotel on the golden beach at Santa Maria del Mar, just 20 minutes from Havana, we met U.S. tourists who had arrived on the first direct charter flights from Detroit and Chicago.

Quien la defiende la quiere mas ...

If I had to mention the single thing that impressed me the most, I would say it was the Cuban youth. The children and teenagers whom I saw working, studying, singing and playing was different from the youth of my generation. There is an air of self-assuredness about them, of purpose. They seem to know that, no matter where they live, or what job their parents have, they can go as far with their schooling as their talent can take them. And that makes them feel they can play an important role in shaping their, as well as their country's future.

This attitude became plain to me one Sunday afternoon in Havana. I asked a little boy flying a kite, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" He did not hesitate: "Me?" replied Andres, 11 years old, "I am going to be an engineer." Why? "Bueno, because we need to build Cuba." And there was this unrehearsed spark in his eyes. Then he asked me where I was from. "I live in New York, but I am from here," I said. He cocked his head and squinted at me, momentarily confused. Then he said, "I have an aunt in Miami, but she can't come back."

Tu que dices que tu patria no es tan linda ...

Finally, I was really going back to Caibarien, the small town by the sea where I was born and lived all my life until I left Cuba. The town was in a state of alert. Two days before I had called my aunt. No one was there, so I left the message with a neighbor: "I'm coming home."

At first they thought it was a prank, somebody's bad idea of a joke. But they waited anyway. My counsins took the day off from work and waited. My aunt told a white lie at the hospital where she was having a checkup, got out and waited. The neighbors waited.

After driving part of the night and part of the morning, I arrived in Caibarien. It had been a long trip from Havana, slowed down by rain and construction on parts of the road. I was tired, I had not slept at all the night before. But I was wide awake and very excited. Like a kid. I pointed out to the driver all the places I knew and remembered.

Before entering the town, we made a right on the dirt road that goes to the airport. We stopped at the small and decrepit thatched-roof wooden house where my grandparents used to live. They are now dead. But my uncle Guillermo still lives there. I pushed open the door and said, "Buenas tardes." He looked at me for a long time, to make sure, and then screamed with delight calling his wife. In seconds, neighbors and other relatives swarmed all over me — children I didn't know, twice-removed aunts I didn't remember. Promising to return later, I left them and continued the journey to town.

We promptly got lost. I thought I remembered every street. But time plays funny tricks with memory. The town seemed smaller yet bigger, at the same time. New schools, three-story housing projects, a new zoo surprised and disoriented me. The old part of town seemed cramped and more run-down than I remembered. But 17 years had passed, half my lifetime, and memories ... well ... We had to ask directions to get to my aunt's house.

I got out at the corner and walked to the door. My aunt, my mother's only sister still in Caibarien, was sitting in a rocking chair, sewing and waiting, talking to a neighbor. I stood in the door — doors are always open in Cuba — and she saw me. "She is here!" she said and hung on to me crying. Even the neighbor who didn't know me cried. We all cried. We cried because time and distance had disappeared in a few seconds. We cried because what seemed impossible a few years ago was happening. We cried because of the possibilities ahead, because, somehow, at least some of us can go home again.

Counsins and children of cousins and more relatives and more acquaintances of the family materialized out of nowhere. The news spread like brush fire, and streams of people kept stopping by to see me, to say hello, to ask the same questions. "You don't remember me, but I knew your mother since she was a young girl." "You look like your mother, yes, you do." "You are not married yet, te vas a quedar solterona?" "How is el viejo Prida?" I tried to answer everybody at once: "Sorry, I don't remember. Glad to meet you. Thank you. No, not yet. Maybe. His hair is as white as yours now.

There were so many young people I didn't know. My cousin Chelo, who was a year-old toddler when I left, was now a tall, dark beauty. We wanted to know all about each other in a few hours. She eagerly asked about my job, the camera, the tape recorder, my travels. She would like to be a journalist, too. But she has just won a scholarship to study physics and mathematics in the Soviet Union. Anyway, I thought, with the controlled, didactic press in Cuba, it would be no fun being a journalist.

After dinner I sip coffee and learn about my cousins, with whom I used to climb trees as a child. They lived in the country then; now they are teachers, accountants, medical students. I give them presents my mother sent; blue jeans, T-shirts, a pocket calculator. The oldest cousin says, "I don't really want any presents. I want to see you, all of you. That's the best present I can have." Back in New York, when I relay the message to my mother — who is always so worried about the material things they may be lacking there — her eyes flood with tears.

I go on a quick tour of the town. A neighbor appoints himself guide and introduces me to everyone. I stop and take a picture of the house where I used to live. It seems so old and small, not at like I remember it. The movie house across the street looks the same, though, and the bakery on the corner still makes the most wonderful bread.

Everything has to be quick. I have to go back to Havana at dawn. I run down to the beach. I must see the beach. What used to be a private club, with the snobbish name of Caibarien Yacht Club, is now open to everyone. [Blacks used to be barred as members.] The ballroom is now a sea food restaurant. The beach itself is neglected. But then, Cubans don't go swimming in the "winter."

There are new houses everywhere. A tourist hotel is being built at the end of the beach. A whole new barrio of fishermen stands at the edge of the new road that goes over the water to la playa. Fishermen, formerly the poorest people in town, now work together in a cooperative. A packing plant processes lobster and crabs for export. Yes, it is another, different town, but how familiar, too.

We turn a corner, and I point out the house that had the first TV set in the neighborhood. All the kids used to go there to watch cartoons in the early evening. Over there, that's my school; and there's the library that was always locked. That's the park where the young people gathered on Saturday night and where the Municipal Band played Strauss waltzes on Sundays. And that shoe store, I worked there as a typist after school. ... Yes, it is all the same ... and different. And I was different, and the same. But there was not time ...

Tu que buscas otros cielos ...

One's own country is always a nice place to visit. But would you go back to live there? Toward the end of the trip, the question kept coming up more and more often. As the days went by, I felt more at home. I relaxed, luxuriating in that sense of "belonging" to a place, to a people. I enjoyed speaking the language, using all the words and expressions unguardedly, knowing everyone would understand me. For the first time in 17 years, I began not to feel "foreign." But could I go back to Cuba for good? I don't think so ... maybe ... frankly, I don't know.

Despite all the familiarities of home, of kin and culture, Cuban society today seems to be another world for me. A very different world than this one where so many Cubans have lived for almost two decades now. Many of us have grown up here, become partly American — with all the conflicts which that implies. At the same time, we have grown up learning to despise our own native country, glorifying a past we hardly knew, denying the possibility that, after all, socialism may be working in Cuba.

To be sure, many in the younger generation of exiles have been able to reach their own conclusions. I met a group of the most free-thinking — 55 children of exilados most of them in their mid- and late-twenties, who comprised the Brigada Antonio Maceo. They came to Cuba for a fortnight of construction work and, of course, to discover their roots. Many had left Cuba at a very early age, a few even before the Revolution. They became politicized on campuses across the U.S. during the last decade. Now, finally they were allowed to see their country of birth, that political entity they had come to admire from afar.

The Cubans were surprised by these young people who knew so much about Cuba, spoke Spanish so well, sang the same songs and played quite a decent set of congas and guiro. The islanders had given us up. As my young kite-flying friend had innocently said, we "could not" come home. So, the Cubans were thoroughly confused when we felt insulted if called extranjeros.

Extremist exiles, for their part,

U.S MILITARY INVOLVEMENT IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

A CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY

| OPEN SESSION: | WORKSHOPS |
|---|---|
| Friday, April 14, 1978 | Saturday, April 15, 1978, 1—5 p.m. |
| 194 Thompson Hall | New Africa House |
| University of Massachusetts | University of Massachusetts |
| Amherst | Amherst |

—VIOLATIONS OF U.N. ARMS EMBARGO
Michael Klare, Policy Institute
Eric Prokosch, American Friends Service Committee
Sean Gervasi, Namibia Committee

—MERCENARIZATION IN SOUTHERN AFRICA
Cynthia Eniow, Clark University

—WESTERN STRATEGY IN SOUTHERN AFRICA
Courtland Cox, Emergency Fund for Southern Africa

—NUCLEAR INVOLVEMENT
Ronald Walters, Howard University

—POSSIBILITIES OF CONGRESSIONAL ACTION TO STOP MILITARY INTERVENTION
Robert Sylvester, Aid to Congressman Colin Curtis

—TRANSNATIONAL CORPORATE MILITARY INVOLVEMENT
Ann Seidman, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Neva Seidman, Howard University

Sponsored By:

Afro-American Association, University of Massachusetts
International Students' Association, University of Massachusetts
Five College Black Studies Executive Committee
Student Organizing Project, University of Massachusetts
The Association of African Scholar, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Committee for the Liberation of South Africa, University of Massachusetts

A WORTHY PROPOSAL

The New Africa House Steering Committee will hear a proposal to begin a truly comprehensive evaluation of the University's handling of Affirmative Action, Academic responsibility, and career preparation for Third World Students here at UMass, Amherst. The proposal will be presented Tuesday, April 4, at 5:30 p.m. The plan is designed to define and rule the exact academic responsibility of Third World Students and Faculty. Look for more of this in the immediate future.

South Africa Theater Workshop

The South African Theatre Workshop '71, a professional Boston-based group, will be appearing for two performances of "Survival" on Friday, April 14, 1978 at 6:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. in Chapin Auditorium, Mary Woolley Hall, Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Massachusetts.

"Survival" is a satirical play written and performed by the four members of the South African Theatre Workshop '71. It is a portrayal of Black life in South Africa and is based upon the actual life experiences of the authors. "Survival" dramatizes the futility of the life of Black South Africans when a former inmate is released from prison and courts his own arrest in order to return to the somewhat more reliable and more predictable prison environment. The actors feel that the main intent of the play is not to interpret South African life in a political context but rather in an artistic context. Through the use of native songs, dances and preaching they intend to convey what ordinary Black South Africans think and feel.

The members of the cast — Fana D. Kekana, Selaelo Dan Maredi, Themba Ntinga, and Seth Sibanda — will also be speaking about "The Black South African Experience", and about their experiences in this country since their arrival in January 1977. The lecture will be held Thursday, April 13, 1978 at 8:00 p.m. in Hooker Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College.

Tickets for "Survival" are $1.00 for students and $2.50 for general admission. Tickets are on sale in the Ticket Office, Mary Woolley Hall, Mount Holyoke College. For more information call: 538-2178, Tix Ticket Agency, Student Union, UMass, New Africa House, Tuesday, April 11 12 noon - 4:00 p.m.

Continued From Page 7

have called these same young people "traitors," and worse. Some of the youths know the threat and the actuality of physical attacks. Most have been abused verbally. It is understandable; exiles lost a great deal to the Revolution. And now their own children are going to Cuba to help build Communist schools! Dios mio, how can this happen to them! But they should know this: few of those young exiles in the Brigade who think Cuba is so cool are planning to live there.

Why don't they? Why don't I? Ah, perhaps because we have become more American than we care to admit. Perhaps because we have become "liberals" and "progresistas" and have gone to demonstrations and raised our voices condemning the thousand-and-one injustices inherent in this system — without ever realizing how much we have come to be part of it. We know the difficulties of living with capitalism but are not ready to face, on a personal level, the difficulties of living without it. We want all our options, all our freedoms, and, at the moment we see that Cuba cannot offer us all that.

I wonder, too, if the country is ready for the earnest brigadistas, with their granny eyeglasses and their beards, their modist safari jackets, and their idealized great expectations. Is Cuba ready for a generation of children who have been brought up in the U.S.A., light years away from present Cuban reality?

No, I don't think we are ready for each other. We may never be. Perhaps for many of us it is too late. We have built our own little private worlds, gotten used to life styles considered "decadent" in Cuba. We have acquired a whole array of cultural baggage that cannot be packed along with the Bette Midler records and the Frye boots. At least, not now.

What still hurts is seeing the Cuban people separated into two categories: los deaqui y los de alla. One group talks about a Cuba that is no longer, the other of the Cuba that will be. In the process, people have died, families have been separated. Vast amounts of energy are spent in fostering hatred for each other. Perhaps soon we will all come to terms with reality: that the Revolution is there to stay, that diplomatic relations with the U.S. will eventually be resumed and more of us will be able to go home again, if only to see our families, to replenish and update our memories. Undoubtedly, some will never forgive and forget, because they have been hurt badly, both here and there. But I have the feeling that the majority of Cubans on both sides want to be one people again. No more "them" and "us." And then, no matter how we think or where we choose to live, we can all agree that Cuba is indeed a four-letter word — the kind that simply spells HOME.

Dr. W.D. Meriwether

The Third World Scientist Society (TWSS) is sponsoring a presentation on Thursday, April 13, at 8:00 p.m. in rom 904-08 Campus Center. The objective of the TWSS is to support Third World students in the science and engineering disciplines. This objective is fulfilled by sponsoring film series, industrial field trips, workshops, and lecture series.

Dr. Meriwether is presently special assistant to the department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) in Wash., D.C. He received his M.D. degree from Duke University in 1967 and in 1969 joined the Baltimore Cancer Research Center.

In 1971 Dr. Meriwether left Baltimore for Boston where he became a research and clinical fellow in medicine at Harvard Medical School and a research fellow in medicine at Boston City Hospital's Thorndike Memorial Laboratory, where the principle subject of his research was Sickle Cell Anemia.

In 1973 as a special assistant to HEW, Dr. Meriwether traveled on fact finding missions to the Sahel Drought area in sub-Sahara, to South Africa, and to the Soviet Union.

Without any prior professional training in track, Dr. Meriwether in 1971 and 1972 astounded the sports world when he captured two National Amateur Athletic Union (NAAU) sprinting champion ships. He has also completed abroad for U.S. Teams in South America and the People's Republic of China.

Dr. Meriwether was most recently in the National News in 1976 as Director of The Federal Government's ambitious Swine Flu Immunization Program.

The topic of Dr. Meriwether's presentation is The Role of the Third World Scientist and Engineer in the Federal Government. Additionally, Dr. Meriwether will speak about the implications of the Bakke Decision.

All are welcome to this presentation which promises to be a very educational and interesting event.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII ISSUE 86
[illegible], April [illegible] 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Pols expect no president picked yet

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Tonight's Student Government Association Electoral Convention scheduled for the Hatch at 7:00 may not reach a quorum according to some student politicians.

Candidate Bob Dion said he was "very doubtful if there will be a quorum." Candidate Herb Tyson said, "the lack of attendance is due to a lack of interest. In the first two conventions, delegates were excited. It has become clear now that it's not working out the way it should. Students are getting tired of it."

If a quorum is reached, there may be another move for the convention to mandate a new popular election. In the first two sessions, there were motions to suspend the rules to discuss holding a new popular election. However, the motions failed. "A popular election has never even been debated on the floor," said senate speaker-elect Brian DeLima.

Outgoing student government President Jon A. Hite said, "The popular election cannot be ordered by the convention. A non-binding referendum can. The ballot would consist of only the top two candidates since the convention can only vote for the top two candidates since the convention can only vote for the top two candidates from the last ballot." A convention can also vote on any write-ins in addition to the top two vote-getters on the last ballot. Under a referendum, the convention would reconvene after the vote to approve the results.

Governmental Affairs Co-chairperson Marcy Levington said that if the election does go to a popular election.

Shelly Gordon and Herb Tyson said they favor a popular election Donald Bishop and Bob Dion also favor a new election. Candidate Steve Ross was unavailable for comment. Since the first convention Gordon-Tyson and David Barenberg-Susan Birmingham have supported a popular election.

According to Levington, for the convention to declare a new referendum, it must first declare the office of the president vacant. If this happens, the speaker becomes president. Brian DeLima was elected speaker on March 29; however, his election was never approved since the senate did not meet at the meeting following the election. DeLima's approval will be voted on this Wednesday.

Former Senate Parliamentarian Adam Auster said if the election is not resolved by the end of this semester, DeLima will become acting president through the summer.

The convention ordered Hite to compel attendance by sending letters to delegates by requesting them to attend. The letters may not have been sent, according to Hite.

Weather

Mostly sunny today with highs in the mid to upper 30's. Increasing cloudiness tonight, lows 35 to 40 degrees.

Flag photo by Ellen Davis

Leaders plan pullback in Israeli cabinet briefing

JERUSALEM [UPI] — Defense Minister Ezer Weizman and Army Chief of Staff Mordecai Gur briefed the cabinet yesterday on plans for a phased withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied territory in southern Lebanon.

Cabinet Secretary Aryeh Naor declined to give details of the withdrawal plan, which U.N. officials said would begin Tuesday with Israeli troops moving south one to four miles from forward positions in the eastern sector.

The second stage of the pullback is scheduled to begin Friday with troops withdrawing up to three miles in the central sector.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has criticized the Israeli plan as inadequate and Naor said Prime Minister Menachem Begin sent a reply to U.N. headquarters.

In a tour of the region, reporters found hundreds of casings of American-made cluster bombs dropppd by Israeli warplanes on guerrilla positions.

In Washington, the State Department said the bombs, anti-personnel explosive units that spray shrapnel over a wide area, were supplied under an agreement that did not provide for their use in instances such as the seven-day Israeli campaign in Lebanon.

The Israeli military command yesterday admitted that the bombs were used but did not say how many or where.

A high ranking government source said "It was explained to the Americans that none were used against anything that could conceivably be said to be civilian targets."

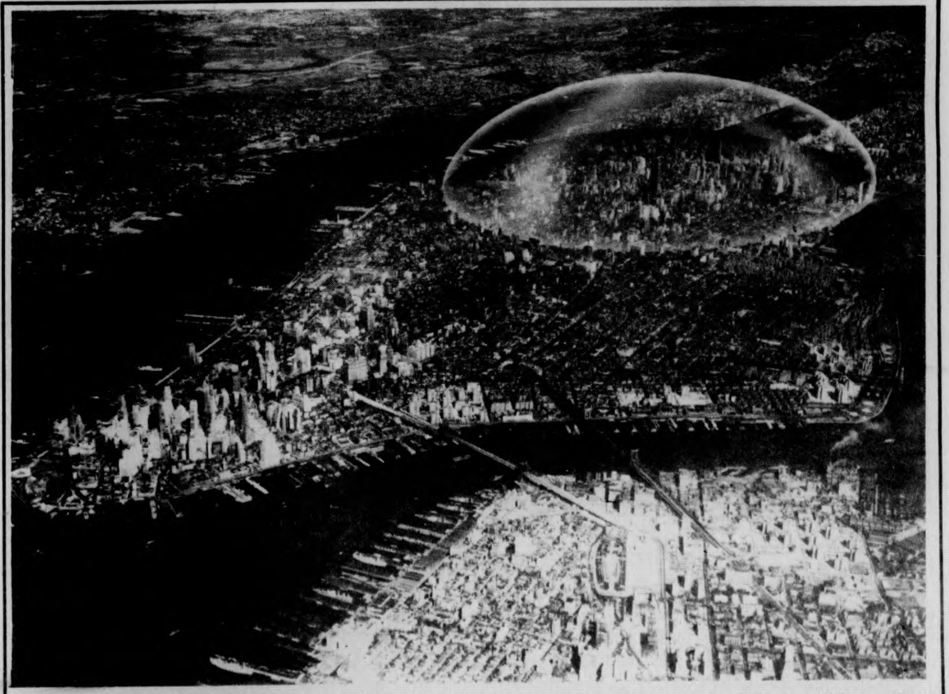
Field reports said troops of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon returned fire against guerrilla positions during the weekend on the north bank of the Litani River, about 10 miles north of the Isreali border.

Swedish soldiers near the Kakia Bridge in the central sector started shooting after coming under automatic weapons and rocket fire, the reports said. French soldiers near the coast shot back when they came under machine gun fire.

U.N. troops enforced a ceasefire throughout much of the occupied region yesterday but an Israeli unit trained mortar fire against guerrilla positions, the reports said.

The commander of Israeli-backed Christian forces in southern Lebanon charged that Norwegian U.N. soldiers handed back the village of Kaukaba to guerrilla forces.

"We had cleared Kaukaba and its surrounding hills from all terrorists when we handed it over to the U.N. and now they are back," Maj. Sa'ad Hadad told reporters.



Buckminster Fuller, the futurist and mathematician best known for his invention of the geodesic dome (shown above theoretically cutting back New York City energy waste) begins his "Synergetic Explorations" lecture tonight 7:30 p.m. in the FAC. Fuller is a Visiting-Scholar-in-Residence with the Future Studies Program. See story pg. 5. (Fuller Archives)

Feminist defies old image

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: Andrea Dworkin, radical feminist author of Woman Hating and Our Blood, will lecture on "Protective Oppression: What The Right Offers Women" in Mahar Auditorium on Tuesday, April 11 at 8:00 p.m. The lecture will be sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program. The following are excerpts from an interview with Dworkin by Julie Melrose on March 19 in Northampton.

Andrea Dworkin: In the last five or six years I've been writing out of the deepest experiences I know, all of which center on being a woman and what it means to be a woman in a world that men rule. One of the things about being a writer is that you really have to write about the world you live in. For a woman, there are hundreds of centuries of silence, up to and including the present, that demand that she write as a woman. That's the most exciting thing I see happening now in literature. Anywhere in the world where people are writing, the writing of women is the most intense, relevant, committed and passionate writing there is.

This writing involves a total interaction between historic circumstance and the personal lives of women writers. There's a special quality to writing that comes out of a time of massive attention to both women writers and the quality of women's lives — by women. It is outside the bounds of male criteria of excellence. It has a life that cannot be contained within male critical strictures.

Collegian: What do you hope to accomplish through your work?

Dworkin: I suppose what I want most is for my work to change the way women see — themselves, the world they live in, their individual and collective possibilities. I want my work to enable women to act in a way that has total integrity for themselves, in their own interest and in the interest of other women.

Collegian: Your work, using the traditional dichotomy, is very much a blend of the "personal" and the "political." How did you come to that style?

Dworkin: I think people really misunderstand what "personal" is. They think of "the personal" as being the very narrowly autobiographical. To me, "the personal" is the deepest perception one has of the world one lives in — based on one's own experience, which includes the books one's read and the people one has known.... everything you can see around you about how life works.

I started working on Woman Hating at a time of incredible chaos in my own life — total despair. It was very clear to me that the trouble I was in, even though it entirely took over my own life, wasn't particularly "personal". I hadn't sought it out; I hadn't provoked it; I didn't want it. It had happened to me — despite my individual characteristics.

I began looking at the world in a way I never had before. I started with things I had noticed; fairy tales I'd read — books like The Story of O, which was very significant to women of my college generation. I wasn't the only one who had read those things. Everyone had read them or seen them or heard them. It seemed clear to me that I was dealing with personal experiences that were common experiences. And that's the genius of feminism. It's the total integration of what men have dichotomized.

On Books:

Dworkin: If a reader doesn't feel that the "truth" I'm presenting in my work is the "truth" for her, my feeling is, "It's a book. Close it and put it down."

One of the reasons I like the form of publishing and don't like the form of lecturing is that with a book, the one who reads it is the active agent and is controlling the experience. The reader can refuse to accept the book, argue with it, disregard it — they have a kind of freedom in relation to a book that is unavailable in most other media. That's why books or published articles would be my chosen form.

Collegian: Aren't there advantages to having it a little more difficult for someone to just "turn you off"?

Dworkin: Of course there are advantages, but they're not advantages that particularly appeal to me. I don't find them as valuable as the advantage of a reader having absolute freedom in relation to a book. I think the fact that people are more and more reluctant to read is consistent with the fact that people are more and more easily manipulated by other kinds of communication that demand more passivity.

On Feminism And The Media:

Collegian: What are your feelings about the current state of the feminist movement in this country? What are your perceptions of what's going on right now?

Dworkin: I'm very concerned that there's been a retreat from activism. There's been almost a manufactured character of isolation. A lot of women feel very passionately about the same things, but seem to find themselves blocked off from action on what they know. Action is harder than it was five or six years ago. It's harder to accomplish and harder to be part of. To me, the source of that is very clear: I think there's been a media assault on the women's movement over the last three years that has been overwhelming in its intensity.

For a period of about a year when I was living in New York, I would get up and go for a walk and these headlines would blare at me from every newsstand: "Women's Movement Dead!" And I would pinch myself and say, "Dead?" Most of the time, I would just have participated in a tremendous action — an unbelievable event that wasn't reported in the paper. Instead there was some gloomy meditation about the women's movement being dead. And if that affected me, and I was at the center of what was going on, I can only imagine how it affected other women.

One example of this media assault is that during a period when I had been at many different events involving over a thousand women — none of them covered by newspapers of any sort — I read in Time or Newsweek that Betty Friedan had met with twelve women in a hotel in New Orleans because they didn't like the direction the National Organization for Women (NOW) was going in. So you have this tremendous event: the radicalization of NOW — but what's reported is that twelve women don't like it. It's that kind of thing that I'm talking about and it's had, and continues to have, a tremendous effect.

Collegian: Did the media assault prompt the retreat from activism, or did the retreat start and get preyed on by the media?

Dworken: I don't think the retreat started first. I think the media did it. They sure as hell did it to me — to the extent that I was psychically assaulted with this propaganda war of headlines constantly for a period of three years. I would read the article and say, "This is baloney," but the headline would already have had its devastating effect.

I, like many other feminist writers, tried to take action on this. I talked to the writers of those articles, the editors, and the other people involved. But the decisions were made, as decisions of that kind always are, by people who were extremely hostile not only to the women's movement but to women in general.

The fact is that I think the women's movement has had more effect on this country, in a grassroots way, than any other populist movement in the history of the country. But the way you find out about it is in little side references. There will never be an article that begins, "Feminists say...." But there will be an article which says, "Sociobiologists, in response to feminists, say....." That's all you ever learn about what feminists have said. The responses are reported as news, but the actions and cultural contributions of the movement are not reported as news.

Radical faminist author Andrea Dworkin will lecture on "Protective Oppression: What the Right Offers Women" Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium. The lecture is sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors' Program.

No matter what we do, we are not a "cover story" anywhere. Our actions, no matter how significant, do not become publicly visible in a way commensurate with their importance. That's an incredible kind of psychic reality to have to deal with. It's not that the women's movement doesn't exist and isn't growing. It's that there's an enforced invisibility that feeds back so that women feel totally defeated. That's what we're seeing now: a manipulated but nonetheless experientially real sense of defeat.

On Female Separatism:

Collegian: What do you feel is responsible for the fact that large numbers of women are now choosing to live a separatist lifestyle?

Dworkin: I think when women lose that sense of urgency and that tremendous belief in their own capacity to perceive the world around them, the classically female modes of behavior take over. One of those modes of behavior is "housekeeping" — living a private life in a house you keep clean. I think that's what's happening now. Because I think it's anger and a sense of reghteous rage that gets women out of the house to begin with. Once that has been tranquilized or lobotomized or neutralized, women retreat into classic modes of female survival strategies.

It doesn't matter if they dress differently than they did before. And it doesn't matter if they appear to have developed a different lifestyle. Because in fact they're being classically colonialized females — giving up any form of political confrontation and sexual confrontation. By that I mean challenging the sexual mores of the male world. That element of confrontation is a basic dynamic of any political movement; it's got to exist.

I feel that the effect of this retreat is that the women who are still fighting in a public, confrontational way are more and more isolated by the failure of other women to sustain the battle they started.

The effects of the retreat from activism in terms of abortion rights or women being forced out of the workplace into pregnancy and the home are absolutely devastating. It's going to take another hundred years to undo that backlash effect. If women are pushed back out of public — if feminists are pushed out of confronting male supremacy wherever we find it, it's going to be another case of a feminist movement that arose, had tremendous insight and a tremendous contribution to make, and then was buried.

Collegian: Do you feel that's in realistic danger of happening?

Dworkin: Yes, I do.

On "Where We Go From Here":

Collegian: Have you come up with any ideas as to how to get women, "out of the house" and active again?

Dworkin: I think there's a tremendous potential to organize against pornography which may be the key to revitalizing feminist activism. Pornography seems to offer a tremendous variety of possibilities for different modes of attack.

Pornography hits that raw nerve women have, once they learn to see it, of "God damn it, this is really what they think of me." Because it hits that raw nerve, it rekindles that rage. And because it rekindles that rage, women find power to act.

Collegian: Do you think most women, when they see pornography, really identify with the women portrayed in it?

Dworkin: I think most women try not to see pornography at all. But when they do look at it, they have a response of repugnance that is nonpoliticized. It's part of the impulse of feminism to politicize that response. It's a response that cuts across all racial, class and other barriers and provides a forum for women to experience the commonality of their situations. But the work of organizing that response is very serious political work, and it's very hard work.

So what we have on the one hand is an apparent retreat of women from confrontation, and on the other hand an embryonic movement towards confrontation — especially on this issue, which of course is related to all the other issues that have concerned feminists over the last ten years — rape, wife-beating — all acts of violence against women.

Collegian: Do you think women who were active in the feminist movement in the past and then retreated will become reinvolved?

Dworkin: I hope so. I think some will and some won't. There is now within the movement a kind of beginning challenge to those women from other women who are saying, "We've had enough of you sitting on your ass. We've really had enough. It's been fine for you, but look at what's been happening while you, in your righteous purity, have been doing that. Now — put up or shut up." I think that's good; I think it's time for that to happen. I think it's late.

On Feminist Activism:

Dworkin: The fact is that we're dealing with incredible, almost paralyzing pain. To have to deal with the reality of what is done to women in society and to have to sustain a fight against it, to constantly be erased from the history of your time in everything you see, in all of the media that are supposed to be dealing with political phenomena, by your very contemporaries, is devastating. When you're fighting against that kind of obstacle, which is in fact just another form of "Woman, you do not exist," it's very hard to sustain the struggle. Nevertheless, those are the facts and that's what has to be done.

On Her Own Life And Work:

Collegian: It's obvious that somewhere along the line you decided that despite the difficulty inherent in being a feminist activist under those conditions, that was the life you wanted. What contributed to your decision?

Dworkin: A tremendous feeling of — resurrection. One wants so to stay away from religious terms. But a perception that that was the way my life would be wor-

TURN TO PAGE 8

Todav's Staff

Issue Editor Johnny Walker

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | J.J. Walker |
| Sports Layout | Chet Walker |
| Head Bojangles Tech | Jerry Jeff Walker |
| REM Staff | Sleep Walker |
| Ex-NYC Mayor Layout | Jimmy Walker |
| Buford Pusser Layout | Walker Tall |
| Blisters Staff | Walker Mile For A Camel |
| Little Known Person | Myron Walker |
| What Would Ham Jordon Offer To Do For Little Amy If He Found Her All Alone? | Walker Downthuhprimrosepath |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

MIT prof rips US policy

By PETER COX
Collegian Staff

Noam Chomsky, in a lecture this weekend, said U.S. foreign policy since the end of World War II has been formulated with the intent of controlling the world economy, specifically in Latin America.

Chomsky, professor of philosophy and linguistics at the Mass. Institute of Technology spoke to an audience in Bowker Auditorium about human rights and American foreign policy focusing on Latin America.

Chomsky began his talk citing examples of U.S. military and economic support of repressive governments in Latin America. He said, "it is necessary for the U.S. to support repressive regimes in Latin America because American firms need a favorable climate for investment."

Without any presence of repression, workers' unions would develop, land reform issues would be addressed, and American capitalists would find the labor market no longer cheap, according to Chomsky. "This is exactly what happened in Guatemala until U.S. forces intervened in 1954 and set up a reactionary regime," he said.

Chomsky said President Carter's human rights campaign was a farce as far as Latin America was concerned. He said he believed the campaign was a facade in order to sanctify America's continuing imperialist policy in that region of the world. To support this claim Chomsky and a colleague, Herman S. Edwards recently conducted a pilot study. They measured 12 countries with which the United States has a close relationship. In each country they correlated certain political events, such as coups d'etat and social unrest, and U.S. reaction to those events. In all cases, Chomsky said, any country that became more repressive received more American aid. Conversely, he continued, any country that made progressive steps to develop and become more egalitarian faced a reduction in American aid, and not too rarely U.S. subversion; witness Allendes' Chile.

The underlying problem of U.S. foreign policy, Chomsky said, is our misconception of its goals. The American people are conditioned, he said, to believe they live in a free, open society where everyone has the right to express their views.

Chomsky said the state religion, America's basic belief in the righteousness of capitalism and democracy, wants the American people to believe they are living in a free society, forming their own opinions. "Yet in reality," he said, "the state religion (the press, universities, political institutions) restricts any rigorous criticism or analysis of U.S. capitalism or foreign policy."

Chomsky said the mainstream of debate, whether liberal or conservative, is within the realm of suppositions of this state religion. He said he believed radical opposition does not have the power of CBS or the New York Times; its views are safely stifled.

Chomsky ended his talk with an appeal for self evaluation of U.S. foreign policy beyond this narrow spectrum defined by American corporate interests. He said the nation must question the basic premises of its society and economy. Chomsky said in conclusion that we must broaden our interests and formulate our national policies from the perspective of world survival, not from the perspective of continuing American affluence at the expense of world survival. "If we can draw any constructive lessons from our horrendous experience in Vietnam, it will be that," Chomsky said.

He protested in his time, too

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

In what may come as a surprise to some, Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery himself is a veteran of various protests and sit-ins.

Bromery participated in restaurant sit-ins in Washington, D.C. while he was attending Howard University in the late 1940's. Bromery last week told of one of the most common methods of protest.

At the time, the city's restaurants were still segregated. Blacks were not served in white restaurants. So, Bromery said, he would go into white restaurants and try to be served.

A woman he knew, Mary Church Terrell, would go into a restaurant and say she would have friends joining her. Although Miss Terrell was black, her skin was fair enough so that she could go unnoticed as a black.

After Miss Terrell had been seated, Bromery said he and perhaps some of his friends would join her inside the restaurant.

"We always ended up with a confrontation," Bromery said. "Most times we lost."

He said more often than not he left.

He also told of times when similar instances occurred when he was travelling across the United States, particularly in the South and Southwest.

He was travelling with the United States Geological Survey, doing geological work. Bromery has an extensive background in geology, both in working for the Geological Survey and in teaching geology in the classroom. He was a professor of geology at UMass before being named chancellor.

Bromery was the only black member of the Geological Survey Team with whom he was travelling. He said most times he was ignored or asked to leave the restaurant.

"When you're in a small town in Nevada, you don't stay around and wait for the local sheriff," Bromery said.

Area councils deliberate elections

By CAROL MORRIER
and KAREN PARMENTER
Collegian Staff

NEAG

A tense Northeast Area Government meeting last night evolved around discussion of the SGA Electoral Convention.

Northeast Area President Diane Lauricella said people from NEAG who have been showing up with more than a quorum are "getting perturbed with its manipulation of the people."

Lauricella said "this is the first time area governments have been put on an equal basis with the Senate, and now the Senate is scared; it feels a threat to their power to manipulate." She said she feels that is why so many conventions are being held. "They're trying to make us sick of coming, so that eventually we'll stop. Right now," Lauricella said, "it is urgent that all NEAG people attend the convention."

"It's getting so bad that in the end we're going to vote for anything just so we can end this thing. Time's running out, and people are giving up!" said Lauricella.

Lauricella said "If we can't get a faction, I'm going to ask my people to cut out. This is a waste of time. People have exams and papers."

"It's a shame that the people we elected before as leaders of SGA are manipulating us like they are doing now."

OHAG

Thirty per cent of the voters in the Orchard Hill area turned out last week for the area government elections, but only one person officially ran. Gary Marshall received 234 votes out of a possible 1144 for president. None of the write-in votes for the offices of vice-president, secretary and treasurer received the 47 per cent of the vote to be elected, according to Dave Schilier, retiring vice-president.

The problem of filling the vacant offices has yet to be resolved. At last night's OHAG meeting, Mark Hergenrother, former OHAG president, suggested another election be held by the representatives at the next meeting, rather than appointing people to office.

Bill Coffey proposed that Marshall appoint "some people to help out until we have official elections next semester."

Marshall, who had previously been OHAG's treasurer, indicated he agreed with Coffey's suggestion, saying, "That would set us in better financial shape, since I'd be the only one getting a salary." However, no further action was taken on the matter.

Andy Davidson told representatives that all plans for the Orchard Hill-Central Spring Concert have been finalized. The concert, scheduled for April 30, will feature four bands: Room Full of Blues, the Estes Brothers, the Chris Rhodes Band and Parana. Davidson noted that while not all contracts with the bands have been signed as yet, all have agreed to perform.

Law to force meetings open

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

The UMass Board of Trustess will be subject to an open meeting law starting today which could force some meetings of the Presidential Search Committee to be held in public.

The trustees were originally exempt from the Open Meeting law when in December 1976 State Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti ruled that the law did not apply to the University board. However, the state legislature passed a law at the close of its 1977 session which states that the board must comply with the law starting today.

The board is presently searching for a president to replace Robert C. Wood who stepped down January 1977. The Presidential Search Committee, working thus far in closed sessions, have narrowed down the list of candidates from approximately 200 to six names.

According to committee Chairman Stephan C. Breyer, the University's general council is working on the details of the board's compliance. Breyer said the search committee is not planning to meet until the end of the month and he expects to have the council's guidelines by then.

The open meeting law requires discussions concerning an individual's professional competence to be held in the open, while discussions concerning his reputation and character may be held in closed sessions.

Except for the university, the state school boards have been in compliance with this law since its revision January 1, 1976.

Breyer said he expects the board to comply with the law. "We're not going to do anything illegal," he said. The trustees will come up with the final candidates either this month or next Breyer said. The trustees will be setting up final selection procedures and interviewing the remaining candidates themselves.

Breyer said he did not know how the law will affect these meetings but is waiting for the report from the general council. "I can't speculate," he said.

Police Beat

UM shoplifters arraigned

Sixteen people were arraigned last Friday in Hampshire County District Court on charges of larceny under $100 of the Campus store in the Campus Center:

— Edward Alexander Jr., 22, of Squire Ville, Sunderland. His case was continued to April 14.

— Roberto Amely, 24, of 81 Meadow St., Amherst. His case was continued to April 14.

— Daniel Anthony, of 2005 John Adams dormitory, UMass. He was fined $125.

— Steven Caron, 22, of Riverglade Apartments, Amherst. His case was continued to April 27.

— Howard French, 20, of 140H Brittany Manor, Amherst. He was fined $125 and is appealing the decision.

— Marueen Kaseta, 21, of 8 Colonial Village Apartments, Amherst. Her case was continued to April 20.

— Peter Keenan, of 307 Brett House, UMass. His case was continued to April 27.

— Cynthia Kessler, 19, of Randolph. Her case was continued to April 27.

— Dean May, 19, of 410 Grayson Dormitory, UMass. He was fined $125.

— Marc Melhado, 18, of 2207 George Washington Dormitory, UMass. His case was continued to April 27.

— Lori Mickle, 22, of 703 Brown Dormitory, UMass. Her case was continued to April 27.

— Katherine Pappas, 18, of Framingham. Her case was continued to April 27.

— Charlotte Pattison, of Framingham. Her case was continued to April 26.

— Brian Temblay, 31, of Chicopee. His case was continued to April 26.

— Alan Wadja, 24, of Sumner St., Amherst. His case was continued to April 20.

— Daniel Wisel of 17 Hobart Lane, Amherst. His case was continued to April 26.

All except Tremblay are registered UMass students.

Curtis C. Kimball of N. Orange was arrested Thursday in connection with the break into Stockbridge Hall last month in which over $5000 of Stockbridge goods were stolen. Kimball was charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime with intent to commit a felony. Kimball is the second of three arrests in connection with the Stockbridge break-in.

David Bromberg and Maria Muldaur thrilled a capacity audience at the FAC Concert Hall last night as...

...Maria wailed...

...and scaled...

...David fiddled...

...and diddled.

(Staff photo by Lynn Marion)

DIVEST
FROM South Africa

Spring spawned protest at Wesleyan University this weekend against holdings in S. Africa stocks. Marchers chanted "Baseball yes, apartheid no!" as they paraded past the practicing baseball team. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

State school aid likely to triple under Duke's plan

BOSTON (AP) – The state's dollar aid obligations to Massachusetts schools could nearly triple in four years – up $700 million – under the new school aid formula supported by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

The exact commitment is bogged down in a current local aid battle in the legislature that could be Dukakis' prime reelection issue.

Tied in with this is the state's potential ability to carry the future load within the existing tax structure. Extra funds available in this election year include revenue from a promised once-only $75 million federal payment and an exceptionally large surplus, due partly to yields from some taxes scheduled to expire soon.

Because of this local aid brawl, the administration is already a month late in sending out "cherry sheets" which advise cities and towns how much help from Beacon Hill they can anticipate.

A spokesman said the delay might continue until the legislature settles the court reorganization and school aid questions.

The court bill, as passed by the House – and over the governor's strenuous objections – contains $58 million in new local aidohe form of an immediate state takeover of all court costs. The governor has complained that this would not leave enough money for the school bill which is in the works.

School aid, under the pending bill, would go up $153 million in the coming fiscal year, a figure that falls nearly $200 million short of the goal of the Unequal Education Commission that is sponsoring the formula change.

The commission formula is designed to have the state assume 35 percent of local educational costs. The state would pick up an additional 5 percent the next three years, and level off at 50 percent.

However, the proposed increase of $153 million – bringing this assistance to $633.5 million – meets only 28 percent of school needs. With changes already made at the committee level, to guarantee all communities at least 15 percent in new school moneh, ission's attempt to equalize educational dollars has already been compromised.

Aside from political considerations, the 35 percent aid goal would require $812 million in state dollars, according to commission records.

The full 50 percent, in four years, would cost about $1.16 billion in state aid, it was projected. That is nearly nearly three times the $483.5 million going out under four aid formulas this fiscal year which cover 22 percent of educational expenses.

A major difference in the proposed formula, which supporters say will help poorer communities, divides equalized valuations by population, instead of by the number of school chilren. Supporters claim the formula would benefit urban communities that have relatively heavier expenses for police, fire departments and other municipal operations.

Retired military officers earn civilian gov't jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) – House investigators say 161 retired military officers now holding civilian government jobs get more government money than the $66,000 salary of the Cabinet members for whom they work.

A House Civil Service subcommittee issued the figure in a report on "double dipping," the practice of retired military personnel retiring after 20 or more years of service and then taking civilian jobs with the government.

The report said present restrictions on double dipping are largely ineffective and recommended they be overhauled.

"Many former high ranking retired officers employed in full-time federal positions receive inordinately high total compensation (military retired pay plus civilian salary)," the report said.

It said these include 24 retired generals, admirals, colonels and Navy captains who received more than $80,000. An additional 15 received more than the $75,000 salary of qesident Walter F. Mondale, and an additional 122 received more than Cabinet members.

The report said 141,000 military retirees earning $958 million per year in pensions are taking home a second government check through a civilian job. This means that about one out of every seven military retirees is a civilian government worker.

More than half of the "double dippers" – 78,124 – are employed by the Defense Department, which also supervised their military service.

The report noted that double dipping is increasing.

"During the 38-month period from April 1972 to June 1975, the number of military retirees employed as civilians by the federal government increased 26 percent," it said.

During the same period, the number of military retirees working for the Defense Department went up 33 percent despite an overall reduction in civilian employees working for the Pentagon.

Congress in 1964 enacted a Dual Compensation Act to reduce the retired pay of some military retirees who take new government jobs. However, the law applies only to regular officers and not to those classified as reserve officers or to enlisted personnel. The report said few retirees working for the government are covered by the law and that only about 3.6 percemave the ment pay reduced as a result of the 1964 law.

The report said the law should be changed to make all retired military personnel subject to the same formula for reductions in pensions when working for the government.

Energy reserves decrease

WASHINGTON [AP] – The United States consumed 63 per cent more natural gas and 100 per cent more oil than it found last year and continued to draw down its long-dwindling reserves, two petroleum trade organizations reported yesterday.

The American Petroleum Institute said the industry added almost 1.4 billion barrels of crude oil to its roster of "proved reserves" in 1977, but at the same time almost 2.9 billion barrels were drawn out of reserves to meet the nation's demands, for a net decrease of 1.5 billion barrels.

As a result, the proved reserves dropped from about 30.9 billion barrels at the end of 1976 to some 29.5 billion barrels at the end of last year.

New field discoveries have run within a relatively narrow range between about 100 million and 300 million barrels a year for the last two decades, with the major exception of the huge 9.8 billion barrel discovery in Northern Alaska in 1968. The 1977 new field discoveries were reported at about 160 million barrels.

Extensions of known oil fields by further drilling have shown a steady decrease in results since 1951, levelling off for the past few years close to the 1977 level of 365 million barrels.

And expert "revisions" of previous reserve estimates, which generally provide larger estimates than those originally offered, peaked out around 1970 and have become more conservative. But the 1977 revisions, adding up to a net increase of almost 770 million barrels, were still the largest catergory of "new" oil reserves.

In natural gas, the American Gas Association accentuated the positive, reporting that 11.9 trillion cubic feet of gas was added to reserves in 1977, "The highest since 1968."

But natural gas production drew more than 19.4 trillion cubic feet out of those reserves, for a net decrease of some 7.5 trillion cubic feet.

This, too, continued a long downtrend of natural gas reserves since the late 1960s when natural gas consumption outraced new discoveries.

The association said natural gas reserves declined from about 216 trillion cubic feet at the end of 1976 to about 209 trillion as of last Dec. 31.

"Proved reserves", as defined by both organizations, include only oil and gas which have already been found and which, in the judgment of industry experts, can be produced with available technology under present economic conditions.

DVP presents
Andrea Dworkin
Radical Feminist author of
Our Blood, Womanhating
on
"Protective Oppression:
What the Right Offers Women"
Tuesday, April 11
8:00 p.m.
Mahar
Aud.

Fuller displays cosmic approach

R. Buckminster Fuller, creator of the geodesic dome. (UPI photo)

Editor's Note:

Buckminster Fuller's Synergetic Explorations lecture series begins this evening at 7:30 p.m. Remaining series tickets to Fuller's entire three part lecture, sponsored by the Future Studies Program of the School of Education, will be made available Tuesday to UMass students who attend Monday's lecture at no charge at the FAC Box Office.

By BRAD GOVERMAN
Collegian Staff

The life of Buckminster Fuller can be summed up best in his own words..."I made a bargain with myself that I'd discover the principles operative in the Universe and turn them over to my fellow men."

Since he began that cosmic quest in 1927, Fuller has traveled over two million miles. He has invented, discovered, theorized and prophecized through countless speaking engagements all over the world and been awarded for his efforts with an array of degrees and distinguishing prizes ranging from The Royal Gold Medal for Architecture to the 1968 Gold Medal Award of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Fuller is most celebrated for his design of the Geodesic dome in 1947. But to Fuller, this is just one of the manifestations of a principle he discovered and named "Synergetics", a subject he devoted his latest book to.

The principle of Synergy lies at the heart of the Fuller Universe. A phenomena first observed by chemists, Synergy means the behavior of whole systems unpredicted by any of their parts or sub-systems. Fuller often uses the increased strength of steel through the use of alloys to examplify this concept.

It is within this context of seeing the world whole that has set him apart from what has become a world of specialists. The Fuller philosophy is one of vast human experiences within a cosmological framework that embodies human spirit and human potential as the ultimate truths.

In 1969 Fuller authored authored a book entitled, Utopia or Oblivion: the prospects for humanity, a collection of keynote addresses he has given over the past several years to academic and professional groups.

In it Fuller theorized that the present statis of the world situation was bent toward self-destruction and humanity's only alternative was to pursue a utopia made possible through the potentials of technology and inspired by man's innate desire to coordinate and be at harmony with his environment.

"Essence of the world's working," he wrote, "will be to make every man able to become a world citizen and able to enjoy the whole earth, going wherever he wants at any time, able to take care of all his forward days without any interference with any other man and never at the cost of another man's equal freedom and advantage."

For Fuller, the means to accomplish this worldly vision rests in his strong faith in the individual, free from the frustrating restraints of political pursuasions. He shows a genuine contempt for politics of all sorts because they rest on what he feels are obsolete beliefs, such as the Malthusian concept of there not being enough material goods for everyone to go around. Politics, according to Fuller, pits man against man and funnels world resources into maintenance of the military industrial complex.

In this somewhat naive approach, Fuller resembles the four year old child, constantly exploring and experimenting with his environment oblivious to the society which we are ultimately swallowed up by.

But in this age of nihilism Fuller's idealism should be warmly appreciated. He offers world harmony in place of world chaos, and human potential in the face of human self-destruction.

Male author explains roots of movement

By ROBERT FALETRA
Collegian Staff

Sam Julty, author of "Male Sexual Performance," yesterday said, "The job of the men's movement is to see what we can do to turn around the lives of others as well as ourselves; to do this we must be heard and to be heard we must be understood."

Julty said, speaking to a crowd of about 250 in the Campus Center Auditorium, the men's movement grew out of the women's movement in small groups where men sat around talking about things other than baseball."

Today, Julty said, the movement consists of liberals, feminists, radicals, gays, straights, bisexuals and asexuals. "We cover the whole waterfront so to speak," he said. Our age spacing generally falls between 18 and 60 and we are mostly white middle class."

Julty said, "What we now have is a Men's movement with a small "m" on movement, to become a movement with a capital 'M' we must form a national organization, because that's the language that Americans understand."

The national organization, Julty said, would initiate a program to deal with feminist issues, sexism, stoppage of violence against women, the war as a men's issue, and men's health.

The men's movement is something that has never happened before, Julty said, and "as a result we can make it be anything we wish."

Julty said men and women are oppressed differently. Men are oppressed by class and education while women face a male-orientated society. Lesbianism is more tolerated than male homosexuality, he said.

Julty said men live an average of 7.8 less years than women. The difference is a result of male competition and proves that a bondage between men is only temporary. The men's movement will create a system healthy enough to be critical and not one that preserves a bondage system.

Our society gives men privilege rather than power, Julty said. "These privileges come early and we often don't know we have the," he said. An example Julty gave is a grammer school's recess where only boys are allowed on the monkey bars. These privileges are why we have 500 male legislators and only a dozen women. "This does not speak well of a democratic society," he said.

The men's conference also sponsored a number of workshops yesterday aimed at providing a broad perspective of the men's movement.

James Creane of the New York Men's Center gives the closing address at yesterday's Second Annual Conference on Men and Masculinity. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

Fourth rapist still loose

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] – Police, having arrested three Hartford men for allegedly raping and robbing a 23-year-old Springfield, Mass. woman, yesterday were searching for a fourth suspect.

The police said the woman, whose identity was withheld, was hitchhiking along Interstate 91 at about 3 a.m. Saturday when a car with four men picked her up.

The authorities said the men apparently took the woman to a park where they beat, robbed and raped her. Later, the young woman was treated at St. Francis Hospital and released.

Police Saturday arrested Kendall Williams, 19; Raymond Labelle, 29; and James Neal, 25, in connection with the incident.

Central Area Womens Center presents
WOMAN GROWTH WORKSHOP SERIES
April 9-May 6

Topics include:
°Female sexuality
°Sign language
°Weight loss and exercise
°Bicycle maintenance and repair
°Crafts
°Peer counseling
°Elements of acting °Witchcraft
°Hatha yoga
°Beginning guitar

SLEEPING WOMEN NOW AWAKE AND MOVE

Pre-register in the Womens Center (located in Baker basement) April 7-11
Registration fee: $2.50 for Central Area residents.
$7.50 for non residents
For further information call 545-0350

Charlie's
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT
DRAFTS 35¢
MOST DRINKS 75¢ delicious sandwiches & crepes afternoon & evenings
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

New England News in Brief

LAWRENCE (UPI) — Firemen carry one of the seven victims who perished in the 3-alarm fire that guttered an old three-decker wooden apartment building early yesterday. The five children and two adults were trapped on the third floor.

Family dies in blaze

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — Seven persons, five of them children, died early yesterday when fire trapped them in their third-story tenement apartment. A medical examiner called it the worst fatal fire in 30 years in the New England factory town.

Fire chief Richard Lacey said the children, two girls and three boys ranging in age from 2 to 13, still were in bed when their charred bodies were discovered.

"They were all black and seared," Dr. George W. Desmet, the medical examiner, said of the bodies. "It was a real mess, all mud, waterk sh .e fire, which also claimed their mother and a man living with the family, occurred in a tenement in a Spanish-speaking area of the city.

Lacey said authorities were investigating the possibility of arson and waited to queso 19-year-old Tito Rodriguez, a nephew who managed to escape the flaming top-floor apartment but was too upset to give a coherent account.

"Arson is always a possibilty," said Lacey. "We're investigating. That's routine."

Solar energy needed

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Rep. Anthony Moffett, D-Conn., said his congressional colleagues aren't too impressed with solar energy and they probably won't be until there's a strong solar power lobby.

Moffett was the keynote speaker at a daylong energy seminar Saturday at the University of Connecticut Law School.

Connecticut's youngest congressman told about 150 participants at the seminar that the current federal budget, when adjusted for inflation, includes $40 million less for the development of solar energy than last year's budget.

He said money in the budget for the development of sun and wind power represents about one-fifth what the federal government plans to spend on the development of fossil fuels like coal and oil.

"What we (solar energy supporters) need desperately is a lobby," Moffett said. He said the oil, coal and nuclear power lobbies are working effectively with Congress.

He said the United States is way behind other countries in use of solar energy. Moffett said the U.S. has only 30,000 homes that use solar energy, while Japan has solar heating systems in two million homes and Israel has them in 200,000 residences.

Wayne watches Red Sox

BOSTON [UPI] — Actor John Wayne watched parts of three sports events on television this weekend and walked around his room a bit more, a Massachusetts General Hospital spokesman said yesterday.

Wayne, who underwent open heart surgery last Monday, watched parts of both the Los Angeles Dodger-Atlanta Braves, and Boston Red Sox-Chicago White Sox baseball games Saturday, spokesman Martin Bander said.

The 70-year-old "Duke" also caught a portion of Saturday night's Boston Bruins-Toronto Maple Leafs hockey game, Bander said.

"He increased walking around his room, as he continues to show steady improvement in his convalescence in open heart surgery," Bander said. "He is eating increased amounts."

Wayne was taken from intensive care to the hospital's intermediate care facility for open heart surgery patients Saturday.

The star of more than 200 films, who 14 years ago lost part of his left lung to cancer, has been in satisfactory condition since the operation, which replaced a defective mitral valve in his heart with a valve from a pig's heart.

Four die in car accident

WESTFORD [UPI] — Four teen-agers were killed early yesterday when their car failed to negotiate a curve, slammed into a tree and burst into flames.

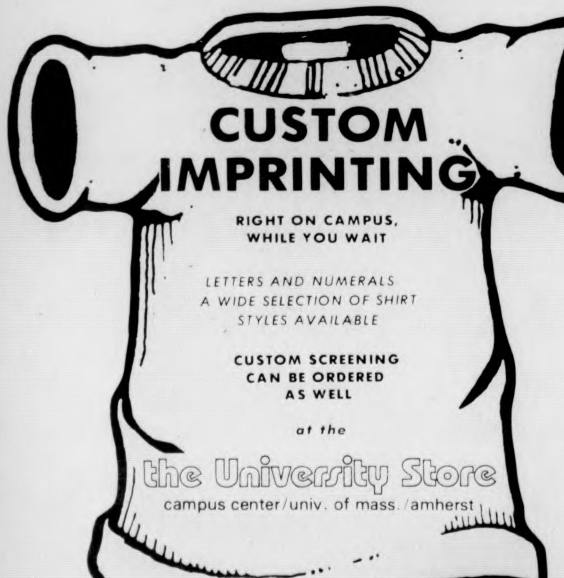
A fifth person in the car, William Eddy, 17, of Westford, Mass., was pulled from the wreckage by a passing motorist and was in fair condition at St. John's Hospital.

Police identified the dead as Rick V. Bourdeau, 16, of Westford, the operator of the car, and his passengers, James D. Lehan Jr., 17; Mark Miller, 17, and Paul Shields, 18, all of Westford.

Officer Sylvio Brule said that when he arrived at the scene at about 12:36 a.m. the entire car was engulfed in flames.

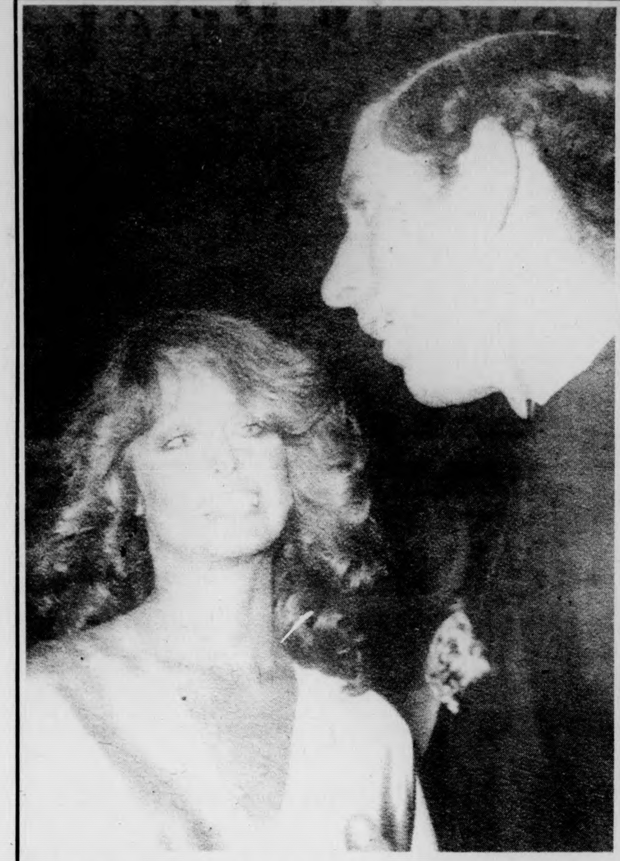
He said the car was traveling east on Route 110 when the driver failed to negotiate a curve. The car then skidded out of control and crashed into a tree along the side of the highway.

"We tried to get the people out by pulling them through the windows, but the roof had them pinned down," Brule said.



CUSTOM IMPRINTING
RIGHT ON CAMPUS, WHILE YOU WAIT
LETTERS AND NUMERALS
A WIDE SELECTION OF SHIRT STYLES AVAILABLE
CUSTOM SCREENING CAN BE ORDERED AS WELL
at the
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

30% OFF
SPECIAL SELECTION:
SPRING DRESSES
THROUGH APRIL 15
BUS STOP
197 N. Pleasant St./Amherst/Mass./256-0140



LONDON (UPI) — Actress Farrah Fawcett Majors meets Great Britain's Prince Charles backstage at the London Palledian this weekend. Farrah hosted the Palladian's Royal Gala show.

WORLD NEWS

Israeli army alerted to Palestinian landing

TEL AVIV, Israel [UPI] — Army and police units yesterday searched the Israeli coastline south of Tel Aviv to check unconfirmed reports that Palestinian guerrillas may have made a landing.

The military command and police officials could not confirm reports of a landing by guerrillas similar to a Palestinian strike a month ago and branded the reports strictly rumors. Police officials said the report may have been a false alarm.

The reports had said the guerrillas came ashore at Rishon Le-Zion, five miles south of Tel Aviv, and commandeered a vehicle of the Agrexco Agricultural Cooperative. The alert spread as far south as Ashkelon, 25 miles south of Tel Aviv.

Transplant patient dies

RICHMOND, Va. [AP] — Teen-ager Brian Belleau, of Dracut, Mass., who underwent a heart transplant operation Thursday, died yesterday, a Medical College of Virginia Hospital spokesman said.

The high school junior received the new heart in a four-hour operation rarely performed on someone so young.

Hospital spokesman Vill Van Pelt said Belleau's cause of death was listed as cardiac arrest.

"It will take several days of evaluation to determine the exact cause of death," Van Pelt said.

Belleau, an accomplished high school athlete, apparently was doing well Saturday night and death came suddenly yesterday, Van Pelt said.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Rosario Belleau, Belleau was the 23rd person to undergo a heart transplant operation at the college hospital since May 1967. Five of those recipients survive.

A hospital spokesman had said Belleau was one of a handful of persons his age or younger in the world ever to have sucn an operation.

The youth suffered from cardiomyopathy, which causes the heart muscles to degenerate and the heart to become covered with scar tissue.

Belleau's condition was diagnosed a year and a half ago and, at that time, his heart had enlarged to the size that could support a 600-pound man, a hospital spokesman said.

Volkswagen opens in US

PITTTSBURGH (AP) — Volkswagen, which brought its funny-looking little car to America when the U.S. automakers' motto was "Think Big," begins U.S. production today after a construction blitz that turned a mere shell into a working auto plant in less than a year.

The first of Volkswagen's U.S.-produced Rabbit models is scheduled to roll off the assembly line at the nearly complete New Stanton plant 35 miles southeast of Pittsburgh.

Some 1,200 employees have been riveting, welding and stocking parts at the Westmoreland County facility for weeks. Just the final part of the first U.S.-produced Rabbit remains to installed, and the car is expected to be sent to the Volkswagen museum in Wolfsburg, Germany.

The remaining 200,000 cars Volkswagen will produce here annually will go to dealer showrooms, however, as part of the German firm's push against challenges from Japanese and U.S. small cars.

The company did not locate here by accident. There was competition for the plant by several areas who hoped it could bolster sagging local economies in once-busy industrial areas.

The multimillion-dollar loan and tax abatement plan that got Volkswagen here was a complex arrangement involving the state, the county, the Chrysler Corp., two townships and two school districts.

Pssst. Monsieur!
Crest
Head & Shoulders
BAYER ASPIRIN
ONE A DAY

| | Reg. Price | Sale |
|---|---|---|
| Bayer Aspirin 100's | 1.21 | .88 |
| One-A-Day Plus Minerals | 2.36 | 1.39 |
| Crest 5 oz. regular or mint | 1.02 | .69 |
| Head And Shoulders | 1.78 | 1.19 |
| Kleenex Reach-In 200ct. | .79 | .55 |

quantities limited
Hurry while they are in stock!
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst
Everyone Welcome

men's Levi's CORDS
REG 13.50 NOW 11.50
~SAVE~ $2.00
WITH THIS AD
BOY'S CORDS ...SAVE $2.00
REG. 15.50 —NOW— 13.50
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

★ Dworkin calls for a change

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

thwhile. That as a woman, that was the only way my life was going to be worthwhile. That there was no other possibility for living a creative, useful life. I still believe that. Nothing about the difficulty or danger of living this kind of life has changed my opinion that it is the kind of life I want to live.

My main struggle has been staying alive financially. I've been fighting for food and shelter and the ability to go on writing.

Collegian: Why, in view of such a positive response to your work on the part of women, has that been such a problem? Is it related to the general reality of being a free-lance writer, or to the particular work in which you've chosen to engage?

Dworkin: I think it has to do with the particular work I do, and with the way the media in this country function to uphold male supremacy and attempt to destroy women who don't play the game. In particular, I think it has to do with nerves my work hits in men, who control the publishing industry.

My situation is extremely complex. There's a lot of ambivalence about women who write. There's a lot of misunderstanding about what it means to be a public feminist in this way. There's a notion that there's some kind of celebrity status that brings to you, as if by magic, everything you need. None of that is true.

Part of the problem has to do with choices I've made. I've made a choice not to become a public figure by way of lecturing a great deal. I'm extremely scrupulous about changes in my work; I don't allow them unless they make sense. I don't allow them to be made just because they will make my work more "palatable".

I just happen to believe that the best way to reach people is by telling the truth in the most powerful way you can. A lot of people don't believe that. They believe you have to water the truth down — dilute it or put it in some kind of pretty package for people to accept it.

I think that ideas that really come out of organic experience have their own power. And that you don't have to apologize for them. And that the best thing you can possibly do is to present them in the strongest possible way. If people don't like them, that's alright, because that's part of the process of dialogue, too.

On Publishing:

Dworkin: I'm very unyielding about my work, and I'm sure that's the main reason I have trouble getting published. I'm unyielding about it because it's the one thing in my life that matters to me more than anything. I would rather stop writing than write what I don't believe in. And that means it's very hard to make a living.

Collegian: Do publishers feel your books would be more salable in a watered-down form, or is it something else that prompts them to try to make changes in your work?

Dworkin: It's kind of a conceit of left-wing men that profit is the only motive in publishing. Control of information is a very big motive in publishing — especially control of the images of men and women and the images of sexuality that are culturally available. In my experience, that is more important to publishers than money.

My books have both gotten published by fluke. They've gotten through because somebody wasn't paying attention or because somebody didn't understand. And they haven't been properly marketed or reviewed. And yet they have survived because women have kept them alive.

Collegian: Do you think the positive reaction of feminists to your work will make it increasingly hard for you to get published?

Dworkin: I can't imagine it being harder. It's got to become easier for me as an individual. But it's a very complex thing we're talking about. Years of living this kind of marginal existence have also had an effect on me. I think that people get beaten down, and I've been beaten down. Maybe I'm not as dangerous as I used to be.

I think what it amounts to is that first they try to destroy you through poverty and obscurity and then, if you manage to survive, they try to kill you the other way — with attention and money. I think they're both lethal.

1978 by Julie Melrose and Andrea Dworkin

Notices

AMHERST STAMP CLUB

There will be a meeting for all those interested at 7 p.m. today at the Farley Lodge on the UMass campus.

AAAAY!!!

Meeting of the U.M. Amateur Radio Assoc. tonite at 7:30 in ELAB 109. All invited.

ANNUAL SPRING BLOOD DRIVE

Registration will be on the Campus Center Concourse on April 10, 11, and 12. Blood will be collected on April 18, 19 and 20.

AASA

Meeting tonite in Rm 905 C.C. We will be finishing elections and showing a film.

ATTENTION ALL N.E.S. TUTORS

You are required to attend this Monday night seminar. That is April 10th at 7:00 in 367 Hills South. Hope to see you there.

CONTRACEPTION EDUCATION

For men only, today at 7 p.m. in room 302 of the University Health Center.

COUNSELING FOR GAY MEN

Available at the Gay Men's counseling collective, specifically for gay men. They offer personal counseling, referral services, and gay men's support groups. A counseling, referral services and gay men's support groups. A counselor is available M—W 2:30 p.m. or by appointment. Contact People's Gay Alliance, 413 SUB 545-0154.

"CONCERT OF PRAISE"

Presented by the Ecumenical Youth Chorale under direction of Lois Sayers Smith on Sun. April 16 at 4:00 p.m. in St. Bridges Church on North Pleasant St. in North Amherst. Donation requested — reception after.

EXCEPTIONAL CHILD PSYCH 486 A

The film "Wild Child" will be shown, M&W at 8 p.m. April 10 & 12. Herter 227.

FITNESS FOR EVERY BODY

UHS Rm 304, 7:00—9:30 p.m. Two-session (4-19, 4-26) workshop aimed at helping you develop an enjoyable, personal exercise plan. Register by calling 549-2671, 181. First come, first served!

FOUND

Child's bike outside library. Leave your name at library desk.

FOUND

Textbook of Work Physiology by Astrand and Rodahl. Wed. night between Whitmore and SBA. Call Ben 5-0924.

FOUND

One pair of glasses, call Nick 546-5366.

FREE TRANSPORTATION

Sun. mornings to Pioneer Valley Church, Christ Centered Bible believing. Bus stops at UMass, Amherst College, Hampshire, and Mount Holyoke. Bus schedule listed at bus stops at each campus. Call 549-6031.

GENERAL ACTION COMMITTEE

To plan Holocaust Remembrance Day and Israel Independance Day. Meet at 4 p.m. in the Hillel Office (302 SU). All interested people please attend.

LOST

Four subject notebook, Fri. March 31 in the Bluewall. Return to info desk or call 545-2871.

LOST

Blue sapphire gold ring. Lost in Northeast quad. Sentimental value — reward offered. Call Jeannie 6-4687.

LOST

Snap closing black wallet. Reward — John 773-7289.

MOTORCYCLE PARKING POLICY

Effective today, all motorcycles parking on campus other than at the Campus Center Garage or at meters from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. must register their motorcycle with the Parking Office, Room 1, Munson Hall.

OUTING CLUB AUCTION

Mon. April 10, 7:00 p.m. CC Rm 168-180-172. Complete winter equipment will be sold.

PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB

There will be a meeting for all those interested in P.T. on Tuesday at 7:30 in NOPE, Room 22.

TAMING THE MIND

A course in the study and practice of Buddhism will meet Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. for five weeks beginning April 12. For more info, please call Drama Study Group, 584-4880.

WANT TO WRITE FOR A TV SHOW?

Writers are needed for the "UMASS Variety Show," a weekly half hour TV to do work on scenes and satirical commercials. Leave name at 545-1336 or stop by the S.V.P.

WOMAN GROWTH

Workshop series starts today. Workshops include: Sexuality, weight loss, witchcraft, and acting. Call the Central Area Women's Center for more info. 545-0350.

WSYL—FM 97.7

Tune in "An Extremely Funny Show" for laughter and surprises. Now playing on Mon. 7—10 p.m., on an F.M. Radio NEAR YOU!

TUESDAYS ARE
★ 2 FOR 1 ★
NIGHT
at WOLFIES PIZZA
buy 1
get 1 FREE
on any pizza or large sub.
(Deliveries and takeout orders not included)
Special from 5 - 10 p.m.!
173 Sunset Ave.
549-5592 or 549-5593
Located next to Southwest

Lunch time in the patio of our La Rojeña distillery.

When our workers sit down to lunch they sit down to a tradition.
When they make Cuervo Gold it's the same.

Every day at just about eleven the wives from Tequila arrive at the Cuervo distillery bearing their husbands' lunches.

Lunches that have been lovingly prepared in the same proud manner since men first began working here in 1795.

It is this same pride in a job well-done that makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Fresh Strawberries Quart 98¢
Florida Valencia 5 lb. bag Oranges 99¢
Jumbo Pineapples 8 size 99¢ ea
Jumbo Seedless Indian River White Grapefruit 23 size 4 for $1
Pink Grapefruit Extra Large 27 size 4 for $1

Stop & Shop has a Complete Variety of fresh produce! You'll find the usual and unusual in fruits & vegetables on our produce stands.
Passion Fruit Tropical 3 for $1
Mangos Fancy 69¢ ea Papayas 69¢ ea.
Living Alfalfa 4 ounce pkg 79¢
Blood Oranges Chinese 4 for 59¢
Butter Beans French 11 ounce pkg 69¢ ea.
Husk Coconuts 79¢ ea
Banana Chips 3 ounce pkg 79¢
Danish Garden Cress 8oz pkg 79¢
Ginger or Pineapple Crystalized 3 ounce pkg 89¢

Large Fresh California Artichokes 6 for $1
Fresh California Broccoli bunch 59¢
Sno-White Mushrooms 12oz pkg 99¢
Fresh California Carrots 4 1 lb. pkgs. $1
Cocktail Carrots Fresh Extra Sweet 4 12oz pkgs $1

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
Get your Stop & Shopsworth
Our fine quality, huge selection and money saving specials are worthwhile reasons to shop with us this week.

Stop & Shop Coupon J17 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Mrs. Filberts Margarine Golden Quarters 1 pound pkg. Qtr. lb sticks 39¢ Good Mon. Apr. 10-Sat. Apr. 15 Limit one pkg per customer 262 Dairy
Stop & Shop Coupon J15 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Scott Towels Big Roll 119 count 1 ply roll 39¢ Good Mon. Apr. 10-Sat. Apr. 15 Limit one roll per customer 260 Grocery Stop & Shop Coupon J18 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Sunshine Chip-A-Roos Chocolate Chip Cookies 12oz bag 59¢ Good Mon. Apr. 10-Sat. Apr. 15 Limit one bag per customer 263 Grocery Stop & Shop Coupon J16 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Grapefruit Juice 46oz. can Stop & Shop 100% Natural Tree Ripened 29¢ Good Mon. Apr. 10-Sat. Apr. 15 Limit one can per customer 261 Grocery self service deli Pick up the makings for tasty sandwiches.

Stop & Shop Sliced Cold Cuts Bologna, P&P or Spiced Luncheon Loaf 1 pound package $1.09
Armour Beef Hot Dogs 1 lb pkg $1.19
Armour Beef Bologna 1 lb pkg $1.19
Armour Bacon Sliced 1 lb pkg $1.59 corner deli Sliced to order. Available in stores with a service deli only.

Colonial Bologna 99¢ lb
Beef Franks Morrison & Schiff cello casing per lb $1.39
Cheddar Cheese Mammoth Wisconsin per lb $2.19
Italian Bread Leon's or Magaziner 3 8oz loaves $1
Stop & Shop Turkey Breast Oven Roasted-half lb. $1.79
Glazed Ham Stop & Shop Imported half lb $1.79
Pork Loin Stop & Shop Chinese Style half lb $1.79
Stop & Shop Cole Slaw per lb 59¢
Chicken Salad Stop & Shop per lb $1.89 frozen meats A large selection for easy meals

Sausage Meat Amour 1 pound roll 89¢
Chicken Breast Stuffed Barber Brand 1 lb pkg $1.89
Beef Patties Country Fine 20-4oz patties 5 lb box $5.69 seafood Ocean fresh flavor.

Fresh Cod Fillets $1.89 lb
Flounder Fillets Stop & Shop frozen per lb $1.79
Shrimp Shell on Medium Size frozen 1 lb pkg $2.39
Fresh Mussels Saltwater 39¢ lb
Haddock or Flounder Cooked Fillets Taste O'Sea frozen lb pkg $1.39

our kitchen Tasty dishes from our chefs.
Potato Salad 2 lb pkg 99¢
Macaroni Salad 2 pound pkg $1.09
Fruit Gelatin Stop & Shop 2 pound pkg 99¢

Stop & Shop Coupon J19 With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase SAVE 30¢ On any Stop & Shop Fresh Pizza Good Mon. Apr. 10-Sat. Apr. 15 Limit one pizza per customer 264 Meat

Stop & Shop "Great Beef" USDA Choice
Beef Bottom Round Roast $1.19 lb
Shoulder Roast Beef Chuck $1.19 lb
Beef Rump Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.59 lb
Beef Eye Round Roast USDA Choice $1.89 lb
Shoulder Steak Beef Chuck $1.49 lb USDA Choice for London Broil
Beef Bottom Round Steak for Swiss Steak $1.69 lb
Short Ribs of Beef "Great Beef" USDA Choice Beef Chuck $1.19 lb
Cooked Ham Shank Portion water added 89¢ lb
Cooked Ham water added Rump Portion 99¢ lb
Cooked Ham Steaks water added $1.69 lb
Boneless Veal For Cacciatore $1.69 lb
Fresh Veal Cube Steak $1.99 lb
Fresh Calves Liver $1.29 lb
Veal Steak Boneless $2.99 lb For Cutlets or Scalloppini frozen foods

Man Pleaser Banquet Dinner Chicken 17oz. Turkey 19oz Chopped Beef 18oz or Veal Parmegan 20oz. 99¢
Birds Eye Tasti Fries 16oz pkg 39¢
Corn on the Cob Green Giant 4 count package 79¢
Vegetables Green Giant 10oz pkg Japanese or Chinese Style 59¢
Diced Peppers Stop & Shop 10oz pkg 39¢
Stop & Shop Ice Cream Assorted Flavors Pint Carton 3 pints $1
Stop & Shop Sherbert Assorted Flavors 3 pint ctns $1
Choc-Lit Covers Stop & Shop 20 ct-35oz pkg $1.09
Hendries Popsicles 12 count 30 oz package 59¢
Stop & Shop Strawberries 10oz pkg 39¢
French Fries Sun Glory 5 9oz. pkgs. $1
Orange Juice Snow Crop 6 ounce can 39¢
Fish Portions Stop & Shop Batter Dip 12oz pkg 99¢
Taste O'Sea Haddock 11 oz pkg Raw Portions $1.39
Buitoni Lasagna 14 ounce package 89¢
Veal Parmegan Stop & Shop 24 ounce pkg $1.79
Cheese Pizza Stop & Shop Twin Pack 18oz pkg $1.29
Light Coffee Rounds Sara Lee 5 ounce pkg 59¢ Almound, Maple, Blueberry or Raspberry Glazed Donuts Boston Bonnie 14oz package 69¢
Downy Flake Waffles 12 ounce package 59¢
Jenos Cheese Pizza Thick Crust 17 ounce pkg $1.39

See how we put the accent on worth...stock up on these grocery values.
Chicken of the Sea Tuna in oil Chunk Light-6½oz can 59¢
Corned Beef Hash Libby 15½oz can 69¢
Luncheon Napkins Vanity Fair 100 count pkg 49¢
Prince Spaghetti Regular or Thin or Elbow Macaroni 3 1 lb pkgs $1
Streussel Cake Mix 27½oz pkg $1.09 Pillsbury Fudge Marble Cinnamon or Lemon Supreme Bordens Cremora Non-Dairy Creamer 22 ounce jar $1.49
Diet Shasta Beverages Assorted Flavors 7 12oz. cans $1
Sweet N'Low Sugar Substitute 100 count package 89¢
Low Cal Dressing Wishbone 8 ounce bottle 49¢ Italian French Russian or Thousand Island
Hi-C Drink Orange, Grape or Fruit Punch 64 ounce bottle 69¢
Prune Juice Sunsweet 40 oz bottle 69¢
Tomato Juice Campbell's 6 pack of 6oz cans 79¢
Trash Bags Hefty 20 count package $1.89
Tall Kitchen Bags Hefty 30 count pkg $1.69
Lawn & Leaf Bags Hefty 5 count pkg 89¢
Cold Power Laundry Detergent 49oz. box $1.29
Dial Soap Bath Size Assorted Colors 3 5oz bars $1
Window Cleaner Stop & Shop 32 ounce bottle 59¢
Tomatoes Sun Glory 3 16oz cans 89¢
Nestle Souptime 10 Second Soup 2 for 89¢ Chicken Noodle 1.4oz., Green Pea 3.2oz., Cream of Chicken 2.7oz. or Cream of Mushroom 2.4oz dairy A large selection of quality dairy foods...all nice & fresh!

Kraft Singles Individually wrapped Cheese Food Slices White or Yellow 12 oz. pkg. 99¢
Swiss Cheese Sun Glory Slices 16 ounce pkg $1.99
Crescent Rolls Stop & Shop 3 8 ct. 8 oz pkgs $1
1 Gal. Drink Sun Glory-Fruit Flavored Orange, Grape or Fruit Punch Plastic Gallon Jug 69¢
Stop & Shop Sour Cream 16oz cup 59¢
Colombo Yogurt Plain 16oz cup 49¢

bakery You can't help lovin' what comes from our ovens...try these!
Stop & Shop Oatmeal Bread Cracked or Honey Wheat 2 16oz. loaves 89¢
Big Daisy Bread Stop & Shop Sliced White 3 20oz loaves $1
Frankfurt Rolls 3 12 oz pkgs of 8 $1 or Stop & Shop Sandwich Rolls
Chocolate Eclair Pie Stop & Shop 22 ounce package 79¢
Countrystyle Donuts Stop & Shop-Plain or Sugar 11½oz pkg of 6 59¢
English Muffins Stop & Shop 2 12oz pkgs of 6 $1 Raisin or Blueberry Flavored healty & beauty aids All your favorite health care products.

Scope Mouthwash 30 oz. Bonus Bottle (Reg. 24oz plus 6oz Free) $1.49
100 ct Bufferin bottle A good value. $1.29
Funk and Wagnall's The Great Artists This Week Book #7 Da Vinci with each $3 purchase $1.99 Book 1 Van Gogh available 69¢
ECKOETERNA Dinner Knife STAINLESS TABLEWARE with each $3 purchase In your choice of 2 patterns Satin finish, easy to clean Week 2 of second & last cycle 19¢ ea
Corning Ware "Grab It" Bowl Cook, bake, freeze or serve from it. Good for stove top or microwave cooking 15 oz $2.99

Prices effective Monday, Apr. 10-Sat. Apr. 15. In fairness to our customers we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1978 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8 a.m.-10 p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

from our perspective

Collective bargaining

In order to put the events of the past few weeks of electoral madness into perspective, a few things must be remembered.

1. According to a student senate proclamation, this was supposed to be the year of the union. According to the plan, the Student Senate is no longer supposed to be in existence, the students are supposed to be members of dorm area and academic councils which would serve the function of a legislative body in a collective way, and we are supposed to have collective bargaining rights with the administration. Needless to say, nothing of the sort has happened.

The Student Government Association could not attract a third of its so called constituents to a presidential election, and the voting turnout for senate elections has historically been very low.

3. There is absolutely no accountability in the SGA system. The senators who make up the only body that has the power to pass motions that affect the whole student body are not required to communicate with the representatives from area governments or even on the personal level with their constituents. All too often, students on this campus only see their elected representatives at election time. Added to this problem is the fact that the leaders of the senate are not held accountable by the senate itself. To cite one sorry example, it is a senate rule that there can be an audit of the senate books every year. An audit of those books has never been done. For a body that controls over 1 million dollars in student money, a refusal to have their books audited can only be interpreted as calculated negligence.

Taking all this into consideration, it should surprise no one that a president has not been elected, that the electoral convention could not get a quorum last Thursday night and that all parties involved in the presidential lottery are up to their political eyeballs in deals and parliamentary sleights of hand in order to get the president's office.

It should also suprise no one that their classes are more crowded than ever, that minority programs are being cut back, that their roofs leak and their dorms are in a state of disrepair, that the administration does not negotiate in good faith with so called student leaders, that the Trustees still have the power to approve or disapprove the student budget, that we are being forced to pay for buses disproportionately, that room rents and tuition fees are raised every year, that administrators like Matlack come up with plans to throw people out of their dorms, that room choosing plans that don't make sense are forced down our throats and that the only way to get any change is to totally bypass the SGA and take over administration offices.

These are not unconnected problems; the common denominator is lack of an effective student organization to compete with the very effective administrative organization, the Trustees who come from such corporate interests as the First National Bank of Boston and the New England Telephone Company. When the faculty gets organized, it will be another body we will have to deal with. With our present state of representation we are in no shape to even them to pay attention to us, never mind forcing them to take our demands seriously. Chancellor Bromery, who incidentally sits on the board of the Exxon corporation, will not even publicly talk about collective bargaining for students, as he is afraid it might lend some credibility to what he views as an illegal concept.

Most of us are here for an education, and most of us are concerned that by the time we graduate from this university our diplomas will be worthless because those who administrate are more concerned with cutting corners than with educating people who could not afford to attend private universities. Our futures are what is at stake here, and it seems that we are the ones who are going to have to look after them and decide what is best for us.'

So where are we? We have no representation, and will have none under the present system whether or not someone gets elected to the SGA presidency. We have no plan for collective bargaining for students. We have no chance of getting anything done about our present living conditions unless we take over Whitmore Hall every time we have a legitimate complaint. We are like Alice, looking to the Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum of SGA and Administration for a way out of the woods, and not getting any straight answers. We have got to spend the time to let those we have elected to our Area Governments and the Student Senate know that we want a change in the direction and the form of the system, which includes a plan with students being recognized as having rights and being recognized as a collective bargaining group.

All unsigned editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Letters

Matlack letter misleading

To the Editor:

I am a resident of Pierpont and have been actively involved in the development of a resolution to the "Matlack proposal." I was a member of the student proposal committee. I later resigned because of a breakdown of communication and what I term the co-option of the progressive effort with which we have infused the past few weeks: our blood and sweat, which at times caused us to forfeit normal social and academic accomplishment [Mr. Matlack's original proposal was strategically timed: right around mid-terms and vacation], not to speak of fair amounts of sleep.

The tone of Mr. Matlack's letter [Fri., 4-7-78] would lead one to believe that our effort was not unified or coherent. I give personal testimony to the fact that our follow-up and mediation between the community and him was frequent and specific. The "free flow of ideas and responses" directly contradicts the tone of Mr. Matlack's final proposal and the last meeting he had with us last Monday night, which resulted in the breakdown of communication and decision by the community that direct action was now the only route for change accessible to us. We had one night to decide whether or not to accept the final proposal; it came down to either accepting "the total package" or taking the original one of excluding juniors and seniors from the dorm. This makes a farce of Mr. Matlack's repeated statements of wanting to negotiate in "good faith."

Everyone knows what has happened since then. All day Tuesday I sat-slept in front of Mr. Matlack's office, then went back to Pierpont to march through campus and occupy the third floor of Whitmore Wednesday afternoon-evening and Thursday morning alongside my fellow housemates-friends-students.

I agree with Mr. Matlack that the community did want to see some form of a social contract. However, the emphasis he placed on the stringent adherence to University policy, to which no other body of students at this time must sign a legal document, and the "responsibility" of each individual to keep an eye on everybody else and rat on them to the Judiciary Board if somebody does the slightest thing wrong does not accurately reflect the vision we had of a social contract. I believe that the community will unanimously agree that the labeling of Mr. Matlack's "social contract" decidedly reeks of George Orwell's 1984 doublespeak in that it is an anti-social contract, and we would like to draw special attention to the fact that one of our demands to the Whitmore administration Wednesday night was that we no longer have to deal with any more of Mr. Matlack's "social" contracts and may proceed to draw up something that will arise from the Pierpont community and which we will ultimately approve.

Pat Irwin

Pedestrians not thinking

To the Editor:

I'm a UMass Bus Driver and I just had another incident that I would say broke the camel's back.

It has to do with pedestrian thinking. I would say out of 20,000 students and educators that about 4,000 are trying to commit accidental suicide. You're probably asking yourself what does he mean accidental suicide. Well let me list some facts first and then I will state my point.

1. A typical UMass Transit Bus weighs anywhere from 12,000-18,000 lbs. empty.

2. A typical passenger load weighs anywhere from 6,000-8,000 lbs.

3. An average bus 15,000 lbs. with an average passenger load of 7,000 lbs., traveling 20 mph can take up to 150' to stop smoothly and I repeat smoothly.

4. An average car with 1-3 passengers, weighing about 2,000 to 8,000 lbs., traveling 20 mph can smoothly stop in about 40'-44'.

Now let me ask you which do you think can stop more quickly, an empty car or an empty bus? If you picked a car you're right, which can stop in about 40 feet.

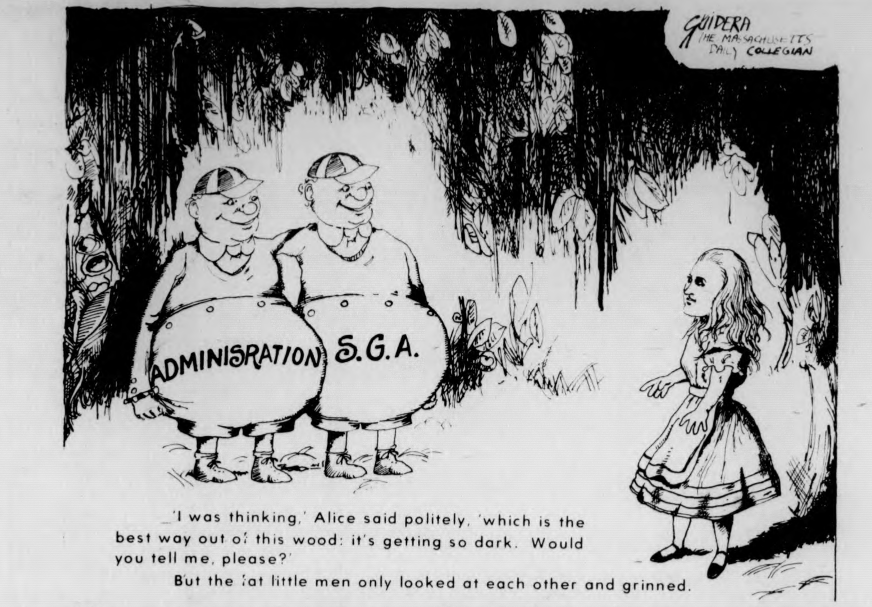
Letters continued on page 12



'I was thinking,' Alice said politely, 'which is the best way out of this wood: it's getting so dark. Would you tell me, please?'

But the fat little men only looked at each other and grinned.

Sex and the single American

our man in paris

By MARK WILDING

"No American writer, from Ben Franklin to William Faulkner, has ever been to Paris in the spring without writing about sex."
Mark Wilding ¶ Notes to Himself

"YOUNG AMERICAN seeks sensitive attractive companion (fem.) 20 to 30, liking country, Cote D'Azur, looking for a better life. Neurotics and women with bad gums need not apply. Call 346-9292 before nine."

The "before nine" had been a nice tough I thought to myself as I glanced over the discreet classified I had placed in "The Paris Metro," this city's equivalent of "The Advocate." The perusers and the curious would assume that "after nine" I should be tucking away escalopes and fricasee in Le Tour Denis, or cruising the lambent literary salons of Montmartre — cajoling with Ginsberg and Burroughs, swapping barge stories with Sterling Hayden, trading theories of the Van Allen Layer with Asimov — in short, leading the pensive and ecstatic life of the expatriate, the natal umbilical cord severed, free from the plastic and placentic illusion that is America, on my own, the hassles over, looking out for number 1, receiving only one check a month from home.

Mind you, one tiny sliver of discomfort, hardly bigger than your average Frenchman, had lodged itself in the opposing camp of my thoughts, as I toddled home, paper under arm, waxing Gallic, and humming a few bars of "Aupres de ma blonde." What if the various parties, who had been piqued to arousal by the first nine tenths of my ad, should misconstrue "before nine" and, instead, surmise that I was of that commonplace breed of nerds who need twelve hours sleep? The practical sentinels of my lust camp soon quieted this beggar thought however, and he went to pitch his tent in oblivion. If I remembered rightly, he was one of a troublesome family of thoughts. Had a brother who used to giggle whenever I said "tete e tete."

You see, if was research work really. I had set about to answer the question that was burned in the bowels of humanity since the birth of this city. Why here? Why Paris? Why to this little crescent slip of the Seine should sin have given its promiscuous blessings?

Were the fabled stories true? During the parade of spring nights extending from mid-March to mid-June, could one really hear the squeaking of four and a half million beds (nine million inhabitants), like a concert of wheezing crickets, as far away as Corsica? Could one really witness the manic fender scraping of horny Citroen 1250 SX's with their Peugeot mates? Was it true that the lonely Eiffel Tower, without a partner, satisfied itself with shamefaced nocturnal emissions?

I stayed home all day after the classified appeared — cooly awaiting the rings of ex-Folie Bergere girls, demi mondaines, and the seraglios of Clichy. As one often does when it comes to such grand adventures involving the opposite sex, I had spun a finely webbed scenario in the vile basement of my mind (take that back — wine cave — no basements in France.)

Of course there would be the call; the hesitant voice, the nervous stammer, the exchange of pleasantries, I hope you don't have stringy hair, that sort of thing. Would she have to send a picture or tooth filling or something beforehand? No, of course not. And would she like to meet at such and such a cafe (unbeknownst to her — closed for the last two months)? Surely. Ah, marvelous! And the silky juices of my panting imagination would double their lecherous thread-making as I envisioned her temporary resistance dissolving into cries of God's will be done!

Then, our rendezvous at the closed cafe. Shame that, really, served the best Muscadet on the right bank. The timid (not: "timid") suggestion on my part that we might stroll over to my apartment as I had several Oriental prints that might interest her. Subtley provocative hint, that.

And, as it must, conversation would follow. How we both loved reading the Sunday paper over croissants and expresso while staring out of the window at trees, our passion for Chinese food, what an ingenious invention soft toilet paper is...Soon the light airy dialogue would retire to the wings, as it must in all theatre, and I would roll out the conversational "piece de resistance" that I had rehearsed as often as Olivier had Hamelt's soliloquy. Why had I come to Paris? To forget. A woman? I believe so. Why, you're crying! No, no, really, I'm allergic. To what? (Pause) Women's clothes. Poor dear, let me take them off for you...

Well, uh, frankly, it's been a week and I've yet to get a call. I knew as soon as I did it, I shouldn't have put that "before nine" in.

Mark Wilding is the Collegian's Paris correspondent

The Ghost of San Clemente

By GEORGE SOMMERS

Just when Americans thought they had left Watergate behind, and they didn't have Dick Nixon to kick around anymore, the ex-president went and did something as greedy and self-serving as when he used the David Frost interviews as a forum in which to pin his downfall on the press.

Those who staunchly defended Nixon even after his resignation (the only one that immediately comes to mind is Rabbi Baruch Korff) will shortly be receiving a letter from Grosset and Dunlap, the publishers of Nixon's Memoirs. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Friend,

"During the darkest hours of Watergate when President Nixon was being tried by the press, you had the courage to stand up for him. While many cried 'impeach him' you were thoughtful enough to wonder if there were not another side to the story than that portrayed by Woodward and Bernstein, the liberal press, and more recently, by David Frost's carefully cut and edited TV specials.

"That other side, the full, undistorted story of Mr. Nixon's entire political career, is being published this spring. The historic book is entitled Memoirs and because you were one of his loyal supporters in his time of greatest need, Mr. Nixon has agreed to personally autograph a copy of his autobiography for you, in a limited edition which will not be available in bookstores."

Richard Nixon fans should be heartened by the news, but there is a small catch. The special limited edition which they alone are privileged to get sells for $250. One would think in reading the first few paragraphs of the letter that for their loyal efforts, Nixonites should be given the autographed books free. Undoubtedly, the special edition is bound to become a collector's item, worth several times over the selling price in a few years. Nevertheless, people who admired Nixon enough to write to him as the walls started to crumble around the Nixon White House were few and far between. They had to be devoted to the point of fanaticism to defend him when new allegations of dirty tricks, illegal buggings, Saturday Night Massacres, cover-ups, etc. were surfacing daily. One would think that Nixon could think of a better way of showing his gratitude than by hawking copies of his book to friends for $250.

Richard Nixon, whose mose memorable quote is, "I am not a crook," is even worse than a crook — he is an exploiter. Instead of languishing in jail, where he belongs, he stands to become a millionaire from his book's profits. Other Watergates, such as Haldeman, Ehrlichman, and Dean, similarly expoited the American public, but at least they spent some time (albeit not enough) in jail.

Those of us who did not sympathize with Nixon in his final days of power have to settle with an unautographed, $22.50 version of the book, if they care to put money in the ex-president's pocket.

It seems like Nixon is trying to alienate the last handful of his loyal handouts. The shallowness of the man is incredible.

George Sommers is a Collegian commentator.

Social relations

bob melia

Recent student demonstrations have established that there are many infringements on our rights here at UMass, and a multitude of social relations which operate to support those infringements. To improve the material conditions here (our living and learning environments), requires that we first change the social relations that sustain those environments.

An example should make this clear. As long as relations between administrators and students allow the former to disregard the needed of the latter, we cannot realistically expect that the administration will upgrade the dormitories and keep down rents. It follows then that the first task for those interested in advancing student rights is the altering of the social relations which subordinate students.

The first aspect we must get clear on is the precise nature of a social relation. Such a relation is extremely complex and not at all tangible; it exists only in the minds of those party to it. A social relation must also command legitimacy; to be sanctioned by its participants they must regard it as legitimate. That is to say, the relations must be seen as congruent with the values its participants hold.

If this is not the case at least one of the participants will want to change the terms of the relation, at which point the relation can be maintained only by force or the threat of force. Unless, of course, the relation is misinterpreted so that the party whose rights are being violated is unaware of the violation and thus consents to continue the relation.

This last paragraph accurately describes the social arrangements at UMass. We accept relations which manipulate and subordinate us because we fail to recognize the manipulative element. We misrepresent to ourselves the relations which help constitute our life here. And on thos occasions when, recognizing the relations for what they are, we refuse to continue participating in them, the administration uses [actual or potential] force to sustain them. Here again an example should serve to illuminate this claim, and the example will be university housing. I shall focus on Southwest.

Human beings are social beings. We do not develop and function properly when socially isolated. Without a sense of community from which to draw nourishment, our most destructive tendencies are emphasized. In a normal environment, a community is created and maintained by family, neighborhood, work, religious and civic ties. But dormitory residents lack all these ties. Thousands of unrelated individuals are thrown together and are expected to interact and form a community. Therefore, in the absence of social ties, the physical environment must facilitate interaction, trust and community development.

Southwest is clearly not designed to do this. The density of population in general and the towers in particular guarantee that individuals will remain largely anonymous and that no true community will develop. As a result, the various forms of anti-social behavior that have plagued Southwest were predictable and inevitable.

To force human beings to live in such an environment is clearly illegitimate; to do so would require violating every value of decency, fairness and respect that we believe in. Why then, has the administration been able to get away with it? Why have not students revolted en mass against this manipulation?

Part of the answer is that the relation has been misrepresented and misinterpreted. The administration has blamed us. Our occasionally anti-social behavior, they tell us, makes it impossible for them to improve dormitories. We would destroy the improvements. It also 'proves' that we don't deserve better accommodations; there is something wrong with us; something that means we don't have the right to be treated with dignity.

As long as we believe this, we will accept the administration's manipulation and subordination of us because we will believe their actions to be justified. And yet we are always torn with doubt, because we know that we are really not irresponsible and ignorant. With sufficient impetus, we can see through the veil, and recognize the relation for what it is.

Disclosures of unsafe and unhealthy living conditions, along with the administration's outrageous room-choosing and Pierpont plans, have provided such impetus. Having seen through the appearance and grasped the reality, we refused to continue the relation. We reacted. We took over Whitmore.

The administration then fell back on its last option; force. While it conceded on all of our particular demands, it stood adamant on our general demand, collective bargaining. Our particular demands don't threaten the existing social relations. While these specific administration proposals had to be withdrawn, there are an infinitude of others they can put forth.

Collective bargaining, however, would have changed the relationship itself, and infringed upon administrative prerogative. It thus threatened them, which is why they threatened us with the use of force. It was only because we would be dragged out by the police and possibly lose everything we had gained that we 'agreed' to leave.

This analysis leave us with the conclusion that it is the generalized social relations on this campus that are most important; not the particular structures in which those relations are embodied. In the fight for change, the real battlefields are going to be our minds, not our joke political structures.

Bob Melia is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Letters

Cont. from pg. 10

So why do pedestrians think that if they stand in the middle of the road waving a bus to stop that that bus is going to be able to stop in enough time so he-she doesn't get hit. You may think it doesn't happen that often! Well, more than once is enough, and if it happens 10 times within 4 hours I call it nerve racking.

This also goes for those that cross the road, Jay-Walkers, cross walk walkers etc. If you don't look before you cross or stop to talk in the road, you might be the first pedestrian death that the UMass Transit Service has. I think UMass, the Transit Service and myself have been lucky so far. But I think the luck is bound to run out some day, and I wouldn't want to be the one it runs out on or the pedestrian either. But at the rate things are going the day is sooner than we think.

When that day comes the only thing I'm going to say is that I give you fair warning.

Chris Franklin

Campus Shuttle a waste

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to protest the outrageous waste of resources involved in the Campus Shuttle.

We are, for the most part, healthy young individuals. To suppose that for a shuttle bus system to carry us a half-mile or less across campus is necessary, desirable, or in any way beneficial to such a community is not only insulting to our physical capabilities, it shows complete disregard for the conservation of energy we give so much lip service to.

Public transportation is indeed the most energy-efficient way to move people about, but only when the alternative is private vehicles. As Emerson said, "The civilized man has built a coach, but he has lost the use of his feet." Yes, and you're spending my money and polluting my air to save your poor tender toes.

Clayton W. Commons

Feminist column unfair

To the Editor:

In response to the editorial written by Miss Melrose titled "Authentic Women's Culture," I have taken it upon myself to rectify an obvious prejudice on her part concerning the "powerless" woman.

I tend to question the objectives of the American feminist culture which are, rejecting and challenging white male culture, as stated by Miss Melrose.

Although your article pretends to be wildly against the male culture, it seems this is but a veil for your real nemesis, the American non-feminist. It appears that the threat of any woman who does not agree with the idealized aspects of feminist behavior far outshadows the threat of the white male culture. Where is your true direction? What are your reals aims?

It is unfair to make sweeping generalizations. To you, any woman who is not a "feminist" is a shrinking violet, a subservient non-person living only to please the male "beasties." Where is your right to call these women less than human, less than people? Your descriptions are not real, they are mere characatures.

While you criticize the white male culture for its supremacy, you create a similar supremacy. The feminist is built up to an elitist position in your article. You, rather than the white male culture, have become the "oppressor".

You write of women in high positions as being "tokens" and "agents of the oppressor". Does this mean that any talented woman, feminist or not, who achieves position is automatically relegated to the ranks of anti-feminist? These paragraphs hint at some jealousy of these successful women. Because they have made it, they are no longer included by you in any women dealings or relationships. Again, you are the oppressor.

According to you, any woman who challenges her superiors, male or female, is instantly damned by the controlling institution. And are you so sure that male controlled institutions have as their ultimate goal to "promote and protect male priviledge" via the "powerless" woman. By stating this, you give the so-called "powerless" woman unlimited influence and power.

If it was the purpose of the editor to overshadow the reader with one-sided propaganda, she was defeated at the beginning of the editorial by using as a tool a dictionary which is a direct by-product of the "Mainstream American Culture" so-called dominated by men.

Philip B. Corbett

SGA convention frustrating

To the Editor:

In regards to a letter by Renee Mobley, I couldn't agree more. As a delegate from Southwest, I have been completely frustrated with the convention and the SGA.

It seems a majority of delegates [senators and area representatives] believe that by being elected to office, this gives them a divine power to do whatever they please. There is no feeling of obligation toward constituents and their feelings and ideas. This is why so many people consider the SGA a joke. The students have no input.

As for the convention, I have come across irregularities I didn't expect to find as a naive freshman: a candidate who wasn't [but now is] on the ballot urging people in different delegations to leave before the first ballot so a quorum would no longer exist and any vote wouldn't be valid; a certain delegation president who before second ballot voting told the rest of her delegation, "You don't have to vote how your constituents want;"

Letters cont. on pg. 13

The rusty nail Inn

MON., APRIL 10
DUKE and the DRIVERS
$2.00

APRIL 11 AND 12
BEV ROHLER
$1.00

APRIL 13-14-15
BRICKER BAND
$2.00

APRIL 16
LOUDON WAINWRIGHT

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

The most effective tampon is the most economical, too

Tampax tampons are made with a special, highly compressed material to give you maximum absorbency. What's more, unlike most other brands, they expand in all three directions—length, breadth and width—to conform to individual body contours. Which means there's far less chance of leakage or bypass.

And here's something else you'll like about Tampax tampons: the price. The economy-size package of 40 costs less—tampon for tampon—than any other brand.

So if you want a lot of protection at very little cost, open a package of Tampax tampons. We promise you, it's there.

The internal protection more women trust

TAMPAX. tampons

MADE ONLY BY TAMPAX INCORPORATED, PALMER, MASS.

FREE
STUDENT TRAVEL ORGANIZER WITH THIS AD

Contains Information On:
- Air Fares
- International Student I.D. Cards
- Youth Hostel Information
- National Tourist Offices
- Passports
- Student Flights in Europe
- Car Rentals
- Student Tours
- Jobs Abroad
- Camping Tours
- Eurail Passes
- Britrail Passes
- MUCH MORE

Campus Travel Center, Campus Center
University of Mass., Amherst, 545-0500

ENGINEERS

Federal Government agencies are involved in some of the most important technological work being done today ....in energy fields, communication, transportation, consumer protection, defense, exploring inner and outer space and the environment.

Some of our jobs are unique, with projects and facilities found nowhere else. Salaries are good, the work is interesting and there are excellent opportunities for advancement.

Our nationwide network can get your name referred to agencies in every part of the country. For information about best opportunities by specialty and location, send a coupon or your resume to: Engineering Recruitment, Room 6A11.

U.S. Civil Service Commission
Washington, D.C. 20415

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Name________
Address________
City________ State____ Zip____
Degree level and Engineering Speciality________
Univ. Col.________ Yr. Grad.____
Geographic Preference(s)________

---

Letters

Cont. from pg. 12

representatives of the students not even consulting with them. Before I am lynched tomorrow at sunrise, let me stress that not all of the delegates are corrupted by divine power, but enough are to make the convention a farce.

As for the Bishop-Dion candidacy, it seems strange to me that a candidacy in which only one person ran and didn't finish in the top three positions should be so strong in a convention supposedly for the people. It puzzles me also that they are even being considered. It is not general knowledge [until now] that Mr. Dion ran for Senate Speaker and lost. Later at the convention [that night] he suddenly appears as a write in candidate with Mr. Bishop. If he loses again, will we see him as a candidate for Chancellor? Surely Mr. Dion is a dedicated worker, but is it fair to the candidates who spent so much time and energy campaigning to the people that the advent of a convention of 250 [of which I am one] power mongers can allow someone who didn't put out the effort to run for president to become elected?

The cause for this convention is obvious; the "none of the above" slot on the ballot.

This idea [which the Collegian endorsed in an editorial March 13] was a grave mistake, not in its existence but in ignorance of its consequences. In that same Collegian editorial there were only two sentences explaining the result of "none of the above."

These two sentences were vague at best. Now the vote is out of the students' hands, where it belongs.

In closing, let me say that at the convention, a motion to have another popular election has been brought up not once but twice by those of us who believe the convention makes more of a mockery of the SGA than the low voter turn out. Both times it was defeated. Your representatives took away from you a chance to decide for yourself who will represent you for the next year. Not once but twice.

Robert W. Cleary

Gay counseling available

To the Editor:

We, the Gay Men's Counseling Collective, are a group of gay men who have training and experience in counseling and are interested in providing counseling services specifically, but not exclusively, for gay men.

It is apparent to us that gay men, like individuals of any other societal subgroup, have needs for counseling assistance, and we feel that gay men here in the valley do not have sufficient counseling services available to them.

Lesbians who want counseling can go to the Lesbian Union or Everywoman's Center, and these women can assume that they will find a supportive environment for their feelings.

Gay men, on the other hand, do not have counseling places dealing specifically with gay issues. It is true that Room to Move and the Area Men's Centers will counsel gay men; however, gay men and gay issues are not their first priority in counseling, although there are individual gay counselors at Room to Move who consider this a priority.

As gay men, we are tired of "therapists" who treat homosexuality as a sin or sickness. It is absurd to think that a therapist would tell a heterosexual client that his problem is his heterosexuality and that he should change his sexual orientation. Gay men demand the same consideration. We are tired of "therapists" telling us that our gay feelings are the problem and advising us to "find a woman to love or lay." This advice is degrading to women as well as to gay men.

The Gay Men's Counseling Collective feels that gay people face problems that are best dealt with by gay counselors. We are concerned with establishing a supportive counseling environment, and we respect the confidentiality of all clients.

It is important that men have someone with whom they can discuss their sexuality. During the period of coming out [i.e. recognizing one's own gay feelings], men need support and understanding. Accepting one's own gayness may be difficult and painful. Gay men may have problems dealing with a homophobic [afraid of or prejudiced against homosexuals] society or surviving as a gay person on campus. Other problem issues may focus on personal relationships with lovers, family, or friends. Gay men may be feeling depressed or lonely, politically frustrated, or simply seeking someone to whom they can relate their joys.

Services provided by the Gay Men's Counseling Collective include personal counseling, referral services, and organization of gay men's support groups. Our services are available free of charge to all men who feel a need to talk or meet with gay men, either individually or collectively. A counselor is available Mondays and Wednesdays 2:30-5:00 p.m. or by appointment. Contact the People's Gay Alliance, 413B Student Union, at 545-0154. If you are interested in a gay men's support group, call Paul [546-4547] or Stephan [586-1705].

Jeff Jerome and the Gay Men's Counseling Collective

Southwest elections

To the Editor:

Southwest Assembly elections will be coming up on April 27, 1978, and it is imperative all constituents of Southwest be well informed of this matter.

Nomination papers for the office of the president, vice-president, treasurer and communication coordinator are due April 18. All members of Southwest in good standing are eligible for any office.

All those interested in running for office, or finding out what each job entails, should contact the Assembly office in the Hamden Student Center [5-0961 or 0960]. Pick up nomination papers and-or a constitution and find out what area government can do for you, and what you can do for area government.

Bruce H. Aronson
Southwest Assembly
Vice-President

DID YOU KNOW?

WE SELL Kodak FILM

Slide Trays

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

THE EXORCIST

Tuesday, April 11
7:00, 9:15, 11:30
CCA Admission $1.00

Learn how to design and build your own low-cost passive-solar energy-efficient and life-welcoming HOME.

BUILD YOUR OWN
Six-week evening course starts April 18
AMHERST - Tues. & Thurs. 7-10 p.m.
Call or write for syllabus and brochure

HEARTWOOD
OWNER-BUILDER SCHOOL
JOHNSON ROAD, WASHINGTON, MASS. 01235
(413) 623-6677

HEARTWOOD OWNER-BUILDER SCHOOL

Hair Shack AMHERST

David Whitman

DAVID WHITMAN HAIR SHACK
and BIBA COSMETICS
proudly present
MS. CINDY
who will share with you
her techniques in personalized
MAKE-UP & COMPLEXION CARE
on the following THURSDAYS
APRIL 6, 13, 20

A FULL SERVICE SALON OFFERING:
- BIBA COSMETICS
- REDKEN PRODUCTS
- HAIR CUTTING
- COLORING
- HENNAS
- PERMS
- HAIR TREATMENTS
- MANICURING

Amherst
124 Amity St.
549-5111

Longmeadow
805 William St.
567-0891

TWENTY Work Study 4-H Summer Camp Positions Available

From the Berkshires to Cape Cod in Six Mass. locations. Recreation leaders, Waterfront, Counselors, Environmental Awareness, Arts and Crafts. For more information, Contact Mike McCusker, 4-HOffice, 219 Stockbridge Hall, UMass. 545-2646

FREEDOM TO BE... 98

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE INC.

all make car and truck transmissions

Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged

236 Pleasant St
Northampton, Mass
584-6790

Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers—B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo: Pioneer receiver, Ohm C speakers, AR turntable, $350, call 256-6106.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

4 sale—Panasonic stereo, 8 tr. recorder, turntable, over 50 tapes, headphones, albums included. $225. Call Pat, 549-1326.

Solid 8-track player, 4 speakers, headphones, 35 tapes—cheap. BO. Call 6-6322.

AUTO FOR SALE

66 VW bug, reliable, good eng., needs minor work, $150, 323-4362—mornings.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

1971 Olds Delta 88, $700 or best offer. Call Dave at 546-6528.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

For sale—1971 Duster, reliable slant 6, good shape, call 546-5293.

1971 VW Fastback automatic, radio, very good shape, $925 or BO. After 5, 665-3946.

73 Fiat wagon, standard, 54,000 miles, excellent condition, $1400. Tel. 586-0604.

'71 Ply Cricket, 4 spd., gd. cond., $400, 253-3963, after five.

69 Skylark—PS, PB, A/C, posi, t. whl., radio, sprg. ins. Stckr—call after 6, 253-2656.

1973 Chevy Impala, 2 door, mint condition, low mileage, must sell, call Pat after 6 p.m., 256-6670.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Weight set—235 lbs., bench, bull worker—$80. 2 A7813 snow tires—$20. 549-2805, eve.

Wms 26" 3-sp. Raleigh bike. BO. 6-8235.

Must sell 61 Dodge Phoenix. Dependable Bomber, $200, call Nancy at 586-2944.

Tent—8x14 ft. canvas w/ ground cloth, $80, call Paul at 5 & 11 p.m., 253-5061.

'72 Gibson, $150, call Jeff, 546-5100.

Waterbed—new, still in box. Warranties valid. Includes 10 yr. warranteed mattress, solid pine frame, heater—thermostat, liner, deck & riser. $185. Call 617-762-9049. Neil.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

Ladie's Frye boots, size 8, barely worn, rust color, sell for $45, call 549-1515.

1969 VW again! New starter—runs good, 1-467-3465, $175 firm.

Kenwood 2055 turntable, 6 mths. old, exc. cond., $150 or best offer. Call 253-2782.

HELP WANTED

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free info—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn 38117.

Fashion model needed for spring show. Experience not necessary. Neat appearance a must. Call 6-8089 and leave message.

Counselors: Adirondack Boys' camp; 7 weeks; $450-550; Swimming Instructor (WSI); Trip Leader; Riflery Instructor; Driver; Office Manager (typing); 39 Mill Valley Rd., Pittsford, N.Y. 14534.

Summer Camp for boys seeks University students with dedication for its 8 week dorm counselor/instructor positions. Openings are for those with skills in swimming (WSI pref.), riflery, axemanship, tennis, nature conservation and photography. Board, room and laundry with salary of $550 to $850. For application write: Mowglis, School of the Open, East Hebron, N.H. 03232.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Summer Openings — for appt. call: 253-2597.

Travel this summer and make $315/ week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

INSTRUCTION

Statistics—Math Tutoring; Program designed for individual needs; John 253-2036.

Piano Lessons For ambitious beg. or int.; creative, intensive approach; low rates. Classical, pop & theory. Studied at Mnhtn. & Indiana Conservtrs. Gregory Nissen, 546-5545.

LOST

Lost—a tan leather "cowboy" hat on Apr. 4. If found, call 549-6563. Reward!

Palm tree pin at Bluewall March 30, great sentimental value. Reward, 549-6322.

MOTORCYCLES

75 Kawasaki G3SE100, bought new in Feb. 78, only 700 miles, perfect, ask $400 but will bicker. Call Glen, 538-2513, late evenings.

Kawasaki KZ400 red & chrome, 5250 miles, excellent condition, w/ helmet $940, call 549-0179.

PERSONALS

Hoffmans holiday sun April 16 35 years.

Looking for love? Or maybe just friendship? This week you'll have your chance to meet the person of your dreams or just make a new friend. Look for computer dating at UMass on the Campus Center concourse. This is a drive for charity and all $1 donations will go to charity.

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Pinocchio is coming.

Christian Women; Live in a Christian suite in Cashin. Call Dawn at 546-4133.

SERVICES

Clean rugs? Start your spring cleaning by having your rugs shampooed by two part-time pros. For free estimate call 546-7004 or 256-6222 after 5 p.m.

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Alterations for your spring wardrobe. Dressmaking by appointment. Call M-F 5-10 p.m. Most Sundays all day, 256-8403.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Condidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—$.60/page. Call 549-6655.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Exciting classes in silversmithing, batik, spinning, kiln building, stained glass. Begin April 17 at Leverett Craftsmen. Call 253-9062.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul $24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

Fast service and sales—call Valley Typewriter and Business Machines, Co. Licensed technicians. Guaranteed repairs. Lowest prices in the Valley. Free pick-up, delivery, free estimates. 665-3290.

TO SUBLET

2 lg. bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt.—women. 1 rm. avail. 5/1, other sem. end. 549-6482.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent dates negot. 549-6852.

4 br. house, 5 acres. NR bus route, avail. 5/25 w/ opt. for 78-9, $250 mo., N'hampton. 586-2825.

Fully furnished apartment! Available for June 1-Aug. 31. 3 bedroom apt. in Rolling Green. Rent reduced for the summer. Call 253-7088. Rent includes utilities.

2 bdrm. apt. in house, Amherst, avail. 5/31 with opt. for fall. Call 253-7034.

4 bdrm. ranch—Echo Hill—sblt. June-Aug., sundeck, lg. liv. rm. Must see! $ neg. 253-5717.

1 bedroom—Cliffside, June 1 w/ fall opt. On bus route, $155 mo. Call 665-3512.

Summer sublet, 1 br. apt. by Puffer Pond, fully furn., free util., opt. to renew, avail. 5/30/78, $180/mo., 549-6555.

Fairly large, sunny room in apt. on Potwine Lane, for June, July and August. $75 per month, includes electricity. Prefer a woman, would be living with at least one other woman. Backyard, country setting. Not far from John's Mini-Mart, Hampshire College. Call Arlene, 253-7573, evenings.

Sublet 2 bdrm., free util.: AC, DW, disp., pool, tenn. ct., on bus rt., $200/mo. 665-2652.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. on bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

To sublet, 3 bedroom, Puffton Village, near bus stop, pool, tennis courts and laundry, $250 a month, 6/1-8/31, call 549-4759.

Avoid summer rush, sublet 2 br. apt., avail. 6/1-9/1, bus rt., pool, $230, util. inc., w/ opt. to renew, 253-9879.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

Large bdrm. avail. in 1½ bdrm. Puffton apt. 5/31-8/31, $95/mo. 549-1377.

2 bdrm. Cliffside apt., 6/1-8/31, opt. to renew. Pool, air cond., bus rt. 665-3190.

3-4 bedrm. duplex, avail. 6/1. $300 + util. (cheap!) 10 min. walk to town & 5 Coll. bus. 584-0177, N'hampton.

Lg 2 bdrm, $220/mo, util incl, avail 6/1, Col Vlg, opt to renew, call eve, 256-6489.

Summer sublet, lg. 3-br. apt. in S. Amherst, $280/mo., neg., 256-6681, after 5:00.

1 bdrm apt, Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

1 bdrm apt, beaut. loc., AC, all util. pd. Cats OK, quiet, avail. 6/1, $165/mo. 549-1582.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt. $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

2 Bedroom; furnished apt; South Meadow; price neg.; for Jun, Jul, Aug; call 545-1919 or 253-7420, Paul.

2 BR, 2 Baths semi-furn., 1 mi. to campus, on bus rt., pool, courts, store nearby; 6/1—8/31 w/ option;call 549-1764.

TRAVEL

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Looking for people to share apartment in Maine: Ogunquit, Wells, Kennebunkport area this summer. For info call Pam at 546-7095.

Artist wanted to paint portrait from 8x10 photograph. Please call Gary at 546-9642. Thanks.

WANTED TO RENT

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

Entertainment

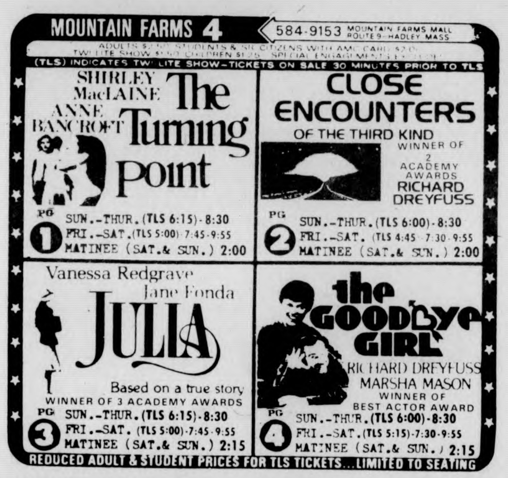
WOODY HERMAN and his YOUNG THUNDERING HERD

And The UNIVERSITY JAZZ ENSEMBLE

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL THURSDAY APRIL 13 8PM
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE (545-2511 MONDAY-FRIDAY 9-4 PM)
AND AT ALL TICKETRON LOCATIONS



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.

ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00 TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED

(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

1 SHIRLEY MacLAINE ANNE BANCROFT The Turning Point PG
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

2 CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND WINNER OF 2 ACADEMY AWARDS RICHARD DREYFUSS PG
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

3 Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda JULIA Based on a true story WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS PG
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

4 the GOODBYE GIRL RICHARD DREYFUSS MARSHA MASON WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD PG
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

VALENTINES DAY IN APRIL ?????

WELL, ALMOST—
If you didn't meet your match in February here's another chance to find

☒ A. Romance
☒ B. Passion
☒ C. Friendship

Watch for Computer Dating at UMass (all for charity) In the Campus Center & the Collegian starting THIS WEEK!

DON'T MISS

The Devil in Miss Jones

CCA MONDAY,
$1.00 APRIL 10

4, 5:30, 7, 8:30, 10, 11:30

AMHERST Cinema AMITY ST. 253-5426 NOW

"A triumphant performance by Sophia Loren in a true and lovely film." Gene Shalit, NBC TV

SOPHIA LOREN MARCELLO MASTROIANNI

a special day

A SPECIAL DAY EVES 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

CALVIN Theatre KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310 NOW NOW

IT'S GOT HEAT.

SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R ...Catch it

SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER EVES AT 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

University of Massachusetts
Union Program Council
PRESENTS

Tower of Power

April 23
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
8 p.m.

Tickets: UMass Students-$4.50, 5, 5.50
General Public- $5.50, 6, 6.50

Tickets on sale April 10

Tickets available at: Fine Arts Center Box Office and all Ticketron outlets

No cans, bottles or smoking in concert hall

UPCOMING CONCERTS
To Be Announced

COMING to DAVID'S

OF MT. FARMS MALL — THE AREA'S NEWEST "CLUB"

TUES. APRIL 11 •MAKESHIFT STRING BAND! COUNTRY AND BLUE GRASS —

WED. APRIL 12 JAKE EPSTEIN QUINTET! "JAZZ"

INTERNATIONAL & VEGETARIAN CUISINE

THURS. APRIL 13 CAROL CRAWFORD & • ALL THAT JAZZ

FRI.-SAT. APRIL 14-15 HARMONY ARBOR

TEL. 586-1878

SUNDAY-APRIL 16
DINE IN THE Middle East 6:30-10:30 p.m.
ENJOY THE MUSICAL SOUNDS & CAPTIVATING DANCING ON OUR STAGE. MUSIC, LIVE SHOWS, FOLK DANCING & DINNER AT LOW SUNDAY PRICES.

DOONESBURY

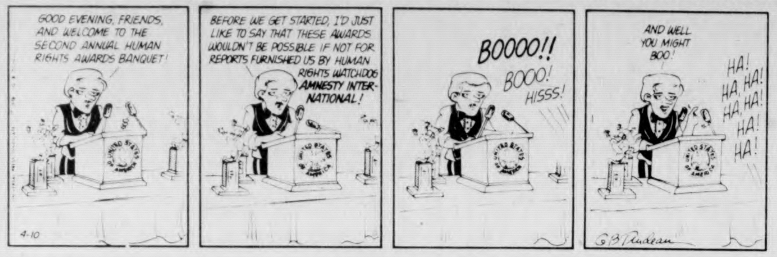
by Garry Trudeau



GOOD EVENING, FRIENDS, AND WELCOME TO THE SECOND ANNUAL HUMAN RIGHTS AWARDS BANQUET!
BEFORE WE GET STARTED, I'D JUST LIKE TO SAY THAT THESE AWARDS WOULDN'T BE POSSIBLE IF NOT FOR REPORTS FURNISHED US BY HUMAN RIGHTS WATCHDOG AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL!
BOOOO!! BOOO! HISSS!
AND WELL YOU MIGHT BOO!
HA! HA, HA! HA, HA! HA! HA!
4-10
G.B. Trudeau

PEANUTS

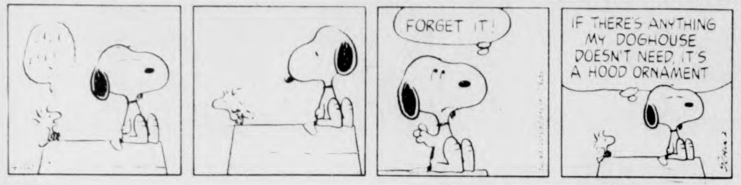
by Charles Schulz



FORGET IT!
IF THERE'S ANYTHING MY DOGHOUSE DOESN'T NEED, IT'S A HOOD ORNAMENT
Schulz

B.C.

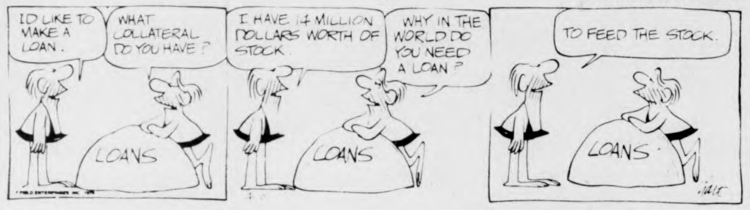
by Johnny Hart



ID LIKE TO MAKE A LOAN.
WHAT COLLATERAL DO YOU HAVE?
I HAVE 14 MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF STOCK.
WHY IN THE WORLD DO YOU NEED A LOAN?
TO FEED THE STOCK.
LOANS
LOANS
LOANS
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

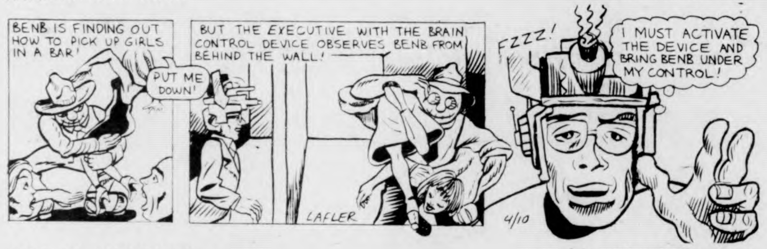
by Steve Lafler



BENB IS FINDING OUT HOW TO PICK UP GIRLS IN A BAR!
PUT ME DOWN!
BUT THE EXECUTIVE WITH THE BRAIN CONTROL DEVICE OBSERVES BENB FROM BEHIND THE WALL!
FZZZ!
I MUST ACTIVATE THE DEVICE AND BRING BENB UNDER MY CONTROL!
LAFLER
4/10

THE WANDERER

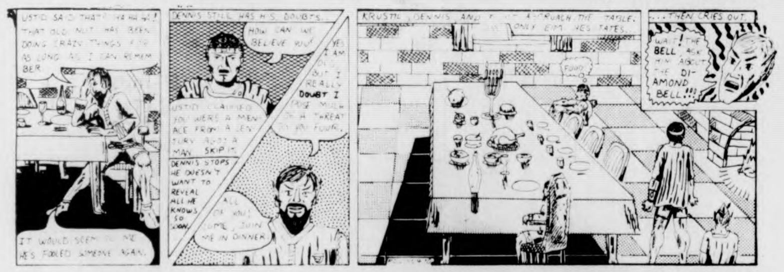
by Mark Rollins



USTIC SAID THAT? HA HA HA! THAT OLD NUT HAS BEEN DOING CRAZY THINGS FOR AS LONG AS I CAN REMEMBER.
IT WOULD SEEM TO ME HE'S FOOLED SOMEONE AGAIN.
DENNIS STILL HAS HIS DOUBTS.
HOW CAN WE BELIEVE YOU?
YES I AM OLD, BUT I REALLY DOUBT I POSE MUCH OF A THREAT TO YOU FOUR.
DENNIS STOPS HE DOESN'T WANT TO REVEAL ALL HE KNOWS SO SOON.
ALL OF YOU, COME, JOIN ME IN DINNER.
ONLY EIM HESITATES...
FOOD
...THEN CRIES OUT.
WAIT! THE BELL. ASK HIM ABOUT THE DIAMOND BELL!!!

WALLY DORF

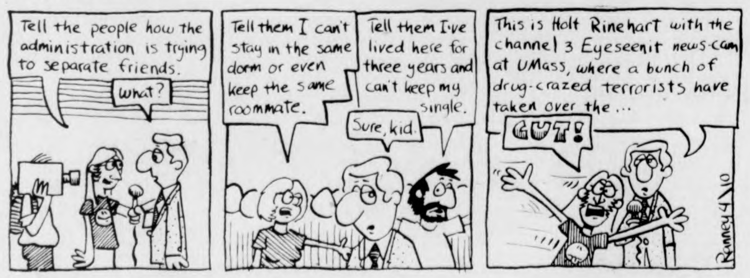
by Rob Ranney



Tell the people how the administration is trying to separate friends.
What?
Tell them I can't stay in the same dorm or even keep the same roommate.
Tell them I've lived here for three years and can't keep my single.
Sure, kid.
This is Holt Rinehart with the channel 3 Eyeseenit news-cam at UMass, where a bunch of drug-crazed terrorists have taken over the...
CUT!
Ranney 4/10

BACK AGAIN

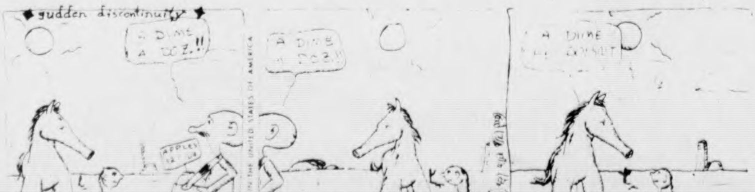
by K



sudden discontinuity
A DIME A DOZ.!!
A DIME A DOZ.!!
APPLES
Elsewhen in the desert
4/10

Your Birthday

MONDAY, APRIL 10

Born today, you are highly ambitious, but suffer from lack of confidence. Your accomplishments may not match your vision of yourself, and you will not be entirely happy. On the other hand, you are a generous person and can take great pleasure from others' successes.

You have exceptional talent for getting along with others. You do not have to understand anything at all about another person in order to enjoy his company. You are able to give to others in the same way, allowing them to take from you whatever serves their interests.

You are an emotionally settled person. You need no excitement in your everyday life, though you would not turn your back on unusual experiences. You enjoy variety, but you do not actively seek it. You are faithful to your friends, serving them at times even to your detriment.

Also born on this date: Chuck Connors, sports figure, actor; David Halberstam, journalist.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, APRIL 11

ARIES(March 21-April 19) -- Appreciation may come soon enough only to benefit you spiritually, not materially.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) -- Small suceesses make this a good day. Friends take a chance on your getting ahead.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) -- Look carefully before you decide about present work conditions. Overlook nothing.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) -- Manage on the budget allowed. If you are not careful you risk financial failure.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) -- A sharp mind is essential to grasp the essentials beneath the day's frills.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) -- Try to bring your newly-developed talent to the attention of one who can direct your future.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Use your ability to make money go a long way and you will make great gains by evening.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) -- Unless you use knowledge, you may forget it. Keep learning keen; find ways to use it.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) -- Enthusiasm for a new venture should gain the support of friends and family.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) -- Don't believe all you hear or see. What looks good may prove unprofitable.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) -- Tenacity is necessary today. Don't be waylaid by those who would have you pursue different goals.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) -- Use your many-faceted nature to understand all of another's personality. Consistency pays dividends.

Copyright 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Narrow land point
5 Gender Abbr
9 Looks over hastily
14 Pram pusher
15 Greek gulf
16 John ----- Explorer
17 Not called for 19 Boston Gardens
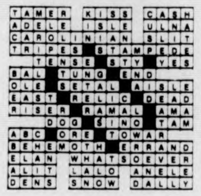
20 Cuts down
21 Be overly blasphemous 3 words
23 Armadas
25 ----- and Drang Literature style
26 Second-year stude
28 Shish ------ Var
32 Jet aircraft creations
37 Hold back 2 words
38 Gold Sp
39 Stage production
41 Humorist George ---
42 Class
45 " a ---- ----- out of a sow's ear
48 Garment part
50 Support
51 Thaws
54 Oration
58 Very interesting
62 Emboss
63 Want greatly
64 In the distant past 2 words
66 Legends
67 Historic times
68 Stratum
69 Organ
70 ---- precedent
71 Muffs

DOWN

1 Tobacco product
2 Inset
3 Colored linen tape Var
4 Highest
5 French month
6 Equips with weapons
7 Frets Informal
8 Kingston or West Point student
9 Badly marked
10 Spanish oath
11 Seth's brother
12 Taboo joke Informal
13 Office copy Informal
18 Early fur merchant
22 Diving bird
24 Sprit
27 Goes quickly
29 Persian poet
30 Sprouts
31 Graf ---- Ger admiral
32 Teeth
33 City on the Oka
34 Nobody
35 56 Roman
36 Act moodily
40 Manages somehow
43 Extractor
44 High mountain
46 Gazes
47 Elevate
49 Jujube
52 Glazed items
53 Breathe vibrantly
55 Excavator
56 Movie award
57 Margosa trees
58 Hormone medicine
59 Slope Scot
60 Spanish parlor
61 Winged insect
65 Gen Serv Admin

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved:



TAMER KISS CASH
ADELE ISLE ULNA
CAROLINIAN SLIT
TRIPES STAMPEDE
TENSE STY YES
BAL TUNG END
OLE SETAL AISLE
EAST RELIC DEAD
RISER RAMAL AMA
DOG SINO TAM
ABC ORE TOWAR
BEHEMOTH ERRAND
ELAN WHATSOEVER
ALIT LALO ANELE
DENS SNOW DALLY

ROOM CHOOSING PROCESS
Read Carefully

Due to the confusion which has resulted from the new room choosing process, the following is an outline of the entire room choosing sequence.

Phase 1:* Intra-dorm movement (students must contact their head of residence no later than Thursday night, April 13, 1978)

1. All students who wish to remain within their dorm, either in the same room, or in another room within the dorm contact their head of residence no later than Thursday, April 13, 1978.

2. Students planning to request another dormitory during Phase 2, but who do not wish to lose their current assignment if their request is not fulfilled must also contact their head of residence and sign up for their current room during Phase 1. This is critical if the student wants to guarantee their old assignment.

3. Students wishing to move to another dorm, and to LIVE WITH A PERSON ALREADY IN THAT DORM take the following steps.

A. The person moving out of their current dorm contacts their head of residence, fills out an "EXIT" card, and hand carries the card to the housing office.

B. The student already in the dorm receiving the roommate contacts the head of residence in their dorm, and fills out an "ENTRY" card stating that the person coming in from the other dorm is to room with him/her. The head of residence forwards this card to the housing office.

C. Both the "EXIT" and "ENTRY" card must be received by the housing office correctly filled (the cards must match each other) for the assignment to be made.

D. THIS APPLIES ONLY TO THOSE CASES WHERE ONE STUDENT IS ALREADY LIVING IN THE DESIRED DORMITORY.

Phase 2:* Intra-dorm movement (students must submit their housing preference cards to the housing office no later than Tuesday, April 18, 1978)

1. Students who wish to request another dorm assignment obtain and fill out a Housing Preference Card. This card is submitted to the housing office, and is processed on a space-available basis.

2. Students who wish to guarantee their old assignment if they do not get their requested new assignment MUST REQUEST THEIR CURRENT ASSIGNMENT as their last choice. THEREFORE, STUDENTS ARE ASSURED OF THEIR OLD ASSIGNMENT ONLY IF THEY HAVE SIGNED UP FOR BOTH PHASE 1 AND PHASE 2.

3. Students wishing to move to another dorm AND TO LIVE TOGETHER IN THAT NEW DORM AS ROOMMATES must each fill out housing preference cards which request identical choices (accept their last choice, if they wish to return to their old dorm if they do not get their new choice), staple the card together, and send them in to the housing office. Assignment will be made on a space available basis for both students. If the new request cannot be fulfilled, and the students did not request their old spaces back, they will be assigned together to the same dorm.

NOTE WELL: The housing preference card only allows selection of a particular dorm. The individual heads of residence are responsible for actual room assignments within a dorm. Therefore students requesting to move into a dorm and live together may both be assigned to the same dorm, but if no empty room is available, they will have to be assigned to the available rooms within that dorm, unless the head of residence can make other arrangements.

ALL STUDENTS WHO HAVE SUBMITTED A HOUSING PREFERENCE CARD ON OR BEFORE FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1978 MUST RESUBMIT ANOTHER, NEW, REQUEST FORM.

ADDRESS ALL QUESTIONS REGARDING THIS NEW POLICY TO YOUR HEAD OF RESIDENCE

Women's crew hopeful

By ANDY BLUME
Collegian Staff

Promising — that's a term that best describes this year's UMass women's crew team. Coming off a fall of practice on the water and a good winter of weightlifting and calisthenics, the Minutewomen have begun to show the other Eastern schools just how good they really are.

"Things look very promising," said Co-captain Maureen O'Brien. "Many experienced people are back from last year, along with a number of talented novices that should make our team stronger than ever before. We have also had a new coach, Debby Ayars, with extensive international racing experience, guiding the program since the fall."

Ayars, a 1970 graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara, rowed at Santa Barbara and for the Long Beach Rowing Association. She coached one year at Santa Barbara in 1972 (her team was fifth in the open 8-women crew at the nationals). She was an alternate for the USA team at the World Championships in 1975. She was a co-manager for the Olympic Women's Rowing Team at Montreal in 1976 and manager for the 1977, 1978 and 1980 USA women's rowing teams.

She is currently president of the National Women's Rowing Association and a member of the board of directors of the NAAO (National Association of Amateur Oarsmen). She came to UMass for her master's degree in sports management and was recruited by men's varsity coach, Chick Leonard, to come here and coach.

Ayars cited the team's willingness to work, excellent team spirit, confidence and experience as its chief assets.

The team is very balanced as far as experience goes. There are six freshmen, seven sophomores, seven juniors and two seniors. The varsity members all have at least two years of experience except for Julie Eggleston (novice rower) and Ginny Peebles and Laura Love (both in their third year of rowing).

Leslie Bellows is the only experienced cosxwain (the steersman and captain of a racing shell). She will be trying out for the national team.

"Up and coming," according to Ayars, are Kim Barnett and Paula Condon. Barnett's weight is in the area of 90 pounds, which is an excellent weight for a coxswain.

The women appear very strong also. The average size of the varsity is 5'9" and 164 pounds. The strongest on the ergometer (a rowing machine which measures how hard you are pulling your oar) thus far are Sarah Piermarini, Cindy Hector, Maureen O'Brien and Debbie Quinn.

The women will enter races with two eight women crews, a four woman crew, and a sculler (one woman).

At press time the team has already competed in three races. They emerged victorious over Boston University, Mt. Holyoke, and UNH. They have won every race except the JV eight against BU.

The next race for the women is April 16 against Connecticut College and Assumption. Connecticut is always tough, according to the coach. They have produced several Olympians in past years. Assumption is a first year crew. On April 22, they face another new crew, Northeastern on the Connecticut River in Hadley on their home course. They square off against Brown and Coast Guard on April 29. Coast Guard is new. Brown was beaten by last year's varsity and will be looking for a race. On May 6 is the New England Invitationals. Dartmouth is the team to beat. They have a new coach, Olympian Judy Geer. On May 14 is the Eastern Sprints. New competition in this race will be from Yale (last year's champs coached by USA coach Nat Case), Wisconsin (always big and strong) and Radcliffe, who has a new coach Carie Graves, a 1976 Olympic bronze medalist in the eight women crew.

Crewwomen continue streak

By ANDY BLUME
Collegian Staff

The women's crew team continued to frustrate its opponents as they completed a double whammy over Mt. Holyoke last Saturday and UNH on Sunday, beating them in every event.

On Saturday, the women squared off against Mt. Holyoke on Holyoke's home course in three 1500-meter races. It was a really windy day as the wind kept switching back and forth between head and cross winds.

In the varsity eight race, UMass got off to a bad start, as one of the women had some technical difficulties with her seat. They fell behind by four seats, but as soon as the problem was corrected they quickly gained the lead and went on to a one-and-a half length victory, beating Holyoke 7:20.6 - 7:31.4.

The UMass JV eight never trailed in their race. They got out ahead from the start and posted a 14-second victory over the Mt. Holyoke boat with a time of 8:24.3. A lightweight crew from Williams College also participated in this race. UMass beat them by 19 seconds.

The novice eight race had three rowers who had already rowed. Like the JV's they got off to a quick lead from the start and stroked to a victory over two Mt. Holyoke boats in the time of 8:32.0. They beat the first Holyoke boat by eighteen seconds and the second by a minute and a half.

On Sunday, the women were at home against the University of New Hampshire. They competed against UNH in the JV eight, novice four,and varsity eight. They also had a varsity four race against Mt. Holyoke.

In the varsity four, UMass got off to a quick lead which they never relinquished, defeating Mt. Holyoke by fourteen seconds, 5:50 - 6:04.

DC Menu

TODAY

Lunch: Sausage Grinder, Cheese Omelet.
Basics: Vegetable Grinder, Cheese Omelet.
Dinner: Chinese Beef and Peppers, Fried Scallops, Basics: Spinach Noodle Casserole, Fried Scallops.

TOMORROW

Lunch: Hamburgers, Tuna Chef's Bowl.
Basics: Oatburgers, Tuna Chef's Bowl.
Dinner: Roast Turkey, Crepes Ratatouille.
Basics: Roast Turkey, Crepes Ratatouille.

the electoral convention for the
Undergraduate Student Government Association will reconvene
today, April 10
in the Hatch
at 7:00.

Spikers top Amherst

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

The UMass Volleyball Club won four of six games, including a three game sweep of Amherst College, in its first home tournament at NOPE Saturday.

The spikers could only manage one win in their opening three game series against Westfield State. The round-robin tournament, which also included Williams College, was not designed to produce an overall winner.

The Minutemen, spurred on by an enthusiastic crowd of 250, knocked the wind out of Amherst in the first game, 15-10, and overpowered their defected opponents 15-3 in the second game. In the third stanza, Amherst recovered from its momentary lapse but lost just the same, 15-12.

Amherst was out to avenge a similar three game sweep by UMass earlier in the season.

"They were missing some of their best players then," said UMass coach Mike Gurk. "But they were at full strength (Saturday) and were ready for us. They were psyched, but we were just great in the first game."

UMass opened with a 15-6 victory against Westfield, but dropped the last two games by identical scores, 15-12. After splitting the first two games, the two teams traded the lead several times in the deciding match but Westfield held on to it at the end. Peter Kirk's aggressive play sparked a UMass comeback in the second game, according to Kirk.

"It was a mental loss," said Gurk. "The guys were very nervous. We hadn't played anyone for a month."

UMass' second team lost a three game exhibition to Williams College at the end of the day. The Minutemen subs had the spectators at the edge of their seats during one game as they battled the Ephmen for 30 minutes before succumbing 19-17.

The volleyball club completes its first season next weekend with a tournament at Westfield State.

Minutemen Arnie Roberts and Steve Richter will play in the New England Volleyball All-Star Game in Holyoke where volleyball originated, on April 30.

★Trackmen

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

and Minutemen freshman Dan Kelly, who finished third.

The concluding event, the mile relay, evolved as the final coup de grace for UMass. Co-captain John Richards, seniors Fran O'Keefe (2nd 880) and Mark Healy (winner intermediate hurdles), combined with anchorman Mickey Braugh to totally run away with the event, and the final portion of the afternoon competition.

Sports Calendar

WEEKENDS RESULTS

Var. Baseball UM vs. AIC postponed
UM 2 Northeastern 0
UM 10 Northeastern 1
Men's lacrosse team 6 Syracuse 15
JV men's lacrosse team Naval Acad. Prep
Softball UM 5 CCSC 2 UM16 CCSC 11
Men's track team 88 BC 74
Men's tennis vs. Tufts postponed
UMass Men's Volleyball Tourney
UM Williams UM Amherst
Women's crew team beat UNH
Men's crew team beat UNH
Women's water polo team 22 Wellesley 6

TODAY

JV baseball vs. Holyoke CC home 3 p.m.

TOMORROW

Var. baseball at AIC 2 p.m.
Var. softball at Keene St. 3 p.m.
JV men's lacrosse at Dean Jr. Coll 3:30 p.m.

University of Massachusetts
at Boston

Summer think '78

College of Arts and Sciences
College of Professional Studies
College of Public and Community Service and the Media Institute

Starting dates:
June 5 & 12
$25 per credit for undergraduate courses
$40 per credit for graduate courses
For both in-state and out-of-state students

Pick up a copy of our Summer Catalog at the Continuing Education Office in the Hasbrouck Building

Summer School
UMass/Boston
Harbor Campus
Boston, MA 02125

CO-10

UM water polo club shoots for recognition

By LISA CAPONE
Collegian Staff

When most people hear the term "water polo," images of Ivy League schools come to mind. After all, it is a sport of the elite, right?

Well, not necessarily — unless, of course, you consider UMass elite. Although relatively few students are aware of it, the UMass water polo club has been playing since 1973.

According to senior Ric Notini, last semester's captain, the club was started by a graduate student from California, Bill McAfferty, in the fall of 1973. The co-rec club has grown to its present size of fifty active members.

The club's biggest accomplishments include the women's team's victory in the New England Regionals in the fall of 1975, and the men's victory in the same competition in the spring of 1977.

Water polo, both an Olympic and a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) sport, is very big on the west coast, Florida and the Midwest. It is also popular internationally, especially in England, its birthplace; Cuba, Hungary, Italy and Russia. The sport is growing in popularity in the northeast though, said Notini.

The game is played in an Olympic-sized pool, normally all-deep, with a ten-foot wide and three-foot high goal at each end. Only the goalie, in the shallow end, can touch the bottom; the goalies switch ends each quarter. The other players must keep swimming or treading water throughout the game.

Water polo is played in seven-minute "stop-time" quarters, which, according to Notini, comes out to be about an hour because of fouls.

The ball used is the size of a volleyball, but much heavier and with a sticky surface so it isn't slippery.

Only the goalies may use two hands to catch and throw the ball; the other six players on each team may use only one hand and cannot put the ball underwater.

Water polo, according to Notini, takes many aspects from basketball, and also certain aspects from soccer and hockey.

"It's a really tiring sport," said Notini. "It takes a strong swimmer, not necessarily a fast one. You have to know how to get in front of the opponent."

The only piece of equipment used is a water polo cap with plastic ear guards. It can sometimes get pretty brutal — broken noses and eye injuries are common, according to Notini.

Before each game, the referee checks to make sure all fingernails and toenails are cut. Players often wear two bathing suits, in case one gets ripped off during the game.

UMass water polo is currently a club sport, but its ultimate goal is to become a varsity sport. However, Notini doubts this will happen in the near future. For the time being, the club will make the most of the resources it has.

"This is the last semester for many of us (the players)," said Notini, "and it looks like it might be the best."

Leading the two men's teams are New England all-stars Russ Yarworth, Duncan Lomas, Bob Corb and Henry MacLean. The women's team features three New England all-stars; Adrienne Freday, Nancy Campbell and Debbie Hoxsie.

The club plays against about twenty teams, including BC, Harvard, MIT, Brown and Yale.

Sports Notices

Schedule changes — the following facilities will be closed: NOPE pool, April 20 at 7 p.m., Boyden Gym April 15.

THE NEW CENTURIONS
WITH
George C. Scott

Thursday. April 13. — 7. 9. 11.p.m. Admission-$1.00—Mahar Aud.

Large selection of KITES

at
A. J. Hasting
newsdealer and stationer
Amherst

The Collegian
is looking for a
Finance Manager
for the next school year.

Duties include the management of accounts receivable.

See Eric Nickerson or Laurie Wood for more details.

The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity employer

Maryanne Primavera reaches to block a shot during practice of the UMass water polo club. The club, although relatively unknown, has been in existance since 1973, and both the men's and women's squads have won New England championships. (Staff photo by David Olken)

The Sport of Kings

By CURT P. KOHLBERG
Collegian Staff

The Kentucky Derby is America's greatest horse race. Nearly every breeder, trainer, owner, jockey and groom would rather win this race than all the other big stakes combined. The Derby ranks in glamour with the World Series, the Indianapolis 500, and the Super Bowl.

The mile and one-quarter race for three-year-olds is run on the first Saturday in May at Churchill Downs in Louisville, Kentucky. It's history is glamorous; such great horses as Whirlaway, Citation, Secretariat, and Cananere II have won the "Run for the Roses," and such famous jockeys as Eddie Arcaro, Willie Shoemaker, and Bill Hartack have all contributed to the Derby legend by "bringing home" numerous winners.

The Derby is watched with intensity by all associated with the "sport of kings" because it is the most important race of all. It is racing which reveals good horses and good mares, first through their own performance, and second, through the performances of their product (their abilities to mate, and bring strong, successful foals into the world). It also brings together these young horses to test their racing form, and their bloodlines as well. If a horse finishes strongly or "in the money", the market value of his parents as "professional parents" substantially increases, to the delight of the owners of the sire and the mare.

Analysis

Not only does the Derby exhibit the fastest three-year-olds in the country, it brings home to the winner much more than the $100,000 plus first place prize money. Super-rich syndication lurks around the corner for outstanding winners with respected bloodlines.

In fact, the price tag of syndication (the purchasing of a horse by a small group of wealthy investors with the intent of retiring the horse to the life of a stud, so to produce by mating more horses similar to him) far outweighs the total prize money a horse can win in his lifetime. (I always refer to horses as "him" because only one filly, Regret, has ever won the Derby.)

To prove this point: the greatest amount ever won by a horse is $1,977,896 by Kelso, from 1959 to his retirement on March 10, 1966. The highest price ever paid for a horse was $8,000,000 for the American stallion What A Pleasure (the father of Honest and Foolish Pleasure) in early 1976. He was syndicated at 32 shares, valued at $250,000 each.

Syndication takes away a lot from horse racing. I feel that it is the biggest problem facing the sport. Nowadays, (I'm speaking about the U.S. exclusively here) American horse owners race their horses of championship caliber for two to three years, and on a limited schedule, so to lessen the risk of serious injury that would affect their horses' syndication price tag. Then they retire the horse to the life of a whore to earn a profit on their investment.

Horse like Forego (the Horse of The Year in 1974, '75, '76, and runner-up to Seattle Slew in 1977) who were raced to compete and to win, rather than to simply increase his syndication price tag, are becoming rarer and rarer.

The instant this year's winning colt flashes under the wire — his market value will reach at least a cool million for stud purposes alone. These syndication dollar-values even reach extremes; even reach extremes; even before the 1973 Derby, Secretariat, the pre-race favorite, was sold to syndicate for $6,080,000 (he won a crisp $860,404 in purses alone that year, the most ever by a thoroughbred.

Horce racing is popularized by the fact that it is the most-attended paid spectator sport in the world. Of course, this popularity stems largely from the opportunity to gamble. But don't be mistaken, it provides plenty of excitement for the non-gambler as well. A day or night at one of New England's fine racing establishments is a fun way to pass an evening with a date or with friends.

This year marks the 104th anniversary of the Derby, and the upcoming race should prove to be a two-horse classic. There are two heavy pre-race favorites; Affirmed, ridden by Steve "Sportsman of the Year" Cauthen, and trained for Harbor View Farms by the clevel Laz Barrera (the man behind Bold Forbes), and Alydar, the protoge of big John Veitch of Calumet Farms (which have amassed eight Derby victories to their credit), with the fabulous Jorge Velasquez in the saddle.

Affirmed and Alydar met six times last year in head-to-head competition, and Affirmed won four times. Alydar's two triumphs were in the one-mile Champagne Stakes and the Great American Stakes, the latter was won by 3½ lengths over a muddy track. Affirmed countered by winning the two "biggies" for two-year-olds; the Belmont Stakes and the Laurel Futurity Stakes.

Last year, the Jockey Club's Experimental Free Handicap rated the country's two-year-olds with an eye toward their potential for the three-year-old classics (the triple crown races). Affirmed was top-seeded with a 126 lb. weight allowance, and Alydar followed at 125 lbs. (The top weights are assigned to the fastest horses with the intention of equalizing the horses to a certain extent. The horses run with a 98 pound jockey, the saddle, and the rest of the weight in sand, strapped vertically from the back to the stomach of the horse. The better the horse, the more weight he,will have to run with). No other two-year-olds besides Believe It, Balzac, and Noble Bronze are even worth mentioning.

So get your binoculars out from the attic, and get ready for the big one on the first Saturday in May. When the song "My Old Kentucky Home" is concluded by the 80,000 plus fans, when the horses start arriving at the starting gate, and when Chic Anderson grabs control of the microphone, get psyched. This year's race should prove to be a doozy.

UM hurlers star in sweep of Huskies

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

BROOKLINE — Doug Welenc fired a glittering one-hitter in the first game and Chris Collins came back with a gutsy five-hitter in the second, as the UMass baseball nine rolled over Northeastern Saturday, 2-0 and 10-1.

Pitching in chilly, cloudy, 40 degree weather, Welenc allowed only a second inning single to Joe Annese and a walk in going the distance for the victory. He retired the last sixteen batters in a row and allowed only one Huskie runner to second base.

Minuteman catcher Charlie Ciccone said everything Welenc threw was going good.

"Even when Doug was up high they couldn't touch him because he was blowing the ball by them," Ciccone said. Welenc struck out eight batters in the ball game.

Minuteman right fielder Mark Sullivan provided Welenc with all the runs he needed with a second inning, two run single. Dale Stone, who had walked and John Gallagher, a double, scored on Sullivan's hit.

The Minutemen could only muster five hits off Huskie pitcher Paul Nickerson, who pitched a fine game. Stone's double was the only extra base hit in the game.

Collins worked out of several jams in the second game as the Minutemen bats came alive pounding 13 hits off four Huskie pitchers.

Mike McEvilly and Stone led the hit parade with three each, while catcher Mike Walsh had two hits and three runs batted in. McEvilly and Stone both had doubles.

Collins let in a run in the first then hurled shutout ball the rest of the way. Northeastern left two runners stranded in the first and Collins got out of another jam in the second with Huskie runners on second and third. Joe Glynn banged a triple off Collins and Jack Trabucco walked in the fifth, but once again Collins was equal to the task.

The sophomore righthander struckout six and walked four Huskie batters.

The Minutemen scored three runs in the first, fifth and seventh innings and one in the fourth. Walsh was hit by a pitch to force in the first run of the first inning. George Kelly then hit a sacrifice fly and Mike Stockley lashed a run scoring single.

AMHERST
10
5

The UMass Volleyball Club hosted its first tournament on Saturday before a crowd of over 250 people. Amherst College, Williams College and Westfield State also participated in the competition, which saw the spikers win four games and lose two. See story on page 18 for additional information. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Singles by Gallagher and Walsh brought in the three fifth inning runs and Stockley had a two-run scoring single in the seventh. The final run scored on an overthrow by the Huskie rightfielder.

The Minutemen played errorless ball in both games and third baseman Leo Kalinowski made a fine defensive play in each game.

Relief pitcher Dave Tewhill remarked, "We played unbelievably good today," and if you look at the results you can't really argue with him.

DIAMOND CHATTER — Friday's game with AIC was rained out and will by replayed Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Springfield. The Minutemen are now 6-11 (24-3 North).

Minutewomen take twin-bill

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. — Sue Peters smashed one grand slam, one solo homer and a two run shot as the UMass softball team swept a doubleheader from Central Connecticut Saturday.

The Minutewomen, behind the pitching of Peters captured the tight opening game, 5-2. Kathy O'Connell disarmed the Blue Devils offensive explosion in the second contest giving UMass the 16-11, triumph. Both victories were satisfying comebacks for Dianne Thompson's team.

In the first game Central tallied one run in the second inning and added another in the third. Center fielder Carol Bruce's throw to the hot corner nailed the runner to end the third frame. Peters silenced the Blue Devils for the remainder of the chilly afternoon with 7 strikeouts.

The UMies chipped away at the two-run lead in the fourth. Jen Parker reached first base on an error and was moved to third by Rhonda McManus' base hit. Parker scored on an unexpected stratagem. McManus faked stealing second, thus forcing the catcher to throw it down. The toss allowed Parker to put the Minutewomen in the scoring column. McManus was left stranded.

In the first game Central tallied one run in the second inning and added another in the third. Center fielder Carol Bruce's throw to the hot corner nailed the runner to end the third frame. Peters silenced the Blue Devils for the remainder of the chilly afternoon with 7 strikeouts.

The UMies chipped away at the two-run lead in the fourth. Jen Parker reached first base on an error and was moved to third by Rhonda McManus' base hit. Parker scored on an unexpected stratagem. McManus faked stealing second, thus forcing the catcher to throw it down. The toss allowed Parker to put the Minutewomen in the scoring column. McManus was left stranded.

Elaine Howle began the pivotal fifth inning advancing to second when the left fielder bobbled her single. Cheryl Meliones continued the table setting with a walk. The bases were loaded with Bruce's bunt single. Soph Peters belted Tracy's "semi-high" pitch over center fielder Dobbs' head for a grand slam.

"I never hit one (grand slam) in college, maybe in high school," Peters said. The clout gave Peters two wins in as many starts.

The hitting barrage in the second contest began with Peters' second homerun, this time a solo blast. However, UMass' advantage was short-lived.

The Blue Devils scored six runs in the second inning forcing starter Gail Carter out of the box. Reliever Trish O'Connor aided her own cause when she tagged her opponent crossing home plate to end the side.

The Minutewomen got one back in the third when Kathy Horrigan reached home off of McManus' dropped fly ball.

In the bottom of the third, Central increased their lead to 8-2. The maroon and white launched its comeback in the fourth with seven runs. The offense was keyed with Bruce's base hit knocking in Fran Cornacchiolli and Chris Verdini along with McManus' double scoring Peters and Horrigan.

O'Connell's solid performance in her varsity pitching debut improved the UMass eleven's record to 3-0.

Gorillas halted by Orangemen

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Held off by the UMass defense (aided by 'Duck' Goldstein's performance in goal) and stalled by their (Syracuse) own poor passing, the Orangemen, leading 5-4 at halftime, ran amuck in the third period, scoring seven times, on route to a 15-6 onslaught of the Minutemen. Syracuse is now 5-1, while UMass fell to 1-2.

Tim O'Hara, Tom Abbott, and Tom Donahue had three goals apiece, with O'Hara adding three assists and Abbott two to lead the Syracuse attack.

For the Minutemen, Brooks Sweet had two goals and two assists, Pit Martin had two goals, Norm Smith and Mike Lewis each tossed in a goal, while Harry Confortti and Dave Martin each were credited with an assist.

But the story of this game was divided into parts like books one and two of Rich Man, Poor Man.

Part one was the Minutemen ahead for the better part of it due to its defense. While Syracuse played conservatively (maybe due to past encounters with UMass), they did get their opportunities, with Goldstein coming up with some good saves.

The Orangemen meanwhile exhibited some shabby passing and it appeared for some time they would never get it all together.

UM's leading scorer Brooks Sweet put the Gorillas on the board at the 3:38 mark of the opening period. Goldstein moved the ball up to Confortti, whose fake at midfield enabled him to shake off a Syracuse defender. He passed off to Sweet at the left of the SU net, who flipped it into the strings for a UMass 1-0 lead.

After Bob McCarthy's shot glanced off Goldstein's stick to knot the score, UMass' Tommy Walters won the ensuing faceoff, brought it upfield to Dave Martin, he handed it over to Pit Martin, who bounced it off the Astroturf into the goal.

In the second period UMass pulled ahead by two again on the strength of a Pit Martin (from Sweet) goal to nudge UM ahead 4-2.

And then it hit. The Syracuse express.

Goldstein, off to the left of the UMass goal, looked to set up a play. The ball skipped out of his stick with Syracuse's Tim O'Hara scooping it up. He fired it to Abbott at the UMass crease, who dropped it in to pull the Orangemen to within one.

UMass got a break when Abbott missed an 'empty' net goal, but he got even, as did his team, with less than two minutes remaining in the half, whizzing one by the posts.

With both momentum and confidence on their side, Kevin Donahue took the faceoff, went the length of the field, circled the UM net, and put Syracuse ahead for good, 5-4.

Coming out of the lockerrooms for the second half, Syracuse ran, passed well (while UMass was off), shot, and (worst of all) scored. Before you knew it, the Orangemen had the game, via their insurmountable lead, under control. At the end of three periods Syracuse led 12-5.

"It was like the Cornell game. Against a team like Syracuse you have to play almost perfect. We did a lot of good things out there on the field, but everytime we made a mistake, it seemed they'd come back to score," summed up coach Dick Garber.

Staff meeting

There will be a mandatory meeting for all Collegian sports staff members tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Collegian office.

Trackmen edge Eagles

By KEVIN McCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — With two events remaining in a cold and windy track and field contest at Boston College Saturday, UMass and BC were deadlocked with 74 points each. A clean sweep of the three mile, and a spirited effort in the mile relay dictated the outcome of the afternoon as the Minutemen shot down the Eagles, 88 to 74.

Don Dowden of UMass won the high jump after finishing the afternoon with the fewest number of misses during the competition. The top three performers all registered clearance over 6'3", with Dowden the outright winner because of efficiency. Mark Thompson of UMass was second.

The Eagles failed to blemish the scoring of the Minutemen in the triple and long jumps, as the top three competitors in each event donned UMass uniforms. John Slepetz led the assault on the long jump with a winning leap of 21'1½". Freshman Jeff Durant broke into the scoring with his effort of 20'8½", good for the runner up position. Keith Alston collected the first of his two third place finishes, as a leap of 19'6" in the long jump was complemented by a 42'¼" performance in the triple jump.

Sophomore Bruce Parsons won the triple jump, with a hop skip and leap of 43'8". Veteran Minutemen Brady Mayer garnered second place with a leap of 42'11".

The steeple chase, a series of barriers and a water jump over a 3000 meter distance, was won convincingly by Kevin McCusker of UMass, the reigning New England steeple champion. In the first meet to include the event in the program, McCusker ran and jumped his way to an Eastern Championships qualifying time of 9:11.2. Minutemen Steve Hilyard and Jay Legere completed the UMass sweep of the event with second (9:40.8) and third (9:48.2) places respectively.

The 440 yard dash redirected UMass on the winning trail as the Minutemen snared the first two positions. Mickey Baugh won the event with a time of 50.0. Teammate Rich Thompson nipped an eagle performer at the line for second place in 50.8.

BC possessed the only double winners of the competition as long legged speedster Phil Hazard won the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and versatile Bill Gajewski registered a victory in the mile and half mile events.

Minutemen Rich Cady and Dennis Dent recorded identical times in the 100 at 10.2, as they picked up the two places Hazard vacated with his victory. Cady duplicated his 100 yard performance with a second place in the 220. His time of 22.5 was one second better than teammate Gerry Herman's third place effort.

A Minutemen record was broken during the trails of the 120 yard high hurdles. First year man Paul King won his heat in 14.8, breaking the existing freshman record by one tenth of a second. Dave Greenwood of BC avenged his preliminary losses as he won the final competition over the runner up King,

TURN TO PAGE 18

A sweep of the three mile clinched Saturday's meet at BC, as Mike Doiron (leading here), Michael Morris and Frank Carroll were 2nd, 3rd and 1st, respectively. (Dave Rodman photo)

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 117
TUESDAY, APRIL 11, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Convention fails to pick president

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Student Government Association Electoral Convention recessed again last night without choosing a President after the Sylvan delegation walked out and prevented a quorum.

The Convention will reconvene on Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. This will be the fifth session of the Convention.

Sylvan delegates walked out after a vote failed to adjourn and hold a new popular election. After they left, Sylvan Treasurer James O'Connell called a quorum. Without the Sylvan delegates, not enough members could be mustered.

O'Connell said, "We don't want to hold up the process. The convention should adjourn. A lot of people have wanted to leave from the beginning."

Sylvan delegate Steve Feldman, said, "If we don't walk out then the convention goes to an immediate ballot and (Donald) Bishop and Bob Dion will probably win since the other area governments support them. Sylvan doesn't."

O'Connell said he did not think the Sylvan delegation was solidly for Bishop-Dion.

"If we wanted to make a sleazy political act we could've quietly sent some people out. The reason we walked out was to make a point and that point is that the students should decide."

Early in the evening, Senate Speaker-elect Brian DeLima made a motion for the convention to adjourn and declare a vacancy in the office. This motion would send the vote back to a popular election.

Arty Thomas Co-President of the Central Area Council, said during discussion of the DeLima motion that if a vacancy is declared, DeLima would become President since the Speaker ascends to the presidency if there is a vacancy in the office.

The vote failed 24-8 and the Sylvan delegation then walked out.

The convention is made up of factions from area governments and the Undergraduate Student Senate. At last night's session the Senate, Commuters and Greeks did not have a quorum. However, only five of the factions must have a quorum for the meeting to take place. Once the Sylvan delegation left, the convention only had quorums in four delegations.

Convention Chairperson Jon A. Hite said, "the best way to throw the vote back to a popular election is to vote to adjourn. That this failed is no one's fault except those who were not here to vote; either because they had a test, had something else to do or else they didn't give a shit, and I don't blame them."

Bucky Fuller, world famous futurist, takes a moment to collect his thoughts during his lecture last night at the FAC. (Staff photo by David Olken)

Fuller emphasizes 'more with less'

By GARDE WELLS
Collegian Staff

R. "Bucky" Buckminster Fuller, historian, scholar, scientist, philosopher, philanthropist, and mathematician, spoke on subjects from Ancient Greece to tetrahedrons, captivating a capacity audience of 2000 last night in the Fine Arts Center.

"The only important thing about me is that I'm a human being," said Fuller, who holds 39 honorary doctoral degrees, has written 18 books, has 818 patents, and has built 200,000 geodesic domes around the world.

Fuller entered the Navy in the 1920's, where he had command of several ships, he explained, "I had to have comprehensive anticipatory design."

"As an officer of the line, I had comprehensive training as opposed to the specific training you get in Universities," he said.

After serving in the navy, he went into building, where "I made a mess of my business world."

"At 32, all my contemporaries had to find a living," he went on, "I knew there was something I could do that the world could not do without."

"Getting back to running a ship, this is what gave me the overall understanding of the world," he said. "I am a comprehensivist in a society which encourages men to overspecialize."

He closed his eyes to describe the development of the city-state in ancient Greece.

"Life on water develops technology faster than on land," he explained." The line of supply changed history very, very, greatly."

"The essence of control is control of supplies," he said, speaking of the evolution of shipping among the Myceans and on through the Mediterranean.

"The British Empire saw the earth for the first time in history as a closed system," he said.

Fuller mentioned Thomas Malthus, a great British generalist of the 19th century, who first saw that "humanity was multiplying at a geometric rate, while resources were increasing arithmetically.

Fuller cited Charles Darwin and Karl Marx as great comprehensive thinkers.

"World War I was very much an alloy war," said Fuller. "Alloys were a very swift intrusion into technology ... doing more with less."

"Doing more with less" became Fuller's main theme in his work throughout his life, he said.

Henry Ford was the first to use metal alloys, according to Fuller. "From the Model T to the model A, Ford used 53 new alloys."

"After World War I," said Fuller, "the important game became how to control the high performance resources of humanity."

"The question is, who has to make do with low-performance resources, or no resources ... this became known as the building industry," he quipped.

"The building industry is at least 5000 years behind water and air development," said Fuller, who is one of the most respected architects in the world.

"Nature spends all the time to evaporate and then rain pure water from the sky, and we use six gallons to get rid of one pint."

"In 1927, I made a commitment for the rest of my life to applying the technology I learned on the sea to the homefront and the rest of the world," he said.

The geodesic domes for which he is famous house radar facilities. There is one on the top of Mt. Fuji and one at the South Pole.

Inside

—Controversy continues amongst residence hall official and heads-of-residence as the new housing guidelines go into effect. See page 3.

—A new Amherst Ballet troupe premieres at the Fine Arts Center and plans its future. See feature story-review on Page 2.

—The Massachusetts legislature votes overwhelming to establish an independent commission to investigate state building contracts. See page 5.

Weather

Cloudy today with showers likely. Temperatures 55-65. Scattered showers tonight but clearing tomorrow with highs in the sixties.

Correction

Northeast Area Government president Diane Lauricella in a meeting Sunday night said, "people should be coming to make a decision and should realize the need to elect an SGA president either at a popular election or at the electoral convention."

She was incorrectly quoted in yesterday's Collegian as saying: "If we can't get a faction, I'm going to ask my people to cut out,"

Crusaders and Labelle headline spring concert

By ROBERT FALETRA
Collegian Staff

The Black American Music Festival committee has completed the program for the spring concert, according to Stan Kinard, a member of the committee.

The festival has been renamed The Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival, Kinard said, and is slated for all day May 6 at Alumni Stadium.

Appearing at the festival, Kinard said, will be Buddy Guy and the Junior Wells Blues Band, The Crusaders, The Duke Ellington Orchestra conducted by Mercer Ellington, vocalist Patti Labelle, and jazz pianist McCoy Tyner.

Student Senate Treasurer Precilla West said, "The festival will be free for all UMass students but will cost six dollars for non-UMass students and seven dollars for non-students."

West said money from ticket sales will go toward the cost of promoting the concert and profit from the concessions will go to the Duke Ellington Foundation. The foundation is a New York based group not yet incorporated.

No cans or bottles will be allowed into the festival, West added.

Tickets will go on sale Thursday at all Ticketron outlets.

Amherst Ballet debuts: Verve and imagination

Meg Starkweather, Heather Whaley, Sheila Donahue, Consuelo Glenn in PERSIMMON.

Dance Review
By REBECCA ADAMS
Collegian Staff
Premiere Performance - The Amherst Ballet Theatre Company Saturday, April 8, 1978, Fine Arts Center

Dance Review

It takes two hours to perform and months to create. No one snaps their fingers and it suddenly appears. The magic comes from hard work and dedication, not from a fairy godmother. And yet, from a spectators' seat, it all seems so effortless, as if it just... well... happened one night.

The toil and trouble was well worth it Saturday, April 8 as the newly formed Amherst Ballet Theatre Company presented their Premiere Performance at the Fine Arts Center. A repertoire including only in-company choreographed works shows great promise in imagination and versatility.

The premiere started with a one hour matinee performance in the afternoon, which was great fun for the kids. Danced by the Junior members and apprentices of the company, it included such works as "Cat's Cradle," and "The Golden Goose," both choreographed by Artistic Director Therese Brady Donohue. Judging from the laughter and smiles of the few hundred children attending, I would say it was a great success!

"Praise" was the first piece of the evening, a quite interesting liturgical piece "to be performed in area churches as part of the religious service." Dressed in hooded robes and incorporating little actual movement, the six dancers created a moving rite of worship. Quite a different way to start an evening of dance, but certainly sparked the audience's interest as to what was to come next.

Loose, orange pant costumes and four energetic dancers were the ingredients for "Persimmon," an oriental flavored dance of high spirits and intricate moves. Choreographed by Robin Karson of the company, it consisted of "groups of two, three and four dancers continually emerging and disbanding until the final few chords of the music when everyone breaks free from the containment of the group and celebrates this separateness in a wild rush across the stage." Sheila Donohue, Consuelo Glenn, Meg Starkweather and Heather Whaley showed good technical skill and versatility in creating the Japanese effect. An especially interesting aspect of the dance was the hands clasped behind the neck and the feet claiming most of the action!

The beginning of a company, the beginning of lifelong careers in dance? "A Beginning," choreographed by Donohue was a beautiful classical ballet piece designed to "show off" the potential of the company and it's "aspiring young dancers." This was a very impressive piece, especially because it was accompanied live by Gerry Itzkhoff, viola and Jonathan Bagg, violin, who captivated us with an exquisite rendition of Mozart's duet for violin and viola. Dressed in knee length white, pink and blue dresses (as opposed to the traditional tutu), the dancers carried us through what might be a whimsical spring day of love. But, although beautiful and romantic, this dance could afford a livelier choreography. The dancers, as seen in the other dances, seem capable of more than what was shown.

A study of humanity through the mystic poetry of William Blake was the theme of "Blake's Prospect." Again dressed in long robes, the dancers acted and interacted to the music of Benjamin Britten while Daniel Peterson (UMass faculty) spoke the verse (on tape). Choreographed by Robin MacRostie, an in-company choreographer, the dancers were cast as "Proverb," "The Tyger," "The Fly," "Every Night and Every Morn," and "Humanity." The program asked people to allow themselves to perceive the stage happening in any way they wanted. In other words, your perception is as varied as mine. This theme (or lack of theme) is reminiscent of Merce Cunningham and his ideas, and becoming more popular. It causes the audience to think rather than to just react, a welcome change in view of the stereotypical ballet repertoire of many young companies.

The only non-company choreographed piece was "Bluebird Pas de Deux" from "Sleeping Beauty." This was a pretty dance, displaying the skills of guest artists Sharon Donohue and Luc Vercruysse of the School of the Pennsylvania Ballet.

"Judgment of Jeb" was an imaginative piece combining the ballet and jazz talents of the company. Alex Dunaeff, of the company, choreographed this fun piece. As the title suggests, someone is judged and although it is really all a dream, Jeb wakes up a little bit wiser. On the one hand, we have the sweet balletic angels and on the other, the fiery insolent devils. Both want Jeb, now that he has supposedly died. A lively battle takes place as each side tries to prove they deserve him, and, after a brief interlude with thieving gypsies, the case goes unresolved.

Along with the ballet and jazz, the gypsies gave us the refreshing contrast of "character dance," an Alex Dunaeff specialty.

On the whole, the dancers did very well. But I would suggest more drama and expression on their part. So often we, as dancers, can be so involved in our technical skill, that we forget a very important aspect, communication with the audience. A frozen smile or an "Oh, this is just small stuff" attitude often obliterates an otherwise lovely performance. The audience should be the most important thing to the dancer on stage, and if they're forgotten, then there's no show. It's too subjective and no one is allowed in. The dancer is sharing his-her world, not just showing off.

In an interview conducted Saturday afternoon, Donohue spoke about her goals for her company. She expects it to be "a good regional ballet company," especially for the dancers. "A good regional ballet company, I feel, is a stepping stone between the ballet school and the professional ballet company. We're trying to get them out of just the recital experience." She hopes to give the young dancer as much of an idea as possible of what it's like out in the competitive dance world. When asked if she could give them the real, tough picture, she said she could give them the "in-between picture" to prepare them for the real world.

Donohue also spoke fondly of her fellow choreographers in the company, Alex Dunaeff, Robin Karson and Robin MacRostie.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Maureen Carney

| | |
|---|---|
| News Dept. | Megan O'Reilley |
| Sports Layout | Stephanie Richardson |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dave Olken |
| Photo Staff | John LeJeune |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Ad Layout | Gary Marchese |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

. . newslines . .

UM 2nd in Wildlife bowl

A team of UMass Wildlife biology students finished second in academic competition at the Northeast Wildlife Student Conclave held recently at Penn State University.

UMass lost to the University of Maine in the final round of the "Wildlife Bowl." Participants in the bowl answered questions dealing with botany, ecology, mammology and wildlife management techniques.

Along with the academic competition, the Conclave gave students a chance to meet and exchange ideas with other Wildlife majors.

— ARNIE WARSHAW

Central picks concert

The Central Area Council announced last night the program for the upcoming Orchard Hill-Central spring concert on April 30.

The headline group is Room Full of Blues, a blues group which features a large horn section. Popular rock artist Chris Rhodes, Estes Boys, a country bluegrass band, and Prana a funky-rock group will also perform.

Dormitories will be allowed to set up concessions at the concert if they are approved by the joint Central Area Council-Orchard Hill Area Government concert concessions committee.

— DEBBIE WALLACE

Outfront case continues

The case of Outfront vs. the University of Massachusetts yesterday was continued to April 24 in Northampton District Court.

Outfront, a monthly student newspaper which has not published since last fall, claims that Campus Center employees discarded over $6,000 of their materials when they cleaned the old Commuter Lounge more than a year ago.

The Campus Center maintains they were only cleaning trash that was left scattered on the floor.

Named in Outfront's suit is Dudley J. Bridges, Campus Center building operations manager, William F. Field, Dean of Students, and Edward J. Kelley, a professional technician for the Campus Center.

— MARK HORAN

Heart fund walkathon

A 12-mile walkathon sponsored by Gamma Sigma Sigma, Alpha Phi Omega, and the Western Mass. Heart Association gets underway on April 22 to benefit the Heart Fund.

Beginning at UMass' Haigis Mall, the walkathon's route will take in the Grist Mill, Atkin's Fruit Stand, and South Amherst Common, ending up back at Haigis Mall.

Walkers should collect pledges for each mile walked from sponsors before April 22.

Walkers can pick up sponsor sheets and more information at the Campus Center Concourse on April 10, 11, 12 and 17, 18, 19.

— MARIA MESSITT

Tower of Power performs

Tower of Power, the explosive jazz band from the San Francisco East Bay, performs at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Sunday, April 23.

Tickets for the Union Program Council sponsored event are currently on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office and Ticketron outlets.

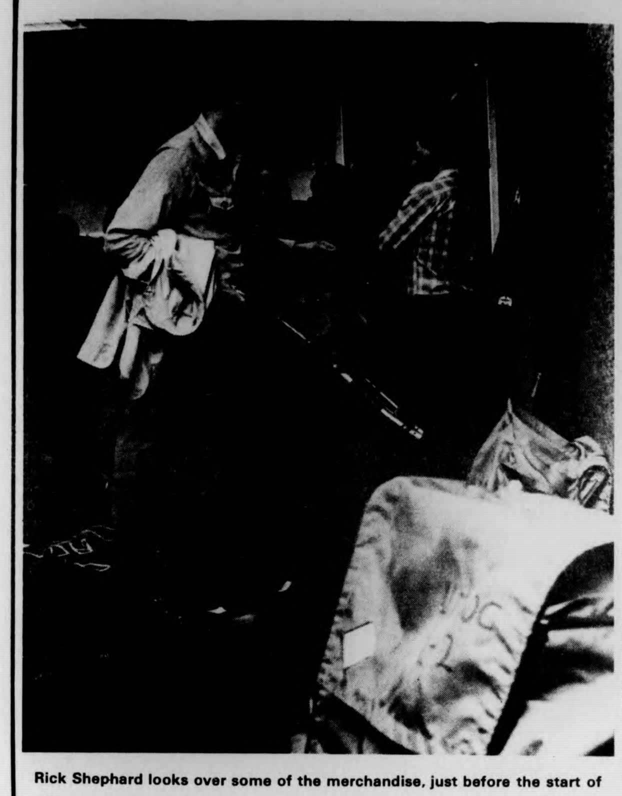
The ten-member band made their concert breakthrough at Bill Graham's legendary Fillmore West in 1969 and, with Graham's support, have become one of the Bay Area's most celebrated musical emblems, along with the The Grateful Dead, The Jefferson Airplane and Santana to name a few.

Best known for their impelling rhythm and horn sections and high energy performance, the group has recorded hit singles including "What is Hip," "You're still a young man," "So Very Hard to Go," and "Sparkling in the Sand," among their nine albums.

Ticket prices for students (UMass with ID) are: $4.50, 5.50. Non-students: $5.50, 6.00 and 6.50.

— MEGAN O'REILLY

---



Rick Shephard looks over some of the merchandise, just before the start of last night's UMass Outing Club auction. (Staff photo by David Olken)

Residents question officials about mall

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

HADLEY — The Hadley Planning Board has 90 days to decide whether or not to approve the building site for the proposed Hampshire Mall being planned for here by the Pyramid Corporation of upstate New York.

Members of the overflow audience of over 150 Hadley residents questioned Pyramid officials and the Planning Board for close to two and one-half hours over the proposed building site. The large crowd forced the meeting to be moved from a Town Hall conference room to the Hooker School cafeteria.

The building site proposed by the developers contains 57.2 acres at the corner of Route 9 and South Maple Street.

Pyramid officials explained parking, sewer, drainage and landscaping plans for the mall that is to have between 50 and 70 stores, including a J.C. Penney's, Steigers and K Mart department stores according to Pyramid officials.

Pyramid officials said they had no exact building cost for the mall, but estimated it would cost "probably between $5 and 6 million."

Pyramid officials said they were not prepared to release the names of any stores already committed to moving into the mall.

Most residents at last nights meeting indicated they are against the mall coming into town, but Planning Board Chairman Joseph F. Zgrodnik asked residents to center all questions and comments solely on the building site.

"The question," Zgrodnik said, "Is not whether they can come into town. Route 9 is zoned for business, and if this hearing wasn't going on, the mall would be going up and we wouldn't have any control over it. If you want to rezone, then you have to change the law. And this is no place to change the law."

Hampshire County Planner Richard M. Gaffney told the audience they were limited in the actions they could take at last night's meeting.

"The Planning Board can only approve or disapprove the site plan," he said. "They can't just kill the whole thing. You can't just zone it out from under them."

According to Gaffney, Pyramid must still apply to the state Dept. of Public Works for curb-cutting permits for entrances on Route 9 and to the Hadley Board of Selectmen for curb-cutting permits on South Maple Street.

Pyramid officials said they will seek permits for two entrances on Route 9, but believe they will be granted only one.

'We don't get no respect' - dorm Heads-of-Residence

By PATRICIA KEEFE
Collegian Staff

The recent housing controversy has triggered charges of lack of respect from the administration for its housing staff, by the majority of Heads of Residence polled last night.

Most Heads-of-Residence were pleased with the new plan but expressed concern for the way the housing crisis was handled.

Mark Doherty, Hamlin Head of Residence, said, "the revised plan is better because it meets more of the needs of the students."

Dot Burke, Patterson Head of Residence, said she was delighted that students will have a choice of roommates. "If you have to live communally, at least live with someone you like," she added.

Another Head of Residence from Northeast expressed anger that at least nine Northeast—Sylvan Heads-of-Residence were never notified last Thursday of the freeze on room choosing after last week's Whitmore sit-in.

All Heads of Residence were informed formally in staff meetings the next day (Friday) of the revisions.

The same Head-of-Residence questioned the Head of Residence credibility with dorm residents. She explained that to go back four days after presenting the original (and not well received) policy with a new policy, tended to destroy the Heads of Residence credibility with the students.

"The University has never taken the time to consult Heads of Residence about anything across the board," she said. "If you realize you have made a mistake Whitmore, you fix it up, don't blame us."

The strongest reactions dealt with Heads of Residence professionalism and how Whitmore perceived to treat that. One Head of Residence said that Heads of Residence have a better idea of student needs than does Whitmore, but she added the Heads of Residences feel "powerless."

Joyce Chestnut, Head of Residence of Grayson said that she agreed that Heads of Residence are never consulted.

Mark Doherty explained that "Heads of Residence as a whole have a great deal of resentment concerning communication in the processes, concerning what seems to be a propensity to change course in midstream. Heads of Residence are in the position that if Whitmore sneezes, they catch the cold, i.e. they must administer the changes."

He added that the "anger and frustration Heads of Residence feel concerning this issue must be put into context, a growing disenchantment of how their role is viewed by the university. They can see the value of their roles in the dorms, but receive little system-wide support regarding that role."

Ad spawns revisions in dorm choosing policy

By PATRICIA KEEFE
Collegian Staff

The dormitory room choosing policy has undergone yet another revision as a result of a barrage of questions directed at yesterday's full page ad in the Collegian.

The revisions were outlined in a memo sent out yesterday to heads of-residence and area directors by Paul Hamel, assistant to Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury.

The deadline for inter-dorm movement (phase one) has been extended to Friday, April 14.

The memo states that students on exchange programs and internships will be allowed to return to their old dorms but not necessarily to their old rooms. Heads of residence will submit a housing preference card with the word "exchange" written on it for these students.

The memo also states the first notifications of new room assignments should be sent out on May 8 and the mailing should end by May 12.

Students granted housing exemptions will be informed in writing. They will have until May 19, 1978, to inform the Housing Office of either their acceptance or rejection of their exemption. If a student accepts an exemption, he will lose his old assignment, and if he retains his present assignment, he loses his exemption.

Students requesting an exemption should go through room choosing so that if their request is denied, they will be assured their old room.

A major factor in assignment to Butterfield, one of the five smallest dorms, is participating in the 10-meal plan the memo stated, since success of Butterfield's kitchen is dependent on the participation of residents.

Enjoying the beautiful weather yesterday, Steve Touloumtzis juggles atop his partner Tom Hutchenson, while in the Quad. (Staff photo by John LeJeune)

Selectmen hear tenant rep.

By FRAN BASCHE
Collegian Staff

Amherst

A tenant representative to the Amherst Landlord-Tenant Relations committee who has boycotted committee meetings since January, last night told the Board of Selectmen she would meet with the committee to discuss committee procedures.

Committee member Mary Wentworth, of 77 Belchertown Rd., told the selectmen she has been boycotting meetings because the committee lacks the power to force landlords to comply with committee recommendations in grievances from tenants.

The committee received its power to listen to grievances and recommend solutions from the Town Meeting last May. The Town Meeting at the time rejected a proposal to grant more authority to the committee.

The selectmen last night also approved a transfer of location from proprietors of a North Amherst package store wishing to move the business to a shopping center on University Drive.

The selectmen also re-elected Diana Romer as a board chairman and elected selectmen Nathanial Reed as vice-chairman.

Reed questioned Wentworth's complaint that the relations committee lacks authority, saying, "I don't understand your frustration if you knew you didn't have the power when you joined the committee."

Wentworth said the committee members thought the mediating powers granted by the Town Meeting were enough at first, but through the course of the year it became evident more authority was needed.

"We thought we could solve the problems by mediating," Wentworth said, but "it's not fair that the town says there is a committee they can go to when that committee lacks power."

Wentworth said she and the other tenant representative boycotting the meeting, Joanne Levenson, of 61 Grey St., would attend the next meeting in May.

The selectmen approved the relocation of Pete's Package Store from North Amherst to the shopping center now being constructed on University Drive on the Hadley-Amherst town line after an attorney representing the store told the selectmen they should not get involved in controlling competition among businesses.

"It is exceedingly dangerous precedent for the Board of Selectmen to become so integrally involved in the competition between particular stores, representing the interests of some stores against others," Attorney Steven J.J. Weisman told the selectmen.

The board approved the relocation on a 3-2 vote, with Roger Jacque and William Atkins opposing the move. The approval is pending other hearings for site approval.

'Dry' Neag party draws the crowds

"Saturday Night Fever" may be drawing in audiences across the country but "Friday Night Fever" was as much of a success at UMass when 270 persons attended Friday night.

Friday Night Fever was a party without alcoholic beverages allowed, held April 7 in Worcester Dining Commons. The party was sponsored by Northeast Area Government.

The event was an alternative to drinking parties commonly held on campus.

"The action centered around the party room instead of in the bathrooms. People weren't getting sick. The people that worked were relieved," said Diane Lauricella, Northeast President. "We even ran out of soda."

"People were into eating popcorn and ice cream and drinking soda," said Lauricella. "They came knowing it was non-alcoholic."

"The dance contest was successful. Everyone was into it and they were all dancing," Lauricella said. "If it wasn't for the dancing it may not have been such a success, but a lot of people on campus are taking dance courses now and this gave them a chance to practice."

Lauricella said, "Even the janitor and police were happy. We didn't have the tension that sometimes accompanies an alcoholic party and clean-up was easier."

"People were satisfied and surprised with the outcome. They were talking with each other and got the dancing out of their system," Lauricella said.

There was no dress code. Some women were dressed in slinky dresses that might have have come right off the dance floor of the popular movie. Others wore jeans. And one man, dressed in a tight black shirt, gray pants, and a scarf, looked like he was impersonating John Travolta — star of "Saturday Night Fever."

"At first we were a little leery about sponsoring a non-alcoholic party. People were pessimistic about the turnout. But it was so successful, we're hoping this will be an inspiration to people in other areas and Recognized Student Organizations. We're going to have at least one per semester. Next time we'll have a larger room," Lauricella said.

"The purpose of the party," Lauricella said, "was for people who are turned off by alcohol, and to attract people who like to drink but also just like to have a good time. There were people there that got drunk before the party, but they came not expecting a continuous supply of alcohol."

"We weren't out to make a profit," Lauricella said, "we just wanted the bodies there."

A disc jockey from Westfield State College played records and ran the dance contest, featuring music from the 1950s through the 1970s.

First prize winners in the 1970's disco dance contest were Beth Tibbetts of Dwight and Bill McElhiney of Thatcher. Mark Jarican of Thatcher and Diane Dileo of Mary Lyon won first prize in the 1950's dance contest. Second and third prize winners in the dance contests were Julius Ramirez and Carol Nunley, both from Dwight, Paula Harhen of Mary Lyon with Tom Kenney, Turkey, from Hamlin, and Cyndi Page, from Mt. Holyoke and Matt Baker of Chadbourne.

Bus drivers strike; 3 jailed

BOSTON [UPI] — Boston school bus drivers yesterday went on strike and a judge sent three union negotiators to jail for violating his order prohibiting the walkout.

Suffolk Superior Court Judge John T. Ronan ordered all parties back to court this morning when he is expected to sentence the remaining negotiators to the same five-month terms he handed out yesterday.

Rank and file union members, angered by yesterday's proceedings, vowed to stay out of work until their negotiators were freed.

"Unless the drivers get a union contract, they're not going to work," said union lawyer Barry Wilson. "Jailing the drivers will not solve the problem.

One driver, Frank Dettorre, said he would not return to work.

"I'll tell you one thing," he said, "I'm not going back to work until those people are freed. I might even go to jail with them. After what happened today, I don't know if I even want to go back to work."

The strike affects all 25,000 students in Boston and 10,000 to 12,000 of them were absent yesterday, a School Department spokesman said.

Torrado estimated that about 7,000 special needs and kindergarten students bused to school by another company were not affected by the strike.

While the School Committee called the strike illegal, the drivers' union, the United Steelworkers' of America, accused the bus companies of failing to negotiate in good faith.

USWA District Director William J. Foley Sunday called on federal mediator John Martin to declare an impasse in the negotiations.

Spokesman for the Brush Hill Auto Body Co. in Boston and Hudson Bus Lines in Medford said picket lines were set up briefly at both garages before 8 a.m.

Lebanese refugees to return

BEIRUT, Lebanon [AP] — The Lebenese government announced a mass repatriation of refugees to south Lebanon will begin today timed to coincide with the first stage of a partial pullback by the Israeli invaders.

The plan to send Lebanese refugees back is a "test of Israel's real intentions on how serious the withdrawal will be," official Lebanese radio said yesterday.

It added that Lebanon was sticking to its position, outlined over the weekend by Prime Minister Selim el Hoss, that it "will settle for nothing short of a quick, total withdrawal."

About 220,000 Palestinians and Lebanese fled their homes after Isreali troops occupied 500 square miles of south Lebanon in their drive against Palestinian guerrilla positions that began March 15. An estimated 14,000 Lebanese and 40,000 Palestinian civilians have returned on their own, despite a lack of electricity and water.

Refugees remaining in Beirut and the coastal town of Sidon are to be given a month's supply of food to encourage their return to the south. The Lebanese government regards their presence in those overcrowded cities as a potential source of serious unrest.

The broadcast said the first convoy of returning refugees would leave Sidon, 25 miles south of this capital, this morning in 20 buses and trucks each accompanied by an International Red Cross representative and a Lebanese civil defense corpsman.

News in brief

Kidnap victim found under Belgian dump

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — Searchers alerted by an anonymous telephone tip found the body of kidnapped multimillionaire Baron Charles-Victor Bracht under a pile of garbage in a village dump yesterday. Authorities said he had ben dead since shortly after he was abducted a month ago.

Crown Prosecutor Julien van Hoeylandt said the family of the 63-year-old businessman never paid a ransom — it was believed the kidnappers demanded about $2 million.

Van Hoeylandt said someone speaking bad English telephoned Bracht's son, Theodore, on Sunday night, told him his father was dead and that a sketch could be found near a country bridge showing the location of the body.

The rough map directed searchers to a pond-side dump at the village of Oelegem, six miles from the Bracht chateau in an Antwerp suburb. Villagers and police using searchlights found the body hidden under a heap of garbage.

The anonymous call came after the younger Bracht made a radio and television appeal to the kidnappers Saturday, saying his father's health was fragile and asking for evidence he was still alive.

The Belgian nobleman was kidnapped the morning of March 7 as he parked his red Jaguar in an underground garage near his downtown Antwerp offices. There were no witnesses.

House barely OKs crisis farm aid bill

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Senate yesterday approved a multi-billion dollar emergency farm aid bill, but the 49-41 vote fell far short of the two-thirds margin that would be needed to override a potential presidential veto.

The bill was sent promptly to the House, where Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., said he would recommend passage despite the veto threat.

Foley also predicted, however, a House vote tentatively set for tomorrow will be close.

"It could go either way," he said. "It may well pass, but I do not expect a two-thirds vote."

Harold Thrall of Guymon, Okla., one of the hundreds of farm strike movement members lined up at the Capitol during the Senate vote, told a reporter that if the bill doesn't pass, "we farmers may be gone from the face of the earth, and maybe your foreign countries or big corporations that are not nearly as efficient will take it over — and they will tell you what the price will be."

Tuition tax credits arouse lobby groups

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Tax credits for school tuition survived an initial test in the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday despite a strong last-minute opposition from the administration and private education organizations.

The committee, holding its first drafting session on the tuition credit plan, voted 24-13 against a motion to kill the proposal.

Republicans on the committee are solidly behind tax credits, but Democrats are divided.

In a hearing room crammed with pressure groups — some wearing buttons saying "Stop Tuition Tax Credits" — committee debate centered on whether tax credits should be limited to colleges or should go to elementary and secondary schools as well.

There also is a question as to whether credits for church school students would be constitutional.

UN Soviet quits; defection uncertain

UNITED NATIONS [UPI] — The highest Soviet official in the United Nations has left his office due to "differences with his government," a U.N. spokesman announced yesterday.

It was unclear immediately whether Arkady N. Shevchenko, under-secretary general for political and Security Council affairs, actually had defected.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Tom Reston said Shevchenko had notified the State Department through his attorney that he would not return to the Soviet Union.

Other State Department officials said Shevchenko has not asked for political asylum. However, they stressed this question would not arise as long as he was attached to the United Nations and, as such, legally residing in the United States.

Shevchenko left his U.N. office Friday.

Diplomatic sources said his wife and daughter left New York Sunday for Moscow.

The U.N. spokesman said the 47-year-old Shevchenko "is considered to be on leave" pending clarification.

In his post, Shevchenko was in charge of the organizational setup of the U.N. Security Council, highest political body of the United Nations. His office handles all official communications with the Council and makes the practical arrangements for its meetings.

Commission advises military pay overhaul

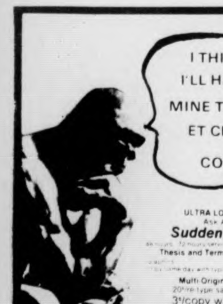
WASHINGTON [UPI] — A blue-ribbon presidential commission, saying the military pay system "is in trouble," called yesterday for ending the lifetime pensions traditionally provided to 20-year veterans.

President Carter said he would give the recommendations careful study.

Charles J. Zwick, chairman of the panel, said military retirement pay should be changed so pensions would start when retirees reach the age of 62. He urged the administration to waste no time in sending Congress legislation containing the proposed changes because "there are big dollars here that can be saved."

But Carter, meeting with commission members in the Oval Office, said he would wait until January to submit specific proposals to Congress so he can study the recommendations thoroughly.

The panel's report outlined a sweeping overhaul of the entire military pay system.



ULTRA LOW PRICES
Ask About
Sudden Service
Thesis and Term Paper Experts
Multi Originals in April
3¢/copy with typing

et cetera copy corp.

carriage shops, amherst – 549-0566

TWENTY Work Study
4-H Summer Camp
Positions Available

From the Berkshires to Cape Cod in Six Mass. locations. Recreation leaders, Waterfront, Counselors, Environmental Awareness, Arts and Crafts. For more information, Contact Mike McCusker, 4-HOffice, 219 Stockbridge Hall, UMass. 545-2646

Ex FBI chief charged for hunting radicals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former FBI chief L. Patrick Gray and two of his senior assistants were indicted yesterday for ordering agents to conduct break-ins, tap telephones and read private mail in their hunt for Weatherman radicals in the early 1970s.

Attorney General Griffin Bell said only the "higher-ups" of the bureau should face charges for such illegal activities.

Bell said for that reason he was dropping charges against John Kearney, the FBI supervisor in New York who until yesterday had been the only person accused in the bureau's fight against the radical group. Kearney, he said, was only carrying out orders.

But Bell also said less serious disciplinary action will be taken against 70 people, including FBI agents and Justice Department officials.

Gray, associate FBI director Mark Felt, and former FBI intelligence chief Edward S. Miller were charged in U.S. District Court with 32 overt acts of conspiring to violate civil rights in their surveillance of suspected associates of the Weatherman radicals, Bell said.

Justice Department officials said the maximum penalty is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

"There has been uncovered ... documentary proof that officials at the highest levels of the FBI were aware of, and did in fact authorize, certain illegal activities in the FBI's pursuit of the Weatherman fugitives," government lawyers said in New York, where U.S. District Judge Kevin Duffy dismissed charges against Kearney.

Bell said among those facing disciplinary action is J. Wallace LaPrade, now assistant director of the New York City FBI office, "for his conduct in these matters and during the course of the investigation."

The disciplinary actions might range from letters of censure to forced resignations, Bell said.

Gray was acting director of the FBI euring the time covered by the indictment because the Senate, angry over his actions in the Watergate scandal, including his burning of files that Richard Nixon's aides gave him, had refused to approve his nomination. The nomination later was withdrawn.

Gray has denied ever approving an illegal act, particularly burglaries.

The Weathermen broke away from the left-wing Students for a Democratic Society, and took credit for a series of violent actions beginning with a window-breaking rampage in Chicago in November, 1969. They also took credit for a series of bombings of public and corporate buildings between 1969 and 1972 — including the Capitol, State Department and the Pentagon.

The FBI focused a special counter-intelligence program on the group. Kearney headed Squad 47 in New York, which took the job of neutralizing the Weather Underground.

Attorney General Griffin Bell

Justice Department lawyers said an FBI official was ready to testify that he communicated to Kearney "the personal wishes of then-FBI Director Hoover that any available means be utilized to catch Weatherman fugitives."

The grand jury's list of "overt acts" in the alleged conspiracy of Gray, Felt and Miller included meetings at various locations, a talk Gray gave to a group of FBI officials, memos and reports to Washington about specific break-ins.

About Oct. 6, 1972, in Quantico, Va., FBI agents attending a training course on the Weathermen "were lectured on how to conduct surreptitious entries," said one charge.

Felt and Miller said in 1976 that Gray ordered a policy of "surreptitious entry" — breaking into homes or offices and photographing papers — resumed in 1972. Hoover had stopped the practice in 1966.

Senate masses to approve MBM special commission

BOSTON (UPI) — The Massachusetts Senate yesterday overwhelmingly approved creation of a special commission to investigate alleged corruption in the awarding of state and county building contracts.

Routine enactment by the House and Senate was expected later yesterday.

Senate President Kevin B. Harrington, D-Salem, a key figure in an ongoing legislative probe into charges he accepted an illegal $2,000 contribution from McKee-Berger-Mansueto, absented himself during the 90-minute Senate debate.

Senate Ways and Means Chairman James A. Kelly Jr., D-Oxford, another key figure in the same probe, voted for the measure but abstained from debating it.

The Senate gave the measure initial approval on a roll call. Harrington and Sen. Roger L. Bernasche, D-Chicopee, were absent and didn't vote. Sen. Robert Hall, R-Lunenburg, a member of the Post Audit subcommittee investigating MBM, cast the only negative vote.

The bill, filed originally by Reps. Philip Johnston, (D) Marshfield, and Andrew Card, R-Holbrook, sailed through the Senate Ways and Means Committee in less than 30 minutes and reached the Senate floor unchanged from the form it assumed after several House amendments last week.

Sen. Robert E. Mclarthy, DEast Bridgewater, a member of the Senate Ethics Committee, attempted to amend the measure to close all meetings where criminal allegations might be made.

The amendment, killed on a 7-13 standing vote, was similar to a proposed change offered in the House.

Senate Republicans were concerned about the composition of the commission since Democratic officeholders would make all but one of the appointments and the last appointment — that by the head of the Massachusetts Bar Association — was also likely to be a Democrat.

Under the proposal, the secretary of state would get two appointments — a retired justice of the Supreme Judicial or Superior Court, and one lay person. The attorney general or his designee would be a member, the auditor would appoint an architect and a registered engineer and the governor would name either the dean of a law school or the president of a private college or university in the state.

Hall questioned the propriety of including Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti on the commission since Bellotti has admitted helping PCM Inc., a company formed by two former MBM employees, obtain a construction management contract from Essex Conty commissioners.

"He (Bellotti) played Peabody's role — the same role Peabody played for MBM," Hall said, a reference to former Gov. Endicott Peabody's work as MBM's lozbyist in helping the firm obtain its $6 million state contract.

Senate Minority Leader John R. Parker, R-Taunton, tried a half dozen times to force an explanation from Senate Judiciary Chairman Alan D. Sisitsky, D-Springfield, about the propriety of Bellotti being on a commission that might want to investigate the contract he helped PCM obtain.

After Senate Majority Leader William M. Bulger, D-Boston, ordered the vote be taken, thus closing debate, Parker stood again, sputtering, "Mr. President, Mr. President."

"Sor what purpose does the Senator rise? A roll call has been ordered," Bulger said.

Killer Lawrence blaze might involve arson

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — A fire which killed seven persons, including a mother and her five children, was set deliberately, authorities ruled yesterday, making their deaths a case of murder.

"We have ruled out all accidental or natural causes," said Fire Chief Richard Lacey of Lawrence. The blaze gutted a three-story, wooden frame apartment building early Sunday.

"The ruling is a fire of incendiary nature," he said.

Maria Carillo, 32, her five children aged 2 to 13 years, and Roberto Febre, 30, who lived with them, died in the flames in their third-story apartment. The fire drove out 28 occupants of the building into a sub-freezing dawn. No one else was injured.

Lacey said authorities have questioned a Carillo family nephew, Tito Rodriguez, the only occupant of the third floor to flee safely, and have "been in touch" with Mrs. Carillo's husband, from whom she was separated.

"The nephew claimed he awakened the mother, then panicked and got out of the building," said Lacey.

Lacey said investigation showed the two adults had time to get dressed and start to wake the five children, who died in their beds.

"Fire travels very rapidly," said Lacey. "Whatever time they thought they had, they lost."

However, Lacey said authorities had no suspects.

He said police were checking a report from another occupant of the house that Mrs. Carillo had said a man had telephoned her with threats to burn up everybody.

Lacey said evidence indicated the fire started in the first floor stairway. Experts found no sign of accelerants, such as gasoline or paper, to help along the flames.

"The deaths would become murder," said Lacey. "If it can be determined the act was premeditated, it could become murder one, or first degree."

Essex County District Attorney John A. Burke said a special arson task force was interviewing neighbors in the heavily Spanish-speaking section.

State Fire Marshall Joseph A. O'Keefe said the fire was of a "suspicious or an incendiary nature."

SPRING DAY

TUESDAY, APRIL 18
Rain Date April 19
Sponsored by BETA CHI
11-6 Behind the Stadium

FEATURING
Bricker Band
Prauna
Mystic Traveller
Cash (formerly Bailey Bros.)

hot dogs
beer & soda
prizes

CLASSES UNOFFICIALLY CANCELLED
no cans or bottles

Nomination pape
President
Undergra rudent
Gover Association
able in 420 SU
are due April 19.

CANCELLED

Notices

PSYCH MAJORS

Elections for new CUSP officers will be held tomorrow, Wed. at 7:30 p.m. in 204 Tobin. Everyone is welcome.

PHOTO CO-OP RETAIL STORE HOURS

Membership not required for any purchase. Open M—F 10:15—3:30. Located in SUB 321.

PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB

A meeting will be held for all those interested in finding out about P.T. on Tues. April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in NOPE Rm. 22.

JOIN THE

Northeast Area in this week's blood drive Tues. and Thurs. 2—8 p.m. Thatcher House Basement. Save a life today.

CONN VALLEY FREEDOM OF CHOICE COMMITTEE

Discussion of the upcoming National Convention to Rewrite the Constitution and ban reproductive freedom of choice — can it be prevented? Wed. April 12, 7:30 p.m. Rm 165, CC.

BUDGET PROTEST RSO

Groups who have been refused budget hearings are urged to attend a tactical planning meeting for challenging Budget Committee's decision, Wed. 12:30 p.m. Rm 426 SU.

SKI CLUB

Important meeting for all persons interested in working on the Steering Committee this summer. Tues. April 11 at 8:00 p.m. in office.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Rm 308 Grad Research Center low rise (this week) tonight, 7:30 p.m. Come praise the Lord.

BREAD AND WINE

Simple candlelight communion in the round for all who are seeking some depth, renewed faith, a circle of fellow seekers in the Spirit: tonight from 8:15 to 8:40 p.m. in 428 c SU. Celebrated by UCF campus minister, Pete Sabey.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION

All welcome to 428 SU tonight from 7:15—8:15 p.m. for the weekly UCF exploration of a passage of two of scripture, facilitated by campus minister Pete Sabey.

HYPERTENSION SCREENING

Anyone interested in helping us with our hypertension screening program please come to the meeting today at 5:00 p.m. in UHC 440 or call Dale 6-7418.

HANDICAPPED STUDENT COLLECTIVE

Meeting, Tues. April 11, 1978 at 7:30 p.m. in 804 CC.

MEETING

For all people who stutter or are interested in stuttering, meeting tonight in Arnold House. Call Joe for info 665-3205.

PRO-CHOICE ACTION COALITION MEETING

Thurs. night, April 13, 8 p.m. Rm 175 in CC. We need your help in planning lobbying action to prevent the medicaid cutoffs for abortions. If you have an interest in helping but can't make the meeting contact Julie Wolfe 256-0104 or 545-0800.

FS&N CLUB MEETING

Wed. April 12, 7:30 p.m. Chenoworth 227. Film: "Bottle Babies" and club meeting. Refreshments will be served. Open to all FS&N majors.

COFFEEHOUSE

Musician and singers wanted for a Coffeehouse to be held 4-23. Call Ellen 6-4868.

CHESS

The UMass chess club meets tonight in Rm. 808 CC from 7 p.m. to closing. All are welcome.

TWO ACTORS NEEDED!

Student doing INP study, Albee's Zoo Story needs 2 dedicated persons for 1 month to perform in Fin Project. Mike 6-7982 or 412 Coolidge.

PREDATOR-PREY INTERACTIONS IN RELATION TO THE GYPSY MOTH

is a lecture by Dr. Harvey Smith, USDA Forest Service. To be presented Wed. April 12 at 4 p.m. in Fernald Hall Conference Room at 4 p.m. Refreshments at 3:30 p.m.

COSMIC WIMPOUT TOURNAMENT

The 3rd annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament will be held on Thurs., April 20 at the Blue Wall — $100 First Prize. Anyone can win!!!

Come in today!
the Scholl
Exercise Sandals
Season
is here!

You've never worn anything quite so comfortable. Patented Scholl Exercise Sandals cradle your feet on cool, sculptured beechwood soles . . . hugged gently by foam-cushioned straps. And smart-looking! You can choose from either light or dark-toned wood and from a selection of colorful straps that go with anything you wear. Scholl Exercise Sandals . . . they're better than barefoot! Kick on a pair today!

ON SALE NOW!
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

and at a discount price!
only $12.95

UNITED
TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE, INC.

all make car and truck
transmissions

Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged

236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst

Thursday Nite til 11:30pm
MICHELOB NIGHT
40¢ Drafts 60¢ Bottles
Prizes

MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
Sunday HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

AMHERST CYCLE SHOP

Get your bike ready for spring:
general check $8 (on 10-speed).

See our new Fuji bikes
Rampar 1027- a quality 10-speed
for $117.95

253 Triangle St. 549-3729

Don't get caught with high
winter heating bills!

2 bedroom garden apartments from $255
Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE-
heat and hot water

NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS

For Your Convenience.
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

★ Minimum 10 month
lease available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

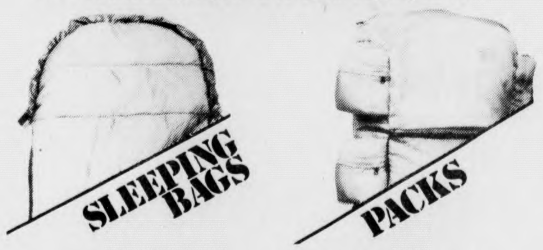
Take first entrance.
Rental Hours—Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS

CLOTHING
TENTS

ANNUAL SPRING
SALE
 Wednesday, April 12 to Saturday, April 15.



Save 10-50%

BOATING EQUIPMENT, RUNNING SHOES,
KITS, HIKING BOOTS, AND MUCH, MUCH MORE.
(Winter Rental Gear 30-70% Off List)

Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504

VISA
master charge THE INTERBANK CARD

Southwest Assembly
GENERAL ELECTIONS!!

Nomination papers now available for President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Communications Coord.

Nominations due April 18—Election is April 27.

Any resident of Southwest can run

Call 5-0960 for more information!!!

NOT JUST TYPING!
•Word Processing
•Copying •Typing
29 S. Pleasant St. Amherst
256-6736 M-F 10-6 S 10-2
Valley typing

FIRST TIME
ON CAMPUS

THE MOST HILARIOUS
WILDEST MOVIE
IS HERE!
"Insanely funny, outrageous and irreverent." PLAYBOY MAGAZINE
A Ken Shapiro Film
THE GROOVE TUBE
Color
Films Incorporated

April 12, CCA.
5:00, 7:00, 9:00,
11:00

The Collegian
is looking for a
Finance Manager
for the next school year.
Duties include the management of accounts receivable.
See Eric Nickerson or Laurie Wood for more details.

The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity employer

Charlie's
HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢
TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

30%
OFF
SPECIAL SELECTION: SPRING
DRESSES
THROUGH APRIL 15

BUS STOP
197 N. Pleasant St./Amherst/Mass./256-0140

Come to Boston for your Advanced Degrees in the Arts and Sciences

Northeastern University in Boston offers many full-time and part-time programs leading to M.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees in the Arts and Sciences. Upon acceptance, you may begin most programs in September, January, March, or June

Masters of Arts in Economics*
English History Psychology*
Political Science
Sociology*
Applied Behavioral Analysis

Masters of Science in Biology*
Chemistry* Mathematics*
Physics*
Health Science
Economic Policy and Planning

Masters of Public Administration
Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study in Literature
*Ph.D. program also available

Return coupon for Bulletin giving full details of programs, courses, and financial aid available

Send to: DC
Graduate School of Arts and Sciences
Northeastern University
345 Richards Hall
360 Huntington Avenue
Boston, Massachusetts 02115

Name
Address
City State Zip

Northeastern University

Letters

Armbands against Bakke decision

To the Editor:

Sometime this month, the Federal Supreme Court will rule on the Bakke Case and the whole myth of "reverse discrimination". If the ruling is in favor of Bakke, the "powers that be" in this country will attempt to wipe out affirmative action programs of all kinds that minorities fought for and won in the major struggles of the '50's and '60's, and condemn minorities to second class status.

As part of organizing resistance to this political attack, the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade is organizing students across the country to wear armbands Wednesday, April 12. The two slogans for Armband Day are: "Minorities and Whites Unite to Smash the Bakke Decision!" and "Fight All Attacks on Oppressed Nationalities!"

We call on all UMass students to join with others across the country in taking a stand against Bakke. Pick up armbands at the Student Union, Campus Center and New Africa House.

Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade
Third World Cultural Center
Van Jackson
Office of Third World Affairs
WEBD (radio station)
Pinky Batiste (student trustee)
Brian DeLima (SGA Speaker of Sentate-elect)
Everywoman's Center Staff

Has Collegian sold out?

To the Editor:

Recently the Collegian has served as a mouthpiece for people who may, in the eyes of many unsuspecting readers, appear to be mini-Woodwards and Bernsteins, gallantly enlightening the public about the heinous political actions of their leaders. I support the exposure of the misuse of students' monies and other such illegal and unethical activities. I do not, however, support the Collegian's allowing people who have clout with the Collegian, the student senate, even the administration to use the paper as a tool to vent their personal objections to others' characters. I am opposed to people with "titles" being allowed to take advantage of the widely read campus newspaper to publically instill in readers their idiocyncratic dislikes for others.

The recent articles about Brian DeLima have been downright nasty. They are filled with cheap personal shots presented as being in presumed correlation with political concerns. Has the Collegian sold out to sensational gossip? I read the paper daily and I feel as if I've been swept up in a soap opera with the main character's fate dependent upon the perhaps biased editorial staff. I have read "finger-pointing" journalism, unsupported allegations, and vicious quotes:

"There are a lot of things compiled [against DeLima] that are sleazy and questionable." [Jon Hite]

"He's slick. You can be ten feet away and not know your throat is being slit." [Jay Martus] Martus' recent Collegian article reflects this attitude concisely.

What do these colloquial ambiguities mean to the readers? Is the fact that these people are political figures supposed to give the statements more credibility? How politically relevant is it that DeLima may or may not have made passes at Karen Kelly? What does she mean by saying DeLima "shits all over you?" To me it means that DeLima "shits all over" Ms. Kelly and I find no newsworthy content in the personal relationship between the two.

People inside and outside of the student senate are aware of the clannish, oftentimes venemous political and interpersonal behavior of certain members of the body. I do not think that these personal dislikes, unverified rumors, and backstabbing remarks should be publically spewed forth through a powerful, influential mass medium as the Collegian.

I hope that the paper will inform the students of DeLima's political stance on the current issues more extensively. I am aware that the paper's editorial board does not care for DeLima. I read your editorial headlined, "Remove Brian DeLima". How many people are on the board? Ten. A majority of ten people out of thousands have the power to highly influence and manipulate the public's view of one person.

Is this a self-interest newspaper or an objective, socially owned one, showing different sides of an issue? Where are the quotes from DeLima's supporters? Did the Collegian talk to any? By quoting only DeLima in his own defense we are given the illusion that he is alone. I cannot believe that he has no supporters, but by reading the Collegian there's no substantial way to find out.

The Collegian is the students' newspaper and I hope it remains that way. I would like to see more objective, responsible journalism. If I want the "Real, Untold Story," I'll read the "Star" or the "National Inquirer".

Carol Mellen

More room for cartoonists

To the Editor:

Since many persons rely on the Collegian for information and interpretation about recent events involving Pierpont, I offer brief comment upon Pat Irwin's letter in Monday's issue.

Pat was a member of the house committee but resigned mid-way through the series of discussions. The "lack of communication" she cites was not a lack of availability, openness to hear out differing views, or willingness to invest long, late hours on my part [including Spring Break]. We reached a large measure of agreement on the final document with significant compromises on both sides along the way.

In the end, I differed with the committee on some specific points in the "social contract" section but felt that they should remain in the text, both to establish jurisdiction for the dorm's own Judicial Board and because the whole Pierpont controversy came to a head due to chronic inability to gain from house residents reasonable compliance with university policies and regulations. In light of a deteriorating situation for house staff and the request of Inquiry Program staff to be moved out of Pierpont, I decided that major improvement in the house was imperative. Why should Pierpont not live by the same rules other dorms and students have to obey?

Ms. Irwin objects to various aspects of the proposed social contract. Each point she raises is based on one or both of the drafts submitted by Pierpont residents during our negotiations — e.g. "Every resident must sign the social contract if s-he wishes to live in the dorm ... Every individual be responsible for the security and physical maintenance of the dorm [ie. it is the individual's duty to prevent or report any destructive activity including personal harassment, etc.]" — Conley-Saldinger Proposal, page one.

Pierpont did not have only "one night to decide whether or not to accept the final proposal." It was circulated throughout the house for discussion the previous Wednesday. Monday was the only evening on which a community meeting could be planned which all residents had a fair chance to attend. [Less than a quarter of the house came.] The committee agreed the week before that some form of vote would be taken on Tuesday and should have made this known to the house.

Pierpont is not an island unto itself. It cannot abide only by such rules as it consents to. The rights and welfare of many students, staff, parents, and townspeople were adversely affected by Pierpont behavior during the Fall Term. Their reports and complaints to me underlie my recent decisions. These persons were not sitting-in at Whitmore last week but they had as much stake in the outcome as the protesters who rallied to the cause of Pierpont's "mistreatment."

Those who claim victory after the sit-in now face the test of making good on their claim that Pierpont residents are capable of responsible conduct, respect for the rights of all, and structured self-governance within the framework of university regulations and staff roles.

Jim Matlack
Master-Director Southwest

Rebuttal to a rebuttal

To the Editor:

The comics page is probably the most popular feature of the Collegian. Unfortunately, this year the Collegian has cut back on the number of comic strips it prints. I feel the Collegian has been unwise in this and should either make more space or remove some unpopular, poorly done cartoons to make room for new people. I have been trying to convince the Collegian to do this, even by circulating a petition. Monday I met with the managing editor to discuss the problem. If you are reading this letter Tuesday morning, it means that the Collegian has again refused to allow new comic strips.

Last semester, the managing editor was Bob Higgins. He decided to use only four student comic strips, and all four spaces went to the cartoonists from last year. When one of them quit, about 50 people submitted samples to take his place. Even with so many deserving applicants Higgins would not allow more than the one open space.

This semester there was again one space, which went to Keith "K" O'Brien. O'Brien had a strip two years ago called "The Bionic Student", and one last year called "Batwing". The current managing editor, Dorothy Clark, apparently did not know this when she chose the strip. Again, there were many applicants, but no more space.

Since then, editor Clark has admitted to me that the O'Brien strip, and the "Wanderer" by Marc Rollins, are not being read. I have a petition signed by 275 people stating that these two strips should be removed from the Collegian to make room for other people. I have spoken with several dozen people who have tried to get in the Collegian, or would apply if space were open. Surely, with public opinion obviously in favor of more comics, and so many interested people waiting to be printed, the Collegian can make more room.

This is your newspaper. We pay for it with your SATF. If we want more comics or better ones, it can and should be done. The Collegian staff has been unfair to applicants for space. [Last semester, the "Wanderer" was used instead of my strip, even though Higgins admitted my work was better. Rollins had submitted six weeks worth of strips, to my one week. Higgins used the "Wanderer" because it was easier for him.]

The Collegian is abusing the public by printing "Back Again" and the "Wanderer", two badly done strips which few people read. If you want to let the Collegian know how you feel, you can write to the editor, or speak directly to Dorothy Clark in the Collegian office. If you, or someone you know, would like to do a comic strip, I encourage you to go to the Collegian and tell them so. With luck, the Collegian will respond to this kind of public pressure. After all, it's supposed to be a student newspaper.

Joseph Carroll

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

Movement not over

By JONATHAN KOZOL

Many young people, in the past few years, have started to accept a quite persuasive, but extremely dangerous, idea — one that many people in the right-wing of this country dearly hope they will believe. This is the idea that something very special, once known as the "Movement," is all over.

There are at least three points about this issue which should be re-stated loud and clear:

The "Movement," first of all — whatever press-reports might seem to say — is not something that "began," like a mushroom popping up after a rainstorm, one day back in 1960 or in 1963 and ended on a warm spring day in 1972 when Richard Nixon told us it was time to give up on our conscience and go back to class.

The whole idea of social struggle, whether it is called a "rent-strike," "protest action," "student boycott," "union-battle" or full-fledged "rebellion," started long before the Nineteen Sixties. Few of us ever get much chance in public school to hear about the major labor-union battles of the early Nineteen Hundreds. Few students ever hear about the genuine labor leaders of the working-poor. Fewer, still, ever had the opportunity to read about the first authentic grass-roots labor-movement in the U.S. — the I.W.W. — or "the Wobblies," as they more often are described. The songs and stories of those decades are a lot more thrilling, in my own belief, than most of the tapioca pudding that the textbooks tell us about Samuel Gompers — rolling out his banal ideology along with his cigars.

Boston was a center of the anti-slavery revolt. Several of the greatest leaders — Frederick Douglas, Wendell Phillips, Theodore Parker — all were prominent here. Yet very few students that I meet in public schools have ever heard their names. Once I taught within a public school that had been named for Garrison. Ironically, this school, which has been named for Boston's leading fighter on behalf of black Emancipation, has been — until the Federal Court decisions of the past two years — one of the most despised and wholly segregated schools in the U.S.

One day within that school, I asked one hundred students if they knew something about the man for whom their school was named. Not one out of one hundred had the slightest notion of his views.

All the more reason, then, that we establish, here and now, that what some people call the "Movement" is not something that began ten, twelve or fifteen years ago and died to weariness in 1972. The idea of permanent struggle in the cause of justice goes back, in this nation, to the women-organizers of the Massachusetts mills, to Emma Goldman, Big Bill Haywood, Joe Hill, Woody Guthrie and their kin. We must not let the press, the textbook writers or intimidated School Boards cut away the roots of our real heritage of struggle and revolt. The "Movement" of the Nineteen Sixties, certainly, is over in some special areas of public strife — but the struggle of decent people, organized to fight injustice, has been going on a long, long time. If young people have the strength and nerve, there is no reason why it can't go on forever.

A second point is that reckless statement, heard so often nowadays, that "kids are quiet in all sections of the nation," is, in literal terms NOT SO. I have visited now, and talked at length with kids, at two or three hundred colleges and high schools in the past five years. I have found students working hard for decent issues everywhere I went. In some cases, students are supporting the Farm Workers. In others, they are fighting for the rights of women. In others still, they fight to stand up in support of ethical teachers who have been suspended or expelled.

The truth is not that students are less active now than they were back in 1964. The truth is -- they are far more active, but in battles far less grandiose and less flamboyant, battles which call less for massive crowds and public demonstrations than for demanding and consecutive commitment.

The press, of course, does not pay much attention to the details of less glamorous and unromantic struggles of this kind: partly out of lack of sheer "news-interest," partly too out of the fear that they will give the same idea to others.

This leads to one final point: to a large degree, the press not only tells about the truth, but also makes it so. If T.V. keeps on saying that "the kids are quiet now," thousands of students start to say: "I guess it must be so." If TIME devotes a cover-story, as they did a few years back, to something that they designate "The Cooling of America," thousands of students (understandably) respond by saying to each other: "Well, I guess we must be cooling down ... "

The point is that it isn't true unless we want it to be true. If TIME, owned by friends and allies of the richest people in this land, tells us things are "cooling down," it's up to us to "heat things up" — and prove it isn't so.

The student-scene (the "mood on campus," as reporters like to say) isn't something long ago and far away, congealed in Heaven and decided on T.V. Editors in those big skyscraper buildings in New York don't know any more about "the student scene" than do the mice and squirrels in New Hampshire. The only people anywhere who know the student scene are those who are the student scene. If you are a student, then THAT SCENE IS YOU.

History is not something that is DONE to you or me. History is made by men and women. It will be changed by us (by you and me) as well, if it is ever changed at all. If there is a battle to be fought against racism, hunger, war and sickness and the exploitation of the poor, it is a battle which depends upon the solidarity of young and old, of black and brown and white, of rebel rich and devastated poor, right here and now in our own hour, in our own nation, and by our own energy, exhilaration and our nerve.

Jonathan Kozol, a National Book Award winner, will be speaking April 18 at the Fine Arts Center.

©1978, The Philadelphia Inquirer The Washington Post Writers Group
AUTH
FOR GOD'S SAKE, MAN, DIG AN OIL WELL
O.P.E.C.
THIRD WORLD

Pseudo-Marxists

By YITZHAK SANTIS

International terrorism has gripped the world by the throat. The perpetrators of these heinous crimes try to pass themselves off as 'freedom fighters' with socialist or communist ideologies. Such groups as the Red Brigade in Italy, the IRA in Ireland have cropped up in Western Europe. But the most fraudulent one, as far as Marxist ideology is concerned, is the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

The PLO and friends try to pass off this terrorist organization as a socialist revolutionary group and their acts of violence as those committed by desperate people in a desperate situation. However, the PLO most aptly fits the description of being a racist, pseudo-revolutionary organization that initiates actions worthy of the Gestapo.

A quick look at the PLO's record for the past ten years will put this into proper perspective. There have been incidents on six continents in which the PLO and its affiliates killed 1,131 people, injured 2,471 and held 2,755 hostage. These terrorist actions included 308 bombings in 30 countries; 216 attempted bombings in 26 countries; 180 shootings in 11 countries; 11 assassinations in 9 countries; 17 attempted murders in 11 countries and 19 hijackings in 14 countries. A decade's reality: seven terrorist actions per month; one incident every four days; nine murders each month; one victim every three days; 20 people maimed each month; 22 human beings held monthly as hostages.

The PLO and its supporters justify all of this as a 'revolutionary, nationalist movement for Palestinian self-determination.' They try to pass the PLO off as guerillas or commandos fighting for an 'egalitarian, secular, democratic, socialist state' and all that entails. This can only be seen as a myth in light of the above mentioned 'scorecard' and the following facts.

In their search for a 'democratic, egalitarian, secular, socialist state,' the PLO, in need of money, went to a nation where the king's word is law and the proletariat lives in the quagmire that is feudalism. This country is Saudi Arabia and the man in charge is King Khalid. Another interesting aspect of this lovely little kingdom is the Black African slave market that flourishes there. Although Prince Feisal, in a 'radical' move, officially abolished slavery in 1962 (!) the Anti-Slavery Society and the U.N. Commission on Human Rights estimates there are still between 400,000 and 500,000 black slaves in Saudi Arabia today. Many of these black slaves are owned by the king himself and are put to work in the oil fields doing the dirtiest, heaviest menial labor. Other slaves are owned by the wealthier families as house servants.

The gross national product of Saudi Arabia stands in excess of $40 billion per year. This enormous sum coes from its vast oil fields where these black slaves provide cheap labor. Each year $40 million is given to the PLO in the form of subsidies so it can continue its murderous rampage throughout the world. Financially supported by the profits made from the exploitation of black slaves, the PLO, through this connection, is racist at its very core.

In order for the PLO to carry on its so-called 'revolution,' they must have weapons to fight with. The nation where Yassir Arafat chooses to do his shopping is the Soviet Union, a nation described by many people; socialist, communist and capitalist alike, as being an agressive, imperialistic, bureaucratic and elitist regime where the ideologies of Marx no longer (if they ever did) exist. The Soviet regime is guilty of huge human rights violations, especially against its Jewish citizens, and has become capitalistic in its economic policies. A good example of this is seen in the $100 million profit the Soviets will make from the selling of TV rights to the American TV network NBC for the 1980 Olympics.

The weapons the Soviet Union sells to the PLO include light arms, hand grenades, mortars, bazookas, heavy artillery, surface-to-surface missiles, surface-to-air missiles and the list goes on. The Soviet regime has also agreed, in the recent talks between Arafat and Brezhnev, to open commando training camps, exclusively for PLO recruits, in East Germany, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

The very essence of the PLO's activities, i.e. terrorism, goes in direct opposition to Karl Marx's ideas and methodology of a revolution. In an essay entitled Neue Rheinische Zeitung No. 4 (1850), Marx expounded on his idea of revolution. He wrote: "It goes without saying that these conspirators do not at all confine themselves to organizing the revolutionary proletariat. Their business consists precisely on forestalling the revolutionary process, in driving it artificially towards a crisis, in improvising a revolution without the condition for revolution. For them, the only condition for revolution is the sufficient organization of their conspiracy ... They seize upon new discoveries which are supposed to achieve revolutionary miracles: incendiary bombs, demolition machines of magical effectiveness, riots that are to be the more miraculous and surprising the less rational ground they have." In short, the artificiality of the condition for revolution has been the refusal of the Arab nations to help the Palestinians in the refugee camps; by their refusal to integrate the Palestinians into their societies as Israel integrated into its society the Jewish refugees that were expelled from the Arab nations without compensation for property loss; and by the maintenance of the squalid conditions of the refugee camps by the PLO which has the financial resources to deal with this problem effectively. Marx's sarcastic references to 'incendiary bombs and demolition machines' clearly shows his views on terrorism as a vehicle for revolution.

Through its political alliance with the Soviet regime and with racist Saudi Arabia; with their terrorist activities standing directly opposite to Marx's methodology of revolutionary tactics, the PLO, claiming Marxist ideologies, is easily seen as a racist, pseudo-revolutionary organization. Or in simpler terms, a Marxist abortion.

Yitzhak Santis is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS. Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valêrie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

DVP presents

Andrea Dworkin

Radical Feminist author of
Our Blood, Womanhating

on

"Protective Oppression: What the Right Offers Women"

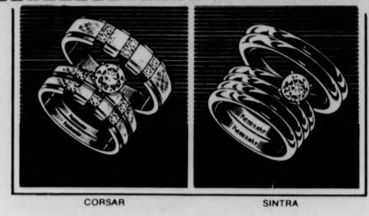
Tuesday, April 11
8:00 p.m.

Mahar
Aud.

SAVE 20%

SAVE 20%



CORSAR SINTRA

COLLEGE STUDENTS ONLY
Present your student ID card and save 20% on the purchase of a diamond at the Diamond Showcase.
Directions: Take Interstate 91 to Hartford, then 5 miles west on Interstate 84 to Exit 40.
683 Farmington Ave., Bristol, Conn. 06010

Vernon
&
Simsbury,
Connecticut

Diamond Showcase
"Place Your Trust in the Diamond Specialists"

Bristol
9 Manchester
Connecticut

Westfarms Mall, Farmington, Conn.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo: Pioneer receiver, Ohm C speakers, AR turntable, $350, call 256-6106.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

4 sale—Panasonic stereo, 8 tr. recorder, turntable, over 50 tapes, headphones, albums included. $225. Call Pat, 549-1326.

Solid 8-track player, 4 speakers, headphones, 35 tapes—cheap. BO. Call 6-6322.

AUTO FOR SALE

Classic—sunroof, bus, 1964, in good shape, rebuilt engine, new starter, brakes, must sell, $350 firm, call Pat, 549-6305.

67 bug, good body, brakes, clutch and engine, $675, call eves. to 12 p.m., 542-3409.

71 Chrysler Newport, 40,000 miles, good condition, $1000, neg., Kevin, 546-7421.

69 Fiat 124 sport coupe, must see. Depkble car, asking $900, Ross, 546-7421.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

1971 Olds Delta 88, $700 or best offer. Call Dave at 546-6528.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

For sale—1971 Duster, reliable slant 6, good shape, call 546-5293.

1971 VW Fastback automatic, radio, very good shape, $925 or BO. After 5, 665-3946.

73 Fiat wagon, standard, 54,000 miles, excellent condition, $1400. Tel. 586-0604.

1973 Chevy Impala, 2 door, mint condition, low mileage, must sell, call Pat after 6 p.m., 256-6670.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

Cape Cod rental—2 women to share beautiful house on priv. beach in Yarmouth, Booka, 546-7421.

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

[illegible]OR SALE

Weight [illegible] 35 lbs., bench, bull worker [illegible] A7813 snow tires—$20. 549-280[illegible]

Wms 26" [illegible]aleigh bike. BO. 6-8235.

Must sell [illegible]ge Phoenix. Dependable Bomber, [illegible]all Nancy at 586-2944.

Tent—8x14 [illegible] canvas w/ ground cloth, $80, call [illegible] at 6 & 11 p.m., 253-5061.

Marantz [illegible] receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

1969 VW again! New starter—runs good, 1-467-3465, $175 firm.

Kenwood 2055 turntable, 6 mths. old, exc. cond., $150 or best offer. Call 253-2782.

HELP WANTED

2 actors nd. for Albee Zoo Story, hurry! Nd. immed., call Mike, 6-7982, 412 Coolidge.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free info—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Fashion model needed for spring show. Experience not necessary. Neat appearance a must. Call 6-8089 and leave message.

Counselors: Adirondack Boys' camp; 7 weeks; $450-$550; Swimming Instructor (WSI); Trip Leader; Riflery Instructor; Driver; Office Manager (typing); 39 Mill Valley Rd., Pittsford, N.Y. 14534.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Summer openings—for appt. call: 253-2597.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

INSTRUCTION

Statistics—Math tutoring; program designed for individual needs; John, 253-2036.

Piano lessons for ambitious beg. or int.; creative, intensive approach; low rates. Classical, pop & theory. Studied at Mnhtn. & Indiana Conservtrs. Gregory Nissen, 546-5545.

LOST

To whomever found my opal ring in Fitzwilly's, please return it—no questions asked. It has great sentimental value to me. Reward. 1108 JQA, UMass, 6-8420.

Lost—a tan leather "cowboy" hat on Apr. 4. If found, call 549-6563. Reward!

Palm tree pin at Bluewall March 30, great sentimental value. Reward, 549-6322.

MOTORCYCLES

75 Kawasaki G3SE100, bought new in Feb. 78, only 700 miles, perfect, ask $400 but will bicker. Call Glen, 538-2513, late evenings.

Kawasaki KZ400, red & chrome, 5250 miles, excellent condition, w/ helmet, $940, call 549-0179.

PERSONALS

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Robin, thanks for the OD of TLC. Love ya, Peter.

Looking for love? Or maybe just friendship? This week you'll have your chance to meet the person of your dreams or just make a new friend. Look for computer dating at UMass onthe Campus Center concourse. This is a drive for charity and all $1 donations will go to charity.

Biorhythms—Have the natural rhythms of your body scientifically charted by computer. Accuracy guaranteed. Get one for yourself and one for a special friend. For each 1 year chart send birthdate and $3.00 to Psychology Research Associates, Bx. 978, Amherst, Mass.

Pinocchio is coming.

Christian women: live in a Christian suite in Cashin. Call Dawn at 546-4133.

SERVICES

Clean rugs? Start your spring cleaning by having your rugs shampooed by two part-time pros. For free estimate call 546-7004 or 256-6222, after 5.

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul—$24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

Fast service and sales—call Valley Typewriter and Business Machines, Co. Licensed technicians. Guaranteed repairs. Lowest prices in the Valley. Free pick-up, delivery, free estimates. 665-3290.

TO SUBLET

3 bdrm. Puffton, frm. 6/1, rent neg., 549-4451.

2 br. apt., 2 baths, semi-furn., 1 mi. to campus, on bus rt., pool, courts, store nearby, 6/1-8/31, w/ option, call 549-1764.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

2 lg. bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt.—women. 1 rm. avail. 5/1, other sem. end. 549-6482.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

4 br. house, 5 acres, NR bus route, avail. 5/25 w/ opt. for 78-9, $250/mo., N'hampton. 586-2825.

Fully furnished apartment! Available for June 1-Aug. 31. 3 bedroom apt. in Rolling Green. Rent reduced for the summer. Call 253-7088. Rent includes utilities.

1 bedroom—Cliffside, June 1 w/ fall opt. On bus route, $155 mo. Call 665-3512.

4 bdrm. ranch—Echo Hill—sblt. June-Aug., sundeck, lg. liv. rm. Must see! $ neg. 253-5717.

Summer sublet, 1 br. apt. by Puffer Pond, fully furn., free util., opt. to renew, avail. 5/30/78. $180/mo., 549-6555.

Fairly large, sunny room in apt. on Potwine Lane, for June, July and August. $75 per month, includes electricity. Prefer a woman, would be living with at least one other woman. Backyard, country setting. Not far from John's Mini-Mart, Hampshire College. Call Arlene, 253-7573, evenings.

Sublet 2 bdrm., free util.: AC, DW, disp., pool, tenn. ct., on bus rt., $200/mo. 665-2652.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

To sublet, 3 bedroom, Puffton Village, near bus stop, pool, tennis courts and laundry, $250 a month, 6/1-8/31, call 549-4759.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

Large bdrm. avail. in 1½ bdrm. Puffton apt. 5/31-8/31, $95/mo. 549-1377.

2 bdrm. Cliffside apt., 6/1-8/31, opt. to renew. Pool, air cond., bus rt. 665-3190.

3-4 bedrm. duplex, avail. 6/1. $300 + util. (cheap!). 10 min. walk to town & 5 Coll. bus. 584-0177, N'hampton.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

1 bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all util. pd. Cats OK, quiet, avail. 6/1, $165/mo. 549-1582.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

2 bedroom; furnished apt.; South Meadow; price neg., for June, Jul., Aug.; call 545-1919 or 253-7420, Paul.

TRAVEL

Westward Ho! I need a ride to Oregon this summer, call 545-1947, Sue in 306.

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Woman housemate wanted: Amherst house, $87.50+. Available 6/1, call 253-5042, p.m.

Wanted—artist experienced in drawing pastel characterture from photograph, call John, 253-5873, after 5, keep trying.

Looking for people to share apartment in Maine: Oqunquit, Wells, Kennebunkport area this summer. For info call Pam at 546-7095.

Artist wanted to paint portrait from 8x10 photograph. Please call Gary at 546-9642. Thanks.

WANTED TO RENT

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
NOW
A triumphant performance by Sophia Loren in a true and lovely film.
SOPHIA LOREN
MARCELLO MASTROIANNI
a special day
A SPECIAL DAY EVES 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

WOODY HERMAN and his YOUNG THUNDERING HERD
And The UNIVERSITY JAZZ ENSEMBLE
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL THURSDAY APRIL 13 8PM
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE (545-2511 MONDAY-FRIDAY 9-4 PM) AND AT ALL TICKETRON LOCATIONS

low prices — new 'n used albums
The Hip Record Shop
SUN MUSIC
amherst carriage shops

The rusty nail Inn

APRIL 11
BEV ROHLER
$1.00

APRIL 12-13-14
BRICKER BAND
$2.00

APRIL 15
LOUDON WAINWRIGHT
$4.00

APRIL 16
HOT CALYPSO KEY

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/Tel. 665-4937

J.A. Lower & J.Q.A. Lower present

The EXORCIST

Tuesday, April 11

7:00, 9:15, 11:30

CCA

Admission $1

DID YOU KNOW?

WE SELL
Kodak PRODUCTS

Darkroom supplies

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Bluewall Bar

Wed. - Sat.,
April 12–15

The Ellis Hall
Group

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

SHIRLEY MacLAINE
ANNE BANCROFT
The Turning Point
PG
1
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WINNER OF 2 ACADEMY AWARDS
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
2
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:00

Vanessa Redgrave
Jane Fonda
JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG
3
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG
4
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEE (SAT.& SUN.) 2:15

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Party with the Pikes

at the

"Birthday Party"

Sat., April 15
Noon to 8

ΠKA—418 N. Pleasant St.
LIVE BAND, BEER & BARBECUE
Raindate: Sunday, April 16

DOONESBURY

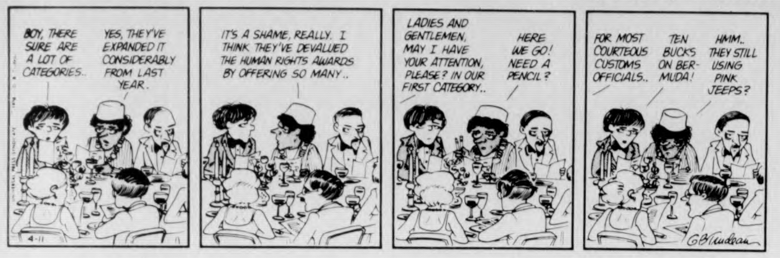
by Garry Trudeau



BOY, THERE SURE ARE A LOT OF CATEGORIES..
YES, THEY'VE EXPANDED IT CONSIDERABLY FROM LAST YEAR.
IT'S A SHAME, REALLY. I THINK THEY'VE DEVALUED THE HUMAN RIGHTS AWARDS BY OFFERING SO MANY..
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, MAY I HAVE YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE? IN OUR FIRST CATEGORY..
HERE WE GO! NEED A PENCIL?
FOR MOST COURTEOUS CUSTOMS OFFICIALS..
TEN BUCKS ON BERMUDA!
HMM.. THEY STILL USING PINK JEEPS?
4-11
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS

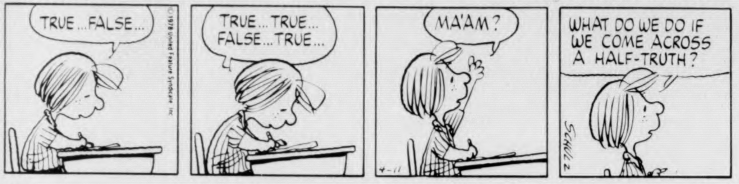
by Charles Schulz



TRUE...FALSE...
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
TRUE...TRUE... FALSE...TRUE...
MA'AM?
4-11
WHAT DO WE DO IF WE COME ACROSS A HALF-TRUTH?
SCHULZ

B.C.

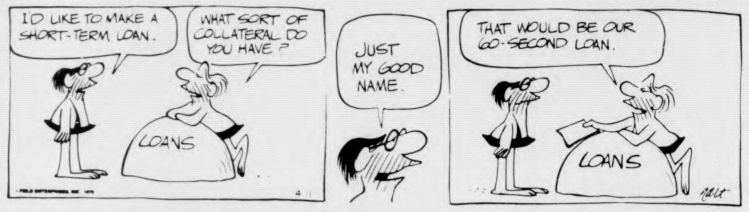
by Johnny Hart



I'D LIKE TO MAKE A SHORT-TERM LOAN.
WHAT SORT OF COLLATERAL DO YOU HAVE?
LOANS
JUST MY GOOD NAME.
THAT WOULD BE OUR 60-SECOND LOAN.
LOANS
4 11
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

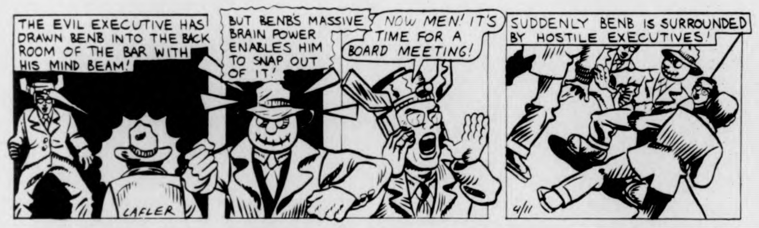
by Steve Lafler



THE EVIL EXECUTIVE HAS DRAWN BENB INTO THE BACK ROOM OF THE BAR WITH HIS MIND BEAM!
BUT BENB'S MASSIVE BRAIN POWER ENABLES HIM TO SNAP OUT OF IT!
NOW MEN! IT'S TIME FOR A BOARD MEETING!
SUDDENLY BENB IS SURROUNDED BY HOSTILE EXECUTIVES!
LAFLER
4/11

THE WANDERER

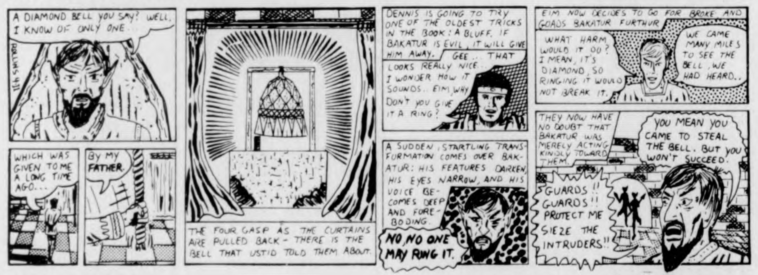
by Mark Rollins



A DIAMOND BELL YOU SAY? WELL, I KNOW OF ONLY ONE...
ROLLINS 4/11
WHICH WAS GIVEN TO ME A LONG TIME AGO...
BY MY FATHER.
THE FOUR GASP AS THE CURTAINS ARE PULLED BACK - THERE IS THE BELL THAT USTID TOLD THEM ABOUT.
DENNIS IS GOING TO TRY ONE OF THE OLDEST TRICKS IN THE BOOK: A BLUFF. IF BAKATUR IS EVIL, IT WILL GIVE HIM AWAY.
GEE.. THAT LOOKS REALLY NICE.. I WONDER HOW IT SOUNDS.. EIM, WHY DON'T YOU GIVE IT A RING?
A SUDDEN, STARTLING TRANSFORMATION COMES OVER BAKATUR: HIS FEATURES DARKEN, HIS EYES NARROW, AND HIS VOICE BECOMES DEEP AND FOREBODING.
NO, NO ONE MAY RING IT.
EIM NOW DECIDES TO GO FOR BROKE AND GOADS BAKATUR FURTHUR
WHAT HARM WOULD IT DO? I MEAN, IT'S DIAMOND, SO RINGING IT WOULD NOT BREAK IT.
WE CAME MANY MILES TO SEE THE BELL, WE HAD HEARD..
THEY NOW HAVE NO DOUBT THAT BAKATUR WAS MERELY ACTING KINDLY TOWARD THEM.
YOU MEAN YOU CAME TO STEAL THE BELL. BUT YOU WON'T SUCCEED.
GUARDS!! GUARDS!! PROTECT ME SIEZE THE INTRUDERS!!

WALLY DORF

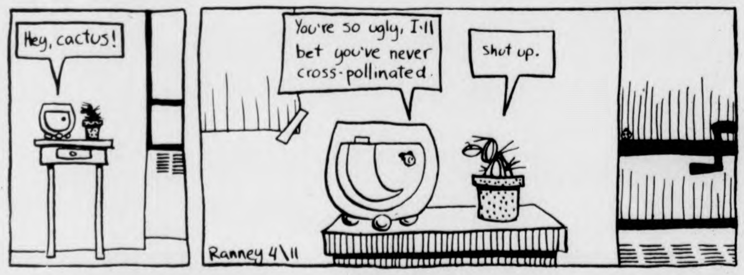
by Rob Ranney



Hey, cactus!
You're so ugly, I'll bet you've never cross-pollinated.
Shut up.
Ranney 4\11

BACK AGAIN

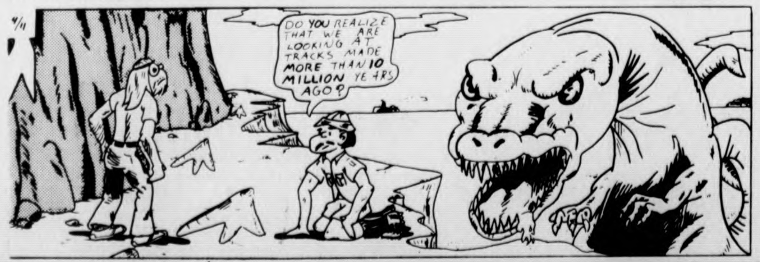
by K



4/11
DO YOU REALIZE THAT WE ARE LOOKING AT TRACKS MADE MORE THAN 10 MILLION YEARS AGO?

Your Birthday

TUESDAY, APRIL 11

Born today, you have an introspective nature which makes you keep to yourself much of the time. You enjoy company, but you seldom give yourself a chance to indulge in it. You can usually be found engaged in some project that keeps you isolated, though should others ask for an explanation of the project, you are eager to satisfy their curiosity.

You are a determined person, but you would never jeopardize a relationship with a loved one simply to achieve your goals. Financial success does not interest you beyond being necessary for life. Should you be financially successful, you will know how to use your money for your happiness and others'.

Though circumstances may force you to live in the city, it is the country that pleases you. You enjoy tremendously your contacts with nature. Long walks, picnics, rain, snow, sunbathing, etc. give you more pleasure than what most others call fun.

Also born on this date: Dean Acheson, American statesman; John Davidson, poet, essayist, dramatist; Lou Holtz, comedian.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12

ARIES March 21-April 19) — Others may find your charm wearing thin. Come up with something substantial.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Don't neglect your energy. Use it for something important, or you may explode.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — If you insist on being part of everything today, you will make no gains. Be selective.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Promotion is the keyword today. Let yourself be seen by those in authority.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Channel your energy profitably. Today is not for altruism; serve yourself.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — You may have an excellent opportunity to augment income. Take advantage of it.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Play your hunches, not someone else's. You may reach goals you've been working toward for a long time.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — An encounter with the public may leave a bad feeling. Counter it with entertainment at evening.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Another's serious fault must not rub off on you. Select companions carefully.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Enhance your social position. Become known to those making out an enviable guest list.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Use one of your useful connections in the interests of your immediate future.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Use your judgment to decide an important issue about employment.

Copyright, 1978,
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

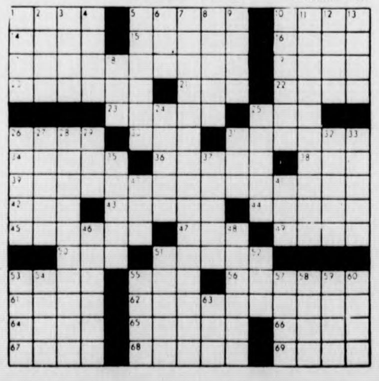
ACROSS
1 Pronoun
5 Turkish leaders
10 Run over
14 Vagrant
15 Pandemonium
16 Ribbon: Comb. form
17 Vulgar: 3 words
19 Strong water current
20 Western homesteader
21 Surmount
22 Declare positively
23 Severity of judgment
25 Falsehood
26 Circulate
30 Impair
31 Completion
34 "-----'- Irish Rose"
36 Edge along furtively
38 --- Angeles
39 Existing at the same time
42 CGS unit
43 Belgian province
44 Meaning
45 Gorges
47 Sneaky one
49 Wind instrument
50 --- Palmas
51 Animal handler
53 House foundation
55 Invigorate
56 Lined with mother-of-pearl
61 Coil
62 Wharton title: 2 words
64 Qualified
65 Sharp ridge
66 Muslim prince
67 Tunisian rulers
68 Less usual
69 Floor coverings

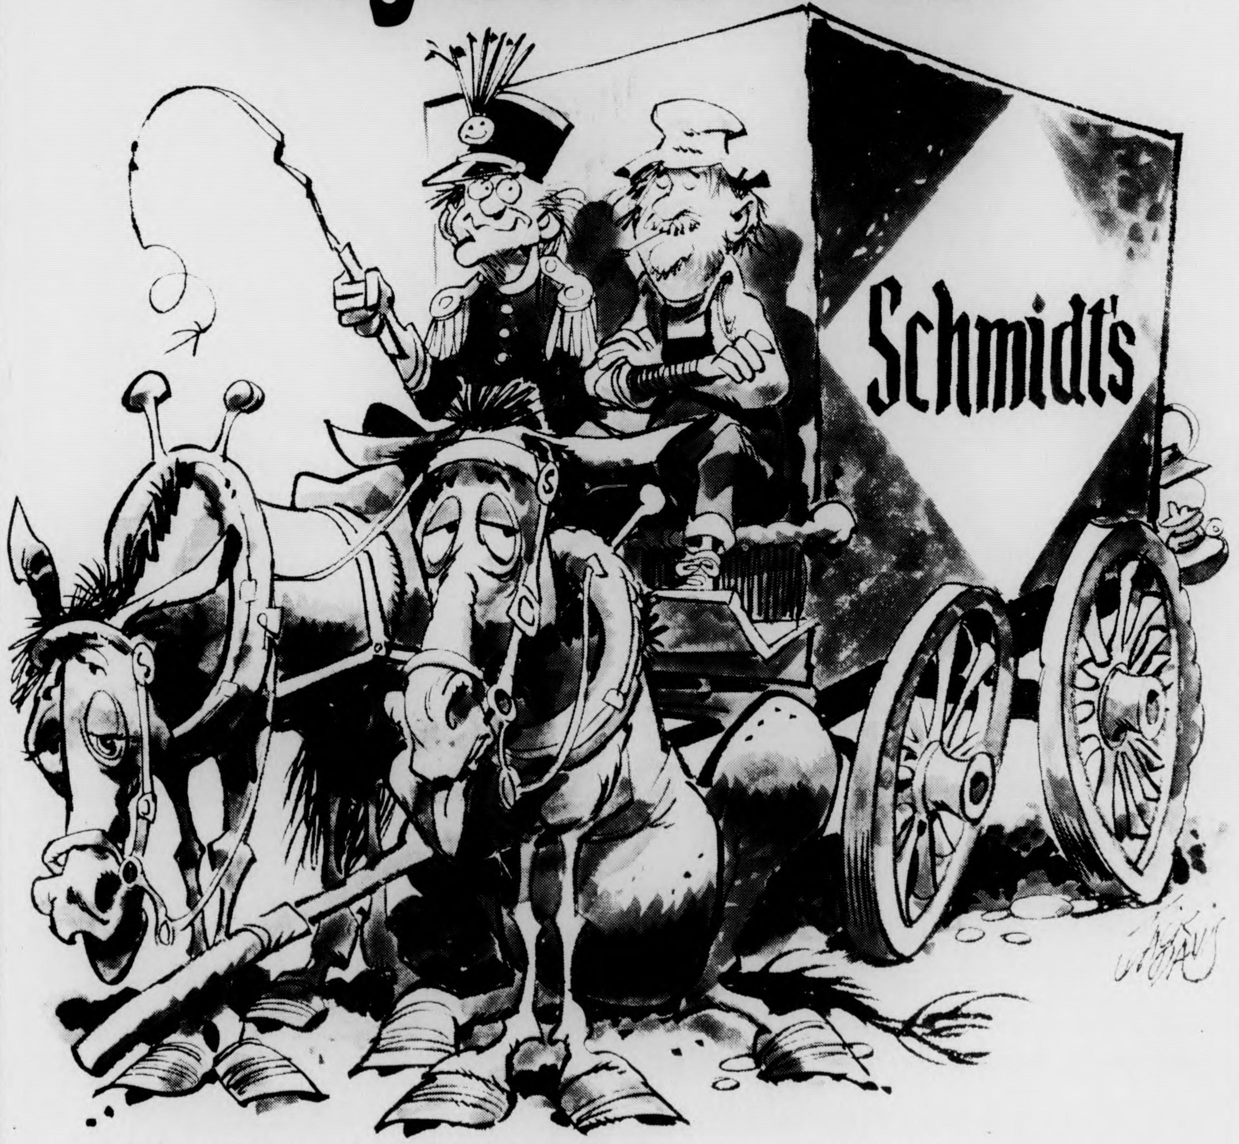
DOWN
1 Svelte
2 Give an edge to
3 Flows back
4 Castle's protection
5 N. Ireland county
6 Former Portuguese colony
7 Student of the past
8 Actress Mary -----
9 Leak
10 Draw tight
11 Stop pestering: 2 words
12 Formerly
13 Look
18 --- Tag: The day: Ger.
24 Quebec peninsula
25 Charges against property
26 Long steps
27 Scrub, as a flight
28 Rarely
29 Prescribe
31 State: Abbr.
32 Sucking insect
33 Chariot of old
35 Egos
37 Goal
40 Wrong: Prefix
41 Ever: Poet.
46 Legendary stories
48 $10 bill
51 Tri, plus one
52 UK defense force: Abbr.
53 Crust on a wound
54 Apply grease: Informal
55 Pome
57 Crowd
58 Eternal city
59 Send forth
60 German articles
63 Had a meal

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Monday's Puzzle Solved

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| S | P | I | T | | M | A | S | C | | S | C | A | N | S |
| N | A | N | A | | A | R | T | A | | C | A | B | O | T |
| U | N | C | L | A | I | M | E | D | | A | R | E | N | A |
| F | E | L | L | S | | S | W | E | A | R | A | L | O | T |
| F | L | E | E | T | S | | S | T | U | R | M | | | |
| | | | S | O | P | H | | | K | E | B | O | B | S |
| C | O | N | T | R | A | I | L | S | | D | A | M | U | P |
| O | R | O | | | R | E | V | U | E | | | A | D | E |
| G | E | N | R | E | | S | I | L | K | P | U | R | S | E |
| S | L | E | E | V | E | | | K | E | E | P | | | |
| | | | M | E | L | T | S | | S | E | R | M | O | N |
| A | B | S | O | R | B | I | N | G | | R | A | I | S | E |
| C | R | A | V | E | | L | O | N | G | S | I | N | C | E |
| T | A | L | E | S | | E | R | A | S | | S | E | A | M |
| H | E | A | R | T | | S | E | T | A | | E | R | R | S |





Quality without Clydesdales.

Honestly, we have nothing against corporate cavalry.

We regard it with affection. It's a quaint anachronism. Like royalty in American beer slogans.

But, to nit pick for a moment, we've been brewing Schmidt's fifteen years longer. And age has taught us wisdom.

True beer drinkers don't really care how you get it there. Just so you deliver the quality.

Schmidt's
The beer that might make Philadelphia famous.

SCHMIDT & SONS, INC., PHILA., PA.

Nigro seeks ten wins

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

"It may be a high goal to shoot for but I want to win ten games," spokes UMass pitcher Tom Nigro.

Before he graduates, the senior co-captain from Gloversville, N.Y. would like to duplicate the UMass record of ten wins in a season.

This may not sound impressive, but once you take into consideration UMass plays a 40 game schedule, Nigro's goal is comparable to 40 wins within a major league span of 162 games. Nigro's task suddenly becomes a feat of major proportions. Accomplishing this ambitious quest will require every ounce of his ability, which is considerable.

People who have witnessed Nigro on the mound over the past three seasons do not consider his hopes unreasonable. Coach Dick Bergquist commented, "Nigro has been the steadiest pitcher over the last two years on the staff. He is an excellent college pitcher and a good all around performer."

Nigro's strengths also go beyond the playing field. He has smoothly achieved the transition from sports to the field of study, where he is a Dean's List student, specializing in marketing. He also finds time to assume the duties of president of his fraternity, Theta Chi.

But, where he is best known is on the pitcher's mound. Since donning a Minuteman uniform he has compiled a record of 18-5.

As a fresman, he began on the sub-varsity team, rolling up a flawless 6-0 mark, including a no-hitter. By his sophomore campaign he was displaying his talents for the varsity with equal success. His impressive 7-1 record and 1.78 E.R.A. were the best on the staff. In Nigro's junior season he again managed to lead the team in wins and E.R.A., with a 5-4 record and 2.14. His four losses, all close, one run ball games were a frustrating reminder he was not unbeatable.

Nigro's style is not overpowering, it is more of the clever, crafty variety. His trademark has become an effective slider, with a mix of fast balls and curves, and complemented by good control.

Since his arrival at UMass, Nigro developed his slider. "The slider is the most important weapon a pitcher can have. Few can survive exclusively off a fast ball, unless they are a Nolan Ryan," Nigro said.

Nigro originally intended to go to either Brown or Cornell, not UMass. But one afternoon Dick Bergquist came to see Nigro play. He impressed Nigro.

Though many schools had expressed interest in his athletic ability, Bergquist was the only one to personally come and see him. With the added incentive of a fine baseball program (that has produced more pros than any other New England school) and the pleasant surroundings, Nigro came to Amherst. Neither Bergquist or he have regretted that decision.

Nigro feels there is a responsibility attached to his obligations as co-captain. Being a pitcher, his first priority is the pitching staff. "We have a lot of young pitchers and I will try to help them out whenever possible," Nigro said.

Beyond that, he said his role is setting an example for others to follow. "It's not important to be a cheerleader, the important things to remember are to be always hustling and never get down on yourself," he said.

Nigro said the team is characterized by good speed and good average hitters, with not as much power as in years past. He forecasts a successful season for the squad, expecting about a 25-15 record. The hardest portion of the schedule was the journey down south, against teams that already had been playing for two months.

While readily discussing the team's future, the topic of his own is a little more uncertain. "I'm playing it safe right now, interviewing for jobs," Nigro said.

The temptation of baseball is still there, but Nigro is fully aware of the trappings of minor league baseball. It is a far cry from the glamorous image projected by the major leagues. It is a harsh life, busing from one little, dirty town to the next.

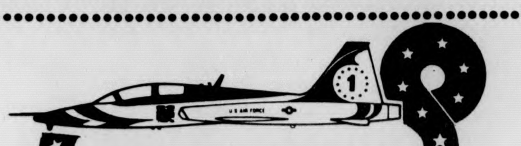
The minors are a hazardous way to spend years of a lifetime. It is grueling and not well paying. While thousands search for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow (the majors), few ever find it.

Yet, if the right offer was presented to him, Nigro might still grab it. Of course, so much depends on how he performs this season. While off to an unusually slow start following the spring vacation tournament in Florida, there is little doubt Nigro will return to his old form.

Orchard Hill Women's Center is now accepting applications for co-coordinators for Fall '78.

Applications available at 112 Field House due April 21.

OH ♀'s Center is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.



WE'RE HIRING.

WOMEN & MEN
Engineers / Technicians
(or 6 units calculus)
for
JOB & CAREER VACANCIES

ALSO

INFORMATION ON THE PILOT AND NAVIGATOR PROGRAM

See.....

Major Jerry Witte
Wednesday, April 12
Placement Center

AIR FORCE

A GOOD COMPANY
AND
A great way of life.

Tribe edges Sox, 5-4

CLEVELAND [UPI] — Ron Pruitt's run-scoring single with one out in the bottom of the ninth yesterday sent home Buddy Bell from second with the winning run and gave the Cleveland Indians a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

With one out in the ninth, Bell beat out an infield hit. Rick Manning hit a roller to second base and when Jerry Remy's throw to second went wide, both runners were safe. After reliever Reggie Cleveland ran the count to 3-0 on Pruitt, Dick Drago came on to surrender Pruitt's line-drive single to left.

Spotting the Indians a 4-0 lead on a double by Paul Dade and an infield out in the first and a three-run homer by Andre Thornton in the third, the Red Sox scored twice in the fourth on a run-scoring single by Fred Lynn and a wild pitch.

An infield single by Jerry Remy and Jim Rice's double up the left field line gave the Red Sox a run in the fifth off starter Don Hood, and Carlton Fisk greeted Cleveland reliever Mike Paxton with his first homer of the season to tie the score at 4-4 in the sixth.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

JV Baseball 3 Holyoke CC 2

TODAY

Var. Baseball at AIC 3 p.m.
Var. softball at Keene St. 3 p.m.
JV men's lacrosse at Dean Jr. Coll. 3:30 p.m.

TOMORROW

JV baseball vs. Quinsigamond CC 1:00 p.m.
Men's tennis vs. Middlebury 3:00 p.m.
Women's lacrosse vs Brown 3:30 p.m.
Men's lacrosse vs. Vermont 3:00 p.m.

TUESDAYS ARE
★ 2 FOR 1 ★
NIGHT
at WOLFIES PIZZA
buy 1
get 1 FREE
on any pizza or large sub.
(Deliveries and takeout orders not included)
Special from 5 - 10 p.m!
173 Sunset Ave.
Located next to Southwest
549-5592
or 549-5593

The Elmwood Inn

DINNER SPECIALS

Tues—Wed—Thurs

Baked Stuffed Scallops 5.50
Delmonico Steak 5.95

Fri—Sat

12 oz. N.Y. Sirloin 5.95
Baked Stuffed Shrimp 6.50

Sunday

Roast Turkey w/stuffing 5.25
Roast Leg of Lamb 5.95

| HOURS | LUNCH | DINNER |
|---|---|---|
| TUES-THURS | 11:30-4:00 | 4:00-9:00 |
| FRI - SAT | 11:30-4:00 | 4:00-10:00 |
| SUNDAY | ———— | 12:00-8:00 |

on Rt. 9, Hadley Center
please call 584-6813

Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers—B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Valerie of Malden, Mass.: contact me immediately. Richard Stanton, PO Box 391, Allston, Mass. 02134.

The Collegian is looking for an Assistant Advertising Manager

Persons applying should be able to continue with this position next fall semester.

TUESDAY
9 til 1
2 for 1 NIGHT
(BAR DRINKS and BEER)
and
DAVE POWELL
MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 • TEN GREAT YEARS • 1978
50¢ COVER
—WITH THIS AD NO COVER—

Crewmen win in UNH row

The UMass Men's Crew opened their spring season with a cold welcome for the UNH Wildcats.

The races were held Sunday on the Connecticut River, UMass' home course. The freshmen race was the first men's race, and was to set a precedent for the remainder of the day.

The UMass freshmen placed two boats on the starting line against one crew for UNH. The outcome of the race was never to be in question. The first UMass eight completed the 2000 meter course in 6:55.2. They finished a good deal of open water in front of the UNH crew.

The second freshmen eight also rowed well, finishing second in 7.23. They defeated the lowly UNH crew by more than half a minute.

The second varsity crew took notice of the freshman crews and went out to win in convincing fashion. The UMass boat, stroked by Dave Caruso, followed by 7 Scott Finch, 6 Mark Brown, 5 Tom Lovely, 4 Jim Clair, 3 Pat Bronder, 2 Frank Miconi and bow Bruce Belliveau completed the course in 6:33. At the helm for the victors was Joe Cox. They had little to worry about, as they took UNH from the start and moved away. They crossed the finish line nineteen seconds before the UNH crew which finished in 6:52.

The final race of the day was between the first varsity crews. This race was to be the closest of the day.

After one false start the crews started even and remained even for the first part of the race. As the contest wore on the UMass crew was able to move on the UNH crew that was at a considerably lower stroke. UMass held off a late UNH sprint and won by a boat length. UMass — 6:27 UNH — 6:30.3. The UMass eight was stroked by Steve Frackleton, 7 seat Bob "Dancin" Hanson, 6 Steve Westra, 5 Dave Rubin, 4 Gary "Fang" Murtagh, 3 Karl Liebich, 2 Dave Kumlin and Bow Rick Edwards. The Coxswain was John Cusick.

Next Saturday, UMass will host the crews of Trinity and URI.

UM softball

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

The undefeated UMass softball team is shooting for its fourth straight win today at Keene State. Game time is 1 p.m.

The Minutewomen defeated the Owls, 4-1, last season in a home contest. Cathi Sovoie's squad shouldn't be underestimated, noted UMass mentor Dianne Thompson.

Keene has an experienced team returning for its opener. One of Keene's returnees is junior Linda Jennison, who held UMass to seven hits one game. Four senior veterans from the eleven that just missed qualifying for the Easterns in '77 are back.

Starting on the mound for UMass will be Sue Peters. The sophomore hurler boasts a 2-0 record. Peters last victory was a 5-2 performance over Central Connecticut Saturday.

Jean Lambert's junior varsity makes its season debut at 3 p.m. The JVs are highly skilled and a "good feeding" group, according to Thompson.

The first varsity home game is a double header this Sunday at 1 p.m. against the University of New Hampshire.

★ JV baseball

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

Aulenback in sixth, and threatened to blow the game open in the eighth. The first batter drew a base on balls, and the next two hitters each reached base with bunt singles, loading the bases with no outs. A ground ball to shortstop Dooling resulted in a force play, but scored the tying run. After a stolen base, Koperniak pulled his robbery act, and Aulenback escaped without further damage.

"We made some early season mistakes," said UMass coach Jim Bedard, "but I thought we played pretty well." Bedard was especially impressed with the pitching performance of Chuck Thompson, who shut Berkshire out through the first five innings on two harmless base hits. "When he (Thompson) is a senior, he should be one of the best, if not the best pitcher on the varsity."

UMass collected eight hits in all, four by Koperniak, and two by center fielder Jeff Hoffman, who picked up a double and triple. The Minutemen also committed four errors in their debut, but none led to any problems for pitchers Thompson and Aulenback, who limited the opposition to only six hits and five bases on balls.

The J.V.'s hope to continue their winning ways on Wednesday, when they take on Quinsigamond Community College in a 1:00 p.m. doubleheader at the J.V. field.

Sports Notices

SCHEDULE CHANGES — The following facilities will be closed: NOPE pool, April 20 at 7 p.m.; Boyden gym, April 15.

★ Havlicek

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

a great athlete and yet they were also saying one last farewell and thank you to a dynasty, the likes of which will never be seen again.

The thunderous ovations consumed the ancient Garden walls, once again restoring memories of former hallowed days. It was an outpouring of emotion that would have warmed the hearts of nature's fiercest enemies. A true bond between a city's sports fans and a dynamic athlete. The tears that were shared by many in attendance were a mixture of joyous celebration for the man and a sincere sorrow for his retirement. Perhaps only through sports could one appreciate being torn by such feelings for a person none of us really know.

With 15 seconds to go he came out of the game. The volume of the crowd reached deafening proportions. He hugged his coach and former teammate Satch Sanders, Red Auerbach, and each of the players. Finally waving to his adoring fans. At last, unable to control his own instincts, Havlicek was overcome. He sat down and with head in hands sobbed.

In the true character of a departing hero Havlicek left in style. He scored 29 points, leading the Celts to an easy victory reminiscent of the past. It was an appropriate ending on this final day.

Suddenly the game was over. Havlicek, along with a phalanx of policemen was whisked away, never to reappear in uniform again. No coaxing, urging, or begging would bring him back. A collective sigh reached the 15,000 people that had shared this tribute.

As the multitude filed out of the arena the only consoling thought that suited the occasion was that "unfortunately — All good things have to come to an end sometime." They clutched souvenir pictures of Havlicek as a permanent recollection of this day. No one was going to forget this occasion, least of all John Havlicek. For John Havlicek, Sunday will be an everlasting experience he can treasure always. He deserved it.

★ Southwest Special ★
Every Wednesday
AT WOLFIES PIZZA
Spaghetti Plate $1.
( with sauce & bread and butter )
Located Next to Southwest 173 Sunset Ave.
Call 549-5592 or 549-5593
cial from 5-10 p.m.

Nigro takes the mound as batsmen face AIC

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

If the weatherman gives them a break today, the UMass baseball team will travel to Springfield to take on the Yellow Jackets of AIC at 3 p.m.

UMass coach Dick Bergquist will send co-captain Tom Nigro to the mound looking for the Minutemen's third win in a row. Nigro goes into the game with only a 1-3 record, but he looked impressive in last week's loss to Harvard, allowing only four hits and striking out four in seven innings.

The Minutemen will be without first basemen Dale Stone tomorrow due to an exam conflict. Stone had four hits in Saturday's doubleheader and John Gallagher will replace him at the initial sack. Bergquist also is debating between using Mark Sullivan, George Kelly, or Neal Lojek in one of the outfield spots.

"I'll decide who I'm going to use when I see what kind of pitcher they throw," Bergquist said.

The Minutemen will be taking on an AIC squad that Coach Bergquist calls "very good". As of Friday, the Yellow Jackets had a record of 5-6, but they were 3-1 on their northern schedule. Their only loss up north came at the hands of a Westfield State team which is a perennial Division II power in New England.

The Yellow Jackets' hitting is being led by Chris Olinski, a senior outfielder, who had a .355 average before the Westfield game. Senior outfielder Bill Cornetta and sophomore catcher Bob Drury also have been hitting well.

Junior Tom Carroll is the top pitcher for AIC, with a 2-1 record and a 1.25 ERA.

AIC is coached by Rich Bedard, the brother of UMass JV baseball coach Jim Bedard. Coach Bergquist says Bedard has done a fine job in revamping the baseball program at AIC.

"Three years ago their program was having problems, but Coach Bedard has revitalized it, Bergquist said.

The Minuteman pitching was very effective against Northeastern Saturday, as Doug Welenc and Chris Collins allowed only six total hits in the doubleheader. Nigro will be hoping to continue the fine pitching.

Koperniak keys JV win

By WALT CHERNIAK
Collegian Staff

Third baseman Chris Koperniak drilled four hits and drove home the winning run with a 10th-inning single, as the UMass J.V. baseball opened its season on a winning note yesterday, defeating Berkshire Community College 3-2.

Jason Thomas singled to open the inning, and Jeff Hoffman reached base when his bouncer was mishandled and thrown too late to second for an error, setting the stage for Koperniak's game winning hit. The Minuteman third baseman, who went 4-for-5, also made a game saving play in the eighth, diving to his left to snare a line drive with runners on second and third and only one out.

UMass drew first blood early, as Jeff Hoffman reached on a bloop double to shallow center field, and scored on a single by Koperniak. They added another run in the second when Len Dooling walked, stole second, and scored on a two-out single by Tom Grimes.

Chuck Thompson was impressive in his five inning pitching stint for the Minutemen, allowing only two hits and fanning four. Reliever Steve Aulenback was shaky at first, allowing single runs in the sixth and the eighth, but was aided greatly by Koperniak's stab, and settled down in the ninth and tenth to pick up the victory.

Berkshire combined a walk, a single and a double steal with two outs to score against

TURN TO PAGE 15

Hondo bids teary farewell

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

From amidst the rafters of Boston Garden hang the numerous green and white flags symbolic of all the past triumphs and championships. Along with the many banners is a list of numbers commemorating some of the special players that made their success possible. Russell, Cousy, Sharman, Satch, K.C., Sam, and more.

Together they proudly flaunt one of sports' greatest dynasties — The Boston Celtics.

Soon there will be another number to join the elite group. A number, that in the minds of many followers, surpasses all the heroic figures of the past — number No. 17.

It will serve as a lasting reminder for the one and only John Havlicek.

Havlicek played his final game in a Celtic uniform last Sunday. It was a career that spanned sixteen long and successful years. A career that saw his team reach the highest level possible within his sport, the NBA world championship. And a career that established himself as one of most durable and recognized players in the history of the game.

His departure is the closing of the curtain on the era of the legendary Celtic road show. He was the last existing member of those now bygone glory years.

It was this nostalgic flavor that gave John Havlicek's final performance an extra dimension. The fans were saying goodbye to

TURN TO PAGE 15

Ageless John Havlicek (17) went out in style Sunday, scoring 29 points in his final game to lead the Celtics to victory over the Buffalo Braves before an emotional Garden crowd assembled to honor him. (UPI)

A determined Elaine Howle sets up for a long toss during women's softball practice. The Minutewomen take on Keene State this afternoon. See page 15 for details. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Collegian Sports

Russ Smith

'Yankees, go home'

We've heard the predictions of every Joe Sportswriter from the sticks of Gonzaga University to the shores of Storrs (and in between) of how the National League will end (look for Pittsburgh and Cincinnati) and what's in store for American League fans.

While the AL West has been proclaimed a toss-up between Texas and Kansas 'waterfall' City, most 'supposedly' knowledgeable writers have conceded the East to Reggie Jackson's Yankees.

This 'coincidently' places the Red Sox in the bridesmaid position — the "Avis" of the baseball world.

Now I have carefully looked into this situation and would like to comment on what I think of those pinstriped turkeys. But there are those who feel I haven't given the Yankees favorable ink in the past; that perhaps I might have been a little biased towards the Sox, and have picked on the New Yorkers. Hogwash!!

And to prove I'm an equal opportunity writer, I willingly gave a few of Garber's Gorillas — Yankee fans — a chance to view the rational behind their allegiance to this 'World Champion (oh does it hurt to print that and equate it with NY) Yankees squad.

"They're a classy team. A definite 'yes' to winning the pennant," mentioned midfielder Steve Dahl. "Even my roommate Bob Warner likes the Yanks, and he's from Eastham. It's tradition for us to win the pennant."

"Dynomite. They're as bad as me," said Brooks Sweet.

"Awesome. All winter, we hear about how the Red Sox will do this and that. All I can say is we won it in '76. We won it in '77. We'll win it in '78. We've got 'Action Jackson'," pointed out co-captain Rich Donovan.

I went to all their series (Sox-Yanks) last season. I must've gotten into a couple fights each time. Ahhh, those bleachers....."

"The Mets don't have enough money to buy a good tea. I can't think of a better way to waste my time during the summer than a Yankee game," added Dahl.

"The Yankees are great," added veteran lacrosser Mike Lettera. "We have the best park in the AL, although they say KC is nice."

"I can't wait until October when I can go to Yankee Stadium to see the World Series. Hell, that says it all!" tossed in Dan Ianiello.

Now there you have their side. And as an equal opportunist typist I feel I must now stick up for the Sox point of view (maybe touching upon their comments).

You should take their quotes with a grain of salt, afterall, they're Native New Yorkers. They show unusual qualities to start with, in just wanting to get involved. Class (Dahl) is in the eye of the beholder — when I look out at the Yankees I see boring uniforms, not class.

I hope (Donovan) this winter all we'll hear about is excuses of how the Yankees almost won the pennant. 'Mohammed' Donovan must be one of those typical rowdy Yankee-types who comes to disrupt quiet Fenway and instigates trouble. He was probably in Schaffer Stadium that Monday night when the Patriots played the NY Jets, couple seasons back.

I'm hoping the only way (Ianiello) we'll see a baseball game in Yankee Stadium in October is because the Pirates and the Red Sox have agreed to play on a neutral court (or field in this case).

Actually, I don't really despise the Yankees. I hate 'em. They're cocky; they all think they're superstars and have a habit of sleezing through the season and winning lucky games (sorry about NY game last night).

Don't pay attention to predictions Sox-ites. The Sox are off to a slow start, but they'll recover. You can't listen to the above persons — they're just decent lacrosse players; what do they know about baseball anyways?

Keep remembering, things could be worse than this Sox start. You could be a Brewers' fan — and be out of contention by the Ides of April.

Staff meeting

There will be a mandatory meeting for all Collegian sports staff members tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Collegian office.

---

Carter will veto tuition tax cre

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter, speaking shortly after a House committee trimmed back its tuition tax credit bill, said yesterday he would veto any such bill that he considers either unconstitutional or too costly.

"Every proposal I have seen in the Congress so far is both costly and unconstitutional," the president told the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"I don't favor tuition tax credits under any circumstance, even at a very slight level," Carter said. "It's very detrimental to the future of education in our country."

His announcement came after the House Ways and Means Committee stripped its bill of provisions that would allow income tax credits for tuition paid for elementary and secondary schools. The committee's 20-16 vote leaves the bill covering only college tuition costs.

The bill shaped by the committee still goes against Carter's recommendation that Congress reject tax credits and instead expand existing loan and scholarship programs for college students.

The House bill also differs from one approved by the Senate Finance Committee and awaiting Senate action. That measure includes credits for lower school tuition and has higher limits on tax relief.

The House bill would provide tax credits of 25 percent of the cost of college or other post-secondary tuition, up to a maximum credit of $250 a year. The credit would be phased in — $100 next Aug. 1, $150 in 1979 and $250 in 1980. The program would end unless continued by Congress.

In contrast, the Senate bill would provide a 50 percent credit, also phased in, beginning with a maximum of $250 and rising to $500 in 1980. It would be available for elementary and secondary as well as college tuition.

The stripped-down House bill was estimated to cost about $1 billion a year when fully effective; the Senate version about $4.4 billion.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 118 WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Susan Birmingham, a leader in the Student Organizing Project, comments on the proposed student dormitory lease with students involved in the recent Whitmore occupation. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

On takeover demands

Students meet to plan action

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

Students involved in last Wednesday's occupation of the Whitmore administration building set up several committees last night to see that student action is taken on concessions won from the administration during the occupation.

The meeting, attended by 50 students, set up a lease negotiating team which will work with administrators to form a student dormitory lease; a committee of students to work with administrators on giving rebates to dormitory residents whose personal property was damaged by university negligence in the dorms; a committee to bring a reorganization proposal to the Student Government Association that would put students in a collective bargaining position with the university; and a group to publicize these committees and bring more students into this process.

Collective bargaining between students and administration was the one point administrators refused to negotiate last week during the occupation.

"The administrators have people working at these levels. Now we have people, students, working at these levels. We are negotiating, researching and working for student interests," said David Barenberg, a student and a leader of last week demonstration.

The meeting set up a 14-person lease negotiating team, five of whom will be the negotiators. These five will meet with administrators about the lease.

One student said these five negotiators will "do intensive work and hold discussions with administrators, going through the lease point by point and negotiating on these points." The other students on the negotiating team will do research on the lease and help the five negotiators.

Each of the committees set up last night will report back to a general meeting of students to be held in two weeks.

The committee to have students work with administrators was one of the demands won by students at last week's demonstration.

The agreement, containing five demands and signed by five administrators, read in part, "(we) agree to establish a student and administration committee to recommend guidelines, specifications, and levels for making rent rebates due, because of physical deterioration within the dormitories."

According to Dr. Fred Preston, associate vice chancellor for student affairs, the administration already had a plan to give rebates to students for this kind of damage in the works.

One student said, "We have an agreement to allow students into a process they have not been in before. What we need are volunteers to get into this process."

A motion will be on the floor of the student senate tonight which would support the lease negotiating team, giving them official status in the negotiations with the administration.

The lease negotiating team will meet today at 6 p.m. in the Dukes room of the Student Union.

Students won agreements to sit together with faculty on lease discussions and rebate discussions after a 15 hour occupation of Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery's outer-office last Wednesday.

DeLima indicted for personal phone usage

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker-elect Brian DeLima was indicted yesterday on student judiciary charges arising from his use of senate phones for personal calls.

The charges were filed by Attorney General Jeff Lutsky.

DeLima said, "I have been telling Lutsky to file the complaint and get the thing done with." DeLima questioned Lutsky's intentions in filing "charges the day before my confirmation in the Senate (as speaker)." He called the trial "a political witch hunt to defame my character and integrity."

Lutsky said DeLima's "actions are fraudulent, abusive in nature and constitute a misuse of funds..."

According to Lutsky, the charges stem from DeLima's use of student government telephones for his personal use and his methods of paying back these bills. Another charge, still under investigation, stems from DeLima's acceptance of student government pay that may have made DeLima ineligible for the financial aid he receives.

The first charge is misrepresentation. According to Lutsky, "No one has the right to use Senate phones for personal use. DeLima claims he has that authority.

The charge is a violation of the Student Code of Conduct which says "representing the University or any recognized student organization or charged group is viewed as improper student conduct." Violation of this charge can result in suspension.

DeLima said, "I am not saying anyone has the authority to do so (make personal calls). I am one individual who has admitted to using phones and entered into an agreement to pay back."

Advocate John Hensleigh, who will defend DeLima, said "Historically, almost every student leader has made personal calls and made payment procedures in the fashion Mr. DeLima has."

DeLima has said that not accepting pay for working over intersession will make up for the calls. DeLima did not file any time cards for that time.

According to Lutsky, if DeLima had filed time cards, the money he earned would have made DeLima ineligible for financial aid. "The Financial aid office does not know he has made money which would've been deducted from work-study...this indicates that Mr. DeLima may have misrepresented himself before the financial aid office." said the Attorney General.

DeLima said, "I have not earned my work-study request. I have not earned what I am entitled to." He called the financial aid charge "total bullshit." The financial aid charge would be in violation of the misrepresentation statute and also another student code of conduct regulation, according to Lutsky.

This law says, "tampering with or falsifying any University record or official document...or knowingly submitting false information for incorporation in such records" is a violation of the student code.

The third and final charge is a violation of Massachusetts General law. The student Judiciary has no power in the Massachusetts legal system.

The law says, "Whoever, with intent to defraud, obtains or attempts to obtain "any telecommunications service by any false representation, false statement or strategem by...unauthorized charging to the account of another....shall be punished."

"He has had the student body pay for calls. He has taken something out of the system and has put nothing back," said Lutsky.

Convention

The Student Government Association reconvenes tonight at 7 at the Hatch in its fifth attempt to elect a student president.

Nigro takes the mound as batsmen face AIC

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

If the weatherman gives them a break today, the UMass baseball team will travel to Springfield to take on the Yellow Jackets of AIC at 3 p.m.

UMass coach Dick Bergquist will send co-captain Tom Nigro to the mound looking for the Minutemen's third win in a row. Nigro goes into the game with only a 1-3 record, but he looked impressive in last week's loss to Harvard, allowing only four hits and striking out four in seven innings.

The Minutemen will be without first basemen Dale Stone tomorrow due to an exam conflict. Stone had four hits in Saturday's doubleheader and John Gallagher will replace him at the initial sack. Bergquist also is debating between using Mark Sullivan, George Kelly, or Neal Lojek in one of the outfield spots.

"I'll decide who I'm going to use when I see what kind of pitcher they throw," Bergquist said.

The Minutemen will be taking on an AIC squad that Coach Bergquist calls "very good". As of Friday, the Yellow Jackets had a record of 5-6, but they were 3-1 on their northern schedule. Their only loss up north came at the hands of a Westfield State team which is a perennial Division II power in New England.

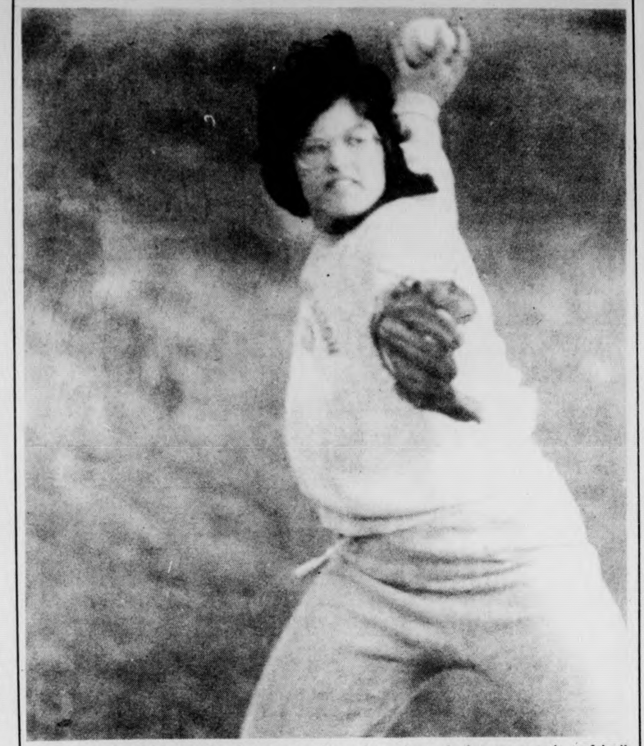
The Yellow Jackets' hitting is being led by Chris Olinski, a senior outfielder, who had a .355 average before the Westfield game. Senior outfielder Bill Cornetta and sophomore catcher Bob Drury also have been hitting well.

Junior Tom Carroll is the top pitcher for AIC, with a 2-1 record and a 1.25 ERA.

AIC is coached by Rich Bedard, the brother of UMass JV baseball coach Jim Bedard. Coach Bergquist says Bedard has done a fine job in revamping the baseball program at AIC.

"Three years ago their program was having problems, but Coach Bedard has revitalized it, Bergquist said.

The Minuteman pitching was very effective against Northeastern Saturday, as Doug Welenc and Chris Collins allowed only six total hits in the doubleheader. Nigro will be hoping to continue the fine pitching.



A determined Elaine Howle sets up for a long toss during women's softball practice. The Minutewomen take on Keene State this afternoon. See page 15 for details. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Koperniak keys JV win

By WALT CHERNIAK
Collegian Staff

Third baseman Chris Koperniak drilled four hits and drove home the winning run with a 10th-inning single, as the UMass J.V. baseball opened its season on a winning note yesterday, defeating Berkshire Community College 3-2.

Jason Thomas singled to open the inning, and Jeff Hoffman reached base when his bouncer was mishandled and thrown too late to second for an error, setting the stage for Koperniak's game winning hit. The Minuteman third baseman, who went 4-for-5, also made a game saving play in the eighth, diving to his left to snare a line drive with runners on second and third and only one out.

UMass drew first blood early, as Jeff Hoffman reached on a bloop double to shallow center field, and scored on a single by Koperniak. They added another run in the second when Len Dooling walked, stole second, and scored on a two-out single by Tom Grimes.

Chuck Thompson was impressive in his five inning pitching stint for the Minutemen, allowing only two hits and fanning four. Reliever Steve Aulenback was shaky at first, allowing single runs in the sixth and the eighth, but was aided greatly by Koperniak's stab, and settled down in the ninth and tenth to pick up the victory.

Berkshire combined a walk, a single and a double steal with two outs to score against

TURN TO PAGE 15

Hondo bids teary farewell

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

From amidst the rafters of Boston Garden hang the numerous green and white flags symbolic of all the past triumphs and championships. Along with the many banners is a list of numbers commemorating some of the special players that made their success possible. Russell, Cousy, Sharman, Satch, K.C., Sam, and more.

Together they proudly flaunt one of sports' greatest dynasties — The Boston Celtics.

Soon there will be another number to join the elite group. A number, that in the minds of many followers, surpasses all the heroic figures of the past — number No. 17.

It will serve as a lasting reminder for the one and only John Havlicek.

Havlicek played his final game in a Celtic uniform last Sunday. It was a career that spanned sixteen long and successful years. A career that saw his team reach the highest level possible within his sport, the NBA world championship. And a career that established himself as one of most durable and recognized players in the history of the game.

His departure is the closing of the curtain on the era of the legendary Celtic road show. He was the last existing member of those now bygone glory years.

It was this nostalgic flavor that gave John Havlicek's final performance an extra dimension. The fans were saying goodbye to

TURN TO PAGE 15

Ageless John Havlicek (17) went out in style Sunday, scoring 29 points in his final game to lead the Celtics to victory over the Buffalo Braves before an emotional Garden crowd assembled to honor him. (UPI)

Collegian Sports

Russ Smith

'Yankees, go home'

We've heard the predictions of every Joe Sportswriter from the sticks of Gonzaga University to the shores of Storrs (and in between) of how the National League will end (look for Pittsburgh and Cincinnati) and what's in store for American League fans.

While the AL West has been proclaimed a toss-up between Texas and Kansas 'waterfall' City, most 'supposedly' knowledgeable writers have conceded the East to Reggie Jackson's Yankees.

This 'coincidently' places the Red Sox in the bridesmaid position — the "Avis" of the baseball world.

Now I have carefully looked into this situation and would like to comment on what I think of those pinstriped turkeys. But there are those who feel I haven't given the Yankees favorable ink in the past; that perhaps I might have been a little biased towards the Sox, and have picked on the New Yorkers. Hogwash!!

And to prove I'm an equal opportunity writer, I willingly gave a few of Garber's Gorillas — Yankee fans — a chance to view the rational behind their allegiance to this 'World Champion (oh does it hurt to print that and equate it with NY) Yankees squad.

"They're a classy team. A definite 'yes' to winning the pennant," mentioned midfielder Steve Dahl. "Even my roommate Bob Warner likes the Yanks, and he's from Eastham. It's tradition for us to win the pennant."

"Dynomite. They're as bad as me," said Brooks Sweet.

"Awesome. All winter, we hear about how the Red Sox will do this and that. All I can say is we won it in '76. We won it in '77. We'll win it in '78. We've got 'Action Jackson'," pointed out co-captain Rich Donovan.

I went to all their series (Sox-Yanks) last season. I must've gotten into a couple fights each time. Ahhh, those bleachers....."

"The Mets don't have enough money to buy a good tea. I can't think of a better way to waste my time during the summer than a Yankee game," added Dahl.

"The Yankees are great," added veteran lacrosser Mike Lettera. "We have the best park in the AL, although they say KC is nice."

"I can't wait until October when I can go to Yankee Stadium to see the World Series. Hell, that says it all!" tossed in Dan Ianiello.

Now there you have their side. And as an equal opportunist typist I feel I must now stick up for the Sox point of view (maybe touching upon their comments).

You should take their quotes with a grain of salt, afterall, they're Native New Yorkers. They show unusual qualities to start with, in just wanting to get involved. Class (Dahl) is in the eye of the beholder — when I look out at the Yankees I see boring uniforms, not class.

I hope (Donovan) this winter all we'll hear about is excuses of how the Yankees almost won the pennant. 'Mohammed' Donovan must be one of those typical rowdy Yankee-types who comes to disrupt quiet Fenway and instigates trouble. He was probably in Schaffer Stadium that Monday night when the Patriots played the NY Jets, couple seasons back.

I'm hoping the only way (Ianiello) we'll see a baseball game in Yankee Stadium in October is because the Pirates and the Red Sox have agreed to play on a neutral court (or field in this case).

Actually, I don't really despise the Yankees. I hate 'em. They're cocky; they all think they're superstars and have a habit of sleezing through the season and winning lucky games (sorry about NY game last night).

Don't pay attention to predictions Sox-ites. The Sox are off to a slow start, but they'll recover. You can't listen to the above persons — they're just decent lacrosse players; what do they know about baseball anyways?

Keep remembering, things could be worse than this Sox start. You could be a Brewers' fan — and be out of contention by the Ides of April.

Staff meeting

There will be a mandatory meeting for all Collegian sports staff members tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Collegian office.

---

Carter will veto tuition tax cre

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter, speaking shortly after a House committee trimmed back its tuition tax credit bill, said yesterday he would veto any such bill that he considers either unconstitutional or too costly.

"Every proposal I have seen in the Congress so far is both costly and unconstitutional," the president told the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"I don't favor tuition tax credits under any circumstance, even at a very slight level," Carter said. "It's very detrimental to the future of education in our country."

His announcement came after the House Ways and Means Committee stripped its bill of provisions that would allow income tax credits for tuition paid for elementary and secondary schools. The committee's 20-16 vote leaves the bill covering only college tuition costs.

The bill shaped by the committee still goes against Carter's recommendation that Congress reject tax credits and instead expand existing loan and scholarship programs for college students.

The House bill also differs from one approved by the Senate Finance Committee and awaiting Senate action. That measure includes credits for lower school tuition and has higher limits on tax relief.

The House bill would provide tax credits of 25 percent of the cost of college or other post-secondary tuition, up to a maximum credit of $250 a year. The credit would be phased in — $100 next Aug. 1, $150 in 1979 and $250 in 1980. The program would end unless continued by Congress.

In contrast, the Senate bill would provide a 50 percent credit, also phased in, beginning with a maximum of $250 and rising to $500 in 1980. It would be available for elementary and secondary as well as college tuition.

The stripped-down House bill was estimated to cost about $1 billion a year when fully effective; the Senate version about $4.4 billion.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 118 WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Susan Birmingham, a leader in the Student Organizing Project, comments on the proposed student dormitory lease with students involved in the recent Whitmore occupation. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

On takeover demands

Students meet to plan action

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

Students involved in last Wednesday's occupation of the Whitmore administration building set up several committees last night to see that student action is taken on concessions won from the administration during the occupation.

The meeting, attended by 50 students, set up a lease negotiating team which will work with administrators to form a student dormitory lease; a committee of students to work with administrators on giving rebates to dormitory residents whose personal property was damaged by university negligence in the dorms; a committee to bring a reorganization proposal to the Student Government Association that would put students in a collective bargaining position with the university; and a group to publicize these committees and bring more students into this process.

Collective bargaining between students and administration was the one point administrators refused to negotiate last week during the occupation.

"The administrators have people working at these levels. Now we have people, students, working at these levels. We are negotiating, researching and working for student interests," said David Barenberg, a student and a leader of last week demonstration.

The meeting set up a 14-person lease negotiating team, five of whom will be the negotiators. These five will meet with administrators about the lease.

One student said these five negotiators will "do intensive work and hold discussions with administrators, going through the lease point by point and negotiating on these points." The other students on the negotiating team will do research on the lease and help the five negotiators.

Each of the committees set up last night will report back to a general meeting of students to be held in two weeks.

The committee to have students work with administrators was one of the demands won by students at last week's demonstration.

The agreement, containing five demands and signed by five administrators, read in part, "(we) agree to establish a student and administration committee to recommend guidelines, specifications, and levels for making rent rebates due, because of physical deterioration within the dormitories."

According to Dr. Fred Preston, associate vice chancellor for student affairs, the administration already had a plan to give rebates to students for this kind of damage in the works.

One student said, "We have an agreement to allow students into a process they have not been in before. What we need are volunteers to get into this process."

A motion will be on the floor of the student senate tonight which would support the lease negotiating team, giving them official status in the negotiations with the administration.

The lease negotiating team will meet today at 6 p.m. in the Dukes room of the Student Union.

Students won agreements to sit together with faculty on lease discussions and rebate discussions after a 15 hour occupation of Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery's outer-office last Wednesday.

DeLima indicted for personal phone usage

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker-elect Brian DeLima was indicted yesterday on student judiciary charges arising from his use of senate phones for personal calls.

The charges were filed by Attorney General Jeff Lutsky.

DeLima said, "I have been telling Lutsky to file the complaint and get the thing done with." DeLima questioned Lutsky's intentions in filing "charges the day before my confirmation in the Senate (as speaker)." He called the trial "a political witch hunt to defame my character and integrity."

Lutsky said DeLima's "actions are fraudulent, abusive in nature and constitute a misuse of funds..."

According to Lutsky, the charges stem from DeLima's use of student government telephones for his personal use and his methods of paying back these bills. Another charge, still under investigation, stems from DeLima's acceptance of student government pay that may have made DeLima ineligible for the financial aid he receives.

The first charge is misrepresentation. According to Lutsky, "No one has the right to use Senate phones for personal use. DeLima claims he has that authority.

The charge is a violation of the Student Code of Conduct which says "representing the University or any recognized student organization or charged group is viewed as improper student conduct." Violation of this charge can result in suspension.

DeLima said, "I am not saying anyone has the authority to do so (make personal calls). I am one individual who has admitted to using phones and entered into an agreement to pay back."

Advocate John Hensleigh, who will defend DeLima, said "Historically, almost every student leader has made personal calls and made payment procedures in the fashion Mr. DeLima has."

DeLima has said that not accepting pay for working over intersession will make up for the calls. DeLima did not file any time cards for that time.

According to Lutsky, if DeLima had filed time cards, the money he earned would have made DeLima ineligible for financial aid. "The Financial aid office does not know he has made money which would've been deducted from work-study...this indicates that Mr. DeLima may have misrepresented himself before the financial aid office." said the Attorney General.

DeLima said, "I have not earned my work-study request. I have not earned what I am entitled to." He called the financial aid charge "total bullshit." The financial aid charge would be in violation of the misrepresentation statute and also another student code of conduct regulation, according to Lutsky.

This law says, "tampering with or falsifying any University record or official document...or knowingly submitting false information for incorporation in such records" is a violation of the student code.

The third and final charge is a violation of Massachusetts General law. The student Judiciary has no power in the Massachusetts legal system.

The law says, "Whoever, with intent to defraud, obtains or attempts to obtain "any telecommunications service by any false representation, false statement or strategem by...unauthorized charging to the account of another....shall be punished."

"He has had the student body pay for calls. He has taken something out of the system and has put nothing back," said Lutsky.

Convention

The Student Government Association reconvenes tonight at 7 at the Hatch in its fifth attempt to elect a student president.

ub howls into 3rd windiest U.S. city

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

The next time you're in Boston, hold on, or you might literally get blown away.

That's because Boston ranks as the third windiest city in the United States, right behind Great Falls, Montana and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The Hub has an average wind speed of 12.9 mph, behind Great Falls' 13.1 mph and Oklahoma City's 13.0 mph.

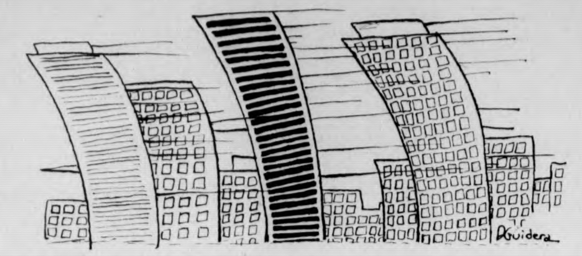
UMass students might claim Amherst as the windiest location in the United States. Any student who has walked by the library when the wind has been howling might say UMass is windier than the top-listed cities.

Becalmed Chicago ranks 16th, with a mere 10.4 mph average wind speed. Perhaps Chicago's nickname of "The Windy City" is somewhat a misnomer.

All this hot air about wind comes from recent data published by the National Climatic Center of the U.S. Weather Bureau and is printed in the latest edition of the best-selling Book of Lists.

A recent study done here on campus in conjunction with Weather Dynamics of Arlington said the high winds around the library, as well as those in cities, are caused in part by high rise buildings. The buildings channel upper air currents down lower to the ground and increase ground-level wind speed.

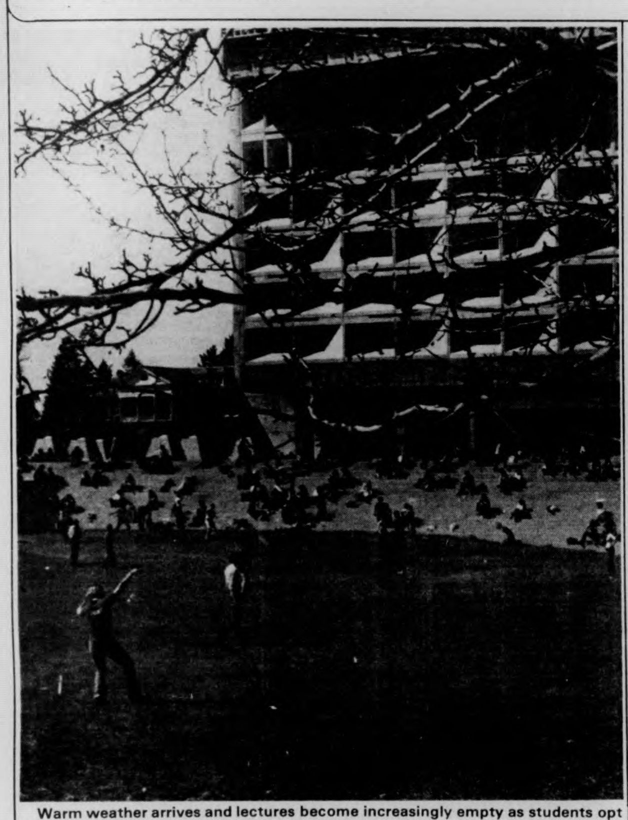
In fact, wind tunnel experiments have shown that tall buildings can cause ground-level winds to increase two to three times as fast as normal.



Nearby Providence, R.I. ranked ninth on the list with an average wind speed of 10.9 mph.

The study discovered that pedestrians who work in windy areas don't go out as often on windy days. When they do go out, researchers found, they don't wander; they stick to the beaten path that leads straight where they want to go.

Consider how many UMass students may have avoided the library on a windy day.



Warm weather arrives and lectures become increasingly empty as students opt for the outdoors. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Phone-in medical advice attracts 5-college students

By MARIA MESSITT
Collegian Staff

Five-College students are among those using a new telephone service dispensing free health and medical information at Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton.

Of the 5000 monthly calls, many young people are represented, Betty Sonderegger Public Relations Director at Cooley Dickinson yesterday said. The Tel-Med system, in effect since January 23 of this year, receives an equal number of calls from males and females.

Tel-Med provides preventive health information in the form of 276 assorted tapes ranging in subject matter from face lifts to abortion, dental health to venereal disease, and cancer to drug and alcohol problems, Sonderegger said. The three to seven minute tapes have been screened by a panel of Cooley Dickinson physicians and other health experts to insure accuracy. The taping is done in California.

The original Tel-Med system was developed in 1972 by the San Bernadino County Medical Society in California. About 100 systems are in effect throughout the United States to date.

The program at Cooley Dickinson is one of four in Massachusetts, and six in all of New England. Other areas with Tel-Med systems are Boston, Worcester, Methuen, and one each in Maine and Rhode Island. Cooley Dickinson services 16 communities in the Hampshire County area, and reaches 100,000 people.

Tel-Med operates every day from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tapes can be heard by calling 586-5800, and asking for the desired tape by number. Tel-Med tape listings can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Tel-Med care of The Cooley Dickinson Hospital, Locust St., Northampton, Mass. 01060. Directories are also available at the Jones Library in Amherst.

During the first eight days of operation at Cooley Dickinson 3000 calls were logged. After three months and 17,000 calls, each of the 276 tapes had been requested once.

The most frequently requested calls deal with male and female sexual response, masturbation, and how to recognize pregnancy. Other popular interest areas are marijuana, high blood pressure, snacks, alcohol, menopause, parent-teenager relations, and children's queries on birth.

Tel-Med functions as a supplement to, rather than a substitute for medical care. "This has been presented nationwide as an educational tool. It's preventive medicine, we're not trying to take the place of a doctor," said Sonderegger. "It's to get people to start thinking about their own health," she said.

The Tel-Med system is a gift to the hospital and community from the Cooley Dickinson Auxiliary, which funds and staffs the $15,000 program. Financing was done through fundraising efforts including hospital gift and coffee shops, gift carts, marathon bridge tournaments, and the Hospital Follies, a show held each autumn, Sonderegger said.

Former Auxiliary President, and now Tel-Med Program Chairwoman Mrs. Dale Sheckels, first saw the system demonstrated at a State Health Fair in 1976. Sheckels said she felt the system would be a good community service. She felt it was one way to help the situation of constantly rising medical costs. People need to be better educated regarding personal health instead of feeling the need to call a doctor for every little thing, Sheckels said.

Cooley Dickinson's Ted-Med system is one of four in the country to be operated entirely by volunteers, Sheckels said.

. . . newslines . . .

Wood writes for Globe

Former UMass President Robert C. Wood wrote a commentary on President Carter's urban planning which appeared in last Friday's Boston Globe.

Wood said he has been writing commentaries for the Globe off and on for 20 years. "When they (Globe editors) are dealing with matters of urban affairs or education they ask me," he said.

Wood, a specialist in urban planning, stepped down from the office of University president in December 1977.

— GAYLE YOUNG

Lindbergh to speak

Author Anne Morrow Lindbergh will speak tonight at Smith College in John M. Greene Hall at 8 p.m. Her topic will be "The Journey, Not the Arrival."

Mrs. Lindberg, a 1928 graduate of Smith, is the widow of aviator Charles A. Lindbergh. During 1931 and 1933, she flew with her husband on survey flights over air routes from North America to Asia and Europe.

Mrs. Lindbergh has written three books about flying, "North to the Orient," "Listen, the Wind," and "The Steep Ascent." Among her other books are "Gift From the Sea" and three autobiographical volumes, "Bring Me a Unicorn," "Hour of Gold, Hour of Lead," and "Locked Rooms and Open Doors."

The talk is sponsored by the Smith College student lecture committee, and is open to the public.

— MARIA MESSITT

SGA convention tonight

The Student Government Association Electoral Convention is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. in the Hatch.

Convention Chairman Jon A. Hite has sent out letters "compelling" members to attend tonight's convention.

This will be the fifth night the Convention has been scheduled to meet.

At the last session on Monday night, the convention adjourned after the Sylvan delegation walked out leaving the convention without a quorum.

Abuse topic of talk

Feminist counselor Joan Kamman and UMass senior Sandy Mandel will explore the cultural roots of woman and child abuse in a talk this afternoon entitled "Women and Domestic Violence: Culture Causes and Cures."

Mandel and Kamman, associated with the New England Learning Center for Women in Greenfield, will use a variety of media in their BDIC sponsored talk presented at 3 p.m. in room 615, Goodell.

"The abusive treatment of women and its more publicized component, child abuse, cannot be addressed without also discussing the issues of economic and educational disadvantage and institutional sexism," said Mandel.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Judy Van Handle

| | |
|---|---|
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |
| Copy Desk | Megan O'Reilly |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dale Griswold |
| Photo Staff | Donna Platt, Amira Rahman, Diane Crawford, Judie Del Frate |
| Sports Layout | Mike McHugh |
| Visiting Wahoo Woman | Patty Passuth |
| Floating(!) in and out | Joe Q. |

"The evil ways of some people will come back to haunt them..."

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Buckminster Fuller gives the second of a series of lectures last night to an audience of 750. His topic dealt with the inherent mathematics of nature. (Staff photo by Judie DelFrate)

Fuller focuses on technology

By GARDE WELLS
Collegian Staff

"Within 10 years, all of humanity could be living at a higher standard than ever before during which we could phase out fossil fuel and nuclear energy," according to R. Buckminster Fuller.

Fuller, in the second part of his three-part lecture on synergy last night said we have the technology to survive as a planet.

"We've focused on destruction rather than cooperation," he said, continuing to stress his "more with less" philosophy of technology.

According to Fuller, all of our most valuable research is done secretly in the interest of international hostility.

"Doing more with less is kept secret, it is strictly the most classified information, he said.

Ninety nine per cent of humanity is technologically illiterate, Fuller said. This is our greatest danger, because technology is our future, he added.

"The public tends to think of technology as weapons," he said. "They think it as a threat to their life and work."

Fuller sees education and awareness of technology as our most important problem worldwide.

"Humanity doesn't know it has the option to make it," he said. "When humanity gets more developed in technology, we can survive," he added.

Fuller spent the last hour of his speech elaborating on self-discovered mathematics. "Everything I do in mathematics must be done through experimentation," he said.

Fuller said nature is pure science and has its own coordinate system. Our present system of mathematics has no numerical agreement with experimental evidence.

"I am absolutely convinced I have found nature's simplest form," said Fuller. He went on to explain and demonstrate the tetrahedron, a pyramid-like structure composed of four equilateral triangles.

"It is the most basic form of the universe," he said. "It separates the universe into two spaces in the simplest way possible."

Fuller showed that all matter and energy could be explained with the tetrahedron, and amazed the audience of 750 with three dimensional models on the stage.

Fuller discovered his own set of mathematics as a child, using nothing more than simple experimentation.

"We shouldn't think in terms of squares and cubes which are used in conventional mathematics," he said. "We should think in terms of tetrahedrons."

Fuller demonstrated theoretically and graphically the profundity and simplicity of the tetrahedron.

"I also saw that engineering was wrong because of the standard mathematics," he said.

"I hope you will leave here with a knowledge that simple experimentation is the key to mathematics," he said. "We have all been brought up on perpendiculars and parallels. Don't confine yourself to that framework."

The third and final part of the lecture will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium, when Fuller will explain the essence of liquids.

Earth Day festivities get off the ground

By CINDY REGET
Collegian Staff

Calling all Earthlings...tomorrow is your day.

Tomorrow is Earth Day, and in honor of our home star ship, the University library lawn will be transformed from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. into a cosmic homecoming full of educational and recreational events advocating environmental concerns.

Sponsored by the Coalition for Environmental Quality, the festivities include 35 exhibits focusing on environmental issues such as alternative agriculture, the whale and dolphin issues, cigarette smoking and the advantages and disadvantages of the trapping of wild animals.

There will be a workshop by Carol Entin on the fabrication and use of natural dyes, and gardening aficionados will be able to bring cuts from their plants and trade them for something new at the plant swapping table.

Other exhibits are sponsored by the Yellow Sun Food Co-op, the Bicycle Club, Mass.PIRG and the Student Senate Recycling project.

The day features a newspaper recycling project, with the children from the Mark Meadow's Elementary School in Amherst assisting in the process of making new paper.

There will be musical entertainment throughout the day, mostly featuring folk groups and jazz groups, including the Frumious Snatcher Band, Tom Hutchinson and Morris Dancer.

Other events include canoeing and kayaking instruction on the panel by the Outing Club, a discussion of hang gliding and a 2:15 p.m. parachute demonstration by the Parachute Club. The predicted landing site is the area between the Campus Center pond and the Morrill Science Center.

Earth Day was first sponsored in 1970 by environmental action, and has been celebrated annually by the coalition.

According to Sandy Krikorian of the coalition, the goal of Earth Day is to, "expose people to relevant environmental issues in order to help make decisions as to how they want to live their lives."

In case of rain, the events will be held in the Student Union Ballroom.

SW sponsors 'Wiz' trip

By ROBERT FALETRA
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Assembly last night overwhelmingly voted to allocate $450 for support of a student trip to New York City for the musical play 'The Wiz.'

The trip will be on April 23 and is open to all UMass students on a first come first serve basis for the available 100 tickets. Those wishing more information should call the Malcolm X Center in Berkshire House.

In other business the assembly voted to allocate $200 for support of Sun Day on May 3. Sun Day, a celebration of the dawn of the new solar age, will be sponsored the library and held in the Student Union Ballroom. The event will feature a speech by science fiction author Isaac Asimov, exhibits, films, slide shows and a number of other attractions, according to the Coalition for Environmental Quality.

Southwest Assembly elections will be held April 27. Nomination papers for the office of president, vice president, treasurer and communication coordinator are due April 18. More information may be obtained by calling the assembly office.

Mark Cavanaugh and Southwest Assembly president Joni Mersky meet with other area students to vote on allocations for coming activities. (Staff photo by Donna Platt)

Many things can be seen from atop the Pierpont roof and the best time to see them is under an evening sky. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Senate briefing on issues; speaker question settled

By CINDY REGET
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate will be briefed tonight on the vital issues facing the senate this semester, prior to attending the electoral convention.

The briefing, to be conducted by senate staffers and other students, is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. in Rm. 101 in the Campus Center.

Area government delegates will be meeting at the same time in the Hatch for the electoral convention. Senators have been urged to meet first at the briefing until the convention reaches a quorum or there are four delegations present with a quorum. At that time, the senate will adjourn and move to the convention.

Issues included in the briefing will be the process of the lease negotiations, the results of last week's Whitmore occupation, proposed bus fees for next semester, check-cashing policy, placement services and rebate policy.

The senate will also elect a treasurer if it reaches a two-thirds quorum.

The senate will also vote tonight on whether to approve Brian DeLima as speaker of the senate. There has been much discussion among senators questioning DeLima's qualities as speaker.

DeLima has termed his detractors as, "...just being crybabies for not being able to beat me in the elections for speaker."

"I ran in the election and the election was run fairly," he said, "I received the majority of the votes, so I am speaker. I would be happy to entertain at any time any questions anyone might have about me being speaker."

W.D. Meriwether to speak at UMass

Special to Black Affairs

The Third World Scientist Society (TWSS) is sponsoring a presentation by Dr. W. Delano Meriwether on Thursday, April 13th at 8:00 p.m. in room 904-08 Campus Center. The objective of the TWSS is to support Third World students in the Science and Engineering disciplines. This objective is fulfilled by sponsoring film series, industrial field trips, workshops, and lecture series.

Dr. Meriwether is presently special assistant to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), in Washington, D.C. He received his M.D. degree from Duke University in 1967 and in 1969 joined the Baltimore Cancer Research Center.

In 1971, Dr. Meriwether left Baltimore for Boston where he became a research and clinical fellow in Medicine at Boston City Hospital's Thorndike Memorial Laboratory, where the principle subject of his search was sickle cell anemia.

In 1973, as a special assistant to HEW, Dr. Meriwether traveled on a fact-finding mission to the Sahel Drough area in Sub-Sahara, to South Africa and to the Soviet Union.

Without any prior professional training, Dr. Meriwether astounded the sports world in 1971 and 1972 when he captured two National Amateur Athletic Union (NAAU) Sprinting Championships. He has also competed abroad for U.S. teams in South America and The People's Republic of China.

Dr. Meriwether was most recently in the national news in 1976 as Director of the Federal Government's Swine Flu Immunization Program.

The topic of Dr. Meriwether's presentation is The Role of the Third World Scientist and Engineer in the Federal Government. Additionally, Dr. Meriwether will speak about the implications of the Bakke decision.

All are welcome to this presentation which promises to be a very educational and interesting event.

South African theatre group presents "Survival"

The South African Theatre Workshop '71, a professional Boston-based group, will be appearing for two performances of "Survival" on Friday, April 14, 1978 at 6 and 9 p.m. in Chapin Auditorium, Mary Woolley Hall, Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Massachusetts.

"Survival" is a satirical play written and performed by the four members of the South African Theatre Workshop '71. It is a portrayal of Black life in South Africa and is based upon the actual life experiences of the authors. "Survival" dramatizes the futility of the life of Black South Africans when a former inmate is released from prison and courts his own arrest in order to return to the somewhat more reliable and more predictable prison environment. The actors feel that the main intent of the play is not to interpret South African life in a political context but rather in an artistic context. Through the use of native songs, dances, and preaching they intend to convey what ordinary Black South Africans think and feel.

The members of the cast — Fana D. Kekana, Selaelo Dan Maredi, Themba Ntinga, and Seth Sibanda — will also be speaking about "The Black South African Experience," and about their experiences in this country since their arrival in January 1977. The lecture will be held Thursday, April 13, at 8 p.m. in Hooker Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College.

Tickets for "Survival" are $1.00 for students and $2.50 for general admission. Tickets are on sale in the Ticket Office, Mary Woolley Hall, Mount Holyoke College and Tix Ticket Agency, Student Union, UMass. For more information call 538-2178.

A scene from the play "Survival" on Friday, the South African Theater Workshop will perform at Mount Holyoke College. The perfomance will begin at 9 p.m. Tickets are $1.00 for students and $2.50 for non-students.

Bring back popular election

By MARY E. CUSTARD
Black Affairs Staff

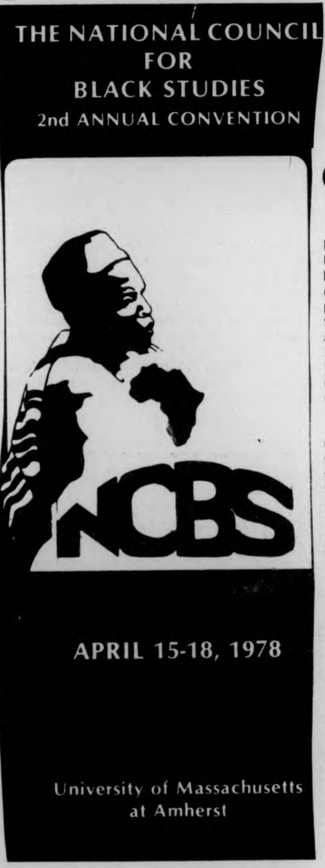
It seems a shame that the Student Government Association has chosen to make the election of a new president (co-presidents) a long and drawn out farce.

First, a popular election was held and because "none of the above" was on the ballot, none of the candidates received the required percentage of votes to win. Then, "none of the above" wasn't even recognized in the Student Government Convention, which had to be held because of the preceding factors. Four conventions later, with the fifth approaching, we are still without a president.

To make matters worse, the Bishop-Dion candidacy is being pushed by certain groups who feel no obligation to represent their constituency.

Have you "student" senators become so politically immoral that you can no longer represent the students who put you in office with their votes?!!!



THE NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR BLACK STUDIES
2nd ANNUAL CONVENTION
NCBS
APRIL 15-18, 1978
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

Convention begins on Saturday

On April 15-18, 1978, the W.E.B. Dubois Department of Afro-American Studies of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst will be sponsoring the Second Annual National Council for Black Studies Conference. The purpose of the conference is to bring together scholars, teachers, administrators, and students to discuss viable models of Black Studies programs throughout the United States and to help institutions develop specific strategies for either creating or strengthening their own programs.

The preceding conference was held at Ohio State University-Columbus and was well attended. A great deal of momentum was created for a resurgence and reinforcement of Black Studies programs at this conference and the interest which has been shown in this year's conference indicates all past attendance and participation levels will be exceeded. Participants will come from the great universities and colleges of California, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and North Carolina to name a few. Models of successful Black Studies programs will be presented and keynote speakers will include Bill Owens, State Senator from Massachusetts; Leonard Spearman, Acting Deputy Commissioner for Higher Education.

The conference will also include the election of new national and regional National Council of Black Studies officers. Registration begins on Saturday, April 15. All interested persons are advised to contact the National Council of Black Studies Conference Co-ordinators at (413) 545-0794 or write NCBS c-o Black Cultural Center, New Africa House, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003.

Warring "Over" Africa

By JAMES LEWIS JR.
Black Affairs Asst. Editor

The present cease-fire by Somalia in the war against Ethiopia was due to some very interesting military dynamics.

Ethiopia has always received military assistance from the United States. Up to 1976, the total U.S. military aid to Ethiopia was reported at $350 million. As of April 1975, economic aid was reported at $31 million. Ethiopia's total armed forces is reported as 44,800 persons, 16 per cent of its population.

Ethiopia, Cuba, The Soviet Union and the War

It is estimated that there are over 33,000 Cuban troops in Africa, 22,000 to 23,000 in Angola, 12,000 in Ethiopia, and another 5,000 in Rhodesia and elsewhere. The Cuban troops are backed by over seven billion dollars in Soviet military machinery. There are estimated to be 1,000 Soviets in Ethiopia, 500 South Yemen troops and 300 to 400 East German troops. Ethiopia's Provisional Military Council (PMC) stated May 18, 1976 that it secured 150 tons of arms and ammunition from Israel and had signed an agreement for a $12 million purchase of arms from Switzerland.

TURN TO PAGE 5

Recruitment!!

The Black Studies Conference needs student volunteers to help in the four day activities. Interested students should contact Van Jackson at 545-0794.

People are needed to work on security, publicity, concessions, and hospitality for the upcoming Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival on May. 6. All interested persons should attend the recruitment meeting this Thursday, April 13 on the second floor of New Africa House.

---

High Notes...

TODAY: A "GRAND TOUR AND HOW TO HANDLE A HOAX"

No sooner than I predicted a year of success for the new independent record label, Butterfly, they come out with a release that will bring this prediction a lot closer to reality. Their latest in a line of strong releases is "On Such A Winter's Day" by Grand Tour.

This LP is a cross between "Je T'Aime" (Saint Tropez' stellar remake of the legendary Seymour Gainsbourg standard) and "Too Hot For Love", both previously released on the label. The producers of the LP, Ian Gunther and Willie Morrison, who gave us the THP orchestra and "Two Hot For Love", take the sheer power and haunting strains of that effort and blend it with the sensuous flow of "Je T'Aime.

The result is a piece that flows like the waters of the Seine while we sit on the left bank letting the atmosphere sift through us. The music provides an avenue of escape but the escape is a healthy one. Rather than create illusions for you, the music reaches out and encourages you to use your own imagination, to get in touch with yourself and see your own desires.

This LP says nothing. In fact, only one song (other than the brilliantly true rendition of the Mamas and Papas' hit "California Dreamin") has no lyrics. This music is solely for listening pleasure and the expressing of beauty. If I remember correctly, that's what people like Beethoven, Bach, Strauss, etc. were striving for — the embodiment of beauty of nature and the inner self in music.

If enjoyment in music for solely the sake of music strikes you as attractive once in a while, this one is a must. The flow is enough to make you relax, but there are no sugary "additives" to throw off your usual diet.

On a more sober note, last Friday's Collegian printed a very objectional story in an effort to put over a joke in the annual April Fool's issue. The story in question is a very convincing one about an Israeli attack on Tyre, the Palestinian port city.

Some of the letters to the editor suggested that the writers were "shocked" that the Collegian would print such a story. My intent is to try and make sure that people will put this "shock" into perspective.

A friend put it best when she said that there's a large percentage of the American population that is shocked every day when they read the newspaper. I'm a member of this percentage as it includes concerned minority members. Some of us read the paper every day and see a travesty committed that shocks our conscience. To name a few cases in point; stories that try to prove that the Wilmington Ten is actually totally guilty, accounts of the Fred Hampton murder, the media's (some, not all) coverage of the "significant" return of Eldridge Cleaver — need I go on?

There's a difference in the above misrepresentations and the Collegian's. The above are true events that did actually happen and are deliberately (not half-wittedly) being misrepresented.

I am by no means trying to cover for the Collegian's poor example of journalistic ethics or even their poor taste in jokes. Those responsible for the story were totally insensitive of a very tense situation and offended many people (including myself) in the process. All I desire is that people put this all in a proper perspective. You see, no one will be illegally jailed, murdered or exploited as the result of the Collegian's folly. Their "little joke" will become scarcely any more than that, while stories in other papers have dealt severe blows to some people. Lets not allow a case of hard feelings to distort our view of reality so as to prevent us from seeing the really damaging misrepresentations.

—mario

Correction

In our last issue, Friday, April 7, the editor's editorial on the article, "Freaky Daaky vs. Benefit", incorrectly stated that the fundraising party was for the Che Lumumba School. The benefit was not for Che Lumumba but for the New World Day School, a multi-cultural learning center for the community.

IN last week's (Wednesday April 5) VIEWPOINT by Edward Cohen, the following line was deleted from his article, "and students should become active to change conditions that we all have to live with."

Announcements

Game for Fun and Games???

The Malcolm X Center in Southwest wishes to invite the Third World community to its first annual GAMES NIGHT. Come down to the center to play backgammon, whist, and chess. Please join us for an evening of fun and enjoyment. Games night will be held in the Malcolm X Center in Southwest at 9 p.m. Wednesday, April 12. Refreshments will be served.

Interested in teaching?

All Third World persons who are interested in teaching a course in the Malcolm X Center next semester, please contact Derek, Wayne, or Greg at the Center between the hours of 12:00 and 9:00. Call 545-2819.

Fashion Show

All models for the Third World Women's Fashion Show are to attend rehearsals Thursday and Sunday at 7 p.m. this week. If you cannot attend please notify Adreienne Phillips at 546-9305. Also, more male models are needed.

★ Warring

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

Somalia, Etc.

Total armed forces in Somalia, was estimated at 23,000 persons and its military expenditure was, in 1974, estimated at $15 million ($80 million expenditures for Ethiopia by 1976). But Deadline Data on World Affairs reported as of February 1975, reports that in the past 12 years the Somali armed forces have approximately quintupled and that they now rank 4th in Black Africa after Nigeria, Zaire and Ethiopia. It also stated that Somalia's air force ... is the largest and best equipped between the Arab states and South Africa, and its 220 tanks outnumber all the rest in Africa. Saudi Arabia offered Somalia $300 million in aid to end "Somalia's almost total dependence on Soviet economic and military aid." The Western Somalia Liberation Front had about "200,000 para-military supporters in Ogaden villages and towns."

The Organization of African Unity supports Ethiopia, as did most of the world. From Facts on File, "The African nations had committed themselves to maintaining the national boundaries drawn by the European colonial powers, in spite of the fact that those boundaries had taken no account of ethnic and tribal divisions. The OAU feared that if the Somalis succeeded in uniting all ethnic Somalis under one flag, similar wars would erupt all over Africa."

The area in dispute is the Ogaden region, presently maintained by Ethiopia, except for the period when Somali forces the area. The Ogaden region was left with Ethiopia when the British left the country. Since that time, Ethiopia had been harboring a growing civil war. When the French and Italians left Somalia, Somalia existed as it did before European takeover except the Ogaden region, now under the control of Ethiopia.

Somalia had successfully taken back the Ogaden region during the war, with the help of Russia, Great Britain, The United States, Italy, French, Israel, Cuba; Ethiopia was able to take back the region, and cause Somalia to call a seize fire.

The situation in Rhodesia will be continued in Friday's Black Affairs.

U.S. MILITARY INVOLVEMENT IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

Open Session:
Friday, April 14, 1978 8:00pm
104 Thompson Hall
University of Massachusetts
Amherst

Workshops
Saturday, April 15, 1978, 1-5 pm
New Africa House
University of Massachusetts
Amherst

--VIOLATIONS OF U.N. ARMS EMBARGO
Michael Klare, Policy Institute
Eric Prokosch, American Friends Service Committee
Sean Gervasi, Namibia Committee

--MERCENARIZATION IN SOUTHERN AFRICA
Cynthia Enlow, Clark University

--WESTERN STRATEGY IN SOUTHERN AFRICA
Courtland Cox, Emergency Fund for Southern Africa

--NUCLEAR INVOLVEMENT
Ronald Walters, Howard University

--POSSIBILITIES OF CONGRESSIONAL ACTION TO STOP MILITARY INTERVENTION
Robert Sylvester, Aid to Congressman Colin Curtis

--TRANSNATIONAL CORPORATE MILITARY INVOLVEMENT
Ann Seidman, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Neva Seidman, Howard University

Sponsored By
Afro American Association, University of Massachusetts
International Student Association, University of Massachusetts
Five College Black Studies Executive Committee
Student Organizing Project, University of Massachusetts
The Association of African Scholar, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Committee for the Liberation of South Africa, University of Massachusetts

PIZZA - RAMA
355 College St., Amherst
We specialize in
Pizza — Grinders
Spaghetti
FREE DELIVERY call 253-3808
OPEN 7 DAYS: MON-THURS, 11am-1am; FRI-SAT, 11am-2am; SUN, 11am-1am

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley
584-8324
Kent Whalon
—Licensed
Optician
We are Specialists in:
•FASHION EYEWEAR
•CONTACT LENSES
• Emergency Replacements
• Free Adjustments Anytime
• We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.
We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

Dworkin speaks on women

'Status quo safer than change'

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Andrea Dworkin last night said "Women acquiesce to male conformity to protect themselves from male violence." The radical feminist author of Woman Hating and Our Blood spoke before an audience of 500 in Mahar Auditorium on "Protective Oppression: What the Right Has to Offer Women."

"Women can be expected to be conservative because the status quo is safer than change, whatever the change. Resisting male control leads to rape, batter, ostracization and jail," she said.

Dworkin discussed the "paring down" of women in male society to sexual objects. "Every attempt to reduce a woman to 'pussy' and 'cunt' is a dismemberment of a woman. The paring down of a woman is men's best and favorite joke. Every woman, no matter what her social or sexual situation, fights this paring down," she said.

Dworkin cited accounts of rape, wife beating, medical butchering and sadistic psychological abuse of women as things which "should leave the heart seared."

"The very reality of the abuse sustained is negated. The problem is that one must believe in the existence of the person to recognize the significance of their suffering. Neither men nor women believe that women are significant beings," she said.

"The political right in America today makes certain metaphysical and material promises that both exploit and quiet some of women's deepest fears," she added.

The right offers women form (in a social, biological and sexual sense), shelter, safety, rules and love, according to Dworkin. She described the right's concept of love based on sexual submission and childbearing.

Dworkin cited the views of right wing activists Anita Bryant, Marabelle Morgan and Ruth Carter Stapleton as ways in which women use Christianity to project their rage at their condition onto others.

"Anita Bryant has spent a good part of her life on her knees asking Jesus' forgiveness for her existence," she said.

Dworking read quotes from Bryant's book Bless this House, which described the problems with Bryant's marriage to Bob Green. "Bryant makes it clear she was badgered and coerced to conforming to the will of her husband. She, like Stapleton and Morgan, has taken Jesus as her real husband." Dworkin said.

Citing the anti-semetic, anti-lesbian and anti-abortion views by women she encountered at the Houston Women's Conference, Dworkin said, "There is a Christian-fascist movement controlled and built on the fear and ignorance of women."

"The hope is that these women will be upset by, and will be forced to articulate, their own experience," she added.

Dworkin was asked what she saw as one of the solutions to the right wing suppression of women. "In every community there should be vital, effective organizing of women against violence," she said.

Andrea Dworkin speaks to approximately 500 people last night in Mahar Auditorium on the protective oppression of women. (Staff photo by Diane Crawford)

TIRED OF YOUR HAIR?
Thinking about a new look for the Spring?
We suggest for the TOTAL LOOK:
a dimensional or angled cut with complementing color highlighting Styles by Deborah
Shampoo · personalized cut · blow dry
$8.00 with this coupon
(Tues. & Wed. only—limited to our new customers)
Styles by Deborah — 549-5610
65 Univ. Drive (Next to Bell's Pizza)

Bizarre murder leads to playwright's arrest

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. [AP] — A self-styled playwright pleaded innocent Tuesday to a first-degree murder charge in the sledge-hammer death of an aspiring young actress who thought she was trying out for a play entitled "Hammer."

"Thrills. It must have been — to see what it felt like," said Peter Keliher, a Highland Park police detective, when asked before the arraignment about a possible motive for the slaying of Patricia Cowan, 20.

James Thomas, 21, also pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to murder in the hammering of Ms. Cowan's 4-year-old son, Dequan, who was seriously injured and was hospitalized in Detroit.

Police said Thomas brought Ms. Cowan and her son into the garage behind his house and had her play a scene in which a married couple argues. At the height of the argument, the playwright suddenly grabbed a four-pound, short-handled sledge hammer and struck Ms. Cowan several times in the head from behind, Keliher said.

Ms. Cowan, described by friends as religious, was found dead in a garage Sunday, her son beside her.

Keliher told the court that Thomas, who described himself as a karate instructor and self-employed writer, had no job.

Judge Michael Mozola, who sat in Highland Park Municipal Court for the case, said he would appoint a lawyer for Thomas before another hearing April 18. He ordered Thomas held without bail in the county jail in Detroit.

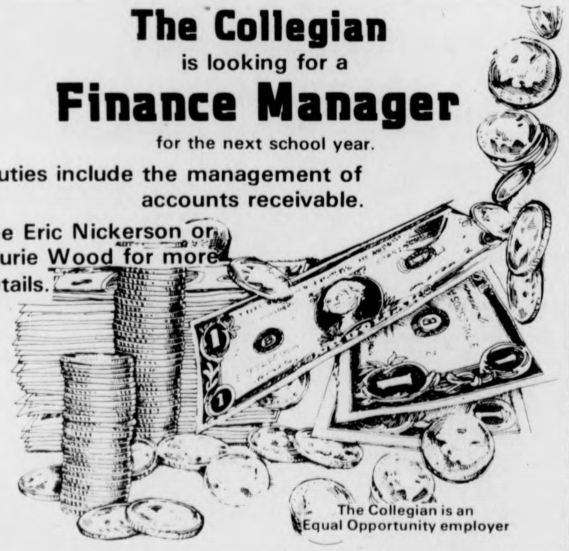
Except to enter his pleas, Thomas said nothing and stood slouched before the judge with hands in pockets, wearing an Army jacket bearing a sergeant's three chevrons and a rust-colored stocking cap.

Lynell Garlington and Gwendolyn Chenault were held as material witnesses in lieu of $50,000 bail. Neither was charged with a crime. Authorities said Ms. Chenault was Thomas' girlfriend and saw the killing. Garlington, they said was a friend who helped Thomas toss the hammer to the roof of a plumbing shop later, and who had given the "playwright" a list of four actresses, on which Ms. Cowan's name had a check mark beside it.

Also on Garlington's list, Keliher said, was Brenda Murray Starr, a friend of Ms. Cowan's. Ms. Starr, who worked with the victim in the amateur acting troupe called Detroit's Finest Love Theatrical Company, said Ms. Cowan told her she was getting $100 for reading the part Sunday morning. Ms. Starr said she turned down a similar offer.

Garlington had joined the Finest Love troupe after seeing them perform on a local television program.

Ms. Cowan and her injured son were dumped in an alley about four blocks from the garage, police said. Boys skateboarding nearby heard the child's screams and discovered the mother and son in a bloody pile of garbage.



The Collegian
is looking for a Finance Manager
for the next school year.
Duties include the management of accounts receivable.
See Eric Nickerson or Laurie Wood for more details.
The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity employer

Carter pushes new anti-inflation plan

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter, in a new effort to slow inflation, asked business and labor for voluntary cooperation yesterday and promised not ot use wage and price controls except in "a national emergency like all-out war."

The president, launching a new anti-inflation offensive, also chided Congress for not enacting his long-stalled energy program and threatened administrative action to restrict foreign oil imports.

The inflation rate last year was 6.8 per cent. Prices rose at an annual rate of 8.4 per cent during the first two months of 1978. The administration had originally predicted prices would rise 6.1 per cent this year. But some government economists say the increase could be closer to 7 per cent.

In ruling out wage and price controls, Carter said he will not try to stem inflation by proposing actions that would increase unemployment.

"I can't imagine any circumstances under which I would favor wage and price controls than a national emergency like all-out war," he told a news conference following a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Carter said he would set an example by seeking to limit federal pay increases to about 5.5 per cent this year and by vetoing legislation that would fuel inflation.

Congress would have the final say on salaries for most federal employees, although Carter could limit pay raises for White House employees by merely issuing an executive order.

Carter gave his White House staff a pay raise of up to 25 per cent in March 1977 and another 7.05 per cent in November.

The president said it is a myth that the government itself can stop inflation.

"Let me be blunt about this point," Carter said. "I am asking American workers to follow the example of federal workers and accept a lower rate of wage increase. In return they have a right to expect a comparable restraint in price increases for the goods and services they buy."

At the news conference, Carter also said:

—He has not decided whether to seek re-election in 1980.

—He expects his image, as reflected by public opinion polls, to improve with the achievement of more success in resolving such difficult issues as energy and inflation. In the last Associated Press-NBC News poll only 33 per cent rated Carter's performance excellent or good while 64 per cent gave him only fair or poor marks. Three per cent were unsure.

—"Good and steady" progress is being made toward a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty with the Soviet Union.

—He will veto tuition tax credit legislation that he considers either too costly or unconstitutional. "I think the whole concept is fallacious and I don't like it," Carter added. Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill providing income tax credits to help pay the cost of college tuition.

—He is in no "big hurry" to achieve full diplomatic relations with China, but eventually hopes to have such relations with the Communist nation.

—Attorney General Griffin Bell made the right decision in electing to prosecute three former top FBI officials who allegedly issued orders for unlawful burglaries by lower-echelon agents. A federal grand jury on Monday indicted former FBI Director L. Patrick Gray and his two top aides.

In his speech on the economy, Carter said he expects industry and labor to keep price, wage and salary increases "significantly below the average rate for the last two years." He had stated a similar view in his January economic message.

"Those who set medical, legal and other professional fees, college tuition rates, insurance premiums and other service charges must also join in," Carter said.

He said his administration will also avoid or reduce the purchase of goods or services whose prices are rapidly rising and will cut regulations that add to the costs of private industry.

Carter promised action to reduce airline fares and other costs regulated by the government, and reiterated his promise to veto farm legislation that would raise food prices.

He said he would take steps to expand cutting of timber to hold down the price of lumber, which has gone up about 20 per cent in the last year, and push for legislation to hold down hospital costs.

the ring sale.
$59.95
save up to $25.00
4 days only!

Men's traditional Siladium® rings and selected women's fashion rings are an unusual buy at $59.95. If you want really outstanding savings, now is the time to buy your college ring.
THE ARTCARVED REPRESENTATIVE has a large collection of rings.
Ask to see them.
Dates TODAY Place BOOKSTORE, 10:00-2:30
Deposit required. Ask about Master Charge or Visa.
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Refugees go back to Tyre

BEIRUT, Lebanon [AP] — Thousands of refugees, prodded by their government, returned home to South Lebanon yesterday as Israel started to relinquish the area.

Chartered buses, trucks and private cars, crammed with personal belongings, carried refugees to Israeli checkpoints and into the southern port city of Tyre.

Israeli soldiers, worried about guerrilla infiltration, turned back refugees who lacked identification cards.

The Israeli troop withdrawals were east of Tyre. Tyre is the only area south of the Litani River Israel doesn't occupy.

To the north, in Beirut, bitter fighting continued between Christian and Moslem militiamen.

At least 5,000 southern Lebanese headed home from refugee camps in Sidon and Beirut on the first day of a government-sponsored repatriation program. An estimated 20,000 others returned earlier.

About 220,000 fled when Israel invaded southern Lebanon March 15.

"We are returning because our government told us to but we don't feel secure," said Jamil Abu Khalil, a farmer from the Israeli-occupied coastal town of Abassiye. "We just don't have any choice."

The government says it will cut off rations to refugees who refuse to return to homes in the south. Those who return will get a month's supply of food.

Refused handwriting sample

Harrington denies signing check

BOSTON [AP] — Senate President Kevin B. Harrington told legislative investigators yesterday he did not sign or cash a $2,000 check made out to him by McKee-Berger-Mansueto, but refused to supply a handwriting sample.

Harrington said later he did not provide a sample of his signature because "signature styles change over a period of years and the period of time that we were talking about is some seven years and five months ago."

In a statement, Harrington said he would be "more than happy" to supply examples of his signature from late 1970.

Harrington said, "If those signatures prove to be inadequate then I will, of course, make current signatures available."

The Salem Democrat testified for three hours and 20 minutes behind closed doors before the Post Audit and Oversight Committee in the small Senate Ways and Means conference room which adjoins his office.

Some committee members characterized the session as "tense".

Rep. Gerald Cohen, D-Andover, chairman of the subcommittee conducting the MBM probe, said, "It was a good three hours of give and take. He answered those questions he could.

"But there are a lot of smaller things left up in the air that we don't have the answers to," Cohen said.

Rep. Robert Fortes, D-Boston, said of Harrington's testimony about the 1970 MBM check. "He said he felt he did not sign the check to the best of his knowledge and would stand on that.

"He did not want to speculate about who did sign the check," Fortes added.

Rep. Michael Rea, D-Billerica, said Harrington told the committee "he did not cash the check or pocket the money."

Fortes said Harrington also denied knowing or even meeting with any officials of MBM, a New York consulting firm which in 1970 held a $6 million state contract.

Fortes said the committee still had some questions about Harrington's financial transactions within 15 to 28 days after the check was cashed at the Salem Savings Banks. He said the Senate president promised to provide more information along those lines.

There were other areas Harrington refused to answer questions about, including the possible involvement of his long time friend and aide, the late Jack Nestor.

Fortes said Harrington insisted some areas were "beyond the scope" of the committee's investigation.

Following the refusal of Harrington to provide a handwriting sample, the committee will consider hiring a handwriting expert to analyze the signature on the back of the check made out to Harrington.

Both House counsel John Donovan and Senate counsel James McIntyre attended the session.

While reporters and photographers crowded around outside the meeting room, Capitol Police officers guarded the outer and inner doors of the office.

Harrington avoided the crowd by slipping through a narrow passageway which runs from his office to the adjoining Senate Ways and Means room.

Some committee members said the meeting had "some tense moments" but Cohen said, "some personal problems of the past are all over now."

Rep. William P. Nagle Jr., D-Northampton, said of Harrington, "I wouldn't call him the most cooperative witness.

The investigating committee had earlier incurred Harrington's wrath by subpoenaing his bank records for 1970 through 1972.

BOSTON (UPI) — Rep. Gerald M. Cohen, chairman of the Post Audit subcommittee and committee special counsel Charles Nesson answer questions at the State House after a closed session concerning alleged campaign contributions made by a New York consulting firm.

Bonin asked to step aside

BOSTON [AP] — The state Supreme Court yesterday asked Superior Court Chief Justice Robert M. Bonin to leave his post until the panel reviews allegations of his misconduct.

In a letter to Bonin, the judges said they "suggest you remove yourself voluntarily from all judicial and administrative duties until final resolution of existing allegations."

The letter added, "Our suggestion implies no judgment on the merits of any allegations against you."

Bonin had not responded to the panel's request by last night, after reportedly meeting with his lawyers all afternoon.

The Supreme Court's request came a day after the state Senate passed a resolution asking Bonin to step aside until the questions surrounding his activity were resolved.

For the past few weeks, the Committee on Judicial Responsibility, which monitors judges' conduct, has been reviewing allegations of improprieties involving Bonin. The committee is examining a 100-page report on Bonin's activities, including disclosures Bonin's wife had free use of a car that was leased by an insurance company for $200 a month.

The Supreme's Court's letter indicated the committee also is looking into the judge's appearance at a gay rights lecture sponsored by a group sympathetic to the cases of 24 men facing Superior Court trials on various sex offenses.

Bonin's presence at the lecture last week generated controversy because, as Superior Court chief justice, he would be responsible for assigning judges to preside over the defendants' trials.

Bonin said Monday he planned to stay in his post as chief justice, but he would not assign himself or other judges to try the cases involving the alleged sex offenders.

Meanwhile, yesterday the House Rules Committee drafted a letter to the state Supreme Court asking for a report on the status of its investigation into Bonin's activities. The committee also asked the court to open the meetings held by the Committee on Judicial Responsibility to discuss Bonin.

Debaters reach Nationals

By MARIA MESSITT
Collegian Staff

Two members of the UMass Debate Team will travel to Denver, Colorado next Wednesday to compete in the National Debate Tournament.

Nick Burnett, a senior communications major, and Alan Rosenbloom, a junior English Honors major, have been working towards the national tournament since last October.

Debate Coach Dr. Ronald Matland, and Assistant Coach Dave Donovan, both members of UMass' Communication Studies faculty, will accompany Burnett and Rosenbloom to the tournament.

"This is the sixth year in a row UMass has qualified for the national tournament. It's a record for schools in this area," said Matland.

Twelve-hundred colleges and universities debate throughout the United States, and during the third week in March, the top 62 are chosen. The next step in the selection process narrows the number of teams down to 14, out of which four will make it to the nationals.

Competing against UMass at the Denver tournament will be Harvard, Dartmouth and Bates. After five days of debating, one national champion will be chosen.

"I think their chances are quite good," said Donovan. "They've been there before, and are one of the brightest teams UMass has ever had. They've worked very hard," he said.

There are more people involved in the debate team than meet the eye. Thirty students have helped Burnett and Rosenbloom by researching, filing, and organizing the debate material. "It's a group effort," said Matland.

Burnett and Rosenbloom will debate both sides of the topic: "Law enforcement agencies should be given greater freedom in investigating and prosecuting felony crimes." Their arguments will focus on greater investigation in gun crimes, and the need for stronger gun control laws.

FACES

SOFT LUGGAGE

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Orchard Hill Women's Center is now accepting applications for co-coordinators for Fall '78.

Applications available at 112 Field House due April 21.

OH ♀'s Center is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

nobody asked!

He was in his twenties.
So was she.
Both were Catholic, unmarried,
prayerful, creative.
Both cared about people
and cared for them.

How come he never thought
of the priesthood?
How come she never thought
of being a nun?

"No one ever asked me,"
they said.

Is this your story?
No one ever asked you?
Well, we're asking.

— Mail Coupon Today! —
1-20
Please send information on:
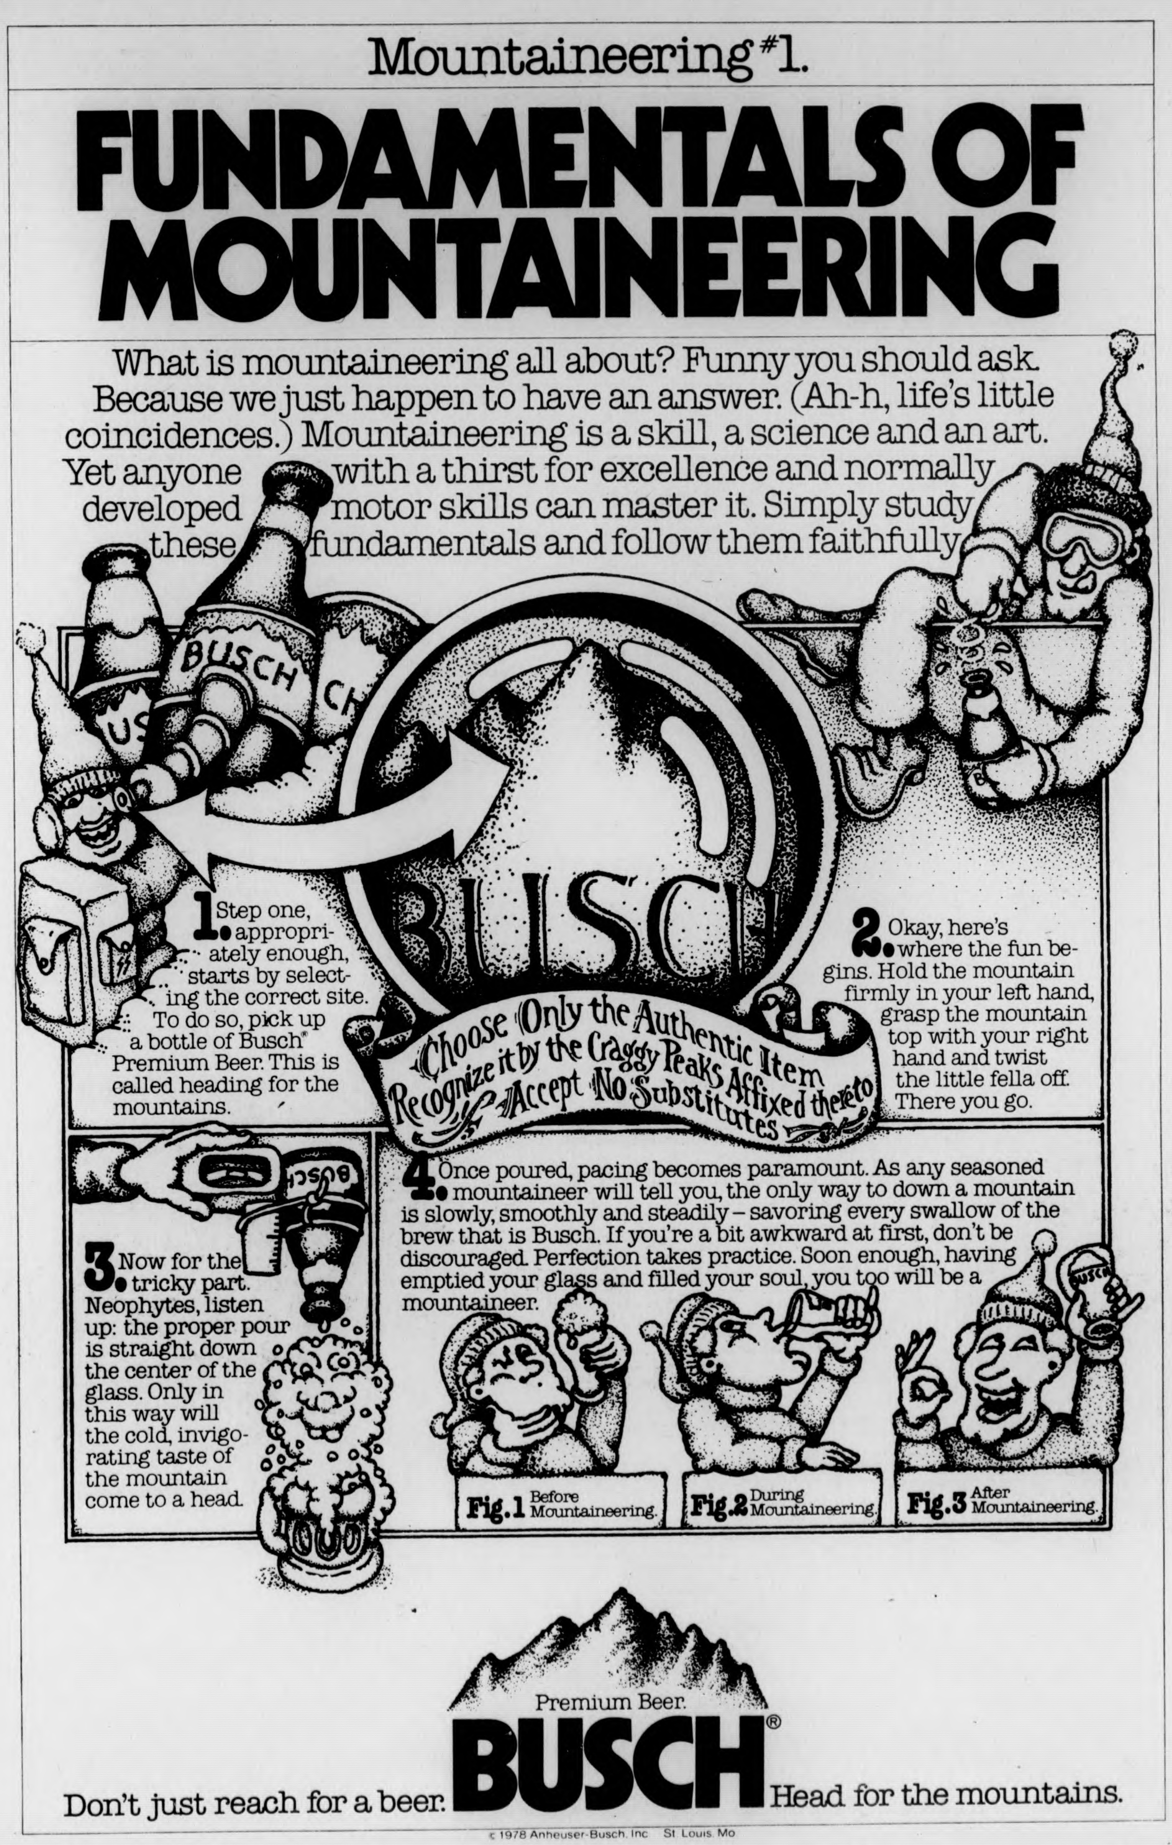
☐ Diocesan Priests ☐ Religious Priests
☐ Brothers ☐ Nuns ☐ Lay Ministries
Name
Address
City State ZIP
VOCATIONS COMMITTEE/SUPREME COUNCIL
KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
New Haven, CT 06507



Mountaineering #1.

FUNDAMENTALS OF MOUNTAINEERING

What is mountaineering all about? Funny you should ask. Because we just happen to have an answer. (Ah-h, life's little coincidences.) Mountaineering is a skill, a science and an art. Yet anyone with a thirst for excellence and normally developed motor skills can master it. Simply study these fundamentals and follow them faithfully.

1. Step one, appropriately enough, starts by selecting the correct site. To do so, pick up a bottle of Busch® Premium Beer. This is called heading for the mountains.

2. Okay, here's where the fun begins. Hold the mountain firmly in your left hand, grasp the mountain top with your right hand and twist the little fella off. There you go.

3. Now for the tricky part. Neophytes, listen up: the proper pour is straight down the center of the glass. Only in this way will the cold, invigorating taste of the mountain come to a head.

4. Once poured, pacing becomes paramount. As any seasoned mountaineer will tell you, the only way to down a mountain is slowly, smoothly and steadily – savoring every swallow of the brew that is Busch. If you're a bit awkward at first, don't be discouraged. Perfection takes practice. Soon enough, having emptied your glass and filled your soul, you too will be a mountaineer.

BUSCH
Choose Only the Authentic Item
Recognize it by the Craggy Peaks Affixed thereto
Accept No Substitutes
Fig. 1 Before Mountaineering.
Fig. 2 During Mountaineering.
Fig. 3 After Mountaineering.
Premium Beer.
BUSCH®

Don't just reach for a beer. BUSCH Head for the mountains.

© 1978 Anheuser-Busch, Inc. St. Louis, Mo.

Program called 'one of best'

Controversy surrounds Women's Studies

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

The Women's Studies program at UMass, reputed as one of the best in the nation according to a study last year conducted by Florence Howe, Director of Feminist Press and Professor of American Studies at SUNY — Old Westbury, has recently been the focus of much controversy concerning its future.

The program began in 1974 as a special experiment under the auspices of the Bachelor Degree with Individual Concentration Program. The Faculty Senate gave the program a two-year mandate and then a one-year extension "to see whether or not we are viable," staff person Arlene Ryan said.

A subcommittee of the Academic Affairs Council, impressed with the program's progress, last month asked the Faculty Senate to consider proposing to the Board of Trustees that the program's mandate be extended five more years, and that women's Studies be declared a separate major, severing its ties from B.D.I.C.

The Faculty Senate proposed these two steps to the Board, and Women's Studies is awaiting the outcome.

"We're still in the process of being reviewed," Ryan said. Both Ryan and staffperson Dale Melcher said they are confident of an affirmative vote by the Board.

The Women's Studies program is an interdisciplinary, two-year program that offers majors and certificate minors to students interested in designing their own course of study to meet individual needs.

The program offers an introductory and advanced seminar in women's issues, and works through other university departments to sponsor approximately 30 courses dealing with women and a myriad of academic and societal topics.

"We did not propose to be a department, but interdisciplinary. Being interdisciplinary was to our advantage so we could draw on many different resources," Ryan said.

Approximately 45 students major and 45 students minor in Women's Studies at UMass. About 1500 students each semester take courses sponsored by the program.

Most of program majors are "non-traditional students — women returning to school, perhaps in their 40's and 50's, with their children grown," Ryan said. Students minoring in Women's Studies are typical in age to the rest of the university population, she added.

Melcher said Women's Studies classes can provide "a well-rounded education" for women who may be math or science majors, and want to find an "outlet" in which they can learn about women's issues. Taking program courses can help students "integrate themselves" into a variety of areas in which they may not have had the opportunity, she added.

Melcher and Ryan described the program as highly personalized. Each student planning to receive either a degree or a certificate in Women's Studies must present a written proposal and have an interview with staff and Academic Affairs Committee members to explain her purpose and goals in joining the program.

"No one is ever turned down," Ryan said. But, she said, the staff often makes suggestions to the applicant about revising her proposal in order to clarify her intent further.

Ryan said an indication of good writing skills is an essential factor the committee looks for in proposals. "The ability to think clearly and express oneself forcefully is a skill women need to show their power and strength."

Melcher and Ryan said one of the major problems the program is trying to contend with is its "lack of resources", and particularly its lack of faculty. The program currently has "one professor from the five-college area" as its regular faculty member from Hampshire College Janice Raymond, but her three-year appointment is ending.

Ryan said many Women's Studies courses are taught by departmental professors. An example would be a psychology teacher conducting a class on "The Psychology of Women." Ryan added, however "it is becoming harder and harder for these professors to get release time to do this."

"We've gone from zero Women's Studies students in 1974 to 90 today," Ryan said. There have been few resources to compensate for this growth, she added.

Anticipation of good weather is shown by the select windows of Southwest, a sure indication of spring fever. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers — B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

the Restaurant

Soups-Salads
Sandwiches
Quiches
Bagels and Spreads
Baked Goods
Homemade
and Always Fresh

at Faces next to the Amherst Post Office
hours: 9:30 to 6:00 256-8955

'Cigarette ads entice kids'

WASHINGTON [AP] — Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. charged yesterday that the tobacco industry uses "sinister" advertising to entice 4,000 children and teen-agers a day to take up smoking.

"All you have to do is look at the glamorous Marlboro man, look at the glamorous women," said Califano, himself a one-time heavy smoker. "You'll see it's targeted at the children."

Such advertising demonstrates the need for a new $30-million government anti-smoking campaign, Califano told the American Society of Newspaper Editors here.

He said it was a "minuscule investment."

A spokesman for the Tobacco Institute Inc., denied later that the industry is aiming its advertising at children.

"Cigarette advertising does not make smokers out of non-smokers," but rather is intended to attract loyalty to specific brands, spokesman Walker Merryman said in a telephone interview.

Califano said 75 per cent of smokers take up the habit before age 21, and 100,000 children 13 or younger are smoking a pack of cigarettes daily.

"This is not a decision made by adults 30 35 years old" who are aware of all the health problems, he said. "The tobacco industry has mounted a very sinister campaign designed to encourage teen-agers to smoke."

He said the planned $30 million anti-smoking campaign is "nothing" compared with the $174 million the government spends on anti-alcohol programs and the $275 million it spends to combat drug abuse.

The anti-smoking money would be spent on research programs and to circulate anti-smoking information to schools and the general public.

Neither alcohol nor drug abuse "costs this country anything remotely near what smoking costs," Califano said, adding that the health costs of smoking-related illness were $5 billion to $7 billion a year, and lost productivity was $15 billion to $17 billion.

Summer Jobs

The Great Pretenders
Pink Edsel
Falmouth, Mass. (Cape Cod)

is accepting applications for bartender, doorman, waiter, etc.

Summer of '78

for information, call (617) 263-8425

PARTY WITH THE PIKES at the

Sun., April 16 Raindate

"BIRTHDAY PARTY"

12 noon to 8 p.m.
Sat., April 15

FEATURING GEORGE T. GREGORARY BAND

ΠKA-
418 N. Pleasant St.

Beer & Barbeque

Troubled bottle bill supported by House

BOSTON [AP] — The Massachusetts House, voting against the Democratic leadership, rescued the controversial bottle bill yesterday but put off a floor fight on the measure until today.

Without any debate on the merits of the bill, the lawmakers voted 122-104 against accepting the recommendation of the House Ways & Means Committee that the bill be killed.

The bill, supported by more than 100 legislators, would impose deposits of five to 10 cents each on nearly all glass, metal and plastic beverage containers. Advocates say the measure would discourage roadside litter and save the energy used in the manufacture of throwaway containers.

Opponents of the bill have claimed it would eliminate the jobs of 1,000 or more Massachusetts residents working in factories producing nonreturnable containers.

The bill had been reviewed first by the legislature's Energy Committee, which approved it, but ran into trouble in the Ways and Means panel, where members disturbed by the warnings of jobs losses voted by a 2-1 margin against it.

The measure still requires two rounds of approval in both the House and Senate before going to Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who has endorsed it.

House Speaker Thomas W. McGee postponed floor debate on the bill until today after learning that more than 30 lawmakers intended to speak about the measure.

McGee, D-Lynn, Majority Leader William Q. MacLean, D-Fairhaven, and Majority Whip George Keverian, D-Everett, sided with opponents of the bill in the voting. Most Republicans supported the measure, while Democrats split roughly in half.

Rep. Lois G. Pines, D-Newton, who has been leading the campaign for the bill, expressed pleasure with yesterday's vote and said she was confident about today's outcome. She said it was the first time ever that a majority of the House had supported her bottle legislation.

Last year, a similar measure died in the Senate.

The bill in its present form contains two amendments aimed at appeasing the bottle industry. One would have the state's general fund, instead of employers, pay the unemployment benefits for any laborers thrown out of work by the bill. A second provision would have the state conduct a retraining program for those laid off.

Announcing
a new shipment of

Leather
Jackets

If first quality,
selling elsewhere at $100 - $175

Faces Price: $48.50
Excellent Condition

FACES

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Art vandals strike again; two paintings smeared

FRANKFURT, West Germany [AP] — In the third attack on European art in nine days, vandals smeared two paintings at the Staedel Museum here with a paste that caused the oils to run, police said yesterday.

Experts were trying to determine whether they could restore the two damaged works, "Joyful Company" by 18th-century Dutch master Dirck Hals and a 15th-century triptych — a three-paneled painting — by an unknown Spanish artist.

Estimated value of the paintings was not immediately available. Officials said they had no clue as to identity of the vandal.

Hilmar Hoffman, city cultural director, said more vandalism attempts at Frankfurt art museums could not be ruled out and announced he was placing guards on special alert to prevent any new attacks.

The Staedel, located on the banks of Main River near Frankfurt's commercial center, is the city's major art showcase. The museum is currently displaying works from the famous Hirsch collection valued at millions of dollars and attracting a larger-than-usual audience.

Last year, a 40-year-old German widower who told investigators "I must destroy what other men cherish" confessed to vandalizing several art treasures in West Germany by spraying sulfuric acid on the objects with a syringe. Hans-Joachim Bohlmann was arrested and committed to a mental institution.

Priceless works by Rembrandt and Rubens were among the badly damaged paintings, but art restorers succeeded in saving them.

The Frankfurt vandalism comes after two knife-slashing attacks on paintings in London and Amsterdam last week. Both assailants had entered the museums as spectators, officials said.

On April 3, a man slashed Nicolas Poussin's 17th-century painting "Adoration of the Golden Calf" at London's National Gallery. Salvatore Borzi, a 27-year-old Italian resident of London, was arrested and charged with causing criminal damage to the artwork.

Officials aaid the painting, valued at $925,000, could be restored.

Two days later, a 31-year-old Dutchman who claimed he was trying to draw attention to the plight of poor artists sliced three long gashes in a Van Gogh painting in Amsterdam's Municipal Museum. The Amsterdam artist, who was not identified was charged with willfully damaging the artwork, "La Berceuse," and later released from custody.

Carter to receive leader

WASHINGTON [AP] — Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu will become the first leader of a Warsaw Pact nation to be received by President Carter when he opens a two-day state visit here today.

Trade, global security issues and Romania's role as a maverick Communist state will be discussed but the subject which may overshadow all others during the visit is Romania's human rights record.

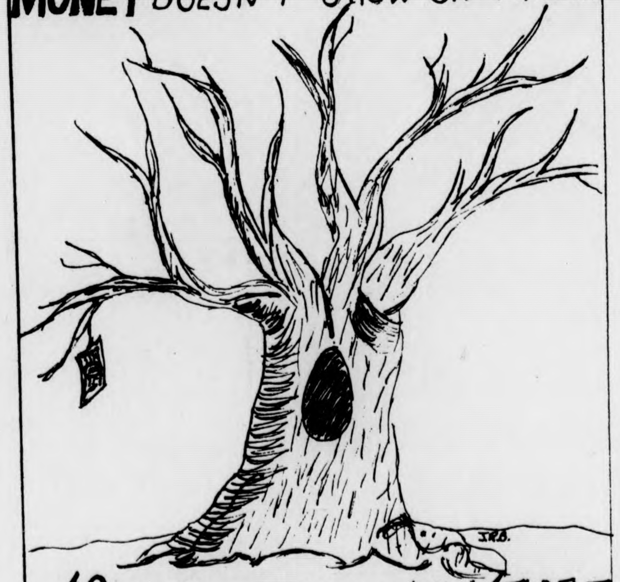
Ceausescu is highly regarded here for pursuing foreign policy initiatives which are often at odds with the Soviet Union but he also heads one of the more authoritarian regimes in eastern Europe.

Officials say the human rights issue is certain to come up in Ceausescu's talks with Carter and that the president has been briefed on Romania's internal situation. Officials are uncertain however, how hard Carter will press Ceausescu on the subject.

Ceausescu flew here yesterday and will begin his discussions with Carter and other top administration officials this morning.

On Friday, he will leave Washington and will spend an additional four days in the United States, visiting Chattanooga, Dallas, Houston, New Orleans and New York.

MONEY DOESN'T GROW ON TREES!



SO Thats why we need the STUDENT PHONOTHON. Come help us out by calling alumni for pledges. We provide FREE beer, dinner, munchies and a good time at Memorial Hall on March 8-9, 13-16, 27-30 and April 3-6, 10-13

For More information contact:
Mary Ellen or Steve at 545-2317

A day of educational and recreational events of an environmental nature.

Thurs., April 13, 1978
Library Lawn

Alternative Agriculture, Trapping, Nukes, Recycling, Wildlife Photography, Bicycling, Natural Dyes, Music, Demonstrations and much more.

10-4:30
Rain: SUB

For more information call 545-0618

Sponsored by:
Coalition for Environmental Quality

TOYOKO 豊子

JAPANESE STEAK HOUSE
INTRODUCTORY SPECIAL

STUDENTS 10% DISCOUNT
On regular dinner with college ID

Dinners nightly from 4 except on Sunday, open from 2

Relax in the cocktail lounge ...then enjoy the finest in Japanes cuisine

70 Lyman Street
Holyoke, Mass.
Phone 533-2322

2-9 p.m. Sunday 4-10 p.m. Tues.-Thurs. 4-11 p.m. Fri. & Sat.

Letters

Student protest irresponsible

To the Editor:

The events of the past few days — student protest and administrative response to that protest — deserve careful analysis because they highlight what is perhaps the most prevalent problem on campus these days — thoughtless action. Far from being a place where intellectual curiosity and a respect for rationality infused with passion lead to mature decisions, graceful compromises, and mutual consideration, the University community — and especially some of its more public and respectable members — seem these days to have a shoot-from-the-hip mentality informed by a questionable moral fiber.

Through the occupation of Whitmore, students have managed to blur the crucial distinction between legitimate complaints about room-choosing procedures campus-wide and the specific questions raised by this procedure regarding Pierpont. We do not intend in this letter to judge the merits of Mr. Matlack's proposal to deal with troubles in a dormitory in the southwesterly section of our campus; that is not our province, nor especially our professional concern. What is important to us, and what concerns us, is the withdrawal of support from Mr. Matlack by his superiors when they were confronted by thoughtless action on the part of members of the university community.

As student affairs professionals it is demoralizing to see people in higher administration attempting to transform what is essentially a deep and important question into a public relations issue, regardless of the ramifications which such an approach has for those who work under them. When someone such as Matlack attempts a solution to a problem after long and careful thought, it is upsetting to see the efforts undercut in the early hours of the morning in response to strong-arm tactics from members of the community. The message being given is simple: if you scream loudly enough and push strongly enough we'll capitulate. And you won't have to pay any price for your actions. For administrators to implicitly communicate a weak-kneed morally questionable stand of this sort to the undergraduate body is unconscionable.

We offer our public support to Mr. Matlack because we believe the private support he needed was taken away by those above him without regard for his position, credibility, or integrity. Whenwe are asked to take firm positive professional positions in regard to problems in the dormitories in which we live and work, we need support from those to whom we report. We are the people least prepared to respond to ill conceived and irrational demands and actions from irresponsible parties. Professionals in the higher echelons of University administration should be expected to asssme responsibility in direct proportion to their position in the University hierarchy: they are paid, in part, to take the heat. When they pass it back to us, it is a sign of bad faith. And bad faith in a University community — founded on principles of intellectual curiosity, moral firmness, and humanity — is the beginning of the end.

This represents the opinion of the majority of the Members of the Orchard Hill-
Central Residence Hall Staff

Asian studies needed

To the Editor:

This University has long prided itself on its cultural and social diversity. There are organizations representing nearly every ethnic groups on campus which offer many opportunities for people of different races to become aware of unique cultures. However, one of the groups which people are the least aware of is the Asian, or more specifically, the Asian-American population at UMass.

Although we may be small in number, we have many diverse needs as well as a rich and unique culture to offer. One of the most important of these needs is for people to become more aware of our identity as Asians who were born or who have grown up in America [hence the name Asian-American]. But we cannot do this in isolation from the other ethnic groups here; we must know our history in the context of having lived and worked with Americans of all races since the days of backbreaking labor on the railroads and in the laundries in the 1800's until the "reverse discrimination" of the 1970's. Minorities today face the same problems of racism and discrimination as they did hundreds of years ago, and it is the responsibility of our institutions of higher learning to help destroy racism by offering courses which show all sides of relevant social, economic and political issues.

This is why Asian-American studies are needed at UMass. Last spring it was effectively shown that there was a need for Asian studies, and while the Asian Studies department now remains to offer many complete and varied courses in Asian languages, literature and history, there is a need for more courses dealing with Asians from the political and social perspective of Asians who have lived most of their lives in a country which does not speak their language and who have dealt with the racism that is present in America unlike any other country. Asian-American studies courses would be open to all people concerned about American society with the realization that this University and this nation are not made up of a homogenous race but of many races which one day will hopefully exist together peacefully.

There will be a table set up in the Campus Center concourse with more information on Wednesday, April 12, all day. All concerned and aware [and unaware] people are urged to stop by and show their support.

Lauren Lee
Asian-American Studies
Association

Doyle-Flynn amendment

To the Editor:

This is to inform people in the Valley area that in three weeks the Doyle-Flynn Amendment is to be voted on in the state legislature. This amendment will cut off Medicaid abortion funds for poor women, except in extreme cases. This is just the first step in a long, organized process which will make abortion illegal for all women. If you oppose this bill, act on it — it is very important to write your representative and tell him-her how you feel. Each person is in the power to affect change and the only way to do this is to write or call immediately. Don't just sit back — let your voice be heard.

Beginning Tuesday, April 11, there will be a table on the concourse for the next two weeks where more information will be available. There will be sample postcards and if you don't know who your representatives are, we'll have a list of names and phone numbers.

Pro-Choice Coalition

Leary's allegation irresponsible

To the Editor:

I feel that the allegation made by David Leary, resigning co-chairman of the Student Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, in Friday's Collegian calls for an immediate response.

According to Leary, one reason that he resigned is that "People have begun to abuse the system." When asked to give an example of this abuse, Leary alleged that members of Greek Council, the Greek Area Government, were told not to go to Thursday night's electoral convention.

Once again, the blame is placed on the Greeks. At the present time, the Greek Area is adversely affected by a negative image and stereotypes. If persons on this campus were willing to take the initiative to investigate the Greek Area, they would find that it is much different than they thought. Every year, Greek Council and various houses within the Greek Area sponsor fund-raising events that benefit many charities, both on this campus and throughout the nation. Yet, no one is aware of this. Why?

It seems that people are disinterested in groups that serve others and are interested only in those groups that serve themselves. I feel that Leary is an example of the type of person that is too lazy to investigate because it is so easy to ignorantly criticize.

I would hope that through his experience in the Student Senate and with the Governmental Affairs Committee, Leary would have learned that it is necessary to check the facts before making allegations. As a co-chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee, it was one of Leary's responsibilities to be fair. He has exhibited his irresponsibility by neglecting to do some simple research.

Greek Council is very easily accessible. Its four officers keep regular hours in the Greek Council office. The office is located in Room 403 in the Student Union Building, approximately 150 feet from the Student Government Association office. It is clear that it would have taken a minimal amount of time and effort for Leary to check his allegation with the Greek Council officers and he would have found that his allegation was not true.

I would like to encourage anyone who may have questions or problems with the Greek Area, Greek Council or any particular house to come to our office and talk with us. We are located in Room 403 of the Student Union Building. Our telephone number is 545-2374. We look forward to any opportunity that we may have to talk with you.

Robert L. Davidson
Greek Council Vice President

Letters Policy

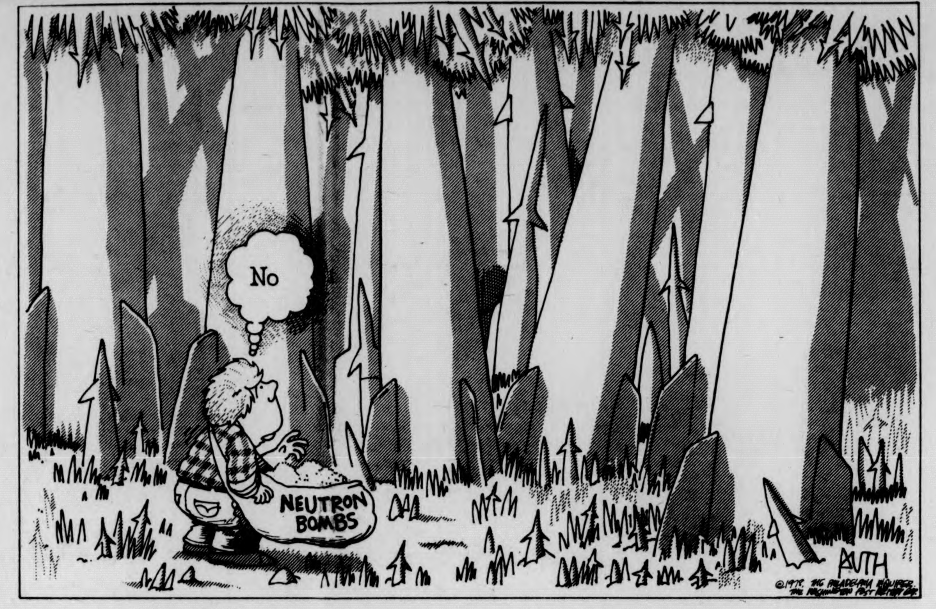
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



No
NEUTRON BOMBS
AUTH
©1978 The Philadelphia Inquirer The Washington Post Writers Group

Take over no media event

charles bagli

Did you see what Chancellor Bromery said about the takeover of Whitmore last week? He called it a "media event"! The only "media event" was watching Bromery's chances for the Presidency of UMass start to go down the drain on T.V. I guess Bromery will just have to make do with "only" being on the Board of Exxon.

While Bromery thinks the net effect of the occupation is "negative," I think the "net effect" is positive. The situation is one where the students are getting screwed. The administration was trying to deny the deteriorating quality of the dorms; implement a crazy room selection process; and break-up Pierpont. This was an attack on all students, but Pierpont was the straw that broke the people's back.

Students took the situation into their own hands. Usually when you go to visit an administrator with a complaint he's out to lunch or in a meeting or maybe he'll set up an appointment with you the next time hell freezes over. And if you do see him (or her) they try to isolate you from the hundreds of other students with the same problem. April 5 was different.

The problems of housing, leases, etc. though, are bigger than one or two students, it effects all of us, directly or indirectly. This is what drew together Pierpont residents and other dorm residents, as well as students from off campus housing, to Bromery's office last Wednesday. And this time there was not to be a run-a-round. The message of the sit-in was clear. Either Bromery keeps his "appointment" at the sit-in or there would be no University "business" as usual. In the face of this united and militant stand Bromery left the Trustees meeting in Worcester for his "new" "appointment".

The demands were to the point: don't break up Pierpont; a better room selection policy; and progress towards a lease for students. The problem with the room selection policy was probably the insanity of some administrator (in cooperation with Jon Hite) and little student input but the others reflect something larger.

The deteriorating conditions in the dorms and the illegal dorm fund transfers are not the result of some misguided bureaucrat. Education, and social programs in general, are in trouble. We're in an economic crisis in which what does not make profit must go or at least be gutted. In other words the capitalists want us to pay for their profit crises. When the dorms deteriorate, the money for badly needed repairs will not be spent, yet students are forced to live in them.

The students sitting in at Whitmore last Wednesday had had enough, they would not allow this situation to go unopposed or the arbitrary whims of the administration to fuck them. They fought "city hall" united, and won.

This was not accomplished without debate as to whether or not to stick it out to the end. Some of our misleaders, Jon Hite specifically, presented their easy way out. They said "take my hand I'll lead you through this sellout, oops I mean, maze." Hite had a "deal" with the administration: Have six students meet with Bromery while everybody else leaves Whitmore.

These guys always have deals going with the administration. Last year when the administration was going to cut out the check-cashing service in the Student Union, misleaders told us "don't worry, we've got a deal worked out." What did the deal get us? A check-cashing service cut out with little protest to stop it. Hite's plan at the sit-in to leave the building while Bromery meets with six representatives was a dead end. This attempt to divide our unity and get us stuck in some bullshit committee without a bargaining position was soundly defeated and a profound lesson was learned.

When the Chancellor calls the sit-in a media event he's saying it didn't mean shit, it was just a spring escape valve. Well, the Chancellor is wrong. Some things are different this week than they were last week. Pierpont will not be broken up; the room selection process has been changed; and work is starting on a lease for dorm residents. But it doesn't end there. We learned that by taking mass action and relying on ourselves (and not self-proclaimed, administration supported, student misleaders) it is possible to make gains. We also learned clearly what side the administration stands on and that it is only by forcing them that we get even the smallest gains.

Charlie Bagli is a Collegian Columnist.

Spring fashions - the pits

frank denton

The sun has finally eluded its lithesome cloud cover and weeds are exploding around every tree and spider plant. True to form, student fashions are blooming as well. Something like the weeds, in fact.

At a time when professional design changes radically within hours, UMass remains as steadfast as a roadside skunk. Many of us wear the same clothes for weeks on end: when the wind is up, sinuses gag. We are the pits.

The fact that we have bottomed out is evident in what we choose to wear. In the Campus Center one can see the worst of this: jeans patched without regard to particulars, beatnik baccalaureates, and the latest in shell-shock. Poverty and pauperism are "in."

There is really quite a variety here, however:

The Natural Woman: she is frequently dressed as a gypsy complete with bright head scarf. Her bodice can be seen — stuffed and mounted — marching through wholesome co-ops. She is given to long linen skirts, partly because this is what Grandma did and partly because she is avoiding comments about her naturally hairy legs. Do not mess with this woman: she is a tough cookie (without artificial additives, of course).

Disco Dagwood: poured into the contours of his threads once a day, every detail of his anatomy is apparent. He has acquired a taste for silk shirts three sizes too small and leisure suits. He generally requires a small scaffold to climb onto his platform shoes.

The Rapacious Representative for the Rash of Women's Rights and Reciprocities: can only be described as baggy.

The Militant Marauder: expresses his rage against everything establishment by wearing army fatigue trousers and boots. He, too, has a natural look, especially when wearing his favorite faded Euell Gibbons plaids. He does not feel right about the day unless at least one prominent hole can be seen in his apparel.

The Jaded Jock: (male) proud of his accomplishments and high school letter jacket, he may be seen promenading in painter pants, rugby shirt and moccasins in front of the Blue Wall. It helps if he is just a little bow-legged and a tuft of fur shows above his top button.

Arty Annie: characterized by plunging (non-existant?) neckline and creative stabs at dressing. She may occasionally be seen floating and pirouetting across campus lawns, smiling benignly.

This menagerie of styles is indicative of something less than what we can be. I certainly do not advocate a Brooks Brothers concession here. But I do think that self-respect on this campus is shockingly low when we endorse thrice-turned hand-me downs and rotting textiles.

Perhaps looking like the scourge of the East Coast is good for its humbling effect. Maybe looking and smelling like yesteryear's laundry is liberating. It could be I am wrong. So be it.

Frank Denton is a Collegian Columnist.

UMass in decline

damon thomas

It is disturbing for students here at the UMass to learn that they are attending an institution of higher learning which is in a stage of rapid decline. No UMass student, myself included, wants to confront the sobering possibility that the University he or she is receiving an education from is inadequate for accomplishing that end. Yet, the sooner we come to the realization that the University — indeed the whole Massachusetts public higher education system — is, in fact, in a period of crisis, the sooner we can begin halting this destructive trend.

For the past four years UMass-Amherst has been engaged in a losing battle for survival. After more than 100 years of gradual development from the Massachusetts Agricultural College to a major institution, the Commonwealth redoubled its commitment to higher education. The 1960's saw a 230 per cent increase in enrollment and resources. The latter half of the 1970's, however, has brought a significant reversal of that trend. And, if Governor Dukakis' "level funding" proposals are not amended, the promise of quality public education threatens to become an unfulfilled dream.

Since 1975, according to a 1977 report issued by the UMass Student Center for Educational Research, we have seen about 21 per cent inflation and a 3 per cent increase in enrollment. We have also seen the State of Massachusetts slip from 28th to 48th in money spent per student in public higher education. The Commonwealth ranks 49th in per capita spending for higher education.

But the national ratings don't tell the real story. The decline in quality education and the impact of that crisis must be experienced to be fully appreciated. Students, faculty, and staff have experienced that decline through fewer and larger classes, increased staff workloads, deteriorating buildings, and slum housing, higher educational expenses, and stagnant salaries. While the demand for quality education has increased, resources have dwindled.

As the state legislature and the governor tell us at UMass that we must accept budget cuts, they are channeling almost $10 million in state funds to private colleges and universities. This is the fourth year of serious budget cuts at UMass, yet the same year that the cuts began (1973-1974) $300 million in federal, state, and local monies went to private institutions of higher learning in Massachusetts, while only $180 million went to public higher education. The legislature and the governor can't tell us there is no money. The fact is that the governor and the legislature have a greater commitment to the private schools than to quality PUBLIC higher education for the citizens of Massachusetts. The question that one must here ask is this: If the governor sees fit to ask the federal government for funds to aid private colleges and universities, why can't UMass receive more federal funds?

At this point it is important to note that while there is a demand for private education, there is an even greater demand for public education which is simply not being met because public funds are being channeled into other areas. In 1972-3, public higher education in Massachusetts rejected 19,000 fully-qualified applicants for lack of available funds. As the public system turns away thousands of students, private colleges and universities complain of lowering enrollments and empty classrooms; and they are right! Of all college students in Massachusetts, 58 per cent attend public universities or colleges while 42 per cent attend private institutions. Only ten years ago, these figures were 26 per cent and 74 per cent respectively, so clearly, the percentage enrolled in public institutions has grown. The reasons for this growth in enrollment come from the decision on the part of the state government to expend public higher education in the 1950's and 1960's — to make it available to large numbers of people.

Right now, however, the state's top leadership has consciously decided that public higher education is no longer a top priority. When public tax monies — whether federal, state, or local — are channeled away from public and into private universities our government leaders are making a clear statement about their priorities. They are saying that public higher education should be the privilege of the few with money. But public higher education is the right of all members of society, for this education helps develop critical thinkers and trained persons prepared to make a contribution to the society.

Students United for Public Education (SUPE) is a campus RSO group working to halt the decline in quality education in the public university system. SUPE's program is for:

1. No budget cuts.
2. No tuition hikes.
3. No to the Parks Plan Reorganization or any plans like it.
4. No public money to private schools.
5. No students or faculty on budget cutting committees (a tactic used by the legislature to divide the University community and prevent a unified resistance to attack on public education.)

These issues affect all students, of ALL majors and interests. We must work together to achieve our objectives or we will be defeated separately.

Briefly, the goals of SUPE for this semester have been to educate and organize students on campus concerning SUPE's program and, because this is a student issue, SUPE is also starting to organize students on other state campuses to support or actively work for the program. Success, however, depends upon widespread student input and involvement. If you are interested in working on these issues with SUPE, leave a note in room 420 S.U., or stop at the SUPE table in the campus center concourse. The quality and direction of YOUR education are at stake.

Damon Thomas is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Letters

Don't accept budget cuts

To the Editor:

As noted in last Monday's edition of the Collegian, the faculty senate began a three-part discussion regarding a new proposal to rank academic programs. It stated that the current ad hoc Committee on Academic Program Review would be replaced by the ad hoc Council on Academic Priorities. This proposal would allow the senate to advise the administration and serve as an on-going consulting body in recommendation and application of programs for growth, stabilization or reduction. The faculty senate claims the administration cannot make decisions regarding academic priorities alone.

By forming a committee to review and rank programs during a period in which stabilization and reduction are taking place at the University, the faculty senate is in effect making a statement that it accepts the mandate of budget-cuts handed down by the state legislature. It becomes clear that the faculty senate was not rejecting the basis on which proposals such as the Puryear plan were drawn up, i.e. long-term budget cuts, but that they were opposed to the fact that they had no say in which programs and departments were to be slashed. Yes, if the faculty senate adopts this committee formation it will be telling the university community that it wants to assist the legislature and administration in its reduction of the quality of education at UMass.

Students United for Public Education [SUPE] rejects this idea for it could only cause a situation in which students and faculty in one department were pitted against those in another. This divisive tactic would focus our attention on the effects and not the cause of the problem. We should be directing our efforts towards the cause of the problem, that of attempts to reduce the expenditures on public higher education. Students and faculty should be united in the fight to insure that this university and all institutions of public higher education in this state receive the budgets they need to maintain quality in all of their programs.

We oppose all attempts to solicit the involvement of students or faculty in dividing up an already meager pie. No longer should we spend our time fighting over the all too miniscule budget we are forced to operate with here at UMass. Both students and faculty involvement on budget cutting committees, and infighting within the university can only serve to legitimize the progressive disintegration of public higher education in Massachusetts.

SUPE's program takes these factors into account. We oppose the allocation of public money's to private schools; we oppose all attacks on public higher education which take the form of budget cuts and tuition increases; we oppose the involvement of students and faculty on budget cutting committees; and we oppose the institution of the Park's plan for reorganization of higher education or any plan similar.

This week we will begin an organizing drive in the dormitories on campus. We will be coming around to Mackimmie, Pierpont and Cance attempting to educate students on these matters, and hope to draw the support of the student body on campus in our fight against the above measures. On Thursday night we will be holding a general orientation meeting in Cance dormitory at 7:30 p.m. in the lounge. All people interested in our program are invited to attend. If you can't make it drop by our table in the Campus Center concourse on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, or put a note in RSO mailbox No. 464 on the fourth floor of the Student Union.

Bill Bluestein, SUPE

Rusty Nail writes back

To the Editor:

Kim Dapolito's letter was incorrect. No one who works at the Nail has a grey suit. Only one bartender [a school teacher] admits, apologetically, that he even owns a suit.

So much for Kim Dapolito.

The Management of the Rusty Nail

The show that never ends

To the Editor:

"Welcome, my friends, to the show that never ends!"

Monday night, the fourth meeting of the electoral college, proved to be all I had anticipated. It was a waste of time and energy for many delegates and just one more example of the frustration of student government.

In case anyone hasn't heard by now, Sylvan Area Government walked out of the convention. This brought activity to a standstill as the quorum was lost. The reason given for the walk out: Sylvan favors a popular election and not the election of Bishop-Dion. They said that it was in the best interest of the students that they walk out. Of course, by their walking the rest of the convention could not elect Bishop-Dion, but they also could not declare a vacancy in the office of President, calling for a popular election.

I feel that Sylvan Area Gov't. deprived the student body of a popular election by walking out of the Hatch Monday night. Instead of staying, voting against Bishop-Dion, and lobbying for their cause among the other delegations, they chose to pull out — leaving the convention and the students high and dry!

Tensions have been running high at the conventions and more and more delegates are leaning toward a popular election, but whatever the case, nothing, I repeat, nothing, can be done without a quorum.

Nothing can be accomplished by walking out. The only thing Sylvan Area Gov't has done is to create ill feelings towards themselves from other delegations, fellow Area governments, and postponed, once again, the convention.

So now, thanks to their dramatic exit, we must reconvene Wednesday at 7 p.m. For what!? So Sylvan can walk out again?! I hope not, because I, for one, am damn sick of their games. I am a student, just as are the other delegates, and I do not think any of us can afford to let our studies suffer so Sylvan or any other delegation can compete for the SGA Oscar for best dramatic exit at an electoral college!!

People are complaining that the electoral college is ripping off the students. Well, surely this walk-out is not helping matters at all. I think that not only Sylvan Area Government, but all of the delegations had better get it together and stop playing petty politics.

Who are we here for anyway?

Bonnie J. Ward
Co-Treasurer and delegate
Southwest Assembly

Nomination pape
President
Undergra tudent
Gover Association
able in 420 SU
are due April 19.
CANCELLED

There IS a difference!!!
PREPARE FOR:
NEW
MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT
Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available, no matter which course is taken. Over 39 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers open days, evenings & weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Make-ups for missed lessons at our centers.
The July LSAT Exam is fast approaching. Enroll now!
For information please call & come visit our Permanent Ct. at:
204 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst 413-253-5100
Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
In Boston Area
Call 617-261-5150
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Centers in Major U S Cities

The Collegian is looking for an Assistant Advertising Manager

Persons applying should be able to continue with this position next fall semester.

Committee rejects Carter's petroleum plan

WASHINGTON [AP] — A Senate committee yesterday recommended rejection of a Carter administration plan to expand the scope of the strategic petroleum reserve — the stockpile intended to be the nation's insurance policy against another Arab oil boycott.

Members of the Senate Energy Committee members complained that the administration's plan would give short shrift to both New England and Hawaii in case oil imports are cut off. In both areas, imported oil is the major source of energy.

If the Senate follows the committee's recommendation, it will temporarily block the administration's proposal to enlarge the reserve from 500 million to one billion barrels.

Members of the committee said, however, they did not oppose the idea of expanding the reserve.

Instead, they attacked a provision aimed at earmarking 20 million barrels of refined petroleum products for New England. They said the way the provision was written would require the fuel to be stored away from the region.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the committee, told the administration to go back to the drawing board and produce a plan that provides for separate storage of refined products in both New England and Hawaii.

On a 16-0 vote, the committee approved legislation by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to block the administration proposal.

The plan takes effect automatically on April 19 unless either chamber of Congress acts to block it. Kennedy aides said they expected the Senate would follow the lead of the committee and vote for the blocking measure.

He wants the administration to assure New England that the emergency supplies of oil will be stored closer to home.

Charlie's says
WEDNESDAY is MICHELOB NIGHT
Free Munchies
12 oz. 60¢ Bottles
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

STATE NEWS STATE NEWS STATE

Open meeting law given partial OK

BOSTON [AP] — The Massachusetts House has given tentative approval to a pair of bills that would enforce the open meeting law within the Statehouse itself.

Without any debate, the House endorsed legislation yesterday that would require public sessions as a normal procedure in the governor's cabinet and the legislature's various committees and commissions.

Secret sessions would still be permitted under the law, but would be confined to certain topics, such as disciplinary action against an individual, collective bargaining strategy and real estate transactions. Meetings would have to start in open session and then exclude spectators by a recorded majority vote.

Rep. Andrew S. Natsios, R-Holliston, and other advocates of the bills say the open-meeting rules already apply to local governmental bodies and state officials should abide by them as well.

The measures require another round of approval in the House plus clearance by the Senate.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis holds many of his cabinet meetings in public, but the agendas of those sessions generally consist of progress reports reflecting favorably upon his administration. The cabinet usually goes into executive session when any sensitive subject arises.

House authorizes funding for park

WASHINGTON [AP] — The House yesterday passed legislation authorizing $40 million to be spent for establishing the Lowell National Historical Park in Massachusetts.

The aim of the bill is preservation and interpretation of early American industrial buildings and techniques.

The legislation earmarks $18.5 million for immediate federal purchase of properties within a preservation district.

A federal-state-local commission of 15 members would be established by the legislation to use the balance of the funds for preservation work.

Bus drivers' strike continues in Hub

BOSTON [AP] — The Boston school bus drivers strike continued a second day yesterday, with more jailings and no new negotiations.

Felix Baldasarre, John J. Sullivan and Patricia Morey were found in contempt of court by Suffolk Superior Court Judge John T. Ronan and sentenced to five months in jail. All three are drivers.

Monday, Ronan sentenced three others, all union leaders, to five-month terms. They are Ester Ewing, Mary Lou Bagley and Steve Kirschbaum. The six were found in contempt for violating an injunction issued Dec. 7 which forbade a strike.

Subpoenas also were issued to 14 more drivers to appear before Ronan.

"This is no longer a matter of a strike," Ronan told the defendants, "but a question of law."

A school spokesman said there were no negotiating meetings last night, and none was scheduled today.

Earlier yesterday, seven persons were injured in a disturbance at Hyde Park High School.

The fight broke out at about 10:30 a.m. between several black and white students, authorities said.

REGENCY
Hair Cutting for Men & Women!!
Ask About Our Apprentice Haircutter
189 N. Pleasant St.
253-9526 253-7341
THE CELLAR

The Elmwood Inn
Announcing:
Daily Luncheon Specials
for $2.75
Tuesday-Wednesday
Sirloin Tips w/mushrooms
Thursday
Baked Scallops
Friday
Seafood Newburg
Saturday
Langostino Casserole
Chefs Special $2.50
Route 9, Hadley
584-6813

COLLEGE DRUG STORE
NEW ADDITIONS TO OUR FRAGRANCE LINE
CHANEL
THE ONLY OUTLET NORTH OF SPRINGFIELD
WE CARRY A COMPLETE SELECTION WITH TESTERS
Maja
4 MAIN ST. AMHERST
253-2523

UN Soviet hides after leaving post

[AP] — Arkady N. Shevchenko, the top Soviet employee of the United Nations, remained in hiding yesterday while a Soviet official sought to portray him as a problem drinker influenced by U.S. intelligence agents to walk off his job and stay in the United States.

The official, Second Secretary Evgeny F. Lukyantsev of the Soviet U.N. mission in New York, said his government would ask that Shevchenko be fired from his post as under-secretary general for political and Security Council affairs.

In Moscow, a woman claiming to be Shevchenko's wife said she believed he was being held by Americans against his will. But the U.S. government denied involvement in the incident, which Shevchenko's American lawyer declined to characterize as a defection.

A U.N. statement issued Monday said Shevchenko, 47, "was absenting himself" from his $76,000-a-year post because of "differences with his government" and was considered to be "on leave."

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, on a visit to Ireland' said yesterday that he did not know whether Shevchenko would seek political asylum, but: "What is sure is that he does not want to return to the Soviet Union."

Lukyantsev said Shevchenko "had a drinking problem. It is quite possible that American special services or FBI or CIA have caught him. From our point of view it was a premeditated provocation."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said: "The United States in no way attempted to influence him (Shevchenko) in his decision."

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met yesterday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, the spokesman said, and the Shevchenko affair was reported to have been discussed.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow had no immediate comment.

Although an authoritative diplomatic source at U.N. headquarters said Shevchenko was seeking asylum in the United States — the first U.N. employee ever to do so anywhere — the State Department said Shevchenko had not asked for asylum.

His American lawyer, Ernest A. Gross, declined to use that term, saying only that the Russian would not return to his country because of "political and personal differences" with the Soviet government.

Waldheim, ending a trip to Dublin for talks with Prime Minister Jack Lynch, said in an interview with Irish radio that Shevchenko's decision not to return to the Soviet Union was "disagreeable ... because he was the leading Soviet official in the secretariat."

Asked if the Soviets would request Shevchenko's dismissal from his post, Lukyantsev said: "Yes, we will ask."

But Gross, a former assistant secretary of state and ex-delegate to the United Nations, said firing his client would be "completely contrary" to the U.N. charter, which forbids the secretary-general to take instructions from any government.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad. drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo: Pioneer receiver, Ohm C speakers, AR turntable, $350, call 256-6106.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

4 sale—Panasonic stereo, 8 tr. recorder, turntable, over 50 tapes, headphones, albums included. $225. Call Pat, 549-1326.

Solid 8-track player, 4' speakers, headphones, 35 tapes—cheap. BO. Call 6-6322.

AUTO FOR SALE

Classic—sunroof, bus, 1964, in good shape, rebuilt engine, new starter, brakes, hust sell, $350 firm, call Pat, 549-6305.

67 bug, good body, brakes, clutch and engine, $675, call eves. to 12 p.m., 542-3409.

71 Chrysler Newport, 40,000 miles, good condition, $1000, neg., Kevin, 546-7421.

69 Fiat 124 sport coupe, must see. Dependable car, asking $900, Ross, 546-7421.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

1971 Olds Delta 88, $700 or best offer. Call Dave at 546-6528.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

1973 Chevy Impala, 2 door, mint condition, low mileage, must sell, call Pat after 6 p.m., 256-6670.

ENTERTAINMENT

Monitor Music—Steve O'Connor does it best at the big ones, ready for your next success. RSO listed, satis. guar. 6-4731.

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

3 bdrm. house, summer sblt. and fall option. In country, 1 mile to UMass. 549-6171.

Cape Cod rental—2 women to share beautiful house on priv. beach in Yarmouth, Booka, 546-7421.

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Refrig. 2.5 cu. ft.—$55. Skis—OL in Mark 1 w/Gersch plate bindings, used 1 season—$60. Call Jeff, 546-6887.

Wilson T2000, $25 or best offer, 4½l strung with gut, 6-4748.

Weight set—235 lbs., bench, bull worker—$80. 2 A7813 snow tires—$20. 549-2805, eve.

Wms 26" 3-sp. Raleigh bike. BO. 6-8235.

Must sell 61 Dodge Phoenix. Dependable Bomber, $200, call Nancy at 586-2944.

Tent—8x14 ft. canvas w/ ground cloth, $80, call Paul at 5 & 11 p.m., 253-5061.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

1969 VW again! New starter—runs good, 1-467-3465, $175 firm.

HELP WANTED

Student supervisor positions are available at Belchertown State School—entails implementation and supervision of programs and volunteers—one year commitments (July-May)—must be full-time college student—for info, call Cindy A. Rogers, 323-6311. BSS is an equal opportunity employer.

Got the summer job blues? We need workers; if you qualify, you could make $315 a week. For an interview come by room 808 CC, Tuesday, April 11 at 2:30 or 3:30.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of conversation tapes for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

2 actors nd. for Albee Zoo Story, hurry! Nd. immed., call Mike, 6-7982, 412 Coolidge.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free info—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors: Adirondack Boys' camp; 7 weeks; $450-$550; Swimming Instructor (WSI); Trip Leader; Riflery Instructor; Driver; Office Manager (typing); 39 Mill Valley Rd., Pittsford, N.Y. 14534.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Summer openings—for appt. call: 253-2597.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

INSTRUCTION

Statistics—Math tutoring; program designed for individual needs; John, 253-2036.

Piano lessons ftr ambitious beg. or int.; creative, intensive approach; low rates. Classical, pop & theory. Studied at Mnhtn. & Indiana Conservtrs. Gregory Nissen, 546-5545.

LOST

To whomever found my opal ring in Fitzwilly's, please return it—no questions asked. It has great sentimental value to me. Reward. 1108 JQA, UMass, 6-8420.

Lost—a tan leather "cowboy" hat on Apr. 4. If found, call 549-6563. Reward!

Palm tree pin at Bluewall March 30, great sentimental value. Reward, 549-6322.

MOTORCYCLES

75 Kawasaki G3SE100, bought new in Feb. 78, only 700 miles, perfect, ask $400 but will bicker. Call Glen, 538-2513, late evenings.

Kawasaki KZ400, red & chrome, 5250 miles, excellent condition, w/ helmet, $940, call 549-0179.

PERSONALS

Astrology compatability and birth charts, 10th year professional Louis Neubel, 549-6425.

Biorhythms—Have the natural rhythms of your body scientifically charted by computer. Accuracy guaranteed. Get one for yourself and one for a special friend. For each 1 year chart send birthdate and $3.00 to Psychology Research Associates, Bx. 978, Amherst, Mass.

Robin, thanks for the OD of TLC. Love ya, Peter.

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Pinocchio is coming.

Christian women: live in a Christian suite in Cashin. Call Dawn at 546-4133.

SERVICES

Clean rugs? Start your spring cleaning by having your rugs shampooed by two part-time pros. For free estimate call 546-7004 or 256-6222, after 5.

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul—$24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

Fast service and sales—call Valley Typewriter and Business Machines, Co. Licensed technicians. Guaranteed repairs. Lowest prices in the Valley. Free pick-up, delivery, free estimates. 665-3290.

TO SUBLET

Summer living in Puffton Vlg., 549-0730.

Puffton apt.—2 bedroom; sublease summer; take over lease Sept. 1. Call after 4 p.m., 549-5868.

Sublet ovr. 2 br. apt. for the summer—the lease is yours in Sept. Negotiable rent for summer. Walk or bus to campus. 549-6152—keep trying!

House to sublet, Phillips St. Five minutes to town; one minute to campus! Five spacious bedrooms; 2 full baths; to sublet this summer and next year. Be first to call Mark, Joe, or Tom. 549-0714.

Sublet 3 bdrm. Puffton apt., 5/26-9/1, AC, DW, furnished, pool, $240/mo., 549-3740.

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

3 bdrm. Puffton, frm. 6/1, rent neg., 549-4451.

2 br. apt., 2 baths, semi-furn., 1 mi. to campus, on bus rt., pool, courts, store nearby, 6/1-8/31, w/ option, call 549-1764.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

2 lg. bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt.—women. 1 rm. avail. 5/1, other sem. end. 549-6482.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

4 br. house, 5 acres, NR bus route, avail. 5/25 w/ opt. for 78-9, $250/mo., N'hampton. 586-2825.

Fully furnished apartment! Available for June 1-Aug. 31. 3 bedroom apt. in Rolling Green. Rent reduced for the summer. Call 253-7088. Rent includes utilities.

4 bdrm. ranch—Echo Hill—sblt. June-Aug., sundeck, lg. liv. rm. Must seel $ neg. 253-5717.

1 bedroom—Cliffside, June 1 w/ fall opt. On bus route, $155 mo. Call 665-3512.

Summer sublet, 1 br. apt. by Puffer Pond, fully furn., free util., opt. to renew, avail. 5/30/78. $180/mo., 549-6555.

Sublet 2 bdrm., free util.: AC, DW, disp., pool, tenn. ct., on bus rt., $200/mo. 665-2652.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

To sublet, 3 bedroom, Puffton Village, near bus stop, pool, tennis courts and laundry, $250 a month, 6/1-8/31, call 549-4759.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

Large bdrm. avail. in 1½ bdrm. Puffton apt. 5/31-8/31, $95/mo. 549-1377.

2 bdrm. Cliffside apt., 6/1-8/31, opt. to renew. Pool, air cond., bus rt. 665-3190.

3-4 bedrm. duplex, avail. 6/1. $300 + util. (cheap!). 10 min. walk to town & 5 Coll. bus. 584-0177, N'hampton.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

1 bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all util. pd. Cats OK, quiet, avail. 6/1, $165/mo. 549-1582.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

2 bedroom; furnished apt.; South Meadow; price neg., for June, Jul., Aug.; call 545-1919 or 253-7420, Paul.

TRAVEL

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Woman housemate wanted: Amherst house, $87.50 +. Available 6/1, call 253-5042, p.m.

Wanted—artist experienced in drawing pastel characterture from photograph, call John, 253-5873, after 5, keep trying.

Looking for people to share apartment in Maine: Oqunquit, Wells, Kennebunkport area this summer. For info call Pam at 546-7095.

WANTED TO RENT

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

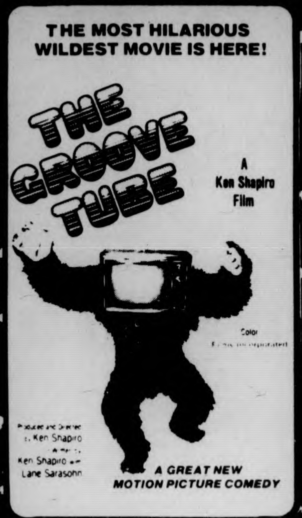
REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

EUROPE
less than 1/2 economy fare
Call toll free Guaranteed Reservations
(800) 325-4867
or see your travel agent
Uni:Travel Charters TM



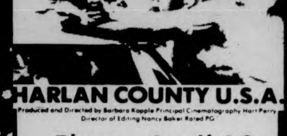
THE MOST HILARIOUS WILDEST MOVIE IS HERE!

A Ken Shapiro Film
Produced and Directed by Ken Shapiro
Written by Ken Shapiro and Lane Sarasohn
A GREAT NEW MOTION PICTURE COMEDY

THE GROOVE TUBE
"May be the funniest movie of the year. Rush to see it!"
"A smashing, triumphant satire."
"Riotously, excruciatingly funny."
"Consistently hilarious and brilliant."
"Insanely funny, outrageous and irreverent."

THE GROOVE TUBE
FIRST TIME ON CAMPUS
TONIGHT: 5:00, 7:00, 9:00, 11:00
CCA

Program Council Films Presents:
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
BEST DOCUMENTARY FEATURE
A remarkable, passionate work. A reminder that there cannot be neutrals—anywhere.



HARLAN COUNTY U.S.A.
Produced and Directed by Barbara Kopple Principal Cinematography Hart Perry Director of Editing Nancy Baker Rated PG
Thurs., April 13
7, 8:45 & 10:30
CCA-$1.00

low prices — new 'n used albums
The Hip Record Shop
SUN MUSIC
amhest carriage shops

WOODY HERMAN
and his YOUNG THUNDERING HERd
And The UNIVERSITY JAZZ ENSEMBLE
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL THURSDAY APRIL 13 8PM
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE (545-2511 MONDAY-FRIDAY 9-4 PM) AND AT ALL TICKETRON LOCATIONS

THE NEW CENTURIONS
with
George C. Scott
Thursday, April 13
7,9,11 p.m.
admission $1.00-Mahar Aud.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

1 LARCENY! MYSTERY! WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' CANDLESHOE
DAVID NIVEN HELEN HAYES JODIE FOSTER
STARTS FRIDAY G
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

2 STARTS FRIDAY
WOODY ALLEN DIANE KEATON "ANNIE HALL"
WINNER OF 4 ACADEMY AWARDS
A nervous romance. PG
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

3 Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS PG
MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

4 the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD PG
MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

The rusty nail Inn

APRIL 12-14 BRICKER BAND $2.00
APRIL 16 HOT CALYPSO KEY $1.00
APRIL 17-18 LOOSE CABOOSE $1.00
APRIL 19 GEORGE T. GREGORY $2.00
APRIL 20 WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION $2.00

SATURDAY, APRIL 15
LOUDON WAINWRIGHT
COVER $4.00

FRIDAY & SATURDAY, APRIL 21-22
JAMES MONTGOMERY
and FAT
COVER $4.00

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

University of Massachusetts
Union Program Council
PRESENTS
Tower of Power

April 23
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
8 p.m.
with Special Guest LENNY WHITE
Tickets: UMass Students-$4.50, 5, 5.50
General Public- $5.50, 6, 6.50
Tickets on sale April 10
Tickets available at: Fine Arts Center Box Office and all Ticketron outlets
No cans, bottles or smoking in concert hall
UPCOMING CONCERTS
May 1 — ROBERT PALMER — F.A.C.

Notices

ALL GREEKS

The best thing that's ever happened to Lollipops! Greek Lollipop Day is coming Fast! The start of the Big Event is April 18.

FITNESS WORKSHOP

Workshop aimed at helping you develop an enjoyable personal exercise plan. Register by calling 549-2671, ext. 181. First come, first served. University Health Center 7:00—9:30 p.m., two sessions, 4-9, 4-26.

GOOD NEWS!!!

Anne Mackie, editor of Upsurge, the Rank and File Teamster Newspaper will be speaking on April 14, 1 p.m., Rm. 122 Draper Hall.

STUDENT SENATE DANCE STUDIO

No. 1 Club and UMass Student Dietetic Association are applying for RSO status from the Student Senate. Any student who wants to get or provide more info on these groups or to inspect their applications should contact the Senate Office (545-0341) before April 13, 1978.

LOST

Woman's Seiko watch, lost Friday, April 7. If found please call 546-9864. Reward!

FOUND

Lost something of value on N. Pleasant St. sidewalk near Morrill on April 10 in a.m.? Call Mary ... 546-4874.

FOUND

Set of yacht keys. Call Ellen 546-5111.

STOLEN

I wasted most of a Sunday painting the sheet advertising the MONTY PYTHON film, "And Now for Something Completely Different." Would whoever stole it from above the candy counter outside the SUB return it to J.L. at 211 Dickinson or call 546-6563 and tell me where I can claim it.

ANTI-HUNTING, ANTI-TRAPPING AND THE LEGISLATURE

Dorothy Checci O'Brien, volunteer animal lobbyist, will speak at 1:00, April 13, on the library lawn at Earth Day.

COMMUNITIZATION ACTION PROJECT

The CAP is applying for RSO status from the Student Senate. Any student who wants to get or provide more info or to inspect the application themselves, should contact the Senate Office, 545-0341 before Monday, April 17.

END APARTHEID

Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 114 of New Africa House there will be a meeting to organize further educational activities and demonstrations around Southern Africa. All Welcome! Come and Help.

GEORGE T. GREGORY BAND

To be featured at 418 N. Pleasant St. for "The Birthday Party". Saturday, April 15, noon-8 p.m., beer, bar-b-que, entertainment.

GRAND OPENING

The Hampden Board of Governors, in conjunction with Food Services, Southwest Assembly, and the Residence Art Series, proudly announce the Grand Opening of Hampden Student Center in Southwest on Thursday, April 13, from 4-6 p.m., featuring live music, dance, audio-visual demonstrations, CraftShop opening, T-shirt silk screening, and more. All are invited, refreshments will be served. Bring your own T-shirt. For more info call Chris Durkin 545-0239, 253-9677.

HANG GLIDING CLUB

Meeting tomorrow, Campus Center 165, 8 p.m. A special lecture will be given by our club instructor. New members, interested 5-college students are welcome. No experience necessary to join.

HEART FUND WALKATHON

A 12-mile walkathon to benefit the Heart Fund will be held on April 22. It begins at 9:30 a.m. at Haigis Mall. More info and sponsor sheets can be picked up April 12 and April 18-20 at the Campus Center Concourse.

PARTY WITH THE PIKES

Come celebrate the biggest Birthday Party ever. Saturday, April 15, noon till 8 p.m. Live band, bar-b-que, and beer. 418 N. Pleasant St.

PHOTOGRAPHERS ... LEAVE YOUR MARK ON UMASS!

Leave your mark on UMass! Join the UMass yearbook (Index) photo staff and help photograph upcoming spring activities. Come to an organizational meeting on Wednesday night at 7 in the Index office, Campus Center 102, or call Rob Carlin at 545-0848.

STADIUM CONCERT STAGE CREW

There will be an important meeting for members of the stage crew to organize production, scheduling, and guidelines for Stadium Concert '78 in rm. 415 Student Union at 7 p.m.

STUDENT CREDIT UNION

The UMass Student Federal Credit Union is a non-profit, all volunteer organization set up to serve all UMass students. Come in and see if we can help you. We are located in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union. Open 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday-Friday.

STUDY BREAK WITH SIGMA DELTA TAU

All University women are invited to an open rush party on Wednesday, April 12 from 9-10 p.m. For rides and info call 545-0527.

THIRD WORLD CORRIDOR OPEN HOUSE

April 13 is the date set for the Grayson House Third World Corridor Open House. The benefits of such a housing alternative and the programs and direction of the Third World Corridor will be discussed. Grayson 5 South Lounge at 8:30 p.m. For more info call Billy 546-7044, Ray 546-6985 or Joyce 546-4576.

ULTIMATE FRISBEE

There will be Ultimate Frisbee at the Campus Center Pond today, at 3:30. There will also be a meeting tonight at 7:30 in 509 Cashin. All new frisbee people welcome.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL MEETING

April 12 at 6:30 p.m. in Rm. 415A Student Union. Work on upcoming shows will be discussed.

VIDEO SIDEWALK

This week's theme; Environmental Issues. Featuring a tape on the Aug. '77 occupation of the proposed nuclear site at Seabrook. 11 a.m.-3 p.m., Cape Cod Lounge, SU.

WOMEN IN PRISON

A talk by Sue Andrews, director of Court Services, and Ellen Omeara, a woman who served time at Bedford Prison; Thursday, April 13, 8 p.m. in Hampshire College East Lecture Hall.

COALITION FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE

All social justice groups are welcome to participate in the meetings of the coalition, today at noon in the Dukes Room, first floor SU. For info or regrets, call Doug Moreton at SCER (5-2892) or Willajean McLean at UCF (5-2789).

CLUB MEETING

Wednesday 7 p.m. Farley Lodge. Speaker: Bill Schwabe Martha's Vineyard Regional Tech. High School. Last meeting of the year.

PSYCH MAJORS CUSP

Invites all psych majors to attend meeting tonite, at 7:30 in 204 Tobin. Elections to be held.

THE RED CROSS NEEDS YOU

Join the Greek area in their blood drive today PHB rm 344N 2-8 p.m. Save someone by giving of yourself.

CALLING ALL FORESTERS

There will be a meeting tonight at 7 in 305 Holdsworth. We will discuss summer jobs among other things. Soph and Fresh. where are you??

ISRAELI DANCING

Every Wednesday in Cape Cod Lounge, SU. Beg: 7:30-8:30, Adv, 8:30-9:15, Requests 9:15-end. All welcome.

SPECTRUM

General staff meeting for fiction, poetry, and art at 4:30 p.m. at the Spectrum office, CC 104. New members welcome.

COSMIC WIMPOUT TOURNAMENT RULES COMMITTEE

Need to know if players favor last Lics and End Game. See Rod Gilbert, 19th Washington.

BUDGET PROTEST

RSO groups who have been refused budget hearings are urged to attend a tactical planning meeting for challenging Budget Committee's decisions — Wednesday, 12:30, rm. 426 SU.

STOCKBRIDGE LIVESTOCK SPECIAL

Stockbridge and UMass students will be showing various types of livestock on April 21 at 7 p.m. and all day Saturday, April 22 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Refreshments available.

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton

The Only Area Showing!
Now thru Tues., Apr. 18
SHOWN AT 7:30 ONLY!

1900

A FILM BY BERNARDO BERTOLUCCI

R

DOMINIQUE SANDA
ROBERT DE NIRO

at the Gates of Smith College

Bluewall Bar

Wed. - Sat.,
April 12–15

The Ellis Hall Group

Thursday

Free Munchies 99¢ Drinks 9 'til closing

Come to the "Class Happy Hour" at the Top Of The Campus.
Every Friday
65¢ "Mich" Bottles

Tired of draft beer, plastic cups and getting your feet stepped on? Come and enjoy the relaxed atmosphere at the Class Happy Hour every Friday, 3:30-6:30 with 65 cent bottled Michelobs and 99 cent bar drinks plus free Munchies.

---

DOONESBURY

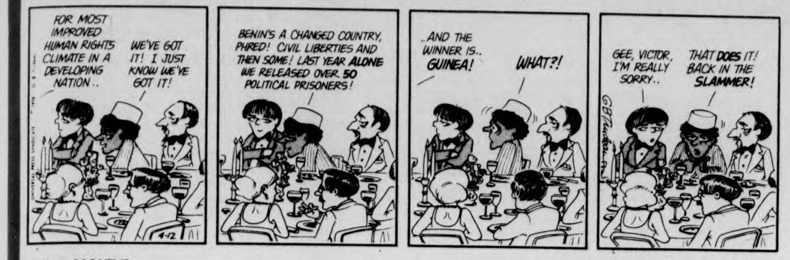
by Garry Trudeau



FOR MOST IMPROVED HUMAN RIGHTS CLIMATE IN A DEVELOPING NATION..
WE'VE GOT IT! I JUST KNOW WE'VE GOT IT!
BENIN'S A CHANGED COUNTRY, PHRED! CIVIL LIBERTIES AND THEN SOME! LAST YEAR ALONE WE RELEASED OVER 50 POLITICAL PRISONERS!
..AND THE WINNER IS.. GUINEA!
WHAT?!
GEE, VICTOR, I'M REALLY SORRY..
THAT DOES IT! BACK IN THE SLAMMER!
4-12
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS

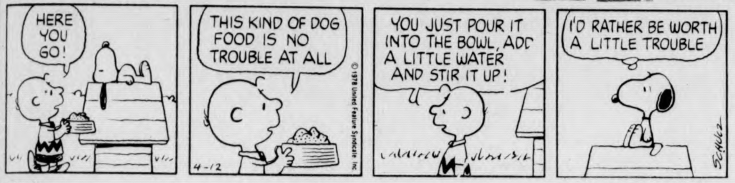
by Charles Schulz



HERE YOU GO!
THIS KIND OF DOG FOOD IS NO TROUBLE AT ALL
YOU JUST POUR IT INTO THE BOWL, ADD A LITTLE WATER AND STIR IT UP!
I'D RATHER BE WORTH A LITTLE TROUBLE
4-12
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

B.C.

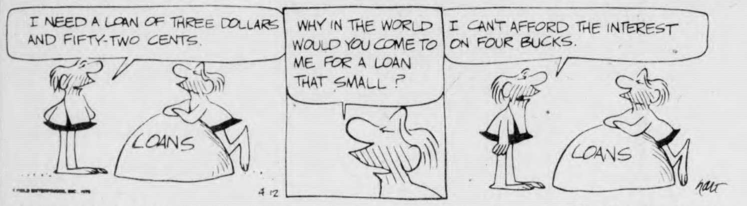
by Johnny Hart



I NEED A LOAN OF THREE DOLLARS AND FIFTY-TWO CENTS.
LOANS
WHY IN THE WORLD WOULD YOU COME TO ME FOR A LOAN THAT SMALL ?
I CAN'T AFFORD THE INTEREST ON FOUR BUCKS.
LOANS
4 12
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

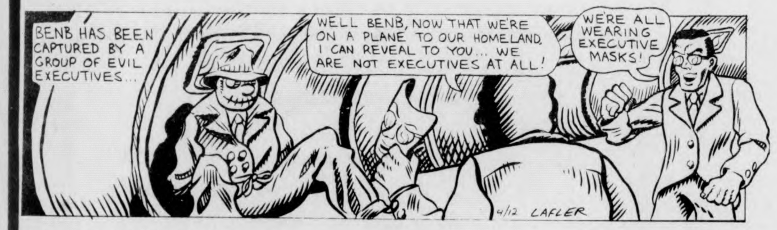
by Steve Lafler



BENB HAS BEEN CAPTURED BY A GROUP OF EVIL EXECUTIVES...
WELL BENB, NOW THAT WE'RE ON A PLANE TO OUR HOMELAND, I CAN REVEAL TO YOU... WE ARE NOT EXECUTIVES AT ALL!
WE'RE ALL WEARING EXECUTIVE MASKS!
4/12 LAFLER

THE WANDERER

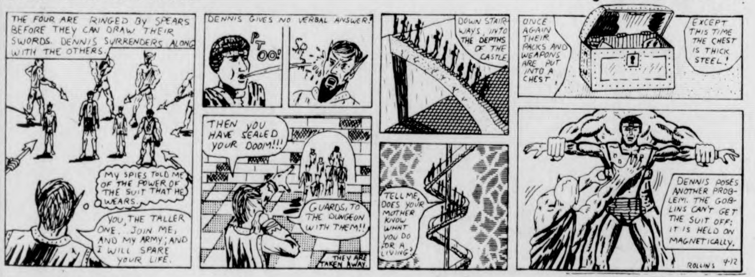
by Mark Rollins



THE FOUR ARE RINGED BY SPEARS BEFORE THEY CAN DRAW THEIR SWORDS. DENNIS SURRENDERS ALONG WITH THE OTHERS.
MY SPIES TOLD ME OF THE POWER OF THE SUIT THAT HE WEARS.
YOU, THE TALLER ONE.. JOIN ME, AND MY ARMY; AND I WILL SPARE YOUR LIFE.
DENNIS GIVES NO VERBAL ANSWER!
PTOO!
THEN YOU HAVE SEALED YOUR DOOM!!!
GUARDS, TO THE DUNGEON WITH THEM!!
THEY ARE TAKEN AWAY.
DOWN STAIRWAYS, INTO THE DEPTHS OF THE CASTLE.
TELL ME, DOES YOUR MOTHER KNOW WHAT YOU DO FOR A LIVING?
ONCE AGAIN THEIR PACKS AND WEAPONS ARE PUT INTO A CHEST, EXCEPT THIS TIME THE CHEST IS THICK STEEL!
DENNIS POSES ANOTHER PROBLEM. THE GOBLINS CAN'T GET THE SUIT OFF: IT IS HELD ON MAGNETICALLY.
ROLLINS 4-12

WALLY DORF

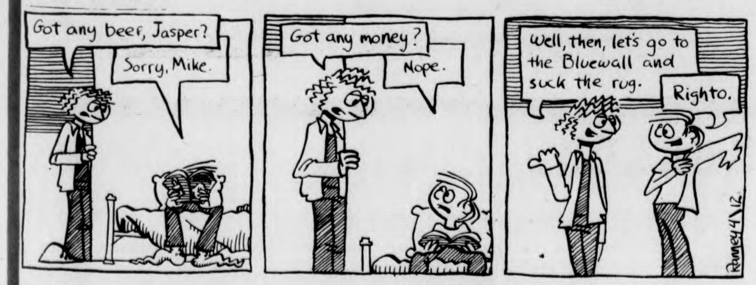
by Rob Ranney



Got any beer, Jasper?
Sorry, Mike.
Got any money?
Nope.
Well, then, let's go to the Bluewall and suck the rug.
Righto.
Ranney 4/12

BACK AGAIN

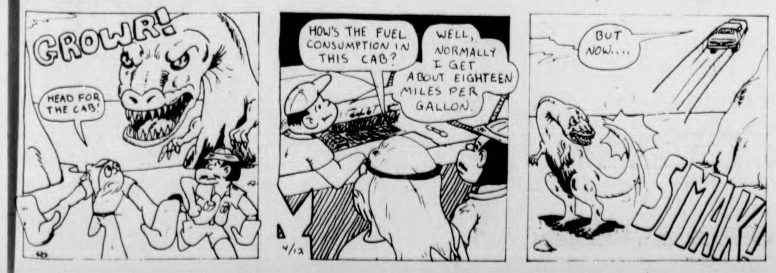
by K



GROWR!
HEAD FOR THE CAB!
HOW'S THE FUEL CONSUMPTION IN THIS CAB?
WELL, NORMALLY I GET ABOUT EIGHTEEN MILES PER GALLON.
4/12
BUT NOW....
SMAK!

Your Birthday

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12

Born today, you have a happy nature that amuses and interests others. You should seldom be without friends, for you draw people to you. Those born on this date make excellent public speakers, may have a talent for comedy, and can bring energy to and take satisfaction from almost anything they are involved in.

You make fast and firm attachments to others. Seldom are you disappointed in your relationships, for you bring to them easy, lasting camaraderie. Those who know you well are usually loyal to the cause you are supporting at a given time, for they trust your wisdom in investing time and talent.

You are an adaptable person. You do not need the support of custom or numbers to make decisions. You will decide all issues on their merits and not on opinion. Your independence is obvious in your daily life, for you cultivate it continuously.

Also born on this date: David Cassidy, singer, actor; Henry Clay, American statesman.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, APRIL 13

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — A pleasure-seeking morning could backfire later. Don't put off work.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Your attractiveness to co-workers of the opposite sex may cause disruptions at work.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — You have an opportunity for fame, even if short-lived, this morning. You may not wish to take it.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — You may have to fake aggressiveness today to give a needed impression of authority.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Be sure you understand the situation at work. Decisions must be made.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Take action on matters which have been hanging for some time. Others await your move.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Cycles of good and ill run all day. Don't be discouraged by a bad review of past actions.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.22) — Think things over carefully before deciding on matters affecting others' lives.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — It may take a while, but you should reach a feasible solution to a problem.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — The decisions you make now must stand the test of time. Think things over again.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — A rough morning shows your ability to take pressure. Don't rely on others.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Fate may seem against you this morning, but it should be on your side later. Be patient.

Copyright 1978
United Feature Syndicate Inc

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Cause to halt
5 Narrow channels
9 Former German state
14 Not false
15 U.S. court ace
16 Soap plant
17 Cereal grass
18 Fleece. Slang
19 Arrives
20 Toupee's relative
21 Squanderer
23 Bent over
25 Observed
26 Falsify
27 "Gil ----": Le Sage novel
29 Possessive word
32 Initiate
35 Poker holding 36 Hurting
37 Magnetic metal
38 Animal shelters
39 Drug amount
40 Slate
41 Cupola
42 Mexican coins
43 QB's target
44 Revolve
45 Blind as a ---
46 Extra
48 Meat cut
52 Grievous trouble
56 Exist
57 Finnish poems
58 Rosy
59 Goddess of discord
60 Throw out
61 "Bus Stop" author
62 Milk: Prefix
63 Letters
64 Gas for lighting
65 Guy line

DOWN

1 Puts away neatly
2 Characteristic
3 Expenditures
4 Footlike part
5 Expressed surprise
6 Popped the question
7 Lean
8 Forward
9 Lives by oneself
10 Love, in Italia
11 Canada and Australia, once
12 Hebrew month
13 Insect colony
21 Breadth
22 Russian leaders: Var.
24 Think
27 Wand
28 Willing: Archaic
30 Duo plus one
31 Becomes fixed
32 Snack
33 Where Belfast is 34 El Dorados: 2 words
35 Inferior
36 Fats
38 Merciless
42 Pang
44 Sells on credit
45 Smashed
47 Fleshy
48 Gambling game
49 Jeweler's unit
50 Heath genus
51 Touchy
52 Canada birch, e.g.
53 Floor coverings
54 Neat as ----
55 Snag
59 Some RRs

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| T | H | E | M | | A | G | H | A | S | | S | L | O | P |
| H | O | B | O | | N | O | I | S | E | | T | E | N | E |
| I | N | B | A | D | T | A | S | T | E | | R | A | C | E |
| N | E | S | T | E | R | ■ | T | O | P | | A | V | E | R |
| | | | | R | I | G | O | R | ■ | L | I | E | | |
| P | A | S | S | ■ | M | A | R | ■ | F | I | N | A | L | E |
| A | B | I | E | S | ■ | S | I | D | L | E | ■ | L | O | S |
| C | O | N | T | E | M | P | O | R | A | N | E | O | U | S |
| E | R | G | ■ | L | I | E | G | E | ■ | S | E | N | S | E |
| S | T | U | F | F | S | ■ | R | A | T | ■ | R | E | E | D |
| | | L | A | S | ■ | T | A | M | E | R | | | | |
| S | L | A | B | | P | E | P | ■ | N | A | C | R | E | D |
| C | U | R | L | | E | T | H | A | N | F | R | O | M | E |
| A | B | L | E | | A | R | E | T | E | | A | M | I | R |
| B | E | Y | S | | R | A | R | E | R | | M | A | T | S |

Skribiski shines for UMass nine

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

The local boy that makes it good, it is the All-American story.

This version begins with a young kid growing up in the shadow of a state university. You have probably heard it all before. For years his interest was captured by the collegiate skills of the local baseball team. In the back of his mind was the hope someday he, too, will represent State U. This was the goal he aspired to.

The years rolled by and suddenly the kid had become a high school star, displaying the talents he had witnessed so many times before. Now people were coming to see him perform. He even caught the eye of pro scouts.

The scouts agreed he would make a good prospect and drafted him in the middle rounds. This was every player's dream come true. The opportunity to play in the minor leagues with the eventual dream of making it to the top — the major league. It was all within his grasp if he wanted it.

Suddenly a major conflict had emerged. His heart and memories still leaned towards State U., but how could he turn down a professional offer? It was a period of mental confusion.

After much deliberation, he decided he belonged at State U. Following the pattern of a Hollywood script, he has never regretted it.

For Ed Skribiski, this is more than just a story. He is that local kid, and the University of Massachusetts is that State U.

Despite being drafted out of Frontier Regional High School on the 8th round by the Cincinnati Reds, the Junior SBA major from nearby Sunderland chose to pursue "business" as well as pleasure, here at UMass.

In his two previous varsity seasons he has demonstrated why he caught the attention of scouts from four separate teams. Last year, batting leadoff and playing 2nd and 3rd base he lashed out 50 hits, tying a school record, while batting a lofty .357.

His versatility in the field allowed him to switch positions, playing 2nd and 3rd equally well. This year he has been called on to fill the gap at shortstop vacated by Tim Cullen.

Coach Dick Bergquist foresees no trouble in the switch. "Ed is our most experienced infielder. He is both very capable and very good," he said.

After such a productive season last year (team MVP), many people are wondering what to expect for an encore. Skribiski commented simply, "As long as I do a good job I'll be happy. I don't want to commit myself to certain goals, that puts you in a forced situation where you might be pressing too hard to get a hit. With baseball, it is impossible to know what to expect."

Skribiski feels he has benefited a great deal from playing at UMass. "The biggest adjustment I had to make was trying to hit the slider. I had never seen one before I came here. I quickly realized there was no way I could swing for the fences like in high school. Jeff McKay, former assistant coach, helped me a great deal teaching me how to go to right field," he said.

Skribiski has developed into a contact hitter, but his two home runs and three triples are indications that he has power. His style of play is cut out of the Rick Burleson mold. Hustling, competitive, a line drive hitter to all fields, and most especially a leader on the field.

Being a captain, Skribiski considers the mental discipline an important aspect of leadership through example. "I know some players look up to the captain to see how they behave. I know I did when I first came here. So I think it matters that I keep control of myself at all times, avoiding mouthing off or being a wise guy, and even having respect for the umpires. It is a way of setting a tone and maintaining the proper attitude. Also I think it is important as a captain to be around to help anyone in any way I can," he said.

Skribiski is hoping the team can reach the New England Regionals this year. The top four teams in the area qualify. Last year UMass narrowly missed, being ranked fifth.

"With what we have, we can do it," he said optimistically.

Havlicek's retirement: An empty experience

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

Commentary

With two minutes left in John Havlicek's basketball career, the Celtic's captain went on a nine point scoring binge in utter darkness as CBS switched 10 million viewers from Boston Garden to the rolling fairways of Augusta, Georgia for the Masters Tournament. Although many fans felt robbed of witnessing Hondo's blaze of glory finish, I was involved in a greater robbery — I was inside the Garden but never got to see Havlicek say good-bye. Let me explain by telling a story:

Last Friday I jumped in my friend Charlie's 1969 Buick Boat (the damn thing is 20 feet long) and traveled to Beacon Hill in Boston to visit an old friend attending Suffolk University Law School. We went through the motions of Friday and Saturday night fever and woke up on Sunday amidst a pile of wrinkled pants, shirts and socks, as well as a pile of empty beer cans and newspapers strewn across the living room rug. Unconsciously, we turned on the tube and were suddenly reminded that it was John Havlicek's last day in a Boston Celtic's uniform.

We were all embarrassed and ashamed that we had not only forgotten about Hondo's farewell, but that we had spent all our money on virtually nothing in Boston when we could have spent it on something substantive. We sat dumbfounded and glued to the television as Brent Musburger blurted out across the nation to millions of viewers that this was not only the 1,270th game for John Havlicek, but it was also his last. Boston was paying its final tribute to a man who embodied Celtic pride and a person who reciprocated the affection showered upon him by Celtic's fans.

All this activity, along with an eight minute standing ovation and compliments from fellow players, the media, Celtic personnel and NBA officials, took place just five minutes from the Beacon Hill apartment where Charlie and I sat.

"Let's go to the Garden," Charlie blurted out instinctively.

"Maybe we can sneak in and catch the end of the game or at least grab a program and say we took part in this history."

I agreed, so Charlie and I began the short five minute trek to the Garden from Beacon Hill. Upon our arrival, we found a group of elementary-aged children giving two ushers fits with their screaming and yelling, which we viewed as our golden opportunity to slip inside the Garden. However, just as we were slipping by the gate another usher came strolling along the corridor and kindly told us to leave ("Get the hell out of here!"). My story that Howie McHugh (publicist for the Celtics) was my uncle didn't work.

Frustrated, but undaunted, Charlie and I scoured the Garden's premises seeking a chance to slip unnoticed into history. We found an open door that aroused our curiosity and wandered inside. We were greeted by a long and winding corridor with no ushers in sight! Visions of sugar plums danced in our heads, as we thought we might get to say good-bye to Hondo. Our thoughts of grandeur evaporated quickly when we turned what seemed like the one thousandth corner and discovered that the corridor was blocked by a massive steel door. We retreated back down the winding corridors back out into the sunlight.

, "Here we are," said Charlie pointing at the inside of the Garden, "so close and yet so far. It doesn't seem real on the outside."

And it didn't. We wanted to take part in the excitement, but because of extenuating circumstances we couldn't. We wandered over to a bar inside Boston Garden, but due to our penniless state, we could only poke our heads inside to get a peak of the Celtics on television. A Boston cop walked up to us and whispered that we were loitering and that it was time to move along. Grudgingly, Charlie and I decided to trudge back to Beacon Hill.

During the last two minutes of the Celtic's game, John Havlicek poured in nine points to walk off to his final standing ovation as a Celtic. While Hondo accomplished this feat in darkness (thanks CBS), Charlie and I were bodily threatened on our way back to Beacon Hill by a car full of drunk and recalcitrant fools.

Maybe the nation was robbed of witnessing Hondo's grand finale, but somehow I think Charlie and I felt more than anybody else that we weren't a part of John Havlicek's good bye to Boston.

WE ARE NOW HIRING for SUMMER CONFERENCE HOUSING

Positions available: 1 day supervisor, 1 night supervisor, and 30-35 desk clerk/housekeeping positions. Applications and information may be picked up at the 3rd floor, Campus Center, in the Summer Conference Housing Office, Mon.-Fri. 9-5 p.m. the deadline for application is April 19, 1978.

Don't get caught with high
winter heating bills!

2 bedroom garden apartments from $255

Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE-
heat and hot water

NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS

For Your Convenience:
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

★ Minimum 10 month
lease available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours — Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

TWENTY Work Study
4-H Summer Camp
Positions Available

From the Berkshires to Cape Cod in Six Mass. locations.
Recreation leaders, Waterfront, Counselors, Environmental Awareness, Arts and Crafts. For more information, Contact Mike McCusker, 4-HOffice, 219 Stockbridge
Hall, UMass. 545-2646

Linksters begin spring campaign

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass golf team has taken a new look since last fall and is set for a big spring season. Coach Ed Vlach is counting on several young players and the addition of two experienced golfers to make up for the loss of former co-captain Flynt Lincoln.

The Minutemen, who have dominated the links action in New England the past three years, will have to come up with some solid, consistent golf from several young players this season if they hope to stay on top of the pack.

The linksters, who splashed their way to three big wins and a successful campaign last fall, will have to overcome two big problems if they hope to continue their winning ways.

The first problem for the Minutemen will be to replace Flynt Lincoln, a co-captain and team leader from last fall who has transferred to the University of Florida.

Lincoln, a blue chip performer all three of his semesters at UMass, provided the consistently low scores the team needed last fall, and will desperately need this season.

The second problem facing the duffers is a lack of consistency from the third, fourth and fifth players, a problem that plagued them last fall, and almost spelled disaster.

Coach Ed Vlach, now in his second season as golf mentor, is optimistic that he has the guns to solve his two problems.

Vlach is hoping one or two of the young players who chipped in with low scores at different times last fall, Vic Lahtein, Bill Campbell, Jeff Orr and John Lien can gain the needed consistency and provide the low scores the Minutemen will need each match.

Vlach is also counting on two veterans who did not play last fall, Chuck Dempsey and Mark Powers to come through and do some void filling. "If Powers and Dempsey play to their ability, we won't lose a thing," said Vlach of the loss of Lincoln.

"I'm optimistic," said Vlach. "Anytime you lose someone of his (Lincoln's) caliber, and then have someone who can step in and pick up the slack, it's encouraging."

Vlach said that he had five "solid people" in McDermott, Campbell, Lahtein, Lien and Orr. "If Dempsey and Powers play to their ability, that will make seven," said Vlach.

The next match for the Minutemen on April 18, weather permitting, with a triangular match against Dartmouth and Amherst College at Hickory Ridge Country Club.

The linksters then play two more triangulars on April 20 and 25, before hitting the big tournaments, the Mass. State Tournament in Stowe on April 27, the Salem State Tourney at Essex C.C. on April 30 and May 1 and the New Englands, at Yale on May 4 and 5.

Netwomen begin play

By ART SIMAS
Collegian Staff

Starting its second season of competition during the spring semester, the UMass women's tennis team hopefully will play seven or eight matches.

Unlike the fall, the spring season has no definite matches planned according to a master schedule. Coach Billy Yu is in the process of getting some scrimmages against Five College competition in April.

"Because we don't have a set schedule, it's really decided on the whims of the coaches when we can get together," Yu said.

Thirteen women have been practicing at Hampshire College on Wednesday nights since early March. Only three, Captain Cathy Sullivan, Dawn Minaai and Jennifer Ranz, are seniors. Yu said he was pleased that he has such a young team and his main concern for this spring is on development for next fall.

Part of the developing process Yu spoke of was the mental toughness of the players. For Yu, "being mentally tough in a tie breaker or other critical situation is the mark of a good tennis player. Other mechanical deficiencies can be developed and worked on later," he said.

Vying for the number one spot in singles are two freshmen, Cathy Maher and Lee Robb. Sullivan also played singles in past years but switched to doubles last fall in the Massachusetts Association of Intercollegiant Athletics for Women (MAIAW) tournament in Worcester.

Yu said, "Our number one doubles is as strong as the singles. They (Sullivan and Ranz) went to the finals of the MAIAW and made the quarter finals of the New England tournament at Amherst last year."

Comparing doubles and singles play, Sullivan said, "It's two totally different games. You have to know your partner inside and out, meaning that you've got to know where the ball is going to be played even before she hits it."

Maher, who played number one singles in the fall, agreed with Sullivan about the positioning of partners and added that the doubles player" has to be a good volleyer too. You can't stand back on the baseline — you've got to come to the net," she said.

Plenty of running is the main exercise done by the women in preparation for the season, Yu said. Be it jogging long distance, jumping rope for foot agility or sprints for quick starts and speed, the women find that any type of legwork will improve their stamina under game conditions, he added.

Looking ahead to the spring season, Yu said, "We probably have the strongest team in UMass history, despite our 5-4 overall record during the fall." He said UMass is on the same level of competition as Harvard, Dartmouth and other opponents who recruit players, even though UMass does not do any recruiting.

the ring sale.
$59.95
save up to $25.00
4 days only!

Men's traditional Siladium® rings and selected women's fashion rings are an unusual buy at $59.95. If you want really outstanding savings, now is the time to buy your college ring.

THE ARTCARVED REPRESENTATIVE has a large collection of rings.

Ask to see them.

Dates TODAY Place BOOKSTORE, 10:00-2:30

Deposit required. Ask about Master Charge or Visa.

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Gorillas face Vermont in home debut today

Barring postponement due to inclement weather conditions (forecast hints of a warm day, but in New England, one never can tell) the Minutemen will get to play their first home lacrosse game of the season today at 3 o'clock vs. the Catamounts of Vermont.

Vermont comes into the game undefeated (1-0) having defeated New England College 11-9 in their first varsity game ever, moving to that level from club status. UMass, meanwhile, will be trying to even its own record at 2-2 with a win over the Vermont squad.

"It was a good game (UVM-NE) for our opener" said head coach Rich Farnham, who doubles as UVM's Assistant Director of Athletics. "We made some mistakes, but I thought in general we did all right."

He added, "We're not a run and gun team; we're trying to run a disciplined offense-setting up, and working for good shots."

"I think it is imperative that the team believes in itself and that the players establish a positive attitude."

Meanwhile, on the UMass side of the ledger, though Vermont may seem a little out of the Gorillas' league, the Catamounts will be psyched for this game, since it is against one of their toughest opponents.

UMass lacrosse fans will be looking for a good outing from Garber's Gorillas, if not for anything else, just to instill a feeling of reassurance that the lacrosse team is still alive.

The matchup could be an interesting one, in that, should UMass break open the game, it would give Coach Garber a chance to give some of the freshmen, new to the team, playing time.

Ironically, Vermont has a host of freshment on its squad (22) also.

"On paper, UMass is definitely better," said Farnham. "We're just going to have to do the best we can, things we try in practice."

Today, on the field — UMass-UVermont. UMass "is better," but they still have to prove it.

Gazelles to face Brown

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

The Brown University women's lacrosse team, undefeated last season, will be looking to extend its winning streak in a first-time encounter with UMass today at NOPE field, at 3:30.

But the UMass women have other ideas. The team, coming off of a 7-0 shutout against Boston University last Thursday, is healthy and prepared for what could be their toughest early season competition.

"They are a good club," UMass coach Frank Garahan said of Brown. "They practice hard and have a lot of good, individual players."

Among Brown's leading scorers are Terry Tamasi, who last year made the second team in the U.S., Mercedes Bosch, Robin Bil, and Marjorie Smith.

Although the game will be Brown's season opener, the squad will not be cold, as it comes from several pre-season games played at the Cape.

Garahan cited the biggest threat to his his team as being Brown's controlled offense.

UMass, however, hopes to contain Brown, led by co-captains Gayle Hutchinson, on defense, and Judy Kennedy, in the center position.

"Our strategy is to go right from the opening whistle and get ahead," said Garahan. "Our team basically looks for the fast breaks, outrunning and outpassing the other team. It is a good match-up."

Garahan also pointed to the two team's inexperience for the '78 season.

"We're playing each other early in the season. It should be interesting from the standpoint of what's to come eventually, leading up to the tournament."

Tomorrow's competition, said Garahan, will give the team an idea of where they stand. The keenest competition will probably come later in the season, when the stickers meet with a top ranked New Hampshire team.

Netmen face Middlebury

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

Illness may force top singles player Alan Green to sit out the UMass tennis team's season opening match against Middlebury today on the Boyden lower courts at 3 p.m.

Minuteman coach Steve Williams said Green had not been well for the past two days and he may have to juggle the lineup to replace Green.

Williams did not say how he would change the lineup but it is epxected that UMass' second singles player Rickey Sharton would move into the top slot to face Middlebury's Steve Sass.

Williams plans to play freshman Sergio Strepman at sixth singles, Steve Heyl and Keith Hovland at second doubles and Dave Nowak and Mark Huetteman at third doubles. The remaining lineup is not definite, he said.

Tomorrow's match is the first for both teams and Middlebury coach Mickey Heineken said he expects an "up hill battle."

"We realize we're going to be seeing one of the top two teams we'll be facing all year," Heineken said.

Middlebury has a "mature team," according to Heineken, with five of six singles positions being filled by seniors. Middlebury posted a 5-4 record last year. UMass' fall record was 2-2.

Both teams have been working on doubles in practice, according to the coaches.

"We're looking forward to this match after being rained out against Tufts last Friday," Sharton said.

Sharton said preseason scrimmages (a win against Clark and a loss to Amherst) have given the team helpful match situations.

"Competition within the team is fairly keen," he said. "We're getting good work outs."

Playoff results

PHILADELPHIA [UPI] — Mel Bridgman stuffed in a loose puck 23 seconds into the sudden-death overtime period last night to lead the Philadelphia Flyers to a 3-2 victory over the Colorado Rockies in the opening game of the first round of the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

BUFFALO, N.Y. [UPI] — French Connection linemates Gil Perreault and Richard Martin each scored a goal and assisted on another lead the Buffalo Sabres to a 4-1 NHL playoff victory last night over the New York Rangers.

ATLANTA [UPI] — Vaclav Nedomansky had a goal and two assists in the first 7½ minutes last night to spark the Detroit Red Wings to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Flames in the opening round of the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

TORONTO [UPI] — Center George Ferguson fired in three goals in the third period last night, capping a Toronto scoring spree, to give the Leafs a 7-3 victory over the Los Angeles Kings in the opening game of their first round series.

★ Batwomen

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

play was turned in by second sacker Rhonda McManus, back at full tilt after a nagging shoulder injury. "Do" restored any doubts of defensive confidence as she single-handedly turned over the first double play of the season.

Offense completes the story as Sue Peters tripled and scored on Kathy Horrigan's first home run of the season. Peters completed her perfect day at the plate (4-4) two innings later by banging a three-bagger past the center fielder. McManus followed with another triple to end the sixth inning 8-4.

The final run of the game was scored by Elaine Howle, who found the plate after a Keene State fielding error.

The JV women doubled yesterday's softball success and came out on top, 18-0 in their '78 debut. Freshman Kathy O'Connell led the way pitching an impressive two-hitter.

The varsity women face Eastern Connecticut in a doubleheader Thursday at 1:00 as the JV squad has off until a Sat. doubleheader against Franklin Pierce College.

IN THE HOT BOX ...

Sue Peters is now 3-0 on the mound ... Jen Parker was outstanding with her hustle on the basepaths ... four UMies are batting over .500 for the first four games ... Congrats to Coach Jean Lambert on her first JV win.

Sports calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Var. baseball 4 AIC 1
Var. softball 9 Keene State 4
JV softball 18 Keene State 0
JV lacrosse 12 Dean Jr. College 7

TODAY

Men's lacrosse vs. Vermont 3 p.m. Home
Women's lacrosse vs. Brown 3:30 p.m. Home
Men's tennis vs. Middlebury 3 p.m. Home
JV baseball vs. Quinsigamond CC 1 p.m. Home

TOMORROW

Var. baseball at Springfield 3 p.m.
Var, Softball at E. Connecticut 6 p.m.
Women's lacrosse at Northeastern 3:30 p.m.
Men's tennis at MIT 3 p.m.
Women's JV lacrosse at Northeastern 3:30 p.m.

Greeting Cards
Hallmark, Caspari, Gordon
Gordon-Fraser
at A.J. Hastings
newsdealer and stationer
Amherst

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS
CLOTHING
TENTS
ANNUAL SPRING SALE
 Wednesday, April 12 to Saturday, April 15.
SLEEPING BAGS
PACKS
Save 10-50%
BOATING EQUIPMENT, RUNNING SHOES, KITS, HIKING BOOTS, AND MUCH, MUCH MORE.
(Winter Rental Gear 30-70% Off List)
Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504
VISA
master charge

Friars' star charged in campus stabbing

PROVIDENCE, R.I. [UPI] — Providence College has begun its own investigation of a campus stabbing incident allegedly involving basketball star Dwight Williams, a school spokesman said yesterday.

Williams, this year's All New England District 1 Player of the Year, is accused of jabbing a paring knife into a fellow student Friday in an argument over a bet on a pool game.

"It's still too premature to speculate what disciplinary action will be taken," said spokesman Joseph T. McAleer, adding he had "no idea" how long the investigation would take.

The Rev. Francis C. Duffy, college vice president, was taking statements from students who might have witnessed the incident, McAleer said. If Duffy decides Williams should be charged, a campus committee will hear the case, he said.

Williams has already been charged by Providence College. His lawyer said he will plead innocent Friday in state district court to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Williams, a junior from Buffalo, N.Y., was a starting guard with the Friars for the last two years.

The student stabbed was Raymond Romagnolo, 22, of Somerset, Mass. He received two stitches in his shoulder and was released from the hospital over the weekend.

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY Miles From Northampton Miles From Amherst
OPEN: MON.-FRI. 9:30 to 5:30 p.m., SAT. 9:30 to 3 p.m.
TIRES CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.
MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.
SPRING INSPECTION SPECIALS
FIRESTONE, B.F. GOODRICH, GOODYEAR LEE, ARMSTRONG, ZENITH, and many more first quality

BIASPLY - 4-PLY POLYESTER

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 600x12 | Lee Ltr. Bk. | 19.95 |
| 615x13 | Lee Ltr. Wht. | 21.95 |
| A78x[illegible] | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 16.95 |
| B78x13 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 20.95 |
| C78x14 | General White | 21.95 |
| D78x14 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 22.95 |
| E78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 23.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 24.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 25.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 27.95 |
| 560x15 | Goodyear Bk. | 19.95 |
| 600x15 | Pirelli Bk. | 23.95 |
| 685x15 | Fire. M/Sport | 26.95 |
| G78x15 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 25.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 27.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire. Pe. Wht. | 32.95 |

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX.

BIAS PLY - FIBERGLASS BELTED

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| A78-13 | Lee Wht. | 25.95 |
| B78x13 | Fire. Wht. | 26.95 |
| C78x13 | Cust. Wht. | 26.95 |
| C78x14 | Fire. SRB Wht. | 29.95 |
| E78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 27.95 |
| E78x14 | B.F.G. Wht. Blem | 26.95 |
| F78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Fire. SRB Bk. | 31.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 36.95 |
| G78x15 | B.F.G. Bk. Blem. | 28.95 |
| G78x15 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 31.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire. SRB Blk. | 34.95 |
| H78x15 | Prowler Wht. | 35.95 |
| J78x15 | Fire. SRB. Wht. | 37.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 36.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire SRB RWL 6P | 39.95 |

WHITEWALLS $2.00 MORE PER TIRE.

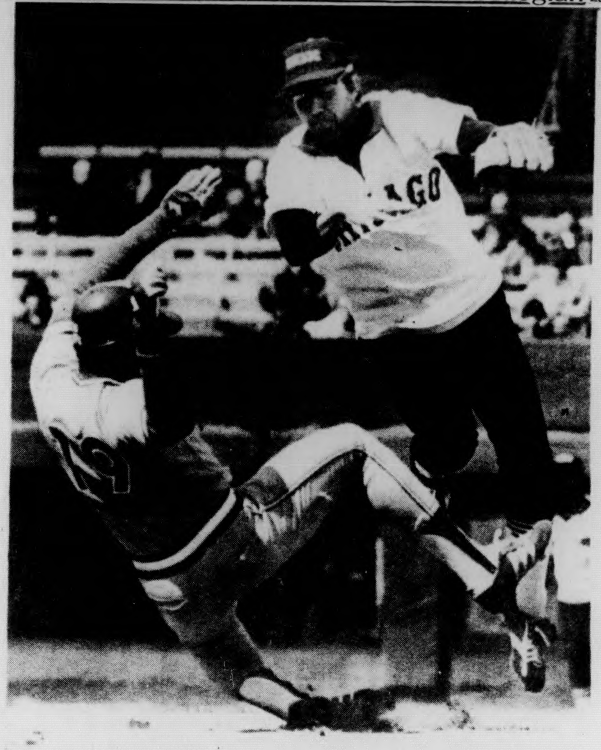
RADIALS
MICHELIN, GENERAL, B.F. GOODRICH, DUNLOP, CONTINENTAL, LEE, FIRESTONE, ARMSTRONG, AND MANY MORE. ALL AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

B.F.Goodrich
BELTED T/A 70/60
Bold raised white letters and 70/60-series profile give the Belted T/A an aggressive performance appearance, mileage and stability of polyester/glass construction, wide nine rib tread for handling and traction
ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. Tax and Sales Tax.

T/A PERFORMANCE TIRES

| SIZE | SALE PRICE | F.E. TAX | RIM WIDTH | TREAD WIDTH |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| F60x14 | 40.00 | 2.85 | 6-9" | 8" |
| G60x14 | 42.00 | 3.04 | 6-9" | 8½" |
| L60x14 | 46.00 | 3.57 | 7-10" | 9½" |
| G60x15 | 43.00 | 3.07 | 6-9" | 8¼" |
| L60x15 | 48.00 | 3.69 | 7-10" | 9½" |
| B70x13 | 31.00 | 2.06 | 5-6½" | 6" |
| E70x14 | 35.00 | 2.44 | 5½-7" | 6" |
| F70x14 | 36.00 | 2.57 | 5½-7" | 6½" |
| G70x14 | 37.00 | 2.73 | 6-8" | 6¾" |
| G70x15 | 38.00 | 2.80 | 5½-8" | 6¾" |
| H70x15 | 42.00 | 2.99 | 6-8" | 7" |

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY Cash and Carry or Bank Americard (VISA) Master Charge
OPEN Mon.-Fri. 9:30 to 5:30 p.m. SAT 9:30-3 p.m.
586-2544



Diamond dance-steps — Toronto's Otto Velez (19) is forced out at second base by Chicago White Sox shortstop Don Kessinger in 2nd inning action yesterday. The Sox beat the Jays, 9-5. (UPI)

Baseball roundup

Cubs dump Mets

NEW YORK [UPI] — Rick Reuschel shrugged off a beanball dispute to pitch seven shutout innings yesterday and Bobby Murcer drove home a pair of runs in a 4-2 Chicago Cubs victory over the New York Mets.

Reuschel, a 20-game winner last year, gave up only four hits while striking out five and walking only one before leaving after the seventh inning. The Mets scored their first run off reliever Bruce Sutter in the eighth on Tim Foli's double and a single by Steve Henderson and Lee Mazzilli added a homer leading off the ninth.

The Cubs scored their first run in the second when Dave Rader doubled, took third on an infield out and came home on the first of three singles by Ivan DeJesus. They made it 2-0 in the sixth when Bill Buckner doubled and scored on a single by Murcer and added two runs in the eighth on a single by Buckner, Murcer's double and a pinch-hit single by Larry Biittner.

The game was spiced by a beanball dispute which resulted in the ejection of losing pitcher Jerry Koosman and Mets manager Joe Torre in the seventh. An inning earlier, Reuschel, apparently annoyed when Steve Henderson stepped out of the box as he was about to pitch, struck the Mets' left fielder on the arm with a pitch.

On Reuschel's next turn at-bat in the seventh, Koosman retaliated with a pitch on his head, moving home plate umpire Jerry Dale to eject both the Met pitcher and Torre.

Chisox maul Jays

CHICAGO [UPI] — Eric Soderholdm, Jorge Orta and Ron Blomberg delivered two-run homers yesterday to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 9-5 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays in a long ball battle in wind-swept Comiskey Park.

The wind was blowing at 25 miles an hour and aided four of the six homers by both teams. Rico Carty and Otto Velez hit solo homers for the Blue Jays and Velez knocked in two more runs with a sixth-inning triple.

Soderholm's drive followed a triple by Chet Lemon in the second inning. Ralph Garr singled ahead of Orta's blow in the third and Orta doubled before Blomberg's drive in the seventh.

Yanks lose again

MILWAUKEE [UPI] — Sparked by a pair of two-run homers by Gorman Thomas, the Milwaukee Brewers continued their assault on American League pitching last night by crushing Jim "Catfish" Hunter and the New York Yankees, 9-6, to remain undefeated in four games.

The Brewers, the only undefeated team in the American League, have scored 49 runs and hammered 52 hits, including nine home runs and nine doubles.

After Thurman Munson's run-scoring double got the Yankees a 1-0 lead in the first inning, Cecil Cooper tied the score in the bottom of the inning with a solo homer off Hunter and the Brewers moved ahead to stay in the second inning on a single by Sal Bando and a homer by Thomas.

Hunter was driven from the mound in the third when Milwaukee scored three times to grab a 6-1 lead. A two-run double by Cooper followed a double by rookie Paul Molitor and a single by Don Money and Sixto Lezcano doubled home the final run of the inning off reliever Rawly Eastwick.

Meriwether to talk at UM

Dr. W. Delano Meriwether, whom Sports Illustrated once called 'the Champion of the Armchair Athletes' will give a speech tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in room 904-08 in the Campus Center.

Meriwether, whose duties have centered on leukemia and sickle cell anemia, first took up competitive running at age twenty-seven, as a diversion from the depressing aspects of his work. Without any previous training, he captured two National Amateur Athletic Union sprinting championships in '71 and '72.

His unorthodox, yet speedy running style, along with his stylish track uniforms and low key manner, made him a favorite with reporters.

After capturing (in '71) the AAU 100-yard dash with a stunning time of 9 seconds, he sprinted to the AAU 60-yard dash championship with a time of 6.2 seconds, before retiring from the track scene.

He will talk on the Role of the Third World Scientists in the Federal Government, and also give some attention to the Bakke controversy.

Note: Other speakers coming up in the not too distant future are Bowie Kuhn (tentatively May 4 — and Pete Rozelle).

Ciccone, Walsh key UMass win

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD — Charlie Ciccone and Mike Walsh smashed homeruns, and pitcher Tom Nigro furnished a nifty five-hitter yesterday to lead the UMass baseball team to a 4-1 victory over AIC.

The Minutemen (7-11, 5-3 Northern) never trailed, as Ciccone lined a first inning shot over the 365 foot mark in left field, scoring Mike McEvilly ahead of him. They upped the lead to 3-0 on Walsh's solo blast in the third inning.

UMass' final run came across on a perfectly executed suicide squeeze play by Mark Sullivan and McEvilly. Sullivan had reached third on an infield single and a wild pitch, and scored on McEvilly's beautiful bunt down the third base line.

"That was our first squeeze of the year and I was very happy at th results," commented coach Dick Bergquist.

Nigro was in control for the most part, working out of jams in the second and seventh innings. Bob Drury walked and Mike Foley reached first on an error in the second inning for AIC, putting runners on first and second with one out. Nigro then balked the runners up a base on a questionable call, but he got the last two batters on a groundout and a line out.

Center fielder Neal Lojek saved Nigro from trouble in the AIC seventh as he made a two-out diving catch of a Dave Blanchard line drive with runners at first and second. NIgro then breezed through the final two innings, allowing only one hit.

The Yellow Jackets scored their only run in the sixth inning on a walk to Gary Burcher and a two-out double to left by leftfieler Chris Olinski.

"I was really pleased with Tom Nigro's performance today. He stayed in and battled even when he had lost something and he really wanted to finish the game," Bergquist said.

The catching of Ciccone also impressed Bergquist. He made a couple of good stops and threw out a Yellow Jacket runner trying to steal second in the first inning, which seemed to give the Minutemen momentum.

The Minutemen ripped nine hits off of AIC starter and loser Mark Welch and reliever Steve Mercadante. Sullivan, McEvilly and Walsh each had two hits. McEvilly and Sullivan also had a stolen base along with Mike Stockley.

Nigro struck out six and walked five in recording his second victory against three defeats. He also lowered his ERA by more than a run.

"We've had good pitching seven out of our eight games up north and this is what I expected," Bergquist said.

"I thought we would do a little more damage against their (AIC's) starting pitcher, but this was the first time this year we have hit two long balls in a game," Bergquist added.

BATTING BANTER — John Gallagher is ranked third in New England Division I batting with a .423 average, and McEvilly at .346 is eighth...Doug Welenc has the third best ERA at 1.04, while Mike Yacysnyn is eighth with a 2.50 ERA...McEvilly leads the Minutemen in RBI's with 11, Ed Skribiski, and Stockley have 8 apiece.

VISIT
BY OF QUINCY
BHS
23

Boston Celtics' star Dave Cowens joined handicapped youngsters at the Massachusetts Hospital School in a forty-minute wheelchair basketball game yesterday. Cowens, playing in his first basketball game since the Celtics' season ended, was held scoreless, as youngsters such as John Hanczaryk (R) applied tough defense. (UPI)

Ali-Spinks set rematch

NEW ORLEANS [UPI] — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and the man who dethroned him — Leon Spinks — yesterday playfully jabbed and choked each other for the press, then signed to fight for the championship Sept. 15 in the Louisiana superdome.

Ali, 36, and Spinks, 24, signed a blank sheet of paper in a steaming hotel room to formalize the contract. Terms were not released.

When Top Rank, Inc., president Bob Arum announced plans for the fight last week, he said local promoters had promised the largest live gate guarantee in boxing history, more than $2.5 million.

The superdome, scaled from $25 for a seat 19 stories high to $200 for ringside "gold row" seats, can hold 85,000 for theater-type events. Promoters expected the fight to sell out.

Ali, dressed plainly in a black-and-red striped shirt, contrasted sharply with Spinks, attired in an expensive, beige, three-piece suit and wearing three rings and a gold bracelet.

"He put his teeth back in so I can't name him," Ali chided Spinks, who wears two false front teeth outside the boxing ring. "I was going to name him 'the vampire.'

"I named (Sonny) Liston 'the bear,' (Floyd) Patterson 'the rabbit,' (Joe) Frazier 'the gorilla,' because he was so ugly. But with his two teeth in I can't name him 'the vampire.' "

Mitwomen top Keene

By BETH COLLINS
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's softball squad found themselves still in the unbeaten ranks last night as they pulled another come from behind victory at the expense of Keene State. The Minutewomen travelled to New Hampshire to defeat the Owls 4-1.

The final score doesn't indicate the torment the UMass nine went through before they could start swinging their potent bats and display some dazzling glovework that is characteristic of them.

The problem came in the third inning when missed fly balls, booted grounders, wild throws, and some bizarre umpiring added up to four UMass errors and a 4-1 score in favor of Keene State.

Coach Dianne Thompson felt the barrage of errors was "the lowest point of the young season thus far."

"I was pleased, however, with their maturity, they came right back the next inning to control the game."

The Minutewomen regained their composure in the top of the third as Sue Peters led off with a single to left field. A stolen base and wild pitch found Peters on third base, easy scoring position for a Rhonda McManus fielder's choice. Junior Susan DiRocco, stepped up to the plate and belted a long triple, the first of four for UMass. An Elaine Howle bunt scored DiRocco to give UMass a 5-4 lead.

A persistent Keene State team kept the Minutewomen on their toes, despite their inability to score again. A sparkling defensive

TURN TO PAGE 22

UMass' lacrosse team opens its season this afternoon at home against the Cantamounts of Vermont. This is the first of only 5 home games. See Russ Smith's story on page 22. (Staff photo by John LeJeune)

Rich Eckel

A dream come true

Scott Hayes will walk into the Ware River News office around noon today with all the anxiety and tension of a father as he heads toward the maternity ward for his first glimpse of a newly born kin.

Two months of writing letters, cajoling potential advertisers, attending games, and writing stories will have culminated in the birth of "Lacrosse '78 Magazine." For Scott Hayes and Ben Caswell it will be the realization of a dream, the attainment of a goal that once was nothing but a passing thought, and hopefully the beginning of a profitable future.

Now the debut of a local lacrosse publication may not seem like a dramatic development in the sporting world this week, but it does have local significance. You see, Caswell and Hayes were graduated from this university last spring and both are former Collegian staffers. In fact, Caswell was this paper's sports editor in 1975 and Hayes was his assistant.

They are the rookie pitcher who suddenly blossoms and makes the big leagues. They are taking the gamble that men three times their age can only dream about now. They have entered business for themselves and it is a risky proposition.

They are confident of success, however. In the era of specialized magazines, and with a sport that is reaching a new level of appreciation, there appears to be a market.

Ironically, neither was interested in the sport until they arrived in Amherst.

"I never saw a game until I came to UMass," said Caswell, on the eve of "Lacrosse '78's" publication. My first year I roomed with Harry McVay, a lacrosse player, so I started watching the game."

After attending a few away games and becoming friends with many of the team members, Caswell decided he could write about the game for the Collegian.

"My first article on lacrosse was in 1974," Caswell related. "It was a feature on coach Garber. It was a bummer." Since then the game has become an addiction.

For Hayes, also a relative newcomer to the game, lacrosse became a fetish in 1976 after some prodding from Caswell. "Of course, Ben was still writing pretty much for the Collegian. But that's when I fell in love with the sport."

Last spring, as some may remember, the two entrepreneurs entered the world of publishing with a lacrosse program, which they did for credit, and distributed at a couple of home games. That's when the idea for a lacrosse magazine blossomed.

"We talked about it a little last spring," said Caswell, who is listed as publisher on their business card, while Hayes holds the title of editor. "We talked about it more seriously and a couple of months ago we decided we might as well give it a try."

Today, at the Gorillas' first home this season, and at local outlets, the first lacrosse magazine of its kind will be unveiled. The magazine will focus on men's and women's college action, along with regional prep and high school coverage.

"Our first issue is going to be free," mentioned Hayes, who had 1,000 copies of the eight page initial copy printed. "We're going to mail out several hundred to coaches throughout New England and hope to develop a good core of subscribers."

It's their baby, and with the business advice of Wendy Frey they hope to make it a success.

The thought is a mind blower. Imagine, two former contributors to this God-forsaken paper becoming a success in the REAL world.

Incredible.

---

119 Thursday, April 13, 1978
MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE ~~120~~ ~~FRIDAY~~, APRIL ~~14~~, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Collegian newsroom occupied

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

Four ad-free pages per week dealing with women's news will begin appearing in the Collegian a week from Monday, the Collegian Board of Editors voted last night after about 75 students, most of them women, occupied the Collegian newsroom.

The vote, which was the fourth vote taken by the board during the night, was four in favor, one against, and two abstentions. Only seven of the ten members of the Collegian Board of Editors were present for the final vote.

The Collegian moved its Wednesday night production team off-campus, and continued to produce the paper.

Collegian Women's Editor Julie E. Melrose said she called for community action because, "we felt that a stalemate had been set up at the previous board of editors meetings. The women's pages belong to the community."

Editor-in-Chief of the Collegian William A. Sundstrom said that he agreed with the demand for women's pages. A compromise proposal by Sundstrom that would have set up two women's pages per week was defeated by the Board of Editors early in the night.

The group attended the regular weekly 7 p.m. meeting of the Collegian Board of Editors, and moved into the newsroom after the board voted down three proposals for women's pages.

The group of protesters voted to remain in the office until their demands were met. They also said that they would try to keep people from picking up the Collegian today and also organize a boycott of the Collegian.

The group submitted a demand to the board of editors at the beginning of the meeting that called for "four pages of ad-free space per week, editorial control over that space, and space for important women's news on days on which women's pages do not appear."

The undergraduate student senate, which was meeting in a room adjacent to the Collegian offices, voted 58-13 to repossess the Collegian's equipment and freeze the paper's funds. Several senators said, however, that the motion violated several student senate by-laws.

Protesters in the Collegian office last night. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Votes to take equipment

SGA threatens Collegian

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night voted to reposses equipment of the Daily Collegian and freeze senate funding of te paper if the Board of Editors did not grant a request for separate pages for women's news.

Later in the evening, the editor agreed to grant four pages per week solely for women's news. The pages would be under editorial control of the women's staff.

In other Senate business Brian DeLima returned as senate speaker when the body approved his March 29 election. DeLima had been Speaker for about a year and a half when he resigned last semester. This vote, to approve the election, passed by a 55-27 vote with two abstentions.

The Senate adopted the Collegian motion by a 58-13 vote after the Collegian Board voted down two proposals. One proposal called for two pages of women's pages per week and the other called for four pages.

The Board met with several campus feminists in attendance. The meeting was conducted in the Collegian Board room, outside the Senate meeting in room 101.

Early in the evening the Senate voted to support the move for women's pages. The Senate tabled any action so senators could join the women's caucus which was attending the meeting. The Senate recessed at 8:30 to attend the Board meeting and reconvened about an hour later after the Board had rejected the four page proposal.

Senator David Barenberg said the Board had tried "a tactic used at Whitmore, saying 'go home and we'll talk about it later'."

> "The question of whether or not the women would have pages is a legitimate issue"

Senator Nick Krikorus, speaking against the motion said, "Whether we like it or not, the decision lies in the hands of Collegian Board of Editors." Krikorous said the motion "goes against" the principle of freedom of the press.

Shelly Gordon, a member of the Campus Center Board of Governors, said the important issue "is that the women need these pages. But they are not even acknowledged — the only way we can bring this paper back to the students is to remind them who created it."

Collegian Executive Editor Michael Doran spoke before the Senate.

"The question of whether or not the women would have pages is a legitimate issue," Doran said. "I think taking over an office is a legitimate way to bring about change — freezing funds wouldn't be a good way to do it."

Earlier in the senate meeting, there was some discussion over the approval of DeLima's election. Krikorous called DeLima "a great speaker, perhaps the greatest we ever had." However he opposed DeLima's bid for the seat.

He said that accusations against DeLima, including an indictment from the Student Attorney Generals office, would divert DeLima's energy from the office.

Senator David Kantor said last night's vote was "not personality but the process." Kantor was referring to the fact that the vote was on the process of election not approval of the winner.

Complaint may change quorum rules

By CINDY REGET
Collegian Staff

A delegate to the Student Government Association electoral convention last night said he is planning to file a complaint which would speed the process of the convention, which has met five times in the past three weeks without electing a president.

Arthur Thomas, co-president of Central Area Government, met with other delegates last night to discuss the exact wording of the document which would change quorum regulations. The complaint will be submitted to the student judiciary clerk of the courts.

The electoral convention recessed again last night until Tuesday at 7 p.m. No area government reached quorum and many delegates left and said they were disgusted with the entire process.

The convention has been stagnated by a convention rule requiring a quorum of five delegations to be present to conduct business. There must also be a 2-3 quorum within each delegation.

The convention has met five times, and has recessed three times because of lack of quorum.

Jon Hite said the general feeling of the delegates was "I'm not going to waste an hour-and-a-half of my time at a convention not doing anything."

I really don't blame them," Hite said. He said student government is as close to a

TURN TO PAGE 6

Spirit of Ellington's music lives on

Edward Kennedy "Duke" Ellington died May 24, 1974, but the spirit of his music is alive and well and coming to UMass Saturday, May 6.

The gates of Alumni Stadium will open 10:03 a.m. for the "Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival: A Celebration of Black American Music." The concert will feature musicians spanning the broad range of Black American music, which is at both the roots and the forefront of popular music the world round.

As America's native artform, the music has become diverse during its relatively short history, but is united by the musical and social vision epitomized by Ellington himself. Whether for dancing, listening or learning, Black American music has something to offer everyone, as the concert-goers should discover.

Sponsored by the Student Senate, the event is free to all S.A.T.F. paying students, $6.00 for other students and $7.00 for non-students. Ticket information will be made available in the near future, according to festival organizers.

All proceeds of ticket sales and concessions will be donated toward the establishment of the "Edward Kennedy Ellington Center" in New York City, a non-profit organization for the advancement of Black American music. The center's initial projects include researching and cataloguing the history of black music in America, and establishing an educational division to provide instruction to young musicians.

The concert program will kick off with the Buddy Guy and Junior Wells Blues Band, which represents the best of the "Chicago Blues" tradition. Buddy Guy made his name in local clubs on the East Side by entering "killer guitar" competitions with some of the best blues musicians going. Wells became a featured member of Muddy Waters' band at the age of 14 soon after leaving the Louisiana fields where he learned to play harmonica.

Next up will be the Duke Ellington Orchestra, directed by Duke's younger brother Mercer. The group features the Ellington sound and compositions that have become one of the major influences on all 20th Century music.

Vocalist Patti Labelle follows, now on her own for the first time in her 16 year career.

The McCoy Tyner Sextet is next. Tyner has been widely recognized as the world's foremost black classical pianist since his long association with the late saxophonist John Coltrane. Tyner's style retains the Coltrane influence, and is marked by the powerful "sheets of sound" and block chords that shook the musical world in the 1960's.

The Crusaders will close the show. Formerly the Jazz Crusaders, the group has since moved toward a more rhythmic, dancing sound fused with the traditional "jazz" element.

Altogether, the Festival promises to be the best way to celebrate Duke Ellington's birthday (April 29), the great American tradition of black music, or just a nice Saturday in May.

Buddy Guy and Junior Wells at a recent performance.

Committee votes $5 mill for new roof

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — The Legislature's Finance Committee voted yesterday to let the state borrow $5 million to help Hartford rebuild its collapsed civic center coliseum roof.

The coliseum roof caved in under the weight of several inches of rain-soaked snow at 4:18 a.m. on Jan. 18 — just hours after 5,000 basketball fans had led the UMass-UConn game.

While the committee was debating the issue, the room was filled with high-powered legislative leaders.

In attendance was Hartford Deputy Mayor Micholas Carbone and at least one other member of the Hartford City Council.

The bill was approved 23-5 and sent to the Senate, and was amended to allow appropriate businessmen to administer the money raised by a state bond issue.

The coliseum, opened to the public three years ago, was built with city funds. The Hartford City Council is conducting an investigation to try to fix blame for the January cave-in.

Charles E. Horton, president of Lev Zetlin Associates, a New York engineering firm hired by Hartford to investigate the cause of the collapse, said he believes the roof was improperly designed. He said it had too few braces on its main support beams.

The Finance Committee's bill would allow the state to get back a percentage of the $5 million.

....newslines....

GOP's: Brooke ahead, Hatch leading in State

Hampshire County Republicans said they feel incumbent Sen. Edward Brooke is far ahead of challenger Avi Nelson while House Minority Leader Francis Hatch leads over opponent Edward F. King in the upcoming state elections.

The results came from a recent poll by students in the Inquiry Program at UMass, who selected a random sample of 100 registered Republicans living in Hampshire County.

The students enrolled in a practical politics course found that Sen. Brooke received the support of 60 per cent of these polled while Nelson got 15 per cent for senator. In the race for governor, Hatch received 32 per cent, King 21 per cent and Middlesex County Sheriff John Buckley 10 per cent.

The District Attorney race showed Montague State Rep. Thomas Simmons and Greenfield John Finn each receiving 14 per cent, with 72 per cent undecided or leaning to other candidates.

Today's Staff

TODAY'S STAFF
Issue Editor Amy Kaplan

| | |
|---|---|
| Ass't. Issue Editor | Myrna Hershman |
| Copy desk: | Fran Basche |
| Head D.R. Tech: | Marilyn Mankowsky |
| Sports Layout: | Stephanie Richardson |
| Ad Layout: | Karen Libucha |
| Special Thanks: | Mary Brown, Bill Parent, Beth Segers, Sean Horgan and Chuck |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Parade and Marketplace dedicates Bang Center

A parade of antique bicycles, horse drawn carriages and motor vehicles will move down North Pleasant Street here to Amherst center Saturday at 10:30 a.m. as part of a dedication of the new Bank's Community Center in Boltwood Walk.

The dedication also includes a sidewalk marketplace of arts and crafts, and food and service displays on the walkways within Boltwood Park and the Town Center from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

chairman of the Amherst Board of Selectmen Diana Romer will read a dedication week proclamation at 11:00 a.m.

Bicycle co-op opens; repair, parts, advice

A bicycle co-op is now open on the third floor of the Student Union next to the Photo Co-op.

Co-op manager Jim Thomas said the co-op will sell parts as well as service and repair bikes. There will be two repair stands, one for people to fix their own bikes and another for people to bring their bikes for repair by co-op workers. There will be a charge for each of these.

Thomas said he does not want the co-op to be thought of as just a store, but also as a place where people can come in and learn about bicycles. "There will be no charge for advice," Thomas said.

Workshops and some classes are planned for the future and anyone is welcome to join. There is a small membership fee, but members will receive lower prices.

The Co-op is open Thursday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from noon to 5. Thomas said he expects these hours to be expanded in the future.

— MEL WEBSTER

Man arrested in break-in of Stockbridge Hall

James W. Osborne was arrested Tuesday by UMass police on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony. Osborne is the third person arrested concerning the Stockbridge break-in last month in which over $5000 property was stolen from Stockbridge Hall.

---

Renovation plan to cost $5 mill for handicapped

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

UMass will need to spend approximately $5.1 million over the next three years to comply with federal laws calling for increased accessibility of public facilities for handicapped individuals, according to a plan accepted last Friday by Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery.

The plan, formulated by a 12-person task force, will enable UMass to comply with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 as implemented by the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

The plan also calls for spending $12.6 million over six years. However, the $7.5 million to be spent in the final three years is not required by the legislation, but will be spent to make the campus as accessible for handicapped individuals as possible, according to James A. West, chairman of the task force.

Approximately 350 known handicapped students attend classes at UMass, according to the Office of Handicapped Students. In addition, it is estimated there are between 1,500 and 2,000 temporarily disabled persons on the University campus each year.

The plan recommends renovations or modifications in academic buildings ($1,339,235), administration and other buildings ($572,770), residence halls and family housing ($2,371,600) and dining halls ($85,180).

There is also a category for common modifications, which includes modifications common to both academic and administrative buildings such as site development and alterations, modifications to elevators, fire alarms and stairs.

West said the figures in the report are "ball park figures subject to change." He said the plan was accepted by Bromery and the three UMass vice-chancellors, on the condition all projects contained in the plan will be reviewed again prior to implementation.

The first year of the plan includes "at least partial modifications to 59 campus buildings, including three residence halls, two dining halls and eight family housing units." The estimated total cost of the first year plan is $682,705.

Twenty-three of the projects in the first year plan are being financed under a $160,000 state Bureau of Building Construction grant received by UMass in 1975. West said more than half of these 23 projects have been completed.

According to a draft of the plan, the concept of the first year plan is to "complete all BBC contract work; plan, design and complete modifications which are considered inexpensive (i.e., up to $1000) ... and begin plans for major modifications to be carried out in the third year."

The costliest projects included in the first year are the architectural modification of Brett dormitory ($338,000), and the partial modifications of Patterson dormitory ($66,000) and Prince dormitory ($65,000).

The second year plan includes partial or complete modifications to 51 buildings, including five residence halls, two dining halls and eight family housing units.

The estimated total cost of the second year plan is $1,767,949.

The draft of the plan said the focus of the second year plan is to "complete projects which take more planning and design than could be accomplished in the first year ... to continue to plan and design for major architectural modifications ... and to begin work and design on modifications common to most key academic and public buildings such as stair, railing, elevator, fire alarm and site development."

The most expensive projects included in the second year plan are major architectural modifications planned for Knowlton Dormitory ($224,000), Brooks Dormitory ($205,000) and Crampton dormitory ($200,000).

The third year plan includes the completion of modifications to 54 buildings, including five residence halls, one dining hall, and six family housing units.

The concept of the third year plan is to complete all modifications necessary for UMass to comply with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

According to the draft, "work will include the completion of partial modifications started in the first or second year plans; the start of work on buildings which require major architectural modifications; and work on modifications common to key academic and public buildings."

The third plan is estimated to cost $2,669,569.

The costliest project contained in the third year plan are major architectural modifications to Field dormitory ($345,000) Hamlin dormitory ($237,000) and the Fine Arts Center ($250,000).

The fourth, fifth and sixth year plans will include work to bring the campus beyond the requirements of the law for full accessibility for the handicapped.

The total costs of the last three year plans are estimated to be $2,226,665 for the fourth year, $2,481,493 for the fifth year and $2,895,597 for the sixth year.

'We are normal...'

By CATHY CLABBY
Collegian Staff

"The biggest concern I have is the lack of public education concerned with handicapped individuals ... we are normal, we have limitations, but we are normal," said Morag Paget.

Paget is an exuberant twenty-one year old woman who has been deaf from birth. Morag can hear very little but can read lips with an astounding efficiency. Paget is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority and is a sophomore nursing student. The Division of Nursing was reluctant to accept her she said.

"It took two and a half years to get into the program because they kept asking me, 'How can you be a nurse when you're deaf?' " This is her first semester working in a hospital setting. She is confident of her ability.

"People object to me but I have to prove to them I can do it,' " she said.

Her basic complaints about UMass concern the lack of qualified sign language interpreters and the existence of patronizing attitudes.

"People often speak very loudly and contort their mouth formation when they know I am reading their lips."

She fears if UMass does not begin implementing more programs for the handicapped, it will lose federal funding it receives through section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which increases access ability of public buildings to the handicapped.

"Then we will lose the little power we have," she said.

Pentagon faces lack of nuclear materials

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Pentagon faces a squeeze in supplies of nuclear material that has caused it to consider less powerful warheads for Minutemen intercontinental missiles, a senior defense official said yesterday.

The situation was brought to President Carter's attention by Defense Secretary Harold Brown in a recent secret memo

The official said while enough plutonium and enriched uranium are available for present needs, expected increased demands for nuclear material for peaceful uses have caused a more "cautious" approach by the Pentagon because of forecasts of production shortages by the mid-1980s and beyond. outlining budgetary and defense issues for 1980, according to Pentagon sources.

The nuclear squeeze caused a bureaucratic flap earlier this month when Secretary of State Cyrus Vance wrote Carter endorsing an arms control proposal seeking an international ban on production of nuclear weapons material without consulting Brown.

When he learned of the move, Brown registered strong opposition with the White House.

A small child gets an armband yesterday. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)

Budget concerns

RSO hearings referred

By ROBERT FALETRA
Collegian Staff

Twenty-four Registered Student Organization (RSO) groups have been denied budget hearings by the Budget Committee of the student senate, according to Myra Levy of the Alternate Energy Coalition, an RSO group.

The budgets have been referred to the Finance Committee instead, Levy said.

"The budget committee reviewed all RSO budget applications and decided on grounds of their requests, which budgets should be referred to the finance committee instead," said Priscilla West, senate treasurer.

"But", Levy said, "a getting money from the finance committee is not the same as from the budget committee. The finance committee will only allocate money for single events and not an entire budget."

Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker-elect Brian DeLima offered an explanation of the denial of funds.

"Because of rising costs in the funding of the campus bus service, the Legal Services office and the RSO accounting office, the budget committee decided it would not be possible to fund any new groups without a raise in the Student Activities Fee," DeLima said.

Alfred Drewes, chairman of the Budget Committee said, "many of the requests made by the groups are the kind of things you go to the Finance Committee for."

Levy said "the thing that is agonizing is all the RSO groups that are set up to educate the student community have had to fight their own student senate for support."

According to DeLIma, the Finance Committee has money for program support and if an RSO group goes to the committee with a list of their objectives and how much they need for it, funding is available.

New game room unlikely

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

A proposal by the Campus Center Board of Governors to establish a game room in Campus Center room 101 is unlikely to pass because the room is in a bad location, according to the Campus Center director.

"Room 101 is not a good choice for a game room", said Director William Harris. "It doesn't allow us to consolidate all the game room activities, which would include ping pong and pool tables," Harris said.

The Board of Governors is a student organization which oversees the use of rooms in the Student Union and Campus Center.

The board has appointed a task force to investigate the proposal but the investigation has been interrupted because some of the board members are running for election, according to Harris.

Room 101 is one of two Campus Center rooms with a capacity of over 100 persons and is used for many meetings and conventions. Senate meets in room 101.

"From the standpoint of taking a meeting room out of the inventory, plus not allowing us to combine all the game room activities, room 101 is a poor choice," Harris said. "Our examinations, including responses from management, operations area, and food service, are opposed because it takes away from meetings."

The board proposed the move because of a lack of air conditioning in the game room next to the Craft Shop.

"There is an advantage to having the game room near the Hatch because many students go in there for a bit to eat," said Harris. "Room 101 is out of the way and in a corner of the building."

A similar proposal to make room 101 a game room connected to the Blue Wall by a spiral staircase is "long range," said Harris.

"We've had no chance to examine the costs of that," said Harris. "It's not a good idea to mix alcoholic beverages with pool and ping pong."

Check cashing services for students will be discussed by the Board of Governors during the next few weeks and during the summer, according to Harris.

"We are hoping for approval of two check cashing machines," said Harris.

MBM probers may hire handwriting experts

BOSTON [AP] — The legislative committee probing corporate payments to state politicians is considering hiring as many as three handwriting experts to examine a check signed with the name of Senate President Kevin B. Harrington.

The Post Audit and Oversight Committee yesterday discussed the possible hiring of a handwriting expert and left the details to its subcommittee investigating the checks made out by the New York consulting firm of McKee-Berger-Mansueto.

Subcommittee counsel Charles Nesson is setting up the procedures for handling that part of the investigation, said Sen. Robert Hall, R-Fitchburg, a subcommittee member.

Nesson may call on as many as three handwriting experts to analyze the signature on the back of an Oct. 19, 1970, check made out by MBM officials to Harrington.

Harrington told the committee Tuesday, "I can neither affirm or deny that that is my signature resembles my signature."

And the Senate president denied ever cashing the check.

Committee members have already secured three pieces of legislation signed by Harrington in Aug., 1970.

Harrington refused to give the committee a sample of his signature during the hearing Tuesday, saying the whole check issue was irrelevant to the committee's investigation of MBM.

However, later in the day the Salem Democrat issued a press release saying he refused because "signature styles change over a period of years and the period of time that we were talking about is some seven years and five months ago."

He told the committee during the hearing, "As far as handwriting experts are concerned, I am sure counsel Nesson will tell you the final determination of handwriting experts is always left up...to the jury to determine.

"Since there's no jury, there can be no determination," he added. "Counsel Nesson can produce a handwriting expert that can say it's mine. I am reasonably sure I can produce a handwriting expert that will say it is not mine."

In other action, the committee invited Sen. James A. Kelly, D-Oxford, to appear next Wednesday. Kelly also was named by MBM officials as the recipient of a $1,000 contribution.

The committee also approved the issuance of two subpoenas — one for some business records of former Gov. Endicott Peabody, who served as counsel to MBM. Although Peabody had earlier supplied some of his records voluntarily, he requested that the committee issue a subpoena for further records.

The Collegian
is looking for a
Finance Manager
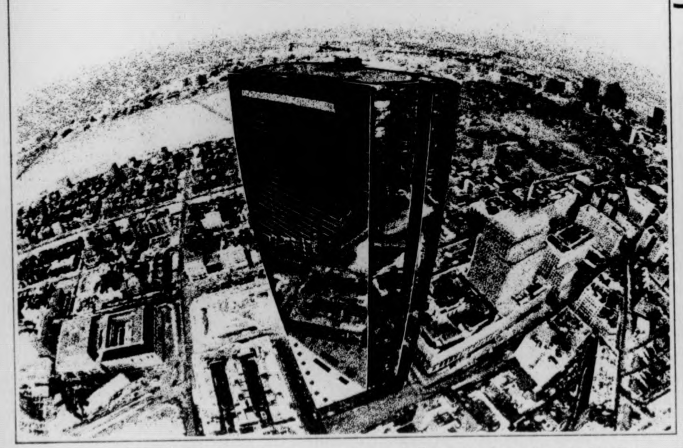
for the next school year.
Duties include the management of accounts receivable.
See Eric Nickerson or Laurie Wood for more details.
The Collegian is an Equal Opportunity employer

Boston's highest form of entertainment costs less than a movie.



It's the Hancock Tower Observatory located 740 feet above the ground, atop the tallest building in New England. And from here you can see and feel the total Boston experience.

With 60 miles of breathtaking scenery, it's the most fantastic view of Boston there is. Especially at night.

Plus you'll see multi-media exhibits like an exciting light and sound show about the Revolution, featuring a 20-foot scale model of Boston in 1775.

The Observatory is open Monday through Saturday from 9am to 11pm and Sundays from noon till 11pm, every day except Thanksgiving and Christmas. Admission for students with a college I.D. is only $1.25. You'll find our ticket office on St. James Avenue opposite Copley Square.

So next time you spend a night on the town, visit Boston's highest spot. It's not only less expensive than a movie. It's live.

John Hancock Observatory
The Best Place to See Boston.

News in brief

Seabrook owner stops water shut-off

EXETER, N.H. [AP] — The Public Service Co. of New Hampshire, principal owner of the Seabrook nuclear power plant, yesterday obtained a temporary court order prohibiting the town of Seabrook from shutting off water to the plant.

Judge John W. King issued the temporary injunction in Rockingham County Superior Court against the planned shutoff of water on Saturday.

King's order restricted Public Service to taking an average of 29,000 gallons of water a day, but expects that it will need about 90,000 gallons a day when full production of concrete begins at the construction site, Norman Cullerot, a company spokesman said.

The problem of finding water to build the $2.3 billion plant is the latest to beset the Public Service Co., which has experienced numerous delays in the past seven years caused by rulings of regulatory agencies and courts.

Invasion felt to be success says Begin

TEL AVIV, Israel [UPI] — Prime Minister Menachem Begin believes the Israeli invasion of south Lebanon was a success and the U.N. peacekeepers are serious about keeping Palestinians out of the area, Israeli reports said yesterday.

An Army spokesman said an Israeli corporal was killed in an overnight clash with guerrillas in southwest Lebanon and three other soldiers were killed when their armored personnel carrier overturned. No further details were available.

Begin's secret report Tuesday to parliament's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee was leaked to reporters yesterday after Israeli troops withdrew from nine points in south Lebanon and handed them over to U.N. soldiers.

Begin said the invasion launched March 16 was a success because it drove the Palestinian guerrillas north of the Litani River and destroyed their camps and strongholds.

Begin said he was pleased the U.N. peace-keeping troops sent into south Lebanon to supervise the Israeli withdrawal and maintain peace "appear to mean business."

Califano announces health bill cuts

WASHINGTON [UPI] — HEW Secretary Joseph Califano yesterday announced a series of largely voluntary cost-cutting efforts to trim billions from the nation's steadily rising health care bill and reduce general inflation.

Without the 9.5 per cent increase in health care costs during 1975-77, general inflation would have been 5.8 per cent instead of 6.1 per cent during that period, Califano said.

One of the administrative steps — a limit on Medicare payments for common laboratory tests — depends on the good will of doctors, with whom Califano has been feuding.

He also told a news conference he has ordered a "very thorough investigation" of the relationship between Blue Shield health insurance plans and physicians.

Neutron bomb sites likely in W. Germany

BONN, West Germany [UPI] — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said yesterday for the first time that West Germany is willing to have the United States station neutron bombs on its territory — with two conditions.

Schmidt said the weapon which destroys people and not buildings can be deployed in West Germany if NATO approves and the bomb is stationed in another country besides Germany.

President Carter has deferred production of the weapon.

Missing spy device threatens India

NEW YORK [UPI] — A nuclear spying device intended to monitor Chinese nuclear tests and missile movements from a mountaintop in India was lost by the CIA in 1966 and new threatens to poison the Indian river system, the magazine Outside reported yesterday.

Outside, published by the magazine Rolling Stone, said a secret CIA expedition was formed in 1965 to plant the nuclear-powered eavesdropping device atop the Himalayan peak of Nanda Devi, about 500 miles from Sinkiang Province, where China's first successful nuclear test was held in October, 1964.

Vance in Moscow for SALT talks

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance left yesterday for a new round of SALT talks, made more difficult by a Soviet civil servant's refusal to go home, and another try at peaceful transition in Rhodesia.

Vance will be in Moscow April 19-23 for the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Other issues, such as the neutron bomb decision and Soviet-Cuban intervention in Africa, are pected to be on the Moscow agenda.

The Collegian is looking for an Assistant Advertising Manager

Persons applying should be able to continue with this position next fall semester.

President Carter takes time from his schedule to stroll along the tidal basin with his wife Rosalyn and daughter Amy. (UPI)

Chutists pull the cord on Earth Day festivity

By PATRICK DOBBS
Collegian Staff

When spring arrives in New England most people jump for joy, but not from 7,200 feet.

Tomorrow between 2 and 3 p.m., 12 parachutists from the UMass Parachutist Club will jump over the Campus Center to land between the campus pond and North Pleasant Street. The jump is one of the programs scheduled for Earth Day.

Steven Ireland, president of the parachutists club, said 11 men and one woman, Kate Jones, the club's vice president, will make the jump. The 12 jumpers will execute free fall maneuvers and use both round chutes and high performance square chutes, Ireland said.

The club owns all the jumping equipment and is free for all club members to use." All the equipment is new and is in to top notch shape," said club member Brian Roach.

The club recently acquired new static line and free fall rigs according to Roach. The club offers stduents and faculty first jump instruction that includes three hours of classroom instruction on a Thursday night and two or three hours of practical instruction at the airport on a Saturday morning. The first jump course costs $55 said Ireland. The fee covers the instruction, the plane, packing of the chute and membership into the club.

"Many people take their first jump through our course," said Roach, "but there are only 30 or so active members in the club. A beginner starts with a static jump. This is a jump when the parachute opens automatically upon leaving the plane," Roach said. "If a person does everything he can to mess up the jump, he couldn't screw up a static jump," he added.

The club plans to form "four-man stars" in free fall if the cloud ceiling is high enough, Roach said. He explained that a jumper must leave the plane from a higher altitude for aerobatic maneuvers.

All five college students and faculty are invited to join the club, Ireland said.

Cooperation necessary to avoid more inflation

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Inflation may be worse this year than last if Americans turn their backs on President Carter's voluntary program to hold down prices and wages, Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal said yesterday.

He said private business and labor leaders must recognize it is in their interests to cooperate in order to avoid severe economic consequences.

"I think business leaders and labor leaders recognize that since we have all rejected wage-price controls and mandatory acts we must work together in this voluntary basis," Blumenthal said at a news conference.

"If they do not, the program will fail. And when the program fails, the impact of increasing inflation on the economy and the portion of their business will be severe.

"That is a consequence that all of us, and they in particular, want to avoid," Blumenthal said. "In my judgment it is in their self interest to work for deceleration" of wage and price increases.

He offered a sharper picture of the deceleration goals set by Carter for private industry.

In his speech Tuesday, Carter proposed a 5.5 per cent ceiling on federal pay hikes as an example for the private sector.

The president asked the private sector to hold wage and price increases to less than the average of the past two years.

Refining that somewhat, Blumenthal said private industry should trim price and salary demands to "somewhere between 0.5 per cent and 1 per cent ... as a rough average" below the previous two-year average.

Without such reductions, he said, the administration "may have difficulty" keeping yearly inflation below the 1977 level of 6.8 per cent.

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall

Tuborg Beer
12 oz. cans
$ 5.99
case

Riunite Lambrusco
$ 1.99
fifth

Yosemite Road
Burgundy - Chablis
Pink Chablis
Vin Rose
$ 3.29 gallon

Popov Vodka
$ 4.59
quart

Tuesday, April 11 to Saturday, April 15
We Reserve the The Right To Limit Quantities.

PARTY WITH THE PIKES at the Sun., April 16 Raindate
"BIRTHDAY PARTY"
12 noon to 8 p.m.
Sat., April 15
FEATURING GEORGE T. GREGORARY BAND
ΠKA-
418 N. Pleasant St.
Beer & Barbeque

Bad news for no nukes: house still supports plant

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Defying President Carter's talk of veto, a House committee voted yesterday to continue paying for the Oak Ridge, Tennessee plant designed to demonstrate "fast breeder" nuclear technology.

Carter's supporters on the committee said they will fight the battle again when the measure, part of the 1979 fiscal year authorization for the Department of Energy, reaches the House floor.

Carter has threatened to veto legislation that would keep the Clinch River liquid metal fast breeder reactor at Oak Ridge on its construction schedule. He wants it ended.

The House Science and Technology Committee voted 25-14 yesterday to adopt a plan by Rep. Marilyn Lloyd, D-Tenn., to continue nearly full financing of the Clinch River effort, with a minor watering-down to accommodate a study.

Under Lloyd's proposal, $172.5 million would be in the fiscal year 1979 budget for the Clinch River plant. And of that, she said, some $15 million would help pay for the sort of study Carter wanted — of longer-range breeder technology.

A breeder reactor would create, in one form, more fuel than it used up in another. But a byproduct is plutonium that can be used in bombs. Carter has said he wants to stop proliferation of bomb-ready materials.

He has said he wants the Clinch River program stopped, but agrees to a continuing development of breeder technology, in search of something without the bomb-ready aspect.

Yesterday's vote confirmed a tentative and confused vote Tuesday by which the committee turned aside a proposal by Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala. — who had Carter's backing — to complete design and equipment testing on the Clinch River project and then end it, short of building the structure and actually demonstrating the technology.

The vote on the Flowers plan Tuesday had been challenged because of some disputed proxies, but any question was cleared up when the committee adopted Lloyd's plan yesterday as a substitute for the Flowers proposal.

Flowers reminded the committee of the Carter veto threat and said his proposal "is the best we can do under the circumstances." He contended Lloyd's sugstitute "does not get us off Square 1."

★ Quorum rules

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

"constitutional crisis" as is possible. The delegation can do nothing without a quorum, Hite said. They cannot elect a president or adjourn the convention and return it to a general election.

Thomas said the complaint he plans to file would "challenge the convention rule regarding the fact that five delegations must be present in order to conduct business."

If the student judiciary rules in favor of the complaint, only one faction with a two-thirds quorum would be needed to conduct all electoral business.

"The complaint was not meant to sway peoples' opinions," Thomas said. "It is up to the delegates to decide whether or not they wish to elect a president, or move to a popular election."

The first convention was held three weeks ago. On the first ballot were the candidates Herb Tyson-Shelley Gordon, David Barenberg-Susan Birmingham, and Bob Dion-Don Bishop as write-in candidates. Gordon-Tyson won the first ballot and Dion-Bishop finished second. The second ballot was held with Gordon-Tyson and Dion-Bishop on the ticket. Dion-Bishop missed the presidency by 1.9 votes. At that time, some delegates said they were "bored" with the convention.

That lack of enthusiasm surfaced at the next three conventions, when each convention quorum seemed harder to reach.

Thomas hopes his complaint will bring the convention to an end with either a president being elected or a return to a popular election.

HOME
Sweet Home

There's no place like home and we make it easy to get there. Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer convenient, express service to Boston, New York and many other points.

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices,
Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549-6000

SPRING DAY

TUESDAY, APRIL 18

RAIN DATE APRIL 19
SPONSORED BY BETA CHI
FEATURING
11-6 Behind the Stadium

Bricker Band
Mystic Traveller
Cash (Formerly Bailey Bros.)
Prauna

hot dogs
beer & soda
prizes

CLASSES
UNOFFICIALLY
CANCELLED

NO CANS OR BOTTLES

Baker-Winn
Jewelers
31 So. Pleasant St., Amherst

Going out of business!

after 44 YEARS
of service

Over 30 years ago I joined Cliff Winn, the founder of Baker-Winn, and I took over full proprietorship on his retirement.

Now it's my turn to retire.

As my customers know, I have been a compulsive buyer. I could never resist a bargain that I could pass on to you.

As a result, I have always been both over-inventoried and under-priced. Original prices have now been reduced by one-third in order to sell everything and close my store no later than June 30.

In these final days, my family, my assistants, and I will all strive to help you in every possible way.

Milford Baker

EVERY BAKER-WINN DIAMOND AND PRECIOUS GEM IS COVERED BY A CERTIFICATE OF APPRAISAL ... YOUR GUARANTEE OF EXACT CARAT WEIGHT AND CERTIFIED QUALITY.

EVERYTHING...
IN OUR STORE IS MARKED
1/3 OFF
REGULAR RETAIL PRICES

THIS SALE INCLUDES:

DIAMONDS, bought before the recent sharp increases, have had their prices slashed rather than hiked. They are set in solitaires, wedding rings, dinner rings, earrings, pendants, and men's rings. Some set with emeralds, rubies, or sapphires.

WATCHES of internationally famous brands in most styles and price ranges. Now's the chance to give dependable quality and get value with a fine Baker-Winn watch.

JEWELRY of all kinds for every member of the family. Save on 14 karat gold, gold-filled, sterling ... in rings, earrings, neck chains, pins, bracelets, lockets, etc.

HOLLOWARE in both silver and pewter, and all at once-in-a-lifetime savings. Every single piece represents the very finest in quality, craftsmanship and value.

GIFTWARE from around the world. Our selection for the home and for seasonal gifts is unlimited, and the savings are not at all likely to occur ever again.

PLUS MANY OTHER ITEMS
TOO NUMEROUS TO MENTION

THIS IS THE MAGIC MOMENT TO DO YOUR MOTHER'S DAY AND GRADUATION SHOPPING

Store hours:
Daily 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
Open Thursday & Friday
Evenings until 9:00.

Baker-Winn
Jewelers
31 So. Pleasant Street, Amherst

LAY AWAY PLAN AVAILABLE
NO GIFT WRAPPING
ALL SALES FINAL

BankAmericard and Master Charge Accepted.

from our perspective

Irresponsibility in Whitmore Hall

A recent letter signed by the Heads of Residence for Orchard Hill and Central area dormitories, printed in the Collegian Wednesday, called the actions of the students who took over Whitmore Hall irresponsible, and accused the administration of capitulating in an unseemly way to the demands made by these students. This letter itself is irresponsible, totally missing the point of both the protest and the administrations agreements.

First, irresponsibility was displayed by Mr. Matlack, who without the conference of the students who live in Pierpont, decided to try and force a plan, inspired in higher education of the administration, on the students who live in that dorm. The Heads of Residence have a legitimate complaint when they say that the administration should stand by those it hires, but it is wrong to blame the students for bringing this lack of support about: it is clearly a case of the administration realizing it had badly bungled yet another plan and wishing to let its lesser administrators take the flak.

Second, the students are not to blame for the administration's lack of responsiveness to Heads of Residence, and it should be apparent to them that we are in the same boat. The only way a rational residence hall system can work is when the Heads of Residence are chosen by the students, employed by the administration, and serve as an intermediary; Or students can take over the duties of the Head of Residence, as is done in some UMass dorms already.

As is usually the case on this campus, this problem is one responsibility and decision makin is caused by a small group of ad ministrators who have slowl solidified and centralized th decision making process on thi campus, and it is only when the begin again to include faculty students and student related sta in this process that these problem of credibility and bad planning wi begin to clear up.

All policy editorials are th opinion of the majority of the Boar of Editors.

Letters

Seven rapes; building unpoliced

To the Editor:

On Monday, I attended a weekly seminar in the graduate building, Hills South. There, I learned some shocking news, which I would like to share with all the concerned people on the UMass campus. I was told by a group leader that a number of rapes on women have been committed in that building since the beginning of this semester. The two that were committed over the past week brought the total to seven.

Seven women sexually assaulted in that building, and on April 10th I learned about it for the first time! The police, I was told, were not making the information public. The police are withholding vital information from us, the potential victims of rape assault. Why they have not released the information is unimportant. The simple fact is that with it rape can be prevented to a certain extent.

But without information we are all helpless; men and women alike. As long as we are ignorant we are all helpless; men and women alike. As long as we are ignorant of these crimes, we are totally defenseless. Above all I could not be assured that the building was being policed. After seven rapes there, the police thought they might have a lead on the guy. Yet until they caught him could they make no effort to prevent another assault? No.

I found this inexcusable and beg the authorities to begin taking preventive measures against such crimes. Rape is a horrible, tragic thing. We women live in fear of it. We must be allowed to protect ourselves in the few ways we have. Remember: Don't go out alone after dark. Avoid deserted stairways, classrooms, and public bathrooms. Lastly, promote awareness of rape as a violent crime, an infringement on your basic rights as a human being. And wherever possible, urge authorities and police to take stronger stands for the prevention of rape.

Mary J. McCarron

Benevolent co-Dictators respond

To the Editor:

In recent issues of the Collegian, the Goverman-Edelstein Benevolent co-Dictatorship has been accused of everything from deliberately intending to litter to being the running dogs of the partisan press.

Let us first address the charge of Deliberate Intent to Litter.

"Hello, Deliberate Intent to Litter."

It was written that our attempt to leaflet the university from a machine of the air was intended to fail; it stated that we meant to miss UMass and zero in on elementary schools and wooded areas for publicity purposes.

Possibly the accuser cannot bring himself to realize that much more renown would have been achieved from a direct hit on the Student Union Building, which was the target on all of our tactical maps. Moreover, the leaflets included the instructions "prevent litter — recycle this leaflet." Unfortunately, our critic did not have the chance to read this precaution due to the malevolent zephyr which carried our Message away from campus, necessitating our personal policing of the stricken areas. The leaflets had been dropped at 11:05 a.m. — while students were changing classes — so as to achieve maximum effect and maximum pick-up.

Our accuser has pretended to know our thoughts. He has tried to break into our minds. Other, less-understanding personages would press attempted breaking and entering charges, but, owing to our overriding benevolence, we will refrain from such deserved prosecution. Let it suffice that our accuser is a miserable cur.

We choose not to address the second charge. In fact, it is so blatantly odious, so thoroughly tactless we are not speaking to it any more.

Both authors of the letter, B.J. Roche and Patrick Whelan, are puppets in Boss Herb Tyson's political machine. To make matters worse, Ms. Roche is a former Collegian executive editor.

The Benevolent Dictatorship will fight against all political machines — Boss Tyson's and Boss Dion's — in a supreme effort to install the General Will of the student body as the barometer for change at the university.

We refuse to become entwined in the political maneouverings of our agitators, who would mindlessly blabber all forms of verbal tripe to achieve their ignoble ends.

They have insinuated that our candidacy was conceived at the behest of the student newspaper.

Silly twits! We will have nothing to do with a yellow rag which has the audacity to print the writings of such shady characters as ourselves.

Brad Goverman-Bill Edelstein
Benevolent co-Dictators

Demonstrate in D.C. against Bakke

To the Editor:

This Saturday, April 15, there will be a demonstration in Washington, D.C. to oppose the Bakke decision. This rally is a call for support of blacks and minorities and the continuation of affirmative action programs which are now being threatened under the guise of "reverse discrimination."

With all the recent discussion around Bakke and "reverse discrimination" it's necessary to clear up some misconceptions around the issues. First off, this question of "reverse discrimination" [which is Bakke's claim] is a fallacy in itself. To say that Bakke was reversely discriminated against because of affirmative action programs pre-supposes that all people are treated equally with regards to jobs, housing, health care, etc. and that blacks and minorities are now in the position to discriminate. The ratio of doctors to population is 1 to 3,800 blacks, 1 to 33,000 Chicanos and 1 to 700 generally, which shows that this "equality" is clearly nonexistent.

By claiming "reverse discrimination," Bakke is blatantly attacking affirmative action programs and the people they represent. It is an attack on the continued representation of blacks, minorities and women in the work force. It's hardly discriminatory to have 16 seats available out of 100 at UCal Medical School for black and minority medical candidates. A real problem is why there are only 100 openings available for every 3,700 applicants, why such tight employment restrictions, not why 16 slots are available to blacks and minorities who at present are not well represented in the medical field.

The Revolutionary Student Brigade is organizing a Soweto Brigade contingent to take part in the national march this Saturday. The reason we're marching as a Soweto Brigade is to exemplify the spirit of the youth and students of Soweto in fighting oppression. Also, we want to show that it is the same corporations and banks that exploit blacks in South Africa through apartheid that also make life miserable for blacks and minorities in this country and are presently supporting Bakke's claims. We encourage students to unite around the slogan "Fight Imperialism and National Oppression from the United States of America to the Union of South Africa."

After the demonstration the Revolutionary Student Brigade is sponsoring a cultural evening and a conference the following day on "Youth United to Fight Imperialism and National Oppression." The cultural evening will feature Ethiopian stick dancers and African music and poetry. The conference will focus on how we can fight the Bakke case as well as how we can support the liberation movements in South Africa. Speakers will include members of the different liberation movements in Africa and workshops will focus on both the struggles in Africa and here at home. Tickets for the buses to the demonstration are $15 and will be available at the RSB table. For more information call 256-0501.

Oppose the Bakke decision! Students unite to end discrimination of blacks, minorities and women by supporting the demonstration in Washington on Sat., April 15.

Charles Pooler, a member of the Revolutionary Student Brigade

Who is the 'political hypocrite?'

To the Editor:

I regard "stone throwing" attack letters as petty and as a divisive capitalist to destroy people's struggles in this country. However, in the name of the Puerto Rican community of Northampton and myself I am forced to answer the highly slanderous and ignorant accusations made by Jose Trejo on March 16th, in the Collegian.

Firstly, the statement of needs of the Bilingual Program sent to the Superintendent of Schools was NOT composed by my self. Puerto Rican parents of the Parents Advisory Council whose children have suffered under an inadequate and culturally-biased system, drew up that list of dire needs. When the law states that bilingual children should be taught their own Puerto Rican history and culture in their own language, and when such parents demand that this be fulfilled by a "qualified teacher" who truly understands that culture, it becomes blatant that anything to the contrary IS an "example of discrimination."

Secondly, these same concerned parents and members of the community did try to block the hiring of a non-Puerto Rican hispanic person as teacher; but NOT because of her ethnicity. She WAS NOT even a certified teacher. She had NOT been recommended to teach elementary school teacher as an undergraduate; and we had received numerous complaints about her substitute teaching. Despite all this, she was STILL hired. Was it really a "sin" for the parents of these Puerto Rican children to block her hiring?

Now I ask you, Mr. Trejo, to learn the facts before you throw a stone, because isn't it really you who is basing your accusations on personal, selfish interests? Who is the "political hypocrite"??

Vicky Hernandez, Member not Coordinator of the Hispanic Council for Human Rights

Pianist omitted from concert review

To the Editor:

Shame on Mario Barros for failing to mention pianist George Cables in his review of the Dexter Gordon concert. Mr. Cables impressed with his tremendous virtuosity and dynamicism throughout the night. Better luck next time, Mario.

Jurgen Kern

---

Below The Salt

VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 119 THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1978

XI World Festival of Youth and Students

July 28 - August 5

Bromberg: happy without hype

Reviewed by RICK ALVORD

"Well it is Sunday night..." remarked Muldaur. Well it was Sunday night, the place was hoppin' and the bands were cookin'! David Bromberg said after the concert that the band he plays with inspires and influences the music that he plays in a concert. Well with that in mind it is obvious that the David Bromberg Band was extremely inspired on Sunday night. The crowd was so pleased that he received two standing ovations demanding two encores which consisted of three more songs. "Such a Night" finished the encores and the concert in a very fitting way. Such a night. Bromberg's finale was effected by the band members leaving one by one; lastly the trombone player who finally disappeared into the darkness of the back stage. Bromberg eased off the stage leaving the crowd knowing that they had truly been entertained.

Maria Muldaur opened the show as the perfect warm up band for Bromberg. Starting off with a punch she built up a cresendo lifting the audience and fully preparing them for Bromberg. Muldaur has a lot more range and versatility than most would expect judging from her biggest hit "Midnight at the Oasis". Despite some short technical problems at the begining with the mics, Maria was able to, as she said so well, "keep the crowd in a frenzy all of the time". That line summed up the whole evening . Maria spotlighted pieces from her new album Southern Winds, mixing in some old favorites and some rock-in' gospel tunes. The five piece accompanying band though newly composed, complemented Muldaur perfectly.

The cresendo continued as Bromberg played into the night, switching from acoustic guitar to electric guitar to the fiddle. Bromberg admitted that he never has a set list of numbers for the night and that he is a bit selfish, he plays to make himself happy. What he failed to mention was that he also made the audience happy. He proved that he is a true crowd pleaser. He showed his ra nge by playing slow moving ballads and footstomping fiddlin' tunes. Included in his repitoir for the night were favorites like "Nobody's", "Dehlia", "You've Got to Suffer If You Wanna Sing the Blues", and "Travelin' Man". Much of the concert was electric sound, rock oriented sound. Bromberg commented that he plays this way because the band is oriented in that fashion. Most of the songs were fast movin' and high steppin'.

Commenting after the concert, Bromberg confessed that he enjoys college crowds and large auditoriums. He said that he is very pleased with his recording company change to Fantasy records. They are much more concerned with him and he feels more comfortable working with them on a much more personal level than on his last label. He feels that they failed to let the character of the band come out as he had wished. About promotion, Bromberg said that "there is a difference between hype and promotion: hype makes a lot of noise that doesn't sell and promotion is a lot of noise that does." Bromberg is enjoying more promotion from his new company. He doesn't want to sell a lot of records and get extremely rich, he merely stated "there's eight of us on the road who have to eat." On his personal life he has commented, "I'm not married, I got no kids, I spend my life on the road and I've got no hobbies besides playing the guitar, fiddle, and mandolin. There's nothing else in my life..."

It's a relief to see that Bromberg is concerned enough about money to continue his present life style, not too extend it further and become extremely wealthy. He seems happy if he gets enough promotion to make ends meet, unlike a lot of other musicians these days.

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A'sst Editor | Mary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacy Belkind |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |
| Food Editor | Lauren Traub |

Below The Salt takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requires that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt".

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt

is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topic of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submission can be made at the Collegian offices 113 Campus Center, 545-3500.

Below The Salt

XI World Festival of Youth and Students
July 28 - August 5

music

Giving the business the business. Page 19.

international Festival history in word and graphic Page 14.

books

Literature's politics. Page 16.

records

Bluegrass new wave hits record stores. Page 16.

Solidar!ty of the sexes, NOW!

THE INSTITUTE FOR THE STUDY OF HUMAN KNOWLEDGE
PRESENTS

A One Day Symposium

May 13 — Boston
The Copley Plaza Hotel

HUMAN ECOLOGY

LESTER R. BROWN
The Dimensions of the Population Problem
RENÉ DUBOS
Symbiosis of Earth and Humankind
ALEXANDER KING
A Report on the State of the Planet
ROBERT ORNSTEIN
Human Ecology and Human Understanding

Fee: $35

Registration—Human Ecology

Name ______ ______ ______
Last First Middle

Address ______
Number and Street

______
City, State and Zip Code

Telephone: ( ) ______ ( ) ______
Business Home

Occupation ______

Professional Affiliation ______ ______

Fee: $35
Make checks or money orders payable to ISHK

☐ Check here if you wish to receive a Copley Plaza Hotel reservation card.

Mail reservation form and fees to:
The Institute for the Study of Human Knowledge
P.O. Box 176-C
Los Altos, California 94022
Tel: In Calif.:
(415) 948-9428
Outside California:
(800) 227-8460

"THE BEST REKERD SHOP I EVER BIN IN"
WILLIE "BOOM BOOM" ALEXANDER
SUN MUSIC
amherst carriage shops

The Guitar Workshop and Music House

In the Amherst Carriage Shops
549-1728

Largest selection of strings and accessories at the lowest prices. Large selection of music for all instruments.

GURIAN GUITARS

FACES SOFT LUGGAGE

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

---

Local poet's view of Cuba

Irma McClaurin-Allen is a poet and freelance journalist. Her works have been published widely in such magazines as Okike, Greenfield Review, Obisidian, Chomo-Uri and in local newspapers. She has written two books of poetry: Black Chicago, 1971 (Rannick Amuru Press) and Song in the Night, 1974. Her poems have been translated into Spanish and have appeared in Gaceta, the magazine of the Union de Escritores y Artistes, Havana, Cuba and in U.S. anthologies. She received a grant from the Massachusetts Council for the Arts to participate in the Poet-in-the-Schools program in 1976 and was the recipient of the annual Gwendolyn Brooks award in Poetry sponsored by Black World magazine in 1975. She is currently working at the University of Massachusetts.

Salt -

When did you travel to Cuba? What was the nature of your trip?

McClaurin-Allen -

I first traveled to Cuba in 1976 as a member of the Venceremos Brgade. I was part of a group of progressive students, workers and community people who were interested in learning about Cuba and the progress made there since the 1959 revolution. We were interested in the effect of the revolutionary process on various aspects of people's lives.

The Venceremos Brigade as a political educational project provided he most ideal circumstances; first, its perspective was anti-imperialist, anti-racist and anti-sexist; second, the VB has been sending people to Cuba since 1969 and has sent over 2,000 persons; and finally, it advocated not only an environment in Cuba where one could learn politically and otherwise, but also a chance to concretely express one's solidarity —by working hard in Cuba. We worked in construction, building houses. Many people have the misconception that brigades are still cutting cane-- that is not true and has not been true for a number of years. Housing is a major priority in Cuba and our brigade (the 9th) contributed to the efforts addressing that priority.

Salt -

How would you describe what you saw as Cuban culture?

McClaurin-Allen -

Culture is a pretty nebulous term. One can view it from the wide anthropological perspective that culture is everything to a very narrow perspective of meaning only the fine arts.

I would like to address your question from a narrow perspective by speaking of particular forms of culture and how they are manifested on Cuba as opposesd to the United States.

Perhaps one of the first things that struck me on the construction site and in my various tours o. the island of Cuba was the amount of attention given to people's relationship to their environment. In Cuba, the push is not merely to build more houses, but tocreateenvironmentsconducivetpving, learning and growing. In effect, the emphasis was not only on function, but also on aesthetics-- landscaping was/is an integral part of all construction whether the item is an apartment complex, a school or work-center or hospital.

What this confirms for me as an artist, is that art and education--political or otherwise--are not mutually exclusive of each other and that true art is an organic process where form and function are firmly integrated.

Within the context of a changing society and particularly a developing socialist society, there is a primary need to educate and re-educate people to be able to meet the development head on. Cuba has developed a method of education, outside the formal context of schools, which reaches people as they go about their day to day tasks. I'm referring to billboards and posterart. I was struck by the fact that no matter where I traveled--whether to a school ,factory or really anyplace, there were constant reminders of the achievements of the revolution, but more inportantly remimders of everyone's responsibility to their country and to international solidaritdy. The reason I found this so arresting was because the medium used was always art--marking the Plaza de Revolucion (Plaza of the Revolution) are incredible wall hangings of Che--changed quite often as well as an incredible monument to Jose Marti, considered the intellectual father of the Cuban revolution. Architectureally and aesthetically, nothing was compromised and at the same time, the work was didactic--extremely so.

What this confirms for me as an artist, is thatartandeducation--politicalorotherwise--are not mutually exclusive of each other and that true art is an organic process where form and function are firmly integrated.

Other manifestations of Cuban culture were much more clear cut. There were the obvious forms of dance, music, poetry and visual art.

Salt -

How do you see the role of the Cuban artist as different from how artists are perceived/see themselves in the U.S.?

McClaurin-Allen-

First, I do not think that Cuban artists see themselves merely as artists or perhaps I should say solely as artists. What I found was an incredible belief that everyone is artistic and an encouragement of people to participate in all aspects of art irregardless of their level of skill. This is clearly exemplified by the exhibition of paper mache art from different provinces. Within museums--generally the stronghold of work by "famous" artists or at least "respectable" artists-- hardly the place you'd expect to find folk art. Over and over again, I was aware of an implicit and oftentimesxqle indication and/or reminder that art should be readily accessible to everyone and that in effect it belongs to everyone.

That gets away from your question somewhat, but I think perhaps answers it. Quite simply, what I'm trying to express is a perception that Cuban artists are less concerned with themselves as individual "artists" and more concerned with how they contribute to their developing society by whatever means they are best. It is not atypical to find them integrating their art with other professions--teachers of the arts, the military, diplomatic services, working construction, etc.

The difference is that most often in this country the artist feels alienated from his audience and from his society--that is reflected in his or her work and often motivates the artist to become a person apart.

This type of alienation does not seem to exist within artists in Cuba--perhaps the major reason is that art is accepted as truly an integral thread in the societal fabric.

Salt -

What can you say about the integration of art into Cuban society and the role of art and culture in gereral in Cuban society? What kinds of contributions have Cuabn artists made to the international community?

McClaurin-Allen -

You've posed several important questions. Let me see if I can address all or some of them briefly.

I believe that I have answered the first question indirectly. Just let me say briefly that museums are open until 3:00 and then closed until 9:00 in the evening when they open again. The implications of this are many: One there is an underlying assumption that there are those unable to attend the museums during what we might call "normal" business hours, but these people should not be denied access to the exhibits--thus, the late hours.

In each and every school ,students have to take a cultural program as part of their regular schoolwork. This begins to reinforce as well as develop the idea that art is as important as any other subject being studied. What it also does is to begin to encourage those artistically gifted at an early age and those not so gifted are at least given the opportunity to participate, learn and enjoy the arts. This is an incredible improvement over our systems of education where art is seen as a frill and is the first budget item cut when the economy dictates itd.

Cultural workers -- performers-- visit work-centers and give presentations and lessons to interested workers, again emphasizing and re-enforcing learning about art, participating in and enjoying art.

Prior to the Cuban revolution, art was not accessible. One's purse determined one's exposure. Also, art was separated according to classical versus folk. These kinds of class valuations have now been eliminated. Ballet is for everyone (at one peso, the equivalent of one dollar) and folk art holds its proper place in museums and galleries.

The contributions that Cuban artists have made internationally is still being assessed. I would say that the most recognizable contribuitons have been in the forms of cinema, particularly documentaries or the documentary style. Anyone who has seen "El Otro Francisco" or "Lucia" can surely attest to that. All of this, mind you, comes from a country which prior to 1959 imported most of the films shown in the country and had a negligible film industry.

The other area where Cuba has recieved international recognition and respect is in the area of poster art. They have revolutionized this form achieving, again, true and organic harmony between didactics aesthitics.

Salt -

Who does art belong to in Cuba?

McClaurin-Allen -

I guess by now the answer to this should be obvious. To simply say "the people" seems almost rhetorical and trite and yet essentially it is the masses of Cuban people who fought in and supported the Cuban revolution to whom the artistic fruits of that revolution belong.

Salt -

Did you have the chance to talk to Cuban poets? How did their experience as poets in Cuba differ from your experiences as a poet in the U.S.?

McClaurin-Allen -

During my first trip to Cuba I encountered a poet in Santiago. A friend and I were enjoying our last two days in Cuba in the beautiful and historic city of Santiago. It was in Santiago where slaves were brought into Cuba and it was in Santiago where much revolutionary fighting occurred during all of Cuba's wars against Spanish and U.S. domination.

I would say that somehow Santiago, as a place, is special to me as an Afro-American.

It was here that I met a student who wished to know if any or all ,of my questions about his countyry had been answered. We discussed the elimination of institutional racism and compared it to conditions in the U.S. --he had a good knowledge of the civil rights movement and of Malcolm X. From there we chatted about almost everything in broken English and embarrassing Spanish until we rested our discun on the nat cross the street. We talke bout y and well as its history as a vestige of Spanish domination in Cuba.

What my amigo told me about being a writer in his country substantiated the information given to me at the Union de escitores y artistes.

The Union of writers and artists is not a union as we traditionally define it--in fact unions in Cuba are known as syndicates. The Union of writers is a professional organization which produces, and encourages all forms of literary productions in Cuba. As explained to me by by Gustavo Eguren, a novelist whom I met on my visit there, their goals are to bring together writers, enhance ideological development as well as professional development and to improve the works of new writers by providing them with workshops and forums. The Union has several activities; they are publishers -- publishing their own works and printing over 70 titles per year of poetry

> "Quite simply, what I'm trying to express is a perception that Cuban artists are less concerned with themselves as individual "artists" and more concerned with how they contribute to developing society by whatever means they are best (at)."

★ Poet's view of Cuba

and novels of 5 - 20 thousand copies depending on the popularity of the writer. They publish several magazines, a quarterly with a circulation of 5,000 and a monthly (Gaceta) with a circulation of 10,000. The content of both of these include Cuban writers as well as works from around the world.

To encourage young writers, the Union provides professional --technical-- guideance through workshops, working with the U.J.C. (Union of Young Communists) which provides the ideological guidance for the youth of Cuba. Literary contests, forums, lectures, etc. are sponsorxo enno ew writers.

Beside the Union, there exists the National Council of Culture as well as a "syndicate" for all artists. Specialized schools in dance, and the plastic arts are available to all those who wish to concentrate solely on the arts.

Cuba is remarkable in that they have deemphasized the association of quality with professionalism--what has been created is and incredible wealth of "professional"amateurs. Yet these emerging artists should not be snubbed because of our understanding of "amateur". In Cuba, the emphasis is always upon doing the best to your ability.

Again, a roundabout way of answering your question, but let me finish by saying that two things in Cuba had an impact upon me as a poet. First, two poems of mine were translated into Spanish and published in Gaceta in 1976. I consider this one of the greatest honors to be paid to my work and secondly, I had the opportunity to meet ane speak with Nancy Morejon, an AfroCuban poetess

To repeat the conversation from memory now would probably be dull, but what struck me the most was her seeing us as sisters and speaking of the need for me to continue to write poetry the way I do, particularly those poems which tend to be nationalistic. She knew from experience, as I know from experience, that those poems have to be written. However, what Nancy has which now overwhelms her work is a sense of nationhood and belonging. She is Cuban, and to call her "AfroCuban" is merely for identification purposes in this country. I find it difficult to call myself merely "American"—the realities of this country dictate that I see myself as an AfroAmerican. The circumstances in this country have not reached a point where one can truly see oneself as part of a national identity.

It is my belief that only a revolutionary process can accomplish such a feat.

Salt -

Can you talk about Cuban poster art?

McClaurin-Allen -

"This is a vast subject. So much has been accomplished in Cuba in termns of poster art. It is a form that one is constantly confronted with whether on billboards, in factories or in schools. Poster art is as frequent as our poster advertisement. But it is there that any analogies end.

Cuban artists such as Mederos, and Portocarreo, just to name two, have been able to embue poster art in Cuba with a vibrancy and dynamics which has yet to be surpassed.

Salt -

What is ExpoCuba '78? What do you hope ExpoCuba '78 will accomplish?

McClaurin-Allen -

ExpoCuba '78 is a poster contest exhibition which calls on U.S. artists ages 10 years to adults to enter original poster designs on themes appropriate to the Cuban Revolution, Cuba-U.S. ties and Cuba and the Third World.

This contest-exhibition was initially conceived to provide our people with more information about Cuba, but through the eyes of U.S. artists. People are constantly confronted with books, pamphlets, slide show which explain and explore the Cuban Revolution--art or poster art is merely another medium through which we hope to provide education.

When I say "we", I mean the Venceremos Brigade which is the national sponsor. For years, the VB has been breaking the informational blockade around Cuba. Everyone is not aware of the economic blockade, but until recently are only beginning to realize the extent of the lack of information available to us about Cuba since the mid-60's.

The purpose of ExpoCuba can be seen as having several aspects: providing more information and thereby increasing the body of knowledge already available on Cuba This gives us, as U.S. people, the opportunity to make decisions about "normalizing relations" from a position of knowledge and not from ignorance compounded by red-baiting.

Also, the contest exhibition is seen as an expression of friendship. This is our way of presenting something to the Cuban people and saying the doors are open now for real discussions--not as adversaries, but as friends! The exhibition will tour Cuba and we hope that they will consider reciprocating by sending us works by their artists.

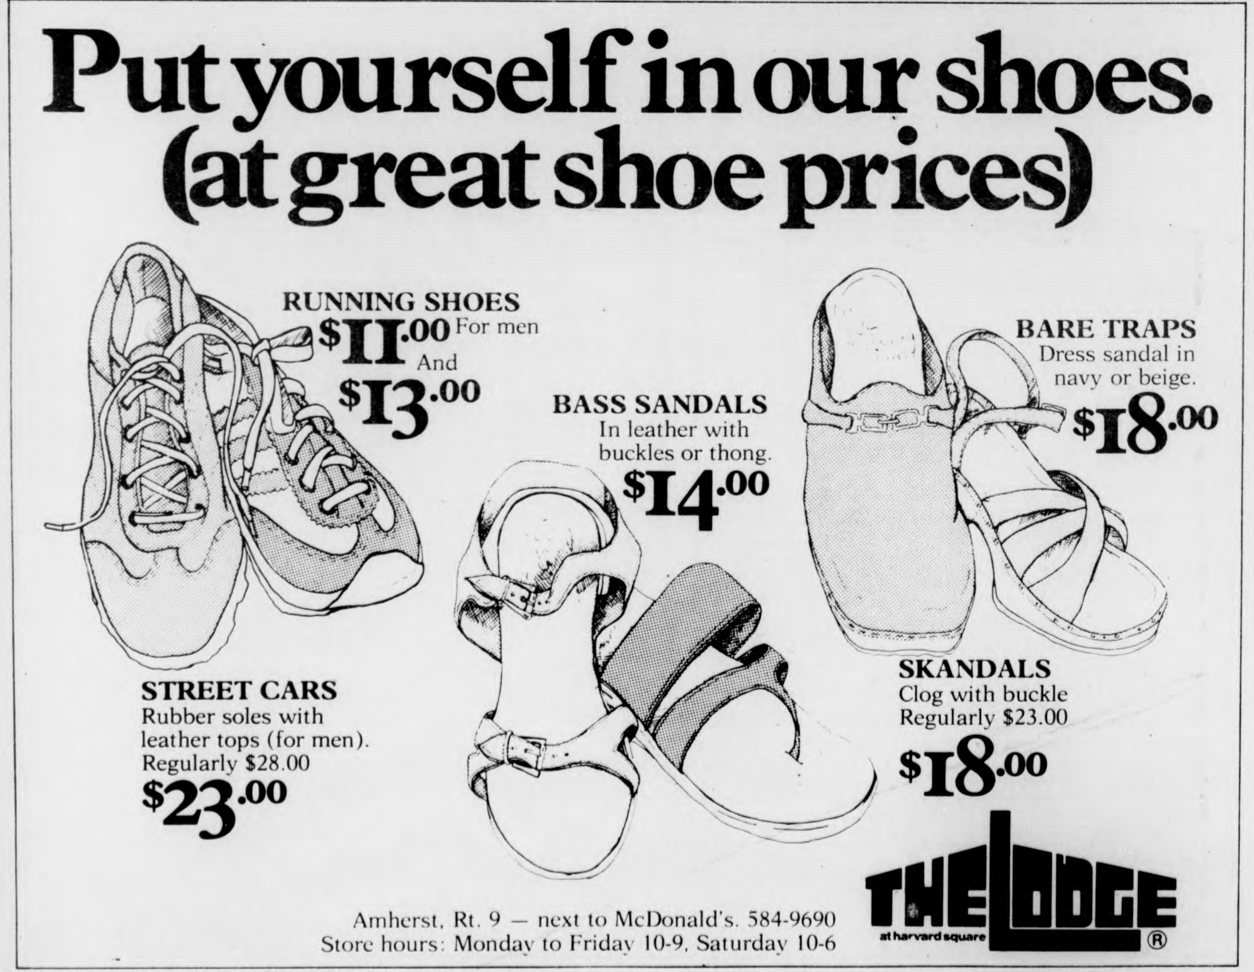
People who have traveled to Cuba recently have informed the ExpoCuba Committee that there is tremendous interest and enthusiasmmthe part of Cuban people about Expo-Cuba '78

We hope that this same response will come when the exhibit tours the U.S. Whether it is expressed as"por la amistad Cubano y norteamericano" or Cuba and the U.S.: People-to people-friendship—our objective is the same: to created an atmosphere in this country conducive to ending the information and economic blockade against Cuba, normalizing relations between our two countries for the purpose of understanding and learning about the first socialist country in the western hemisphere and just being downhome friendly to our neighbors only 90 miles off our coast!

Encare Oval
Vaginal contraceptive for prevention of pregnancy

$1.00
OFF WITH COUPON

COLLEGE DRUG STORE
256-2523



Put yourself in our shoes. (at great shoe prices)

RUNNING SHOES
$11.00 For men
And $13.00

BASS SANDALS
In leather with buckles or thong.
$14.00

BARE TRAPS
Dress sandal in navy or beige.
$18.00

STREET CARS
Rubber soles with leather tops (for men).
Regularly $28.00
$23.00

SKANDALS
Clog with buckle
Regularly $23.00
$18.00

THE LODGE
at harvard square ®

Amherst, Rt. 9 — next to McDonald's. 584-9690
Store hours: Monday to Friday 10-9, Saturday 10-6

"Some people think Army Nursing is the rifle range and pulling K.P. It's really amazing how little they know."
—Lieutenant Mary Ann Hepner

"Though I'm an Army Nurse, I can also pursue outside interests like dress-designing and sailing.

"One of the pluses of Army Nursing is the nature of the nurse/patient relationship. I don't treat patients like numbers. I follow their progress. I visit them after the acute part of their illness is over. They are so appreciative. It's really part of a nurse's job to help the patient through an illness.

"To me, it's an important job . . . My family is very proud of me. I'm the first person in the family to join the military.

"The Army is a place of self-discovery. It's a total learning experience."

If you'd like to join Mary Ann Hepner in the Army Nurse Corps, here are a few facts you should know. Army Nursing is open to both men and women, under the age 33, with BSN degrees. Every Army Nurse is a commissioned officer.

You are not required to go through the Army's standard basic training: instead you attend a basic orientation course. Your initial tour is three years—just enough to try the job on for size.

For more information about opportunities for Registered Nurses in the Army Nurse Corps, you may write: Army Nurse Opportunities, Northeast Region, U.S. Army Recruiting Command, Fort George G. Meade, MD 20755. Or, you may telephone the nearest Army Nurse Opportunities office. Call collect to . . .

In Boston: 617-542-6000, Ext. 122
In New York: 212-986-7613
In Pittsburgh: 412-644-5881
In Philadelphia: 215-597-9588
In Baltimore-Washington, D.C.: 301-677-5001

Ask for information about . . .

The Army Nurse Corps

Between diamonds and clubs

records

Garland Jeffreys
One-eyed Jack
A&M

Reviewed by SKIP TENCZAR

Garland Jeffreys' new album, One-Eyed Jack, makes me realize that this man is sort of special. Sort of special, because he demystifies the image he presented of himself in his last, much acclaimed release, Ghost Writer, which by the way, gained him High Fidelity magazine's new artist of the year award in 1977. Garland now gives us a close look at himself by intimately communicating like a close friend conciously stripping himself of ego and facade. One-Eyed Jack is straight forward, honest and holds no pretense of stardom. As said on one of the album's songs, "I'm just a hometown boy makes good."

Garland Jeffreys was unknown until his Ghost Writer L.P. hit the record racks in the summer of 1977. Soon Mr. Jeffreys would be a consistent favorite on much of the F.M. airwaves. Maintaining his New York city roots, he sang about life in the inner city with force and sometimes anger, all the while maintaining a positive dimension of awareness, hard work, and hope. Rough, reggae, rocking songs about bussing, Latin American culture swept up by U.S. inperialism, and city gang youth kept his listeners buzzing for a while. Well when the buzzing stopped, Garland released One-Eyed Jack, an album with a little different tone; more soulful, more reggae and less rock.

If there was a phrase to distinguish this album from the last, it would be less force, more rhythm. One-Eyed Jack seems to be Jeffreys attempt at acquiring a broader base of popularity. Still retaining his New York city identity, this new disc is dedicated and named after Garland's boyhood idol Jackie Robinson. It contains music about love, family, violence, alienation, and of course Mr. Robinson.

"She Didn't Lie" is the song that opens the album and is a son's song about his parents. Garland sings about city people and how hard it is to stay afloat, but as the title hints, his parents didn't lie to him as a youthabouthis future hardships.The song is zesty, danceable and features a real nice saxophone solo.

"Reelin' ", one of the most soulful cuts on the album is a duet between Garland, and none other than Phoebe Snow, who once again proves her vocal abilities by hitting some incredibly powerful high notes. This love song moves right along as Garland and Phoebe make beautiful music together. With a little airplay, I think this song would zoom to the top of the A.M. charts if it were released as a single.

Two songs which comment about the life of Jackie Robinson are "One-Eyed" "Jack and Been There and Back." It seems this album is more of an explanation of Jackie Robinson's life rather than a tribute. Garland says "Just like Jackie Robinson there were crazy things I did." This might explain Jeffreys' sentiments about Robinson's testimony against Paul Robeson, especially considering the statement in the title cut, "here comes the One-Eyed Jack, sometime White and sometimes Black...Unfortunately you're caught between diamonds and clubs."

There are three reggae cuts including an up tempo version of the classic "No Woman No Cry". These songs reaffirm Mr. Jeffreys' respect for this musical genre by combining culturally meaningful lyrics and well integrated arrangements.

One-Eyed Jack is by no means a fantastic album, just good and solid. It has something for everyone including a bit of rough and ready rock and roll. Being both a fan and a critic, I'd have to say Garland Jeffreys has set us up for a big one the next time around, I for one will expect it. One-Eyed Jack, nonetheless, is sort of special, and so is Garland. I think Garland would say we are sort of special, too.

SAVINGS BONANZA
SPECIAL SAVINGS!!!

PEAK TOOTHPASTE WITH BAKING SODA
Standard SIZE
6.3 oz. ounces
Reg. 1.49 .99

Wilkinson® BONDED™ Razor and 3 Blades
Reg. 2.34 1.79

Colgate MFP with FLUORIDE
Giant SIZE
9 oz. ounces
1.29

Colgate® Toothbrush
Reg. .89 .15
While they last

COLLEGE DRUG STORE
4 MAIN ST. 253 - 2523 AMHERST

HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT
湖南園酒家
Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
+ Open 7 days a week +
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

LUNCHEON SPECIALS:
SWEET & SOUR PORK
SWEET & SOUR CHICKEN
OR CHICKEN CHOW MEIN
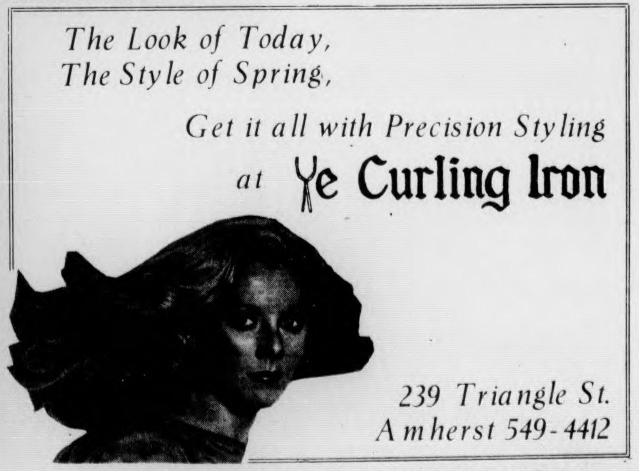
$1.95
Mon.-Fri. only
11:30-2:30

DINNER SPECIALS $3.75
Mon-Wed 5:00-8:00 p.m.

10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252

Banquet Facilities



The Look of Today,
The Style of Spring,
Get it all with Precision Styling
at Ye Curling Iron
239 Triangle St.
Amherst 549-4412

Massachusetts Daily Collegian

XI World Festival of Youth and Students

WORLD YOUTH FESTIVAL
PRAHA 1947

VILÁGIFJÚSÁGI TALÁLKOZÓ 1949
DIVSZ NDSZ

WELTFESTSPIELE DER JUGEND UND STUDENTEN FÜR DEN FRIEDEN
BERLIN

AL IV-LEA FESTIVAL MONDIAL AL TINERETULUI SI STUDENTILOR PENTRU PACE SI PRIETENIE
BUCURESTI 1953

WORLD FESTIVAL OF YOUTH AND STUDENTS FOR PEACE AND FRIENDSHIP
WARSAW 1955

BY BUFFY SPENCER

In July of 1978, a small group of people from the Amherst-Northampton area will journey to Havana, Cuba to participate in the 11th World Festival of Youth and Students as part of the United States delegation to the Festival. For ten days they will attend workshops and cultural presentations with young people from all over the world in an exchange of ideas and a sharing of cultural traditions that is the heart of the Youth Festival.

In 1947 the First World Youth Festival was held in a war torn Prague. A student from the U.S., a member of the U.S. delegation to that festival wrote, "For us as Americans it was a very special occasion. Most of us had never left the U.S. before. The war had ended only two years previously. Although we had seen photographs and films it was a terrible shock for us to pass one destroyed town after another, Strasbourg, Stuttgart, Munich, Nurenburg.

"When we arrived in Prague we saw small plaques with flowers or portraits on the walls indicating places where patriots had fought the Nazis and had been murdered. The spirit of antifacism was still very much alive. Many people at the festival had fought in the war, had joined the underground resistance movement or had been thrown into concentration camps.

The Youth Festival dates back to 1945. In November of that year representatives from 63 countries met in London to hold an International Youth Conference. One of the main resolutions to come out of that conference concerned holding world youth festivals in a demonstration for world peace. Europe and the Soviet Union were still very much suffering from the scars of Hitler's fury at that time.

Participants in World Youth Festivals historically may differ in political, philosophical, and religious convictions. But they unite in the will to fight for the implementation of the elementary right of the young generation, for peace and for progress, against imperialism, colonialism, and neo-colonialism.

Many of the issues considered at Youth Festivals are recurrent--health hazards in the workplace, torture of political protesters, child labor, imperialism in the African continent, mass unemployment, racism, atomic warfare--but some are particularly current at the time of an individual festival, such as the imprisonment of Angela Davis or ending the war in Vietnam.

In 1953, at the Youth Festival in Bucyst,, the participants heard of Fidel Castro's attack on the Moncada Garrison, the beginnings of the Cuban revolution.

Youth festival five and six were held in Warsaw, Poland, and Moscow, U.S.S.R., respectively. Festivals seven and eight wei held respectively in Vienna and Helsinki.

The festival in 1968 was in Sofia, Bulg ria. The last and most recent was held in Berlin, Germany. From festival one to festival ten the number of countries represented grew from seventy-two to one hundered and forty. Participation fluctuated depending on the ability of the host country to acc modate delegates. There were 20,000 participants in the 1973 festival in Berlin. Every one of the ten festivals included a U.S. delegation.

What is a World Youth Festival and wh will 400 delegates from the U.S. travel to Havana to participate in the 11th World Festival? To get an understanding of this we could perhaps look back to the Tenth festival in Berlin.

A look at a day in the program of the festival would demonstrate the types of events a youth festival may host. At 10:00 on Friday you could go to a seminar on the role of youth in political life and its participation in the running of public affairs, a conference on the role and condition of girls and women in modern society, a conference on the role of youth tourism in the consolidation of peace, understanding, and cooperation, or a meeting of young miners. If you felt like something more academic you would go to a discussion on mathematics and society. Or if you were in the mood for something more entertaining you could attend international artistic contests in folk music, folk dance, or folk song. Or perhaps you would instead compete in the international friendship competitions for the Festival volleyball cup. In all, you would have 22 choices on that Friday in 1973 at 10:00 am.

Participants in the 10th World Youth Festival collectively hailed the victory being scored by the peoples of Indochina, chiefly the Vietnamese people, and announced the world youth's pledge to combat imperialism and to struggle for peace and international cooperation.

The 11th World Youth Festival in Havana will continue in the same tradition with meetings of folk dancers and musicians, concerts of popular and political music, visits to museums and historical sites, and a center for young artists to exchange views of existing trends of cultural life. There will be a special program for children as well as seminars for the heads of children's organizations.

There will be six discussion centers set up and subdivided into 30 commissions which will deal with the main problems on the world scene.

The first of these centers, with six commissions, will be given over to the struggle of young people and students for world peace, detente, security and international cooperation, a halt to the arms race and general and complete disarmament.

The struggle of the peoples, and particularly the youth and students, against imperialism, colonialism, neocolonialism, facism and apartheid in Africa, Asia and Latin America, with emphasis on racism and Zionism in the Middle East, will be covered at the second center.

The third center will deal with the struggle of young people and students for the establishment of a just and fair new international economic order anr national independence, the recovery of natural resources and social progress. This center will have five commissions.

The fourth center will be devoted to the struggle of young people and students in the capitalist countries against exploitation, the economic crisis and the power of the monopolies and for the promotion and defense of democratic rights and freedoms and profound social, economic and political change.

The problems facing the younger generation in education, science and society will be covered at the fifth center.

Festival history

| No. | City | Country | No. of participants | Countries represented |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Prague (1947 | Czechoslovakia | 17,000 | 72 |
| 2 | Budapest (1949) | Hungary | 18,000 | 81 |
| 3 | Berlin (1951) | GDR | 26,000 | 105 |
| 4 | Bucharest (1953) | Romania | 18,000 | 111 |
| 5 | Warsaw (1955) | Poland | 30,000 | 114 |
| 6 | Moscow (1957) | Soviet Union | 34,000 | 131 |
| 7 | Vienna (1959) | Austria | 18,000 | 112 |
| 8 | Helsinki (1962) | Finland | 18,000 | 137 |
| 9 | Sofia (1968) | Bulgaria | 14,000 | 140 |
| 10 | Berlin (1973) | GDR | 20,000 | 143 |

The subject of center six will be anti-imperialist solidarity. This center will organize various special activities. It will house the International Tribunal, which will hand down indictments on the use of mercenaries, facism, the mistreatment of political prisoners in countries with reactionary regimes, etc. This same center will organize various exhibits on these subjects and show films, and the National Liberation Movement Forum will function there.

There are 74 national preparatory committees in nations all over the world preparing to send delegations to the 11th World Youth Festival. In Europe there are committees in the U.S.S.R., Finland, GDR, Belgium, Bulgaria, Poland, West Berlin, Czechoslavakia, Cyprus, Hungary, France, Yugoslavia, Great Britain, Greece, Holland, Ireland, Malta, Norway, Sweden, Spain and Switzerland.

In the Americas the participating countries are Columbia, Barbados, Costa Rica, Cuba, Ecuador, Guatemala, Guyana, Haiti, Honduras, Jamaica, Mexico, Peru, Puerto Rico, Dominion Republic, Venezuela, Surinam, Trinidad Tobago, Chile, United States, Santa Lucia and Brazil. The committees from Haiti and Chile are working abroad.

In Africa there are committees in Algeria, Angola, Congo's P.R., Ghana, Guinea's Republic, Mauricio Island, Madagascar, Namimbia, Nigeria, Somalia, Sudan, Zambia, Sierra Leone, Tunez, Yemen's Democratic Republic. and Lebanon, among others.

In Asia the countries sending delegations will be Viet Nam, Mongoloia, New Zealand, Nepal, Laos, Pakistan, Philippine Islands, Australia, and Japan.

Cuba has been preparing the island to host the Festival since the International Preparatory Committee of the World Youth Festival announced that it was chosen as a host country in February of 1975. In addition to insuring that adequate housing, transportation and food will be available for youth festival delegates (not an easy task for such a small island), there are many special projects underway nationally related to the festival. One is "handicrafts for friendship". This project is a massive effort to create handcrafted goods to be sold in fund raising campaigns to help the festival. Some of the items are being set aside to be presented to the delegates who will attend the Festival as mementos depicting Cuban history and culture. This project is being undertaken by both amateurs and professional artists, the former through many popular art workshops.

In the United States there are local committees functoning iin San Antonio, Newark, Philadelphia, Washington, New York City, Los Angelos, Chicago, the Bay Area, Seattle, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Albuquerque, and Amherst. Here the local committee has begun to do educational presentations about the World Youth Festival and has compiled a slide show which is available for showings to community and college groups. Applications for the Youth Festival are also being accepted. For more information call Marea Wexler afternoons at 545-0472 or write to:

Youth Festival
P.O. Box 595
N. Amherst, Mass. 01923

ФЕСТИВАЛЬ МОЛОДЕЖИ И СТУДЕНТОВ
За мир и дружбу
МОСКВА 1957

Bluegrass into new grass

By MARK HARRIS LEVITAN

[Note: This is the first of a two-part series]

Sometimes the most honest and heartfelt music is made by those musicians laboring in relative obscurity. The music often is of an explorative nature, as in jazz, or documentive, as in the many regional folk idioms. In the distance between these two extremes there is room for innovation around, and renewal of,traditionalmusic.

A few recording outfits have taken it upon themselves to fill gaps that the large labels leave so vacant in the area of traditional styles of folk and country music. Amongst the smaller labels there are divisions of duties as well. For instance, Arhoolie is a storehouse of Cajun, Delta blues and Tex-Mex music. Philo leans toward contemporary folk artists. Rounder delves mainly into traditional country and folk. Kicking Mule has a lot of instructional records, as well as offerings in blues and bluegrass. Flying Fish, the largest of the little folk, offers a wide selection of innovators in country and bluegrass music. There are other small labels, but the idea is clear that there is another side to the music industry, even in rock and jazz circles, that doesn't depend on huge advertising budgets of even radio. Oversaturation is the antithesis of these companies.

As for the music, the area where most new movement and real creation is taking place is in a synthesized form of bluegrass. Literally busting open the regimented structures of traditional bluegrass,"newgrass" or "bluejazz" utilizes the same basic instrumenai group vocals of bluegrass, but allows for explorative improvisation of song-themes, utilization of electrified instruments, and use of current pop songs in the repertoire. The original Country Gazette recorded "Honky Cat." Sam Bush of New Grass Revival plays an electric slide mandolin. The David Grisman Quintet performs many original tunes steeped in swing and "orchestrated"jazz. These three groups are currently at the forefront of the newgrass movement, and each are instantly identifiable by their sound.

The David Grisman Quintet is an all-acoustic group with a distinctively crisp, high sound based on two mandolins, a fiddle and guitar. They do no vocals but are the well-oiled machine of bluejazz (or Dawg music, as theycall it).

Country Gazette, the bluegrass group born amidst the Flying brothers, recently replaced fiddler Byron Berline with mandolinist Roland White. But they have not lost that rich and smoothvocal is their high point. They are the most traditional of this bunch, but with versions of songs by Gram Parsons, Waylon Jennings and Tom Paxton, they qualify as newgrass by expanding the categories of music.

New Grass Revival is an exciting four-piece group featuring guitar, banjo, mandolin-fiddle, and electric bass. They use a good deal of electricity in their repertoire (fiddle, mandolin, guitar). The vocals are rough, yet earnest, and their selection of material, original or borrowed, is exceptional. Try to catch them live (they play Boston around once a year), as they can jam wit .

Any discussion of expanded bluegrass must include mention of Vassar Clements and John Hartford. Vassar Clements, arguably the best fiddler playing (Venuti and Grappelly play violin, ok?), has broken so many barriers that he should be canonized. Whether in sraight bluegrass, swing, jazz, funk or rock and roll, Vassar's the best. Of my ten picks for breakthrough vassar plays on six of them. John Hartford is yet another story. He can write songs to make you laugh or cry, and his live act is an inimitable blend of comedy and bluegrass-as-a-one-man-show.

The list that follows is simply my conception of ten albums that can be considered breakthroughs in the form of content of bluegrass, newgrass, progressive country, bluejazz, hillbilly jazz, or what have you:

Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and Oh So Many Others, Will The Circle Be Unbroken, (1971-United Artists)

John Hartford, Aero-Plain, (1971-Warner Brothers)

Country Gazette, Don't Give Up Your Day Job, (1973-United Artists)

Vassar Clements, David Bromberg, Mike Melford, Et al. Hillbilly Jazz, (1974-Flying Fish)

Norman Blake, Tut Taylor, Sam Bush, Butch Robins, Vassar Clements, Davis Holland, Jethro Burns, (1975-HDS-Flying Fish)

Old and In the Way, (1975-Round Records)

John Hartford, Mark Twang,(1976-Flying Fish)

David Grisman Quintet, (1977-Kaleidoscope)

Vassar Clements, The Bluegrass Session, (1977-Flying Fish)

New Grass Revival, Too Late To Turn Back Now, (1978-Flyign Fish)

Next week I'll discuss the merits of a selection of country, blues, and traditional albums released recently.

Literature's politics in the world of guns and money

Memoirs
Pablo Neruda
trans. by Hardie ST. Martin
Penguin Books 1978
370 pp. $2.95 ppbk.

The Challenge of the Spirit
Boris Shragin
trans. by P.S. Falla
Alfred A. Knopf 1978
262 pp. $10.00 hrdbk.

Reviewed by K. STEPHEN SHAIN

Here we have two books that arrived in the mail on the sme day. One, by defected Soviet philosopher Boris Shragin, is an example of what happens to someone who stands up to socialism. They get to come to America and make lots of money writing and selling books reiterating what everyone has at one time or another been force fed about the so-called "nature" of Soviet "oppression" today. Bully for him.

On the other hand, Pablo Neruda's book, or, more generally, his life, is an example of someone who stands up to capitalism. They lose their life. Time and time again, and even more often than Soviet dissidents get rich, dedicated defenders of the working-class are cut down at the peak of their effectiveness. For Pablo Neruda, Chile's legendary poet-philosopher, the shower of silver comes after the shower of lead; though his memoirs are now available in America, he died in a Chilean hospital shortly after being arrested by the fascist junta in Chile's bloody coup of 1973.

Read them both if you like, although my preference by now must be rather obvious, but if in all fairness, as a U. S. citizen in the process of making up your mind and formulating your own individual opinion on the matter, you do decide to read both books, remember this little jingle:

Protesting the red-star
Will get you the gold,
But, protest the gold-star,
They'll put you out cold!

low prices – new 'n used albums
The Hip Record Shop
SUN MUSIC
amherst carriage shops

Get it on your chest.

Any design or logo Screen Printed on T-Shirts for dorms, teams, clubs, concerts, parties, etc. 20 colors, 15 styles including reg. T's, sweats, shorts, trim T's, French and European cut, and long sleeve T's, etc. No order too large or too small. Write for catalog or call

FORTE PRINTING
P.O. BOX 211
FLORENCE, MA 01060

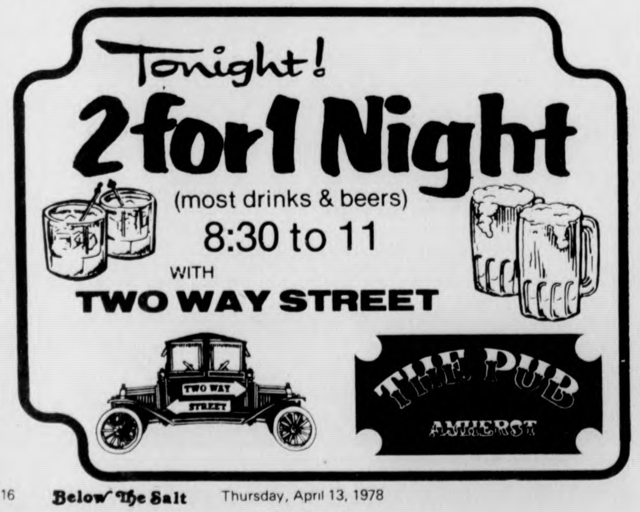
Campus Rep
Steve Milligan
545-3539

安城中國飯店

AMHERST CHINESE FOOD

You'll be surprised to find such excellent authentic Chinese cooking right here in Amherst. The only restaurant in the area to receive the American Dining Society's Good Dining Award.

Lunch Specials 1.15 and up
Closed Wednesday
62 Main St., Amherst
253-7835



Tonight!
2 for 1 Night
(most drinks & beers)
8:30 to 11
WITH TWO WAY STREET

Announcing
a new shipment of

Leather Jackets

If first quality,
selling elsewhere at $100 - $175

Faces Price: $48.50
Excellent Condition

FACES
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Program Council Films
Presents

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
BEST DOCUMENTARY FEATURE

A remarkable, passionate work. A reminder that there cannot be neutrals—anywhere.

Ardent, absorbing.

A great subject, and the taste and sensitivity not to betray it.

Succeeds magnificently.

HARLAN COUNTY U.S.A.
Produced and Directed by Barbara Kopple Principal Cinematography Hart Perry Director of Editing Nancy Baker Rated PG

Thurs, April 13

7, 8:45 & 10:30

CCA $1.00

A Good Weekend Begins On This Page

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 28¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
THURSDAY
BEAT THE CLOCK
8-9 50¢ 9-10 75¢ 10-11 $1.00
ALL DRINKS
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
NO COVER—COME EARLY
Sunday
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

The New Centurions

with George C. Scott

Thurs., April 13–7,9,11 p.m.

Admission – $1.00 Mahar Aud.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 - SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

LARCENY! MYSTERY!
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
CANDLESHOE
DAVID NIVEN HELEN HAYES JODIE FOSTER
STARTS FRIDAY
G
① MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

STARTS FRIDAY
WOODY ALLEN
DIANE KEATON
"ANNIE HALL"
WINNER OF 4 ACADEMY AWARDS
A nervous romance.
PG
② MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

Vanessa Redgrave
Jane Fonda
JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG
③ MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG
④ MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Charlie's

HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢

TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID

1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

Bluewall Bar

Wed. - Sat.,
April 12–15

The Ellis Hall Group

COMING to DAVID'S
OF MT. FARMS MALL — THE AREA'S NEWEST "CLUB"

TUES. APRIL 18
•MAKESHIFT STRING BAND!
COUNTRY AND BLUE GRASS —

WED APRIL 19
JAKE EPSTEIN QUINTET!
"JAZZ"

INTERNATIONAL & VEGETARIAN CUISINE

THURS. APRIL 20
CAROL CRAWFORD
&
• ALL THAT JAZZ

FRI.-SAT. APRIL 21-22
HOT CALYPSO KEY

TEL. 586-1878

SUNDAY APRIL 23
DINE IN THE Middle East 6:30-10:30 p.m.
ENJOY THE MUSICAL SOUNDS & CAPTIVATING DANCING ON OUR STAGE. MUSIC, LIVE SHOWS, FOLK DANCING & DINNER AT LOW SUNDAY PRICES.

Goings on both on and off campus

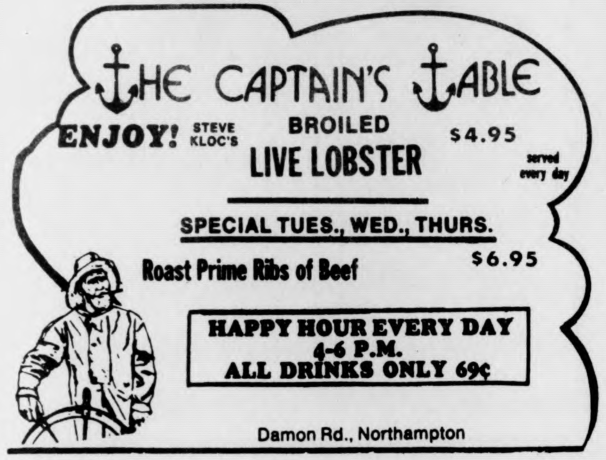
ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton
The Only Area Showing!
Now thru Tues., Apr. 18
SHOWN AT 7:30 ONLY!
1900
A FILM BY BERNARDO BERTOLUCCI
DOMINIQUE SANDA
ROBERT DE NIRO
R
at the Gates of Smith College



THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $6.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

Thursday
T O C Lounge entertainment and 99¢ bar drinks 9-12:30
Friday
"Class Happy Hour" at the T OC
65¢ "Mich" Bottles

Tired of draft beer, plastic cups and getting your feet stepped on? Come and enjoy the relaxed atmosphere at the Class Happy Hour every Friday, 3:30-6:30 with 65 cent bottled Michelobs and 99 cent bar drinks plus free Munchies.

Cabaret Entertainment
Friday and Saturday night 9-12:30
Appearing
April 14 & 15:
Jake Epstein and Jazz.
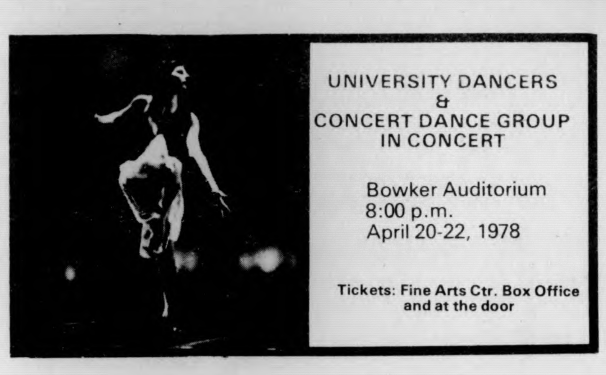
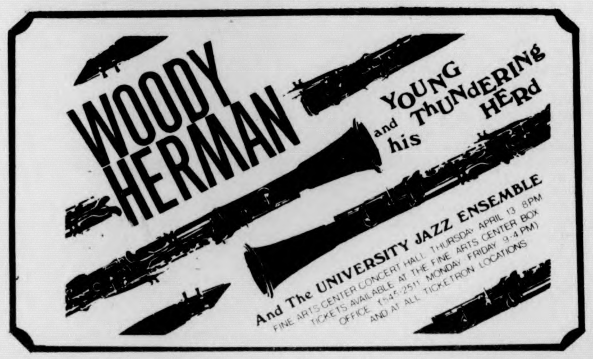
Coming:
April 21 & 22
The
Seventeen Piece
Jazz Workshop
Band

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30



UNIVERSITY DANCERS
&
CONCERT DANCE GROUP
IN CONCERT
Bowker Auditorium
8:00 p.m.
April 20-22, 1978
Tickets: Fine Arts Ctr. Box Office and at the door



WOODY HERMAN
and his YOUNG THUNDERING HERd
And The UNIVERSITY JAZZ ENSEMBLE
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL THURSDAY APRIL 13 8PM
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT THE FINE ARTS CENTER BOX OFFICE (545-2511 MONDAY FRIDAY 9-4 PM)
AND AT ALL TICKETRON LOCATIONS

The rusty nail Inn
APRIL 13-14
BRICKER BAND
$2.00
APRIL 19
GEORGE T. GREGORY
$2.00
APRIL 16
HOT CALYPSO KEY
$1.00
APRIL 20
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
$2.00
APRIL 17-18
LOOSE CABOOSE
$1.00
SATURDAY, APRIL 15
LOUDON WAINWRIGHT
COVER $4.00
FRIDAY & SATURDAY, APRIL 21-22
JAMES MONTGOMERY
and FAT
COVER $4.00
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

albums/Changing the industry

Live Stiffs
Stiff Records

Reviewed by Mary Brown

Rigor mortis has set in at Stiff Records with the release of the LP Live Stiffs, the second album in a yet g relatively unknown English rock'n 'rollers.

The Stiffs are anything but.

The album's "name" star is Elvis Costello, who currently has two albums available in he U.S. Elvis performs up to his usual standard of excellence, spitting out a very angry version of "Miracle Man". He also debuts a well-done version of a Hal David-Burt Bachrach tune "I Just Don't Know What to Do With Myself".

Nick Lowe, who is getting some local airplay on WCCC radio, comes up with two hard-driving tunes, "I Knew the Bride when she used to rock n' roll" and "Let's Eat", featuring tongue-in-cheek lyrics that only Lowe could conceive-"I want to move, move, move, move my teeth, let's eat! Let's eat!"

Ian Dury and the Blockheads, Wreckless Eric and the New Rockets and Larry Wallis' Psychedelic Rowdies fill out the bulk of the album in fine form. Wreckless Eric's "Semaphore Signals" and Wallis' "Police Car" are both excellent songs and Ian Durymanages to sneak in what seems to be an nglish pub song in "Billercay Dickie".

The album concludes with all the musicians joining in for "Sex Drugs Rock N' Roll and Chaos", a song which by the techniques of word association and repetition serves to disassociate rock n' roll from sex, drugs or chaos.

Live Stiffs could be viewed as a collection of tunes which parody some of the overplayed top 40 songs of the past few years. "(I'm sending) Semaphore Signals (to the girl I love)" is not unlike "Radar Love" and "I Knew the Bride" is much like Elton John's "Your Sister Can't Twist".

But Live Stiffs is not only parody. The songs are more than able to stand on their own. It's good rock n' roll with a sense of hornor.

Live Stiffs was recorded, among other places at the University of East Anglica Norwich and Leicester University, but unlike some live albums, the quality of the recording does not suffer.

As an introduction to some of the more obscure goings-on in English music, or as a good rock album, Live Stiffs is a worthy addition to any record collection.

Nick Lowe
Pure Pop for Now People
Columbia

Reviewed by PERRY ADLER

Though this is his first album under his own name, Nick Lowe needs no introduction to followers of the New Wave. He was a main force in the seminal English pub band, Brinsley Schwarz; has collaborated often with the legendary Dave Edmunds; has produced (with mixed results) many artists, notably Graham Parker, Dr. Feelgood, the Damned and Elvis Costello; and has released several fine 45's, some of which appear here.

Some people may be reminded of Elvis Costello, which is ironic because those who were familiar with Nick's earlier work were reminded of Nick when first confronted with the new Elvis, and some even believed Elvis to be Nick under a pseudonym. There are similarities in musical orientation and vocal style, but as their personas have unfolded some clear differences have emerged.

Elvis has taken influences from all sorts of sources and forged a unique personal style full of anger andbitterness Nick is more like Dave Edmunds in that his derivations remain more discrete and obvious; so far, on Pure Pop for Now People, I hear folk rock, bubblegum, rockabilly, reggae, funk, Phil Spector, Eddie and the Hot Rods, "Reelin' in the Years," "I Want You Back," "Teen Angel," and "Chapel of Love." But both these artists are such masters at whatever genre they choose that such blatancy is excusable. Also, neither is interested in making any serious statements, but rather, they simply want to make fun records in the styles they love. What separates Lowe from Edmunds is that the former not only pays tribute to his inspirations but lovingly sends them up at the same time; his tone is much more playful and his lyrics are often downright crazy.

Pure Pop for Now People is extremely listenable, with amazing variety in style yet consistently good quality through out. There may (and hopefully will) be more significant records this year, but there will probably be few that are more fun.

Elvis Costello
This Year's Model
CBS

Reviewed by K. STEPHEN SHAIN

With a silver throat and a sliverng tongue, our man of the sardonic song is back with his latest LP, This Year's Model. Surpassing his first and last effort as far as you can throw it, Elvis validates his own impending superstardom with a collection of songs that is guaranteed to put chuckles in your cheeks and help put your troubles in order. Yes, Elvis, our Elvis, is back and with his return is no small story.

It seems that Elvis collects labels almost as quickly as he writes songs. Starting out on Stiff Records, Elvis recorded his first album, My Aim is True, for the British listener and was distributed by Island Records. Then came CBS who signed Elvis to an exclusive North American recording/distributing contract. Most musicians would stop there; big label security with all the options of having your own domestic label. Not Elvis. Being the self-creating phenomenon that he is, Elvis, and his manager, Jake Riviera, signed Stiff to a distribution contract with Arista, placing Elvis on Live Stiffs and giving him his fourth dealt-with label. So it goes, you say. Another money hungry star. They're all alike...

But wait! Can it be? Elvis on a fifth label distributed by a sixth firm? Yes. Stiffing CBS in a rather obvious manner, Elvis and his managment company have founded Radar Records and are distributing This Year's Model internationally through CBS' rival-giant, Warner Communications. And to make matters worse (for CBS, not you, the consumer) they've designed the package to make it even more attractive than the American CBS version. Besides containig two extra songs and seemingly purposeful flawed album jacket, the import contains a bonus 45 rpm recording (two more songs) for no extra $ Can you beat that? Approximate genius at work!

The obvious advantage to owning the American CBS edition of This Year's Model is that it has one different song than the import. Elaborating on his "necessity of music" statement made during his Saturday Night Live appearence, Elvis has substituted "Radio Radio" for "Night Rally" on the domestic release, demonstrating the relativity of his message. Just as he abruptly on TV cut "Less Than Zero," a song avbout Britain's facist National Front, short to go into "Radio Radio", a song about America's own problems, Elvis has deleted "Night Rally," a frightening glimpse of facist cultural-psychological warfare in Great Britain from the CBS edition and replaced with a song about media-psychic mind-control in America.

Aside from these major differences, however, there is absolutely nothing wrong with the CBS edition. For the mere price of any other record album, you get Elvis and eleven hot songs like "Lip Service," presumably a tribute to liberalism, with its chugging acoustic guitars and the trademark (by now) Elvis sneer and "The Beat," already a classic in the annals of white rhythym-and-blues. Who cares if the American edition doesn't contain the fabled "(I Don't Want to go to )Chelsea?" You can always go out and purchase the 45 now available on Radar!

With another album under his belt and his six-labels-dealt-with status, Elvis moves from rookie of the year through the intermediatde stages of approximate genius to the hallowed pantheon of the masters of sardono-ironicism, eclipsing just about everyone (especially wimp Springsteen) with his talent and chutzpah. In other words, I'd rather have 37 minutes of Elvis than three hours, nay, three days of McCartney, Bowie, or any of the other labels' top-of-the-line artists.

Bob Marley and the Wailers
Kaya
Island

Reviewed by K. STEPHEN SHAIN

If mercenaries didn't also smoke pot, I'd think that Bob Marley was the Prince of Peace, come at last, the Wailers, his apostles and their new release, Kaya, the holy scripture to go with the sacrament. They do, he's not, they aren't and it isn't but I am still convinced that Kaya is at once a significant release for him, them and us and will be for the rest of you before the year is out.

Besides having a great sound (the best since Natty Dread) Kaya is perhaps the most marketable product ever distributed for Marley by Island. Afriad of losing Marley to another label, Island is putting everything they have behind this release in an effort to finally make a legitimate talent into a bona-fide star. Given what may be their last chance to marry their reggae family to American pop-music, Marley and his backers have engineered a sound that should achieve a modicum of success and receive some airplay, despite some of the more obvious musical contributions on the record.

Shorn of the religious preoccupations of the past (after all, Haile Selassie is dead now, having given Jamaica's Prime Minister Michael Manley the "Staff of Correction" before being deposed by the revolutionary government of Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam) and emphasizing the virtue of kaya (yet another term for ganga,) Marley's music has developed more than it has changed. Integrating more influences than just the usual rock-riffs into his sound, Marley has moved beyond his previous musical limits.

Unlike anything he's ever done before, "Sun is Shining" owes more to the Chilean sound of the Andes as made popular by the immortal Victor Jara than to the contemporary rock-music being manufactured in New York or Burbank but yet still verifies Marley as still being a leading proponent of roots music. "To the rescue, Monday morning, here I am/want you to know, Tuesday evening,/ just if you can, where I stand" sings Marley, encouraging self-confidence amidst a backdrop of an absolutely hypnotic symphony of acoustic guitars.

"Time Will Tell," has an international flavor, hinting Mexico, Ghana, and India, and because this is the closing cut on the album, I am led to believe that Marley is aiming for something broader and more complex than just Top 40 ststus with an occaisional bow, side-to-side, thanking multivarious stimulus and influence. Rather, I think tha Bob Marley is trying to become, not unlike Ry Cooder and Taj Mahal, a chronicler of people's culture in the highly commercial music business, as well as a spokesman of oppresed people all over the world. Ironically, this expression of soldarity is kindled around a burning joint and not around the movement against the burning cross.

But such is business; by adopting an image accessible and palatable to mainstream American taste (if you don't think so, scope out those official looking tables selling smokers' gear on the CC Concourse,) Bob Marley has been able to slip in a message or two that those dope-smoking mercenaries may have yet to reckon with. The kind of solidarity these messages imply go far beyond the kind that comes around burning joints or crosses; they express the solidarity of people in struggle against oppression, exploitation and class domination.

Now, wouldn't it be nice if that was MOR programming on top 40 radio?

men's Levi's CORDS
~SAVE~
$2.00
REG 13.50 NOW 11.50
WITH THIS AD
BOYS CORDS SAVE $2.00
REG. 15.50 —NOW— 13.50
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Calendar

music

Thursday, April 13

Woody Herman Clinic in Bezanson Recital Hall at 2:30 p.m.

Woody Herman and his Young Thundering Herd at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at 8 p.m. University Jazz Ensemble will perform a short opening set. UMass students tickets are $3.50, $3, and $2.50 at the box office and Ticketron locations. Box office at 545-2511.

Chamber Music by members of the Smith College Dept of Music and guest artists, with works by Tartini, D'Anglebert, Telemann, Haydn, Schubert and Britten. At 8 p.m. in the Smith College Museum of Art.

Friday, April 14

Graduate Recital at 8 p.m. Bezanson Recital Hall.

Saturday, April 15

Music Dept. Auditions, all day in the Music Dept Fine Arts Center.

Workshop with Boston Musica Viva at the Buckley Rectical Hall in Amherst College at 8:15 p.m.

Sunday, April 16

Roosevelt Newson, pianist, at the Hampshire College Music and Dance Building at 1:30 p.m. Informal performance.

The Boys of the Lough at Buckley Recital Hall, Amherst College at 7 and 9:15 p.m. Traditional Irish music. Tickets are $3 in advance at Amherst Audio in Northampton, and Faces of Earth and the Fretted Instrument Workship in Amherst, or $3.50 at the door.

Wednesday, April 19

David Neubert on the string bass at 8 p.m. in Bezanson Recital Hall.

Thursday through Saturday, April 20 to 22

University Dancers in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Saturday, April 22

The Poussette-Dart Band at Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5 in advance, available at Faces of Earth in Amherst, Country Comfort and Platterpuss Records in Northampton, Goodbodies in South Hadley and the ticket office of Mary Woolley Hall, Mount Holyoke. Tickets $5.50 at the door.

art

Current

Prints and drawings by Geoffrey Greenleaf, UMass class of '78 at the Wheeler Gallery in Wheeler Main lounge.

Thursday, April 13

Lecture on "The English and American Sources of Ahser Benjamin's Early Work in the Connecticut Valley" by Jack Quinan, asst. prof of Art History, SUNY at Buffalo. Benjamin was a prominent architect in this region in the early 1800's. White Church, Memorial St. in Old Deerfield at 8 p.m. No admission.

Through April 14

Student group exhibit in the Center Gallery of the Hampshire College Harold F. Johnson Library. Weekdays 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Rita Myers' "Forward", a video installation in the tudent Union Gallery, Student union building weekdays 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesdays 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Sunday, April 16

"Reubens' Last Paintings for Phillip IV" lecture by Prof. John Rupert Martin of Princeton University in Mead Auditorium, Amherst College at 8 p.m.

Through April 17

"New York Now"-recent works by major artists in the Main Gallery of the Mead Art Building, Amherst College. Weekdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends 1 to 5 p.m.

April 17 to April 21

Howard McCalebb's 'An installation of hanging icons' in the Student Union Gallery, Student Union building weekdays 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Through April 30

Color photography by Frank Ward at the Forbes Library in Northampton. Gallery open Monday through Saturday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Through April 30

The nature photographs of Robert L. Coffin at the Jones Library's Burne Gallery. Most photographs were taken during the 1920's and 30's.

Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers—B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Kathryn Crosby and Tony Russel in "Same Time, Next Year", at the Fine Arts Center Friday night.

Through April 30

Mead Art Gallery exhibits include: selections from the permanent collection in the Arms Gallery; A View of the Hudson River School in the Basset Room; The Restoration View of the French Revolution in the Collins Print Room; Oriental Art from the permanent collection in the Denlies Gallery; Dutch and Flemish Genre Paintings and Italian Renaissance Paintings in the Nineveh room; and selections of Ancient Art in the Rotherwas Room. Weekdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends 1 to 5 p.m.

Through April 30

"Silence and Slow Time" with works by Berthot, MacKenzie, Meadmore and Romano at the Mount Holyoke College Art Museum.

Through May 7

"Criticism of Photography- Eleven Contemporary Photographers" at the University Gallery. Tuesdays 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesdays through Fridays from 11:30 a.m. to 4:40 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Through June 4

"Neons for the University of Massachusetts" by Antonakos. The University Gallery, Fine Arts Center.

Through June 6

"Antiquity in the Renaissance", a major international loan exhibition in honor of Phyllis Williams Lehmann. Smith College Museum of Art. Tuesdays through Saturdays 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 4:30 p.m.

film

Thursday, April 13

"Idi Amin Dada" and "The Passenger" at the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire at 6 and 10 p.m. Admission $1.50.

"Harlan County U.S.A." in the Campus Center Auditorium at 7, 8:45 and 10 p.m.

An evening of canoeing films at Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College at 7:30 p.m.

Friday, April 14

"The Maltese Falcon" in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7:30 p.m.

Fellini's "Casanova" in the Main Lecture Hall of Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College. Admission $1, at 7 and 10 p.m.

"The 47 Ronin, Part II" and Japanese film with English subtitles at 8 p.m. in Wright Hall, Smith.

Friday, Saturday, Sunday, April 14 to 16

"Monty Python and the Holy Grail" at 8 and 10 p.m. in Merill I, Amherst College

Saturday, April 15

"Amarcord" at Sage Hall, Smith College at 7:15 and 9 p.m.

"Seven Percent Solution" at Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7:30 and 10 p.m.

Sunday, April 16

"The Sorrow and the Pity" in Wright Hall, Smith at 8 p.m.

"The Great White Hope" in Merrill II, Amherst College at 3 p.m.

"Distant Thunder" in Gamble Auditorium Mount Holyoke at 7:30 p.m.

"Womankind" show on WNAC-TV Ch. 7 features cast of "Vanities" at Boston's Charles Playhouse. Half-hour show will discuss weddings, pre-marital sex, the pill, being popular and the sexual revolution.

"Our Mutual Friend" will begin on WGBY Ch. 57 at 9 p.m. The show will span seven weeks on public television's Masterpiece Theater.

Tuesday, April 18

"I Sought My Brother" on WGBY Ch. 57 at 8 p.m. A documentary by two American blacks from Harvard University who visit the jungles of South America to discover an African culture preserved by descendents of former slaves.

Two films on women in Latin America. "The Life and Death of Frida Kahlo" and "Simplemete Jenny" part of the Progressive Film Series sponsored by the Commuter Collective. Thompson 104 at 8 p.m.

Through Tuesday, April 18

A Chaplin film festival at the Pleasant St. Theater, 27 Pleasant St., Northampton. On April 13 and 14 "Monsieur Verdoux" at 7 p.m. and "The Great Dictator" at 9:15 p.m.; on April 15, "The Chaplin Revue" at 7 p.m. and "Limelight" at 9:10 p.m.; on April 16 "The Great Dictator" at 1 p.m. and "The Circus" at 3:15 p.m. followed by the Chaplin Revue" at 7 p.m. and "Limelight" at 9:10 p.m.; and April 17 and 18 "City Lights" at 7 p.m. "The Circus" at 8:30 p.m. and "A King in New York" at 9:45 p.m.

Wednesday, April 19 through April 25

"Dersu Uzala: The Hunter" at 7 and 9:30 p.m. at the Pleasant St. Theater, 27 Pleasant St. Northampton. Akira Kurosawa's 1975 Academy Award winning film.

theater

Thursday, April 13 to May 7

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" by F. Andrew Leslie from the story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. At the Pleasant St. Theater, 27 Pleasant St., Northampton.

Thursday April 13

Theatre Francais: "La Farce Du Chaudronnier" and "La Farce Du Pate Et De La Tarte" in the Converse Assembly Room, Amherst College at 8 p.m.

Friday, April 14

"Same Time, Next Year" starring Kathryn Crosby and Tony Russel at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at 8 p.m. Tickets for UMass students are $3.50, $3, and $2.50. Box office is at 545-2511.

"Survival", a satirical play written and performed by the four members of the South African Theatre Workshop, based upon the actual life experiences of the authors. Chapin Auditorium at Mount Holyoke College at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Tickets are $1 for students on sale at the Mary Woolley ticket office, Mount Holyoke. 538-2178.

Friday, Saturday, Sunday, April 14-16

"Arabic Two," a comedy by Smith graduate Ruth Wolff. Admission is $1.50 for students at the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith College. Box office at 548-2700 ext. 840. open noon to 4:30 weekdays.

Through Saturday, April 16

"Vanities" at Stagewest. Tickets available at the box office. 736-7092.

dance

Friday, April 14

Outing Club Square Dance in the Abbey-Buckland Dining Room, Mount Holyoke at 8 p.m.

Contradance: Ladies Chain in the Brink Coffeehouse, Mount Holyoke College at 8:30 p.m.

International folkdancing instruction from 8 to 9:30 p.m. and dancing till midnight in the Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union building.

A combination Lecture/Performance by the Beverly Brown Dancensemble, the Theater for Bodies and Voices, on "The Choreographic Process: From Inspiration into Form." At the New Dance Studio, Music and Dance Building at Hampshire College at 8 p.m. Admission $1.50.

Sunday, April 16

The Boston Ballet and the Springfield Symphony Orchestra performing the third act of Tchaikovsky's Sleeping Beauty and modern work set to Handel's Aureole. Tickets are $6.50, $4.50 and $2.50 for students for the 3 p.m. event. Box office is at 733-2291.

Nomination papers for President of the Undergraduate Student Government Association are available in 420 SU and are due April 21.

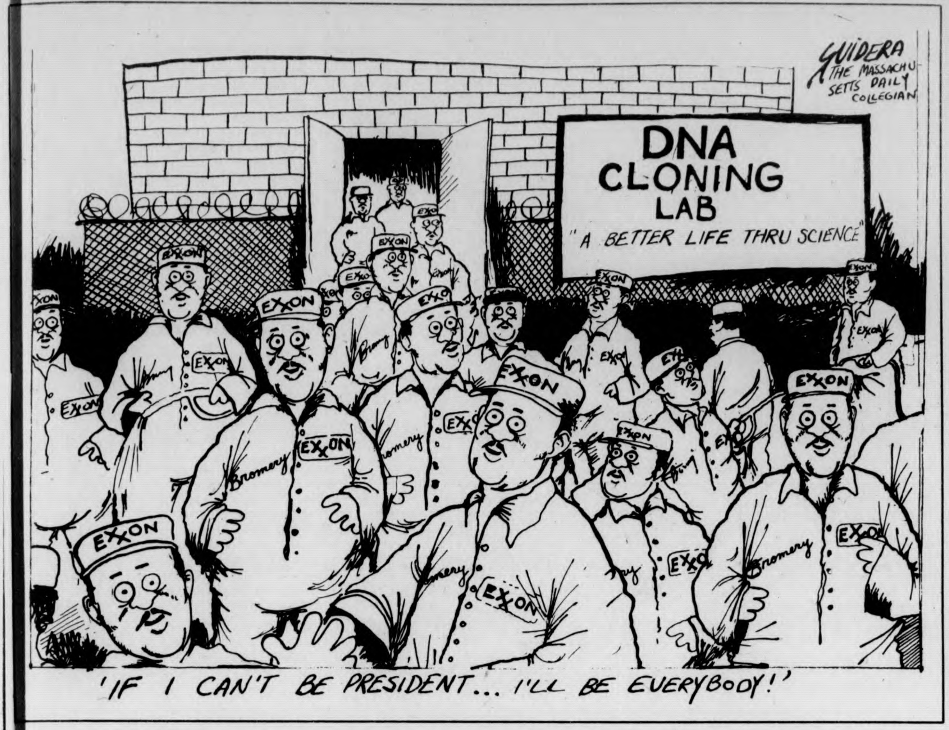
STEREO CLEARANCE HOUSE HAS LOWEST STEREO PRICES

Pioneer SX980 Receiver $359
Technics SL1900 Turntable $120
Akai CS702D Cassette $125

Our Free Catalog has many more deals on major brands, even lower prices on our monthly specials sheet. Send now and find out how to buy current $7.98 list lp's for $3.69. Stereo Clearance House Dept ED85 1029 Jacoby St., Johnstown, Pa. 15902 Phone Quotes 814-536-1611



GUIDERA
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
DNA CLONING LAB
"A BETTER LIFE THRU SCIENCE" EXXON Bromery
'IF I CAN'T BE PRESIDENT... I'LL BE EVERYBODY!'

Aboard Spaceship UMass

bill sundstrom

The recent student mutiny at Whitmore, coupled with the temporary residence of R. Buckminster Fuller on campus, brings to mind some interesting thoughts about "Spaceship UMass."

Fuller, who is here in conjunction with next week's Learning Tomorrows Conference, is famous (notorious in some circles) for his notion of Spaceship Earth, which suggests that we view the world as a whole system rather than the the simple "sum of its parts." And while it is true that UMass does not own one of the world's 200,000 geodescic domes, it can still learn from Mr. Fuller by taking a look at itself as an organic community.

Of course, Fuller is also known for his controversial claim that every spaceship needs a captain. If Spaceship UMass' wheelhouse is the Whitmore building, then we might speculate on who the true captain is although one suspects it is the collective of administrators who ineptly guide us through the infinite void of public higher education.

At the risk of carrying the analogy a bit far, the students might want to consider themselves passengers on board, with faculty as crew. Strangely, these are passengers who have very little to say about where the spaceship is going, despite the generous fare they pay for the ride. And the accommodations are hardly first class.

Fuller would be much upset with the captains and navigators, who seldom take into account the interests of the spaceship as a whole. Rather, they speak long and often of the spaceship's efficiency, keeing in mind the financial needs of the good ship's investors.

The commitment to a dormitory lease represents the first step toward more comprehensive contracts between students and the university. First Mate Randolph Bromery refuses to mention 'collective bargaining with students' in public, fearing that recognizing the possibility which he considers illegal, will open up the concept to public debate. But the similarity between the occupation of Whitmore and traditional labor tactics, along with the fact that the lease is indeed being negotiated collectively, seems to indicate that a precedent has been set.

Collective bargaining constitutes only a means to an end. The administrators will retain their status as captain regardless of the governance situation, and it remains quite unclear just what students can bargain with, besides the threat of future mutinies. No matter what the students use as a tool for bargaining, it is clear that their major strength lies in numbers.

A student lease is an important symbolic victory for the passengers. A concern for quality education cannot be restricted to the classrooms and laboratories around campus — safe and healthy living conditions are a major prerequisite to a properly functioning learning environment. Fuller would surely cringe at the sight of a spaceship that treats its passengers like animals and expects them to behave like scholars.

Meanwhile, students should take advantage of an excellent opportunity to gain some outside perspectives on their spaceship at the conference next week. The four days of events are free to students and bring a number of interesting people who shouldn't be missed.

But while we listen to the "experts", we should keep in the backs of our minds that the best "learning tomorrows" will be those we make ourselves.

Bill Sundstrom is Editor-in-Chief of the Collegian.

Correction

The headline for the letter on page 12 of yesterday's Collegian, "Asian studies needed," should have read "Asian-American studies needed."

Just one good citizen

By JIM JORDAN

Swel Thomas, chief spokesperson for the Flat World Party, presented an address to the party faithful last night in Boston. His speech, entitled "Jesus Was A White Male," included ringing denunciations of Jimmy Carter; the Theory of Relativity; bussing; bicycle riding; the Panama Canal Treaty; the ERA; the Far Left; the center Right and the Mid-East.

"Bicycle riding", he intoned near the end of his speech, "is a Red-Chinese-inspired plot to destroy the Free Enterprise system. Like many of you I watched in horror as millions of the Yellow Race rode bicycles around Peking during Richard Nixon's ill-starred trip to that country in 1972."

"Not a Buick, Chevy or Ford among them," he lamented.

"And now," he continued, "we see pink-hearted liberals pedalling around our own cities and towns cleverly disguised as exercise seekers."

"But," he cried, building toward a thundering finish, "you and I know better! We know that these who would show scorn for their country by refusing to democratically purchase automobiles are the same agents of the Red Menace who are importing into our country the communistic ideas of the equality of women and solar energy."

Thomas ended his speech to tumults of applause and expanded on his theories at a later interview.

"I believe strongly in what I say," he said, relaxing over a jigger of Cournvoisier brandy at the Hyatt Regency in Cambridge.

Thomas was asked about his view of a way to unify "the good people of this country" to whom he referred early in his speech.

"A good war," he quickly replied. "What we need is to hold high once again the banner of American democracy in one of the many Red-leaning countries of the world."

Asked how this view jived with his personal history of never having served in the U.S. military, Thomas simply pressed further with his position that "wars are good for unemployment," and that, "besides, such patriots as William Loeb have never had that great privilege, either."

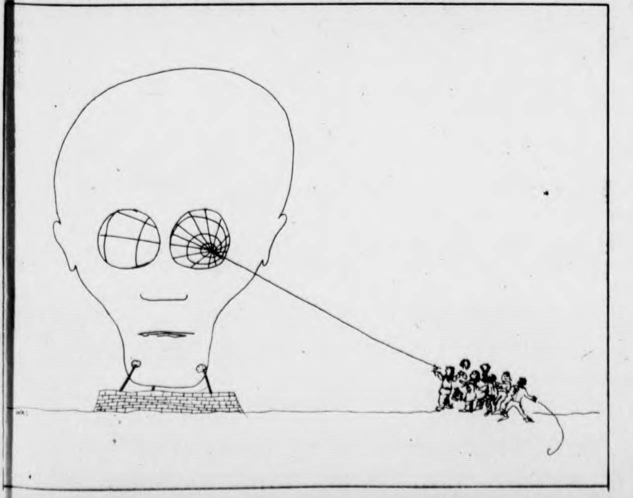
As the discussion moved to Thomas' controversial views on South Africa's apartheid system, he went on at some length.

"John Vorster has a better idea," he began.

"John Vorster understands that God has chosen those who are fit to follow the high road of free enterprise. As for the non-believers, well, the Lord sometimes works in mysterious ways."

"In fact," he went on, "South Africa treats well those unfortunates who are not fit for the calling. My God, boy, those were hospitals in Soweto that were at least as good as those on any Indian reservation in our country!"

"Ultimately," he said, closing the interview, "I'm just one good citizen who refuses to sit idly by flying at half-mast the flag of all things that make our country great."



MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS. Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Notices

LIVES IN TRANSITION
Bob Welch, BDIC staff, will report on the recent conference of the American Association of Higher Education. He will focus on trends in individualized education. He will focus on trends in individualized education. 416 Goodell 3 p.m., April 14.

HELP
Save a life today. Join the Northeast area in their bloodrive. 2-8 p.m. Thatcher House basement, bring a friend.

RIDE NEEDED
Please! ride needed to Burlington Vt. this weekend, call 549-0649.

COSMIC WIMPOUT TOURNMENT
$100.00 first prize. The third annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament will be on Thursday April 20. Many prizes. It's in the Blue Wall.

GERMAN LANGUAGE CORRIDOR
There are spaces on the German Language Corridor in Grayson House for the fall. The Corridor offers a unique opportunity for students to speak the language and work with others on class assignments. The corridor also has a resident grad student from Germany. For more info call Grayson HR: Joyce Chestnut 546-4576.

HELLENIC AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
Meeting Thursday April 13 at 7:30 p.m. in CC room 815. For info call Cindy 546-4788.

ANTI-HUNTING, ANTI-TRAPPING AND THE LEGISLATURE
Dorothy Chcci O'Brien, volunteer animal lobbyist will speak at 1:00 April 13 on the library lawn at Earth Day.

STOP NUCLEAR POWER
Come find out what you can do. The UMass Alternative Energy Coalition, a local affiliate of the Clamshell Alliance, will hold an orientation meeting today (and every Thursday) at 4 p.m., SU 413.

ALL YOU NEED IS WSYL
The Beatles music will be featured in a very special show. Tuesday, April 18, 7-10 p.m. Lots of Rare goodies. Tune in WSYL 97.7.

SUMMER BABYSITTING
A list for all those interested and available for babysitting in the Amherst area this summer is being compiled now. Sign up, in person, at the Child Care Office, 221 Berkshire House.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Meeting tonite at 7 p.m. in HAS 44.

PRO CHOICE ABORTION ACTION COALITION
Meeting Thursday night 8 p.m. Campus Center 175, we need your support in planning lobbying action to prevent Medicaid cutoffs for abortions. If you are interested in helping out but are unable to attend the meeting call Julie 256-0104 or Joanna 253-3356.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo: Pioneer receiver, Ohm C speakers, AR turntable, $350, call 256-6106.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

Solid 8-track player, 4 speakers, headphones, 35 tapes—cheap. BO. Call 6-6322.

AUTO FOR SALE

1963 Dodge Dart convertable, slant 6, needs brake work, otherwise good, $225 or BO. 665-3962.

64 Falcon sedan, $200 or BO. 549-6613.

1973 Open Manta, 25+ mpg, 4 spd., FM, many new parts, 7 tires, $1400—665-3367, nites.

Classic—sunroof, bus, 1964, in good shape, rebuilt engine, new starter, brakes, must sell, $350 firm, call Pat, 549-6305.

67 bug, good body, brakes, clutch and engine, $675, call eves. to 12 p.m., 542-3409.

71 Chrysler Newport, 40,000 miles, good condition, $1000, neg., Kevin, 546-7421.

69 Fiat 124 sport coupe, must see. Dependable car, asking $900, Ross, 546-7421.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

1971 Olds Delta 88, $700 or best offer. Call Dave at 546-6528.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rate.oave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

Hyannis—whole summer near beach and town cottages, apts., rooms with frig. & kit., priv., 2-in rm., reas., 1-617-775-8615.

Apt.—one bdrm. in Colonial Vill. $180, incl. util. Call 256-8767, for summer.

3 bdrm. house, summer sblt. and fall option. In country, 1 mile to UMass. 549-6171.

Cape Cod rental—2 women to share beautiful house on priv. beach in Yarmouth, Booka, 546-7421.

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Refrig. 2.5 cu. ft.—$55. Skis—OL in Mark 1 w/Gersch plate bindings, used 1 season—$60. Call Jeff, 546-6887.

Wilson T2000, $25 or best offer, 4½L strung with gut, 6-4748.

Weight set—235 lbs., bench, bull worker—$80. 2 A7813 snow tires—$20. 549-2805, eve.

Wms 26" 3-sp. Raleigh bike. BO. 6-8235.

Must sell 61 Dodge Phoenix. Dependable Bomber, $200, call Nancy at 586-2944.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-6330.

1969 VW again! New starter—runs good, 1-467-3465. $175 firm.

HELP WANTED

Tennis pros and assistant pros—seasonal and year-round clubs; good playing and teaching background. Call (301) 654-3770, or send 2 complete resumes and 2 pictures to: Col. R. Reade, WTS, 8401 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 1011, Chevy Chase, MD 20015.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

Student supervisor positions are available at Belchertown State School—entails implementation and supervision of programs and volunteers—one year commitments (July-May)—must be full-time college student—for info, call Cindy A. Rogers, 323-6311. BSS is an equal opportunity employer.

Got the summer job blues? We need workers; if you qualify, you could make $315 a week. For an interview come by room 808 CC, Tuesday, April 11 at 2:30 or 3:30.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of conversation tapes for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free info—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors: Adirondack Boys' camp; 7 weeks; $450-$550; Swimming Instructor (WSI); Trip Leader; Riflery Instructor; Driver; Office Manager (typing); 39 Mill Valley Rd., Pittsford, N.Y. 14534.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

INSTRUCTION

Statistics—Math tutoring; program designed for individual needs; John, 253-2036.

LOST

I lost a woman's Seiko watch, Friday, April 7. If found, please call 546-9864. Reward $.

2 keys 3/31 on a Disneyworld key ring near No. Village bus stop or Boyden parking lot. Please call 546-8156. Reward.

To whomever found my opal ring in Fitzwilly's, please return it—no questions asked. It has great sentimental value to me. Reward. 1108 JQA, UMass, 6-8420.

Lost—a tan leather "cowboy" hat on Apr. 4. If found, call 549-6563. Reward!

MOTORCYCLES

Honda, 1964, Superhawk, 305cc, still very fast, inspectable, $305, 256-0401, 5-10 p.m.

75 Kawasaki G3SE100, bought new in Feb. 78, only 700 miles, perfect, ask $400 but will bicker. Call Glen, 538-2513, late evenings.

PERSONALS

Kevin—congrats on the 9.11.2 steeplechase. The thrill of victory? Tom, Sam, Eileen, Laurie, Martha.

Photographers—leave your mark on UMass! Join the UMass (Index) photo staff and help photograph upcoming spring activities. Come to organizational meeting Wed. night (7 p.m.) in the Index office (CC 102) or call Rob Carlin at 545-0848.

IGG and HJG—hope your 19th is the best. PM, LB and JM.

Aerosmith, Judy Collins, Diana Ross, Bette Midler 8x10 pro-quality colr. photos from recent Boston concerts. 25 cents for brochure to: Saviano, 45 West Newton St., Boston, Mass. 02118.

Astrology compatability and birth charts, 10th year professional Louis Neubel, 549-6425.

Biorhythms—Have the natural rhythms of your body scientifically charted by computer. Accuracy guaranteed. Get one for yourself and one for a special friend. For each 1 year chart send birthdate and $3.00 to Psychology Research Associates, Bx. 978, Amherst, Mass.

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Pinocchio is coming.

SERVICES

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul—$24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

Fast service and sales—call Valley Typewriter and Business Machines, Co. Licensed technicians. Guaranteed repairs. Lowest prices in the Valley. Free pick-up, delivery, free estimates. 665-3290.

TO SUBLET

Summer sublet, avail. 5/20, 3 bdrm., call 549-0106 or come by 103 Puffton.

Sunderland—2 bedroom townehous aths, AC, swimming pool, on UMass bus route. $225/mo. + hot water included in rent. 665-2433, after 5.

1 bdrm. apt. in Puffton, ½ mi. from campus, for 6/1 to 8/31 with option to renew avail. Some furn. Call 549-3837.

2 bdrm., 5/31-9/31, opt. to renew, Prez. Apt., bus/walk, AC, util. incl. Call 549-6863!

Room for summer in spacious apartment. Amherst center, opening for one person, kitchen full bath. $85 per month. Call 253-3014, after 6 p.m.

Rms. in apt., Amhst. ctr., 1 min. to bus, 6/1 to 9/1, opt. for fall, rent negot. 253-9403.

3 bdrm. Townehouse Apt., avl. 6/1, close to bus st., Watroba's, laundry. Rent reduced to $250/mo. Partly furnished, opt. to renew lease. Call 549-6820.

Sublet—2 bed. apt., incl. all util. Avail. May 1. Call Alexis, 5-0003, or 549-5440. On UMass bus route, Amherst.

To sublet: 3 bedroom Puffton apt.; semi-furnished. Available June 1; rent negot. Call 549-5621.

2 bdrm. Townehouse, w/ option for fall, 6/31-8/31, call 549-1019.

2 bdrm. Brandy., w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-0712.

June 1-Sept. 1—2 bdrm., fully furnished, all util. incl., $200/mo., on bus rte., Lantern Ct. Apts., call 665-4737, option to renew in Sept.

Summer living in Puffton Vlg., 549-0730.

Puffton apt.—2 bedroom; sublease summer; take over lease Sept. 1. Call after 4 p.m., 549-5868.

Sublet 3 bdrm. Puffton apt., 5/26-9/1, AC, DW, furnished, pool, $240/mo., 549-3740.

Sublet our 2 br. apt. for the summer—the lease is yours in Sept. Negotiable rent for summer. Walk or bus to campus. 549-6152—keep trying!

House to sublet, Phillips St. Five minutes to town; one minute to campus! Five spacious bedrooms; 2 full baths; to sublet this summer and next year. Be first to call Mark, Joe or Tom. 549-0714.

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

3 bdrm. Puffton, frm. 6/1, rent neg., 549-4451.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

2 lg. bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt.—women. 1 rm. avail. 5/1, other sem. end. 549-6482.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

4 br. house, 5 acres, NR bus route, avail. 5/25 w/ opt. for 78-9, $250/mo., N'hampton. 586-2825.

Fully furnished apartment! Available for June 1-Aug. 31. 3 bedroom apt. in Rolling Green. Rent reduced for the summer. Call 253-7088. Rent includes utilities.

4 bdrm. ranch—Echo Hill—sblt. June-Aug., sundeck, lg. liv. rm. Must see! $ neg. 253-5717.

1 bedroom—Cliffside, June 1 w/ fall opt. On bus route, $155 mo. Call 665-3512.

Summer sublet, 1 br. apt. by Puffer Pond, fully furn., free util., opt. to renew, avail. 5/30/78. $180/mo., 549-6555.

Sublet 2 bdrm., free util.: AC, DW, disp., pool, tenn. ct., on bus rt., $200/mo. 665-2652.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

To sublet, 3 bedroom, Puffton Village, near bus stop, pool, tennis courts and laundry, $250 a month, 6/1-8/31, call 549-4759.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

Large bdrm. avail. in 1½ bdrm. Puffton apt. 5/31-8/31, $95/mo. 549-1377.

2 bdrm. Cliffside apt., 6/1-8/31, opt. to renew. Pool, air cond., bus rt. 665-3190.

3-4 bedrm. duplex, avail. 6/1. $300 + util. (cheap!). 10 min. walk to town & 5 Coll. bus. 584-0177, N'hampton.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6o. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

2 bedroom; furnished apt.; South Meadow; price neg., for June, Jul., Aug.; call 545-1919 or 253-7420, Paul.

TRAVEL

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Woman housemate wanted: Amherst house, $87.50+. Available 6/1, call 253-5042, p.m.

Wanted—artist experienced in drawing pastel characterture from photograph, call John, 253-5873, after 5, keep trying.

Looking for people to share apartment in Maine: Oqunquit, Wells, Kennebunkport area this summer. For info call Pam at 546-7095.

WANTED TO RENT

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

JV baseball misses

By WALT CHERNIAK
Collegian Staff

It may have been a beautiful day, but the sun just didn't seem to be shining on the UMass JV baseball team yesterday, as they dropped a doubleheader to Quinsigamond Community College, 5-1 in the first game, and 7-5 in the nightcap.

QCC took a 1-0 lead against starting pitcher Mark Brown in the first, but UMass tied up the score in the bottom of the inning with consecutive singles by Frank Letizia, Pat Raimo, and Dave Nyzio.

Quinsigamond managed another run off of Brown, and then scored two runs off the rangey righthander in the sixth inning, combining four hits, one base on balls and one of four Minutemen errors to take a 4-1 lead. Reliever Mark Waslick yielded the final run in the seventh.

The Minutemen outhit their opponents 7-6 in the first game, but were snake-bit by their four miscues.

It appeared as though the bastmen would turn things around in the nightcap, as they scored two runs in the home half of the first. Chris Koperniak tripled and scored on a single by Phil Small, and a Jim Aulenback base hit plus an error on Glen Dooling's ground ball produced another run.

QCC scored a run off starting pitcher Bob Beaulac in the third, but the UMies added two more in the bottom of the inning on a couple of walks, a two-base error, a wild pitch and a single by Jeff Hoffman, who had two hits on the day.

Leading 4-1, Beaulac got into hot water in the fourth when his control began to falter and he was nicked for three runs. QCC tallied two more off Beaulac in the fifth before he was replaced by Scott Hildreth.

Hildreth yielded another run, and Tom Grimes scored the final UMass run in the seventh when he tripled on a 3-0 pitch and scored on a wild pitch.

Minutemen pitchers again limited Quinsigamond to only six hits, but were again plagued by what coach Jim Bedard called "defensive sloppiness", committing four costly errors in the nightcap and eight in the doubleheader.

The losses drop UMass' record to 1-2 on the season. They will play an unofficial game here against AIC on Friday afternoon, and then travel to Becker Junior College for a doubleheader on Saturday. Coach Bedard plans to use Greg Popovich in the AIC game, while righthander Chuck Thompson, impressive in winning the J.V. opener on Monday, will start one of the games on Saturday.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Men's lacrosse 24 Vermont 7
Women's lacrosse 8 Brown 3
Men's tennis 6 MIT 3
JV baseball 1 Quinsigamond 5 (first game)
JV baseball 5 Quinsigamond 7 (second game)

TODAY

Var. baseball at Springfield 3 p.m.
Var softball at E. Connecticut 6 p.m.
Women's lacrosse at Northeastern 3:30 p.m.
Men's tennis at MIT 3 p.m.
Women's JV lacrosse at Northeastern 3:30 p.m.

TOMORROW

Men's varsity track UMass Relays 10:00 a.m. Home
Women's golf vs. Mt. Holyoke at Hickory Ridge 1:00 p.m.
Men's JV lacrosse vs. Tufts 3:00 p.m. Home

WMUA
91.1FM
The progressive alternative in the Pioneer Valley
WMUA station meeting and elections tonight --
GRC 301 at 7:30

SUMMER STUDY IN NEW YORK CITY
Columbia University offers over 350 undergraduate, graduate and professional school courses. Write for bulletin: Summer Session, Columbia University, 102C Low Library, NY, NY 10027.

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE, INC.
all make car and truck transmissions
Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged
236 Pleasant St
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

The IRISH ROVERS

IN CONCERT
FRIDAY • APRIL 14 • 8 P.M.
SYMPHONY HALL
SPRINGFIELD
$4, 5, 6. All seats reserved. Now on sale at CIVIC CENTER Box Office, all Ticketron outlets and all Ticket agencies. Also at Symphony Hall Box Office Friday night.

Lunch time in the patio of our La Rojeña distillery.

When our workers sit down to lunch they sit down to a tradition. When they make Cuervo Gold it's the same.

Every day at just about eleven the wives from Tequila arrive at the Cuervo distillery bearing their husbands' lunches.

Lunches that have been lovingly prepared in the same proud manner since men first began working here in 1795.

It is this same pride in a job well-done that makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

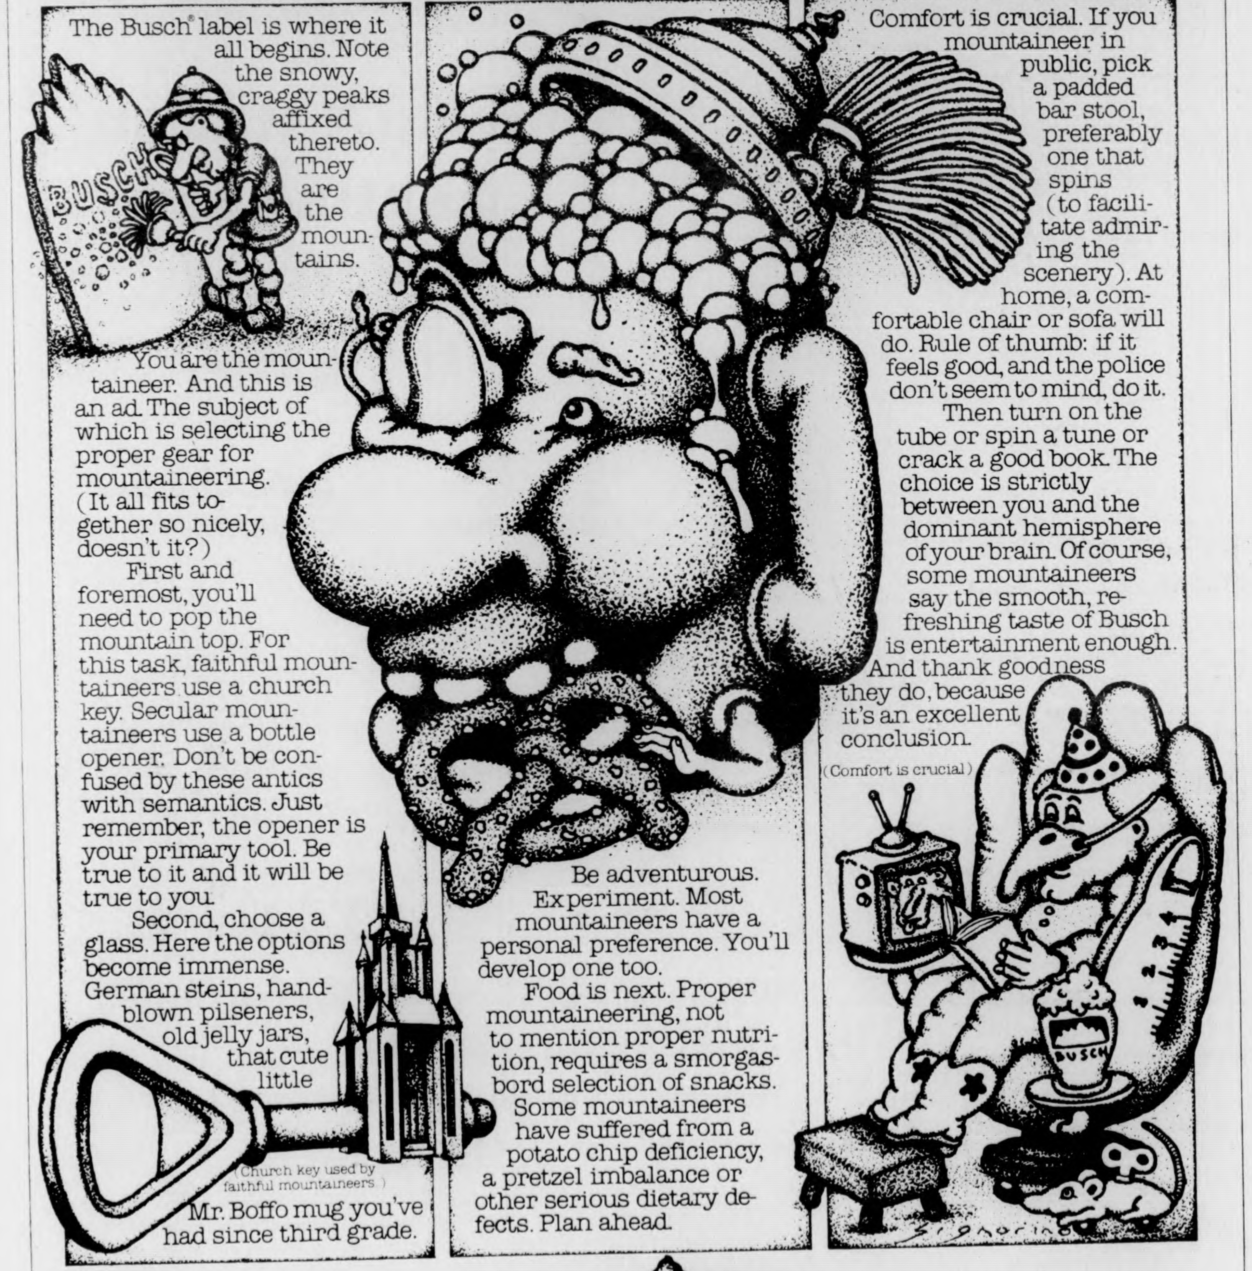
Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.
CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA 80 PROOF IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Mountaineering #2.

SELECTING THE PROPER GEAR



The Busch® label is where it all begins. Note the snowy, craggy peaks affixed thereto. They are the mountains.

You are the mountaineer. And this is an ad. The subject of which is selecting the proper gear for mountaineering. (It all fits together so nicely, doesn't it?)

First and foremost, you'll need to pop the mountain top. For this task, faithful mountaineers use a church key. Secular mountaineers use a bottle opener. Don't be confused by these antics with semantics. Just remember, the opener is your primary tool. Be true to it and it will be true to you.

Second, choose a glass. Here the options become immense. German steins, handblown pilseners, old jelly jars, that cute little Mr. Boffo mug you've had since third grade.

(Church key used by faithful mountaineers.)

Be adventurous. Experiment. Most mountaineers have a personal preference. You'll develop one too.

Food is next. Proper mountaineering, not to mention proper nutrition, requires a smorgasbord selection of snacks. Some mountaineers have suffered from a potato chip deficiency, a pretzel imbalance or other serious dietary defects. Plan ahead.

Comfort is crucial. If you mountaineer in public, pick a padded bar stool, preferably one that spins (to facilitate admiring the scenery). At home, a comfortable chair or sofa will do. Rule of thumb: if it feels good, and the police don't seem to mind, do it.

Then turn on the tube or spin a tune or crack a good book. The choice is strictly between you and the dominant hemisphere of your brain. Of course, some mountaineers say the smooth, refreshing taste of Busch is entertainment enough. And thank goodness they do, because it's an excellent conclusion.

(Comfort is crucial.)

Don't just reach for a beer. BUSCH® Head for the mountains.

Anheuser-Busch Inc. St. Louis Mo

DOONESBURY

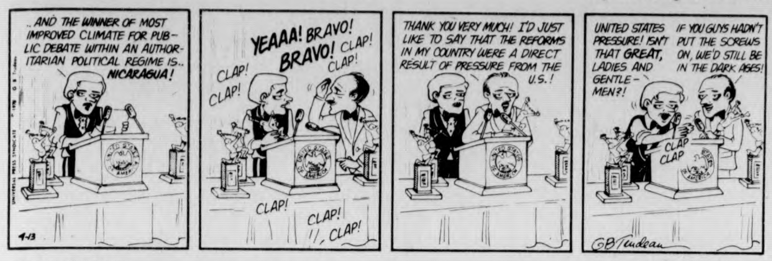
by Garry Trudeau



..AND THE WINNER OF MOST IMPROVED CLIMATE FOR PUBLIC DEBATE WITHIN AN AUTHORITARIAN POLITICAL REGIME IS.. NICARAGUA!
YEAAA! BRAVO! BRAVO! CLAP! CLAP!
CLAP! CLAP!
CLAP! CLAP! CLAP!
THANK YOU VERY MUCH! I'D JUST LIKE TO SAY THAT THE REFORMS IN MY COUNTRY WERE A DIRECT RESULT OF PRESSURE FROM THE U.S.!
UNITED STATES PRESSURE! ISN'T THAT GREAT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN?!
IF YOU GUYS HADN'T PUT THE SCREWS ON, WE'D STILL BE IN THE DARK AGES!
CLAP CLAP
4-13
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS

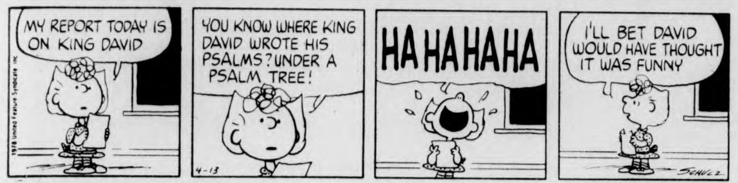
by Charles Schulz



MY REPORT TODAY IS ON KING DAVID
YOU KNOW WHERE KING DAVID WROTE HIS PSALMS? UNDER A PSALM TREE!
HA HA HA HA
I'LL BET DAVID WOULD HAVE THOUGHT IT WAS FUNNY
4-13
SCHULZ

B.C.

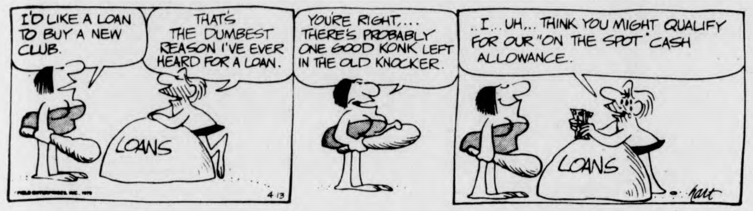
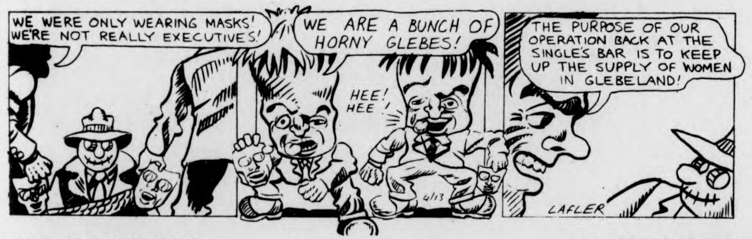
by Johnny Hart



I'D LIKE A LOAN TO BUY A NEW CLUB.
THAT'S THE DUMBEST REASON I'VE EVER HEARD FOR A LOAN.
LOANS
YOU'RE RIGHT,... THERE'S PROBABLY ONE GOOD KONK LEFT IN THE OLD KNOCKER.
..I... UH,... THINK YOU MIGHT QUALIFY FOR OUR "ON THE SPOT" CASH ALLOWANCE.
LOANS
4-13
hart

by Steve Lafler



WE WERE ONLY WEARING MASKS! WE'RE NOT REALLY EXECUTIVES!
WE ARE A BUNCH OF HORNY GLEBES!
HEE! HEE!
THE PURPOSE OF OUR OPERATION BACK AT THE SINGLE'S BAR IS TO KEEP UP THE SUPPLY OF WOMEN IN GLEBELAND!
4/13
LAFLER

THE WANDERER

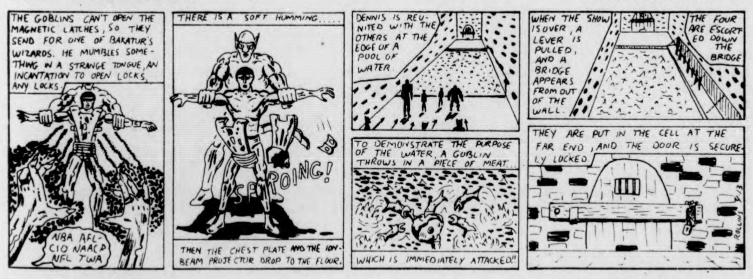
by Mark Rollins



THE GOBLINS CAN'T OPEN THE MAGNETIC LATCHES, SO THEY SEND FOR ONE OF BAKATUR'S WIZARDS. HE MUMBLES SOMETHING IN A STRANGE TONGUE, AN INCANTATION TO OPEN LOCKS, ANY LOCKS.
NBA AFL-CIO NAACP NFL TWA
THERE IS A SOFT HUMMING.....
SPROING!
THEN THE CHEST PLATE AND THE ION-BEAM PROJECTOR DROP TO THE FLOOR.
DENNIS IS REUNITED WITH THE OTHERS AT THE EDGE OF A POOL OF WATER.
TO DEMONSTRATE THE PURPOSE OF THE WATER, A GOBLIN THROWS IN A PIECE OF MEAT...
WHICH IS IMMEDIATELY ATTACKED!!
WHEN THE SHOW IS OVER, A LEVER IS PULLED, AND A BRIDGE APPEARS FROM OUT OF THE WALL.
THE FOUR ARE ESCORTED DOWN THE BRIDGE
THEY ARE PUT IN THE CELL AT THE FAR END, AND THE DOOR IS SECURELY LOCKED.
ROLLINS 4/13

WALLY DORF

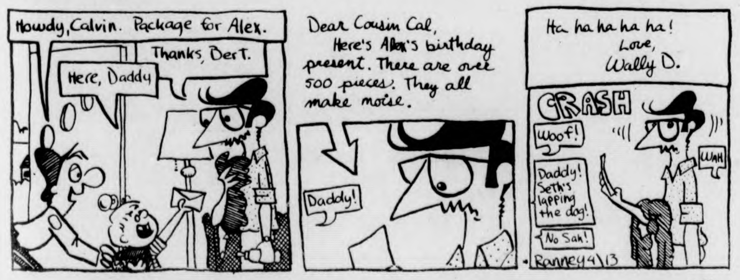
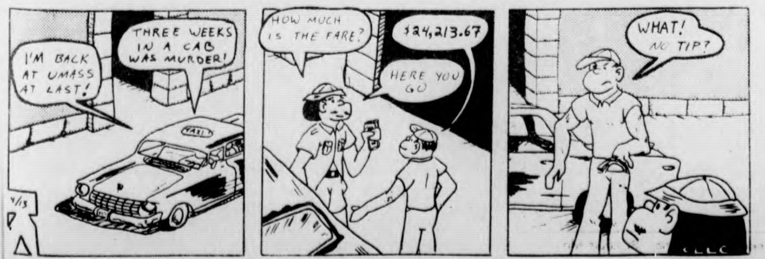
by Rob Ranney



Howdy, Calvin. Package for Alex.
Thanks, Bert.
Here, Daddy
Dear Cousin Cal, Here's Alex's birthday present. There are over 500 pieces. They all make noise.
Daddy!
Ha ha ha ha ha! Love, Wally D.
CRASH
Woof!
WAH
Daddy! Seth's lapping the dog!
No Sah!
Ranney 4/13

by K



I'M BACK AT UMASS AT LAST!
THREE WEEKS IN A CAB WAS MURDER!
TAXI
4/13
HOW MUCH IS THE FARE?
$24,213.67
HERE YOU GO
WHAT! NO TIP?

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, APRIL 13

Born today, you are a casual, happy-go-lucky person; you take life as you find it. Only relationships are taken seriously; all else you accept with a shrug. Friends and loved ones are extremely important; their happiness and sadness are also yours. You try, therefore, to see that they are satisfied.

You should come through life's rough times without permanent scars, for you do not dwell on the past. Once hardships are over, you forget them quickly. You retain only the aspects of an experience from which you can learn, with the result that you never make the same mistakes twice.

When you are interested in a project, you work with tremendous energy. Rest comes little and seldom; productivity and profits soar. You always have plans for your future, and you can always state your ambitions and expectations and be reasonably sure they are accurate.

Also born on this date: Samuel Beckett, Irish playwright; Howard Keel, actor, singer.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — You may have a chance for fame today, at least locally. Listen to children's advice.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Though you may think fate against you, in fact you are forcing your own failure. Retreat.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Sacrifice for younger family members impresses your elders. Be inventive.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Be wise in your selection of companions. Refuse to entertain an atmosphere of anger.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Refuse to take seriously another's jealousy. You can preserve a friendship with humor.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — An offer of true friendship surprises you. Children may have wisdom for you later.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — A productive early hour sets your mood for the day. Later hours should go well.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — The importance of sharing with one less fortunate than you is emphasized at evening.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Intuitive decisions may prove unsatisfactory. Pay attention to another's advice.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Find another way to popularity beside being the life of the party.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Persevere in your present involvement. This is a good time to get ahead in your career.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Strong family ties may hinder your making a clean break with those who work against you.

Copyright 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

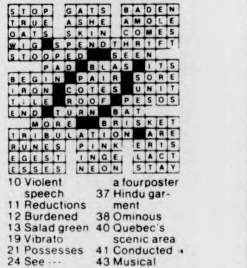
ACROSS

1 Finch
6 Hibernia
10 Face powder mineral
14 Gas
15 Shoestring
16 Building piece
17 Nixon's interviewer
18 Unrestricted commerce: 2 words
20 Drive in by blows
21 Hasten
22 Ranks
23 Asian kingdom
25 Unmarried girls
27 "------ Charley?"
30 Adherent of Islam
31 Governed
32 Raise picayune objections
33 E. in Athens
36 Self-esteems
37 Loudness units
38 Haughty one
39 Not: French
40 Olympic -----
41 Volume unit: Var.
42 Fitted out
44 Became taut
45 "No more!": 2 words
47 Muslim judge
48 --- -- for a loan
49 Nfld. area
50 French plane
54 Showed clearly
57 Theatrical
58 Tennis's ---- La Coste
59 The tops: (colloq.)
60 Miss Hayes
61 Units in physics
62 Developer's map
63 Wear away

DOWN

1 Not firm
2 ---- Taft Benson
3 House part
4 Motivates
5 Tennis gear
6 Mischievous
7 Infrequent
8 --- cube
9 Born
10 Violent speech
11 Reductions
12 Burdened
13 Salad green
19 Vibrato
21 Possesses
24 See --- Become furious
25 Relocates
26 Sale condition: 2 words
27 Small bird
28 Victor ----, Fr. Author
29 Stretching out
30 Having neck hair
32 Sky traveler
34 Ripped
35 Occupying a fourposter
37 Hindu garment
38 Ominous
40 Quebec's scenic area
41 Conducted
43 Musical compositions
44 Label
45 In that place
46 Beekeeper
47 Future officer
49 USSR river
51 Wooden pole: Sp.
52 Full of years
53 Force unit
55 Brief sleep
56 State: Abbr.
57 Female person

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved:



STOP GATS BADEN
TRUE ASHE AMOLE
OATS SKIN COMES
WIG SPENDTHRIFT
STOOPED SEEN
PAD BLAS ITS BEGIN PAIR SORE
IRON COTES UNIT
TILE ROOF PESOS END TURN BAT
MORE BRISKET
TRIBULATION ARE RUNES PINK ERIS
EGEST INGE LACT
ESSES NEON STAY

Basemen meet Springfield

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

The UMass baseball team, currently riding a modest three game win streak, will pack their bags for Springfield to take on Springfield College, today at 3 p.m.

Following their weekend sweep of Northeastern and Tuesday's win over A.I.C., the Minutemen are climbing back to respectability with a 7-11 record (5-3 since their shaky Florida voyage).

Doug Welenc, who was so impressive in his recent 1-hitter against Northeastern, will again take to the mound for UMass. His current 3-1 and 1.74 ERA are the tops on the staff and among the best in New England.

Welenc will be facing a Springfield squad which Coach Dick Bergquist characterized as "always a very good team." Despite their Division II status they play" probably one of the toughest schedules in New England," Bergquist added.

Springfield, with a record of 9-7, was recently ranked 4th in the N.E. coaches poll for division II schools, behind New Haven, Sacred Heart and Assuption.

Springfield is coached by Archie Allen, considered by many as the "Dean of Coaches" in New England. Allen is one of the most respected men in his profession and has established a reputation nationwide. After 35 years of coaching Allen plans on retiring following this season.

According to Bergquist, Jay Jordan and Tom Counsil will be the key Springfield players to keep an eye open for.

Counsil is a montrous 6'5" catcher with "tremendous power". He has already hit 3 home runs, and on a few occasions has supposedly hit the ball "out of sight."

Jay Jordan, their most consistent hitter, has been wielding an average of over .400 all season.

For UMass this will mark their 19th game of the season and incredibly they have yet to play a home contest. They have journeyed to Florida, Boston, Dartmouth and Springfield but have not played in their own back yard (Earl Lorden Field). You better believe it when Coach Bergquist claims "I'm really looking forward to playing at home again."

Kulakoff ranks in NCAA

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

Senior UMass gymnast Dave Kulakoff placed eleventh on the pommel horse event in the NCAA Division One championships. He was the only Minuteman to compete.

Kulakoff ranked twentieth going into the competition, scored a 9.40 in his compulsory exercise and a 9.45 in his optional routine. The senior gymnast missed making the eight finalists, whom competeted on the last day of the competition, by only .15.

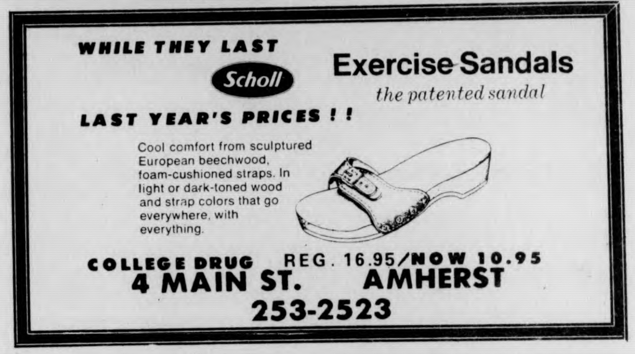
An Kulakoff enthusiastic said, "I'm just glad that I hit both routines and scored as well as I did," Placing eleventh in Nationals in itself is an honor, but the true honor to any gymnast is just making the championships.

In other competition, Southern Connecticut finished third in the team competition, but had the highest optional score of the meet. Penn State finished sixth, after being rated third before nationals began.

Kulokoff topped off his gymnastic career in NCAA competition last weekend, but he hopes to continue his AAU status while attending law school next fall. Kulakoff placed high in National Pommel Horse competition than any UMass gymnast.

The only All-Americans for UMass in national competition were Olympian Gene Whelan and still rings specialist Jay Aronstein.

AMHERST CYCLE SHOP
Get your bike ready for spring: general check $8 (on 10-speed).
See our new Fuji bikes
Rampar 1027- a quality 10-speed for $117.95
253 Triangle St. 549-3729



WHILE THEY LAST
Scholl
Exercise Sandals
the patented sandal
LAST YEAR'S PRICES ! !
Cool comfort from sculptured European beechwood, foam-cushioned straps. In light or dark-toned wood and strap colors that go everywhere, with everything.
COLLEGE DRUG REG. 16.95/NOW 10.95
4 MAIN ST. AMHERST
253-2523

DON'T THROW THEM AWAY
RENEW THAT EXPENSIVE SHOE!
POWER-SOLER
Authorized Dealer
SPECIALIZING IN sport shoe Resoling
TENNIS
JOGGING TRACK
BASKETBALL
ALL PURPOSE
BOWLING
FAST 3-5 DAY SERVICE
●BRING 'EM IN....
TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR COMPLETE RENOVATION GUARANTEE
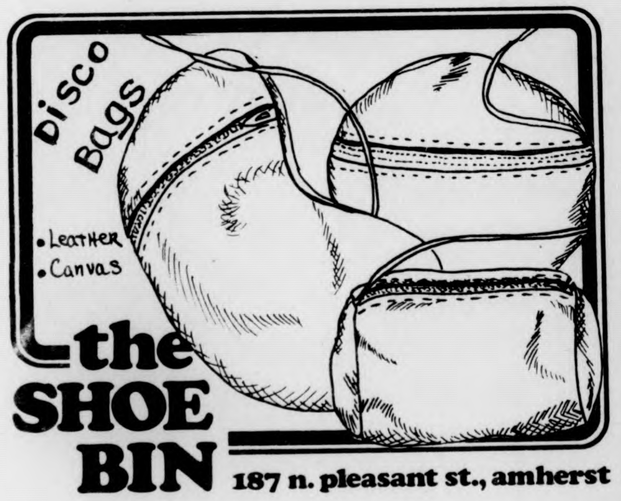
Your shoes will be returned EXACTLY the same size and shape. No need for a break in period. All work 100% guaranteed to YOUR satisfaction. MAILING ADDRESS
Power-Soler System of Amherst
363½ Main St. Amherst, Mass. 01002 Tel. 413-253-5229
AFTER!
BEFORE!!!!
POWER-SOLER



Disco Bags
•Leather •Canvas
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

"Hideout pizzas are Cock-A-Doodle-Doo Good"
103 N. Pleasant St. 256-0441

LIQUOR BEER
C&C PACKAGE STORE
61 Main St.
Behind the Police Station
SPECIALS WEEKLY
BEST WINE SELECTION IN TOWN
LARGE ASSORTMENT OF KEGS
SUDDEN SERVICE DELIVERY 253-3091
WINE SNACKS

Netmen top Middlebury

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

Freshman Sergio Strepman recovered from a second set lapse yesterday to defeat Mark Jackson 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 as the UMass tennis team won its season opening match at home against Middlebury 6-3.

Strepman had little trouble taking the first set from the hard-hitting Jackson, but his own play gave him difficulties in the second set.

"I felt I was letting up in the second," Strepman said, "but then I came back to my own game in the third".

Strepman's third set strategy was simple enough, Strepman blocked Jackson's blazing ground strokes, keeping the ball deep, and waited for Jackson to make mistakes.

Strepman's top spin ground strokes gave him control against the gusty wind.

"In a tight situation I'd rather have him than most any one else," said UMass coach Steve Williams.

In the first singles match, doubtful starter Alan Green sniffed his way to a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Middlebury's Steve Sass in less than 45 minutes. Green showed little effect from his week long cold.

UMass' Ricky Sharton's serve and volley game gave him a 6-2, 6-2 win over Bruce MacCrellish in the second singles.

Minuteman freshman Mark Huetteman was a first set tie breaker 5-2 and then blanked Court Chilton in the second set to win the third singles 7-6, 6-0.

In fourth singles senior captain Steve Heyl outlasted Middlebury's Judd Anderson 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. David Nowak lost his fifth singles match to David Buzby 2-6, 6-3, 1-6.

Having won the match in singles, Williams decided to give his subs doubles experience. The subs paid their dues, however.

Dan Gallagher and Jack Begley lost to Buzby and Jackson 6-3, 6-4 in the third doubles. John Klein and Adam Altman dropped the second match in a third set 5-3 tie breaker to Chilton and Anderson 3-6, 7-5, 6-7.

Only Sharton and Keith Hovland were able to take the first doubles from Sass and MacCrellish 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

UM softball to face EConn

By MISSY GALLAGHER
Collegian Staff

The UMass softball team journeys to Eastern Connecticut today for a double header at 6 p.m.

The Minutewomen's foes are 1-3 with loses to Westfield State College, the University of Rhode Island and the University of Bridgeport.

This is first season for the Young Eastern Conn. squad against high caliber teams like UMass. To offset this, Eastern acquired a pitching coach to tutor its new hurling corp.

UMass coach Dianne Thompson plans to test her squad's depth. Pitcher Gail Carter will face the second year team in the opener. Carter has one save to her credit.

On the mound for the second game will be either Jennifer Parker, the lone left-hander on the staff, or senior Trish O'Connor. Kathy Horrigan may also see action on the hill.

Catcher Cheryl Meliones is a questionable starter. On doctor's orders, Meliones is temporarily resting her throwing arm in a sling. The senior co-captain is combatting nerve damage in her right elbow, and was told not to risk further damage until a re-examination. Before every contest Melonies has numbed the sore spot with ice. Replacing Meliones will be Beth Collins and Sue DiRocco.

Co-captain DiRocco said the Minutewomen are making too many mental errors. The early mistakes against Keene Tuesday gave UMass an uphill struggle.

Characteristically, the UMies have come back in full force. The maroon and white is averaging eight plus runs per game.

Eastern Connecticut marks the fifth and sixth straight away game for the UMass eleven.

Bosox scalp Indians, 6-3

CLEVELAND [UPI] — Jim Rice and Fred Lynn slugged solo homers and Jerry Remy singled home to two other runs yesterday to spark the Boston Red Sox to a 6-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Boston starter Mike Torrez, picked up as a free agent from the New York Yankees last winter for $2.4 million, needed some great defensive plays by third baseman Butch Hobson and shortstop Rick Burleson to pick up his first victory for the Red Sox. The 31-year-old right-hander spaced 13 hits over 8 1-3 innings.

Rice belted his second homer of the season off Cleveland starter and loser Wayne Garland, 1-1, in the first inning and Lynn hit his first homer ever in Cleveland by sending Garland's first pitch of the second inning over the rightfield fence.

George Scott's one-out single triggered a three-run sixth for Boston. Dwight Evans followed with a single and Hobson walked to fill the bases. Remy's third single of the game Scott and Evans with Hobson coming home on a single by Burleson.

Andre Thornton hit his third homer of the season leading off the eighth for the Indians. Rick Manning doubled and scored on Paul Dade's single for the first Cleveland run in the seventh.

Hobson's diving grab of Willie Horton's liner over third base with two out in the first inning prevfted two runs, while Burleson went deep behind second throw out Dade with two out and runners on second and hird in the second inning.

Mylar Star Kites
from $1.95 to $14.95 including 20' kites
we have kites, string, rollers and even books on kites
Go fly a kite this weekend
Open Sat. 11 a.m.-4 p.m.
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS
CLOTHING
TENTS
ANNUAL SPRING SALE
 Wednesday, April 12 to Saturday, April 15.
SLEEPING BAGS
PACKS
Save 10-50%
BOATING EQUIPMENT, RUNNING SHOES, KITS, HIKING BOOTS, AND MUCH, MUCH MORE.
(Winter Rental Gear 30-70% Off List)
Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504
VISA
master charge

HEINEKEN $3.49 six
MILLER $6.89 case
O'KEEFE BEER $2.49 six
OLD VIENNA ALE $2.49 six
SUPER GIGANTIC SELECTION OF CHILLED WINES
Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
388 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384 256-8433

Gorillas wallop Catamounts, 24-7

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

What can one say about a lacrosse game which ends UMass-24 Vermont-7?

"Just tell 'em" said senior Len Caffrey, "that (Pete) McCarty played a fine game, along side his linemates John Turner and (superstar) Len Caffrey."

Seriously, Garber's Gorillas put the sticks to the Catamounts in UMass' home opener with fifteen different players figuring in the offensive show put on by the lacrossers.

FIRST QUARTER

vermont didn't look bad considering this is their second varsity game, the first being against New England College last week. Early in the quarter UMass held only a 3-2 lead. Two goals by Brooks Sweet (both unassisted) and a score by Norm Smith (assist going to Dave Martin) while both of Vermont's came from the stick of Chris Slack with Courtney Jenkins and Andy Ashford knotting the assists accounting for the 3-2 score. But it was only a matter of time before UMass pulled way for an insurmountable lead, which Vermont never could put a dent in.

Mike Lewis flipped in his first goal of the day on a feed from Sweet to start the onslaught. Norm Smith tossed a pass to Sweet who made good on the play, pushing the Gorillas up 5-2. Sixteen seconds later Sweet dumped the ball past the surprised and upset UVM goalie Gary Vreeland.

Fran Yung finished off the period by netting his first goal of the season, firing a shot from twenty-five feet into the top webbing.

SECOND QUARTER

The eventual gamewinner cam thirteen seconds into the second period. It came off the stick of a guy who McCarty feels will definately be "an All-American by the time he's a junior," Ed Murray. With UMass grabbing the faceoff, Murray received some open field running space. Vermont seemingly in a collapsing defense, allowed Murray to get within close range unattended. He would up, zinging the ball into the top corner.

The crowd got psyched as both teams put on a hitting display in scrambling for the loose ball. Midway through the period, UVM goalie Vreeland got the wind knocked out of him and was down for a couple minutes. He rose (to the applause of the sportsman-like fans) and decided to remain in the game.

UMass was impressive in its passing game, noteably so on a couple occasions: Goalie 'Duck' Goldstaein fired a clearing pass, hitting Skip Vosburgh at midfield. Skip hurled it over to Lewis who broke in alone on Vreeland, who made a kick save on the low drive. Billy Anderson picked up he ball in a scramble and pocketed UMass' ninth (his first collegiate) goal.

Vosburgh then scored on a freak play. Anderson picked a pass off of UVM's Rich Swartz's helmet, moved it up to Vosburgh who nonchalently upped the score to 10-2.

Following Vermont's third goal (John Pitts from Jenkins) Chris Corin decided to do his entertainment bit, by tossing an over-the-back shot into the UVM strings to the delight of the UMies on the 'Hill'.

Brooksie and Lewis pulled off a 'watch-up-play-catch' play next: while they seemingly hypnotized the Catamount defense by flipping the ball back and forth between them; Smith parked in front of the UVM crease, where, after his teammates were through playing catch, they flung it over to him for and easy goal.

UMass wasn't quite done yet: Goldstein tossed an underhanded clearing pass to Lewis, who caught it in full stride. He passed off to Mike Gongas, who did a little 'Ali' shuffle at the UVM crease, and it was in (he danced pretty well after the goal too!!). UMass 13-3 at the half.

Scarlet Knight-bound:....It was good to see the Gorillas put some points on the board, and hopefully this trend will continue up in Piscataway, N.J. where the Minutemen are headed tomorrow for a Saturday contest...Monday (7:30 p.m.) they'll be under the lights at BC...stats. dept. — Sweet had 5 goals and 3 assist, Smith 2-1, Lewis 1-1, Murray 2 goals, Anderson 2-1, Vosburgh 2-2, Gongas 2 goals, Bruce Nagle 2-1, Dave Martin 3 assists.

CLEVELAND: Sox third baseman Butch Hobson dives in attempt to rob Willie Horton of a basehit. Sox downed in Indians 6-3 with Mike Torrez credited with the win. See story page 27. (UPI photo)

Collegian Sports

Stickwomen stick it to BU

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

Miraculous plays have been known to make or break a game, but such was not the case yesterday afternoon at NOPE, as the UMass women's lacrosse team united to soundly defeat a speechless Brown University team, 8-3.

Hard work, hustle, and an all-out team effort were the elements of success as the stickers battled top-ranked Brown.

"It was a good win," said Coach Frank Garahan, complimenting the victorious play of both offense and defense.

Garahan's prediction that Brown controlled offense and good stick handling and passing would pose the biggest threat proved to be true, as Brown's offense took control and pressed hard for the first 5-6 minutes of the game.

The UMass defense was ready and waiting, however, as they held back Brown.

Ten minutes into the game, the UMass offense took the lead with three consecutive goals by Julie Hall, Jean Hackett, and Cari Nickerson. They did not lose it for the remainder of the game.

"I was worried about Brown's controlled offense," Garahan said later. "It takes us a little while to get started. When the defense held, I was confident."

Brown was not as confident in UMass' holding power. Four minutes after the UMass gain, Brown took advantage of a draw problem between the two centers (Brown obtaining possession in what turned out to be an illegal call), and scored two consecutive goals of their own with the help of team members Laurie Raymond and Marjorie Smith.

The score stood at 3-2, UMass, and the pressure was on both teams.

Two UMass goals by Debbie Hartley and Jean Hackett widened the gap once again, however, and the first half ended, UMass 5, Brown 2.

Four minutes into the second half, Brown again surged forward for what was to be their goal of the game when Terry Tamasi scored on a pass from Mercedes Bosch.

For the remainder of the game UMass played good, aggressive offense and defense, scoring three more goals to win the game, 8-3.

With eleven minutes left to the half, Judy Kennedy scored from directly in front of the net. Cari Nickerson later took the ball out front from behind the Brown net, and scored with a beautiful shot.

Sue Kibling rounded things off with 1½ minutes to go, as she took a Hackett pass out front from behind the net, and scored the eighth and final goal.

Coach Garahan later also cited UMass goalie Robin Jennings for a good game. Jennings made eight saves in the game.

Overall, Garahan said he felt the entire team did a good job.

Brown Coach, Dale Philippi, later said that she was unhappy with the interpretation of the rules of the game. "The techniques used by the UMass team are different," she said.

Philippi said that she felt UMass was using men's techniques, that the referees were not controlling such use, and that Brown consequently lost the game. "Fending off, barging, and blockading are men's techniques," she said.

Coach Garahan said that it was not the first or last time he has used such techniques. "In terms of their being legal or illegal," he said, "the officials are not complaining. The people complaining are the other team ... "

"But today's game was a good indication of what the team can do if it continues to improve," he concluded.

The stickers this afternoon will be playing a 3:30 game at Northeastern University.

"Northeastern has never been an easy game for us," said Garahan. "The worst thing to happen would be overconfidence.

Steve Buckley

Chuting the works

As I took my daily stroll through the Campus Center yesterday afternoon, everything seemed to be in order. All the tables seemed to be there. The Red Cross blood drive. The Revolutionary Student Brigade's "I wish it was 1968 again" table. The brother-sisters of Sigma Alpha Mu and their tableful of stuffed animals (actually, some of the brothers look more like stuffed animals).

And then there was the table for the UMass Sport Parachuting Club. Apparently, the warm weather brings out the sky-divers in full bloom, and yesterday the table was manned with different club members hoping to recruit new members for the spring jumping season.

They show this terribly-in-need-of-repair (or is it the projector?) film of people jumping out of airplanes while whoever is at the table answers the inquiries of passersby.

"Mainly, the questions we get are about the first jump course that we offer," says Brian Roach, a club member, "But we also get a lot of questions about how dangerous it is."

Well, is it?

"No," according to Roach. "It's hard to explain, but parachuting is a very safety-conscious sport. Nothing is taken for granted."

Another jumper, Burnadette Corbet, agrees. Corbet feels that in order to take a first jump course a person must build up a certain amount of self-confidence.

"That's when they're ready to jump," says she.

As a public service, permit me to go over a few things concerning parachuting. If you're still interested in a course, then be down by the campus pond around two-o'clock this afternoon when a number of experienced jumpers will fall out of the sky near the unsuspecting little puddle.

My information is that the first jump course is offered to students at a cost of $55. The price includes "everything", which, as I understand, includes lessons, equipment, the initial jump, and a year's membership in the club. Membership in the club entitles one to discounts not offered to non-members.

First jumps are not free-fall, and the student jumper exits the plane by means of a "static line" from a height of 2,800 feet. The static line opens the canopy. The student is taught the proper technique involved with exiting the plane, steering the parachute (yes, one can steer a parachute), emergency procedures and landing.

There is, of course, an emergency chute and the student is given considerable knowledge of when and if it should be used.

The first jump course contains a two-hour in-class training session which is held on Thursday nights in the Campus Center.

This is followed by ensuing ground training amounting to another two hours, and then The Jump...

By the way, one may pay for his first jump course by means of a check bounces, then so might you...

———

Baseball Department: Worried about the slow start of the Red Sox? Fear not. As of yesterday, the Bosox had the same record as the Yankees, which amounts to a first place tie. Surely you don't believe that the Milwaukee Brewers will be anywhere near the top spot two months from now... Speaking of the Brewers, their local minor league affiliate, the Holyoke Millers, open their season on Sunday at 2:00. The game will be at Holyoke's Mackenzie Field. The team roster has no ex-major leaguers on it at this moment, but former Red Sox farmhand Mark Bomback is on the pitching staff... The Minutemen will be at Springfield College today, and will host the Wildcats of New Hampshire in a doubleheader at Lorden Field on Saturday. First game starts at 1:00...

See you at the next JV lacrosse game, John Halpern.

---

Learning Tomorrows program inside

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 120 FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Judiciary vetoes quorum change

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

The student judiciary last night voted against a proposal which would have speeded up the student government electoral convention process by changing quorum regulations.

The convention now can only convene when two-thirds, or five of the eight area factions are present. The electoral convention has recessed three times in the past two weeks when a quorum could not be met.

"The convention is now stuck and there's no way they can get going until five delegations can get their act together," said Jon Hite, president of the convention, after last night's decision.

In its statement the student judiciary said the question of quorums was a pertinent issue and recommended the plantiff use "other means for affecting greater workability in the convention."

The court said it did not see the five-faction quorum rule, which came from the report of the Committee on Rules, as unconstitutional because it did not conflict with the constitution.

The complaint said the five-faction quorum rule violated "the spirit and intent of the constitution." The complaint was filed by Arty Thomas, co-president of Central Area Government.

Jon Hensleigh, advocate for the plaintiff, showed that the constitutional section on electoral conventions, written in 1975, only specified that a two-thirds quorum of each faction of the convention is necessary for their votes to be valid. Hensleigh said this constitutional section meant even one faction could elect a president if it had two-thirds of its faction present.

Hensleigh urged the courts to dismiss the five faction quorum rule. "If this isn't struck down, well the consequences have already been seen! apathy," he said.

Attorney General Jeff Lutsky, the defendant, argued that since the five faction convention rule did not directly conflict with the constitution it was not unconstitutional.

Lutsky said it was not up to the court to decide if the rule was "workable, wise or practical, only constitutional."

"The constitution is general policy, not details," said Lutsky. "The report of the rules committee are details."

The court ruled in Lutsky's favor and interpreted the constitution as meaning a two-thirds quorum of all eight factions must be present if their votes were to be valid.

Legality questioned

Senators react to Collegian vote

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Some student government officials last night said Wednesday night's Undergraduate Student Senate motion to freeze the funds of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian and to repossess the paper's equipment was in violation of the student constitution.

Other student politicians defended the senate action and said the motion did not break student law.

The motion, which passed the senate 58-13, was made after the Collegian Board of Editors voted down two proposals for separate women's pages in the paper.

Student government Co-president Jon A. Hite said the motion was "Clearly illegal, clearly in violation of freedom of the press." Hite said he supported women's pages in the Collegian "but that it is a matter between the Collegian and the Board of Editors and the women. It is not a senate matter."

Hite cited a passage from the student constitution. Article IV of the Rights of Students section states: "The students' right to speak and to publish shall not be abridged...."

Both Hite and Co-president Marion L. Batiste also cited the student government budgets act which requires that motions such as the one passed Wednesday "have to sit on the agenda for one week," before a vote is taken on the motion said Batiste. The Senate voted on the motion the same night it was proposed. Batiste said she too favored women's pages.

Former Senate Speaker Pat Whelan supported the action. "The senate can pretty much do what it deems necessary to the funds it allocates."

Whelan challenged the Rights of Students passage cited by Hite. "Many women on campus feel that it was their right that was being abridged," he said. Whelan called the

TURN TO PAGE 3

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

The Blue Wall has sounded last call on its Sunday operations.

Starting this weekend and continuing through the remaining Sundays of this semester, the Blue Wall will keep the doors shut all day Sunday. Peter J. Connolly, the manager of the bar, says it marks the first time in his five-year term running the bar that it will be closed one designated day of each week.

And the reason, he said, is simple:

Money, or the lack of it being spent on those Sunday nights.

"The business on Sunday nights," Connolly said, "has been really slow. We've lost money on a couple of those nights, and all we have to do to break even is $200."

"This place has been deserted," he said.

Prior to the decision to close the bar Sundays, the Blue Wall had been pouring drinks from 6 p.m. until 1 a.m., and according to Kelly there had hardly been hoards of thirsty customers bellying up to the bar.

"A large part of the problem," he said, "is that we're closed the first eight hours of the day, and then when we open it still takes them three hours to figure out we're open. And then, once you get them in here they don't drink that much."

Connolly said the decision to close; made by Beverage Manager Paul Barbatos, only includes this semester. Next fall the bar will again open Sundays, and Connolly said other schedule changes may be in the works.

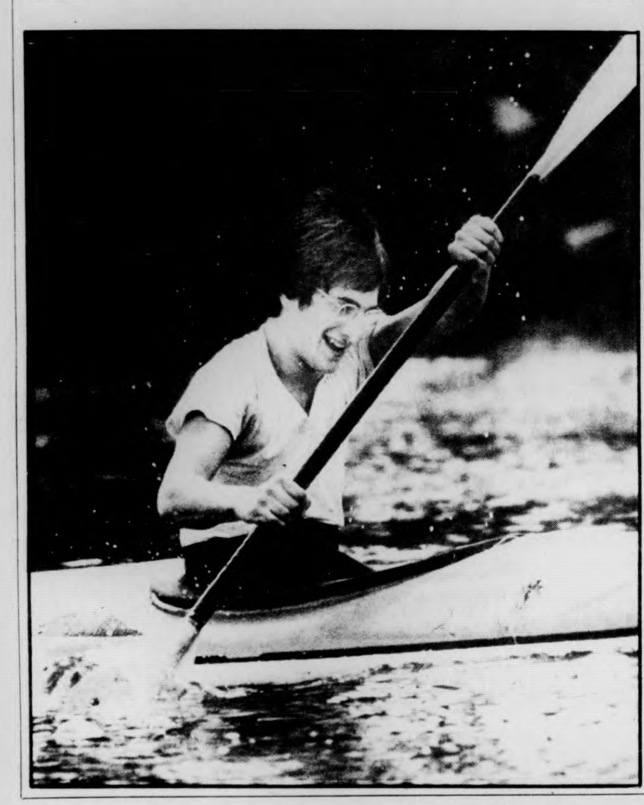
"We're also thinking about opening all day Saturday and Sunday, and not just at nights, he said, "this would let us get the most out of televised sports and any other event that might bring people into the area."

"Hey, we're a business, so you know we don't want to close those nights," Connolly said.

"I guess it goes to prove more people are studying more."

Spring's arrival greets Earth Day celebrants

Ice cream, music and sunshine highlight festivities



The celebration of Earth Day was grandly greeted yesterday by warm, sunny weather as hundreds of students clad in spring attire flocked to the area surrounding the Campus Pond.

Many exhibits and demonstrations were set up by several campus groups at booths on the library lawn. Included in the activities were musical entertainment by area folk and jazz groups, canoeing and kayaking instruction and a spectacular parachuting demonstration.

The day's events were sponsored by the Coalition for Environmental Equality.

Above, two children appear to be alternately enjoying the music and the sunshine. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Below, a member of the outing club gleefully kayaks across the pond. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

. . . newslines . . .

School is issue of parent's suit

NORTHAMPTON [AP] — An Amherst couple go into District Court today with hopes of stopping the Amherst School Department from forcing their son back to public school.

Peter and Susan Perchemlides were unable to get an injunction against the school department Wednesday in Hampshire Superior Court. They have been educating their 8-year-old son at home since last September.

The Perchemlides say state law allows parents to educate their children at home, and insist they are capable of doing so.

Their legal brief charges that during one year in an Amherst public school their son Richard "regressed in some cognitive skills, lost self-confidence and self-assurance, became discouraged over academic achievement and was unable to project a goal for himself with regard to acquired skills."

Concourse site of voter drive

The Amherst Board of Registrars will conduct voter registration on the Campus Center Concourse April 25, 26 and 27 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The registration drive was requested by Democrat Jonathan Z. Souweine, a candidate for district attorney for Hampshire and Franklin counties. Souweine, former assistant state attorney general, attended UMass in the mid-60s and said he is relying heavily on student turnout at the primaries this fall.

— BERNIE DAVIDOW

Bakke march occurs tomorrow

A march to overturn the Bakke decision will take place tomorrow in Washington, D.C. The march is organized by the National Committee to Overturn the Bakke Decision and the Anti-Bakke Decision Coalition.

The Revolutionary Student Brigade endorses the march and is sponsoring a Soweto Brigade contingent within the march.

Saturday the brigade is also sponsoring a conference of Youth United to Fight Imperialism and National Oppression. The conference will take up the Bakke decision in-depth as well as the situation in South Africa. Speakers at the conference will include members of the different liberation forces in South Africa.

Tickets will be $15 round trip. Contact Chuck Pooler, member of the Revolutionary Student Brigade, in room 413A of the Student Union for more information.

— LAURA KENNEY

Frosh applications increase this year

Freshman applications are up 12 percent this year compared to the same period last year, according to Director of Freshman Admissions Deirdre Kedesdy.

Kedesdy said the University would make a greater effort to inform prospective students about the academic opportunities available through letters and weekend information sessions with faculty and representatives from admissions and financial aid.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| Copy editor | Mary Matson |
| Rewrite | Sean Horgan |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dave Rodgers |
| Photo staff | John Geller |
| Sports layout | Steve Zack |
| Editorial layout | Fifi Ball |
| Ad layout | Liz Lebow |

Goodbye and good luck to the crew at Ware — all good things must come to an end.

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

UMass brass resign; increase vacancies

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

Two deans and an associate provost have resigned their University positions, adding to the increasing number of vacancies at both UMass campuses.

The resignations of Ross S. Whaley, dean of food and natural resources, Dean Alfange, dean of social and behavioral sciences and Associate Provost Vere C. Chappell will take effect at different times following this semester.

Only Whaley, who is taking a job with the U.S. Forest Service, will be leaving the campus. Acting Provost Jeremiah M. Allen said he expects Alfange and Chappell to remain on the UMass faculty.

Allen said a nationwide search will be started to fill the two dean positions.

The search for an associate provost has been going on for several months, according to Allen. Allen said he is searching for a senior faculty member who will handle affirmative action questions as well as other matters.

Chappell's resignation leaves Allen with no associate provosts, although there are three associate provost jobs on the books. Former Associate Provost David Bischoff resigned in January when former Provost Paul L. Puryear was fired. The third slot has remained empty.

Chappell is on sabbatical in Paris and was unavailable to be reached for comment.

Alfange, who is presently on leave at Yale University, has been dean of natural sciences for close to three years, according to Allen. He has also served as acting provost and a member of the political science faculty.

Currently, Alfange's slot is filled by Acting Dean T.O. Wilkinson. He was also unable to be reached for comment.

Whaley said his resignation will take effect toward the end of the summer. He has been at UMass for five years, serving as dean of food and natural resources for the past two years.

Prior to coming to UMass Whaley had been the associate dean of the College of Forestry and Natural Resources at Colorado State University.

He said he took the post with the Forest Service because it represented "a unique opportunity that doesn't come along that often."

Hispanics protest; get Fantini's support

By CAROLYN MOONEY
Collegian Staff

About 30 Hispanic parents, professionals, and UMass students yesterday staged a demonstration in the dean's office of the School of Education to protest the recent decision of the Amherst School Committee not to allow the Mark's Meadow Elementary School to institute a Spanish Language Enrichment Program.

The program would have been funded by the UMass School of Education's Bilingual Program and by federal and state money.

In a public statement to the group, Dean Mario D. Fantini said, "I am extremely disappointed with the school committee's decision not to approve the program as proposed by the Hispanic Parents Coordinating Committee, which had the approval of the superintendent, the principal, and the Mark's Meadow Council."

He said he had hoped the school committee would have consulted him before making its decision. He said he will now ask the committee to re-examine the issue.

The school committee this week voted 4-1 against the program. Members were unavailable for comment.

The program would consist of one class period each day, conducted entirely in Spanish. The class would assist Spanish-speaking children who need additional work in English, and would give them the opportunity to study and appreciate their history and social customs.

According to Parent Coordinator Iris Zavala, the school committee rejected the proposal implying that it is "Unamerican" to teach children in a language other than English in public schools.

"We have been flexible and reasonable in offering to provide our own funding and personnel, and yet we were refused," she said. "For these actions, we demand reversal of their decision or their resignation."

Woody Herman at the FAC last night.

(Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Student slashing closes Hyde Park

BOSTON [AP] — The slashing of a white teenager on a trolley car forced the closing yesterday of racially troubled Hyde Park High School for the third day in a row.

The 17-year-old student was attacked by a large group of blacks near the school after it was closed Wednesday morning because of racial fighting, witnesses said.

The incident is the most serious in what had been the quietest year since Boston schools were ordered integrated by a federal judge in 1974.

The student, Stephen McGee, required about 50 stitches to close a long gash on his face that police said was probably inflicted with a razor. He was in stable condition at a hospital.

Trouble at the school, located in a working class white neighborhood, began Tuesday morning when a fight between one black and one white pupil grew to general battling through the halls. Two whites were injured that day, and officials quickly closed the school.

The next day, blacks massed in the school auditorium and refused to go to classes. Whites approached the school in a large group but refused to go inside. Police then forced them away from the building.

In the streets near the school, police scuffled with white students who hurled rocks and bricks. Twelve whites were arrested.

School officials said McGee had not been involved in fighting at the high school. Witnesses said he was dragged from a trolley at the Mattapan station and kicked and beaten on the platform.

Afterwards, officials decided to close the school yesterday to give students a chance to cool off.

Kevin Barrett, president of the high school faculty senate, called the violence in the school "some of the most vicious fighting I've ever seen. Large groups of kids were fighting with one another. I can't put it any other way. Kids were getting threatened, attacked and beaten."

Hyde Park High has been a center of racial trouble since court-ordered busing began. About 52 percent of the 1,100 students at the school are black.

Lawrence man arrested on murder, arson charges

LAWRENCE [AP] — A 20-year-old Lawrence man was arrested yesterday on murder and arson charges in connection with a fire that claimed the lives of seven persons, including five children, Lawrence police said.

Police charged Jairo Vazquez with seven counts of murder and one count of arson in connection with the blaze which broke out early Sunday morning in a Lawrence tenement apartment, Detective Capt. Joseph Fitzpatrick said.

Fitzpatrick said police picked up Vazquez on the street about a mile-and-a-half from his home at 5 p.m.

Arraignment was scheduled for this morning in Lawrence District Court, he said.

Fitzpatrick declined comment on what led police to Vazquez' arrest, but said the suspect knew some of the victims and a tenant on the first floor of the nine-apartment frame house.

Vazquez is unemployed and lives alone, the police detective said.

Earlier this week, Lawrence Fire Chief Richard Lacey ruled out "all accidental and natural causes," of the fire and said authorities were tracking down what he called "rumors" that the mother of the children had been threatened by a telephone call.

Fitzpatrick said the fire "wasn't arson for profit."

Nineteen-year-old TitoRodriguz,a nephew of the woman who died, was the only person to escape to safety from the flaming top-floor apartment where seven others died.

Twenty-seven other occupants of the apartment house also left the building without injury during the early-morning blaze.

The fire claimed the lives of Maria Carillo, 32, and her five children, Maria Evette, 13, Evelynn 11, Tito Jr., 9, Charley, 7, and Raymond 2.

★ Collegian

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

action an "expression of extreme disapproval with the Collegian Board of Editors." Whelan also said "those who give can take."

Attorney General Jeff Lutsky said, "I don't see how the student senate could repossess the equipment. The Collegian has some fiscal authority. To say the student senate is owner of the equipment is erroneous. The senate gets its permission to distribute its funds from the trustees. The senate is not the guardian of the SATF (Student Activities Trust Fund); it merely distributes it."

Senate Speaker Brian DeLima said "whether or not we could do it (pass the motion) is not the question." DeLima said "the whole question of whether or not we could do it mystifies the real reason why the senate did it." DeLima said repossessing equipment was legal since it "was not infringing on the public's right to publish." DeLima said freezing funds "was very questionable. The way the motion was worded it was probably unconstitutional."

State cites sales fraud in halting business

BOSTON [AP] — The state has ordered another investment firm to stop doing business in Massachusetts, charging it with using fraudulent sales practices, state secretary Paul Guzzi said yesterday.

Guzzi announced the order was obtained Tuesday against Dedham Ivestors Inc. of Boston and its president, treasurer and director, Richard M. Shaw.

Guzzi also announced steps he is taking to protect prospective investors in commodities including the filing of two bills.

"Our investigation has shown them to be selling unregistered securities and using fraudulent sales practices," Guzzi said of Dedham Investors.

"Putting Lloyd, Carr & Co. out of business has not ended fraud in mass marketing of investments," he said.

The state ordered Lloyd, Carr & Co. to stop doing business in Massachusetts last December, and subsequent investigations led to the jailing of its president, Alan Abrahams, who was using the name of James A. Carr.

Dedham Investors was described as a gold and silver investment firm. Guzzi's office alleges it and Shaw did business without being registered, hired unregistered agents, and offered to sell, or sold, or were about to offer or sell unregistered securities.

The firm also was alleged to have misrepresented risks, given misleading information, misrepresented its expertise and way of doing business, and failed to adequately inform investors of risks.

As examples, it was alleged the firm did not adequately tell prospective investors the price of gold would have to increase $40 an ounce in nine months to an all-time high before they would break even, and that it did business only with one dealer and never sought competitive prices.

Dedham Investors said Shaw was in New York yesterday to see the firm's lawyer, Jefferey Tucker, who said he could no comment because the proceedin ongoing.

Black Affairs

Detroit evicts Nazis

Reprinted from N.Y. Times — As several hundred bystanders chanted "get the Nazis out!" court and police officers today evicted the Detroit National Socialist Movement from its storefront headquarters on the city's southwest side.

The closing of the bookstore came almost four months after the facility was opened in a building between an Army recruiting station and an abandonced game shop. And it came after weeks of protests from many citizens in the mostly white working class community and after threats by Jewish leaders to end their financial support of the local public television station after it aired a program with Nazi Party members as guests.

The management of the station, WTVS, made a public apology last month for the January program, but the tension between the station and the Jewish community apparently persisted.

For the last decade Jews have been the strongest supporters of the station's annual fund-raising auction, currently under way for 1978. However, officials of the auction say that they are now critically short of donated merchandise for the auction and cite a significant drop in merchandise contributed by Jewish merchants.

Door Knocked Down

At the Nazi Party storefront on West Vernor, a few miles from downtown, court officers supported by police officers found the establishment locked when they went to serve eviction papers just after 1 p.m. A court officer appealed for "William Russell and party" to open the front door and come out, but there was no response, although one man was inside.

The door was then knocked down and its contents were removed. Among the inventory were several rifles, enough baseball bats to equip an amateur team, several bags of what appeared to be cement mix, thousands of sheets of anti-black and anti-Jewish literature and furniture. The man inside the book store, identified by the police as Salvatori Bacarli, was taken to police headquarters but it was not disclosed if he would be booked.

Children Were Approached

As the objects inside the building were being removed, bystanders applauded and cheered.

"This is a pretty peaceful neighborhood," said 25-year-old Gary Williams, a factory worker, as he and his wife, Linda, 24, watched the eviction. "Anybody that pushes this on children" he said firmly, "is no good."

His reference was to the Nazis' soliciting children in the last several weeks to distribute antiblack and anti-Semitic literature in return for small amounts of money.

Warring "over" Africa

By JAMES LEWIS

Con't. from this past Wednesday's issue

RHODESIA

Prime Minister Ian D. Smith, yesterday, named nine whites who will serve with nine black nationalists in Rhodesia's interim government. The black officials, three from each of the nationalist groups, were appointed Tuesday. The appointment of the white officials, all from Mr. Smith's previous Cabinet, completes the formation of the interim government that is to lead Rhodesia to black majority rule on Dec. 31, 1978.

Rhodesia has become an African melting pot as guerilla troops from the Five Frontline States — Angola, Botswana, Mozambique, Tanzania, and Zambia — as well as Cuba, The Soviet Union, China and terrorist organizations have pressured the regime of Ian Smith.

Smith had been negotiating with five black Rhodesian officials, Abel Muzurewa, Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, Chief Jeremiah Chirau, Jashua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe.

According to Facts On File, Bishop Able Muzorewa is "considered the most widely known and the most influential black leader inside Rhodesia, and is considered a political moderate."

Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, "had quit the guerrilla struggle to participate in talks on a peaceful settlement for black majority rule." Chief Jeremiah Chirau is "tribal leader, a member of the Rhodesian Senate, and considered a conservative. Chirau formed the Zimbabwe United People's Organization in December 1976 to represent Rhodesia's conservative blacks."

Joshua Nkomo, is the "leader of the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU), a black nationalist faction, and he was an exile from Rhodesia since 1962. Nkomo is a member of the Kalanga tribe, and most of his ZAPU recruits are members of the ethinically related Ndebeles, who formed about 20 per cent of the Rhodesian black population. Nkomo received most of his outside support from Zambia, Botswana and the U.S.S.R. ZAPU is believed to have 700 - 1,000 guerrellas operating inside Rhodesia.

Robert Mugabe is the "leader of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU). He was jailed briefly in Rhodesia in 1964. Mugabe is of the Shona-speaking peoples, who make up at least 75 per cent of the Rhodesian black population. ZANU is almost exclusively Shona, and it receives outside aid from Tanzania, Mozambique and China. ZANU is believed to have about 6,000 to 8,000 guerrillas operating in Rhodesia."

The present situation is the result of increased fighting. The country will have majority rule in effect by 1979.

Black Mass Communication Project (BMCP) members hard at relaxing. On the serious side, the staff of Black Affairs would like to give recognition to BMCP for the fine job they do in bringing music and information to the community.

Announcements

Recruitment

The Black Studies Conference needs student volunteers to help in the four day activities. Interested students should contact Van Jackson at 545-0794.

People are needed to work on security, publicity, concessions, and hospitality for the upcoming Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival on May 6. All interested persons should attend the recruitment meeting this Thursday, April 13 on the second floor of New Africa House.

Black studies conf.

On April 15-18, 1978, the W.E.B. Dubois Department of Afro-American Studies of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst will be sponsoring the Second Annual National Council for Black Studies Conference. The purpose of the conference is to bring together scholars, teachers, administrators, and students to discuss viable models of Black Studies programs throughout the United States and to help institutions develop specific strategies for either creating or strengthening their own programs.

The conference will also include the election of new national and regional National Council of Black Studies officers. Registration begins on Saturday, April 15. All interested persons are advised to contact the National Council of Black Studies Conference Co-ordinators at (413) 545-0794 or write NCBS c-o Black Cultural Center, New Africa House, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003.

Placement workshop

All CCEBS students should note that on Wednesday, April 26, from 3:00 - 5:00 p.m., there will be an informational workshop held in the Placement Office. Various topics, such as job-search techniques and resume writing, will be covered. The Placement Office is located in Hampshire House. This is a unique opportunity for CCEBS students to learn more about campus services available to them. Anyone interested in this event should sign up with Brian Maher in Room 209 of the New Africa House immediately.

"Survival" at Holyoke

The South African Theatre Workshop '71, will be appearing for two performances of "Survival" tonight, Friday, April 14, at 6 and 9 p.m. in Chapin Auditorium, at Mt. Holyoke.

SHIRLEY GRAHAM DUBOIS AWARD

Each year the CCEBS program sponsors, as part of the Family Day activity, the honoring of a student who has made the greatest service contribution to the Third World community.

This award is one which students nominate and elect candidates. Nomination forms may be picked up in Room 214, Second Floor of the New Africa House, everyday until Friday, April 21, 1978.

Criteria:

a. Persons eligible: All CCEBS students

b. Form of Award: Engraved trophy plaque; and the recipient's name engraved on a perpetual plaque to be kept in the main CCEBS office.

i. Number of recipients: One

Asian studies needed

Did you know...

—that Chinese Americans were classified as Indians and therefore could not testify against Whites in court in the 19th century?

—that Japanese-Americans were interned in concentration campus during WWII, even though 75 percent of them were U.S. citizens, while neither the Germans or Italian suffered similar persecution?

—that out of the 3,000 courses offered at the University this semester not one of them deals with Asian American history or experience?

Not only are we not aware of the significant contributions Asian Americans have made in the building of America but also of the widespread oppression and discrimination Asian Americans have faced in this society. Last year, an Ad Hoc committee to establish an Asian American faculty position was formed. In our negotiations with the associate provost who was Richard Biscoff at the time, he said that he would provide half of the money for the position if one of the department would provide the other half. These are very hard times for many departments because of the fiscal crunch. Therefore, we were unable to acquire the additional funding from any of the departments, (Political science, Asian Studies, History, Sociology, or Anthropology) even though they said they would love to have such a position if the Provost provided the money. Clearly, the Associate Provost knew that the money would not be forthcoming from the departments in these times of fiscal conservation.

We have exhausted almost all of the formal university means to acquire such a position. We were made to run in the academic maze which led to no results. Obviously, there is a need for Asian Americans to learn about their own history and for the majority of white students to clear up the prejudices and stereotypes they have about Asian Americans.

We ask for your support in helping to establish Asian American Studies at this University. Please sign the petition. The Asian American Students Association is having a workshop to bring more awareness to the campus about the issue, please attend at 8:00 p.m., Wed. Apr. 18 at 3rd floor New Africa House.

Double Horror Feature plus PINK PANHER shorts
Friday April 21st
7 and 10:30
$1.00
Thompson 104
benfit New World Day School
UMass Childcare Center

Sip into something Comfort®able...

So smooth. Easy to sip. Delicious! Comfort®'s unlike any other liquor. It tastes good just poured over ice. That's why it makes mixed drinks taste much better, too. Sip into something Comfort®able.

Southern Comfort®

great with COLA, TONIC, 7UP, BITTER LEMON, GINGER ALE, ORANGE JUICE, —even MILK!

© 1977 SOUTHERN COMFORT CORP.

SOUTHERN COMFORT CORPORATION 100 PROOF LIQUEUR ST. LOUIS, MO 63132

News in Brief

Birth control method is not so reliable

[HERSAY NEWS SERVICE] — Encare Oval, the new over-the-counter birth control method previously acclaimed for its almost 100 percent effectiveness, is apparently not so reliable after all.

Encare Oval is a contraceptive tablet made in West Germany which, when placed in the vagina, foams up to cover the cervix and reportedly kills sperm.

The makers of Encare Oval claim that it has a 99.4 percent success rate. However, the Food and Drug Administration says, in fact, it is less than 85 percent effective.

A recent study has shown Encare Oval is no more effective than contraceptive foams and jellies and contains exactly the same sperm-killing agent.

Richard Boyle, education secretary for Planned Parenthood in San Francisco, says that the West German study which gave the tablet such a high effectiveness rate is questionable, because the doctors who researched the contraceptive were employed by its manufacturers and did not use control groups to test the validity of their own research.

Nuclear proposals viewed as threat

NEW LONDON, Conn. [AP] — New London's proposed ban on nuclear waste shipments is being viewed by the federal Department of Energy as a threat to the national energy policy, an official said yesterday.

The city, following an example set by New York City last year, is drafting an ordinance which will prohibit the transportation of nuclear wastes through its borders. Federal officials fear the trend could spread elsewhere in the country.

New London officials may consider the ordinance at a Monday City Council meeting because they believe New York City's ban, which was upheld last week by the federal Department of Transportation, offers a legal precedent. The officials have said, however, they have questions about the legality of such a measure.

Carter stalls on neutron decision

PARIS [AP] — President Carter's delay in deciding on the neutron warhead has intensified criticism of his foreign policies in the West European press and among government officials. Some even express doubts about his grasp of foreign affairs.

This questioning of Washington's actions seems to be getting louder as Carter's first-year honeymoon fades into the past and major European allies feel disappointed on critical issues.

"The time for realities has now arrived, and it's a difficult period," said a French official, who asked not to be identified. "People are talking about inconsistencies and vagueness, and at the same time absence of pragmatism."

Carter announced last week he was deferring a decision on whether to produce the new neutron warhead pending evidence of new Soviet "restraint" in the arms race. The delay was interpreted by many Europeans — including both proponents and opponents of the weapon — as an inability to make a decision.

Bill's Shoe Repair
Located in the Center of Amherst
We repair Clogs, Frye Boots, Hiking Boots, Leather Jackets, Purses, and Carryalls

Kennedy denies exec aspirations

BOSTON [UPI] — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., today denied a published report he was considering a run for the presidency in 1980 against Jimmy Carter.

The Christian Science Monitor reported Kennedy had told a close friend that if Carter appeared vulnerable in his re-election bid, he might enter the race.

"My position's unchanged. There's no basis for the story," Kennedy said in Washington.

Kennedy said he did not consider President Carter vulnerable and added. "I expect him to be renominated, re-elected and I have every intention of supporting him."

The newspaper quoted a Kennedy friend who said the Massachusetts Democrat felt 1980 might be his "last chance" to seek the presidency.

The rusty nail Inn
APRIL 14
BRICKER BAND
$2.00
APRIL 16
HOT CALYPSO KEY
$1.00
APRIL 17-18
LOOSE CABOOSE
$1.00
APRIL 19
GEORGE T. GREGORY
$2.00
APRIL 20
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
$2.00
SATURDAY, APRIL 15
LOUDON WAINWRIGHT
COVER $4.00
FRIDAY & SATURDAY, APRIL 21-22
JAMES MONTGOMERY
and FAT
COVER $4.00
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

The Collegian is looking for an Assistant Advertising Manager
Persons applying should be able to continue with this position next fall semester.

NOTICES

SKYDIVING

Learn how tonite Campus Center 808 at 7:00 p.m. Make your first jump this weekend, $55.00.

U.P.C. GENERAL MEETING

to discuss policies and candidates for elections at 6 p.m. today in U.P.C. office (415 SU). All interested in putting on concerts next year are welcome.

FOUND

Psychology notebook, Brown, Very Sexy. Pick up in Lost and Found.

LOST OR STOLEN?

To whoever stole my blue bag, please return my fluid mechanics notes.

COMPUTER DATING

Looking for Love, romance, friendship: Fill a computer dating questionnaire — you may just get lucky. All proceeds to charity — turn forms into the table on the Campus Center Concourse.

NORTHEAST RESIDENTS

Due to the long weekend, N.E.A.G. will hold a short meeting on April 18th, 8:30 p.m. in Lewis Music Room. Hope to see you there.

SUMMER ACTIVITIES PLANNING COMMITTEE

There will be a meeting today, Thursday, April 13 in C.C. 902 at 3:00 p.m.

GREEK LOLLIPOP DAY

GREEKS: Watch for Lollipop Day notice and info! Coming Soon!

J.P. STEVENS — UFW BOYCOTT COMMITTEE

There will be a meeting of the J.P. Stevens — UFW Boycott Committee on Thurs., 4-13, at 7:30 p.m. in C.C., Rm. 902. The committee will meet to discuss the recent boycott rally and march on Whitmore and to begin planning for further action on campus.

THIRD WORLD CORRIDOR IN GRAYSON HOUSE

Due to inter-dorm choosing, minority students are encouraged to consider the Third World corridor in Grayson for living quarters. Come see the corridor's unique housing alternative at open house tonight at 8:30 on 5 South Grayson or contact Ray, 6-6985, Billy, 6-7044, or Joyce, 6-3576.

TEAMSTERS FOR A DEMOCRATIC UNION

Anne Mackie, editor of UPSurge (a rank-and-file newspaper for United Parcel Service Workers) and T.D.U. member will speak at 1 p.m. Fri. 4-14, Draper Hall No. 122 on rank-and-file organizing in the Teamsters Union.

RALLY TO SUPPORT PACKARD'S STRIKERS

A rally to support the Packard's Strikers will take place in Northampton at noon Sat., April 15. Meet at old post office on Pleasant and walk to Pulaski Park for afternoon of music and speakers.

CONTADANCE FOR PACKARD'S STRIKERS

A benefit contradance in support of the Packard's strikers will be held Sat. night, 4-15, at 8 p.m. Cape Cod Lounge SUB. Music by Ladies Chiain, all invited.

STOCKBRIDGE LIVESTOCK CLASSIC

Stockbridge school of Agriculture and UMass students will be showing various types of livestock on April 21 starting at 7:00 p.m. and all day Sat., April 22. from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Refreshments available.

HELP WANTED — NOW

Immediate need for persons willing to provide Personal Care Assistance (PCA) for summer and fall to aid disabled students. PCA provides basic assistance in bathing, dressing, bed-to-chair transfers, cooking, shopping, house cleaning, etc. Hours are flexible and the pay in general $3.00-hr. For info contact the Office of Handicapped Students Affairs, 227 Whitmore, 545-0892.

GRE WORKSHOP

For students planning to take the GRE aptitude test. Workshop will include info about the test, tips and strategy for taking the test, and some practice. Designed to help students test to the full level of their skills, not to improve skills. Meet Thurs., April 13 at 7 p.m. in the 6th floor History Lounge in Herter Hall. For further info contact: Beth Schneider, Pre-Grad Advisor CASIAC, Machmer E-27, 545-2191.

LOWER PIONEER VALLEY REGIONAL PLANNING COMMISSION

208 Policy Advisory Committee for the Conn. River Basin will meet on April 13, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at Municipal Office Building, 4th Floor, 26 Central St., West Springfield, Ma. All interested citizens are urged to attend.

FOUND

Boston Tech. H.S. ring, 1975. Initials D.N.M. Found by Boyden Gym April 12 morning. It was left at Campus Center info desk.

REWARD

I lost my wallet on April 11. No money but important personal papers in it. Please call 549-0393.

BETA CHI

Important meeting, Monday at 8:30 for Spring Day workers. Rm. 903 Campus Center.

CONTRA AND SQUARE DANCE

Contra and square dance with Jeremy Coleman, caller, at Munson Library, South Amherst on Saturday, April 22 at 8:30 p.m. Steve Woodruff on fiddle and button accordian. Admission $2.00.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCERS

Friday night, 8-11 p.m. Teaching and review begin at 8 p.m. All are welcome — please come. Next week at Grace Church, near the Amherst Common.

MASHED POTATOES

The Potatoes, original comedy funny stuff, put American on trial Monday, April 17 at 11 p.m. on WMUA, 91.1 FM.

PSYCHOLOGY MAJORS

Earn credit as an undergraduate advisor in the psychology dept. Come to Tobin 436, Monday and Wednesday, 9-12 and 1-4 or call 545-0377.

BIKE-A-THON

Ride for the United Way, Sunday, April 23. 26 mile route around Amherst Community; over 50 prizes. Pledge sheets and more info available on the Campus Center Concourse, April 14, 19-21.

PSYCH AND SOCIAL SERVICE MAJORS

There will be a workshop to help in clarifying and defining career goals today, Friday, from 9-3 in 318 Berkshire House. Bring a lunch. Call 545-0333 if you have questions.

REGISTER TO VOTE

Vote registration will be on the Campus Center Concourse from 10-4 on April 25, 26, 27.

SCHLITZ-A-RAMA

Don't miss the best event at UMass, Saturday, April 29, 12 noon-9 p.m. Image and Chris Rhodes Band.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

All University women are invited to Iota Gamma Upsilon's "Italian Night" on Monday, April 17 at 6 p.m. For rides and info please call 545-0082 or 545-1542.

SPEECH

Massachusetts House minority leader, Frank Hatch, will be speaking at UMass Tuesday, April 25 at 11 in the Student Union Building.

CYPRUS: THE MARTYRED REPUBLIC

There will be a film and talk concerning Cyprus in the Red Room at Amherst College in Converse Hall, from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Sunday, April 16. Free of charge.

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

Kent Whalon
— Licensed
Optician

We are Specialists in:

- FASHION EYEWEAR
- CONTACT LENSES
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

An Evening of Entertainment at:

Charlie's

Presenting:
Friday, April 14th &
Saturday, April 15th
NO COVER CHARGE
The Live Sounds of

RAINTREE

The Best of Country-Bluegrass
(old & new) music
1 Pray St., Amherst, 549-5403

Come in today!
the Scholl
Exercise Sandals Season
is here!

You've never worn anything quite so comfortable. Patented Scholl Exercise Sandals cradle your feet on cool, sculptured beechwood soles... hugged gently by foam-cushioned straps. And smart-looking! You can choose from either light or dark-toned wood and from a selection of colorful straps that go with anything you wear. Scholl Exercise Sandals... they're better than barefoot! Kick on a pair today!

ON SALE NOW!

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass. amherst

and at a discount price!
only $12.95

congratulations
amherst

TO CELEBRATE THE OPENING OF THE BANGS COMMUNITY CENTER IN BOLTWOOD WALK, EARTHWARES IS HOLDING :

BOLTWOOD WALK SALE!

FRIDAY, APRIL 14 to
SATURDAY, APRIL 22

COTTON CALICOS . . . . 20% OFF
CHALLIS PRINTS . . . . 25% OFF
STRETCH TERRY . . . . 20% OFF
WOOL & ACRYLIC
KNITTING WORSTED. . 25% OFF
...and SILK . . . . . . . . 20% OFF
15% OFF ALL WALL PANELS ! and look for Sidwalk Specials!

EARTHWARES
FABRIC & YARN
103 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST (413) 256-8810

Hair Fashion Accessories

Functional, of course—but more important, our combs, barrettes, headbands, and bobbies are beautiful fashion accents. Classic tortoise-shell designs, luminous enamels, rich and subtle solids. A fine gift idea.
1.25 - 6.00

A refreshing place to shop!

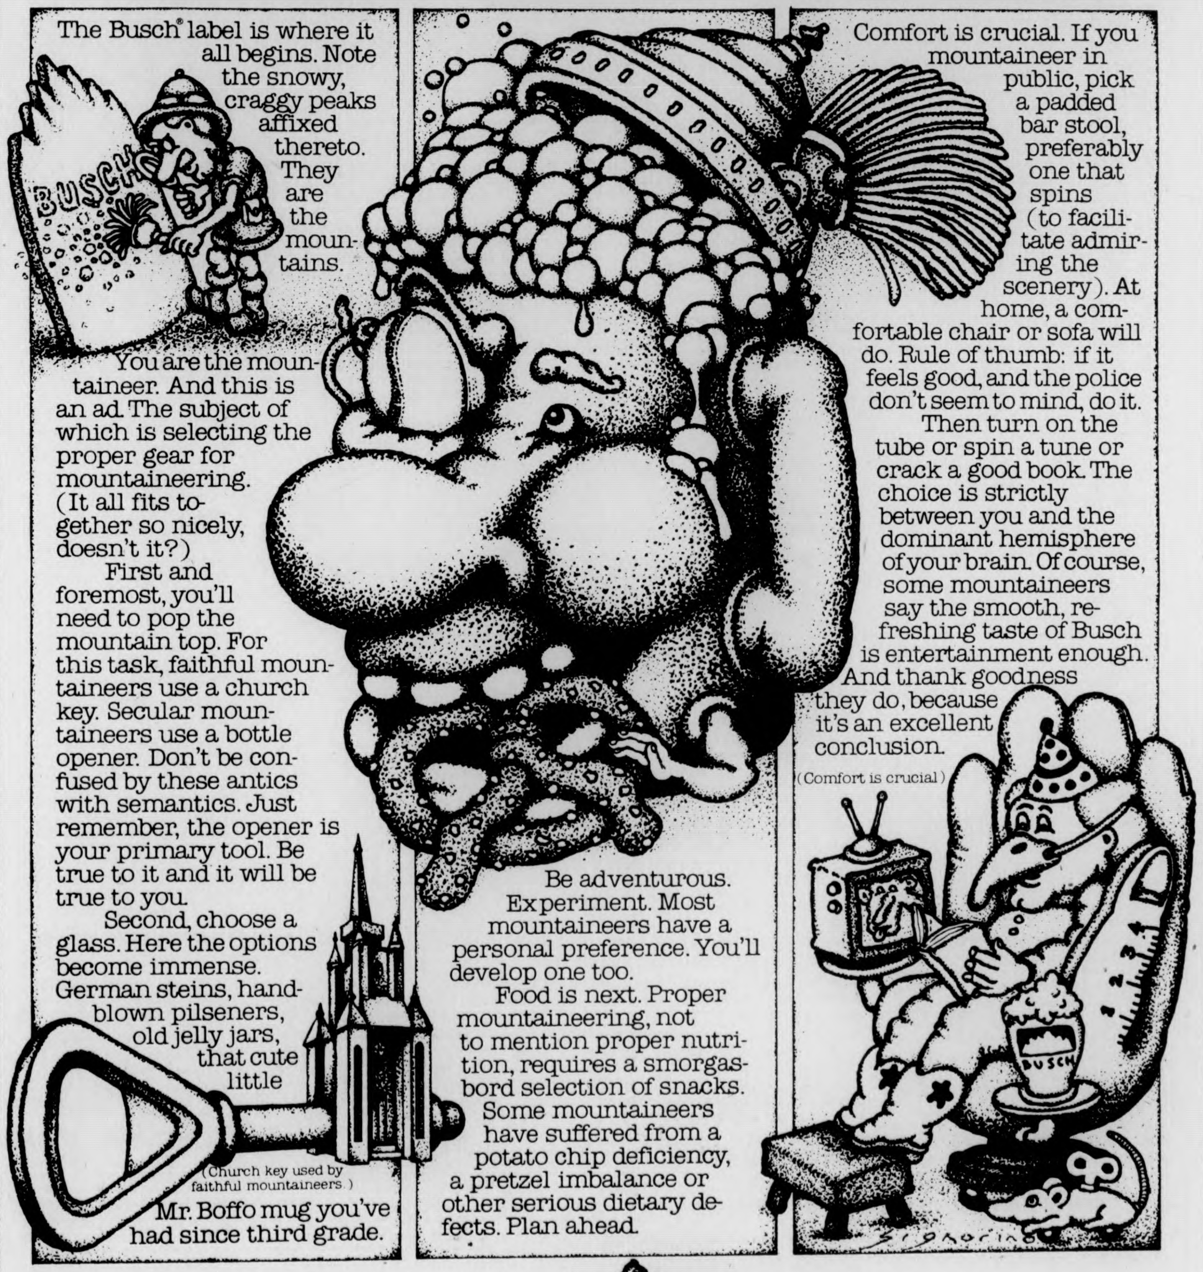
FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-9 Mon-Sat
Sun 1-5

Mountaineering #2.

SELECTING THE PROPER GEAR



The Busch® label is where it all begins. Note the snowy, craggy peaks affixed thereto. They are the mountains.

You are the mountaineer. And this is an ad. The subject of which is selecting the proper gear for mountaineering. (It all fits together so nicely, doesn't it?)

First and foremost, you'll need to pop the mountain top. For this task, faithful mountaineers use a church key. Secular mountaineers use a bottle opener. Don't be confused by these antics with semantics. Just remember, the opener is your primary tool. Be true to it and it will be true to you.

Second, choose a glass. Here the options become immense. German steins, hand-blown pilseners, old jelly jars, that cute little Mr. Boffo mug you've had since third grade.

(Church key used by faithful mountaineers.)

Be adventurous. Experiment. Most mountaineers have a personal preference. You'll develop one too.

Food is next. Proper mountaineering, not to mention proper nutrition, requires a smorgasbord selection of snacks. Some mountaineers have suffered from a potato chip deficiency, a pretzel imbalance or other serious dietary defects. Plan ahead.

Comfort is crucial. If you mountaineer in public, pick a padded bar stool, preferably one that spins (to facilitate admiring the scenery). At home, a comfortable chair or sofa will do. Rule of thumb: if it feels good, and the police don't seem to mind, do it.

Then turn on the tube or spin a tune or crack a good book. The choice is strictly between you and the dominant hemisphere of your brain. Of course, some mountaineers say the smooth, refreshing taste of Busch is entertainment enough. And thank goodness they do, because it's an excellent conclusion.

(Comfort is crucial)

Don't just reach for a beer. BUSCH® Head for the mountains.

Anheuser-Busch Inc. St. Louis Mo

Letters

Missing info on Spring Concert

To the Editor:

Your article concerning the Black American Music Festival is missing numerous bits of information which I am positive the general student population is more interested in than a mere line-up of the second rate acts scheduled to appear.

On top of the list of missing information should be an account of costs to students. For example you neglect to mention that so far the concert is scheduled to lose at least $40,000.

Another important item you neglect to mention is the cost break-down of the various acts. I am sure most people would be outraged at the horrendous mismanagement and the, at best, amateurish, if not childish, approach to playing concert promoter. The Duke Ellington Orchestra is getting $6000, which is $2500 more than they usually receive. Patti Labelle is going home with the same fee, twice her normal performance charge. McCoy Tyner is used to playing places like the Jazz Workshop for little more than expenses, much less than the $2500 he is slated for. Originally scheduled to appear at a cost of $3000 each were Archie Shepp and Pharao Sanders, neither of whom has seen a fee of such size since they can remember.

I am certain you can check the figures with the concert committee and I am also sure the majority of the student body will be less than satisfied with both the quality of the acts and the price we have to pay. It would be a good idea to demand a full accounting of all funds and expenses and to make public all findings.

I am certain the general consensus will be that we could have had a much better Spring Concert, with much better acts, for much less money, if we would hire a professional promoter to do the job so badly botched by the Committee Kiddies!

Axel K. Traugott

Fuller fan frustrated by full house

To the Editor:

I'm pissed. I would like to know the name of the shithead responsible for the events concerning the second and third parts of the R. Buckminster Fuller lecture series. Upon finding out who this incompetent is, I will go to great lengths to avoid anything else "shit for brains" is associated with.

I attended the first lecture, along with 2000 others, at the Fine Arts Center Monday night and enjoyed it immensely. The audience was informed that the remaining lectures would be held in Bowker Auditorium and that a rush on the ticket office would be unnecessary because plenty of seats were available. We were also informed that the tickets would be available from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The only item that was omitted was the fact that Bowker Auditorium seats only 902 people. I discovered this fact when I attempted to secure tickets for the remaining lectures, as I am sure many others also discovered.

Bucky was logical and very enlightening. He gave us good reason to be optimistic about the future, concerning the efficient utilization of resources. Whoever is responsible for my not being able to attend the additional lectures is, to me, illogical and very unenlightening. Furthermore, 's.f.b.' gives me good reason to be pessimistic about the future, concerning the efficient utilization of resources [UMass money]. I am sure I am not the only one pissed off by this mismanagement.

William Condon

The creation of 'The Wanderer'

To the Editor:

I think I should set the story straight about how my strip got into the Collegian.

Last semester the first cartoon to leave was Peter Tolan's The Scent of Man. He was canned for failures to meet deadlines. I submitted my strip at this time, along with about 15 other people; not "about 50" as Mr. Carroll claims. I was told by Bob Higgins that my strip would not be used because there were already two fantasy strips: UM, by Marty Maceda, and Aluminum Foil, by Steve Lafler. According to Mr. Higgins, the Collegian needed a humor strip, so Wally Dorf, by Rob Ranney, was used. I was also told mine was "the better of those submitted, and the next opening was mine." Then, later on in the semester, What Next?, by Dick Janssen, was withdrawn, and mine was started the following Monday.

Mr. Carroll also claims I was picked because I "had submitted six weeks worth of strips," and Mr. Higgins had used mine because it was "easier for him." In actuality I had submitted about 12 days worth. The number of days submitted is irrelevant anyway, for the strips are used five days at a time: it would not have been any "easier" for Mr. Higgins to use mine over Mr. Carroll's, unless it was better than his.

Mark Rollins

Save Asian refugees at sea

To the Editor:

A commentary entitled "Stranded at Sea" appeared in the Collegian on April 7. I hope those who read it realize what is at stake for the "boat people." There are Asians who apparently have found life in their home countries unbearable or perhaps even dangerous. Why else would individuals and families risk the open seas and death in small boats? Somehow they are desperate enough to use any means available to get out.

The Coalition to Save Asian Refugees at Sea really isn't concerned with the political motivations of these exiles-to-be [if they make it]. Their point of focus is the situation of passing merchant ships not stopping to rescue the passengers of these endangered small escape boats. A merchant vessel won't take on anyone who may never be able to leave that ship. Never? Does that sound absurd?

These people — sight unseen, names unknown — are in need of a definite port of destination before a ship's captain can consider rescue, no matter what international law states. In short, the captain must be certain of being able to unload that human cargo within a reasonable period of time — somewhere.

As a graduate student senator I voted in favor of endorsing the petition of the Coalition to Save Asian Refugees at Sea. They are beseeching the governments of Japan and other concerned countries to grant temporary landing rights without precondition for these refugees. A public policy to that effect would guarantee the pick up at sea, rather than turning a blind eye.

I hope the organizations on campus which will be approached, will listen to them with an open mind and a generous heart.

Stephen A. Modena

Never heard of McCoy Tyner

To the Editor:

The Black American Music Festival [The Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival] is a good idea, but why should it take the place of our annual spring concert? This is a question which has been asked since the concert has been announced. Now that the talent has been announced perhaps people will see why this question has been asked.

We may be ignorant, but who is McCoy Tyner or Buddy Guy and the Junior Wells Blues band. The spring concert should have appeal for all students on campus, but obviously this one does not. Granted this may be good talent, but how many people on this campus have heard of them?

We realize it is too late to change anything and the concert will now go on as planned, but there were probably a large number of disappointed students when they read the talent line up for what used to be a Spring Concert.

Many Concerned Residents of Johnson House

In defense of none-of-the-above

To the Editor:

A month ago, the Student Senate Governmental Affairs Committee voted to put a "none - of - the - above" [NOTA] option on the SGA Presidential ballot for SGA President. Since then, many people have used these pages to attack that decision on the grounds that the NOTA option "caused" the current crisis in Student Government.

We think our decision was right. In particular, we want to point out:

1] No one was forced to vote "none - of - the - above." The NOTA option was freely chosen by over 15 per cent of the voters, who didn't want to elect any of the candidates.

2] The NOTA votes did not "force" the current electoral convention to take place. The presidential votes were so evenly split among so many candidates that an electoral convention would have been required even without the NOTA votes.

3] If there had been no NOTA option on the ballot, the students who didn't like any of the "official" candidates would have to either a] vote for someone they actually did not want to win, or b] not vote at all.

4] Several state governments have NOTA provisions on their ballots [though unfortunately, Massachusetts is not one of them].

We feel the NOTA option is not just a good idea. It is a fundamental democratic right. And those students who decided to exercise this right by voting "none - of - the - above" in the last election should not be criticized or blamed for Student Government's current difficulties.

Student Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs

Sanitation and the ironies of life

To the Editor:

A funny thing happened today. First I tried to exchange ten 9 cent postcards at the Post Office for ten 9 cent stamps. They refused for "sanitary reasons". A short time later I was in the People's Market check-out line and watched a worker in a sweatshirt lick her fingers while slicing and wrapping cheese. The little ironies of life!

Jon Roche

UMass ski patrol; skiing and more

To the Editor:

The UMass Ski Patrol winds up its tenth season in existence. This was an active season for the thirty patrollers of UMass and Smith College students. There were new candidate patrollers to train, mountains to patrol and volunteer services to perform.

In essence, the UMass Ski Patrol serves the western Massachusetts ski areas; some of which are Mount Tom, Berkshire East, Mohawk Mountain, Jiminy Peak and Chickley Alps. Binding checks are also administered at these areas. A binding check is a free service given to the patrons of a mountain by the patrollers to check for faulty equipment and test for the proper binding settings.

Anyone interested in becoming a patroller for next year's ski season must first complete an advanced first aid course and a CPR course. They must fulfill an eight-hour ski area emergency procedure seminar. Training is provided by the patrollers for the candidates and involves such skills as running a toboggan — empty and full, side slipping, kick turns and controlled snow-plowing. It is also necessary to be a solid competent skier.

For those of you who are interested in pursuing a fulfilling winter season of skiing, while you service the public, there will be a recruiting drive held in the Campus Center the last two weeks of April. We will be there to answer any questions and help you on your way towards a rewarding winter of '79.

Carol Conragan

Letters Policy

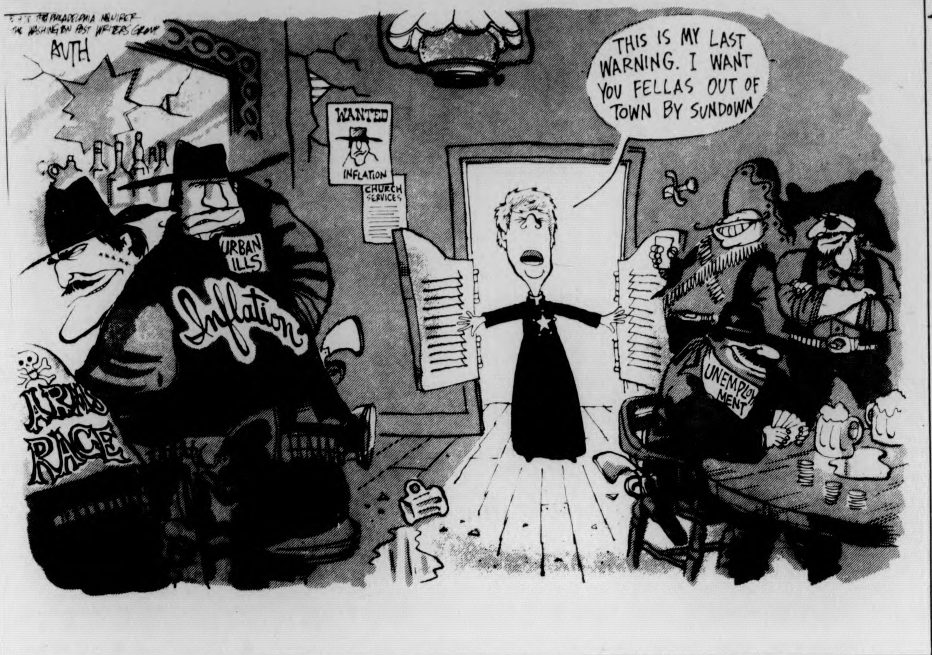
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



© 1978 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
THIS IS MY LAST WARNING. I WANT YOU FELLAS OUT OF TOWN BY SUNDOWN
WANTED
INFLATION
CHURCH SERVICES
URBAN ILLS
Inflation
ARMS RACE
UNEMPLOYMENT

A movie star and a peanut farmer

By GEORGE SOMMERS

Election buffs and gamblers are currently having a field day guessing who will take up the GOP banner against Jimmy Carter in 1980. Challenging Carter may not be an easy a matter as it was once thought to be. Carter, often accused of being ineffective, has recently demonstrated that he can get things accomplished. The president got the sorely needed votes to pass the first Panama Canal treaty only by wheeling and dealing in the finest L.B.J. tradition.

Postponing his decision on the neutron bomb was a crafty political move. He is neither caving in to the demands of the insatiable Pentagon appetite, nor to the Soviet Union. The Russians immediately condemned the decision, saying Carter intends to use it as a bargaining chip in the SALT talks. This is precisely correct. The Soviet Union of late seems to be operating under the assumption that the USA has fallen on its face since Vietnam. Thus, they have infiltrated Africa with puppet Cuban troops, and have built up an enormous, menacing arsenal in Eastern Europe.

There is speculation of a rematch between Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter. This is unlikely, however, for the former president is doing quite well with television contracts, public appearances, etc. Besides, another loss against Jimmy Carter would be extremely embarrassing.

The Senate Minority leader, Howard Baker of Tennesse, has been mentioned as a candidate. He has alienated the conservative wing of his party by supporting the Panama Canal treaties, though. Additionally, he is widely perceived as being unexciting to the point of blandness; which he graphically illustrated in his keynote address to the 1976 Republican convention.

> 'Apparently, the man to watch out for is former California Governor Ronal Reagan. Reagan, although old, is charismatic, highly intelligent, and articulate... Most importantly, he did what was once thought nearly unseated an incumbent president from his party's nomination...'

Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, Ford's running mate, has announced he will run only if Ronald Reagan does not. Dole, although very witty, seems to arouse a sense of distrust in people, and probably cost Gerald Ford votes in '76. Often referred to as the "hatchet man," Dole in any case lacks the charisma of fellow conservative Ronald Reagan.

The liberal pack and new faces crowd include Sen. Lowell Weiker of Connecticut, a dark horse; Gov. James "Big Jim" Thompson of Illinois; and Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania, the lower half of the ill-fated Reagan-Schweiker ticket of '76. These candidates face the mighty opposition of the party's conservative wing who have been purging liberals and moderates from the GOP for the last twenty years, and have dominated practically every Republican convention of this century.

Apparently, the man to watch out for is former California Governor Ronald Reagan. Reagan, although old, is charismatic, highly intelligent, and articulate. He has the deepest blessings of the conservative wing of the Republican party, and is very well known throughout the nation. He could cut into Carter's support in the South, and wound him badly in the West, where rumors have it Carter has virtually written off, except for Hawaii, California, and Oregon. Most importantly, he did what was once thought to be impossible — nearly unseated an incumbent president from his party's nomination, particularly amazing in Republican politics. Only in America could one conceive of a movie star and a peanut farmer running for president.

George Sommers is a Collegian Commentator.

Administration's heavy hand

To the Editor:

Farewell! This is the last you shall ever hear from my humble self, barring any unforseen circumstances. The arbitrary administration has finally caught up with this poor, negligent student, and has lowered the boom. Due to a twenty-five dollar late fee that I have neglected to pay, [due to a total lack of any cash, I haven't even done my wash in God knows how many weeks] I have been given the axe. I realize that the University cannot afford to let such blatant freeloaders as myself stay on without paying up my $25, and since I don't have the resources to pay up, I'm forced to end my education in my freshman year, and enter the real world outside of beloved "Happy Valley". How horrible!

However I can find consolation in looking at what I'm leaving. An administration headed by a Chancellor who openly admits to his inability to negotiate as a human being.

A form of government that can't pick a president, after five consecutive tries; and that is so embroiled in petty political struggle that it renders itself impotent to all matters outside of internal. A student body that worships beer and pot over studies and other worldly matters. A library that attacks people by hurling bricks at passers-by. And all the other hundreds of other quirks that have been associated with this fine, and semi-profitable institution of higher [play on words intended] learning.

I will however miss this university, none-the-less. The bong-gammon games with Rick, Rich, and Mark. Learning how to play "Cosmic Wimpout" at some ungodly hour in the morning. The fun-filled senate, with all of its internal power struggles. Even the power struggles of the Brigades, [both].

But my time draws near. Friday the 14th is my last day. Unless I can come up with the money, Boss Randy Bromery will have me bounced. So once more, farewell, adieu, ciou, aloha, and mabuhy.

Salamat po,
(Tagalog for Thank you)
Ex-Senator from Mackimmie
Ex-Co-Chair of Gov.t Affairs
Ex-Chair of Credentials Committee
Ex-UMass student

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

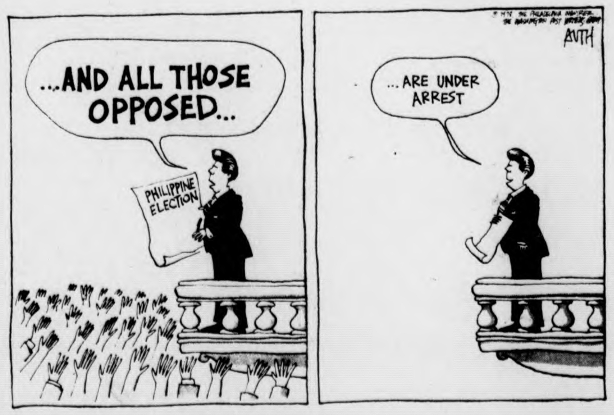
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



...AND ALL THOSE OPPOSED...
PHILIPPINE ELECTION
© 1978 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
...ARE UNDER ARREST

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Mustang 48, std., good condition, $550, can be seen on weekends, call 546-4182.

Classic 60 Caddy, no work needed, 70,000 orig. mi., new brakes & battery, see 665-4234.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

1963 Dodge Dart convertable, slant 6, needs brake work, otherwise good, $225 or BO. 665-3962.

64 Falcon sedan, $200 or BO. 549-6613.

1973 Open Manta, 25+ mpg, 4 spd., FM, many new parts, 7 tires, $1400—665-3367, nites.

67 bug, good body, brakes, clutch and engine, $675, call eves. to 12 p.m., 542-3409.

71 Chrysler Newport, 40,000 miles, good condition, $1000, neg., Kevin, 546-7421.

69 Fiat 124 sport coupe, must see. Dependable car, asking $900, Ross, 546-7421.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

1971 Olds Delta 88, $700 or best offer. Call Dave at 546-6528.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rate. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

For rent—Brittany Manor, June 1-Aug. 31, 2 large bdrms., fully furnished, AC, $225 mo. or best offer, 253-5529.

1 bed. Avail. 6/1, Puffton, 549-5939 p.m.

Cape Cod rental—Dennisport home, gd. location, May-Sept., 546-5625, 253-3218.

Northwood Apartments—Route 47, Sunderland, 665-3856. Spacious 2 bedroom apts., rents start at $180. First stop on UMass bus rt., dishwasher, disposal, w/w, AC, pool, free parking, free garden plots.

Hyannis—whole summer near beach and town cottages, apts., rooms with frig. & kit., priv., 2-in rm., reas., 1-617-775-8615.

Apt.—one bdrm. in Colonial Vill. $180, incl. util. Call 256-8767, for summer.

3 bdrm. house, summer sblt. and fall option. In country, 1 mile to UMass. 549-6171.

Cape Cod rental—2 women to share beautiful house on priv. beach in Yarmouth, Booka, 546-7421.

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Akai G360 7½" open reel deck, with auto-reverse. $200. Call Mark, 1-698-2278.

Refrig. 2.5 cu. ft.—$55. Skis—OL in Mark 1 w/Gersch plate bindings, used 1 season—$60. Call Jeff, 546-6887.

Wilson T2000, $25 or best offer, 4½L strung with gut, 6-4748.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

HELP WANTED

Orchard Hill Women's Center is now accepting applications for co-coordinators for Fall '78. Applications are available in 112 Field House. Due April 21.

Tennis pros and assistant pros—seasonal and year-round clubs; good playing and teaching background. Call (301) 654-3770, or send 2 complete resumes and 2 pictures to: Col. R. Reade, WTS, 8401 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 1011, Chevy Chase, MD 20015.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

Student supervisor positions are available at Belchertown State School—entails implementation and supervision of programs and volunteers—one year commitments (July-May)—must be full-time college student—for info, call Cindy A. Rogers, 323-6311. BSS is an equal opportunity employer.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of conversation tapes for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round. Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free info—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

LOST

Womans ring in Morrill 4/6, silver w/ tigers eye, reward. Please call 549-0345.

2 keys 3/31 on a Disneyworld key ring near No. Village bus stop or Boyden parking lot. Please call 546-8156. Reward.

To whomever found my opal ring in Fitzwilly's, please return it—no questions asked. It has great sentimental value to me. Reward. 1108 JQA, UMass, 6-8420.

Lost—a tan leather "cowboy" hat on Apr. 4. If found, call 549-6563. Reward!

MOTORCYCLES

1975 Honda 400F SS, bought new in 77, 4500 mi., perfect condit., sis barpad, ask $950, call 256-2052 or 549-0251.

Honda 450, $475 or BO, 584-8890.

75 Honda MT250, 4000 miles, good shape, asking $500, will bicker, must sell. If interested, call Dave at 367-9984.

Honda, 1964, Superhawk, 305cc, still very fast, inspectable, $305, 256-0401, 5-10 p.m.

75 Kawasaki G3SE100, bought new in Feb. 78, only 700 miles, perfect, ask $400 but will bicker. Call Glen, 538-2513, late evenings.

PERSONALS

Happy birthday, Diane. We shall have many more together. With deep love, Mark.

Happy 20th birthday, marshmallow. Love, Barnes 'Z' and Grimestein.

Cosmic Wimpout dice like vacations. Take your dice home for the weekend & practice for the tournament next Thurs.

The 3rd Annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament is today—in the Bluewall. Start after 2:00. 1st prize is $100! Many other prizes. Anyone can win!!

.....Ward Number Six.....

Aerosmith, Judy Collins, Diana Ross, Bette Midler 8x10 pro-quality colr. photos from recent Boston concerts. 25 cents for brochure to: Saviano, 45 West Newton St., Boston, Mass. 02118.

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Pinocchio is coming.

SERVICES

Contact lens wearers—save on brand-name hard and soft lens supplies. Send for free illustrated catalog. Contact Lens Supplies, Box 7453, Phoenix, Arizona 85011.

Airwaves TV-Audio Service—servicing all Japanese and American brands of television & stereos. 12 Dickinson St., Amherst. 256-6713, Master Tech. 8195.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Spring bicycle tune-up special—$11.95, complete overhaul—$24.95. Amherst, 549-6904; Northampton, 584-1016.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

TO SUBLET

Sublet: 1 bdrm. apt., June/Aug., $140/mo., util. included, call 549-5425, evenings.

Call all students—da da da da da—253-3695—da da da da da: Attention!! Summer sublet with fall option: Colonial Village, 2 bedroom apartment, utilities included—negotiable, call 253-3695.

Lrge., fully furn. 2 level 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-9/1, $220/mo.—negotiable. 50 yds. to bus, 2 min. walk to store, air cond., dishwasher. Call 549-6966.

Don't hassle with waiting lists! Brand. apt., 2 bedroom, to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31. Option to lease in fall. Call 549-1680.

6/1-8/31—2/bedroom apt., 7/minute walk to campus, AC, $225—negotiable. Call: 549-6340.

2 br. apt., Col. Vlg., bus, pool, ut. incl., fall opt., $230—neg., avail. 5/28-8/31, 253-2216.

2 lg. bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all utilities pd., on bus rt., laundry fac., pool. Available for June, July, August, price negotiable. Rolling Green, 546-9647, Bruce, or 546-9641, Rob.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green apt., furnished. Avail. 5/31-8/31. Air cond., etc. 253-3071.

Subletting room in a large fully furnished 2 bdrm. apt.—5/25-8/31—3 blocks frm. Amherst ctr., rent neg., call 253-3165.

Summer sublet, avail. 5/20, 3 bdrm., call 549-0106 or come by 103 Puffton.

Sunderland—2 bedroom townehouse apt., 1½ baths, AC, swimming pool, on UMass bus route. $225/mo. + hot water included in rent. 665-2433, after 5.

1 bdrm. apt. in Puffton, ½ mi. from campus, for 6/1 to 8/31 with option to renew avail. Some furn. Call 549-3837.

2 bdrm., 5/31-9/31, opt. to renew, Prez. Apt., bus/walk, AC, util. incl. Call 549-6863!

Room for summer in spacious apartment. Amherst center, opening for one person, kitchen, full bath. $85 per month. Call 253-3014, after 6 p.m.

Rms. in apt., Amhst. ctr., 1 min. to bus, 6/1 to 9/1, opt. for fall, rent negot. 253-9403.

3 bdrm. Twnehse. Apt., avl. 6/1, close to bus st., Watroba's, laundry. Rent reduced to $250/mo. Partly furnished, opt. to renew lease. Call 549-6820.

Sublet—2 bed. apt., incl. all util. Avail. May 1. Call Alexis, 5-0003, or 549-5440. On UMass bus route, Amherst.

To sublet: 3 bedroom Puffton apt.; semi-furnished. Available June 1; rent negot. Call 549-5621.

2 bdrm. Townehouse, w/ option for fall, 6/31-8/31, call 549-1019.

2 bdrm. Brandy., w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-0712.

June 1-Sept. 1—2 bdrm., fully furnished, all util. incl., $200/mo., on bus rte., Lantern Ct. Apts., call 665-4737, option to renew in Sept.

Summer living in Puffton Vlg., 549-0730.

Puffton apt.—2 bedroom; sublease summer; take over lease Sept. 1. Call after 4 p.m., 549-5868.

Sublet our 2 br. apt. for the summer—the lease is yours in Sept. Negotiable rent for summer. Walk or bus to campus. 549-6152—keep trying!

House to sublet, Phillips St. Five minutes to town; one minute to campus! Five spacious bedrooms; 2 full baths; to sublet this summer and next year. Be first to call Mark, Joe or Tom. 549-0714.

Sublet 3 bdrm. Puffton apt., 5/26-9/1, AC, DW, furnished, pool, $240/mo., 549-3740.

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

3 bdrm. Puffton, frm. 6/1, rent neg., 549-4451.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

2 lg. bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt.—women. 1 rm. avail. 5/1, other sem. end. 549-6482.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

4 br. house, 5 acres, NR bus route, avail. 5/25 w/ opt. for 78-9, $250/mo., N'hampton. 586-2825.

Fully furnished apartment! Available for June 1-Aug. 31. 3 bedroom apt. in Rolling Green. Rent reduced for the summer. Call 253-7088. Rent includes utilities.

4 bdrm. ranch—Echo Hill—sblt. June-Aug., sundeck, lg. liv. rm. Must see! $ neg. 253-5717.

1 bedroom—Cliffside, June 1 w/ fall opt. On bus route, $155 mo. Call 665-3512.

Summer sublet, 1 br. apt. by Puffer Pond, fully furn., free util., opt. to renew, avail. 5/30/78. $180/mo., 549-6555.

Sublet 2 bdrm., free util.: AC, DW, disp., pool, tenn. ct., on bus rt., $200/mo. 665-2652.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

To sublet, 3 bedroom, Puffton Village, near bus stop, pool, tennis courts and laundry, $250 a month, 6/1-8/31, call 549-4759.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

TRAVEL

Bike trip! Wt. to bike with a group through Eastern Europe this summer? Brussels to Budapest. 7½ wks. No experience assumed. I did it last summer and it was great. Write: Alex Lipson, 2 Garden Terr., Cambridge, MA 02138, tel: (617) 547-1127.

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Wanted: one backpack w/ frame and sleeping bag. Cheap. Call Carol, 6-8947.

Woman wanted to share apt. on Cape, 5/24-9/24, w/ 2 women. Call Kim, 549-0630.

People to share house on Martha's Vine. June-Sept.; $450/season. Call 256-8460.

4th person needed for W. Yarmouth cottage, Mem.-Labor Day. Good living sit., call us! Kathy, 6-5112, Lou, 6-5117.

Woman housemate wanted: Amherst house, $87.50+. Available 6/1, call 253-5042, p.m.

Wanted—artist experienced in drawing pastel characterture from photograph, call John, 253-5873, after 5, keep trying.

WANTED TO RENT

Responsible couple will house/apt. sit June 1-31, care for plants, pets, yard, 253-2131.

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

Entertainment

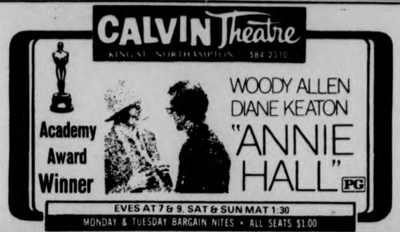
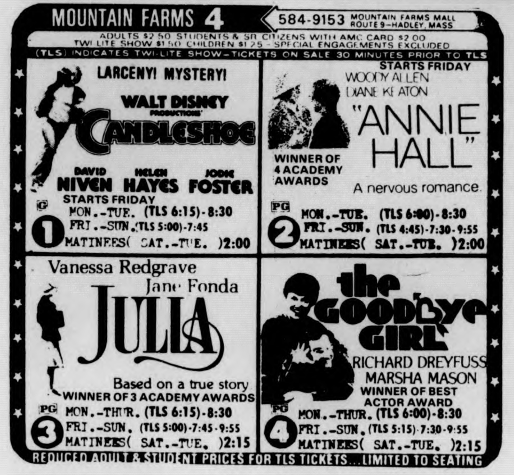
Upward Bound seeks qualified counselors and teachers for 1978 Summer Program. Applications will be made available in Room 205 New Africa House, Univ. of Mass. from April 3 through April 14. Prior experience with low-income, minority youth required. Minimum requirement for teachers: B.A. candidates should have some teaching experience. The University of Massachusetts is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.



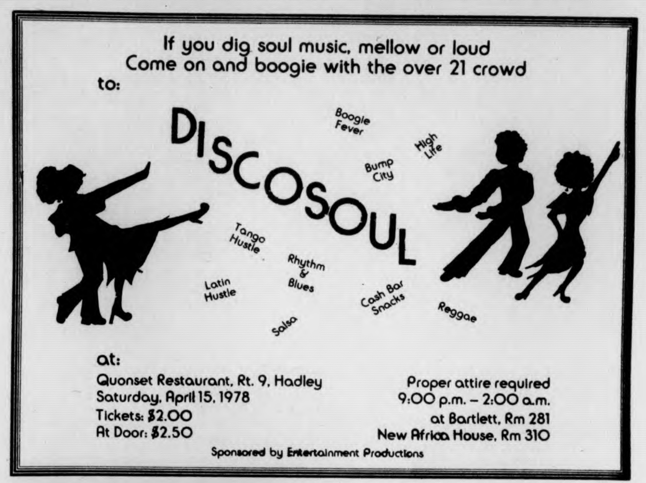
CALVIN Theatre
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310
Academy Award Winner
WOODY ALLEN
DIANE KEATON
"ANNIE HALL" PG
EVES AT 7 & 9. SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

AMITY ST AMHERST
AMHERST Cinema
253-5426
"PUTNEY SWOPE" 7:00
"JABBERWOCKY" 8:30
"MONTY PYTHON THE HOLY GRAIL" 10:00
TRIPLE FEATURE PROGRAM
SATURDAY & SUNDAY "MONTY PYTHON" Also 5:30
MON. & TUES. DOLLAR NITES

Academy of Music
Northampton
The Only Area Showing!
Now thru Tues., Apr. 18
SHOWN AT 7:30 ONLY!
1900
A FILM BY BERNARDO BERTOLUCCI
R
DOMINIQUE SANDA
ROBERT DE NIRO
at the Gates of Smith College



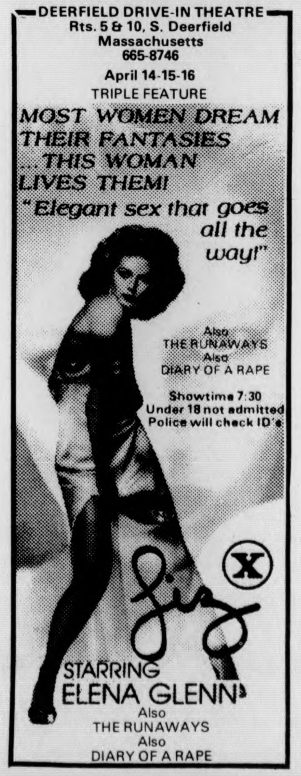
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 - SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS
1 LARCENY! MYSTERY! WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' CANDLESHOE
DAVID NIVEN HELEN HAYES JODIE FOSTER
STARTS FRIDAY
G
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00
2 STARTS FRIDAY WOODY ALLEN DIANE KEATON "ANNIE HALL"
WINNER OF 4 ACADEMY AWARDS
A nervous romance.
PG
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00
3 Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG
MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15
4 the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG
MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING



If you dig soul music, mellow or loud
Come on and boogie with the over 21 crowd
to:
DISCOSOUL
at:
Quonset Restaurant, Rt. 9, Hadley
Saturday, April 15, 1978
Tickets: $2.00
At Door: $2.50
Proper attire required
9:00 p.m. – 2:00 a.m.
at Bartlett, Rm 281
New Africa House, Rm 310
Sponsored by Entertainment Productions

SPRING DAY
TUESDAY, APRIL 18
Rain Date April 19
Sponsored by BETA CHI
11-6 Behind the Stadium
FEATURING
Bricker Band
Prauna
Mystic Traveller
Cash (formerly Bailey Bros.)
hot dogs
beer & soda
prizes
CLASSES UNOFFICIALLY CANCELLED
no cans or bottles

MAJESTIC CINEMA
84 Cottage Street (Rt. 141)
Easthampton, Mass. 01027
527-2346
April 12-18
HARRY REEMS
Butterflies 7:30
Summer Sessions 8:50
Mat. Thurs. & Fri. at 1:30
Under 21 not admitted



DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Rts. 5 & 10, S. Deerfield
Massachusetts
665-8746
April 14-15-16
TRIPLE FEATURE
MOST WOMEN DREAM THEIR FANTASIES ...THIS WOMAN LIVES THEM!
"Elegant sex that goes all the way!"
Also
THE RUNAWAYS
Also
DIARY OF A RAPE
Showtime 7:30
Under 18 not admitted
Police will check ID's
X
Liz
STARRING ELENA GLENN
Also
THE RUNAWAYS
Also
DIARY OF A RAPE

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131
BARGAIN $2.00 til 2:30 MATINEES EVERYDAY
THE FURY R
Oscar winner Richard Dreyfuss—Best Actor
the GOODBYE GIRL PG
rabbit test PG
The Turning Point PG
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
WALTER MATTHAU GLENDA JACKSON "HOUSE CALLS" PG
Winner of 7 Oscars
STAR WARS PG
CASEY'S SHADOW PG
PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES

©1977 Miller Brewing Co.
STATE
Now comes Miller time.
Miller High Life

DOONESBURY

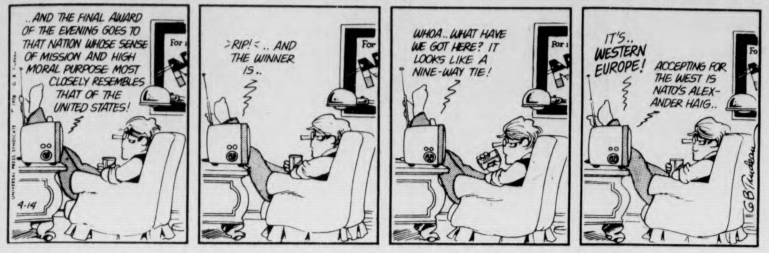
by Garry Trudeau



..AND THE FINAL AWARD OF THE EVENING GOES TO THAT NATION WHOSE SENSE OF MISSION AND HIGH MORAL PURPOSE MOST CLOSELY RESEMBLES THAT OF THE UNITED STATES!
>RIP!< .. AND THE WINNER IS..
WHOA.. WHAT HAVE WE GOT HERE? IT LOOKS LIKE A NINE-WAY TIE!
IT'S.. WESTERN EUROPE!
ACCEPTING FOR THE WEST IS NATO'S ALEXANDER HAIG..
4-14
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS

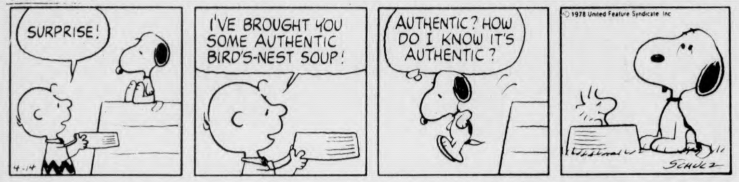
by Charles Schulz



SURPRISE!
I'VE BROUGHT YOU SOME AUTHENTIC BIRD'S-NEST SOUP!
AUTHENTIC? HOW DO I KNOW IT'S AUTHENTIC?
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate Inc
4-14
SCHULZ

B.C.

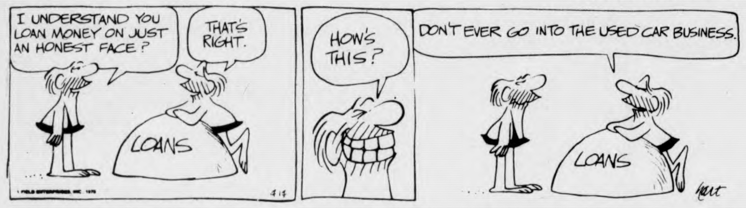
by Johnny Hart



I UNDERSTAND YOU LOAN MONEY ON JUST AN HONEST FACE?
THAT'S RIGHT.
LOANS
HOW'S THIS?
DON'T EVER GO INTO THE USED CAR BUSINESS.
LOANS
4-14
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL

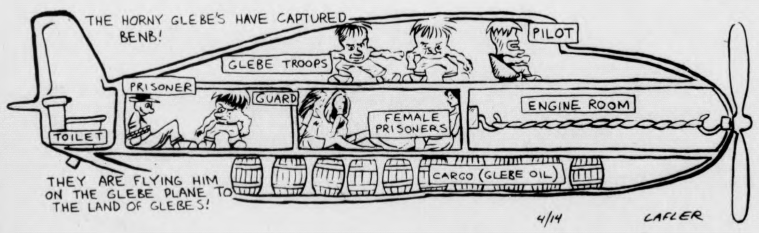
by Steve Lafler



THE HORNY GLEBE'S HAVE CAPTURED BENB!
PILOT
GLEBE TROOPS PRISONER GUARD FEMALE PRISONERS ENGINE ROOM
TOILET
CARGO (GLEBE OIL)
THEY ARE FLYING HIM ON THE GLEBE PLANE TO THE LAND OF GLEBES!
4/14
LAFLER

THE WANDERER

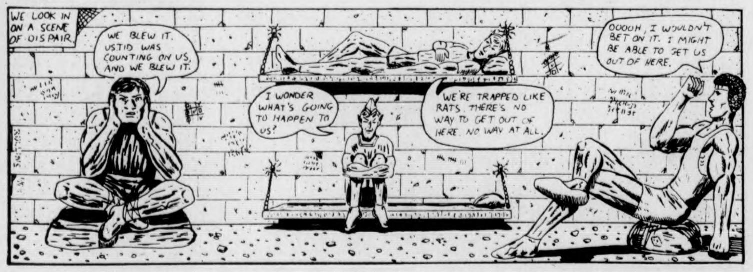
by Mark Rollins



WE LOOK IN ON A SCENE OF DISPAIR
WE BLEW IT. USTID WAS COUNTING ON US, AND WE BLEW IT.
I WONDER WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN TO US?
WE'RE TRAPPED LIKE RATS. THERE'S NO WAY TO GET OUT OF HERE. NO WAY AT ALL.
OOOOH, I WOULDN'T BET ON IT. I MIGHT BE ABLE TO GET US OUT OF HERE.

WALLY DORF

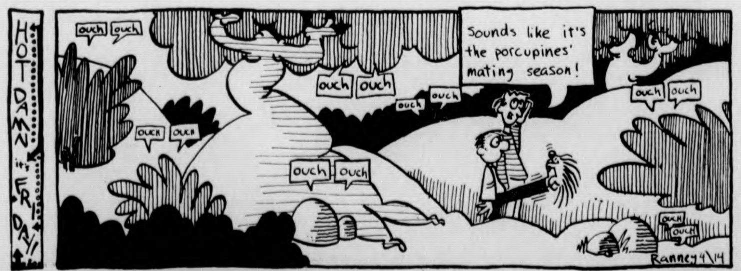
by Rob Ranney



HOT DAMN it's FRIDAY!
ouch ouch
ouch ouch
ouch ouch
ouch ouch
ouch ouch
Sounds like it's the porcupines' mating season!
ouch ouch
ouch ouch
Ranney 4\14

Your Birthday

FRIDAY, APRIL 14

Born today, you are a highly disciplined person. You waste no time in sentimentality. You see what you must do and consider no alternative. You do not deviate from a set course. Once you determine a goal, you keep at it until it is attained or deemed impossible.

You do not carry the weight of the world on your shoulders. Nevertheless, you take life seriously and look on even minor difficulties as worth your undivided attention. You enjoy sports, parties, all forms of entertainment, but you do not let these interfere with progress.

You are a tenacious worker. You will not give in to pressure to give up ambition. You will work toward the fulfillment of your vision of yourself, even though it may have little chance of coming true.

Also born on this date: Sir John Gielgud, actor; Ann Sullivan Macy, teacher of Helen Keller.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, APRIL 15

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Unless you can alternate work and play, you will develop tensions that hinder success.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Shrewdness wins the day, but not any friends. You might be better off failing.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Timidity makes it hard to take advantage of an opportunity for gain. Control emotions.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Nervous energy sees you through difficult early hours. Share gains with others.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — In trying to gain peace and quiet, you may create more chaos than was already there.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Don't cut off your nose to spite your face. There's more than there seems in a new excuse.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — A romantic streak prevents your being nervous of members of the opposioe sex. Take a chance at evening.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Family matters seem larger than they are. You can rest on your laurels later.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Use your executive ability around the house and turn chores into profitable ventures.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — If you can be flexible, another's hard-headed approach can't spoil chances for the future.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Emotions could work against you. Guard against misdirected anger, yours or another's.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Worry over trifles will leave you without energy for serious matters. Problems need solutions.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Aspect
5 Crowns of heads
10 Talks at length
14 Inactive
15 Residence
16 Turkish officer
17 Fetid
18 Seed-eating bird
19 Scold
20 Organic compounds
22 Cargo-carrying vessel
24 Unsound
25 Stamp on 27 Job learner
29 Omens
32 Assistance
33 Roman tutelary deity
34 Color
36 Gemstone
40 Shoshonean Indians
42 Plum-like fruits
44 Blue jeans' creator
45 Feminine title
47 Declines: Informal
49 Negative preifx
50 Latticed structure
52 "You've got to be ---------!"
54 Traversed
58 Fabric
59 Not taut
60 Unreturnable serve
62 Osculated
65 Peculiarity: Prefix
67 Having wings
69 Inevitable
70 Temporary crazes
71 Of the cheek
72 Old Olympic site
73 Gratuitous
74 Oglers
75 Chilly and wet

DOWN
1 Instrument
2 Fusses
3 --------- up: Messy
4 Conger catchers
5 Corridors
6 Mr. Lincoln
7 Ivan ----: Movie-maker
8 Proclamation
9 Spanish title
10 Earthenware vessel
11 Once more
12 As long as 13 ----- -a-manger: Dining room
21 Harvest
23 Tarry
26 Trades
28 Adored person
29 Fruit tree
30 Fiji chestnut
31 Reprimand
35 Inheritors
37 Gaspe or Florida
38 English river
39 Vim
41 Cutting tools
43 Commons and Congress VIPs
46 Flat-topped hill
48 Queen of the gods
51 Grew to be
53 Failed to attain
54 Steep rock face
55 Detecting device
56 Chemical compound
57 Postponement
61 Chest sound
63 British Isle
64 City ----
66 Ending for tuber or verb
68 --- and feather

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday's Puzzle Solved:

Garber's Gorillas face Rutgers, BC on road

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

Last year, the Rutgers Scarlet Knights traveled from Piscataway to Amherst and lost to the Minutemen in one of the best played lacrosse games on the Gorillas home turf.

"It was a great game for lacrosse in general," exclaimed Rutgers coach Tom Hayes. "It's too bad either team had to lose."

And though UMass coach (Dick) Garber would've liked to have replaced last Wednesday's home contest (vs. Vermont) with the Scarlet Knights, the Minutemen will hit the road again this weekend with a Saturday rematch with Rutgers, followed by a Patriot's Day night game under the lights at Boston College.

Rutgers, at four wins and two losses, is "expecting a real tough game, similar to last year's," said Hayes. "We're a pretty young team, though we only lost a few players from last season's team-including goalie starting goalie Rich Scipione. Bill Fisher started off slow, but has played well in goal the last couple games. "We've only played one good game."

The Knights have defeated Penn, Bucknell, Adelphi, and Long Island Lacrosse while falling to both Army and Navy.

The Minutemen meanwhile are on the upswing of their roller coaster schedule. Having alternated between a tough opponent and a weaker one, UMass has been plagued by inconsistency. Rutgers, as you can gather, will be a tough game.

The one good aspect of the Vermont game is that many players got in some playing time. In addition, both UMass' offense and defense looking sharp. UMass' offense and defense were clicking, keeping UVM in close check. The lopsided score also allowed 'Duck' Goldstein an early exit, giving both Eric Banhazl and Jeff Cohen a chance to show their stuff in goal.

Rutgers, which has been very competitive especially over the past seasons, ironically is not a big attraction for lacrosse fans on their home campus. "We play before more crowds on the road, maybe its because we don't have a hill" stated Hayes, in reference to UMass followers and field. "Up here, people don't want to stand around for two hours.... if it's a good day Saturday, we could have a big crowd."

I think the outcome of the game will represent what kind of a day it was.

'Cross checks..... the team hits the dusty trail for the third weekend in a row.... and the whists games continue for the team championship.... Gorillas are splitting the Campus-scene early today, in hopes of practicing when they hit Rutgers' campus.... remembering that a lot of students will head home for this long weekend — think about taking in the 7:30 p.m. BC-UM games — it's free ..... could catch the Sox-Brewers contest at Fenway (3 p.m.), leave the bleachers (and Labatts), a bite to eat at the nearby Pub, and over to Commonwealth Ave..... The Eagles, by the way are unofficially 1-5.....

Sports calendar

Yesterday's Results

Baseball 1 Springfield 2
Softball 4 Eastern Conn. 5
Softball 12 Eastern Conn. 3
Women's lacrosse 10 Northeastern 2
Men's tennis 5 MIT 4

Today

Women's golf vs. Mt. Holyoke at Hickory Ridge CC 1:00
Men's JV lacrosse vs. Tufts. Home 3:00
Men's track UMass Relays. Home

Saturday

Baseball vs. New Hampshire (2). Home 1:00
Men's lacrosse at Rutgers 1:30
JV softball vs. Franklin Pierce (2). Home 12:00
Men's JV lacrosse at Rhode Island 2:00
Men's track UMass Relays. Home
Women's track UMass Relays. Home 10:00
JV baseball at Becker Jr. College (2) 1:00
Men's crew vs. Trinity and URI at Lake Wickaboag
UMass Rugby Club vs. Dover (NH) RFC at Dover

Sunday

Baseball at Holy Cross 2:00
Softball vs. New Hampshire (2). Home 1:00
Women's crew vs. Conn. College at New London, Conn.

Monday

Men's lacrosse at BC 7:00
UMass Rugby Club vs. Amherst College at Amherst

Campbell out indefinitely

BOSTON [UPI] — Reliever Bill Campbell, the Boston Red Sox' winningest pitcher last year, received a cortisone injection yesterday in his swollen right elbow and will be sidelined indefinitely.

Campbell, 13-9 with 31 saves in 1977, said the problem was different from the tenderness he suffered in the tip of the right elbow during spring training.

The current soreness stems from "an inflammation of the muscle origin" in the inner part of the same elbow, said team doctor Dr. Arthur Pappas.

"The inflammation hurts most when a pitcher throws a breaking pitch," said Pappas, who said he would monitor Campbell closely over the next few days.

Campbell, whom Boston signed last season to a five-year, $1 million contract, needed two cortisone shots in 1977 when he pitched in 69 games.

Major outdoor track meet being held this Saturday

By KEVIN McCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

The UMass Relays. Saturday the Amherst campus will attempt to mimic the glamour and drama of the Montreal Olympic Games. At 10:00 the festivities begin as over 1000 athletes will test their skills in 45 events on the Minutemen's Derby Track.

This is the third year the university has hosted the track and field contest. All systems are go for the all day program which features women's events as well as men's, and a University Division as well as a College Division.

Several nationally recognized competitors are expected to respond to the starter's gun in their respective events.

Dr. Delano Meriwether, a 1971 and 1972 sprint champion in the National Amateur Athletic Union, will compete at 12:15 in the 100 yard dash, the event which thrust him into national athletic prominence.

Women's national and world record holder in the two mile run, Jan Merril, will sufficiently represent the female competitors which number over 300.

Providence College's Irish product, Gerry Deegan, this year's NCAA indoor two mile champion, will compete in the mile run.

"This is strictly a collegiate event, although we do allow a handful of AAU performers to compete," said master of ceremonies and head track coach Ken O'Brien.

The annual event is a full scale production as 90 judges and timers are employed to assist in running the contest. There is no team scoring as the emphasis rests on the skills of individual and relay performances.

"We are basically trying to develop a meet where individuals can register qualifying performances for the championship meets," said O'Brien.

Sports Notices

Guest lecture — NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle will speak on campus, Wednesday, April 19, at 11 a.m. in Bowker Auditorium. His talk is part of the UMass Sport Management program's spring lecture series.

Weekend Free Swim — Boyden, pool: Saturday and Sunday regular hours; Monday 12-5:30 p.m. NOPE pool: Saturday only. CLOSED: NOPE and Curry Hicks pools Sunday and Monday. The pools will follow the university schedule for Tuesday. All regular Monday hours will be in effect on Tuesday. Follow Monday's schedule on Tuesday.

the electoral convention
for the
Undergraduate Student Government Association will reconvene
today, April 10
in the Hatch
at 7:00.

Don't get caught with high
winter heating bills!

2 bedroom garden apartments from $255
Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE-
heat and hot water

NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS

For Your Convenience:
- + Free UMass bus to town and campus
- + Stove,refrigerator,disposal,and dishwasher
- + Fully carpeted
- + Wall to wall closets
- + Cablevision available
- + 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
- + 24 hour maintenance staff

★ Minimum 10 month
lease available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours—Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

FACES
scatter pins
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

FACES
STICKPINS
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Netmen win 'lyric' match

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

UMass men's tennis coach Steve Williams became lyrical about his team's tight 5-4 victory against MIT in Cambridge yesterday.

"It was age and sage that won us the match," he said.

Translated, that means freshman Keith Hovland outwitted MIT's Yusuf Maniya to win the sixth singles match, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Hovland's victory gave UMass a 3-3 split in the singles competition. The Minutemen doubles teams then took two of three matches to secure the team victory.

As fate would have it, Hovland and Steve Heyl's 7-6 (5-1 tie breaker), 6-3, victory over Maniya and Stan Drobal was the clincher.

Hovland led Maniya in the third set by a service after splitting the first two sets. Maniya tied the set at five but Hovland remained unflustered and won the next two games for the match.

"It was probably the biggest, most important match," said Williams. "And he's a freshman."

Hovland continually pressed with aggressive net play while Maniya tried to combat the attack from the baseline.

UMass' top singles player Alan Green came back from a 5-2 second set deficit to defeat Neil Rochowitz, 6-4, 7-6, (5-2 tie breaker)

Minuteman Rickey Sharton blew a 6-3 first set lead against Reed Sheftall and lost the final two sets 6-2, 6-0.

"I let the guy in the match," said Sharton. "Instead of putting pressure on I let him do what he wanted."

men's Levi's®
CORDS
~SAVE~
$2.00
REG 13.50
NOW 11.50
EXPIRES: APRIL 22 '78
WITH THIS AD
BOY'S...SAVE
CORDS $2.00
REG. 15.50
—NOW—13.50
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

PETE'S
PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST

FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
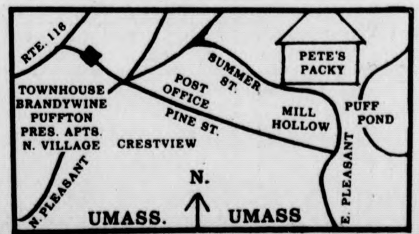
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)

NIGHTLY 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. 6:00 p.m.-10:30 p.m.



CASTEL RUBOUN
LAMBRUSCO
Reg. $2.50
$1.99

SCHAEFER
12 oz. cans
$5.80

Laxwomen tame Huskies with strong second half

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

ASHLAND — The UMass women's lacrosse team, led by Deb Hartley's five goals, including four in the second half, outscored Northeastern University 10-2 for its second win in two days.

It was the strong offensive effort in the second half in which UMass outscored NU 8-1 that led to the easy win.

The first 25 minutes of play was at times, sloppy, with both teams dropping passes and battling for ground balls and UMass led only 2-1 at the half. Coach Frank Garahan attributed his team's play to "being mentally tired after yesterday's (8-3) win over Brown."

After some initial pressure, Julie Hall scored the first goal as the passing of Kelley Salls, Jean Hackett, and Judy Kennedy brought the ball up the field quickly in front of their own goal. Kennedy got the assist.

UMass got some good chances but hit the post twice in a row after a Northeastern goal was disallowed for players being in the crease.

The second goal came from the "controlled offense" as Hackett passed to Hartley behind the net, who then came from behind the goal and scored. NU's Hutton got one back as she put an underhand shot behind goalie Robin Jennings for the halftime score of 2-1.

The Gazelle's found the offense easier as NU went from their zone defense to man-to-man. Jean Hackett scored her second goal as she took a pass from Judy Kennedy coming down the center.

Their fourth goal was a team effort as Jennings, after a save, cleared the ball to Sue Kibling, who then gave it to Hackett, who returned it to Sue, who found Hartley open for the goal.

The fifth goal came as Carri Nickerson intercepted a clearing pass and passed it to Hartley in front of the crease. An alert Hartley scored again as she took an errand UMass pass in front of the goal and fired the ball behind NU goalie DiRienzo.

After NU cut the lead to 6-2, Kibling fired a shot in the upper right hand corner after taking a pass from Hackett behind the net.

It was Hackett for their eighth goal on another length of the field rush and Hartley scored the ninth from Kibling. Kibling again (as she did against Brown) scored the final goal catching the upper left hand corner of the goal.

The defense, headed by Jennings' fine saves kept the team in the game in the first half. Salls, Grace Martinelli, Gayle Hutchinson, and Olivia Lovelace each made fine defensive plays before Hartley, Kibling and Hackett (both two goals and two assists apiece) took over.

UMass is now 3-0 as they pass the first tough part of the schedule.

Ruggers open strong

By ART SIMAS
Collegian Staff

The UMass rugby football club traveled to Concord, N.H. last Saturday turning in a 1-1-1 record on a blustery, raw day. In a home match the prior week, April 1, the ruggers shut out the opposition from Berlin, N.H. in posting two impressive wins over the A and B sides.

In the A side game the Minutemen "played a very fine game for 70 minutes," Doc Lawrence, the UMass faculty mentor said. Unfortunately the game is 80 minutes in length because Concord, ranked 2nd in New England last spring, began taking advantage of a tired UMass squad, running the score to 27-0.

It was only 4-0 at halftime.

Gaining control on line-outs was a problem for UMass. Concord fed the ball quickly to its backs from this formation, while "Concord's forwards kept the ball moving, even after being tackled," Doc Lawrence said.

"That was probably our toughest competition this spring," Coolbaugh said. "If we can maintain the momentum for a full game we should be all right."

The B side game was pretty much a defensive struggle, ending in an 8-8 tie. Both teams scored once in each half.

Setting up the UMass tries was Eric Schaffer. He had two outstanding bursts from the fullback position, enabling Tom Griffin, a second row player, to pounce on a loose ball in the endzone.

Going with an 8 man push in the pack UMass scored its second try about midway through the second period.

It had one more scoring chance but time ran out and the game ended in a stalemate.

In the third game of the day UMass downed Concord 12-0. Concord had many inexperienced players and "UMass capitalized well," Coolbaugh said.

The forwards of UMass dominated play from the outset moving the ball with consistency. Mistakes in ball handling by Concord were costly because UMass was winning many of the loose rucks gaining possession again.

The UMass tries were made by Chris Shepherd and Gary Bechtold, a hooker. It's unusual that a hooker scored because he is located in the center of the pack when the ball comes out of a scrum.

The next games are slated for Saturday at Dover, N.H. and Monday against arch-rival Amherst.

FACES
STRAW HATS
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

FACES
UMBRELLAS
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Welenc sharp on hill but batsmen defeated

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

SPRINGFIELD — The UMass baseball team put the noose around their own necks yesterday, surrendering a 2-1 loss to Springfield College.

A combination of sloppy fielding (six errors) and untimely hitting (9 left on base) were the Minutemen's major downfalls.

The lack of support spoiled another strong effort by UMass pitcher Doug Welenc. Welenc went the distance allowing only three singles (two of them of the infield variety), striking out 5 and walking none. He was in total control throughout the game with the exception of those moments of crisis caused by his own worst enemy — the defense.

The two unearned runs came across in the fourth inning as a result of a single, a wild pitch and three infield miscues. Two of the balls that were scored as errors were admittedly tough chances but nevertheless could have been fielded.

Those two Springfield runs stood up, and were the only runs in the contest till the 9th inning when UMass pushed across their one lone run.

The Minutemen outhit their rivals 8-3 but fell short on the scoreboard because of the inability to get the clutch hits when they had to. In each of the first six innings UMass managed a hit, but could not get a man across the plate. They stranded two runners in the second, third, and sixth inning, but every time Springfield's lefthander Paul Soucy escaped unharmed.

In the ninth UMass finally broke his shutout bid, and provided a dramatic conclusion to the game. George Kelley, who had three hits (a double and two singles) started off the Minutemen's last gasp with an infield single. With the following two batters grounding out and pinch hitter Dave Oleksak bouncing one to third baseman it appeared the game would end there, but the ball skipped into left field, and UMass still had a hope.

Mark Sullivan kept the rally going with a sharp single to centerfield. Suddenly the score was 2-1 with runners on both first and second, and co-captain Ed Skribiski at the plate. Last year's team MVP had a chance to tie it, and for a brief second it appeared he had. His hard-hit ball up the middle seemed to elude Sousy, but he got a piece of it, deflecting the ball to the shortstop who calmly tossed it to second base for the force out to end the game.

The Minutemen lost more than just the game, they also lost the services of starting second baseman Mike Stockley. Stockley pulled a muscle in his back during warmups, forcing Coach Dick Bergquist to make some last minute lineup changes. Ed Skribiski filled in at second while Mark Leahy substituted at short. Bergquist is uncertain how long Stockley may be out of action but expressed his concern stating "Mike had been playing very solid defense and you hate to lose him."

Perhaps the only consolation for UMass will be their endless road trip, which has spanned the entire 19 game schedule and will finally end come this Saturday. They will play a double header starting at 1:00 versus the University of New Hampshire.

Mitwomen, EConn split

By BETH COLLINS
Collegian Staff

"To only lose is to lose, but to lose and learn from the loss is as good as winning."

(¶"$!?%/) Spring fever?, Poor directions?, Only five minutes to warm up? Nice try, but there aren't any excuses for the first loss of the women's softball team. The Minutewomen travelled to Eastern Connecticut (the long way) to split a doubleheader, 5-4 and won 12-3 in the nightcap.

Defense was the name of game one. A poor defense. Eight UMass errors dampened the comeback of starting pitcher Gail Carter.

Carter, who finally looked like the 1977 Gail Carter, threw only 44 pitches as compared to Eastern's 97.

Walks became "as good as a hit" as eight Minutewomen received a free ride to first base. This was their only salvation for most of the game as the batting lineup could only come up with two hits.

The seventh inning looked like the typical UMass comeback. Down 5-3, the Minutewomen managed to load the bases on walks and a single by Kathy Horrigan. A Sue Peters single boosted the score to 5-4, but that's all UMass could come up with, as two runners were left dead on the basepaths.

Bruised pride healed quickly as the Minutewomen moved on to bigger and better things, defeating Eastern 12-3 in the nightcap.

Down 2-0, UMass scored four runs in the third inning and never had to look back. Three consecutive base hits by Peters, Horrigan, and Rhonda McManus scored a run and a Susan DiRocco sacrifice brought home Horrigan. Elaine Howle drew a walk with the bases loaded to add another tally to the scoreboard.

Trish O'Connor shone from the mound as she pitched her way to an impressive first victory. The senior rookie limited Eastern to just three runs on 5 hits. Walks were once again a crucial factor as O'Connor gave up O as compared to Eastern's 13.

The Minutewomen hope to stay on the winning track for good as they face UNH in a doubleheader this Sunday at 1:00 on the fields behind NOPE.

IN THE HOTBOX... Sue Peters leads the team in RBI's with 13.... The Minutewomen have walked 43 times already this season and only have 10 strikeouts.... 19 thefts have already occurred on the basepaths in '78.... depth behind the plate was impressive as Sue DiRocco played as outstanding game.

Trackwomen are set, and no 'buts' about it

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

Diana Sealy perhaps summed it up best.

"I've been busting my butt," the sophomore quarter-miler said earlier this week.

The immediate object of her efforts, and those of her UMass teammates is tomorrow's UMass Relays, the biggest track meet in New England, and definitely the biggest meet on the women's spring schedule.

The fruit she expects to reap from her daily workouts?

"I can feel a 56.9 (seconds) quarter," Sealy said confidently. "Anyway, I'm hoping for the best."

She is the defending champion in the event, as she won in 1977 over 61 other runners.

If 61 sounds obscene for one event, check out a field that may exceed 1,000 competitors, both male and female. National class runners such as Dr. Delano Meriweather and Jan Merrill will be competing.

The Minutewomen will be going into the meet with a host of individual and relay performers.

Seniors Nancy Cominoli, Ginger Bulman, Sue Swartz and Captain Bonnie Bukowski will be running in their final UMass Relays in a UMass uniform. Freshmen such as Tina Francario, Cathy Harrington, Karen Snow, Linda Welzel, Sue Ares, Anna Mathieu, Kelly Butler, Linda Stillman, Mary Ann Stravinskas, Liz Skelton, Eileen Everett and Priscilla Wilson are beginning promising careers at UMass.

The team is fleshed out by a nucleus of upperclass runners, jumpers and throwers, including Julie Horgan, Sealy, Cindi Martin, Karolyn Shea, Diane Crawford, Karen Sweeney, Barb Callanan, Debbie Farmer, Moni Scott, Sue Mulligan and Laurie Wolf.

Beginning tomorrow at 9:45 a.m., they will be matched against 25 of the top teams in New England on the college level, and including AAU clubs.

The Minutewomen are in fairly good shape, although several runners are coming off nagging injuries and illnesses.

Sealy suffered a recurrence of the flu, and has only recently gotten over it. She has, though, been training diligently.

Suffering knee problems are Bukowski and Callanan, although both have been training, however spotty it has been. Wolf also suffered a hamstring pull before the Eastern's indoors. She has run "extremely strong" since then, according to Coach Charlotte Lettis.

Best chances for top honors tomorrow rest with Harrington in the high jump, Snow in the javelin, Sealy in the quarter, Martin in the 880 and the 4 x 110 relay. "We've got four quick people in me, Cindi (Martin), Linda (Stillman) and Nancy (Cominoli)," said Sealy.

SOX PITCHING HOPES — Newcomers Mike Torrez (L) and Dennis Eckersley (R) relax during their first Fenway Park workout yesterday. Torrez picked up his first win in a Boston uniform on Wednesday, while Eckersley, acquired in a trade with Cleveland, will be the starting pitcher when the Sox meet Texas in their home opener today. (UPI)

Collegian Sports

Bill Edelstein

Lambasting legends

"How the mighty art fallen!" — King David, 2nd Samuel

David must have voiced that phrase right after reading the front page, "In This Corner" column in Wednesday's Boston Globe which revealed that the "Casey" immortalized by Ernest Lawrence Thayer's "Casey at the Bat" was a mere Massachusetts public school teacher — a lowly educator.

It isn't every day that a legend can be shattered so thoroughly over the morning cup of coffee. In fact, such a revelation could, under normal circumstances, be considered a once-in-a-lifetime occurrence, if not for the following, broader-based, more far-reaching legend-purge made possible by a series of gritty investigations deep into the background of the sports film.

"Rocky" — Popular belief has it that this powerful saga of a born loser — an underdog — who gets a shot at the heavyweight boxing title and almost wins, was meant to symbolize the author's film career. Further embellishments to the legacy portray Sylvester Stallone eating only wine and cheese during the scant three days needed to pen the script.

Fact is, Stallone was watching cartoon reruns on television for the three-day period, inspiring him to name the lead character of his movie after Rocky the Flying Squirrel. In spirit, however, the starring role is dedicated to Bullwinkle Moose.

"One-on-One" — Controversy raged when this film was released shortly after "Rocky." As in "Rocky," "One-on-One" is the story of an underdog. As in "Rocky," "One-on-One" shows the star of the film as finding himself through sport. Nevertheless, "Rocky" was not the inspiration for "One-on-One." Dolly Parton was.

"Fear Strikes Out" — Jimmy Piersall, right? Jimmy Piersall, wrong. The ex-Red Sox outfielder borrowed the name of his book-based film from the biography of pro-bowling immortal, Melvin Fear.

The biography centers on Fear's ability to "knock over the big pin" and culminates in his title match against Kenny Spare in which Fear needs strikes in trmaes three through ten in order to defeat his opponent.

"Kansas City Bomber" — The raison d'etre for this epic roller derby tale is generally misunderstood as simply providing the proper milieu for Raquel Welsh to strip in a locker room.

In actuality, the flick commemorates a Missouri terrorist who was especially adept with pyrotechnic devices. Financial backers of the film, however, demanded the plot be revised due to some bad press terrorists had been receiving. Only the movie's title remained unchanged.

"The Longest Yard" — Coming out of the theater, many patrons expressed the mistaken belief that the film was "made for Bert Reynolds." If only these people knew how wrong they were! The screenplay for "Longest Yard" was written in memory of Howard Hughes' gardener who was overpowered by a hundred-pound bag of fertilizer.

"Bang the Drum Slowly" — Experts point to "Brian's Song" as the prototype for this yarn which centers on the relationship between a star pitcher and his dying catcher. However, the motion picture was based on a book written 20 years prior to the film's release — about 18 years before "Brian's Song" premiered on television.

The book was co-authored by Buddy Rich's parents, who kept trying to keep young Buddy in tempo with the Milton Berle theme song.

"Endless Summer" — Whenever this movie is mentioned, visions of vast Hawaiian surf surge through the memory. Yet this should not be so. The rich atmosphere of Hawaii was not the inspiration for "Endless Summer." The film was made as a tribute to Springfield-TV meterologist John Quill, who, in 1950, went berserk and predicted, "Sunshine, with highs in the 80's for the remainder of the decade."

"And somewhere men are laughing
And somewhere kids don't scoff.
But there is no joy at UMass —
Mighty Casey was a prof!"
With apologies to E.L. Thayer

---

Learning Tomorrows

University of Massachusetts
Conference on the Future of Education
April 18-21, 1978

Presented by the Future Studies Program
School of Education
University of Massachusetts
at Amherst

Learning Tomorrows is co-sponsored by the World Future Society and endorsed by the Massachusetts Teacher's Association.

Special Tickets Box

A limited number of tickets to the Buckminster Fuller Lecture Friday evening will be available on a first-come first-served basis. Individuals who purchased Friday's Conference tickets may pick up tickets for the Fuller Keynote Address (Friday, 8 p.m., Fine Arts Concert Hall) at the Information Desk on the first floor at the bottom of escalators in the Campus Center Friday between noon and 3 p.m. UMass students with a validated I.D may pick them up Friday at the Information Desk between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Admission to Learning Tomorrows events:

All UMass students, staff and faculty will be admitted to each event by simply showing a UMass I.D.

All others must purchase a "Learning Tomorrows" ticket for $5 from the Fine Arts Center Box Office. These tickets will be valid for any event on the day for which they are issued.

Learning Tomorrows Exhibitors

EXHIBITORS ATTENDING LEARNING TOMORROWS: THE UMASS CONFERENCE ON THE FUTURE OF EDUCATION

HUMANITIES PRESS, INC.
Atlantic Highlands, NJ 07716

RODALE PRESS, INC.
Organic Park
Emmaus, Pa 18049

SIMON & SCHUSTER
1230 Ave of the Americas
New York, NY 10020

TRICONTINENTAL FILM CENTER, INC.
333 Ave of the Americas
New York, NY 10014

FEARON-PITMAN PUBLISHERS INC.
6 Davis Drive
Belmont, Ca. 94002

HUNGER PROJECT
8 Wyman Court
Winchester, Ma 01890

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
c/o Amherst Food Co-op
24 Churchill Street
Amherst, Ma 01002

MANDALA PRESS
Long Plain Road
Leverett, Ma 01054

CONTROL DATA
60 Hickory Drive
Waltham, Ma 02154

NASP
School of Education
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Ma 01003

AMERICAN GUIDANCE SERVICE, INC.
Publishers' Building
Circle Pines, Minn 55014

ACADEMIC THERAPY PUBLICATIONS
1539 Fourth Street
San Rafael, Ca 94901

NEWSWEEK
444 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10022

NEW ENGLAND SCHOOL SUPPLY
P.O. Box 1581
Springfield, Ma. 01101

BANTAM BOOKS
16 Brucewood Road
Acton, Ma. 01720

LEARNING TREE
Box 33
Amherst, NH 03031

PHOENIX FILMS
470 Park Ave South
New York, NY 10016

MASS. EXEC. COMM FOR EDUCATIONAL TELEVISION
54 Rindge Ave Extension
Cambridge, Ma 02140

NATIONAL HUMANISTIC EDUCATION CENTER
110 Spring Street
Saratoga Springs, NY 12866

EARTHRISE
P.O. Box 120 Annex Station
Providence, RI 02901

TOWARD TOMORROW FAIR
Hasbrouk Building
UMass
Amherst, Ma 01003

WORLD GAME
Hasbrouk Building
UMass
Amherst, Ma 01003

UMASS FUTURE STUDIES
164 Hills House South
UMass
Amherst, Ma 01003

DINING GUIDE

Eating at the Learning Tomorrows Conference

1. The following are located in the Campus Center:
-Top of the Campus Restaurant, 11th floor, 11:30 to 1:30
-The Hatch, Student Union Building, 11:30 to 1:30
-The Blue Wall, 2nd floor Concourse, 11:30 to 1:30
-Coffee Shop, 2nd floor Concourse, 7 a.m. 12 p.m.
-Quickie Lunch, 10th floor, 11:30 to 1:30
2. The following are setting up especially for the Conference and can be found near the pond between the Campus Center and the Fine Arts Center:
-The Bagel Deli, Bagels, brownies, cheese
-Goten of Japan, chicken, noodles, vegetables
-The Mobile Feast, tempura, falafels, soda, coffee, tea
-Whole Wheat Pizza Factory, pizza, tofu pies, granola

"Learning Tomorrows" would never have come to be without the dedication, creativity, and hard work of a very remarkable group of graduate students. The Conference was conceived, developed and carried out largely through their efforts, and yet their work has been offered with no thought of personal gain. I am honored to have them as my students and friends, and I wish to take this opportunity to thank them, publicly, for their contributions

- to Al Peakes and Brett Parent for the idea;
- to Bob Kahn, Fran Welson, Jim Masker, David Landesman, and Steve Anzalone for too much work and too many hours of their lives;
- to Betty Swasey, Pepper, and Mark Leccese and all those too numerous to mention who did more than they should have to make "Learning Tomorrows" happen, thank you.

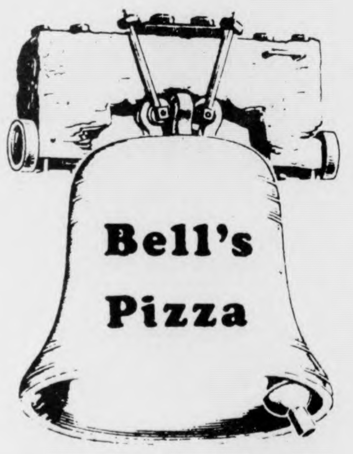
Peter H. Wagschal
Associate Professor
Director, Future Studies Program

"The Bell of Amherst"



Bell's
Pizza

Once you've tried it you're spoiled for life

549-1311
253-9051

65 University Drive

COMING to DAVID'S
OF MT. FARMS MALL — THE AREA'S NEWEST "CLUB"

TUES. APRIL 18
•MAKESHIFT STRING BAND!
COUNTRY AND BLUE GRASS —

WED. APRIL 19
JAKE EPSTEIN QUINTET!
"JAZZ"

INTERNATIONAL & VEGETARIAN CUISINE

THURS. APRIL 20
CAROL CRAWFORD
&
• ALL THAT JAZZ

FRI.-SAT. APRIL 21-22
HOT CALYPSO KEY

TEL. 586-1878

SUNDAY APRIL 23
DINE IN THE Middle East 6:30-10:30 p.m.
ENJOY THE MUSICAL SOUNDS & CAPTIVATING DANCING ON OUR STAGE
MUSIC, LIVE SHOWS, FOLK DANCING & DINNER AT LOW SUNDAY PRICES

Future Studies:

'A Choice for the Future'

By MARK LECCESE

Editor's Note: Peter Wagschal is an associate professor in the School of Education, and the director of the Future Studies Program.

Peter Wagschal(left) and School of Education Dean Mario Fantini

Collegian-

First, let's talk about the future studies program itself. What is it?

Wagschal-

It's mostly doctoral, with about 24 doctoral students. There's about 20 undergraduate students, student teaching each year. And about half a dozen master candidates. These are teachers already, getting master's degrees.

Collegian-

When did the future studies program begin?

Wagschal-

It is old. It is the oldest future studies program in the country. It started in early 1970. It started about the same time as the program at the University of Minnesota, and I think we preceeded them. Most future studies programs are sort of technologically oriented, like the Hudson Institute Think Tank.

Collegian-

Where's that?

Wagschal-

That's in New York. They have contracts with the Pentagon, and they do forecasting for the military and business, much of it assuming that America can continue to grow the way it's been growing, and project the future from the apst. Our program mostly looks at alternative possibilities, and our own special definition of futurists are people who make future possibilities more real for other people. So we like to look at all the possible futures there are and make them sufficiently compelling and possible for people so that they can see that they can either go that way or this way or that way.

Collegian-

What kind of curriculum do you offer? What kind of courses are there in the future studies program?

Wagschal-

There are three sort of standard courses we have. One is an introduction, one is a grad seminar that varies from semester to semester and focuses on a topic or an author, and one that deals with educational planning and futures for education in particular.

Collegian-

Is that a topic you focus on, being part of the School of Education: futures in education?

Wagschal-

Futures in education, which means that we develop a lot of curriculum for use by teachers, and future oriented topics, for classrooms. We also do forecasting of the future of education: what are the possibilities for the future of education in America, what are the posibilities for the future of education, and what are our preferences, what would we like them to be? Then we offer special topic courses.

Collegian-

What about doctoral dissertations?

Wagschal-

Our dissertations have ranged from curriculums to a psychological study of people's futures attitudes and their relationship to things like self-concept and social responsibility to a study of Buckminster Fuller and his thoughts on education. A survey of existing futures courses in elementary schools across the country.

Collegian-

Elementary schools?

Wagschal-

Yes, there is a lot of futures stuff taught in elementary schools.

Collegian-

Who do you do your work for?

Wagschal-

(Laughs) Well, we're agents for the CIA.

Collegian-

You mentioned that other futures groups do work for the Pentagon and business. Do you just do reports for publication?

Wagschal-

We have on occasion submitted grants to do work for various people, but most of them turn up empty. We are currently, I think beginning this spring and summer, going to be doing a report for the Office of Energy that will give the scenario for what Franklin County would look like if Franklin County were operated on totally renewable energy sources.

Collegian-

So you concentrate heavily on future alternatives and not projecting the future from the past?

Wagschal-

There are a lot of people who do that. You can watch television and get that. What we want to look at is what are the other possibilities for the future that you might not think of if you simply took the past and extended it into the future. The assumption is that if everybody had a choice for the future, if people decided what they wanted it to look like, and were reasonably convinced of that, they could probably make it happen. One of the reasons that the future tends to look like the past is that people just assume it will be, and operate as if it will be, and that's how it gets to be that way.

Collegian-

What about the Learning Tomorrows conference itself?

Wagschal-

It's shaping up to be a bigger event than we had planned it to be. There are about 250 presentations over the four days, and that doesn't include the films and the exhibitors. They range from futurists, students, administrators, the mayor of Hartford is coming to give a presentation. All sorts of people are doing presentations that I never expected would. Most of them just because they want to, not because they're getting paid. Most of the people are not getting an honorarium, and most of the presentors aren't even getting paid expenses.

Collegian-

Is this conference the first of its kind?

Wagschal-

As far as I know, it is the largest conference on the future of education that's ever been put together. Almost all the presentors, in one way or another, have chosen to deal with the future of education, which is interesting, because we didn't require them to do that, so we'll get perspectives of the future of almost every area of education you can imagine.

Collegian-

What about Buckminster Fuller?

Wagschal-

He's the scholar-in-residence. Given the diversity of presentations, it will be nice to have Bucky as a keynote, and I think it will be appropriate to have him at the end, because Bucky is such a comprehensive thinker that if anybody could, when it's all over, tie it all together into a comprehensive package, it will be him. Bucky always speaks extemporaneously, he never writes anything down. When he gives a talk, it's always a new one. He just starts with where ever his mind is at the time and begins to talk about the nature of the universe, and it always goes differently. He never talks from a script, and each one is new.

THE LOOK OF TODAY

His & Her Precision Hair Styling
Ye Curling Iron
Triangle St Amherst 549 4412

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $6.95

HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

Films

Rm. 162 Campus Center

Tuesday

Toast - (Bullfrog) Traces path of food production and energy utilized to create a piece of toast.
The Solar Frontier - (Bullfrog) Creating solar heated homes designed for Snowbelt by the average person.
Desert Cloud - (Bullfrog) Solar energy made visible.
Leisure - (Pyramid) A witty insightful, animated commentary on the past and future role of leisure in our society. (Academy Award Winner)
The Four-Day Week - (McGraw Hill) A discussion of leisure and the problems associated with it.
Automatic - (Phoenix) A satirical presentation of the never ending conflict person vs. machine.
The Time Has Come - (Third Eye) Produced to help parents of young children become aware of the limitations created by sex-role stereotyping.
The Sooner The Better - (Third Eye) Filmed around the country, this film examines how non-sexist education works within different schools and with children from a variety of racial, ethnic and socio-economic backgrounds.
Why Man Creates - (Pyramid) A series of explorations, episodes akomments on yby a master of conceptual design, Saul Bass. This recognized classic is particularly relevant to those concerned with teaching and learning.
The Murderer - (Phoenix) Ray Bradbury's comic story of an individual in a futuristic society who becomes fed up with the communication devices that relentlessly demand his attention. He decided to liberate society by simply "turning them off."
The New Schools - (Tri-Continental) Describes Cuba's new plan of junior high schools in the countryside and indicates its guiding principles.

Wednesday

Lovejoy's Nuclear War
Organism - (Phoenix) Film artist Hilary Harris makes an analogy between living tissue and the structure of cities. By experiencing the unique majestic totality of the city we change our relationship to it.
Cities Of The Future - (McGraw Hill) Examines various efforts to solve problems of mobility and suburban sprawl. Included animated historical development of the city.
Down To Earth-City Living - (Pyramid) Shows ecological alternatives for urban dwellers as implemented at the Integral Urban House in Berkeley, California.
A Sense Of Humus - (Bullfrog) Documents organic farming in America.
Looking For Organic America - (Bullfrog) Visiting organic farmers from coast to coast.
Get It Together - (Pyramid) The life of a young paraplegic illuminates the possibilities of human spirit.
Children Of The Long Beaked Bird - (Bullfrog) Follows a day in the life of a young Crow Indian boy. Challenges the stereotypes about Native Americans.
Men's Lives - (New Day) Filmed in a variety of settings, the movie listens to men of all ages evaluate their lives in terms of how they have dealt with the role of the ideal man as an aggressive, emotionless, physically fit sexually powerful, financially successful person.
A Wedding In The Family - (New Day) Is a warm, funny and moving look at one of the most sacred coming-of-age rituals for young American woman getting married.
The Flashettes - (New Day) An inspiring documentary about an inner city girls track club.
Betty Tells Her Story - (New Day) An honest, direct, and moving personal story about Betty needing "the perfect dress" for a special occasion.
Minor Alteration - (Tri-Continental) A unique film investigation of thek l not in the Boston public schools which attempts to get to the root of the crisis by viewing it from both white and black perspectives.

Thursday

T'ai Chi Chuan- ( ) Films of Master Cheng demonstrating power and grace developed through practice of T'ai Chi, a Chinese movement exercise

Lord Thing- (Viewfinders) Brilliant documentary history of the Conservative Vice Lords- one of Chicago's largest black street gang (Silver Medal, Venice Film Festival)

The Doonesbury Special - (Pyramid) The comic strip characters mirror contemporary society as they come face to face with shifting values and the conclusion of the activist sixties

Living The Good Life - (Bullfrog) A discussion with Helen and Scott Nearing, people who have devotedly lived an ecological lifestyle

Man Made Man - (McGraw Hill) An exploration into some of the more miraculous methods used to remake the human body and a consideration of the implications of these scientific advances for the future

The Weird World Of Robots -(McGraw Hill) A meeting with Mobot the robot. No doubt about it, the age of the robot is here

Summerhill - (McGraw Hill) A portrait of the classic example of the "Progressive" system of education. Interview with Alexander Neil
The Return Of The Kiteman- (Phoenix) This story takes place in the future where a large bureaucratic government has declared kite flying "self oriented (that is, not Society-oriented) and therefore illegal. It is the story of Henry, a 45 year old man and his attempts to fly a kite

Friday

Foxfire - (McGraw Hill) An imaginative teacher brings relevance into a Georgian high school by starting a magazine in which the students explore the live of local people

A Minor Alteration - (Tri-Continental) A unique film investigation of the racial conflict in the Boston public schools which attempts to get to the root of the crisis by viewing it from both white and black perspectives

Spaceborne- (Pyramid) An exhilarating tribute to human's exploration of space, composed entirely of NASA film from actual voyages

Stranger Than Science Fiction - (McGraw Hill) A veritable anthology of science fiction memorabilia

Katutura - (Phoenix) Katutura is an African word that means total insecurity. For the Blacks of Southeast Africa it describes the dormitory town where they have to live within a white land. The film places a wealth of detail and history and results in a deep analysis of South Africa today (Red Ribboon- American Film Festival)

A Search For Antiworlds - (Pyramid) The Story of a large scale experimental search for antimatter

Portrait Of Grandpa Doc - (Phoenix) An artist struggling to complete a portrait of his grandfather who died several years earlier reflects on his childhood and the time spent with his grandfather

The History Book - (Tri-Continental) Animated history of Western Civilization from the viewpoint of the common person, tracing the rise of capitalism from the middle ages to the present day. Segments from this nine-part series include an examination of feudalism, the industrial revolution, colonization of Africa, the growth of slavery, conflicts between major industrial nations that led to the world wars, socialist revolutions and national liberation struggles of the present day.
Pedal Power - (Bullfrog) Human muscular power - pedal energy.
Bill Loosely's Heat Pump - (Bullfrog) Animated and fascinating look at a ground heat pump.
The Food Revolution - (McGraw-Hill) Attention is focused on the enormous and frightening problem of trying to feed the ever-increasing billions of people in the world. Examines various attempts for increasing the world's food supply.
Diet For A Small Planet - (Bullfrog) Examines the importance of reducing meat intake and freeing protein to feed the world's hungry.

whole wheat
PIZZA FACTORY
"See our booth at the Learning Tomorrows Conference" 256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
5-2 a.m.
Corner of Main & Triangle St.
9 Minute Pick-Up Service

Don Gleason's
KNOWN FOR QUALITY TENTS, CAMPING EQUIPMENT, &
BACKPACKING GEAR.

Don Gleason's offers the largest selection and display of camping and backpacking gear available in Western Massachusetts and Connecticut. If you are thinking of going camping or backpacking, come to Gleason's.

Tents of all shapes, styles and sizes are one of our specialties. At Don Gleason's you don't buy a tent by looking at a picture and getting handed a box. On display the year round we have over 30 tents set up for your inspection. Also when you pick the tent you want, we will help you get acquainted with it on our tent check out table

CAMPUS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET, NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
FROM AMHERST TAKE RT. 9 TO NORTHAMPTON AT CENTER OF TOWN (WHERE LIGHTS ARE) TAKE A LEFT. PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH AND A LEFT OF RT. 5

Store Hours: April thru July 1978
Weekdays 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
Thursday & Friday Nights till 9 p.m.
Saturday 9 to 5

FREE 96 PAGE CATALOG UPON REQUEST WITH COPY OF THIS AD

THE HATCH CAFETERIA
UMASS
Open 8a.m.-3p.m. daily
Downstairs in the Student Union Building

---

Making the world work for 100% of humanity

by BRAD GOVERMAN

At age 82, Buckminster Fuller represents the greatest aggregation of human experience and individual energy since the explosion of the atom bomb. Like a perpetual motion machine, or a Rube Goldberg device, he is constantly on the move bouncing around the globe to preach the Fuller Gospel: Making the world work for 100% of humanity.

Since beginning this universal pilgrimmage in 1927, Fuller has traveled over 2 million miles, authored 18 books, received 39 honorary doctorates, filed 818 patents and been awarded for his efforts with an array of distinguishing prizes ranging from the Royal Gold Medal for Architecture to the 1968 Gold Medal Award of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

The events in Fuller's life that led to his 1927 decision to "discover the principles operative in the universe and turn them over to my fellow men" are not of the typical success story variety.

Born and raised in Milton, Massachusetts, Fuller entered Harvard with high honors in physics but was expelled soon after for "general irresponsibility." After some success assembling new machinery for a cotton mill in Quebec, his family sent him back to Harvard where he was again expelled, this time for keeps.

In 1916, Fuller joined the Navy as a boatswain by offering his mother's boat, the Wego, for submarine patrol duty off Maine, and was later recommended for special course work at Annapolis.

During his three year spell in the Navy he married Anne Hewlett, daughter of a prominent New York architect. In 1918 she bore him a daughter, Alexandra, who, stricken with polio and spinal meningitis, suffered tremendously until her death in 1922. During these years Fuller was making $50 a week working in the sales department of a New York trucking firm.

The shock of his daughter's death sent Fuller into an emotional depression that cost him a brief bout with the bottle and the loss of a company that under his direction from 1922-1927, built 240 buildings and set up five factories installed with machinery which Fuller himself had invented.

Depressed, anguished and penniless, he stood at the edge of Daniel Burnham's Chicago lakefront overlooking Lake Michigan in deep meditation deciding whether or not to throw himself in.

His decision to stay on board what he calls "spaceship Earth" was followed by a move to a tenement on Belmont street midst Capone gansters, where it is said his outlook took on drastic reform. According to William Marlin, Senior Editor of The Forum, "He went back to being a child, with eyes open to see, to understand why."

R. Buckminster Fuller

Thus began his altruistic goal of remaking the universe; making the world work for 100 ½ of humanity; ultimately creating a physical utopia.

According to Fuller, "Essence of the world's working will be to make every man able to become a world citizen and able to enjoy the whole earth, going wherever he wants at any time, able to take care of all his forward days without any interference from any other man and never at the cost of another man's equal freedom and advantage."

Technology, with its inherent, more-with-lessing capabilities, is the solution Fuller offers to all our worldly problems. He calls the principle of doing more with less "ephemeralization."

According to Fuller, ephemeralization through technology and world industrialization has witnessed in the last century the growth from 1 ½ to 44 ½ of humanity with a higher standard of living "than had been realized in any previous century by any monarchy."

"Because ephemeralization is accelerating it will complete the task of providing enough for all of humanity within another 34 years," he wrote in 1969. "This will occur despite the political systems which deliberatley divide society and set one group against another. World man disembarassed of political systems could accomplish universal success within twenty years. The 14-year difference might readily be the fatal difference within which a disgruntled man might touch off the atomic warhead retaliatory systems which would destroy humanity on earth."

Thus, for ephemeralization to work toward utopia, according to Fuller, requires an apolitical design science revolution: to construct systems of "livingry" instead of weaponry; a comprehensive effort to reform the environment instead of man.

His own efforts to that end (reform the environment) led to his design of the famous geodesic dome in 1947 and the development of the principle it evolved from, synergy.

The principle of synergy lies at the heart of the Fuller universe. A phenomena first observed by chemists, synergy means the behavior of whole systems unpredicted by any of their parts or sub-systems. Fuller often uses the increased strength of steel through the use of alloys to exemplify this concept.

It is within the context of seeing the world whole that has set him apart from a world of specialists. He calls himself a "comprehensivist" and now spends most of his energies teaching students how to think comprehensively about the world.

Although described as:

-"The empirical pioneer of our century"

-"The Leonardo of our age"

-"The greatest conceptual mind in the world today,"

Fuller insists he is an average man.

'Buckminster Fuller — friend of the universe, bringer of happiness, liberator.' — Ezra Pound

Sale On All Levis
Reg. $15- Now only $12.95
Through all of April
Also, stop in our Ladies Department
Thompson's
13 North Pleasant St.
Amherst Ma.

ROOSTER'S
177 North Pleasant St.
North Amherst
(By the traffic light)
OPEN
5 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Sundays 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Fantini: New Trails

Mario D. Fantini

By BERNARD DAVIDOW

Though Mario D. Fantini was new to the School of Education when he was appointed dean 15 months ago, he was hardly new to its emphasis on alternative education.

Fantini has been instrumental in programs of teacher instruction, educational change, and school decentralization in various U.S. cities for the last 17 years.

The Philadelphia native left his post as dean of the faculty of education at the New Paltz campus of the State University of New York to come to Amherst in January 1977.

The challenge facing him then, Fantini said in a recent interview, was: "Could I come and work our way through a very difficult transitional period, keeping what's good about the school and being self-corrective at the same time?"

"We've been through those waters," Fantini said, reflecting on the transition that included sifting and shuffling the school's academic and administrative units, redefining the mission of the school and beginning to establish closer links with the University and the Commonwealth.

"There were certain weeks when I felt I didn't see how we would do it, but as we come through it now, I am reasonably optimistic. This is a tribute to the people in the school, because they've been through a lot."

Encouraged by a series of external reiew, the school reorganized its five academic clusters into three divisons: instructional leadership; educational policy, research, and administration; and human services and applied behavioral sciences. Fantini, who has written and lectured extensively on humanistic education, said the school's emphasis on this is unprecedented in schools of education.

"This is an area that within the next couple of years will receive increasing attention, and to have it done in a professional school I think is important," he said.

"What we have begun to do is to broaden the conception of education. Education is not only things that take place inside the school, but outside as well," Fantini explained.

"Therefore," he continued, "we think we have something to offer the people who work with very young children, adolescents, adults, senior citizens, what have you, because they also deal with learning and education even though it may not be within the school."

Since receiving his Doctorate in Education from Harvard University in 1961, Fantini has served as consultant on decentralization of schools in Washington D.C., Los Angeles and New York City and directed programs of teacher and education preparation for Temple University, the Syracuse City School District and the State University of New York at New Paltz.

He joined the regular staff of the Ford Foundation in 1965 after directing one of its projects to identify effective teaching practices with disadvantaged elementary school children.

take place inside the school. . .

Fantini was brought into Boston during the heat of the desegregation issue about a year and a half ago as a special consultant to the superintendent of schools. He still serves in this capacity on occasion, Fantini said.

As the only public school in the state offering a doctorate in education, the School of Education has clarified its mission as a graduate-oriented professional school, Fantini said.

The school, according to Fantini, has made a commitment to "in-service," that is, updating the skills of teachers already on the job, rather than bringing new people into the field. Only 651 undergraduates were enrolled last fall in contrast to 1,800 undergraduates enrolled five years ago when the emphasis was on pre-service training. There are about 1,160 graduates enrolled.

emporium india
SUPER SPRING SAVINGS!!
(Thrus., April 13 - Sat., April 15)
20%-50% OFF
and more on selected items
Open 10-5 Mon.-Sat., Thurs. till 9
—In the Amherst Carriage Shops—
233 N.Pleasant St., Amherst, Mass.

The Elmwood Inn
Announcing:
Daily Luncheon Specials
for $2.75
Tuesday-Wednesday
Sirloin Tips w/ mushrooms
Thursday
Baked Scallops
Friday
Seafood Newburg
Saturday
Langostino Casserole
Chefs Special
$2.50
Route 9, Hadley
584-6813

Who's Who and Who's When at Learning Tomorrows

A

Linda Abrams Tue 10am
Faculty, International Education, UMass School of Education

Joan Abdul-Rasool Thur 1pm
Teaching Assistant, Reading Program UMass School of Education

Abdul A. Al-Rubajy Thur 1pm
Chairman, Committee on the STudy of the Future, Dept. of Educational Foundations, University of Akron

Dwight Allen Thur 8pm
International educator and former Dean of the University of Massachsetts School of Education. Allen is a leading spokesman for educational innovation and the originator of modular scheduling, differentiated staffing and micro-teaching.

Ernest Anderson Tues 10am, Wed 9am, Thur 9am, Fri 9am
Faculty, Research Center, UMass School of Education

Gregory Anrig Thur 10am, Thur 1pm
Commissioner of Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts

George Athanson Tue noon
Mayor, City of Hartford, Connecticut

B

Roy K. Baer Tue 10am
I"Wachusetts" Regional High School, Holden, Massachusetts
University of Colorado Biological Sciences Curriculum Study

Jim Ballard Fri 11am
President, Mandala Mindskills Foundation, Amherst

Robert Barber Fri 9am
Bergenfield High School, Bergenfield, New Jersey

Kevin Bell Wed 10am
South Boston High School
Doctoral Candidate, Urban Education, UMass School of Education

Thomas Bernard Thur 10am
Faculty, Philosophy of Education Center, Springfield College

Linda Blane Wed 9am
Faculty, Anisa Program, UMass School of Education

James Botkin Wed 10am
Project Leader, Club of Rome
Faculty, Graduate School of Education, Harvard University

Elise Boulding Thur 2pm
Futurist, feminist, and sociologist. Boulding has published extensively on women's roles in society, peace education, and world order issues. Her most recent book is THE UNDERSIDE OF HISTORY: A VIEW OF WOMEN THROUGH TIME.

Elizabeth Bowen Thur 2pm
Doctoral Candidate, Anisa Program, UMass School of Education

Samuel Bowles Wed 9:30am
Faculty, Economics Department, UMass

John Boyd Wed 3pm
Faculty, Mechanical Engineering, Worcester Polytechnic Institute

Sarah Boyd Wed 10am
Office of the Provost, UMass

Theodore Brameld Wed 9am
Professor Emeritus, Boston University

Michael Brennan Thur 2pm
New Games Center Associate, Student Organizing Project, UMass

Stacey Bressler Wed 1pm, Thur 1pm
Field Services Coordinator, Mass. Executive t vommittducational TelevisiHoward Brown Fri 9am, Fri 10:30, Fri noon
Lecturer, College of Science in Society, Wesleyan University
Co-Director, Earth Metabolic Design

Rick Buckheim Fri 1pm
Associate, Hunger Project, Winchester, Massachusetts

James J. Buckley Thur 11am
Superintendent, Milford, Mass. Public Schools

R. Mason Bunker Thur 9am
Faculty, Integrated Day Program, UMass School of Education

C

Jack Canfield Thur 10am, Thur 1 pm
Director, Center for Whole Being, Amherst

Thomas Carleton Fri 9am, Fri 1pm
Co-Founder and Co-Director, Earthrise, Providence, Rhode Island

Kathy Cash Fri 9am, Fri 11am
Doctoral Candidate, Center for International Education, UMass School of Education final day!

the ring sale.
$59.95
save up to $25.00
Men's traditional Siladium® rings and selected women's fashion rings are an unusual buy at $59.95.
Today is your last chance to get really outstanding savings in this sale.
THE ARTCARVED REPRESENTATIVE
has a large collection of rings. Ask to see them.
Dates April 14, 10-2:30 Place University Store
Deposit required. Ask about Master Charge or Visa.
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Who's Who and Who's When

Kathe Chatwood Tue 2pm, Wed noon, Fri noon
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Anne Cheatham Fri noon
Director, Congressional Clearinghouse on the Future, Washington, D.C.

Kenneth Clark Tue noon
Educator and leading civil rights activist. Clark is author of DARK GHETTO and a member of the New York State Board of Regents.

Ralph Clark Fri 9am
Bergenfield High School Staff, Bergenfield, New Jersey

Marie Cleary Wed 9am
Faculty, Classics Department, UMass

Margaret Cline Wed 3pm, Thur 3pm
Director, University Day School, UMass School of Education

Bruce Cloutier Tues noon
Project Director, Staff Development Education and Futurism, Fuler School, Keene, New Hampshire.

James X. Collins Wed 10am
Peace Studies Institute, Manhattan College, Riverdale, New York

James Collins Fri 10am
State Representative, Massachusetts State Legislature

James S. Connifs Fri 9am
Associate Dean of Faculty, Ulster County Community College

Leroy Cook Thur 2pm
Faculty, Physics Department, UMass

Evan D. Coppersmith Tues 10 am
Faculty, Counselling Center, UMass School of Education

Edward Corrigan Thur 9am
Staff Psychologist, Child Study Center, Goshen, New York

Thomas J. Cottle Thur 4pm
Social psychologist and author of several books including The Present of Things Future, Time's Children and Barred From School. Cottle's field research and oral histories have expanded contemporary sociology and psychology.

Ronald Curran Fri 3pm
Director, Pupil Personnel Services, Salem Public Schools, Salem, Massachusetts

Pauline Curry Wed 1pm
East Mountain Center: An Integrated Classroom for Handicapped & Able-Bodied Children

D

Lynn Dadwallader Tue 11am
Doctoral Candidate, UMass School of Education

Duane Dale Wed 9am, Thur 9am, Fri 9am
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Nancy Davis Wed noon
Coordinator, Resource Network, UMass

Ed DeAngelo Wed 4pm
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Christopher Dede Fri 11am
President, Educational Section, World Future Society
Faculty, University of Houston at Clear Lake City

Andrew Dembrowski Thur 10am
Public School Teacher, Multicultural Educator

James DeShields Wed 10am
Affirmative Action Officer, Assistant to the Chancellor, UMass

Henri Dieuzeide Thurs 3 pm
Director, Division of Structures, Content, Methods and Techniques of Education, UNESCO, Paris, France.
Mr. Dieuzeide, a French citizen, has been a leading figure in UNESCO's Education Section for the past ten years. He was formerly director of French Educational Radio and Television. Mr. Dieuzeide is representing UNESCO's Director-General at the Conference.

Howard F. Didsbury, Jr. Thur 1pm
Executive Director, Program for Study of the Future, Kean College, New Jersey World Future Society

Kenneth Dunn Thur 10am
Superintendent of Schools, Hewlett-Woodmere, New York

Jim Durant Wed 3pm
Undergraduate Student, Psychology, UMass

E

Roy Edelfelt Fri noon
Professional Associate in Instruction and Professional Development of the National Education Association. Edelfelt is a shaper of national education policy.

Jeffrey Eiseman Tue 10am, Wed 9am, Thur 9am, Fri 9am
Faculty, Counseling Research, UMass School of Education

Jean Elshtain Tue 10am
Faculty, Political Science Dept, UMass

Portia Elliot Thur 10am
Faculty, Instructional Applications of Computers Program, UMass School of Education

Richard Elliot Tue 1pm, Wed 1pm, Thur 1pm, Fri 1pm
Director, Community Based Special Education, Research & Development Center, Westfield, Massachusetts

F

Mario Fantini Thur noon
Dean of the University of Mssachusetts School of Education and a leader of the Alternative Schools Movement. Fantini's most recent book, Alternative Education, is considered to be he leading source book in the field.

Anne Ferguson Tue 10am
Faculty, Early Childhood Education Program, UMass School of Education

Anne Flaxman Thur 11am
Assistant Director, National Alternative Schools Program, UMass School of Education

George Forman Tue 10am
Faculty, Early Childhood Education Program, UMass School of Education

Jerry Foster Wed 11 am
CUOMMISSION ON Educational Issues, Boston, Massachusetts

Richard Fox Fri 10am
Director, Adult Learning Center, Worcester Public Schools

Debra Franco Wed 10am
Associate, New Day Films, Franklin Lakes, New Jersey

Roger Frant Wed 3pm
Faculty, Special Education, UMass School of Education

Lawrence Frates Wed 2pm
Professional Magician, Art Director, Guilford Middle High School

Sally Freeman Tue 1pm
Director, Community Development Center, UMass

Bernadine Freese Wed 9am
Doctoral Candidate, Higher Education, UMass School of Education

Jerry Freiberg Wed 9am
Associate Dean, School of Education, University of Houston, Houston, Texas

R. Buckminster Fuller Fri 8pm
Conference keynoter, currently a scholar-in-residence with the University of Massachusetts School of Education's Future Studies Program. Philosopher, architect, and poet, Fuller holds 40 honorary degrees in 10 desciplines. His magnum opus, SYNERGETICS, describes the philosophy upon which his best-known inventions, including the geodesic dome, is based.

G

Fri 9 a.m., Fri 10:30 a.m., Fri noon
Medard Gabel
Author Energy, Earth and Everyone, Co-Director, Earth Metabolic Design

Fri 2 p.m.
Gary Gappert
Assistant Commissioner, Division of Research Planning and Evaluation, New Jersey Department of Education

Thur 9 a.m.
Guillermo Gellar
Associate, Center for Whole Being, Amherst

Wed 10 a.m.
Linda Giardino
Doctoral Candidate, UMass School of Education

Tue 2 p.m.
Bill Gibson
Doctoral Candidate, UMass School of Education

Wed 3 p.m.
Howard & Barbara Glaser-Kirshenbaum
National Humanistic Education Center, Saratoga Springs, New York

Fri 1 p.m.
Jerome Goldstein
Editor, Alternative Jobs and Skills

Wed 3 p.m.
Joel Goodman
Assistant Director, National Humanistic Education Center, Saratoga Springs, New York

Tue noon
Theodore Gordon
President, The Futures Group, Glastonbury, Connecticut

Thur 9 a.m.
Judith Gourley
Assistant Professor, Reading Program, UMass School of Education

Fri 10 a.m.
Jerry Granelli
NAROPA Institute, Boulder, Colorado

Fri 10 a.m.
Elizabeth & David Dodson Gray
Authors and Educators in Peace Studies and World Systems

Wed 10 a.m.
Lucy Griffith
Rebirther, Center for Whole Being

Tue 2 p.m., Wed 10 a.m.
Josef Della Grotte
Associate, Center for Whole Being

Thur 3 p.m.
Steve Guild
Associate Director, UMass Energy Office

Wed 1 p.m.
George Gulick
Massachusetts State Department of Public Health

H

Fri 9 a.m., Fri 11 a.m.
Bella Halsted
Doctoral Candidate, Center for International Education, UMass School of Education

Wed 1 p.m.
Ron Hambleton
Research Faculty, UMass School of Education

Wed 10 a.m.
Jeanette Hargroves
South Boston High School
Doctoral Candidate, Urban Education, UMass School of Education

Wed 3 p.m.
Terry Havens
Faculty Inquiry Program, Nurturer of Temos

Tue 3 p.m., Wed 2 p.m. Thur 10 a.m.
Robert Hawley
Director, Educator Research Associates, Amherst

Tue 4 p.m.
Wilma Scott Heide
Futurist, Former President, National Organization for Women

Fri 2 p.m.
Hazel Henderson
A leading futurist and co-director of the Princeton Center for Alternative Futures. Her book, Creating Alternative Futures, was published recently. She is active in consumer education, technology assessment, environmental protection and labor issues.

con't on pg. 13

SPRING . . . .
new spring fabrics calicos challis prints & solids
at our NEW store!
natural textiles hours 10-6 mon-sat
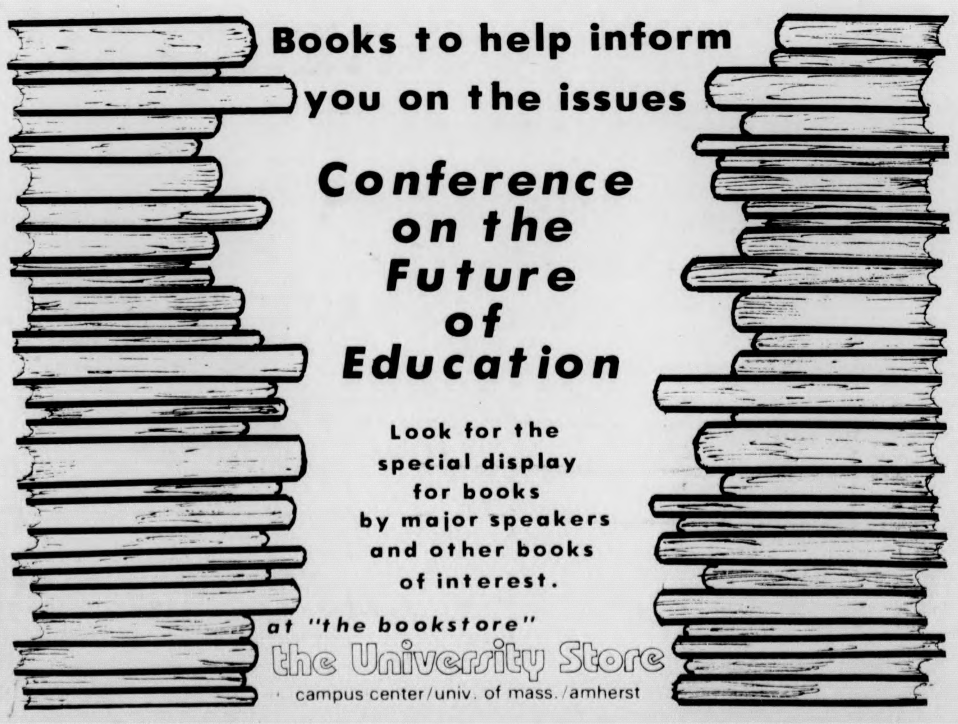
256-6427



Books to help inform you on the issues
Conference on the Future of Education
Look for the special display for books by major speakers and other books of interest.
at "the bookstore"
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

TUESDAY

| | Room 162 | Room 163 | Room 165 | Room 168 | Room 169 | Campus Center Auditorium | Room 170 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | | | | |
| 10 - 11 | TOASTTHE SOLAR FRONTIERDESERT CLOUD | | | | | | |
| 11 - 12 | LEISURE4 DAY WEEKAUTOMATIC | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | JAMIL & BEVERLY SIMON"NON SEXIST EDUCATION FOR YOUNG CHILDREN"THE TIME HAS COMETHE SOONER THE BETTER | | | | | | |
| 1 - 2 | | | | | | | |
| 2 - 3 | WHY MAN CREATESORGANISM | | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | THE NEW SCHOOLS | | | | | | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 172 | Room 174 & 176 | Room 175 | Room 177 | Room 178 | Room 801 | Room 802 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | | | | |
| 10 - 11 | | | | Anderson, ErnestWorkshop"FUTURE STUDIES WORKSHOP IN TECHNICAL TOOLS FOR PLANNING" | Wolf, BillWorkshop"FOUNTAINHEADS OF INSTITUTIONAL CHANGE" | Martin, Elise"FUTURE EDUCATORS WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT WHERE YOU WANT TO GO" | Baer, Roy K."THE USE OF A NATIONAL PARK FOR A FIELD TRIP" |
| 11 - 12 | | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | | | | | | |
| 1 - 2 | | | | Stefanik, CarolWorkshop"REALITY TECHNIQUES IN CLASSROOMS" | Elliot, RichardHoyt, JudyWorkshop"NORMALIZATION" | | |
| 2 - 3 | | | | | | Welson, F. Gaylor"FUTURES STUDIES TECHNIQUES APPLICABLE IN ANY CLASSROOM" | Chatwood, KatheWorkshop"DEVELOPING FUTURE ORIENTED CURRICULUM" |
| 3 - 4 | | | | | Paige, Leeann"EDUCATION FOR INFANTS A DISCUSSION" | | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 803 | Room 804 | Room 808 | Room 815 | Room 901 | Room 902 | Room 903 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | | | | |
| 10 - 11 | Abrams, LindaWorkshop"COLLABORATIVE PROGRAM WORKSHOP" | Logan, J. David"LIMITS A WORLD GROWTH COMPUTER SIMULATION" | | | | Eiseman, JeffreyWorkshopFUTURE APPROACHES TO RESOLVING EDUCATIONAL CONFLICTS | Merrow, Judith"GETTING STARTED AND SURVIVAL TECHNIQUES IN AN ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL IN MAINE" |
| 11 - 12 | | Cadwallader, Lynn"ALLEN! (WHERE DID PUBLIC EDUCATION START ANYWAY?)" | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | | | | Holmstead, Kerry Christensen"OPEN DISCUSSION FOR ALTERNATIVE SCHOOLS" | | Gordon, Theodore"NEW TECHNIQUES IN FUTURES RESEARCH" |
| 1 - 2 | | | Konicek, Dick"SYNERGY THE LEFT AND RIGHT HAND MEET IN EDUCATION FOR THE FUTURE" | | | Wolfe, MichaelFreeman, SallySlovin, Ted"THE PROBLEMS OF INSTITUTIONAL ELITISM A MICRO FUTURISTIC VIEW OF EGALITARIAN POSSIBILITIES IN A PUBLIC UNIVERSITY" | |
| 2 - 3 | | Lanbach, David"BACK TO THE BASICS AND THE FUTURE OF EDUCATION" | | | | | Ruina, Edith"EDUCATING FOR EQUALITY IN FAMILY AND WORK ROLES IS IT POSSIBLE?" |
| 3 - 4 | Napier, Frank"CURRENT TRENDS IN MULTIRACIAL URBAN EDUCATION" | | | | | Hawley, Robert"WHAT TO DO UNTIL TOMORROW COMES THINGS TO DO TODAY" | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 904 | Room 908 | Room 911 | Room 905 | Room 909 | Room 915 | Room 917 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | | | | |
| 10 - 11 | Jordan, DanWorkshop"NEW VIEWS ON THE NATURE OF MAN AND THEIR IMPLICATIONS FOR THE FUTURE OF EDUCATION" | Rahaim, Charlotte"FIELD BASED PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS IN HIGHER EDUCATION" | [illegible]"THE COMMUNITY AS THE CLASSROOM A COMPETENCY BASED CONTINUING EDUCATION APPROACH TO DEINSTITUTIONALIZATION" | [illegible]"THE [illegible] OF DEATH EDUCATION A PRESENT OR FUTURE CONCERN" | TEACHING SCIENCE AND HEALTH FOR SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY | Forman, George"MIND SHAPERS IN THE PRE SCHOOL SYNERGETIC TOYS OF THE FUTURE" | Elshtain, JeanFerguson, AnneKing, Nesta"PANEL ON RADICAL FEMINIST FUTURES" |
| 11 - 12 | | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | Cloutier, Bruce"A FUTURE STUDIES PROJECT THAT IS WORKING KEENE NEW HAMPSHIRE" | McClellan, Jock"WHAT IS A FUTURIST?" | | Simon, Mar"ALTERNATIVE SCHOOLS IN THE AREA" | | | Athenson, George"POTPOURRI OF CRITICAL THOUGHT HISTORICAL INTO THE FUTURE" |
| 1 - 2 | The Ironbound Community School Newark, N.J."A PARENT RUN SCHOOL" | Gibson, Bill"COMPUTERS VIDEO DISCS AND LEARNING" | Streets, DonWorkshop"AN ORGANISMIC APPROACH TO EDUCATIONAL ADMINISTRATION" | | Susan MackeyKathleen Wagschal"PARENTING SKILLS FOR THE FUTURE" | | |
| 2 - 3 | Roberts, Nancy"SYSTEMS DYNAMICS A STRATEGY FOR UNDERSTANDING THE FUTURE" | | | Della Grotte, Josef"FELDENKRAIS THE EDUCATION OF THE BODY THROUGH MOVEMENT" | Klimek, Paula"THE INNER CLASSROOM THE USE OF GUIDED FANTASY IN EDUCATION" | McCarthy, DavidNAROPA"DISCIPLINING OURSELVES FOR FUTURE HUMAN DEVELOPMENT" | Smith, William"IN TEACHER EDUCATION, THE FUTURE IS THE PRESENT" |
| 3 - 4 | | | Logan, J. David"CLASSROOM PROJECT DESIGNING AND TESTING WINDMILL PROPELLERS" | | | | |
| 4 - 5 | Tenerowicz, David"ARICA THE 40 DAY EXPERIENCE THE EDUCATION YOU NEVER GOT IN SCHOOLS" | | | | | | Heide, Wilma Scott"FEMINISM FOR AN EDUCATED FUTURE" |

WEDNESDAY

| | Room 162 | Room 163 | Room 165 | Room 168 | Room 169 | Campus Center Auditorium | Room 170 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | A Minor Altercation. Film showing and panel discussion on racial conflict in Boston schools. Film makers from Walnut Films, a biracial film company who made the film will participate | EXHIBITORS | EXHIBITORS | Blane Linda"IMPLICATIONS OF AN ORGANISMIC PHILOSOPHY FOR DEVELOPMENTAL THEORY" | EXHIBITORS | | PRESS |
| 10 - 11 | | | | | | Parks Paul"THE SCHOOLED-OUT POPULATION A FORM OF SOCIAL INEQUALITY" | |
| 11 - 12 | LOVEJOY'S NUCLEAR WAR | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | ORGANISMCITIES OF THE FUTUREDOWN TO EARTH CITY LIVING | | | | | Hentoff Nat"THE ONLY LASTING WAY TO INTEGRATE THE UPPER CLASSES" | |
| 1 - 2 | A SENSE OF HUMUSLOOKING FOR ORGANIC AMERICA | | | | | | |
| 2 - 3 | GET IT TOGETHERCHILDREN OF THE LONG BEAKED BIRD | | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | Franco, Debra"MALE AND FEMALE FILMMAKER'S PERSPECTIVE"MEN'S LIVESA WEDDING IN THE FAMILYFLASHETTESBETTY TELLS HER STORY | | | Segar MarkCline Margaret"THE FUTURE OF DAY CARE IMPLICATIONS FOR EDUCATION FAMILIES AND SCHOOLS | | Goldstein, BashaHarrison, Lanny"Music concert-Progressive Improvisation" | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 172 | Room 174 & 176 | Room 175 | Room 177 | Room 178 | Room 801 | Room 802 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | PRESS | | | Anderson ErnestWorkshop"FUTURE STUDIES WORKSHOP IN TECHNICAL TOOLS FOR PLANNING | Cleary Marie"A LOOK AT LATIN NEW APPROACH IN INTERPRETING CLASSICAL ANTIQUITY OR CHILDREN | | |
| 10 - 11 | | Bell KevinHargroves JeanneKozberg GeraldineWinegar Jerome"LEFT OUT KIDS IN A LEFT OUT WORLD THE STRUGGLE FOR SOUTH BOSTON HIGH | Kingsford Wilmer H"FACULTY RESPONSIBILITIES IN GLOBAL EDUCATION | | Wolf WilliamWorkshop"FOUNTAINHEADS OF INSTITUTION CHANGE | Dale DuaneWorkshop"EXPLORING ALTERNATIVE FUTURES METHODS FOR THE CLASSROOM SECTION 1 | Norris NealWorkshop"EXPLORING ALTERNATIVE FUTURES METHODS FOR THE CLASSROOM SECTION 2 |
| 11 - 12 | | | Henninger Dorrie"THE LEARNING CO OP A PUBLIC ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL IN FAIRFIELD CT WHY? HOW? WHITHER?" | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | | | | | Ingle GrantDavis Nancy"RESOURCE NETWORKS AND THE FUTURE OF HIGHER EDUCATION | Chatwood KatheWorkshop"DEVELOPING FUTURE ORIENTED CURRICULUM Freiberg Jerry"A BLUEPRINT FOR EDUCATION PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE A MORATORIUM ON SCHOOLING |
| 1 - 2 | | Bressler Stacey & McCrudden Linda"ALTERNATIVE TO VIOLENCE TELEVISION FOR PERSONAL AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT | | Stefanik CarolWorkshop"REALITY TECHNIQUES IN THE CLASSROOM | Elliot RichardHoyt JudyWorkshop"NORMALIZATION | | |
| 2 - 3 | | Mangano Ronald M"THE TRANSITION TO APPROPRIATE TECHNOLOGY IMPLICATIONS ON EDUCATIONAL GOALS & VALUES | | | | Ryan Charlotte"SCHOOL COMMUNITY RELATIONS AT WORK | Freiberg Jerry"A BLUEPRINT FOR EDUCATION PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE A MORATORIUM ON SCHOOLING |
| 3 - 4 | | LeBaron John"TELEVISION ON REQUEST MAKING THE MOST OF TECHNOLOGY | Goodman JoelGlaser Kirshenbaum HowardGlaser Kirshenbaum Barbara"PROFESSIONAL SUPPORT GROUPS A MODEL FOR SYNERGY CREATIVITY AND LEARNING | Horvitz Cathy"TEACHING ABOUT ALTERNATIVE TECHNOLOGY THE NATIONAL CENTRE FOR ALTERNATIVE TECHNOLOGY WALES G B | | | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 803 | Room 804 | Room 808 | Room 815 | Room 901 | Room 902 | Room 903 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | | | Eiseman JeffreyWorkshop"FUTURE APPROACHES TO RESOLVING EDUCATIONAL CONFLICTS | |
| 10 - 11 | Botkin James"ALTERNATIVE VISIONS OF FUTURE SOCIETIES IMPLICATIONS FOR EDUCATION | Reeves Adrienne"THE MAKING OF A MARRIAGE BETWEEN EDUCATION AND SKILLS TRAINING | MacCormack JeanThermos SusanGuardino LindaWorkshop"TOWARD THE FUTURE PARENT EDUCATION | The following will be shown today from 10:00-11:00 and 2:00-3:00R. Buckminster FullerArchibald MacLeishHenry Steele CommagerJonathan Kozol"A CONVERSATION ON THE FUTURE OF AMERICAN EDUCATIONA videotape of a discussion held on April 10, 1978 | Wideman JackWorkshop"EDUCATION FOR INTIMACY | | Griffith Lucy"CONSCIOUSNESS AS A CAUSE CHOOSING THE SELF CONCEPT YOU WILL BECOME |
| 11 - 12 | Wagschal Peter"BACK TO THE BASICS ELIMINATING THE THREE R'S | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | Petty Ray"BUILDING ALTERNATIVES INTO AN ESTABLISHED SCHOOL SYSTEM | | | | | |
| 1 - 2 | Jackson R D"THE COMING AGE OF SPECIAL EDUCATION RETROSPECT AND PROSPECT | Maguire LouiseRuth Charles"BEYOND THE CLASSROOM | | | London Robert"PROCESS ORIENTED MATH MATH EDUCATION FOR THE FUTURE | | Hambleton RonPowell Sally"FUTURE DIRECTIONS IN EDUCATIONAL ASSESSMENT |
| 2 - 3 | | | | | | Hawley Robert"WHAT TO DO UNTIL TOMORROW COMES THINGS TO DO TODAY | |
| 3 - 4 | Frates Lawrence"THE MAGIC OF ART THE ART OF MAGIC | Hurst John"AN EXISTENTIAL EDUCATION AND BEYOND A JOURNEY INTO PHILOSOPHY THEORY AND PRACTICE | | | Reisler RaySmith Jane Ann"CHILDREN'S CREATIVE CONFLICT RESOLUTION TODAY TOWARD PEACE TOMORROW | Havens Terry"LEARNING IN ASIA AND THE WEST THE ORAL TRADITION | London Robert"BEYOND FORMAL OPERATIONS IMPLICATIONS OF PIAGETIAN THEORY FOR SPIRITUAL GROWTH |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 904 | Room 908 | Room 911 | Room 905 | Room 909 | Room 915 | Room 917 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | [illegible] David"KENSHU THE 1ST AWAKENING A FILM PRESENTATION OF SOME ASPECTS OF AFRICA'S UNIQUE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM FOR WHOLE BEING | | Freese Bernadine"THE FUTURE OF STUDENT AFFAIRS IN HIGHER EDUCATION | | | | 9:30 A.M.Bowles Samuel"CLASS ENCOUNTERS OF THE WORST KIND |
| 10 - 11 | Plante Jake"EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY OF THE FUTURE | Della Grotte Josef"FELDENKRAIS THE EDUCATION OF THE BODY THROUGH MOVEMENT | | [illegible]"THE PLACE OF PEACE STUDIES IN EDUCATION | Schrimmer DaveDeShields JamesBoyd SarahRamirez Ismael"THE BAKKE CASE & THE FUTURE OF AFFIRMATIVE ACTION | Rader Dennis"WHAT DOES EDUCATION DO ANYWAY | |
| 11 - 12 | Masker Jim"USING SCIENCE FICTION IN THE HUMANITIES CURRICULUM | | Wurst Jack"DEVELOPING AN ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL NETWORK A PERSPECTIVE FROM CHICAGO ALTERNATIVE SCHOOLS NETWORK | | Foster JerryShaffer Marie"THE NETWORK PUBLIC NONPUBLIC SCHOOL COOPERATIVE VENTURES THAT INCREASE STUDENT OPTIONS | Zachowski Dick"A PLANNING PROCESS FOR SCHOOLS BASED ON AN ASSUMPTION THAT LINEAR PROJECTIONS ARE OBSOLETE | |
| 12 - 1 | Panel Discussion"ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL STUDENTS TALK ABOUT THEIR SCHOOLS | | | | | | |
| 1 - 2 | Klimek Paula"EDUCATION FOR THE NEW AGE | | McClellan Jock"SOCIETAL LEARNING | McKnight PhilTaylor MatthewJohnson Gail"PROBABLE FUTURES FOR THE 21ST CENTURY | | McCullough LarryWorkshop"CURRICULUM DESIGN FOR THE FUTURE | Reid NancyGulick GeorgeLittle JanetCurry PaulinePetchuk Linda"THE FUTURE NOW A DEMONSTRATION OF A CLASSROOM FOR HANDICAPPED AND ABLE BODIED CHILDREN |
| 2 - 3 | | | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | Frant RogerRyan MerleDurant Jim"HANDICAPPED AWARENESS WORKSHOP ATTITUDES AND ARCHITECTURAL BARRIERS | Miller Lynne Moderator Panel"ARE ALTERNATIVE SCHOOLS VIABLE MODELS FOR EDUCATIONAL CHANGE? | Boyd John"EDUCATION IN A TECHNICAL SOCIETY C P SNOW REVISITED | William Nesbitt"TEACHING ALTERNATIVE GLOBAL FUTURES | | McCarthy David NAROPA"THE THEATRE MUSIC ART & DANCE OF EVERYTHING WE DO | |
| 4 - 5 | | | DeAngelis Ed"RE EVALUATION COUNSELING AND EDUCATION | | | | |

---

THURSDAY

| | Room 162 | Room 163 | Room 165 | Room 168 | Room 169 | Campus Center Auditorium | Room 170 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | T'ai Chi Chuan | EXHIBITORS | EXHIBITORS | | EXHIBITORS | | PRESS |
| 10 - 11 | Lord Thing | | | Rea, Dan"Educational Implications of Hemispheric Specialization Symphony of the Hemispheres" | | Patterson, Franklin | |
| 11 - 12 | The Doonesbury SpecialLiving The Good Life | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | Man Made ManMiracle of the MindThe Weird World of Robots | | | | | Fantini, Mario"From School System to Educational System | |
| 1 - 2 | SummerhillReturn of the Kiteman | | | Canfield, Jack"Transpersonal Education in the New Age" | | | |
| 2 - 3 | World of Buckminster Fuller | | | | | Boulding, Elise"Educational Infrastructure and Community Transformation" | |
| 3 - 4 | | | | Cline, MargaretSegar, Mark"The Future of Day Care: Implications for Education, Families and Schools | | | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | Cottle, Thomas"But Will the Present Change? Consersations with Forgotten Children" | |

| | Room 172 | Room 174 & 176 | Room 175 | Room 177 | Room 178 | Room 801 | Room 802 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | PRESS | | | | | Dale, DuaneWorkshop:"Exploring Alternative Fututes: Methods for The Classroom"Section 1 | Norris, NealWorkshop:"Exploring Alternative Futures:Section 2 |
| 10 - 11 | | Anrig, Gregory"Future Directions for Inservice Education" | | | | | |
| 11 - 12 | | Schlossberg, Edwin"Revision" | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | | | | | | Charwood, KatheWorkshop:"Developing Future-Oriented Curriculum" |
| 1 - 2 | | Bressler, Stacey"Television and Sex-Role Stereotyping: Combatting the Commercial Image" | | | | Horvitz, Cathy"Energy Games and Curriculum Development" | |
| 2 - 3 | | Livingston, Dennis"Images of the Future: The Siginificance of Future Imaging in Education | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | | | | | | Guild, Steve"The Social Implications of The Future Energy Situation" | Koster, Fran"Energy and The Future of New England" |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 803 | Room 804 | Room 808 | Room 815 | Room 901 | Room 902 | Room 903 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | Bunker, R. Mason"One Way of Starting an In-service Training Program" | | Corrigan, Edward"Family Interaction Patterns and Their Relationship to Intra-Psychic Conflict as Seen in Families with Psychosomatic Illness | The following will be shown today from:10:00 11:00and2:00 3:00R. Buckminster FullerArchibald MacLeishHenry Steele CommagerJonathan Kozol"A Conversation on the Future of American Education"A videotape of a discussion held on April 10, 1978 | | Eiseman JeffreyWorkshop "Future Approaches to Resolving Educational Conflicts | LaConte Ron"Education for Tomorrow Basically Futuristic and Futuristically Basic |
| 10 - 11 | Hawley, Robert"What To Do Until Tomorrow Comes: Things To Do Today" | Dembrowski, AndrewSpencer, NancyInitiated Multi-cultural Curriculum Development Project | | | Wideman JackWorkshop"Education for Intimacy" | Winston Robert"With Justice for Some: The Illusion of Caring in the Juvenile Justice System | Canfield Jack"Teaching Students to Love Themselves: Explorations in Self-Concepts |
| 11 - 12 | Read, Horace"Research on Inservice Programs at The School of Education" | Buckley, James J."Education of the Aged" | Christensen Holmstead KerryFlaxman, AnneWalker, Micheal"Where are Public Alternative Schools | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | Peakes, Al"How To Evaluate Future Implications of Current Events" | | | Wilner PeterSimpson o"Educational Service Centers as a Cost Effective Alternative for The Future | Schwartz MikeUndergraduate Deans Meetin rook LeroyPhysics Today and Tomorrow | |
| 1 - 2 | Didsbury, Howard F., Jr."Is There INtelligent Life on Earth? | Parent, Brett"Evaluating Future Implications of the DAILY NEWS in the Classroom" | Al Rubaiy, Abdul A"The Future of the Concept of Human Rights" | | | | Urch George"Join TheWorld Teaching Opportunities Abroad |
| 2 - 3 | | Mahoney, JoAnn A"Education as a Maturing Experience: Advantages and Practical Strategies for Administrators and Teachers" | Kinsolving, Janice"Survival Skills: Creative Classroom Facilitation | | | | Urch George"Join the World: Add International Dimension to Your School |
| 3 - 4 | | | | | Jones SarahRichberg Adam"Alternative Education Programs at the Elementary Level | Schatzkamer MaryLandesman David"Problem Solving in Alternative Schools: A Collective Personal Struggle | Johnson EricWatson Patrick"T'ai Chi Chuan: An Ancient Chinese Movement Exercise for Training Body and Mind |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | Myrow, David L."Teachers: Know Thyself" |

| | Room 904 | Room 908 | Room 911 | Room 905 | Room 909 | Room 915 | Room 917 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | Livingston, Dennis"Images of the Future" | | | | | Noble, Georgia"The Methods of Psychosynthesis, A Wholistic Model for the Future" | Miltz, Robert"The Division for Instructional Leadership |
| 10 - 11 | Dunn, Kenneth"Identifying Individual Learning Styles" | Ulin, Dick"Death and Dying Education" | Gellar, Guillermo"Education, Communication and Language" | Elliot, Portia"Computers in Future Math Classrooms" | | | Weinstein, GerryPhillips, Kathy"Self-Knowledge Development for the Classroom" |
| 11 - 12 | | | | Hruska, Merrita"Designing and Implementing a Teacher-managed Staff Development Project" | | Kinsolving, JaniceShanklin, Michel"Survival Skills: Creative Classroom Facilitation" | |
| 12 - 1 | Sadker, David & Myra"Sexism in the School: Girls and Boys as Victim" | | | | | | |
| 1 - 2 | Abdul-Rasool, JoanJones, DaltonSims, Rudine"Psycholinguistics and Reading" | | King, Earl E."Science & Society: A Probe into the Future" | | | Masker, Jim"Teaching History in The Future — A Rationale and Some Techniques" | Anrig, Gregory"Elementary and Secondary Education in the People's Republic of China" |
| 2 - 3 | | | Woolf, Beverly"Artificial Intelligence and Human Learning" | | | | Brennan, Michael"New Games: An Alternative to Physical Education" |
| 3 - 4 | | | Nystrom, Irene"The State of the Family: Who Do You Trust?" | | | McCarthy, David"Alternative Educational Futures in Art — NAROPA Institute" | |
| 4 - 5 | Katz, Neil H."Teaching Exercises for Creative Conflict Management" | | | | | | |

Friday

| | Room 162 | Room 163 | Room 165 | Room 168 | Room 169 | Campus Center Auditorium | Room 170 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | Pedal PowerBill Loosely's Heat Pump | | | | | Wood, Robert"An Educational Strategy for 'These Times' " | |
| 10 - 11 | The Food RevolutionDiet for a Small Planet | | | Fox, Richard"How to Get a Diploma — When Everything Else Fails!" | | Scribner, Harvey"Consumerism in Education" | |
| 11 - 12 | FoxfireA Minos Altercation | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | SpaceborneStranger than Science FictionA Search for Antworlds | | | | | Edelfelt, Roy"The Future: Planned? Rational? Haphazard? Fortuitous?" | |
| 1 - 2 | Portrait of Grandpa DocKatutura | | | Kinsolving, JaniceShanklin, Michel"Survival Skills: Creative Classroom Facilitation" | | | |
| | To Be Posted | | | | | Henderson, Hazel"The Politics of Reconceptualization: Citizen Movements as Adult Education" | |
| 3 - 4 | The History Book | | | | | | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | Simon, Sidney"Newest Techniques in Values Clarification: Implications for The Future" | |

| | | Room 174 & 176 | Room 175 | Room 177 | Room 178 | Room 801 | Room 802 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | Anderson, ErnestWorkshop:"Future Studies Workshop in Technical Tools for Planning" | | | |
| 10 - 11 | | Jones, ByrdCollins, James"Finance Equalization, Efficiency & Equality of Educational Outcomes" | Lemay, Ronald"APL — A Life Skills Curriculum for Today and Tomorrow" | | Wolf, BillWorkshop:"Fountainheads of Institutional Change" | Dale, DuaneWorkshop:"Envisioning Alternative Futures"Section 1 | Norris, NealWorkshop:"Envisioning Alternative Futures"Section 2 |
| 11 - 12 | | Ballard, Jim"Self-enlightenment Training" | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | | | | | | Chatwood, KatheWorkshop:"Developing Future-Oriented Curriculum" |
| 1 - 2 | | Lester, Joan"TV — The Paving of American Air" | | Stefanik, CarolWorkshop:"Reality Techniques in the Classroom" | Elliot, RichardHoyt, JudyWorkshop:"Normalization" | | |
| 2 - 3 | | | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | | | | | | | |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 803 | Room 804 | Room 808 | Room 815 | Room 901 | Room 902 | Room 903 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | Gabel, MedardBrown, Howard"Interactive Learning Environment for Learning About the Future" | Jordan, Aldustus"Developing Program Evaluation Systems in Community Colleges" | | | | Eiseman, JeffreyWorkshop:"Future Approaches to Resolving Educational Conflict" | |
| 10 - 11 | | Elizabeth and David Dodson Gray"Education and the Human Side of Slowing Growth" | | The following will be shown today from:10:00 — 11:00and2:00 — 3:00R. Buckminster FullerArchibald MacLeishHenry Steele CommagerJonathan Kozol"A Conversation on the Future of American Education"A videotape of a discussion held on April 10, 1978 | Wideman, JackWorkshop:"Education for Intimacy" | | Bowen, ElizabethWorkshop:"The Relationship of Health and Nutrition to Children's Ability to Learn" |
| 11 - 12 | "Planning A Method for Education, Self-Discovery, and Social Change" | | | | | Rader, Dennis"Temporal Ecology: An Introduction to the Study of the Home of Time" | |
| 12 - 1 | "Energy Education: Principles and Concepts for Energy in The Classroom" | | | | | | |
| 1 - 2 | | | | | Buckheim, Rick"Hunger Project" | | Jacacci, Gus"A Gnosography Isomorphic with Building Universal Cosmology: Learning Environments" |
| 2 - 3 | | Gappert, Gary"Post-Something, but Post-What: Post Affluent? Post-Industrial? Post-Masculine?" | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | | Watson, Patrick"The 8 Ways: Movement, Health, and Imagination Exercises for The Elderly" | | | | SchatzKamer, MaryLandesman, David"Future Alternatives to Alternative Schools" | Schorn, FrankCurran, Ronald"Helping the Emotionally Disturbed Teacher: Variations on the Theme of Inservice Training, Especially in the Area of Mainstreaming" |
| 4 - 5 | | | | | | | |

| | Room 904 | Room 908 | Room 911 | Room 905 | Room 909 | Room 915 | Room 917 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 - 10 | | | | | Clark, RalphBarber, Robert"An Individual Needs Curriculum: An Approach to the Dropout Problem" | | Cash, KathyHalstead, BellaMetivier-Ferguson, Delores"Education for a Changing World: Toward Multicultural Education" |
| 10 - 11 | Carleton, Thomas"Global Futures Game" | Schecter, Howard"Education for The Post-Industrial Age" | Wiper, Harold"Methods for Reaching the Slow Learner — The Unmotivated Student — Students with Special Needs" | Osborn, Thomas D."A Competency Based Graduation Requirement" | | Granelli, JerryMcCarthy, DavidNAROPA — "Arts in Education — A Teacher Re-Education Program" | |
| 11 - 12 | | | | | | | |
| 12 - 1 | | | | Julyan, Candace L."Environmental Education In and Out of Formal Learning" | | | Cheatham, Anne W."The Future and the Congress" |
| 1 - 2 | Carleton, Tom"Global Futures Game" | | Goldstein, Jerome"Vocational Counseling and Alternative Careers" | Rauch, David B."Education for the Growing Majority Adults" | | | Spaars, Betty"Sports for the Twenty-First Century" |
| 2 - 3 | | | | | | | |
| 3 - 4 | | | Maupin, C.J."Education in the Future: A Product of Community" | | | | |
| 4 - 5 | | Kahn, Robert"Searching for a Definition of Technology Literacy" | | | | | |

FACES

UMBRELLAS

STRAW HATS

STICKPINS

scatter pins

SOFT LUGGAGE

FACES

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Who's Who and Who's When

Wed 11 a.m.
Dorrie Henninger
Learning Co-op, Fairfield, Connecticut Public Schools

Nat Hentoff
Wed noon
Columnist for New York's Village Voice. Author of two books on education, Our Children Are Dying and Does Anybody Give A Damn? Hentoff is best known for his concern with teacher unions and their effect on education.

Tue noon, Thur 11 a.m.
Kerry Christensen Holmstead
Assistant Director, National Alternative Schools Program

Wed 3 p.m., Thur 1 p.m.
Cathy Horvitz
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Tue 1 p.m., Wed 1 p.m., Thur 1 p.m., Fri 1 p.m.
Judy Hoyt
Associate, Education Research and Development Center, Westfield, Massachusetts

Thur 11 a.m.
Merrita Hruska
Doctoral Candidate, Integrated Day Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m.
Howard Hudson
Co-Director, Center for Human Sexual Counseling

Wed 3 p.m.
John Hurst
Professor of Education, University of California, Berkeley

I

Wed 8 p.m.
Ivan Illich
Former Vice-Rector of the Catholic University of Puerto Rico and Director of the Center for Intercultural Documentation in Cuernaca, Mexico. Illich is author of Deschooling Society and a leading figure in radical education thought.

Wed noon, Thur 3 p.m.
Grant Ingle
Coordinator, Resource Network, UMass

J

Fri 1 p.m.
Gus Jacacci
Organizer and Director, First World Congress of the New Age

Wed 1 p.m.
R. D. Jackson
Faculty, Special Education, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m.
Eric Johnson
School of T'ai Chi Chuan, Amherst

Wed 1 p.m.
Gail Johnson
Director, Learning Exchange, University of Kansas

Fri 10 a.m.
Byrd Jones
Faculty, Urban Education Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 1 p.m.
Dalton Jones
Assistant Professor, Department of Psychology, UMass

Thur 3 p.m.
Sarah Jones
Assistant Principal, Mount Hebron Middle School, Montclair, New Jersey

Fri 9 a.m.
Aldustus Jordan
Assistant Dean for Student Affairs, School of Medicine , SUNY, StonyBrook

Tue 10 a.m.
Dan Jordan
Director, Anisa Project, UMass School of Education

Tue 10 a.m.
Dorothy Joseph
Director, High School Redirection, Brooklyn, New York

Fri noon
Candace Julyan
Executive Director, Hitchcock Center for the Environment, Amherst

K

Fri 4 p.m.
Robert Kahn
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m.
Al Karlson
Early Childhood Education Faculty, UMass School of Education

Thur 4 p.m.
Neil H. Katz
Director, Program in Nonviolent Conflict and Change, Syracuse University

Thur 3 p.m.
Becky Kent
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Thur 1 p.m.
Earl King
Dover-Sherborn High School, Dover, Massachusetts

Tue 10 a.m.
Nesta King
Faculty, Hampshire College, Amherst

Wed 10 a.m.
Wilmer H. Kingsford
President, Global Development Studies Institute

Thur 11 a.m, Thur 2 p.m., Fri 1 p.m.
Center for Conflict Resolution Staff, Evaluator and Writer of Alcohol and Drug Education Materials, Madison, Wisconsin

Tue 10 a.m.
Richie Kleiner
Massachusetts Department of Mental Health

Tue 2 p.m., Wed 1 p.m.
Paula Klimek
Associate, Center for Whole Being

Tue 1 p.m.
Dick Konicek
Faculty, Integrated Day, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m.
Fran Koster
Associate Director, UMass Energy Office
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Wed 10 a.m.
Geraldine Kozberg
South Boston High School
Doctoral Candidate, Urban Education, UMass School of Education

Tue 8 p.m.
Jonathan Kozol
Teacher, writer, and critic. Author of Dealth At An Early Age and The Night Is Dark and I Am Far From Home. Kozol is a major spokesman for the Free Schools movement.

Fred Houck Jeweler

Diamonds
Colored Gemstones
Watches

Silver
Pewter

Fine
China and Crystal
by Lenox

65 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass.
253-7615

the Restaurant

Soups-Salads
Sandwiches
Quiches
Bagels and Spreads
Baked Goods
Homemade
and Always Fresh

at Faces next to the Amherst Post Office
hours: 9:30 to 6:00 256-8955

I think I'll have mine typed at et cetera copy . . .
ULTRA LOW PRICES
Sudden Service
48 hours · 72 hours service for certain typing orders excluding day delivered
Thesis and Term Paper Experts
· graphics · all formats
· copy same day with typing · footnotes
20¢/re-type same document
3¢/copy with typing
et cetera copy corp.
carriage shops, amherst 549 0566

SWING OPEN ...SEW!
Only
BERNINA Nova in the SwingBox lets you do it
See the first portable sewing machine you can use without taking it out of the case. You're ready to sew in seconds. With the very latest in Bernina advances.
natural textiles
hours 10-6 mon.-sat.
256-6427

Who's Who and Who's When

L

Thur 9 a.m.

Ronald LaConte
Futurist, Professor of Secondary Education, University of Connecticut

Tue 2 p.m.

David Lanbach
Chairman, English Department, Westfield High School, Westfield, Massachusetts

Thur 3 p.m., Fri 3 p.m.

David Landesman
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Wed 3 p.m.

John LeBaron
Project Director, Research and Development, Massachusetts Executive Committee for Educational Television

Tue 10 a.m.

David Lehman
Principal, New Junior High School, Ithaca, New York

Fri 10 a.m.

Ronald Lemay
Instructor, Adult Learning Center, Worcester Public Schools

Fri 1 p.m.

Joan Lester
Educator, Amherst
Julian Lines Thurllam, Teacher Learning Center, Stamford, Conn.

Wed 1 p.m.

Janet Little
East Mountain Center: An Integrated Classroom for Handicapped and Able-Bodied Children — Massachusetts State Department of Public Health

Thur 9 a.m., Thur 2 p.m.

Dennis Livingston
Futurist and Faculty, Department of History and Political Science R.P.I. Troy, New York

Tue 10 a.m., Tue 3 p.m.

J. David Logan
Greenwich Connecticut Publics Schools Co-Author of LIMITS, World Growth Computer Simulation

Wed 1 p.m., Wed 3 p.m.

Robert London
Project Director, Reach Out Alternative School, Lynn, Massachusetts

Thur 2 p.m.

Barbara Love
Faculty, Center for Urban Education, UMass School of Education

M

Wed 10 a.m.

Jean MacCormack
Doctoral Candidate, UMass School of Education

Louise Maglione
Director, Resource Center, Massachusetts Audubon Society

Thur 2 p.m.

Joann A. Mahoney
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Wed 2 p.m.

Ronald M. Mangano
Futurist, Assistant Professor, School of Technology, Central Connecticut State College

Tue 10 a.m.

Elise Martin
Massachusetts State Bureau of Teacher Certification

Wed 11 a.m., Thur 1 p.m.

Jim Masker
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Tue 1 p.m.

Susan Mackey
Director, Infant-Toddler Playgroup, UMass

Fri 3 p.m.

C. J. Maupin
Doctoral Candidate, Higher Education, UMass School of Education

Tue 2 p.m., Wed 3 p.m.,
Thur 3 p.m., Fri 10 a.m.

David McCarthy
NAROPA Institute, Boulder, Colorado

Thur 9 a.m.

Jean McClellan
Doctoral Candidate, Reading Program, UMass School of Education

Tue noon, Wed 1 p.m.

Jock McClellan
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Wed 1 p.m.

Linda McCrudden
Communications Coordinator, Massachusetts Executive Committee for Educational Television

Wed 1 p.m.

Larry McCullough
Doctoral Candidate, Anisa Project, UMass School of Education

Thur 1 p.m.

Leela McCullough
Doctoral Candidate, Anisa Project, UMass School of Education

Wed 1 p.m.

Phil McKnight
Associate Professor of Education, University of Kansas

Tue 10 a.m.

Judith Merrow
Alternative School Director, Maine

Fri 9 a.m., Fri 11 a.m.

Dolores Metivier-Furgeson
Doctoral Candidate, Multicultural Education, UMass School of Education

Wed 3 p.m.

Lynne Miller
Director, National Alternative Schools Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 9 a.m.

Robert Miltz
Faculty, Instructional Leadership, UMass School of Education

Thur 4 p.m.

David Myrow
Professor, Division for the Study of Teaching, Syracuse University

N

Tue 3 p.m.

Frank Napier
Superintendent, Patterson, New Jersey School System

Wed 3 p.m.

William A. Nesbitt
Worcester School, Danbury, Connecticut and the Center for International Programs, New York State Education Department

Thur 9 a.m.

Georgia Noble
Associate, Center for Whole Being

Wed 9 a.m., Thur 9 a.m., Fri 9 a.m.

Neal Norris
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m.

Irene Nystrom
Faculty, Family Center, School of Home Economics, UMass

O

Fri 10 a.m.

Thomas D. Osborn
Executive Director, Holyoke Street School, Holyoke, Massachusetts

P

Tue 3 p.m.

Leeann Page
Educational Director, Sugar Maple Children's Center, Chittenden, Vermont

Thur 1 p.m.

Brett Parent
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Wed 10 a.m.

Paul Parks
Secretary for Educational Affairs for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts

Thur 10 a.m.

Franklin Patterson
President, University of Massachusetts

Thur noon

Al Peakes
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Wed 3 p.m.

Stan Pestka
Director, Park City Alternative School, Bridgeport, Connecticut

Wed 1 p.m.

Linda Petchuk
East Mountain Center: An Integrated Classroom for Handicapped and Able-Bodied Children — Massachusetts State Department of Public Health

Wed noon

Ray Petty
Director, Alternative Secondary Network, Hartford, Connecticut

Thur 10 a.m.

Kathy Phillips
Doctoral Candidate, Humanistic Education, UMass School of Education

Wed 10 a.m.

Jake Plante
Energy Officer, Franklin County, Massachusetts

Wed 1 p.m.

Sally Powell
Doctoral Candidate, UMass School of Education

R

Wed 10 a.m., Fri 11 a.m.

Dennis Rader
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Tue 10 a.m., Wed 2 p.m.

Charlotte Rahaim
Community College Project Director, UMass School of Education

Wed 10 a.m.

Ismael Ramirez
Lawyer, Doctoral Candidate, Legal Literacy Program, UMass School of Education

Fri 1 p.m.

David B. Rauch
Director, The Adult Program

Thur 10 a.m.

Dan Rea
Doctoral Candidate, Integrated Day Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m.

Don Read
Co-Director, Center for Human Sexual Counseling

Thur 11 a.m.

Horace Reed
Faculty, Instructional Leadership, UMass School of Education

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY 256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
5-2 a.m.
Corner of Main & Triangle St.
9 Minute Pick-Up Service

FILM & FEAST
AT THE MT. FARMS "THEATRE"
PLUS YOUR CHOICE OF DINNER AT "DAVID'S"
• Delicious - Brochette of Filet Mignon
• Specially Prepared — Breast of Chicken
• Cordon Bleu — a Gourmet Dish
• Taste Tempting — Seafood
ALL WITH SALAD, BREAD, BUTTER!
ALL FOR ONLY $5.
EVERY SUNDAY THRU THURSDAY
DAVID'S of MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - HADLEY/ TEL. 586-1878

PLAN TO EAT AT
The Hideout
Pizza, Pastry, Grinders, Soup, Salads, ALL Homemade home baked breads and rolls — our specialty
We deliver every day from 5:00 till closing, from 3:00 on Sunday.
103 North Pleasant Street Amherst 256-0441
Hours 11:30-1 a.m. Daily til 2:00 on Weekends
TUESDAY NIGHTS
ALL the PIZZA YOU CAN EAT!
$2.00/person
5 pm.-?

Who's Who and Who's When

Wed 10 a.m.

Adrienne Reeves
Connecticut State Department of Health

Wed 1 p.m.

Nancy Reid
East Mountain Center; An Integrated Classroom for Handicapped and Able-Bodied Children — Massachusetts State Department of Public Health

Tue 10 a.m., Wed 3 p.m.

Ray Reisler
Teaching Improvement Faculty, University of Calgary, Alberta

Thur 3 p.m.

Adam Richberg
Principal, Edgemont Elementary School, Connecticut

Tue 2 p.m.

Nancy Roberts
Director, Pre-College System Dynamics Curriculum Development Project, MIT

Thur 9 a.m.

Thomas Roeper
Assistant Professor, Reading Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 1 p.m.

John Rorke
Dean of Students, Millbrook School, Millbrook, New York

Wed 1 p.m.

Charles Roth
Massachusetts Audubon Society

Tue 2 p.m.

Edith Ruina
Director, WITS, Project on Work on Technology and Sciences, MIT

Wed 2 p.m.

Charlotte Ryan
President, Parent Teachers Students Association of Massachusetts

Wed 3 p.m.

Merle Ryan
Coordinator of Deaf Services, UMass

S

Thur noon

David & Myra Sadker
Faculty, School of Education, American University, Washington, D.C.

Thur 3 p.m., Fri 3 p.m.

Mary Schatzkamer
Teacher and Counselor, University City Alternative High School, St. Louis, Missouri

Fri 10 a.m.

Howard Schecter
Director, Instructional Center for Resourceful Living, North Adams State College, Massachusetts

Wed 10 a.m.

David Schimmel
Faculty, Legal Literacy Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 11 a.m.

Edwin Schlossberg
Educator, artist and philosopher, Schlossberg designed the learning environment at the Brooklyn Children's Museum and is the author of "Einstein and Beckett" and (with John Brockman) "The Philosopher Game."

Fri 3 p.m.

Frank Schorn
Assistant Professor of Education and Human Development, Eckerd College, Florida

Fri 10 a.m.

Harvey Scribner
Educator and former Chancellor of the New York City Schools. Scribner's most recent book, Make Your Schools Work, is intended to help parents, teachers, and administrators bring about radical reform of the public schools.

Wed 3 p.m., Thur 3 p.m.

Mark Segar
Doctoral Candidate, Early Childhood Education, UMass School of Education

Thur 11 a.m., Fri 1 p.m.

Michel Shaklin
Center for Conflict Resolution Staff, Author, "Facilitator's Manual"

Wed 11 a.m.

Marie Shaffer
Commission on Educational Issues, Boston, Massachusetts

Tue noon

Marc Simon
Director, Alternative Learning Program, Hampshire Educational Collaborative

Fri 4 p.m.

Sidney Simon
Leading humanistic educator and co-author of Values Clarification

Thur 1 p.m.

Don Simpson
Project Director, Community Career Education Center

Thur 1 p.m.

Rudine Sims
Associate Professor, Reading Program, UMass School of Education

Tue 1 p.m.

Ted Slovin
Associate Director, Community Development Center, UMass

Wed 3 p.m.

Jane Ann Smith
Doctoral Candidate, Moral Education, Hofstra University, Philadelphia, Penna.

Tue 2 p.m.

William Smith
Director, National Teacher Corps, Washington, D.C.

Fri 1 p.m.

Betty Spears
Professor, Sports Studies, UMass

Thur 10 a.m.

Nancy Spencer
Public School Teacher, Westfield Public Schools, Massachusetts

Tue 1 p.m.

Don Streets
Anisa Project Faculty, UMass School of Education

Tues 1 p.m., Wed 1 p.m.,
Thur 1 p.m., Fri 1 p.m.

Carol Stefanik
Teacher, Westfield Public Schools, Westfield, Massachusetts Vice-Chairperson, Westfield Planning Board

Thur 11 a.m.

Ed Sullivan
Providence College, Providence, Rhode Island

T

Wed 1 p.m.

Matthew Taylor
Director, Renaissance Project, University of Kansas

Tue 4 p.m., Wed 9 a.m.

David Tenerowicz
Arica Associate, Amherst

Wed 10 a.m.

Susan Theroux
Doctoral Candidate, UMass School of Education

U

Thur 10 a.m.

Richard Ulin
Faculty, Education for a Changing World, UMass School of Education

Thur 1 p.m., Thur 2 p.m.

George Urch
Faculty, International Education, UMass School of Education

W

Tue 1 p.m.

Kathleen Wagschal
Consultant, Infant-Toddler Playgroup, Early Childhood Education Specialist

Wed 11 a.m.

Peter Wagschal
Faculty Director, Future Studies Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 11 a.m.

Michael Walker
Doctoral Candidate, Alternative Schools Program, UMass School of Education

Thur 3 p.m., Fri 3 p.m.

Patrick Watson
Director, School of T'ai Chi Chuan, New York

Thur 10 a.m.

Gerry Weinstein
Faculty, Humanistic Education Center, UMass School of Education

Tue 2 p.m.

F. Gaylor Welson
Doctoral Candidate, Future Studies, UMass School of Education

Tue 10 a.m., Wed 10 a.m.,
Thur 10 a.m. Fri 10 a.m.

Jack Widemen
Faculty, Counseling Center, UMass School of Education

Thur 1 p.m.

Peter Willner
Executive Director, Co-op Education Services, Stamford, Conn.

Wed 10 a.m.

Jerome Winegar
South Boston High School
Doctoral Candidate, Urban Education, UMass School of Education

Thur 11 a.m.

Robert Winston
Faculty, Juvenile Justice Program, UMass School of Education

Fri 10 a.m.

Harold Wiper
Newton North High School, Newton, Massachusetts

Tue 1 p.m.

Michael Wolfe
Faculty, English Department, UMass

Tue 10 a.m., Wed 10 a.m., Thur 10 a.m., Fri 10 a.m.

William Wolf
Faculty, Research Center, UMass School of Education

Fri 9 a.m.

Robert Wood
Former President of the University of Massachusetts, on leave at the Joint Center for Urban Studies of Harvard and MIT

Thur 2 p.m.

Beverly Woolf
Doctoral Candidate, Institutional Applications of Computers Program, UMass School of Education

Wed 3 p.m.

Jack Wuest
Founder, Alternative School Network, Chicago, Illinois

Z

Wed 11 a.m.

Dick Zajchowski
Commission of Educational Issues, Boston, Massachusetts

Toward Tomorrow Fair

The third annual Toward Tomorrow Fair is scheduled for June 16, 17, & 18, 1978 at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Focusing on issues in appropriate technology, agriculture, energy, land use and the environment, speakers will include Barry Commoner, Stewart Brand, Buckminster Fuller, Amory Livins, Dennis Meadows, Stewart Udall and Nicholas Johnson. For furthur information contact Toward Tomorrow, Hasbrouck Building, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003.

MAIN STREET RECORDS
We have the largest selection of used records around because we offer the most for our used 45s, 78s and LPs 586-5726
Selection changes daily

FACES
Faces of Earth Downtown Amherst Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
You'll be surprised to find such excellent authentic Chinese cooking right here in Amherst. The only restaurant in the area to receive the American Dining Society's Good Dining Award.
Lunch Specials 1.15 and up
Closed Wednesday
62 Main St., Amherst
253-7835

Clark: Back to Basics

By SHARI BICKEL

Dr. Kenneth Bancroft Clark, a business executive and professor of psychiatry known for his efforts in improving urban education and individuals' constitutional rights concerning integration, will be speaking at the Learning Tomorrows Conference April 18, at noon, in the Fine Arts Center.

Clark is known throughout the educational community as a leading innovator in applying the behavioral sciences to the learning process. He is a believer in students learning the basic academic skills of reading and mathematics, "without which," he says, "further learning is impossible."

Clark opposes psychologists such as Montessori, John Holt and Piaget who believe objective data about what individuals can be taught or have learned (standardized achievement tests--including the IQ) are subject to far too many variables such as the expectations of the testers and the anxieties of test-taking. Clark supports methods of pre-structuring and imposing a high degree of control upon the educational process. He wants "the pattern of essential ingredients of an effective educational program--systematic and specifically defined sequentially developed curricula..." For Clark, curriculum is defined "as the substance or content of what a child is expected to learn," and not what the child wants to learn.

Clark says: "Normal children tend to learn...what they are expected to learn...taught to learn...it is possible to control the rate of learning...upward or downward, by a modification...of the curriculum."

He continues, "The basic academic skills, reading, oral and written communication (in proper, not ghetto English) and mathematics are...necessary for a constructive, competitive, and contributary role in the economy and the society as a whole."

Clark sees competition as an important external stimulus in the raising of achievement levels in reading and math skills.

He states in a report: "In the elementary and middle grades a well-planned system of collective competition for class prizes in reading, spelling....may well be a most important component for raising the quality of modern public school education."

In 1953, Kenneth Clark joined other Americans in helping the Supreme Court to desegregate the schools. Dr Clark continues to witness segregation in the north and south.

"Northerners," Clark says, "talk about such things as cultural deprivation as the source of damage to their children rather than segregated schools being the source of damage."

Dr. Clark received a B.A. and an M.S. from Howard University in Washington and a Ph.D. from Columbia University. He is a professor of psychiatry at City College in New York, and a visiting professor at Columbia University, the University of California at Berkeley, and at Harvard University.

Clark is also the author of Dark Ghettos and a member of the New York State Board of Regents.

Kenneth Clark

Henderson: Environmental futurist

Hazel Henderson

By ROB YARVITZ

Hazel Henderson, 45, author, lecturer and well-known futurist; she is also a dedicated citizen activist who has spent the past fifteen years working for consumer and environmental protection, greater corporate accountability and social and economic justice. Henderson will speak Friday, April 21, at 2 pm in the Campus Center Auditorium.

She is co-director of the Princeton Center for Alternative Futures, Inc., a deliberately small, private think tank for exploring the alternative futures of industrial countries in a planetary context of human interdepnnce.

Born in Bristol, England and educated in British private schools, Henderson came to the United States in 1956. She is married to Carter Henderson and they have one daughter, Alexandra, age 16.

Henderson has an Honorary Doctorate degree in science from Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass.; she's a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of Technological Forecasting and Social Change, Elsevier,N.Y.; and the Editorial Advisory Board of Technology Assessment, the journal of the International Society for Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C. She is also on the board of the UMass Future Studies Program.

Henderson has published many books and papers in her yearning for peace, a humane world order, social justice, and ecological sanity. Creating Alternative Futures, her latest book, provides a forceful critique of mass-consumption, industrial societies, their dominant corporations and bureaucracies and their traditional economic concepts, which are now confusing the public debate about what is valuable under drastically changing conditions. Her ideas are not merely theoretical, but have been tested and validated in the arena of community-organizing and political action.

Henderson has advised non-profit organizations including the Conservation Foundation and the Ford Foundation Energy Policy Project. As a member of the Advisory Committee on Research Applications Theory Policy, she has advised government's National Science Foundation.

She has spoken at many cporporate management seminars on social policy, and she has been a volunteer to many citizens organizations on environmental and consumer protection, corporate accountability, alternative futures and appropriate technologies. She also helped found the Public Interest Economics Foundation (1972), the National Council for the Public Assessment of Technology (1974), and Environmentalists For Full Employment (1975), all of Washington D.C.

Dean Mario Fantini of the UMass School of Education said of Henderson: "she has challenged traditional economic theories while championing our definition of human interdependence."

The Elmwood Inn
DINNER SPECIALS
Tues—Wed—Thurs
Baked Stuffed Scallops 5.50
Delmonico Steak 5.95
Fri—Sat
5.95
Baked Stuffed Shrimp 6.50
Sunday
Roast Turkey w/stuffing 5.25
Roast Leg of Lamb 5.95
HOURS LUNCH DINNER
TUES-THURS 11:30-4:00 4:00-9:00
FRI - SAT 11:30-4:00 4:00-10:00
SUNDAY 12:00-8:00
on Rt. 9, Hadley Center
please call 584-6813

COLLEGETOWN BARBER SHOP
183 No. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-9884
Wash & Wear Hair Shaping

Learn how to design and build your own low-cost passive-solar energy-efficient and life-welcoming HOME.
BUILD YOUR OWN
Six-week evening course starts April 18
AMHERST - Tues. & Thurs. 7-10 p.m.
Call or write for syllabus and brochure
HEARTWOOD
OWNER-BUILDER SCHOOL
JOHNSON ROAD, WASHINGTON, MASS. 01235
(413) 623-6677
HEARTWOOD
OWNER BUILDER SCHOOL

"Grand Opening"
in the Carriage Shops
THE AMHERST MAGIC SHOP
"Amherst Pipe & Tobacco Co., Ltd."

Boulding: Future peace

By JULIE EAGLE

Elise Boulding, feminist, futurist, sociologist, and peace educator will speak in the Campus Center Auditorium Thursday, April 20.

"Boulding has been instrumental in promoting peace research and education," said Jack McClellan, a doctoral candidate in the Future Studies Program. "One tf her main concerns is education that promotes an awareness of peace and methods of promoting peace," he added.

Boulding is a member of over a dozen national and international peace promoting societies, and has written and lectured extensively on the subject for over a decade.

Boulding has a "non-violent approach" to social change, McClellan said, comparing her to Ghandi and Martin Luther King, Jr. "It's something very close to her heart," he added.

McClellan said one of Boulding's major accomplishments was to translate Fred Polak's The Image of the Future, in which the author, a Dutch politician and social thinker, argues that what people project for the future will inevitably follow.

"Boulding picks up on this theme and argues it is important that we create optimistic and transcendic images of the future, that we revitalize our ability to create these images," McClellan said.

Another of Boulding's major concerns are "religious institutions in cultural change," McClellan said. "She is a Quaker, and consequently was interested in the role of religion in creating images of the future. She has examined women's international religious organizations thinking they would nurture positive international images of the future. She found this to be false...that they are not as active as secular women's groups."

As a feminist, Boulding has also centered much of her work around women's issues. Her book, The Underside of History: A View of Women Through Time, published in 1976, was hailed by Library Journal as "the first comprehensive study of human history as shaped and experienced by women."

In the review, Boulding is praised for avoiding "the feminist tendency to romanticize a golden, matriarchal past...(she is) a mature scholar who points out her own limitations."

Boulding, currently a sociology professor and Project Director at the Institute of Behaviorial Science at the University of Colorado--Boulder, is married to Kenneth Boulding, "a prominent social thinker, economist, peace thinker, and author," according to McClellan.

"The two have worked closely together in thinking," he said, combining efforts on several joint publications.

Boulding, who has raised five children, has also focused on children as a primary topic in her literary and social endeavors. "She looks at children as nurturing their parents, shaping the future, being innovative--as the well-springs of revitalization," McClellan said.

Elise Boulding

Illich: False needs

By ELLEN DAVIS

Ivan Illich is well known as an educationalist, theologan, independent thinker, and social critic.

The presentation is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wed. April 19 in the Fine Arts Center Auditorium.

In recent years, Illich has focused his attention on energy, transportation, education, medicine, and professionalism. His basic thesis is that the modern age is creating false needs, neglecting the real problems of our times, and creating a new elite of professionals whose job it is to convince people they need what they really don't need. He often writes about the erosion of citizen participation in modern life as well.

"Illich is a very special and important man," said Robert Kahn of the UMass Future Studies Department. "He has a well argued and documented position which is unique."

Peter Wagshal, also from the Future Studies Department, said, "It is impossible to overestimate Illich's impact. He has sensitized many people to the radically different role education might play in the lives of our children."

One of Illich's books, Deschooling Society, has shaken the foundations of the educational establishment. Other boooks Illich has written include Celebration of Awareness: A Call for Institutional Revolution, Tools for Conviviality, Energy and Equity, and Medical Nemisis: The Expropriation of Health.

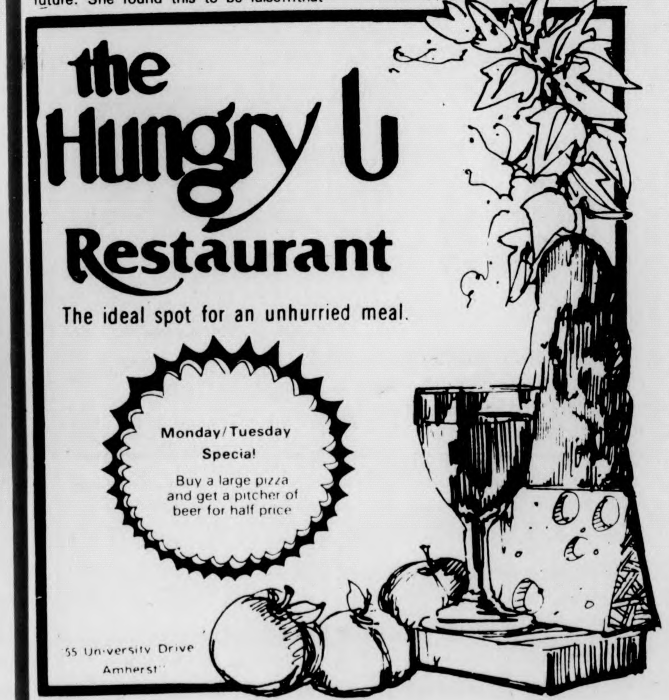
His most recent is Toward a History of Needs, a provocative, imaginative, and highly controversial book.

Illlich, 52, was born in Vienna, Austria, and grew up in Europe. He has degrees in history, philosophy, and theology.

In 1950, he came to New York and worked as a parish priest. Following that, he lived in Puerto Rico, and was Vice-President of a Catholic University there.

Since 1960, Illich has made his home in Cuernavaca, Mexico, where he founded the Intercultural Center of Documentation in 1961

Illich's presentation at this conference, entitled "The Limits to Bureaucratic Motherhood: Taught Mother Tongue," will be a first-time speech. It is expected to deal with Illich's idea that the "helping professions" in our bureaucracy have reached the point in their development where they are doing more harm than good.



the Hungry U Restaurant
The ideal spot for an unhurried meal.
Monday/Tuesday Special
Buy a large pizza and get a pitcher of beer for half price
55 University Drive Amherst

GORDON OF PHILADELPHIA
Easy fitting fern print tee-top.
Matching pull on knitskirt.
Gordon Makes The Difference
THE HALT BOX
16 Main St., Amherst
M-F 9-5:30

Campus Center Coffee Shop
Open 7⁰⁰ a.m. until midnight Sun. -Sat.
Main Concourse - 2nd level,
Murray D. Lincoln Center

Other Important Speakers

Jonathan Kozol

Jonathan Kozol, 41, is a Boston native, graduate of Harvard, and former teacher in the Boston and Newton elementary school systems. In 1967, Kozol published his revolutionary book, Death At An Early Age: The Destruction of the Hearts and Minds of Negro Children in the Boston Public Schools. Kozol recently published another book, The Night is Dark and I Am Far From Home. Kozol is a major spokesman for the Free Schools movement.

Nat Hentoff

Nat Hentoff, a columnist for the Village Voice and author, will speak Wednesday, April 19, at noon in the Campus Center Auditorium. Hentoff, 52, was born and raised in Boston, and graduated from Northeastern University. He began writing about jazz, and from there moved to social concerns. Hentoff explains: "From jazz, I inevitably became involved in the world that jazz itself reflects, and I therefore began to write about civil rights...that naturally led to the problems of poverty--and ways to end it."

Hentoff has recently written two books on education--Our Children are Dying and Does Anybody Give A Damn?, and is now well known for his concern with teacher unions and their effect on education.

COOKE'S CORNER
You don't have to be a gourmet to shop here
Wide selection of everyday kitchen items:
Mugs
Baskets
Wood utensils
Placemats
Come and browse!
MAIN STREET CENTER / 2nd Floor Northampton, Mass / 584-5496
Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30 Thurs. 'til 9

panda's
oriental rugs - mexican imports
Tibetan, Pakistan Mexican & Navajo Rugs
Also Pottery and Sweaters main st. center, second floor, northampton, ma. 584-3958

The Mercantile in the Carriage Shops
Amherst
Unusual Gifts for your friends and relations
...and especially for yourself
Kites, Jewelry, Candles, Blouses, Skirts, and more

KNOT JUST BEADS INTRODUCES THERAPUTIC USE OF MINERALS & STONES
AMBER TURQUOISE AMETHYST
TOPAZ ROSE QUARTZ CORAL
MOSS AGATE MEXICAN ONYX
JADE TIGERS EYE KUNZITE
IVORY MALACHITE GARNET STOP IN AND LEARN MORE ABOUT THESE AMAZING NATURAL HEALING POWERS

---

The Major Lectures

Tuesday

Jonathan Kozol 'Education for Liberation'

Wednesday

Ivan Illich 'The Limits to Bureaucratic Motherhood: Taught Mother Tongue'

Thursday

Dwight Allen: 'The Future of Urban Education: Hope and Prospect'

Friday

R. Buckminster Fuller 'Learning Tomorrows: Education for Global Survival'

At the Fine Arts Center
All speeches at 8 p.m.

Also speaking...

Dwight Allen — International educator and former Dean of the UMass School of Education. Allen is a leading spokesman of the alternative Schools movement and has forged innovations in teacher education and modular scheduling. (Thur. 8 p.m. Fine Arts Center.)

Gregory Anrig — Commissioner of Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. (Thur. 10 a.m. Rm. 174 - Campus Center)

James Botkin — Member of the Club of Rome and co-author of its forthcoming study on the future of international education. (Wed. 10 a.m. Rm. 803, Campus Center)

Thomas Cottle — Social psychologist and author of many books including the Present of Things Future. His field research and oral histories have expanded contemporary sociology and psychology. (Thur. 4 p.m. Campus Center Auditorium)

Roy Edelfelt — Professional Associate in Instruction and Professional Development of the National Education Association. He is an active shaper of national education policy. (Fri. noon Campus Center Auditorium)

Paul Parks — Secretary of Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. (Wed. 10 a.m. Campus Center Auditorium)

Harvey Scribner — Educator and former Chancellor of the New York City Schools. His most recent book, Make Your Schools Work, was written as an incentive to help parents, teachers and administrators bring about radical reform of the public schools. (Fri. 10 a.m. Campus Center Auditorium)

Sidney Simon — Leading humanistic educator and co-author of Values Clarification. (Fri. 4 p.m. Campus Center Auditorium)

William Smith — Director of the federal government's National Teacher Corps, in the forefront of the effort to enhance urban education. (Tues. 2 p.m. Rm. 917 Campus Center)

Gerald Weinstein — Education innovator and co-author of Towards a Humanistic Education. (Thur. 10 a.m. Rm. 917 Campus Center)

Edwin Schlossberg — A philosopher, educator and designer, Schlossberg recently completed the design of the learning environment in the Brooklyn Children's Museum. Deeply interested in maximizing opportunities for non-formal education, Schlossberg's two most recent books (authored with John Brockman), The Calculator Game Box and The Philosopher's Game have shown how learning can be both entertaining and enriching. As a philosopher, Scholessberg's generalist approach is best seen in his book, Imaginary Conversations With Einstien And Beckett which simultaneously won Schlossberg doctorates in both literature and physics from Columbia University. (Thur. 11 a.m. Rm. 179 Campus Center)

Co-directors of Earth Metabolic Design, Howard Brown and Medard Gabel, have worked for 10 years linking education to the important resource and design issues of global survival. Their annual sponsorship (with Buckminster Fuller) of the World Game Workshop has shown how effectively students working in cooperation for short though intense periods, can be, in devising alternative solutions for global problems. (Fri. 9 a.m. Rm. 803 Campus Center)

Anne Cheatham — Director of the Congressional Clearinghouse for the Future, stands in the forefront of actualizing what Alvin Toffler has called "anticipatory democracy." The work of the Clearinghouse is to help educate members of Congress in the long-range viewpoint of future studies and technology assesment. (Fri. noon Rm. 917 Campus Center)

Theodore Gordon — Director of the Futures Group of Glastonbury, Conn., is a leading figure in future studies development. His contributions include the development of the Delphi Technique and early application of computer technology to long-range forecasting. His recent work has focussed on important social trends which promise to inform the shape of the future. (Tue. noon Rm. 903 Campus Center)

Wilma Scott Heide — As a futurist, Heide has been a vocal spokesperson for incorporating a feminine perspective into the exploration of the future. As a feminist she has encouraged the women's movement to confront not only contemporary issues of liberation, but the long implications of a new social order as well. She is a former President of the National Organization of Women. (Tues. 4 p.m. Rm. 917 Campus Center)

Jerome Wineger — The principal of South Boston High School. He will be leading a workshop on "Southie" since busing with three members of his organizational staff. This team has been working at South Boston High School since September of 1976 and has been responsible for the successful community facilitation and staff development which is making education happen at the school again. (Wed. 10 a.m. Rm. 174 Campus Center)

Earthrise — A non-profit organization engaged in futures research and design. They will be directing participants in the Global Futures game which is a dynamic simulation of present and future worlds conditions in terms of population, food, technology education and the relative growth rates of each. (Fri. 9 a.m. Rm. 904 Campus Center)

Theodore Brameld — Professor emeritus in educational philosphy at Boston University. Brameld 's publications include Teacher as World Citizen, Education as Power and Education for an Emerging Age. He is also associated directly with the Society for Educational Reconstruction which will also be represented at the conference. (Thur. 9 a.m. Rm. 174 Campus Center)

Book Order

The Future Studies Program is currently negotiating with a variety of major publishers to assure that the major presentations of "Learning Tomorrows" are available in a moderately-priced book of roughly 300 pages. If you would be interested in purchasing that volume when it is published, please fill out the following form and either leave it at the Future Studies Program Desk (1st Floor, Campus Center) or mail it to: Future Studies Program

Hills House So., Room 164
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003

Yes I would be interested in purchasing the edited transcriptions of major presentations at "Learning Tomorrows":

NAME ____________________
ADDRESS ____________________
____________________

The Cushman General Store
"the everything store for the one stop trip"
• Post Office Facilities 7 days a week
• Filling Station-gasoline and oil
• Choice meats, Fresh produce
• Dairy products, Cheeses
• Beer and Wine
• Much More
491 Pine St. Cushman (Amherst) 549-0464
Mon-Sat 8am - 9pm, Sun 8am-1pm (Beginning Sun, May 7th, 8:30-6pm)

Charlie's
Luncheon Specials:
Crepes
Omelets
Variety of Salads
Spinach Pie
Happy Hour Daily 4p.m.-7p.m.
1 Pray Street, Amherst 549-5403

EXPLORE

The Main Street Center

crafts · flowers · stained glass · leather · records · quilts · jewelry · weaving · shoes · fabrics · beads · clothing 150 Main St., Northampton, Mass.

REGISTER TO VOTE HERE & NOW!!
SO YOU CAN COUNT IN SEPT.
BY SUPPORTING PROGRESSIVE
CANDIDATES AND ISSUES
JONATHAN
SOUWEINE
FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY
Paid for by people who want to elect
Jonathan Souweine D.A.
In the Amherst Carriage Shops 549-6694
Mike Sullivan Laura Stickel

From the top of the first to the bottom of the ninth...
Coke adds life to America's favorite pastime!
Enjoy Coca-Cola
Coca Cola and Coke are registered trade marks which identify the same product of The Coca Cola Company

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS
CLOTHING
TENTS
ANNUAL SPRING
SALE
 Wednesday, April 12 to Saturday, April 15.
SLEEPING BAGS
PACKS
Save 10-50%
BOATING EQUIPMENT, RUNNING SHOES,
KITS, HIKING BOOTS, AND MUCH, MUCH MORE.
(Winter Rental Gear 30-70% Off List)
Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9PM,
Sat. 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504
VISA
master charge

Gigantic
Spring Clearance Sale!
30-to-70% off Original Prices
You'll find beautiful bargains a-bloom during Wear-It-Well's GIGANTIC SPRING CLEARANCE Sale!-Super savings on top-quality, famous-maker clothes for juniors and misses.
Blouses originally up to $14 $4
Denim jeans & skirts originally up to $21 $8
SLACKS Misses Sizes 8-18 Originally up to $17 $6
Junior Sizes 5-15 Originally up to $22 $8
Just look at these bright buys in store for you now!
PLUS MANY OTHER COMPARABLE SAVINGS!
Dresses Values to $36 $16
Fashion people can tell when you shop at Wear it Well
Wear it Well
Next to Caldors
Mon.-Sat.
10 a.m.-9 p.m.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Vol CVII, Issue 121
Tuesday, April 18, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Van service to expand

New buses lack lifts for handicapped

By JOHN M. MORAN
Collegian Staff

The 26 new buses ordered by the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority and the UMass Transit Service will be without wheelchair lifts for the handicapped because of a PVTA decision emphasizing expanded van service as the best way to provide increased mobility for the handicapped.

William Barrett, Director of Parking and Transportation, said he made the same rectmmendation to University officials.

Members of the Handicapped Students Collective are scheduled to meet with Barrett, Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury and Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery this week in an attempt to change the decision.

"We don't like this 'separate-but-equal' policy that's being taken," she said. "We want the equal access, but we don't want it to be separate."

The Handicapped Students Collective plans to circulate 1000 petitions calling for modification of the ordered buses.

Barrett wrote his reasons for not recommending lift-equipped buses in a report dated March 23. He cited the low level of technology for the lifts, the problems of the rear-door lifts (driver must leave the bus to operate equipment), other driver problems such as difficulties in getting the bus close enough to the curbs, possible scheduling problems, and increased capital and maintenance costs.

"Basically, I don't think the PVTA or the University system should rush into a short-term solution," Barrett said. He said it was the decision of the PVTA, which owns the new buses, not to fit them with lifts.

The Graduate student Senate has asked the Legal Services Offices to investigate the responsibility of the PVTA and the Transit Service with regards to Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act. The Federal guidelines state that all new buses must be accessible after October 1, 1979.

According tro David Biggers, secretary of the Graduate Student Senate, Legal Services has informed them they are looking into the regulations. "We are concerned mainly because we are trying to decide on our funding for the Transit Service," Biggers said.

Biggers said there is a "good possibility" a condition may be attached to the appropriation requiring the funds be used only if the buses are accessible to the handicapped. The budget meeting for the Graduate student senate is next Monday night.

The Graduate student senate was asked last year to fund the Transit Service at $12,000 and is being asked for $29,000 this year, according to Biggers.

Michael West, an assistant to the Chancellor, said Section 504 requires all programs by the University be accessible to the handicapped. West chaired the committee which formulated the 504 transition plan for the University.

"The question becomes, is transportation a program?," West said yesterday in a Collegian interview. "I think it is a program."

According to West, the U.S. Department of Transportation has never given any guidelines to the PVTA which specifically state its responsibilities. He said the adequacy of the van service would probably be an important factor in a dispute involving accessibility.

William Barrett said the Transit Service felt the van service was "basically unsatisfactory."

"We don't feel we provide anywhere near the service we should," he said. Barrett says he expects the van service will receive "significant" additional funding from the PVTA to expand and improve. Barrett is the chairman of a committee to develop improvements by in the van service and says he will implement the improvements by the fall of 1979.

Vice-Chancellor James L. McBee yesterday said it was too late to change the order for the buses and he thinks the University has bought the best type of buses available. "We are leaving the option open to put rear-door lifts on the buses at a later time," he said.

According to Michael West, the transition plan his committee developed recommended McBee be given charge of implementing the plan because virtually all of the departments invv azunder his jurisdiction. West said Chancellor Bromery has written McBee asking him to assume the responsibility and report on its progress every six months.

Student senator John Foley, who has been working with the Handicapped Students collective, said a motion would be introduced at the Student Senate meeting next Wednesday "to the effect that no SATF (Student Activities Tax Fund) monies go to a bus system that is not accessible to the handicapped."

"The important point," he said, "is that the bus system would be an independent transportation system. With the vans you might have to go two hours early to an appointment or wait until a van could get you. The buses operate on a schedule."

He said the senate would be funding the Handicapped Student Collective for $5000 this year and the Collective was planning a presentation at the senate meeting.

Laura Rauscher emphasized that the Collective did not want the bus service to replace the van service. "There will be students who cannot use the buses under any circumstances," she said. "Both services should be expanded and improved."

Officials from the PVTA were unavailable for comment yesterday

Good Morning

Local

UMass hosted two conferences this weekend, one on involvement in South Africa and the other on Black Studies programs across the country. Niel Moeller and Maria Messitt's stories on page 5 for the details.

Friday Night Fever has hit the Five Col-ge area but it is not disco, but folk dancing. See page 2 for more information.

A survey on coed dorm living at UMass is being conducted by channel 5 in Boston for an upcoming television news segment. Page 2.

National

The Pulitzer prizes in journalism were awarded yesterday. Page 9.

Weather

Increasing cloudiness today with highs in the 50s. Cloudy tonight with chance of rain developing. Low temperatures around 40. Rain tomorrow with highs in the 50s.

BOSTON — An aerial view shows a packed course as nearly 5,000 runners start the annual Boston marathon. (UPI)

Rodgers triumphs in Boston Marathon

BOSTON (UPI) — Bill Rodgers, just 18 seconds off his record set in winning the 1975 Boston Marathon, Monday won his second laurel wreath, edging Texas seminarian Jeff Wells in the closest race in the event's 82-year history.

Rodgers, a former Melrose, Mass., school teacher, wore the Mickey Mouse style gloves that helped him win the 1975 race in 2:09:55. He finished Monday's race in 2:10:13, the second fastest time in Boston Marathon history.

Marathon winner Bill Rodgers (UPI)

The 26-mile, 385-yard race begins in suburban Hopkinton and ends in the shadow of the Prudential Center in downtown Boston. This year's race had 4,212 official entrants and 1,000 run-ons.

"I was really hurting the last six miles," Rodgers, 30, said after the race. "That's where I trained, on the hills. I just made time going up the hills then coasting down the other side, opening up my stride.

"It was a very intense pace, the roughest I've run. I thought I had a big lead. I kept on looking behind, but I couldn't see very well," said Rodgers.

Rodgers has worn the white cotton gloves — similar to the ones given to him by his brother in 1975 — in marathon victories during the past year in Amsterdam, New York City and Fukuoka, Japan.

Wells, 24, a student at Dallas Theological Seminary, was the man Rodgers said last week had the best chance to sneak to victory. Wells finished 40 feet behind, making up nearly 200 yards over the final few miles.

Wells' time of 2:10:15 is the third fastest in the history of the Boston Athletic Association race.

The closest finish in the previous 81 Boston races came in 1971 when Alvaro Mejia of Colombia edged Pat McMahon of the BAA by five seconds.

Organized in 1953

Folk dance bug bites 5 college enthusiasts

By MARIA MESSITT
Collegian Staff

If you happen to walk by the Student Union any Friday night and see a group of people bouncing to a Balkan beat, it's not a riot, a rain dance, or a convocation of Eurasian nationalists.

It is the Five College Folk Dance Club. Meeting each Friday from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. in the Student Union's Cape Cod Lounge, the group teaches and performs international folk dances.

"The first hour or hour and a half we do teaching, usually two dances," said club member Cindy Loiselle. "The second half of the evening is for requests," she said.

"A teaching committee of experienced dancers decide which dances will be taught, but we're always looking for new teachers, " said Loiselle. "We tend to do mostly European and Near Eastern dances. There are a few Asian, Mexican, American, one African, and one Canadian dance in our repertoire, but we tend to concentrate on the Bálkan dances, from Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and Romania," she said.

"We perform each year for the International Fair which will be at UMass on April 21 and 22," said Loiselle.

The group draws its members from the entire five-college area, and attracts not only college students, but also young children, high schoolers, college students and professors, and older non-acadenians who come together once a week for recreation, a bit of culture, and lots of exercise.

UMass Assistant Professor of Physics Douglas Jensen has been with the group a little over a year. "Basically I dance because it's just plain fun. You feel a bit for different cultures, and it's good exercise too," said Jensen.

"The group has been in existence about 25 years, It was at Smith College 10 years ago, and has been at UMass as a Recognized Student Organization for four years," said club member Mary DeFelice.

"I started about five years ago when it was at Smith," said 50-year-old Miriam Leader of Northampton. "I was bitten by the folkdancing bug, and have been coming ever since," she added.

The group depends on records, but once in a while has live music, according to Loiselle. "Last semester there was a Balkan instrument workshop at Hampshire College. A group called Nevo Nass came over and performed for folkdancing. It was a real treat," she said.

"Costumes aren't necessary, just comfortable clothes. Many wear jeans and some are in bare feet," said Loiselle.

"We have a performance group made up of regulars whose major function is to spread the word about folkdancing," said Loiselle. "You don't have to be an expert, just wish to improve your skills, and go deeper than recreation," she said. The performance group makes their own costumes, and has danced for local schools, church bazaars, and once even for ajail, shesaid.
activitv.

"We're primarily a recreational activity. We do work on styleoain thing is to have a good time," said Loiselle. People start because it's recreational, and after they've been dancing for a while they may become interested in thecostumes and customs of the countries the dances come from, she said.

Folkdancers are generally a friendly bunch of people, said Loiselle. It's done all over the country. Boston has several groups and New York City, Los Angelos and San Francisco are big folkdance centers. The dancing is basically the same throughout the country, although slight variations may exist from one area to another.

WCVB-TV selects UM for coed living report

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

What effect does coed living have on dating and sexual relationships?

That's one question WCVB-TV, Channel 5 in Boston, will attempt to show its viewers when it broadcasts a report on coed living at UMass sometime in the near future

The television station sent questionaires to 600 UMass students to examine different aspects of coed dorm living, such as dating and sexual relationships, academics, and social life.

"Very simply, the survey is to see how coed living is working," said Natalie Jacobson, reporter for the project. "Coed living is a half-dozen years old now, and I just want to take a look at a big school and see how it works."

Jacobson has received "a couple of hundred" completed survey forms and said she will soon be processing the results. She said she hopes to air the results in the next couple of weeks.

The survey asks 24 questions about coed living at UMass. Questions include basic background information, as well as students' opinions on what effect coed living has on friendships with members of the opposite sex, sharing bathroom facilities, and dorm safety, among others. Jacobson said UMass was selected for its size and diversity.

"There are rich people, poor people, and people of different religious backgrounds," she said. "It has a better cross section. It attracts people from everywhere."

Jacobson will also be travelling from Boston to UMass for on and off camera interviews with UMass students to be us-

...newslines...

Westfield State bans drinking on campus

Westfield - The Westfield State College Student Senate has voted to ban public drinking on the school's campus.

The rule, which was adopted at a recent meeting of the student senate was described by student senate President Joel Magrini as "a credit to the senate - it showed responsible individuals."

The rule prohibits drinking outside the dormitories without permission from the dean of students.

Magrini said the rule was passed to curb the litter and commotion caused by the drinking on campus, but "nothing is intended to take away from business at the rathskeller," Magrini said.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Maureen Carney

Copy Desk — Megan O'Reilly
Head Darkroom Tech — Dale Griswold
Sports Layout — Stephanie Richardson
Ad Layout — Gary Marchese

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Dionne arraigned; rape case continues

Former UMass student Peter Dionne was arraigned in Hampshire County Superior Court Friday on charges of rape, and assault and battery.

The Wilbraham resident pleaded innocent to the charges. Dionne, a first semester resident of Gorman dormitory, is being brought up on charges of raping a UMass woman in a school office building on the evening of February 24.

— CAROL Rosenberg

National science grants awarded

Umass, Hampshire College, and Mt. Holyoke College were awarded grants from the National Science Foundation last week said U.S. Rep. Silvio O. Conte (R-Mass) and Sen. Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass).

UMass received $59,200 which will support three projects dealing with Physics-Astronomy, gbnistry, and Chemistry.

Hampshire College received $30,920 to support a mathematics project in which high school students will be exposed to college-level instruction and laborarory work.

Mt. Holyoke received $21,000 to support participation in the 19th Experimental Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Conference to be held at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Thomas J. McCarthy, a UMass student, received an NSF fellowship of $3,900 per year for graduate work on Organic Chemistry at Harvard University.

Patterson addresses commencement

UMass interim President Franklin K. Patterson will deliver the Commencement Address at Berklee College of Music's Baccalaureate Ceremonies May 13.

Singer Sarah Vaughan will receive an Honorary Doctor of Music degree from Berklee President and Founder Lawrence Berk.

The ceremonies will be held at the Berklee Performance Center in Boston.

MARIA MESSITT

---

THE FIRST NA
OF AM

Participants riding horses in a parade held Saturday in Amherst. The parade was part of the dedication of the new Boltwood walk. (Staff photo by Lynn Marion)

Selectmen approve health director

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

Amherst Selectman last night voted 4-1 to approve the Board of Health's budget request to provide funds for a community health director.

The Finance Committee had previously recommended not to approve the budget item that would pay the salary of the communityhealthdirectorn,oerC.Jacquewasthe only selectman last night to vote against supporting the request.

Three members of the Board of Health argued the position is a necessity because it includes dl te Health Dept. and coordinating and evaluating health programs at the Bangs Community Facilities.

According to a statement issued by the Board of Health, "Today, the directive post must be filled by a person educated in the broad field of community health services, knowledgeable in coordinating and evaluating health programs and skilled in negotiating with both consumers and providers of health services."

The statement also said the community health director is needed to allow the town to comply with its legal responsibilities and allow the town to implement a comprehensive health program.

Jacquwa tselectman to disagree with the representatives from the Board of Health.

Although he said he did not like the idea of the increased costs of more services, Selectman William Atkins said he was in favor of funding the position.

"I think," Atkins said, "That this is the time and place where we have to expand our services, whether we like it or not. We have to have a man who meets the state and federal qualitifications. This just makes good sense."

Selectman Nathaniel Reed agreed with Atkins that the time is right for the expansion of the town's medical services.

"It's clear that we have to start doing more here in town to help save individuals from the expense of the high costs of health."

Members of the Board of Health said the position of community health director will help provide in-home health services in cooperation with insurance companies and agencies such as Medicare.

In other action, the selectmen voted to support Articles 1-14 for next month's Town Meeting.

UM to hire firm for noise pollution

UMass Director of Planning Jack Littlefield said Friday an acoustical engineering firm will be retained "early in May" to study the noise pollution problem at the Graduate Research Center (GRC).

The selection of the engineering firm is "the next step," said Littlefield, in the attempt to solve the noise troubles at the GRC, which started last year when residents of Fairview Avenue, with houses located 100 yards away from the complex, complained of excessive noise.

Largest future-ed conference ever

Learning Tomorrows opens

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

Kenneth Clark, educator, psychologist, and civil rights advocate, will open "Learning Tomorrows," the UMass conference on the future of education, with his talk today at noon in the Fine Arts Center Auditorium.

Clark will speak on "High Schools in the Future of American Education."

Clark is the author of the well-known bookdark Ghetto, a study of life among Black Americans in urban ghettos. He is presently a professor emeritus of psychology at the City College of New York.

Kenneth Clark (File photo)

The conference, which is sponsored by the UMass Future Studies Department, will feature over 200 presentors and several world-famous scholars in the field of education.

All the events of the conference are free to UMass students, and faculty staff.

The UMass Future Studies Department will have an information center for the conference at the bottom of the escalator on the first floor of the Campus Center.

Jonathan Kozol, a Boston native, educator and author, will be speaking tonight in the Fine Arts Center Auditorium at 8 p.m. on "Education for Liberation."

Kozol, a former teacher in the Boston and Newton elementary schools, is the author of Death At An Early Age and The Night is Dark And I Am Far From Home.

Other speakers at the conference today include William Smith, Director of the federal government's Teacher Corps. Smith is a graduate of the UMass School of Education, and will be speaking at 2 pm. in room 917 of The Campus Center on "In Teacher Education, The Future Is Present."

The UMass Future Studies Program, which is the oldest future studies program in the country, focuses on alternative futures, acoioPeter H. Wagschal, an associate professor in the School of Education and director of the Future Studies program.

"Our own special definition of futurists," said Wagschal, "are people who make future possibilities more real for other people."

According to Wagschal, this week's conference is the largest conference on the future of education ever put together.

Teacher award nominations

By GARDE WELLS
Collegian Staff

The UMass distinguished awards committee is seeking nominations for the 1978-1979 Distinguished Teachers Awards from all members of the university community.

The awards will be presented in Sept. 1979 to outstanding faculty, teaching assistants and teaching associates.

The purpose of the award is to identify and honor distinguished classroom teaching, particularly at the undergraduate level although graduate level teaching is also eligible for the honor. All teachers on campus are eligible for the award.

Nominations should be supported by written statements describing the nominated teachers' excellence in the various aspects of teaching.

"We'd like the make the University community aware of the award so we can obtain a broad variety of informationfor thnee's current file," according to Ann Digiamm, secretary to the Distinguished Teacher's Award.

The deadline for submission of information to the committee is April 28, 1978.

Since 1962, UMass has presented the Distinguished Teacher's Award and 55 teachers have won the award since it was first instituted.

Michael Rosenthal and friend at the Beaux Arts costume and formal ball held in the Student Union Ballroom Friday night. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

A lonely weekend . . . .

. . . . . . . . . . on campus

It was a lonely and deserted weekend as many UMass students went home for the holiday. Top, theCampusCenterisframedbya tree near the Campus Pond. Left, a woman walks through Southwest, and above, a student walks through a deserted campus. (Staff photos by Christopher H. Schmitt)

An Evening of Entertainment at:

Charlie's

Presenting:
Friday, April 14th &
Saturday, April 15th
NO COVER CHARGE
The Live Sounds of
RAINTREE
The Best of Country-Bluegrass
(old & new) music
1 Pray St., Amherst, 549-5403

TUESDAYS ARE
★ 2 FOR 1 ★
NIGHT
at WOLFIES PIZZA
buy 1
get 1 FREE
on any pizza or large sub.
(Deliveries and takeout orders not included)
Special from 5 - 10 p.m!
173 Sunset Ave.
Located next to Southwest
549-5592
or 549-5593

---

Covert support of S. Africa detailed

By NEIL MUELLER
Collegian Staff

Information about Western support of the minority regime in South Africa to be reported to the United Nations next fall was gathered at a conference of experts from across the nation here this weekend.

A 200 to 300 page report to be published this summer will be compiled from taped presentations on a range of topics.

The conference, which received national media attention, dealt mainly with the violations of a voluntary 1963 U.S. arms embargo on South Africa, and the mandatory 1977 United Natins embargo. The conference also produced information on covert support of South Africa by the CIA, and the intelligence agencies of France, England, and Portugal, incooperation with the South African government.

Jim Dingeman, of Columbia University, presented evidence of the long history of Western support of white minority regimes in southern Africa, stretching over the past 30 years, and traced its development to present suspected covert assistance given to South Africa.

Dingeman chronicled evidence of recent cia involvement in Angola and Zaire and noted the role of transnational corporate interests in directing U.S. involvement in South Africa.

Because these economic interests could not be served openly, Dingeman said, the resulting plan was a compromise between providing no assistance and "sending in the Marines" utilizing the CIA to influence political events in the southern region in South Africa's favor.

Dingeman noted U.S. corporate involvement in South Africa is monetarily second on the African continent only to Mid-East oil investments and 80 percent of all U.S. corporate capital investments in Africa are in South African industries.

"Covert actions will replace overt actions in our future relations with the Third World countries," said Dingeman. "This kind of thing must be scrutinized, and the Senate isn't going to do it,' he said.

Despite embargos, quantities of arms were shipped to South Africa by a number of countries, including European powers and the U.S., over the past ten to fifteen years. These quantities were recently discovered by researchers to be far larger than had been believed or reported previously, according to Congressional testimony reprinted for the conference.

The South African inventory is now believed to contain many items it was not previously known to include. The result is that South Africa has built a modern military force which is the greatest south of the Sahara. It includes four times the generally known number of combat aircraft, three times as many tanks, as well as some items previously unknown according to the testimony.

It is now clear, the testimony concluded, a great deal of U.S. military equipment has found its way into the South African Defense Forces, often by circuitous routes.

Ronald Walters of Howard University at Friday's conference. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

Leonard Spearman (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

Black Studies future needs political clout

Members of the academic ty must demonstrate more political clout and influence if Black Studies are to survive and grow, said a Health, Education and Welfare official Saturday night.

Leonard Spearman, Associate Deputy ommissioner for Higher Education delivered the keynote speech to 200 members of the National Conference for Black Studies in the Student Ballroom.

Preceding Spearman's speech were brief talks by Massachusetts Secretary of Education Dr. Paul Parks, UMass Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, and Indiana University Afro-American Studies Dean Herman Hudson.

Spearman spoke on federallin ams which create educational opportunities for minority students, the need for common knowledge of cultural and ethnic studies among students and a return to basics in education.

Federally funded programs such as Upward Bound, Talent Search, college work-study, and student grants and loans have created the most widespread educational revolution in the history of our society, said Spearman.

"These are the means by which Black Studies survive," said Spearman. "These funds are not an accident, they are the kqt of Black Studies being sold to the legislature by successful and persistent bureaucrats," he said. Spearman described himself as a successful bureaucrat in this respect.

"We must protect our legacy, and insure the future of Black Studies by investing political clout at the local, State, and federal levels," he said.

Spearman said newspapers are continually criticizing many colleges for delivering "sham educations in which college catalogs read like mental menus with such courses as the ethics of Casablanca, and the sociology of A Night at the Opera."

Minority studies come under this type of attack, and are often the first programs to go when the funds run out, he said.

Spearman cited the need for educational institutions to create a common cultural and ethnic experience among all students. Black Stuk is in an ideal position to contribute to this common knowledge, he said.

Spearman outlined five significant influences on education today:

—expansion of federal programs in the form of student financialu iil liberties work

—rapid growth of junior and community colleges

—traditional and non-traditional institutions working together to meet the needs of a heterogeneous population

—emergence of new black, hispanic, and older students

Spearman also called for a return to basics in education. "I suggest infusing some basics into our current college programs; some basic English, basic writing, and basic thinking," he said.

"We must adopt a no-nonsense attitude towards education. There's too much at stake regarding our future. We must continue to fight for Black Studies at the local, state, and federal levels," he said.

Spearman has held various HEW positions since 1970 dealing with education, and has directed the Talent Search, Upward Bound, and Headstart projectspeaeived the Distinguished Services Award this April, for his work in education from HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano.

The Hideout
103 North Pleasant St. • Amherst
'HIDEOUT PIZZA IS A BAA-GAIN'
WE DELIVER 256-0441

MAKE THIS YOUR
Green Mountain Summer

The Vermont State Colleges' Babcock Nature Preserve in Eden, Vermont is offering a special field program with courses in:

FIELD ORNITHOLOGY (June 5-16)
GREEN MOUNTAINS NATURAL HISTORY (June 19-30)
CHEMISTRY OF AQUATIC ECOSYSTEMS (June 19-30)
INTRODUCTION TO AQUATIC PLANTS (August 7-18)
ECOLOGY OF FRESH-WATER INVERTEBRATES (July 3-14)

Cost per course: $175 (Vermont residents $130) plus $100 for room and board. For details and application materials, write: Summer Session Office, Pearl House Johnson State College, Johnson, Vermont 05656.

Final Exam Schedules

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

AMHERST

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

MAY 1978

I. The two-hour examination periods are identified by code numbers according to the following chart:

| | THU MAY 18 | FRI MAY 19 | SAT MAY 20 | MON MAY 22 | TUE MAY 23 | WED MAY 24 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 8:00 a.m. | 1 | 5 | 9 | 13 | 17 | 21 |
| 10:30 a.m. | 2 | 6 | 10 | 14 | 18 | 22 |
| 1:30 p.m. | 3 | 7 | 11 | 15 | 19 | 23 |
| 4:00 p.m. | 4 | 8 | 12 | 16 | 20 | |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| C E | | | |
| 241 | | 10 | -----implies that all sections of C E 241 will be examined SAT, MAY 20 at 10:30 a.m. |
| BIOCHM | | | |
| 420 | 1 | 18 | -----implies that BIOCHM 420, section 1, will be examined TUE, MAY 23 at 10:30 a.m. |
| | 2 | 8 | -----implies that BIOCHM 420, section 2, will be examined FRI, MAY 19 at 4:00 p.m. |
| ENGL | | | |
| 140 | 2 | 7 | -----implies that only section 2 of ENGL 140 will have an exam, and it will be FRI, MAY 19 at 1:30 p.m. |

NOTE: WHEN SECTION NUMBERS WITHIN A COURSE ARE LISTED, ASSUME THAT ANY UNLISTED SECTION IS NOT SCHEDULED FOR AN EXAM.

II. See your instructor for information on the place of examination.

He or she will NOT have this information before May 1, 1978.

III. CONFLICTS or MORE THAN TWO EXAMINATIONS IN ONE DAY.

Students who have conflicts in their examination schedule (as published in this schedule) or who have more than two examinations scheduled for one calendar day, may report to the Schedule Office (168 Whitmore) for resolution of these problems.

THE SCHEDULE OFFICE WILL NOT ASSIST IN RESOLVING PROBLEMS UNLESS THEY ARE REPORTED ON OR BEFORE May 8, 1978. SO, PLEASE REVIEW THIS SCHEDULE CAREFULLY.

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| ACCTG | | |
| 221 | 1,2 | 20 |
| | 3,4 | 20 |
| | 5,10 | 14 |
| | 6,7 | 14 |
| | 8,9 | 22 |
| | 11 | 6 |
| | 12 | 21 |
| | 13 | 14 |
| 222 | 2,4 | 19 |
| | 3 | 11 |
| | 5,6 | 14 |
| | 7,8 | 11 |
| | 9,10 | 10 |
| | 11,12 | 11 |
| 222H | 1 | 11 |
| 311 | 1,2 | 2 |
| 321 | 1,2,3 | 20 |
| 322 | 1,2 | 20 |
| | 3,4 | 3 |
| 331 | 1,2 | 15 |
| | 3 | 14 |
| 335 | 1 | 1 |
| 361 | 1 | 11 |
| 371 | 1,2 | 9 |
| AIRSCI | | |
| 112 | 1,2,3 | 14 |
| 224 | 1,2 | 12 |
| 336 | 1,2 | 4 |
| 442 | 1,2 | 5 |
| AN SCI | | |
| 201 | 1 | 8 |
| 311 | 1 | 13 |
| 353 | 1 | 2 |
| 354 | 1 | 3 |
| 372 | 1 | 7 |
| 412 | 1 | 10 |
| 420 | 1 | 20 |
| 432 | 1 | 23 |
| ANTH | | |
| 100 | 1 | 10 |
| 102 | 1 | 18 |
| 103 | 1 | 13 |
| 103A | 1 | 22 |
| 104A | 1 | 2 |
| 104B | 1 | 3 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| ANTH(cont.) | | |
| 105 | 1 | 8 |
| 233 | 1 | 14 |
| 262 | 1 | 9 |
| 281 | 1 | 11 |
| 338 | 1 | 16 |
| 371 | 1 | 2 |
| 390H | 1 | 23 |
| 390J | 1 | 7 |
| 466 | 1 | 20 |
| 490C | 1 | 21 |
| 529 | 1 | 1 |
| 590C | 1 | 10 |
| 597A | 1 | 17 |
| ARABIC | | |
| 120 | 1 | 6 |
| 140 | 1 | 9 |
| ARTHIS | | |
| 115 | 1 | 23 |
| 526 | 1 | 16 |
| 532 | 1 | 19 |
| ASIANS | | |
| 150 | 1 | 10 |
| 197A | 1 | 15 |
| ASTRON | | |
| 100 | 1 | 18 |
| | 2,3 | 14 |
| | 4 | 14 |
| | 5 | 1 |
| 105 | 1 | 10 |
| 112 | 1 | 18 |
| 169 | 1 | 20 |
| 538 | 1 | 9 |
| BA | | |
| 210 | 1,2 | 2 |
| 497 | 1,2 | 22 |
| | 3,4 | 13 |
| | 7,8 | 2 |
| | 16 | 7 |
| BIOCHM | | |
| 205 | 1 | 5 |
| 205A | 1 | 5 |
| 211 | 1 | 10 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| BIOCHM(cont.) | | |
| 420 | 1 | 18 |
| | 2 | 8 |
| 524 | 1 | 12 |
| BOTANY | | |
| 100 | 1 | 7 |
| 101 | 2B | 10 |
| 190A | 1 | 10 |
| 221 | 1 | 17 |
| 225 | 1 | 9 |
| 226 | 1 | 14 |
| | 2,3,4 | 5 |
| 250 | 1 | 8 |
| 504 | 1 | 12 |
| 510 | 1 | 11 |
| 515 | 1 | 13 |
| 524 | 1 | 1 |
| 528 | 1 | 5 |
| 581 | 1 | 20 |
| 597A | 1 | 23 |
| C E | | |
| 201 | 1 | 5 |
| 202 | 1 | 21 |
| 240 | 1,2 | 2 |
| 241 | 1,2 | 10 |
| 286 | 1 | 15 |
| 310 | 1 | 7 |
| 330 | 1 | 10 |
| 331 | 1,2 | 23 |
| 342 | 1,2 | 16 |
| 357 | 1,2 | 1 |
| 360 | 1,2 | 19 |
| 370 | 1A,2B | 12 |
| 385 | 1 | 8 |
| 420 | 1 | 20 |
| 535 | 1 | 1 |
| 562 | 1 | 22 |
| 569 | 1 | 6 |
| 571 | 1 | 18 |
| CH E | | |
| 225 | 1 | 21 |
| 226 | 1,2,3 | 4 |
| 325 | 1 | 5 |
| 330 | 1 | 7 |
| 333 | 1,2 | 15 |
| 334 | 1,2 | 14 |
| 358 | 1 | 19 |
| 445 | 1 | 2 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| CH E(cont.) | | |
| 446 | 1 | 3 |
| 561 | 1 | 9 |
| CHEM | | |
| 102 | 1 | 19 |
| 110 | 1 | 11 |
| 111 | 1,2 | 22 |
| 112 | 2,3,4,5, 6 | 1 |
| 114 | 1 | 17 |
| 190A | 1 | 1 |
| 227 | 1 | 22 |
| 241 | 1 | 21 |
| 261 | 1 | 14 |
| 262A | 1 | 1 |
| 262B | 1 | 1 |
| 264A | 1,2,3 | 15 |
| 266 | 1 | 2 |
| 268 | 1,2,3 | 4 |
| 470 | 1 | 6 |
| 476 | 1 | 13 |
| | 2 | 1 |
| 513 | 1 | 16 |
| 516 | 1 | 14 |
| 551 | 1 | 19 |
| 585 | 1 | 8 |
| CHINSE | | |
| 227 | 1 | 2 |
| 427 | 1 | 22 |
| 451 | 1 | 3 |
| CLSICS | | |
| 100 | 1 | 23 |
| 102 | 1 | 2 |
| 105 | 1 | 17 |
| | 2 | 15 |
| 229 | 1 | 23 |
| 262 | 1 | 1 |
| 290F | 1 | 18 |
| COINS | | |
| 102 | 1 | 3 |
| 122 | 1 | 8 |
| 287 | 10 | 11 |
| 320 | 10 | 22 |
| 502 | 1 | 13 |
| 577 | 1 | 1 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| COMDIS | | |
| 211 | 1 | 16 |
| 312 | 1 | 13 |
| 314 | 1 | 18 |
| 415 | 1 | 1 |
| 540 | 1 | 3 |
| COMLIT | | |
| 101A | 1 | 15 |
| 102 | 2 | 20 |
| 104B | 1 | 2 |
| 203B | 1 | 1 |
| COMSTU | | |
| 121 | 1 | 8 |
| 150 | 1 | 20 |
| 221 | 1 | 22 |
| 234 | 1,2 | 17 |
| 250 | 5,10 | 18 |
| | 6,9 | 9 |
| | 7,8 | 3 |
| 250A | 1 | 14 |
| 260 | 2 | 21 |
| 266 | 1 | 7 |
| 310 | 1 | 15 |
| 340 | 1 | 16 |
| 490A | 1 | 8 |
| 546 | 1 | 5 |
| DANISH | | |
| 246 | 1 | 14 |
| DUTCH | | |
| 246 | 1 | 6 |
| ECE | | |
| 211 | 1 | 7 |
| 212 | 1,2 | 4 |
| 302 | 1,2 | 8 |
| 303 | 1 | 8 |
| 304 | 1 | 19 |
| 358 | 1,2 | 12 |
| 401 | 1 | 5 |
| 410 | 1 | 9 |
| 490A | 1 | 10 |
| 516 | 1 | 16 |
| 542 | 1 | 15 |
| 567 | 1 | 9 |
| 581 | 1 | 2 |
| 585 | 1 | 18 |
| 590A | 1 | 4 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| ECON | | |
| 100A | 1A | 9 |
| 100B | 2B | 9 |
| 103A | | 11 |
| 103B | 2 | 18 |
| 103C | 3C | 3 |
| 103D | 3 | 4 |
| 103E | 1 | 9 |
| 104A | 1A | 9 |
| 104B | 2 | 6 |
| 104C | 3C | 9 |
| 104D | 3 | 7 |
| 104E | 4E | 9 |
| 104F | 5F | 18 |
| 106 | 1 | 3 |
| 203 | 1 | 18 |
| | 2 | 3 |
| | 3 | 1 |
| | 4 | 14 |
| 204 | 1,4 | 23 |
| | 2,3 | 9 |
| 204H | 1 | 11 |
| 321 | 1 | 22 |
| 361 | 1 | 11 |
| 362 | 1 | 17 |
| 366 | 1 | 5 |
| 505 | 2 | 4 |
| 511 | 1 | 21 |
| 532 | 1,2 | 14 |
| 538 | 1 | 6 |
| 542 | 1 | 18 |
| 545 | 1 | 19 |
| 547 | 1 | 12 |
| 552 | 1 | 15 |
| 571 | 1 | 9 |
| 597D | 1 | 7 |
| 597F | 1 | 1 |
| 597G | 1 | 22 |
| 597H | 1 | 17 |
| 597I | 1 | 21 |
| ENGL | | |
| 125 | 1 | 4 |
| 132 | 4 | 23 |
| | 5,6 | 23 |
| 140 | 2 | 7 |
| 151 | 1,2,3 | 11 |
| 172 | 1 | 20 |
| | 2 | 15 |
| 180F | 1 | 8 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| ENGL(cont.) | | |
| 180G | 1 | 17 |
| 203 | 1 | 21 |
| 216 | 1 | 8 |
| 222 | 5 | 23 |
| 242 | 1 | 13 |
| 252 | 1 | 19 |
| 253 | 1 | 9 |
| 261 | 1 | 23 |
| 262 | 3 | 6 |
| | 5,6 | 15 |
| | 7 | 14 |
| 262H | 1 | 14 |
| 265 | 1 | 16 |
| 266 | 1 | 18 |
| 268 | 1 | 19 |
| 269D | 1 | 6 |
| 270D | 1 | 4 |
| 270E | 1 | 2 |
| 271 | 1 | 3 |
| 280C | 1 | 10 |
| 281B | 1 | 16 |
| 281E | 1 | 7 |
| 290A | 1 | 9 |
| | 2 | 9 |
| 312 | 1 | 5 |
| 337B | 1 | 20 |
| 344 | 1 | 3 |
| ENT | | |
| 226 | 1 | 2 |
| 526 | 1 | 13 |
| 590B | 1 | 19 |
| ENVDES | | |
| 335 | 1 | 19 |
| 456 | 1 | 11 |
| 474 | 1 | 20 |
| ENVSCI | | |
| 502 | 1 | 6 |
| EXCSCI | | |
| 101 | 1 | 10 |
| 190A | 1 | 13 |
| 204 | 1 | 6 |
| 205 | 1 | 7 |
| 260 | 1 | 22 |
| 261 | 1 | 17 |
| 290G | 1 | 18 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| EXCSCI(cont.) | | |
| 378 | 1 | 11 |
| 588 | 1 | 18 |
| F&R EC | | |
| 102 | 1 | 4 |
| 211 | 1A | 4 |
| | 2B | 10 |
| 262 | 1 | 13 |
| 312 | 1 | 3 |
| 390E | 1 | 21 |
| 452 | 1 | 23 |
| 461 | 1 | 22 |
| 474 | 1 | 10 |
| FD ENG | | |
| 281 | 1 | 3 |
| 381 | 1 | 23 |
| FISH | | |
| 470 | 1 | 16 |
| 571 | 1 | 14 |
| FOREST | | |
| 212 | 1 | 10 |
| 323 | 1 | 16 |
| 329 | 1 | 9 |
| 527 | 1 | 5 |
| 528 | 1 | 1 |
| FRENCH | | |
| 110 | | 5 |
| 120 | | 4 |
| 123 | 1 | 15 |
| 126 | 1 | 8 |
| 130 | | 15 |
| 131 | 1 | 16 |
| | 2 | 16 |
| 133 | 1 | 23 |
| 141 | 1 | 5 |
| | 2,3 | 6 |
| | 4,5 | 12 |
| 142H | 1,2 | 10 |
| 144 | 1,3 | 4 |
| | 2 | 5 |
| 145 | 1,2 | 9 |
| 146 | 1,2 | 2 |
| 147 | 1 | 7 |
| 150 | 1 | 2 |
| 151 | 1 | 11 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| FRENCH(cont.) | | |
| 172 | 1 | 21 |
| | 2 | 17 |
| | 3 | 18 |
| 181 | 1 | 11 |
| 271 | 1 | 21 |
| 282 | 1 | 7 |
| 291A | 1 | 20 |
| 303H | 1 | 3 |
| 355 | 1 | 4 |
| 373 | 1 | 10 |
| 474 | 1 | 15 |
| 497H | 1 | 20 |
| FS&N | | |
| 101 | 1,2 | 19 |
| 102 | 1 | 15 |
| 130 | 1 | 11 |
| 210 | 1 | 20 |
| 261 | 1 | 2 |
| 430 | 1 | 22 |
| 465 | 1 | 23 |
| 467 | 1 | 6 |
| 502 | 1 | 17 |
| 524 | 1 | 9 |
| 542 | 1 | 5 |
| 562 | 1 | 1 |
| 572 | 1 | 9 |
| 578 | 1 | 10 |
| 579 | 1 | 23 |
| 582 | 1 | 11 |
| 590A | 1 | 15 |
| GB FIN | | |
| 250 | 1,2 | 4 |
| 260 | 1,2,3 | 5 |
| | 4,5 | 5 |
| | 6 | 15 |
| | 7 | 22 |
| 301 | 1,2 | 18 |
| | 3,4 | 18 |
| | 7,8 | 23 |
| | 9,10 | 18 |
| | 11 | 19 |
| | 13,14 | 22 |
| | 15 | 18 |
| 302 | 1,2 | 8 |
| 304 | 1 | 17 |
| 310 | 1 | 6 |
| 320 | 1,2 | 10 |
| 330 | 1,2 | 12 |

More Finals Schedules

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| GB FIN | | |
| 333 | 1 | 1 |
| 340 | 1 | 21 |
| 345 | 1 | 15 |
| 354 | 1 | 11 |
| 362 | 1 | 16 |
| 364 | 1,2 | 19 |
| 370 | 1,2 | 14 |
| | 3 | 21 |
| 412 | 1 | 10 |
| 472 | 1 | 14 |
| GEOG | | |
| 155 | 1 | 3 |
| 360 | 1 | 12 |
| 466 | 1,2 | 18 |
| GEOL | | |
| 101 | 1,2 | 6 |
| 103 | 1,2 | 23 |
| 105 | 1 | 17 |
| 106 | 1 | 6 |
| 107 | 1 | 13 |
| 110 | 1 | 10 |
| 280 | 1 | 12 |
| 285 | 1 | 15 |
| 310 | 1 | 23 |
| 320 | 1 | 8 |
| 430 | 1 | 9 |
| 449 | 1 | 6 |
| 520 | 1 | 8 |
| 534 | 1 | 15 |
| 540 | 1 | 13 |
| 560 | 1 | 7 |
| 590R | 1 | 14 |
| GERMAN | | |
| 110 | | 5 |
| 120 | | 5 |
| 190B | 1 | 21 |
| 190C | 1 | 14 |
| 230 | 1 | 18 |
| | 2 | 11 |
| 240 | 1 | 8 |
| | 2 | 11 |
| | 3 | 1 |
| 242 | 1,2 | 1 |
| 246 | 1 | 1 |
| 248 | 1 | 7 |
| 251 | 1 | 14 |
| 320 | 1 | 18 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| GERMAN(cont.) | | |
| 325 | 1 | 16 |
| 402 | 1 | 1 |
| 411 | 1 | 21 |
| 434 | 1 | 22 |
| 583 | 1 | 12 |
| 585 | 1 | 20 |
| GREEK | | |
| 140 | 1 | 16 |
| HEBREW | | |
| 102 | 1 | 5 |
| | 2 | 6 |
| | 3 | 3 |
| 202 | 1 | 6 |
| HIST | | |
| 101 | 2B | 1 |
| | 3C | 3 |
| 111 | 1 | 11 |
| 121 | 1A | 6 |
| | 2 | 9 |
| 131 | 1 | 2 |
| 140 | 1 | 2 |
| 141 | 1A | 20 |
| | 2 | 10 |
| | 3 | 1 |
| | 4 | 7 |
| 150 | 1A | 18 |
| | 2B | 22 |
| | 3 | 23 |
| 151 | 1A | 7 |
| | 2B | 6 |
| | 3C | 6 |
| | 6 | 20 |
| | 7 | 12 |
| 231 | 1 | 14 |
| 282P | 1 | 4 |
| 284B | 1 | 15 |
| 291A | 1 | 22 |
| 303 | 1 | 20 |
| 308 | 1 | 3 |
| 312 | 1 | 4 |
| 316 | 1 | 19 |
| 318 | 1 | 12 |
| 320 | 1 | 21 |
| 326 | 1 | 19 |
| 335 | 1 | 17 |
| 339 | 1 | 4 |
| 346 | 1 | 23 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| HIST(cont.) | | |
| 351 | 1 | 9 |
| 354 | 1 | 10 |
| 361 | 1 | 19 |
| 362 | 1 | 12 |
| 363 | 1 | 10 |
| 367 | 1 | 4 |
| 375 | 1 | 14 |
| 379 | 1 | 8 |
| 381 | 1 | 12 |
| | 2 | 2 |
| | 3 | 6 |
| 382 | 1 | 1 |
| HOM EC | | |
| 259 | 1 | 4 |
| 270 | 1 | 10 |
| 272 | 1 | 18 |
| HRTA | | |
| 100 | 1 | 3 |
| 156 | 1 | 5 |
| 202 | 2 | 12 |
| 211 | 1,2 | 19 |
| 220 | 1 | 2 |
| 290A | 1 | 18 |
| 291A | 1 | 13 |
| 300 | 1 | 21 |
| 301 | 1 | 4 |
| 310 | 1 | 11 |
| 330 | 1,2 | 13 |
| 351 | 1 | 4 |
| 367 | 1 | 15 |
| 390B | 1,2 | 1 |
| 493A | 1 | 16 |
| HUMDEV | | |
| 300 | 1 | 2 |
| 570 | 1 | 18 |
| I E | | |
| 453 | 1 | 20 |
| 455 | 1 | 1 |
| 472 | 1 | 4 |
| 480 | 1 | 5 |
| 490G | 1 | 14 |
| 561 | 1 | 8 |
| 590C | 1 | 20 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| ITAL | | |
| 120 | | 5 |
| 126 | 1 | 15 |
| 140 | 1 | 14 |
| 282H | 1 | 3 |
| JUDAIC | | |
| 102 | 1 | 7 |
| 290H | 1 | 17 |
| LATIN | | |
| 115 | | 5 |
| 125 | | 5 |
| 140 | 1,3,4 | 4 |
| 140B | 1 | 5 |
| | 2 | 3 |
| 210 | 1 | 6 |
| 220 | 1 | 7 |
| 533 | 1 | 8 |
| LEGAL | | |
| 371 | 1 | 4 |
| LING | | |
| 101 | 1 | 15 |
| 403 | 1 | 17 |
| LS&S | | |
| 190A | 1 | 4 |
| 320 | 1 | 4 |
| 362 | 1 | 12 |
| M E | | |
| 101 | 1 | 8 |
| 201 | 1 | 7 |
| 210 | 1 | 10 |
| 211 | 1,2,3 | 1 |
| 220 | 1 | 14 |
| 230 | 1 | 4 |
| 310 | 1 | 1 |
| 313 | 1,2 | 21 |
| 315 | 1 | 21 |
| 330 | 1 | 18 |
| 340 | 1,2,3 | 16 |
| 344 | 1,2 | 22 |
| 345 | 1 | 11 |
| 351 | 1 | 15 |
| 352 | 1 | 12 |
| 354 | 1 | 19 |
| 355 | 1 | 17 |
| 385 | 1 | 9 |
| 580 | 1 | 6 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| MATH | | |
| 100 | 1 | 16 |
| 110 | 1,4,5 | 16 |
| 110E | 1 | 1 |
| 110S | 1 | 16 |
| 112 | 1 | 15 |
| 120 | 1,2,3,4 8,10,11 | 16 |
| 121 | | 13 |
| 127 | | 16 |
| 128 | 1,4 | 16 |
| | 2,3 | 23 |
| | 10,11 | 13 |
| | 12,13 | 16 |
| | 14,17 | 14 |
| | 15,16 | 16 |
| | 18,25 | 19 |
| | 19,20 | 16 |
| | 22,23 | 16 |
| 131 | | 13 |
| 132 | | 12 |
| 132A | | 12 |
| 133 | 1 | 18 |
| 141 | 1 | 6 |
| 151E | 1 | 1 |
| 190B | 2,3 | 17 |
| 190C | 1 | 17 |
| | 2 | 12 |
| 190E | 1 | 5 |
| 233 | 2 | 18 |
| | 4 | 3 |
| | 5 | 15 |
| | 6 | 23 |
| | 7 | 16 |
| | 8 | 5 |
| | 9 | 14 |
| | 10 | 18 |
| | 11 | 10 |
| 235 | 2,3,4 | 13 |
| | 5 | 13 |
| 235 | 6,7 | 2 |
| 236 | 1,2 | 6 |
| 411 | 1 | 16 |
| 412 | 1 | 17 |
| 425 | 1 | 14 |
| 426 | 1 | 6 |
| 431 | 1 | 18 |
| | 2 | 11 |
| | 3 | 17 |
| | 4 | 13 |
| | 5 | 22 |
| | 6 | 6 |
| | 7 | 10 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| MATH(cont.) | | |
| 442 | 1 | 15 |
| 447 | 1 | 23 |
| 448 | 1 | 18 |
| 452 | 1 | 22 |
| 457 | 1 | 13 |
| 461 | 1 | 18 |
| 471 | 1 | 19 |
| 490A | 1 | 23 |
| 532 | 1 | 15 |
| 534 | 1 | 14 |
| 563 | 1 | 1 |
| MGT | | |
| 301 | 1,2 | 7 |
| 314 | 1,2 | 5 |
| | 3,4 | 16 |
| | 5 | 12 |
| | 6 | 2 |
| 330 | 3,4 | 15 |
| | 5,6 | 15 |
| 331 | 1,2,5, | 20 |
| | 6 | 20 |
| 347 | 1,2 | 23 |
| 365 | 1,2,3,4 | 1 |
| 445 | 1,2 | 7 |
| MICBIO | | |
| 150 | 1,2 | 3 |
| 320 | 1 | 22 |
| 375 | 1 | 9 |
| 440 | 1 | 23 |
| 520 | 1 | 22 |
| 525 | 1 | 4 |
| 530 | 1 | 21 |
| MILSCI | | |
| 141 | 1,2 | 20 |
| 190F | 1 | 19 |
| 190G | 1,2 | 14 |
| MKTG | | |
| 341 | 1,2 | 9 |
| | 3,4 | 3 |
| 410 | 1,2 | 2 |
| | 3,4 | 20 |
| 412 | 1,2 | 1 |
| 421 | 1 | 7 |
| 422 | 3 | 19 |
| 423 | 1,2 | 5 |
| 424 | 1 | 16 |
| 425 | 1,2 | 14 |
| 437 | 1,2 | 12 |
| 459 | 1 | 20 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| MUSIC | | |
| 100 | 1 | 17 |
| | 2 | 5 |
| 103 | 1 | 13 |
| 112 | 1 | 1 |
| 113 | 1,2 | 7 |
| 213 | 1 | 4 |
| 301 | 1 | 17 |
| 504 | 1 | 18 |
| 533 | 1 | 12 |
| NAREST | | |
| 100 | 1 | 3 |
| NURSE | | |
| 100 | 1 | 16 |
| 200 | 1 | 7 |
| 210 | 1 | 19 |
| 301 | 1 | 13 |
| 330 | 1 | 9 |
| 390E | 1 | 6 |
| 420 | 1 | 2 |
| 430 | 1 | 9 |
| PEP | | |
| 190B | 1 | 9 |
| 211 | 1 | 2 |
| 230 | 1,2 | 16 |
| 280 | 1 | 3 |
| 310 | 1 | 11 |
| 370 | 2 | 6 |
| 401 | 1A | 12 |
| PHIL | | |
| 110 | 3 | 8 |
| 331 | 1 | 10 |
| 335 | 1 | 3 |
| PHYSIC | | |
| 100 | 1 | 1 |
| 114 | 1 | 10 |
| 115 | 1 | 16 |
| 117 | 1 | 2 |
| 122 | 1 | 8 |
| 130 | 1 | 12 |
| 139 | 1 | 17 |
| 141 | 1,2 | 19 |
| 142 | 1,2 | 17 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| PHYSIC(cont.) | | |
| 161 | 1,2 | 16 |
| 162 | 1 | 19 |
| 169 | 1 | 20 |
| 171 | 1 | 2 |
| 172 | 1 | 16 |
| 190E | 1 | 15 |
| 263 | 1 | 17 |
| 273 | 1 | 3 |
| 281 | 1 | 22 |
| 282 | 1 | 3 |
| 301 | 1 | 20 |
| 423 | 1 | 19 |
| 424 | 1 | 18 |
| 530 | 1 | 8 |
| 531 | 1 | 15 |
| 590D | 1 | 11 |
| PK ADM | | |
| 264 | 1 | 11 |
| PLPATH | | |
| 100 | 1 | 21 |
| 510 | 1 | 15 |
| 520 | 1 | 21 |
| PLSOIL | | |
| 100 | 1 | 20 |
| 105 | 1 | 12 |
| 225 | 1 | 7 |
| 250 | 1 | 22 |
| 260 | 1 | 17 |
| 290A | 1 | 9 |
| 540 | 1 | 16 |
| 545 | 1 | 2 |
| 570 | 1 | 3 |
| 580 | 1 | 13 |
| POLISH | | |
| 102 | 1 | 4 |
| POLSCI | | |
| 101 | 1A | 8 |
| | 2B | 18 |
| | 4 | 3 |
| 111 | 1 | 4 |
| 121 | 1 | 11 |
| 141A | 1 | 8 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| POLSCI(cont.) | | |
| 151 | 1 | 22 |
| 161 | 1 | 12 |
| 208 | 1 | 19 |
| 219 | 1 | 19 |
| 255 | 1 | 7 |
| | 2 | 13 |
| 258 | 1 | 6 |
| 302 | 1 | 16 |
| | 2 | 2 |
| 308 | 1 | 17 |
| 320 | 1 | 1 |
| | 2 | 10 |
| 321 | 1 | 13 |
| 326B | 1 | 20 |
| 335 | 1 | 14 |
| 337 | 1 | 18 |
| 341 | 1 | 22 |
| 350 | 1 | 1 |
| 351 | 1 | 12 |
| 354 | 1 | 12 |
| 358 | 1 | 16 |
| 360 | 1 | 11 |
| 361 | 1 | 23 |
| 371 | 1 | 21 |
| | 2 | 10 |
| 374 | 1 | 9 |
| | 2 | 13 |
| 392H | 1 | 21 |
| 395A | 1 | 15 |
| 523 | 1 | 23 |
| PORT | | |
| 110 | 1 | 20 |
| 120 | 2 | 6 |
| 146 | 1 | 5 |
| 210 | 1 | 23 |
| PSYCH | | |
| 100A | 1 | 8 |
| 100B | 1 | 22 |
| 100C | 1 | 21 |
| 100D | 1 | 21 |
| 110A | 1 | 18 |
| 110C | 1 | 22 |
| 110D | 1 | 18 |
| 110H | 1 | 23 |
| 150A | 1 | 4 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| PSYCH(cont.) | | |
| 150B | 1 | 3 |
| 150C | 1 | 10 |
| 150D | 1 | 23 |
| 150H | 1 | 15 |
| 205A | 1 | 21 |
| 205B | 1 | 14 |
| 205C | 1 | 11 |
| 206 | 1 | 9 |
| 208 | 1 | 17 |
| 240A | 1 | 12 |
| 240B | 1 | 19 |
| 240C | 1 | 9 |
| 280A | 1 | 21 |
| 310A | 1 | 3 |
| 310H | 1 | 21 |
| 320A | 1 | 15 |
| 320B | 1 | 15 |
| 330A | 1 | 7 |
| 335A | 1 | 1 |
| 335H | 1 | 18 |
| 350A | 1 | 8 |
| 350B | 1 | 3 |
| 350H | 1 | 18 |
| 360A | 1 | 6 |
| 370A | 1 | 12 |
| 390D | 1 | 21 |
| 390H | 1 | 14 |
| 390J | 1 | 11 |
| 391H | 1 | 10 |
| 404 | 1 | 12 |
| 470 | 1 | 13 |
| 480 | 1 | 18 |
| 585A | 1 | 20 |
| 585B | 1 | 23 |
| 590B | 1 | 22 |
| 590F | 1 | 8 |
| 591D | 1 | 18 |
| PUB HL | | |
| 123 | 1 | 18 |
| | 2 | 5 |
| 302 | 1 | 13 |
| 320 | 1 | 19 |
| 331 | 1 | 5 |
| 360 | 1 | 9 |
| 505 | 1 | 15 |
| 540 | 1 | 19 |
| 560 | 1 | 23 |
| 564 | 1 | 9 |
| 590B | 1 | 18 |
| 590D | 1 | 1 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| RHET | | |
| 100L | 2 | 17 |
| 110A | 5 | 12 |
| 140 | 3 | 20 |
| RUSS | | |
| 101 | 1 | 5 |
| 102 | 1,2 | 7 |
| 111 | 1 | 18 |
| 202 | 1 | 7 |
| 302 | 1 | 12 |
| S BA | | |
| 523 | 1,2,3 | 5 |
| 541 | 1,2,3 | 18 |
| 572 | 1,2 | 9 |
| | 3 | 23 |
| 591A | 1 | 18 |
| SOCIOL | | |
| 102 | 1A | 2 |
| | 2 | 8 |
| 103 | 1A | 12 |
| 104 | 1A | 21 |
| 106 | 1A | 14 |
| | 2 | 18 |
| 107 | 1 | 22 |
| 211 | 1 | 16 |
| 222 | 1A | 22 |
| 222H | 1 | 22 |
| 240 | 1 | 19 |
| 241 | 1 | 1 |
| | 2 | 17 |
| 261 | 1 | 13 |
| 311 | 1 | 7 |
| 321 | 1 | 10 |
| 321H | 1 | 10 |
| 323 | 1 | 8 |
| 323H | 1 | 8 |
| 326 | 1 | 23 |
| 442 | 1 | 14 |
| 460 | 1 | 8 |
| 528 | 1 | 7 |
| 563 | 1 | 2 |
| SPAN | | |
| 110 | | 4 |
| 111 | 1 | 5 |
| 120 | | 5 |
| 126 | 1,2 | 6 |
| 130 | | 5 |
| 140 | | 4 |

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| SPAN(cont.) | | |
| 146 | 1 | 7 |
| 155 | 1 | 11 |
| 190C | 2,3 | 5 |
| 220 | 1 | 13 |
| 221 | 1 | 5 |
| SPORST | | |
| 197A | 1 | 23 |
| 197B | 1 | 10 |
| 200 | 1 | 3 |
| 201 | 1,2 | 4 |
| | 3 | 22 |
| 203 | 1 | 15 |
| 563 | 1 | 18 |
| STATIS | | |
| 121 | 2,10,11 | 15 |
| | 3,4 | 7 |
| | 5,6 | 13 |
| | 7,8 | 12 |
| 140 | | 17 |
| 197A | 1 | 21 |
| 415 | 1,2 | 18 |
| 416 | 1 | 21 |
| 448 | 1 | 22 |
| 451 | 1 | 16 |
| THEATR | | |
| 100 | 1 | 7 |
| 120 | 1 | 8 |
| 160 | 1 | 2 |
| 190A | 1 | 20 |
| 215 | 1 | 22 |
| 221 | 1 | 17 |
| 242 | 1 | 19 |
| 261 | 1 | 20 |
| 262 | 1 | 5 |
| WDTECH | | |
| 402 | 1 | 21 |
| 404 | 1 | 17 |
| 506 | 1 | 22 |
| 512 | 1 | 18 |
| WEST | | |
| 291A | 1 | 20 |
| WILDLF | | |
| 362 | 1 | 2 |
| 564A | 1 | 20 |
| 564B | 1 | 15 |

Please turn to p. 19

News in brief

Arafat to honor UN peace agreement

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said Monday Yasser Arafat promised him that Palestinian guerrillas will honor the Security Council's call for restoration of peace in southern Lebanon.

"He said that he would fully respect the resolution and that he's ready to give the necessary instructions to cooperate with U.N. forces," Waldheim said on arrival for talks in which he is expected to push for quick Israeli withdrawal.

He came in a U.N. plane from Beirut, where he met with Arafat and Lebanese leaders.

The resolution does not mention the guerrillas, but it calls for re-establishment of the authority of the Beirut government in the region once dominated by the Palestinians.

"The mandate is very clear about that," Waldheim said. "It includes the control of movement in the area."

Israeli leaders have said they will not pull out their forces until the U.N. interim force is in place and they feel sure the guerrillas will be kept out.

Official reveals U.S. secret nuke mission

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Morarji Desai revealed Monday that a secret mountaineering mission to plant nuclear-powered monitoring devices on the Himalaya high peaks was a joint operation of the U.S. and Indian governments.

He also told Parliament that one nuclear fuel pack lost in the mountains 13 years ago poses little danger of radiation poisoning.

Desai's disclosures about the operation — designed to monitor Chinese nuclear arms development — defused a potential crisis in relations between India and the United States.

The 82-year-old prime minister confirmed the general outline of the first public report on the mission, in a U.S. magazine last week, but he disputed the magazine's assertion that the CIA mounted the expeditions in the mid-1960s with the cooperation of Indian intelligence agents but without the Indian government's knowledge.

Sup Court studies drunk driving law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether states may threaten motorists stopped on drunken driving charges with license suspensions if they refuse to take breath-analysis tests.

The justices said Monday they will study a Massachusetts law ruled unconstitutional by a lower federal court because it threatened such punishment.

All 50 states have similar laws, but only 12 in addition to Massachusetts make no provision fkqspension hearings — the fault a three-judge federal court in Boston found in the Massachusetts law.

The states are Alabama, Alaska, Delaware, Iowa, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, Rhode Island, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Mexico and New York.

The Supreme Court first considered the legal dispute last October, and sent it back to the federal court in Boston with an order that appeared to give Massachusetts a significant victory.

But the justices since have discovered that they had not been totally informed about the case's history.

They set aside the Boston court's ruling and sent it back for restudy in light of a Supreme Court ruling last May in which the court upheld an Illinois law authorizing revocation or suspension of driver's licenses without preliminary hearings.

Hysterectomies unsafe

(HERSAY NEWS SERVICE)

Forum Magazine is reporting that many of the hysterectomies performed in the United States each year are not only needless, but also dangerous.

Medical writer Billie Young says that she consulted with scientists and researchers at both Harvard and Cornell University Medical Schools, and found that over one-fourth of the hysterectomies performed in the United States just last year were not needed.

Hysterectomies have a 50 percent rate of complications, including the possibility of excessive blood loss and blood clots, infections and urinary problems which often require surgery.

Despite this, Young says, the number of hysterectomies in the U.S. rose a "staggering" 25 percent between 1970 and 1975.

Young suggests that one of the major reasons for the whopping increase in the number of hysterectomies performed in the U.S. is the decline in the baby boom. She says that gynecologists and obstetricians, whose ranks have increased by 50 percent in the last few decades, have had to replace deliveries with other "income producing forms of treatment."

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

Soft & Lacey
BUS STOP ...sensuous fashion for Spring

Men's & Women's
ALL-COTTON Plaid, Gauze SHIRTS
$6.88
Long & Short Sleeve!
wear-house the levi's store amherst/westfield/chicopee

We've got pH plus™ Beauty Basics. Yours for only $6.00 with a $6.50 pH plus purchase.
Right now we have a special way of introducing you to our scientifically formulated pH plus skin treatment and make-up collections. pH plus Beauty Basics for an unforgettable and effective beauty routine. You can get Deep Cleansing Creme, Toning Skin Freshener, Moisturizing Skin Balancer, Creme Concentrate and a full size Million $ Mauve Conditioning Lipstick—a $12.00 value, for just $6.00 with any $6.50 pH plus purchase. Once you've seen what they can do for you, you may never buy make-up and skin treatments from anyone but your hairstylist again. Come in today.
REDKEN
REGENCY/THE CELLAR
189 N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST
253-9526 253-7341

Don't get caught with high winter heating bills!
2 bedroom garden apartments from $255
Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE- heat and hot water
NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS
For Your Convenience.
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff
★ Minimum 10 month lease available
Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.
Take first entrance.
Rental Hours — Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534
Brittany Manor

---

HAVE A SWEET TOOTH?
VISIT THE CAMPUS BAKERIES
IN HAMPDEN MUNCHYS
WORCESTER SNACK BAR

DONUTS BROWNIES
JUMBO COOKIES
TURNOVERS
BREADS
CAKES
FRESH DAILY!
FREE DECORATED CAKES
REGISTER FOR A FREE CAKE WITH EACH PURCHASE
WEEKLY DRAWINGS

LOST OUR LEASE,
CLOSING FOREVER.
Last Days of our...
Sale
Men's Clothing reduced to 20% to 50% off
EVERYTHING IS ON SALE! Nothing held back! Including FAMOUS BRAND MERCHANDISE.
Suits
Sport Coats
Slacks
Outerwear
Jackets
Shirts
This SALE FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY, so hurry in to our store for the best selection.
10 a.m.- 9:30 p.m.
CRANES MEN'S SHOP
Mountain Farms Mall- Rte. 9, Hadley

Pulitzer Prize awards

Philadelphia Inquirer wins for series on police abuse

NEW YORK (UPI)— The Philadelphia Inquirer won the Pulitzer Prize for public service yesterday for a series of articles revealing a pattern of abuse by the Philadelphia Police Department that included beatings and threats of violence against suspects and witnesses.

Other Pulitzer prizes in journalism were won by the New York Times (three), United Press International, The Associated Press, The Louisville Courier-Journal, the Stanford, Conn. Advocate, the Los Angeles Times, the Washington Post and the Richmond Va. News Leaders.

Richard Strout of the Christian Science Monitor won a special citation for 56 years of "journalistic dedication" as Washington correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor and as a columnist writing under the byline T.R.B. for the New Republic.

The Pulitzer Prize for fiction was won by James Alan McPherson for "Elbow Room," a collection of 12 short stories on the experience of America's blacks.

The general nonfiction award went to Carl Sagan for "Dragons of Eden." Walter Jackson Bate won his second Pulitzer in biography for his book, "Samuel Johnson." The drama award was won by Donald L. Coburn for "Gin Game," a play about two elderly people living in a nursing home.

The Pulitzer prizes are administered by Columbia University under the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer.

The Inquirer series, which began April 24, 1977, has resulted in federal convictions against six Philadelphia homicide detectives and state and federal indictments against a number of other officers.

A special citation was awarded to 78-year-old E.B. White "for the full body of his work," including essays and books for children and adults, over more than five decades. The Pultizer judges called White,

The spot news photography award was won by Jim Schweiker of UPI's Indianapolis bureau for his dramatic picture of Anthony Kiritsis holding broker Richard Hall hostage Feb. 1, 1977, with a rifle at his neck.

Ways & means ends gas tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee Monday voted 21-16 to end the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, but failed by one vote to end similar deductions for state and local sales taxes.

For President Carter, that amounted to one victory and one defeat as the tax-writing committee began five weeks of work on his $23.9 billion tax cut, tax "reform" bill.

For those who itemize deductions, if the repeal of the gasoline tax deduction survives the entire legislative process it would mean an average tax increase of $39.

Those who take the standard deduction — most taxpayers — would not be affected.

The committee began its consideration of the bill by scheduling 10 days of discussion and tentative voting on Carter's $10 billion in "reform" measures. At the end of that period, there will be a vote on whether to have any tax cut at all, including Carter's proposed $33.9 billion cut.

(The tax cut would amount to a net $23.9 billion after the revenue-raising "reforms" are subtracted. The figures, which differ from Carter's original revenue estimate, are based on later information.)

"An invaluable aid to young Americans who want to study and travel in other lands."
—SENATOR EDWARD M. KENNEDY
THE NEW GUIDE TO STUDY ABROAD
1978-1979 Edition
by John A. Garraty, Lily von Klemperer, and Cyril J.H. Taylor
A practical, authoritative, and up-to-date handbook of year and summer programs for high school students, college and university students, and teachers.
$15.95 cloth; $5.95 paper
Harper & Row

★ Southwest Special ★
Every Wednesday
AT WOLFIES PIZZA
Spaghetti Plate $1.
( with sauce & bread and butter )
Located Next to Southwest 173 Sunset Ave.
Call 549-5592 or 549-5593
Special from 5-10 p.m.

State News Briefs

Kennedy asks Carter to aid Cyprus talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Monday urged President Carter to help promote serious negotiations between the Greek and urkish Cypriot communities towards a peaceful Cyprus settlement.

Kennedy wrote President Carter and addressed the Senate as U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim prepared to visit the Mediterranean island Wednesday in hopes of breathing new life into the talks.

Turkish Cypriot representatives Thursday gave Waldheim new proposals for a Cyprus settlement in Vienna Thursday.

"I firmly believe," Kennedy said, "that the coming weeks offer an unusually good opportunity to promote real progress on Cyprus. The government of Cyrus and the Cypriot Turkish administration seem prepared for serious gotas.

"And so today I appeal to the president to seize the opportunity at hand. I appeal to the president for a major diplomatic initiative in behalf of the people of Cyprus — an initiative which will bring real progress towards restoring the full independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity of the island republic."

NAdams bureaucrat charged with theft

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (AP) — The North Adams payroll director is scheduled to appear in court Tuesday to face charges that he used city funds to buy himself two televisions and a citizens band radio base station.

Brooke denounces Nazi demonstration

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., says the planned march by Nazi party members through the predominantly Jewish Chicago suburb of Skokie, Ill., is "morally wrong, and it should be legally wrong."

"One does not have to be a Jew, a black, a Catholic or any other minority to feel continuing pressure" from discrimination, Brook said Sunday at a Boston Holocaust memorial for Jews who died at the hands of the Nazis before and during World War II.

He said "no one in good conscience can support that proposed march." Nazi leaders have gained court permission for the demonstration.

Referring to the Holocaust, Brooke said: "Our responsibility today is to be sure the world does not refuse to remember what happened, and accepts the responsibility of seeing it happens never again."

Representatives of several religious faits also spoke at the meeting sponsored by the B'Nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League and the Jewish Community Council of Boston.

Army to hear public on Fort Devens idea

AYER, Mass. (UPI) — Army officials have scheduled a public hearing Thursday on a proposal to use Fort Demens as the new base for one brigade of an infantry division returning from Korea.

One proposal, included in a two-volume preliminary environmental impact statement, calls for about 4,000 troops to be based at Fort Devens. Division headquarters and a second brigade would be based at Fort Dix, N.J., according to the plan.

Tactical training for the unit would be conducted at Camp Edwards on Cape Cod and at Fort Drum, N.Y.

Comments made during the hearing will be considered when the final environmental impact statement is prepared this summer, an Army spokesman said.

The hearing is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Ayer High School auditorium.

Are you planning to go to LAW SCHOOL?
announcing
Hofstra University School of Law's annual pre-law
SUMMER INSTITUTE

Due to the enthusiastic reaction to its prior Institutes, the School of Law will again offer a "Pre-Law Summer Institute" for five weeks from May 30 to June 29 for weekday sections (Tuesdays, Wednesdays & Thursdays) and from June 3 to July 1 for the Saturday section. The course will be of value to those who have already decided to attend law school and to those who are trying to decide whether or not they should attend. Taught by the Hofstra Law School faculty, the Institute will assist students in developing analytical skills, familiarity with the use of the law library and writing techniques, all of which are essential for competent performance in law school. The course will be conducted in the same manner as regular law school courses and will include case and statutory analyses and research techniques.

Minimum Requirements for Admission
Applicants must have successfully completed at least two years of college.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION AND APPLICATIONS, WRITE: Pre-Law Summer Institute
School of Law or Call 516-560-3636
HOFSTRA UNIVERSITY
HEMPSTEAD, NEW YORK 11550

the SALE is coming!

the University Store
Campus Center

Camp Young Judaea, Amherst, New Hampshire (resident, co-ed, 1 hour from Boston) is in need of Department Directors and Activity Specialists for this summer in: Athletics, Waterfront, Arts & Crafts, Israeli Dance, Drama, Israeli Folk Song, Riflery, Tennis, Office Personnel and Nurses (RN). Please contact Dr. Charles B. Rotman, Director, 81 Kingsbury Street, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181, (617) 237-9410.

FACES
scatter pins
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

FACES
STICKPINS
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

Hair Fashion Accessories

Functional, of course—but more important, our combs, barrettes, headbands, and bobbies are beautiful fashion accents. Classic tortoiseshell designs, luminous enamels, rich and subtle solids. A fine gift idea 1.25 - 6.00.

A refreshing place to shop!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-9, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

---

Learning Tomorrow workshop additions

ADDITIONS

TUESDAY 10:00 a.m. Room 808 Joseph, Dorothy "Program for Adolescent Parents"
10:00-noon Room 901 Wideman, Jack Workshop: "Education for Intimacy"
10:00 a.m. Room 909 Lehman, David "Teaching Science and Health for Social Responsibility"

WEDNES;p Room 174-176 Brameld, Theodore "The Future of Prejudice"

THURSDAY 9:00 a.m.-noon Room 175 Gourley, JuClellan, Jean; and Roeper, Thomas, "Language Development and Reading"
9:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m. Room 177 Anderson, Ernie Workshop: "Future Studies Workshop in Technical Tools for Planning"
10:00 a.m.-noon Room 909 Bernard, Thomas "Community Education: A Concept Whose Time Has Come"
11:00 a.m. Room 177 Sullivan, Ed "Perceptions of the Future of Schooling"
11:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Room 815 "I'll Do It" A preview of a newlysion series, called the "Sesame Street of the Seventies." Television programs will be screened with follow-up discussion led by Julian Lines of the Early Learning Center, Stamford, Conn.

THURSDAY 1:00 p.m.-3:00 p. Room 175 Rorke, John "Education, interdependence and World Development: Future Context of Globaloney?
1:00 p.m.-3:00 p.m. Room 177 Stefanik, Carol Workshop: "Reality Techniques in the Classroom"
1:00 p.m.-3:00 p.m. Room 178 Elliot, Richard and Hoyt, Judy Workshop: "Normalization"
2:00 p.m. Room 902 Cook, Leroy "Physics: Today and Tomorrow"
3:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m. Room 177 Kent, Becky "Decision-Making For the Future: Three Short Simulations"
3:0 pt00 p.m. Room 178 Ingle, Grant "Education - How to Keep Alternative Institutions Alternative"
3:00 p.m. Room 803 Karlson, Al "Human Services in Present-Day Cuba: A First-Hand Report"
3:00 p.m. Room 174-176 Dieuzeide, Henri "The Future of Education in an International Contest Context"

FRIDAY 11:00 a.m. Room 905-909 Dede, Christopher "Ten Things We Must Do"

CHANGES IN TIME OR ROOM

TUESDAY Bill Gibson's "Computers, Video Discs and Learning" will be in Room 908 from 2:00 p.m.-4:00 p.m.
Ernest Anderson's "Future Studies Workshop in Technical Tools for Planning" will be in Room 809 from 10 a.m.-12 noon.

THURSDAY Jack Canfield's "Teaching Students to Love Themselves" will be in Room 903 from 10 a.m.-12 noon.
Jeffrey Eiux's Workshop: "Future Approaches to Resolving Educational Conflicts" will be in Room 902 from 9 a.m.-11 a.m.
Robert Winston's "With Justice for Some: The Illusion of Caring in the Juvenile vustizsem" will be in Room 902 from 11:00 a.m.-12 noon.
Peter Willner's "Educational Service Centers As a Cost Alternative for the Future" will be in Room 901 from 1:00 p.m.-2:00 p.m.

FRIDAY Kathy Cash et al's "Education for a Changing World: Toward Multicultural Education" will be in Room 917 from 9 a.m.-12 noon.

CANCELLATIONS

William Wolf's Workshop "Fountainheads of Institutional Change" (Tues, Wed, Thurs, Fri from 10:00 a.m.-12 noon. Room 178)

Wilmer Kingsford's "Faculty Responsibilities in Global Education" (Wed., 10:00 a.m., Room 175)

Aldustus Jordan and James Connif's "Developing Program Evaluation Systems in Community Colleges" (Fri., 9:00 a.m., Room 804-808)

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE.INC.
all make car and truck transmissions
Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged
236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

Announcing a new shipment of
Leather Jackets
If first quality, selling elsewhere at $100 - $175
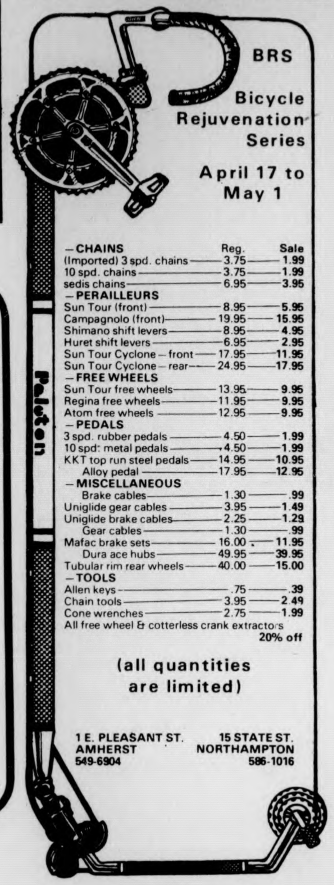
Faces Price: $48.50
Excellent Condition
FACES
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.



PELOTON
BIKES·SKATEBOARDS·XC SKIS

BRS
Bicycle Rejuvenation Series
April 17 to May 1

| | Reg. | Sale |
|---|---|---|
| —CHAINS | | |
| (Imported) 3 spd. chains | 3.75 | 1.99 |
| 10 spd. chains | 3.75 | 1.99 |
| sedis chains | 6.95 | 3.95 |
| —PERAILLEURS | | |
| Sun Tour (front) | 8.95 | 5.95 |
| Campagnolo (front) | 19.95 | 15.95 |
| Shimano shift levers | 8.95 | 4.95 |
| Huret shift levers | 6.95 | 2.95 |
| Sun Tour Cyclone—front | 17.95 | 11.95 |
| Sun Tour Cyclone—rear | 24.95 | 17.95 |
| —FREE WHEELS | | |
| Sun Tour free wheels | 13.95 | 9.95 |
| Regina free wheels | 11.95 | 9.95 |
| Atom free wheels | 12.95 | 9.95 |
| —PEDALS | | |
| 3 spd. rubber pedals | 4.50 | 1.99 |
| 10 spd. metal pedals | 4.50 | 1.99 |
| KKT top run steel pedals | 14.95 | 10.95 |
| Alloy pedal | 17.95 | 12.95 |
| —MISCELLANEOUS | | |
| Brake cables | 1.30 | .99 |
| Uniglide gear cables | 3.95 | 1.49 |
| Uniglide brake cables | 2.25 | 1.29 |
| Gear cables | 1.30 | .99 |
| Mafac brake sets | 16.00 | 11.95 |
| Dura ace hubs | 49.95 | 39.95 |
| Tubular rim rear wheels | 40.00 | 15.00 |
| —TOOLS | | |
| Allen keys | .75 | .39 |
| Chain tools | 3.95 | 2.49 |
| Cone wrenches | 2.75 | 1.99 |
| All free wheel & cotterless crank extractors | | 20% off |

(all quantities are limited)

1 E. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST
549-6904

15 STATE ST.
NORTHAMPTON
586-1016

TONIGHT
9 til 1
2 for 1 night
(Bar Drinks and Beer)
This Week with DISCO — OLDIES
with Tom Gavin

MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 TEN GREAT YEARS 1978

The Undergraduate Student Government Association Electoral Convention will reconvene tonight at 7:00 pm in the Hatch.

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $6.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

from our perspective

Spring—it's sickening

Spring -- it's enough to make you sick.

The damn birds start chirping early in the morning, waking you up to another rotten day. The crickets chirp at night, keeping you awake when you want to go to sleep. There's mud everywhere you walk -- it cakes on your shoes and your just washed pants, and gets dragged into your room. The flowers and the trees start to bloom making most civilized people sneeze. Worst of all though is what spring does to the moral fiber of most college students.

The evidence of decadence is everywhere you look. People start to make out by the campus pond. As soon as the gloves come off males and females start holding hands every where they walk. As soon as the sun comes out males take their shirts off and females wear halters. What would our parents say?

Now everyone understands that after a long winter the warm weather does things to people. The sap starts flowing and thoughts turn decidedly from the academic realm. But what would life be like if we all gave in to these animal urges? God knows we'd all be running around naked and not even caring about appearances or getting our school work done.

The Collegian, in keeping with its policy of watching out for the morals of the campus community would like to suggest the following steps toward moral fortitude:

1. Wear as much clothing as possible. An exposed midsection or a bare bicep can only cause trouble.

2. Avoid the campus pond area. It seems that this area is where the morally loose congregate, setting a bad example for the rest of the campus. If you must pass by this area, let those who are engaging in these questionable ativities know that you don't approve. Morals are everyone's concern.

3. Prefer frisbee throwing to sunbathing. The idle brain is the devil's playground. At least your running around when you're playing frisbee.

4. Drink lots of milk. It works for Pat Boone.

5. Stay in your rooms and worry about finals. This should keep everyone busy.

If these guidelines are followed it is certain that spring at UMass will be fun and morally healthy. Good luck and keep a stiff upper lip.

All unsigned editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Board of Editors.

Letters

Women's pages opposed

To the Editor:

Our student Rep. from Crampton, an all womens dorm, was present at the Collegian's April 12th Board of Editors meeting.

We strongly disagree with the Boards' decision to grant the women's dept. four ad-free pages per week with the women's dept. holding complete editorial control of those pages.

Are the women who demanded this proposal so insecure of their newsworthiness that they must have a guaranteed page to insure that their news will be incorporated into the paper? What is more important, qunatity or quality?

Although the number of women present at the meeting was sizable, we feel the space allocated will not represent the majority of women at UMass but rather the small cross-section of women present at the meeting. Will this space be used as their sounding board or will it reflect the opinions and interests of all UMass women?

We, as women, are strongly in favor of more, well-written, news stories pertaining to our sex, but we must not demand special favors rather we should earn the space on a fair and equal basis. This new policy is a step backwards rather than forward. Has segregation ever prompted equality?

Signed,
Pam Malumphy-Crampton senator
Mel Riordan-Crampton President
Donna Gallagher-Crampton Secretary and 21 other residents.

McCarron's advice wrong

To the editor:

This is in response to yesterday's letter by Mary J. McCarron. I agree with Ms. McCarron that we at UMass have a right to know when andd where rapes have occurred on our campus; certainly, the police witholding such information is inexcusable. I am sure that women want to know where such "high risk" areas are, and the lack of police patrol in such areas is, in itself, an open invitation to rapists that must not be allowed to continue.

However, I strongly disagree with Ms. McCarron's admonitions to women to "avoid deserted stairways, classrooms, public bathrooms[where are we supposed to go?]" and her advice on not going out after dark. I have many things to do which absolutely necessitate going out at night, such as studying, going to night classes, etc. Ms. McCarron, it is exactly this type of attitude which allows the crime of rape to go virtually unnoticed by police on this campus. For you would not demand this paranoid behavior from men, would you? This kind of thinking fosters the "she-got-what-she-deserved" ideology in our society.

Please, rather than demanding recluse behavior from women and expecting them to schedule their lives around the time of day, instead DEMAND protection for women by the police!

As a woman, I resent being told that I should stay home simply because I can't expect protection form weird-os. Rather I would hope that women and men would help to bring about the protection that is everyone's right on this campus.

Lisa A. Turowsky

4 pages sought

To the Editor:

I can see that not only is black news segregated to "Black Affairs" but that woman's news is going to be segregated to a new "Woman's Page". Seeing as we are now in the process of cutting the Collegian into sections for special interest groups, I would like to point out a few other groups who should be given sections of the paper. It is my belief that these groups are poorly represented and reported on in the Collegian. The only way that these groups can properly voice their concerns and special problems is if they are given ad-free sections is the Collegian.

The first of these groups is that of the conservatives. Conservatives are an oppressed minority on the UMass campus. Many times their views are misrepresented and misinterpreted. The only way we can be fairly represented is if we are given four ad-free pages a week. I therefore, in the name of the Freedom of Speech, demand four ad-free pages a week.

The second group that I feel is getting the shaft is that of the apathetic people on campus. This group is the largest group on campus and I never see anything in the Collegian that represents their lack of opinion. I therefore demand that, in the name of Fair Representation, there be a full, ad—free page in each issue of the Collegian that will remain BLANK no matter what. Only in this manner can the apathetic opinion be constantly reported and fairly represented. If this demand is not met, then the apathetic will continue their boycott of the Collegian.

Other groups which have voiced concern over lack of representation in the Collegian are the Greeks, Italians, Irish, Polish, Hungarians, Russians, French, British, Australians, New Zelanders,... Those with common sense... Those who are sick and tired of all this BULLSHIT!... Those who would like to see news printed on newsworthiness and not on the sole basis of what group the news is representing,...

Patrick O'Donnell

Advocate's ethics challenged

To the Advocate, its readers and contributers;

"Alternative journalism" seems to have taken on a new identity, synonymous with irresponsible, sensationalistic, and "yellow" reportage.

One would certainly arrive at this conclusion to look at the Valley Advocate's cover story o the March 29 Amherst area edition entitled: "Towers of Dynamite: UMass Dorm Reports Explode at the State House." The article is a distortion of the facts and sensationalized issues while misrepresenting personalities including state Rep. James Collins, D-Amherst whose portrait graced the "inflammatory" cover.

What distresses this reader most of all is that my name is attached to this made-for-TV disaster script. I have the inside story--I wrote it-- and in the fashion of weekly tabloids found screaming for your attention at every supermarket checkout booth, I would like to tell the "real untold story."

The report that I had written is drastically different from what finally appeared in print. My own integrity as a journalist has been maligned as a result of that ficticious article as well as the integrity of the local administrators who were the focus, the butt of your humor.

How Jim Collins found his way on to page one is beyond me. In the middle of the original article I included a brief over-the-phone interview with Mr. Collins to balance out the reporting. The editor, after the fact, informs me that Collins was "pivotal" to the piece. I must now agree that he was indeed pivotal to the article in the sense that the Advocate's treatment of his presence turned it from fact to fiction.

This article was a clear, cut case of sensationalism to grab the reader's attention. What began as a piece of investigative reportage ended up as a piece of lurid trash. The over inflation of Collins' role and his photo coupled with outrageous headlines on the cover was even more despicable and misleading. Was this, and the cashing-in on my previous freelance work for the Boston Globe and other reputable papers done as a tactic to add credibility to the piece?

I won't harp on the embarrassing subheadlines scattered throughout the article. "Grilled President on Rye" "Roof Roof Barked the Auditors," and others were puns in the very poorest of taste and insulting to any intelligent reader.

Ultimately, what upsets me the most is not the damage which this publication did to my professional reputation[which is considerable] or to the reputations of the University officials[who must take their share of the responsibility and often deserve what they get] but rather, the gross disservice to readers of the Advocate.

How can you mislead the public, the advertisers, the other newspapers, for the sale of dramatic effect and expect to gain their trust?

Don't the residents of the Valley have the right to expect truthful and informative reporting from their only "alternative" newspaper? Are we to expect quality coverage from the Advocate or just more of these cheap shots and lies?

The Advocate and its readers have some serious ethical questions to ask of themselves. I personally will never do business with you again and will always look doubtfully on any "alternative" newspaper despite its proven credibiilty and good reputation thanks to your superb editing.

Clean it up, Advocate.

E. Patrick McQuaid

support refugees

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the article ""Stranded at Sea". Quick action by the US and other governments is necessary to prevent the needless loss of lives of the "Boat people". When the US left Vietnam, many felt that the long hard struggle over the war was finally finished. The situation in Vietnam is a direct result of 25 years of US involvement. The US should take quick and decisive action concerning the "boat people". The US should also consider aiding Vietnam which would help to settle the situation that sends these refugees to an uncertain future, Your support is requested for the Coalition to Save Asian Refugees at Sea.

Paul Craffey

Letters Policy

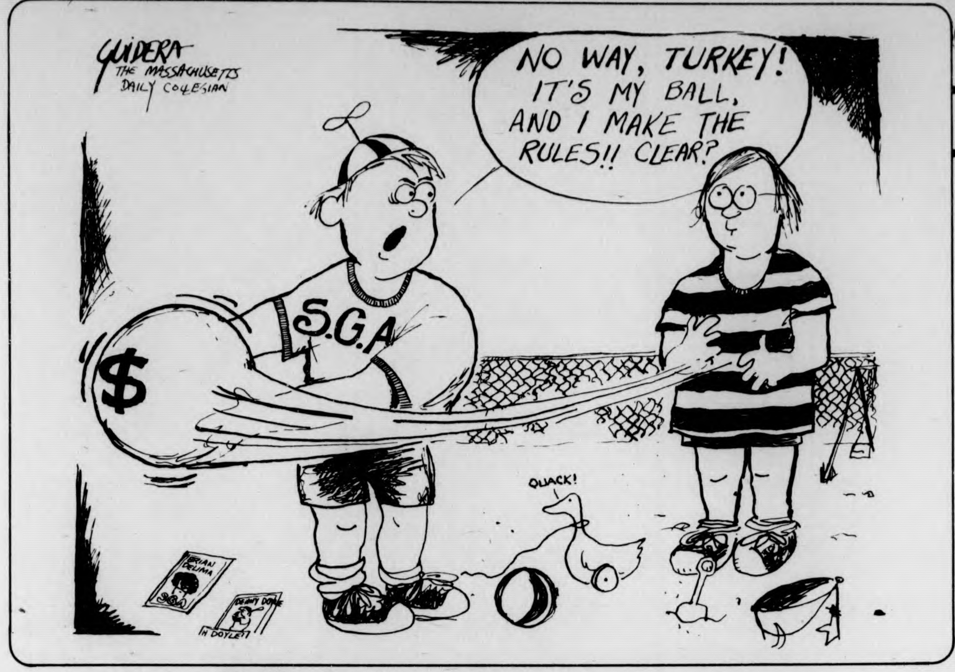
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters fo. a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



GUIDERA THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
NO WAY, TURKEY! IT'S MY BALL, AND I MAKE THE RULES!! CLEAR?
S.G.A
$
QUACK!
BRIAN DELIMA SGA
H DOYLE!?

SGA budget games

True to form, SGA politicos are lying to student groups in order to perserve their grip on the million-dollar student fee trust fund. Here are the details.

A month ago, some 20-odd student groups, including Earth Foods, the Alternative Energy Coalition, and the Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa - were arbitrarily denied their right to request a budget from the Student Senate by the Senate Budgets Committee. Since all RSO groups are legally entitled to a hearing (though not to a budget), the Budgets Committee and some of the heavies in the SGA junta (including Senate Speaker Brian Delima and, former Senate Treasurer Henry Doyle) had to throw in a few carefully worded lies to keep the rejected groups running in circles until long after the budgeting deadline had past.

Specifically, the senate politicos deliberately withheld and falsified information about how it is possible for a group to reverse a decision of the Budgets Committee by going "over their heads" to the Student Senate - if they do it in time.

Budgets committee chairperson Alfred Drews admitted to withholding information about the right of any group to appeal the decisions of the Budgets Committee because, as he put it, he wanted as little "trouble" with the budget as possible.

Later, Drews and other highly placed student bureaucrats directed the groups to two other Senate committees — the Finance Committee and the Coordinating Committee — to renew their budgets request. Drews did not tell the groups that these committees (in spite of their important sounding names) have absolutely no power to grant a budget to anyone. In fact, the only place to appeal a decision of the Budgets Committee is the Student Senate.

Why the runaround? Because in a few weeks, the SGA must file the final budget with the UMass Board of Trustees. Any groups not included in the budget by then will be completely shut out for the next year.

In other words, Drews, Doyle, Delima and their friends hoped to stall these groups until it became too late for anyone to help them.

When student politicos play Watergate-style power games with each other, that is an occasion for many yawns and sometimes, for a few chuckles.

But it is no laughing matter when those same politicos direct their lies and manipulation at independant student groups.

Why should the SGA heavies take so much trouble to confuse and mis-direct these student groups? The amount of money involved is considerable by most people's standards, but is small compared with the mamoth budgets controlled by the Student Senate. The average budget requested by these groups for a whole year is a little over $2,500. The Senate easily spends triple that amount ever week, on payroll alone.

In fact, the total amount requested by all the groups is less than that asked by the Student Organizing Project - a project which in turn is only one of many super-budgets run by the Student Senate. So why are the Senate heavies so concerned about budgets so small (by their standards) that they regularly refer to them as "nickle-and-dime" and "peanuts"?

There are two reasons. First, the SGA heavies want to control every meaningful student activity on campus, and second, they view any non—SGA approved student group as incompetent, stupid, and a nuisance.

"...the senate politicos withheld and falsified information about howto reverse a decision of the Budgets Committee..."

The portion of the total million-dollar budget that is directly controlled by the senate (as apart from that portion controlled by independant student groups and Area Governments) has grown like a fungus in proportion to the total budget, while the proportiomctrolled by small, independant RSO groups has dwindled. This year, the Senate budgets are slated to be larger than ever.

Should this trend continue, the Senate will soon come to dominate all events, activities and organizations on campus. This is no accident. The people who run the SGA today are contemptuous of the "nickle—and—dime" independants, and are fond of saying that funding them is a waste of time and money

Of course, this is not the least bit true. In purely business terms, the independant groups represent the most efficient investment of program dollars in the the whole budget.

For instance, one of the rejected groups, the Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa, was so successffu last semester in pressuring the University into selling all its stocks in companies with holdings in South Africa, that the mass of SGA—SOP politicos were tripping over each other in their attempts to claim the credit for doing it themselves.

The real reason why the SGA heavies are so determined to squelch these groups is that they are actually so vital, so effective, and (compared to the SGA's attempts) so inexpensive that they pose a real threat to the SGA's plans to monopolize all student activities.

Meanwhile, the rejected RSO groups have finally got the facts straight and are taking their case to the Senate this Wednesday night. Their demands include not only that they be granted their hearings, but also that the Senate conduct an ethics investigation of the personalities involved in the budget fraud.

Whether or not the Delima-dominated Senate can be trusted to investigate itself is an interesting question. But the rejected RSO groups have the right idea in taking their case to the students. The groups in question will have a table in the Campus Center today with more information about this situation.

Adam Auster is a Collegian Commentator

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545 3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; [illegible] P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Grass-roots

bob melia

Just before the spring vacation, an SOP member assured me that Pierpont resistance to the Matlack plan would be futile because they have spurned Project assistance and wanted to organize and carry out their own strategy. Unfortunately, this individual continued, their leaders were generally incompetent.

Well, Pierpont has been saved, through direct collective action; action which was not conceived and organized by any branch of student government. The Pierpont occupation of Whitmore, and the feminists' occupation of the Collegian offer a chance to assess the relative merits of grass-roots organizing and bureaucratic organizing.

Grass-roots organizing aims at altering social relations and thereby redistributing power. Bureaucratic organizing attempts to accomplish the same goal by having a few leaders carefully manipulate existing social relations. This is what student government does. But what student leaders fail to consider is that active leadership by the few entails passive following by the many, and if anything can kill Pierpont, it is passivity, not lack of 'expert' guidance.

Moreover, leaders also think that possession of expert knowledge gives them the right to play dominant roles and guide the movement. When the mass doesn't obey their leaders, leaders think it justified to persuade the mass. But there is a fine line between persuasion and manupulation, and that line is easily crossed.

Manipulation arouses resentment and causes organizations to disintegrate. This is precisely what has happened to student government. Many average senators feel manpulated by their officers, and RSO and other groups often feel manipulated by the senate and its advocacy arms. Such manipulation and resulting resentment has caused the senate to lose legitimacy among students and fall apart internally.

I am afraid this is what will happen to the Pierpont people if they allow themselves to be co-opted. I hope they see it and escape it. But that is sometimes hard to do, because the most effective manupulation always appears to be persuasion, as some of the women who occupied the Collegian office have found out.

The womens' occupation of the Collegian is a more complex issue, for here it is student against student, not students against administration. The occupation, as a tactic, was legitimate. And their complaint, that the Collegian has not been sufficiently sensitive to the feminist viewpoint, is one for which a strong if not necessarily conclusive case can be made.

The issue is a very sensitive one, and as the situation is still very tense, I will refrain from discussing it, for any comments could be interpreted as inflamatory. But there is one aspect of the situation which I will comment upon; the senate's intrusion in the matter.

The women who occupied the office Wednesday night made a bad mistake in celebrating senate action on their behalf. First, most of the senators are at best neglectful of feminist issues. If is very difficult for many women to function in the senate. Second, the senate voted to threaten the Collegian not primarily because it approved of the womens' action, but because many of its members wanted revenge.

The Collegian has recently taken an adversarial position toward the senate, a position which has infuriated many of its members. Former senate speaker Pat Whalen's comment to me that the Collegian is a "fascist rag" is a typical if somewhat extreme example of senators' reactions.

Senate influence in this matter can only hurt the feminists. It opens them to charges of political opportunism. It introduces an irrational institution into an already heated and complex situation. And by associating themselves with the senate, some of the deep contempt in which many Collegian people hold the senate is bound to rub off on them. And that is a shame, for it taints the feminists at a time when they have a legitimate issue and might well get a loud and hopefully responsible voice in the compus community.

Bob Melia is a Collegian Columnist.

Free Fries Days
Coca-Cola
Enjoy Coke
DELICIOUS FRENCH FRIES
JUMBO

Free French Fries with the purchase of a Jumbo™ Burger & a large Coke

Trade-mark ®

Enjoy Coca-Cola Trade-mark ®

Available At Hatch Cafeteria & Coffee Shop

"Coca-Cola" and "Coke" are registered trade-marks which identify the same product of The Coca-Cola Company

FTN-8050

Offer good: April 18-28, 1978

COUPON DAYS!

SPECTACULAR OPENING DAY SPECIALS!

THE SPORT STORE
178A North Pleasant St.
Amherst

10% discount on purchase of any TENNIS related equipment, clothing, footwear with this coupon

Good 4/18/78-4/25/78

COUPON

ANNOUNCING

NORTHAMPTON VW, BMW INC.

Introductory 10% Discount Coupon

Northampton VW, BMW, Inc.
246 King St., Rte. 5, Northampton

Coupon expires 4/25/78
one coupon per customer

COUPON

the Hungry U Restaurant
55 University Dr.
Amherst

50 cents off menu price on any large pizza

Good 4/18-4/25

COUPON

the Hungry U Restaurant
55 University Dr.
Amherst

50 cents off menu price on any pitcher of beer

Good 4/18-4/25

COUPON

DON'T MISS THESE TERRIFIC SAVINGS!

The Hideout
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

Tuesday Nights
ALL the PIZZA
YOU CAN EAT!
$2.00/person
5 p.m.-?

Come try what many people say is "The best pizza in the area!"

256-0441

COUPON

et cetera copy corp.

Sharp, legible, clean prints on 50% cotton fiber
Thesis Experts
10% Discount
(3 or more copies)
549-0566
233 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
(near The Pub)

COUPON

Top of the Campus Restaurant

Join us for dinner any Tuesday or Wednesday evening and present this coupon to your host or hostess and receive a complimentary glass of wine !

1 coupon per person

Offer only valid at Dinner
Expires April 30, 1978

COUPON

MERLE NORMAN COSMETICS

Earpiercing special Regularly $8.00 NOW 4.99 silver, gold, pearl earrings

AND – COMPLIMENTARY EYE MAKE-UP LESSONS
by our expert beauty consultant

COUPON

·CLIP & SAVE· ·CLIP & SAVE· ·CLIP & SAVE· ·CLIP & SAVE· ·CLIP & SAVE·

Batwomen split 2

by Beth Collins
and Missy Gallagher
Collegian Staff

The UMass softball team split a doubleheader in its first home appearance. The Minutewomen won the opener, 12 - 8, but lost the second contest, 5-3.

The UMics started the scoring in the second inning of the first game when Elaine Howle's knocked in Rhonda McManus on the fielder's choice. Right fielder Pat Oski began the three-run third poking a single to right to drive in a run, but was later forced at second. With two strikes, Kathy Horrigan drilled a line drive up the middle scoring Jennifer Parker. McMannus earned the other RBI giving UMass a 4-0 lead.

UNH retaliated with eight runs of its own in the fifth frame. Starter Sue Peters lacked her usual control but was hurt mainly by fielding and throwing errors. The costly mistakes eventually led to the Minutewomen's demise in the nightcap.

Reliever Trish O'Connor replaced Peters and quieted the roaring Wildcats for her second victory. In left, Peters returned the favor with a back peddling catch to stymie UNH's efforts in the seventh. O'Connor pitched two and one third scoreless innings in relief.

Five consecutive hits in the fifth by Horrigan, McManus, Howle, Cheryl Meliones and Susan DiRocco's perfectly placed bunt paved UMass' 12-8 comeback.

The opener soon ended as O'Connor helped herself on defense. The dismayed righthander barehanded a line drive for the final out in the sixth frame.

The Wildcats spoiled the UMass home opener in chilling weather defeating the Minutewomen 5-3 in game two.

Untimely hitting and a less than sharp defense has been the major downfall of the Minutewomen so far this season. And the pattern continued Sunday.

The Minutewomen outhit their rivals 9-5, but fell short on the scoreboard due to their inability to get clutch hits. In each of the last three innings UMass left the winning runs stranded on the basepaths.

Starter Gail Carter was handed her second loss of the season, departing in the second inning with UMass trailing 5-0.

Six fielding miscues failed to give Carter the support she needed as only three of five Wildcat runs were earned.

The sun never did come out again but the UMass squad started to look a bit brighter in the fourth inning, coming up with three runs.

Horrigan started of with a double, hit deep to left field, McManus followed suit with an RBI single, Kathey O'Donnell, the freshman ace from the bullpen, drew a walk and promptly stmsecond base. A Pat Oski bunt was misplayed by the UNH infielders and gave the Minutewomen their last two runs.

The Minutewomen hope to loosen the noose they've hung around their necks as they travel to Westfield State today for anothe doubleheader5

VH HOT TO.The Minutewomen have already equalled their losses of 1977... Trish O'Connor and a much improved Jen Parker are on the mound today ... Beth Collins will be out for the next few games. Collins broke two fingers in the Eastern Conn. contest...

Golfers in first home match

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's golf team will begin a busy week of activity today as they play their first home match of the year, a triangular affair against Dartmouth and Amherst College this afternoon at Hickory Ridge C.C. in South Amherst.

The Minutemen will get a day of rest tomorrow, before hitting the links again on Thursday for another triangular match, this time against Holy Cross and Boston College at the demanding Pleasant Valley C.C. in Sutton.

The Minutemen, who finished six strokes behind Yale in their first match of the year against Yale and Amherts College, will play nine men in today's tournament, with the best five scores counting.

Coach Ed Vlach has decided to go with a lineup of captain Jim McDermott, Chuck Demsey, the low scorer at Yale with a 79, Jeff Orr, John Lien, Bill (Soup) Campbell, Vic Lahtein, Mark Duggan, John Cibrowski and Steve Channon.

According to Vlach, Hickory Ridge, the home course for both UMass and Amherst College is in surprisingly good condition for the time of year, with hard greens and dry fairways, and should be in good shape for the match.

JV's sweep weekend tilts

By WALT CHERNIAK
Collegian Staff

The UMass J.V. baseball team upped its record to 4-2 over the weekend, as they defeated AIC 7-4 in an "unofficial" game on Friday, 7-4, and then swept doubleheader from Becker Junior College on Saturday, 8-7 in the first game and 5-1 in the nightcap.

Coach Jim Bedard's J.V. batsmen had little trouble with AIC's squad, as Jeff Hoffman and Mark Brown backed Greg Popovich's strong pitching with three hits apiece.

Things didn't start out as well on Saturday, when the Minutemen travelled to Lester, MA to face Becker Junior College in a doubleheader. UMass starting pitcher Chuck Thompson had control trouble early, surrendering seven runs and five hits in the first five innings, while his mates were held hitless.

Trailing 7-0, the Minutemen made two quick outs in the sixth, but then catcher Mark Litano dashed away hopes of a no-hitter and a shutout with one swing of his mighty bat. His home run ignited the UMass fuse, and also rattled the opposing pitcher, who walked the next five batters in succession to force home two more runs.

Thompson held the deficit at four, as he mowed down Becker in the bottom of the inning, and the Minutemen batters were quickly on the attack again. Tom Grimes drew a one-out walk, and up to the plate stepped Litano, who promptly smacked another round-tripper to make the score 7-5. After two more walks, Jim Aulenback belted what proved to be a game winning three-run homer to vault UMass into the lead.

Thompson fanned the side in the final frame, finishing strong with nine K's on the day, and displaying a change-up which is new to his pitching arsenal.

Game two was a pitching masterpiece, as the two clubs finished the regulation seven innings in a 0-0 tie. Jim Aulenback had a little trouble early, but managed to hold Becker scoreless.

A two-run single by first baseman Doug Yacek, a wild pitch, and a two-run double by Jeff Hoffman produced five UMass runs in the top of the eighth, and Aulenback held on to win 5-1.

Coach Bedard was "very pleased" with his team's performance, singling out Mark Litano's fine play in the doubleheader. Litano caught the first game and drove in three runs with his two homers, and played right field in the nightcap, going 1 for 2 and layingdown tet sacrifice bunts.

The J.V.s face Assumption College in a 1:00 p.m. doubleheader today at the J.V. field. Coach Bedard plans to send Mark Brown and Scott Hildreth to the mound for UMass.

Notices

INTRAMURALS — Due to poor weather, space and time limitations, any softball-soccer team forfeiting their first two games will be barred from future participation.

Sports calendar

WEEKEND RESULTS

BASEBALL — UNH 5 UM 3 UM 9 UNH 1
Holy Cross 9 UM 3
JV BASEBALL — UM 8 Becker Jr. Col. 7
UM 5 Becker Jr. Col. 1
UM 7 AIC 4
MEN'S LACROSSE — Rutgers 14 UM 6
SOFTBALL — UM 12 UNH 8 UNH 5 UM 3

TODAY

Baseball team vs. Boston College home 3 p.m.
Softball team at Westfield St. 2:30 p.m.
Women's lacrosse team vs. Smith home 4 p.m.
Men's Tennis team vs. Holy Cross home 3 p.m.
Men's Golf team vs. Amherst-Dartmouth at Hickory Ridge C.C. 1 p.m.

TOMORROW

Men's Lacrosse team vs. Brown Home 3 p.m.

SHIRLEY GRAHAM DUBOIS AWARD

Each year the CCEBS program sponsors, as part of the Family Day activity, the honoring of a student who has made the greatest service contribution to the Third World community.

This award is one which students nominate and elect candidates. Nomination forms may be picked up in Room 214, Second Floor of the New Africa House, everyday until Friday, April 21, 1978.

Criteria:

a. Persons eligible: All CCEBS students

b. Form of Award: Engraved trophy plaque; and the recipient's name engraved on a perpetual plaque to be kept in the main CCEBS office.

i. Number of recipients: One

All expenses paid trip to the salad bar.

MC 4-18

Regularly 99¢, yours free!

It's a special Pizza Hut* offer for students, and here's how to get it: Bring in this ad, order any Cavatini* pasta or spaghetti entree and we'll throw in a free trip to the salad bar. Your Student ID is your passport. Just show your Card to your waitress and all the crisp, fresh lettuce, cabbage, carrots, croutons and tasty fixin's you can fit in a bowl, topped with your choice of delicious dressings, are yours. Free!

Let yourself go to these Pizza Hut restaurants:

424 Russell St.
Hadley
253-9490

Pizza Hut®

One coupon per pasta please. Offer valid on regular menu prices only through May 2, 1978
Not valid with any other promotional offer
1978 Pizza Hut Inc.
Cash value 1/20¢

Come to Boston for your
Advanced Degrees in the Arts and Sciences

Northeastern University in Boston offers many full-time and part-time programs leading to M.S., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in the Arts and Sciences. Upon acceptance, you may begin most programs in September, January, March, or June.

| Masters of Arts in | Masters of Science in |
|---|---|
| Economics* | Biology* |
| English | Chemistry* |
| History | Mathematics* |
| Psychology* | Physics* |
| Political Science | Health Science |
| Sociology* | Economic Policy and Planning |
| Applied Behavioral Analysis | |

Masters of Public Administration
Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study in Literature
*Ph.D. program also available

Return coupon for Bulletin giving full details of programs, courses, and financial aid available.

Send to: DC
Graduate School of Arts and Sciences
Northeastern University
345 Richards Hall
360 Huntington Avenue
Boston, Massachusetts 02115

Name
Address
City State Zip

Northeastern University

---

Billy Jack

Friday, April 21

7:00, 9:15, 11:30

Mahar Auditorium

The rusty nail Inn presents

APRIL 18
LOOSE CABOOSE
$1.00

APRIL 19
GEORGE T. GREGORY
$2.00

APRIL 20
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
$2.00

FRI. & SAT.
APRIL 21 & 22
JAMES MONTGOMERY
AND FAT

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

AMITY ST AMHERST
AMHERST Cinema 253-5426

"PUTNEY SWOPE" 7:00
"JABBERWOCKY" 8:30
"MONTY PYTHON THE HOLY GRAIL" 10:00

TRIPLE FEATURE PROGRAM

SATURDAY & SUNDAY
"MONTY PYTHON" Also 5:30

MON. & TUES. DOLLAR NITES

Mount Holyoke College Presents

The Pousette-Dart Band

Sat. April 22 8:00 p.m.

Mary E. Woolley Hall - Chapin Auditorium

—Tickets: $5.00 in advance and $5.50 at the door

—On sale at:
-Faces of Earth - Amherst
-Country Comfort &
-Platterpus Records - Northampton
-Goodbodies - South Hadley

CALVIN Theatre
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310

Academy Award Winner

WOODY ALLEN
DIANE KEATON
"ANNIE HALL" PG

EVES AT 7 & 9, SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

Smith College Rec. Council proudly presents

TAVARES

with special guest star
BRASS CONSTRUCTION

Sunday, April 30, 8 p.m., John M. Greene Hall, Smith Colllege
$6 general admission, $4.50 Smith students, in advance (limit 2 per ID)
Ticket outlets: Ticketron, UMass•Faces•Record Town, Hadley•
Goodbodies, So. Hadley•Amherst Audio, Northampton•only

Produced in association with Camelot Music

COMING to DAVID'S
OF MT. FARMS MALL — THE AREA'S NEWEST "CLUB"

TUES. APRIL 18
•MAKESHIFT STRING BAND!
COUNTRY AND BLUE GRASS —

WED. APRIL 19
JAKE EPSTEIN QUINTET!
"JAZZ"

INTERNATIONAL & VEGETARIAN CUISINE

THURS. APRIL 20
CAROL CRAWFORD
&
• ALL THAT JAZZ

FRI.-SAT. APRIL 21-22
HOT CALYPSO KEY

TEL. 586-1878

SUNDAY-APRIL 23
DINE IN THE Middle East 6:30-10:30 p.m.
ENJOY THE MUSICAL SOUNDS & CAPTIVATING DANCING ON OUR STAGE
MUSIC, LIVE SHOWS, FOLK DANCING & DINNER AT LOW SUNDAY PRICES

UMASS
UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL
PRESENTS

ROBERT PALMER

Monday, May 1

Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall, UMass

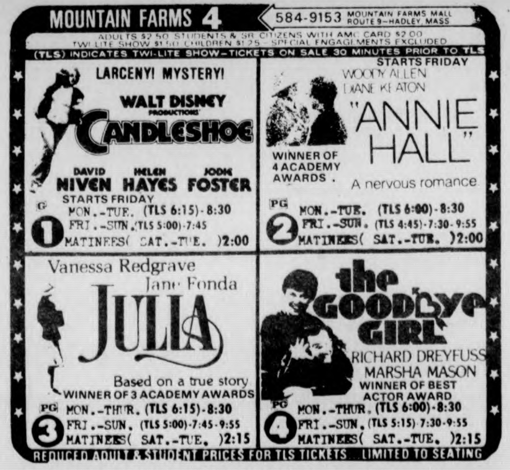
8 p.m.

Tickets: students $3.50, 4, 4.50
non-students $5.50, 6, 6.50

Tickets on sale April 18

No cans, bottles or smoking in the hall

Tickets available at Fine Arts Center Box Office
and all Ticketron outlets



MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

1 LARCENY! MYSTERY! WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' CANDLESHOE
DAVID NIVEN HELEN HAYES JODIE FOSTER
STARTS FRIDAY
G MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

2 STARTS FRIDAY
WOODY ALLEN DIANE KEATON "ANNIE HALL"
WINNER OF 4 ACADEMY AWARDS.
A nervous romance.
PG MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

3 Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

4 the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS. LIMITED TO SEATING

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo w/ AM/FM, 8-tr., turntable, speakers, great condition, $75 or BO, 549-3814, eves.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

AUTO FOR SALE

67 VW Fastback, just tuned, good body, good engine, Michelin radials. Call after 7 p.m., 549-2691, asking $500.

1972 MGB conv., rebuilt eng. and new clutch, batteries, muffler and 4 good radials. Needs shocks and some body work, $1100 or best offer. Shrewsbury, (617) 842-6540, call after 5 p.m.

1973 VW bug, car has been well kept, runs well, body good, AM-FM-Pioneer stereo, $1700, call 546-5000, early a.m.

68 Dodge Dart, dependable slant 6, exc. cond., body fair, $450 or best. 546-6286.

We buy and sell cars for cash. 253-5384.

70 VW bug. Good engine, new muffler, batteries. Tapedeck. Body needs repair. $300 or BO. 549-3541, evenings.

68 Mustang 48, std., good condition, $550, can be seen on weekends, call 546-4182.

Classic 60 Caddy, no work needed, 70,000 orig. mi., new brakes & battery, see 665-4234.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

1963 Dodge Dart convertible, slant 6, needs brake work, otherwise good, $225 or BO. 665-3962.

64 Falcon sedan, $200 or BO. 549-6613.

71 Chrysler Newport, 40,000 miles, good condition, $1000, neg., Kevin, 546-7421.

69 Fiat 124 sport coupe, must see. Dependable car, asking $900, Ross, 546-7421.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

FOR RENT

Own rm., Cliffside, for May, $75, can renew lease if want, 6/1/78, 1 bd. apt., 665-3412.

Cape Cod rental—Dennisport home, gd. location, May-Sept., call 546-5625, 253-3218.

For rent—Brittany Manor, June 1-Aug. 31, 2 large bdrms., fully furnished, AC, $225 mo. or best offer, 253-5529.

1 bed. Avail. 6/1, Pufften, 549-5939 p.m.

Hyannis—whole summer near beach and town cottages, apts., rooms with frig. & kit., priv., 2-in rm., reas., 1-617-775-8615.

Cape Cod rental—2 women to share beautiful house on priv. beach in Yarmouth, Booka, 546-7421.

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Akai G360 7½" open reel deck, with auto-reverse. $200. Call Mark, 1-698-2278.

Wilson T2000, $25 or best offer, 4½L strung with gut, 6-4748.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

HELP WANTED

Internship—Hampshire Franklin Association for Mental Health. Assist counselor Halfway House, serving clients from State Hospital in Northampton and Greenfield. Experience/training in mental health. Summer/fall internships are available. Volunteer: 3 mo.-40 hr. wk. Paid: 6 mo.-40 hr. wk. $25.00-$50.00 wk. Office of Internships, 545-0727 or HFAFMH, 584-7329.

Social worker—bilingual. Experience and BA preferred. For Family Life Services, 98 Division Street, Springfield 01107. Take over established case load. Send resume to Francis X. Morrisey, 98 Division Street, or call 737-1426.

Orchard Hill Women's Center is now accepting applications for co-coordinators for Fall '78. Applications are available in 112 Field House. Due April 21.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

Student supervisor positions are available at Belchertown State School—entails implementation and supervision of programs and volunteers—one year commitments (July-May)—must be full-time college student—for info, call Cindy A. Rogers, 323-6311. BSS is an equal opportunity employer.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of conversation tapes for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

LOST

A green and yellow tank bathing suit in Curry-Hicks womans locker room on Fri., April 7. If found, call Pat, 256-8047.

Lost gold woman's watch near CC. Call 6-8293, sentimental value.

Lost calculator—TI SR51-II, lost near or in Whitmore, if found, please call 6-5075.

Lost—set of keys, somewhere in Southwest. If found, please call 546-5360!

Gold ID bracelet, no engraving, lost 4/11, has much sentimental value. If found, please call Margie, 256-6945.

Womans ring in Morrill 4/6, silver w/ tigers eye, reward. Please call 549-0345.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda CB350, exc. cond. Red w/ crash bar, rack, padded backrest, lock & chain and helmet. $600, call Ken, 546-9793.

Honda 550—four, 1974, 14,935 miles, good cond., $1000 or BO, call Neil, 546-6929.

1975 Honda 400F SS, bought new in 77, 4500 mi., perfect condit., sis barpad, ask $950, call 256-2052 or 549-0251.

Honda 450, $475 or BO, 584-8890.

75 Honda MT250, 4000 miles, good shape, asking $500, will bicker, must sell. If interested, call Dave at 367-9984.

Honda, 1964, Superhawk, 305cc, still very fast, inspectable, $305, 256-0401, 5-10 p.m.

PERSONALS

Whoever stole my blue bag from B'wall, please return Fluid Mechanics notes.

Cosmic Wimpout lessons today in the Campus Center. Ask the people wearing Cosmic Wimpout T-shirts. Takes 4 minutes.

Anyone who will teach Cosmic Wimpout in the Campus Center can have a discount on a Cosmic Wimpout T-shirt—tournament, Thursday, April 20, Bluewall.

The 3rd Annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament is today—in the Bluewall. Start after 2:00. 1st prize is $100! Many other prizes. Anyone can win!!

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Amherst votes, register to vote in the Campus Center from 10-4 on April 25, 26 and 27. Vote Jonathan Souweine for District Attorney on primary, Sept. 12, plan ahead, register to vote.

Bus to Grateful Dead in Providence. $6 round trip, 41 spaces available. Call Brian, 5-2525 days or John, 6-9667. "They're a band beyond description."

SERVICES

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

TO SUBLET

Summer, 2 b.room, AC, on pool & t. courts, carpeted, Puffton, $250 p/month, 549-1732.

Own rm. in 3 bdrm. South Meadow apt., 6/1 or earlier. $100/month. 253-7961.

To sublet—1 bdrm. in Riverglade twnhs. apts., many extras, price neg., fall opt. Call Steve, 253-9697 or go to 26 River.

Sunderland, 2 bedroom townehouse apt., 1½ baths, and swimming pool, on UMass bus route. $225/mo. & hot water included in rent. 665-2433, after 5.

Large bedroom in Puffton 3 bedroom apt. Woman—June 1 thru Aug. 31. Own bathroom, pool, tennis and laundry facilities. Rent negotiable. Call evenings, 549-6321.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green townhouse apt., AC, DW, pool, furnished, carpeted, 1½ baths, on busline, 6/1-8/31, $260, util. incl. 546-5080.

Rol. Grn.—avoid waiting lists for next yr. 2 br. apt., avl. June to June—poss. summer sublet, util. incl., 256-8455.

For summer, 2 bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt., rent neg., call nites, 549-1338.

2 bdrm. townhouse, Sunderland, on bus route, baths, AC, pool, 6/1-8/31, $200, 665-2242.

Puffton apt. for summer, 1 lg., 1 sm. bedroom, semi-furnished, $207/mo., 549-6413.

3 bedrm. Presidential, avail. 6/1-8/31, w/ option to rent in Sept. ¼ mi. from campus. Bus route, 549-0692.

Sublet: 1 bdrm. apt., June/Aug., $140/mo., util. included, call 549-5425, evenings.

Calling all students—da da da da da—253-3695—da da da da da: Attention!! Summer sublet with fall option: Colonial Village, 2 bedroom apartment, utilities included—negotiable, call 253-3695.

Lrge., fully furn. 2 level 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-9/1, $220/mo.—negotiable. 50 yds. to bus, 2 min. walk to store, air cond., dishwasher. Call 549-6966.

Don't hassle with waiting lists! Brand. apt., 2 bedroom, to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31. Option to lease in fall. Call 549-1680.

6/1-8/31—2/bedroom apt., 7/minute walk to campus, AC, $225—negotiable. Call: 549-6340.

2 br. apt., Col. Vlg., bus, pool, ut. incl., fall opt., $230—neg., avail. 5/28-8/31, 253-2216.

2 lg. bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all utilities pd., on bus rt., laundry fac., pool. Available for June, July, August, price negotiable. Rolling Green, 546-9647, Bruce, or 546-9641, Rob.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green apt., furnished. Avail. 5/31-8/31. Air cond., etc. 253-3071.

Subletting room in a large fully furnished 2 bdrm. apt.—5/25-8/31—3 blocks frm. Amherst ctr., rent neg., call 253-3165.

Summer sublet, avail. 5/20, 3 bdrm., call 549-0106 or come by 103 Puffton.

1 bdrm. apt. in Puffton, ½ mi. from campus, for 6/1 to 8/31 with option to renew avail. Some furn. Call 549-3837.

Room for summer in spacious apartment. Amherst center, opening for one person, kitchen, full bath. $85 per month. Call 253-3014, after 6 p.m.

Rms. in apt., Amhst. ctr., 1 min. to bus, 6/1 to 9/1, opt. for fall, rent negot. 253-9403.

3 bdrm. Twnehse. Apt., avl. 6/1, close to bus st., Watroba's, laundry. Rent reduced to $250/mo. Partly furnished, opt. to renew lease. Call 549-6820.

Sublet—2 bed. apt., incl. all util. Avail. May 1. Call Alexis, 5-0003, or 549-5440. On UMass bus route, Amherst.

To sublet: 3 bedroom Puffton apt.; semi-furnished. Available June 1; rent negot. Call 549-5621.

2 bdrm. Townehouse, w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-1019.

2 bdrm. Brandy., w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-0712.

June 1-Sept. 1—2 bdrm., fully furnished, all util. incl., $200/mo., on rte., gn ct. Apts., call 665-4737, option to renew in Sept.

Summer living in Puffton Vlg., 549-0730.

Puffton apt.—2 bedroom; sublease summer; take over lease Sept. 1. Call after 4 p.m., 549-5868.

Sublet our 2 br. apt. for the summer—the lease is yours in Sept. Negotiable rent for summer. Walk or bus to campus. 549-6152—keep trying!

House to sublet, Phillips St. Five minutes to town; one minute to campus! Five spacious bedrooms; 2 full baths; to sublet this summer and next year. Be first to call Mark, Joe or Tom. 549-0714.

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col.too, threew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

TRAVEL

Thinking of Europe this summer? Include western Asia. Overland camping adventure. 584-8359 or 1-442-6340.

WANTED

Looking for 2 women to share great Cottage in W. Dennis, mpks to beach, $300, for 5/26-9/5, call Nancy at 5-0162.

Quiet female rmmate. for 2 bed. Col. Vil. apt., June-Aug., rent neg., 253-2420, aft. 5 p.m.

Used flute. Call Tobie, 549-5941, eves.

Wanted: one backpack w/ frame and sleeping bag. Cheap. Call Carol, 6-8947.

Woman wanted to share apt. on Cape, 5/24-9/24, w/ 2 women. Call Kim, 549-0630.

People to share house on Martha's Vine. June-Sept.; $450/season. Call 256-8460.

4th person needed for W. Yarmouth cottage, Mem.-Labor Day. Good living sit., call us! Kathy, 6-5112, Lou, 6-5117.

Woman housemate wanted: Amherst house, $87.50 +. Available 6/1, call 253-5042, p.m.

WANTED TO RENT

Responsible couple will house/apt. sit June 1-31, care for plants, pets, yard, 253-2131.

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

ARE YOU CONCERNED?

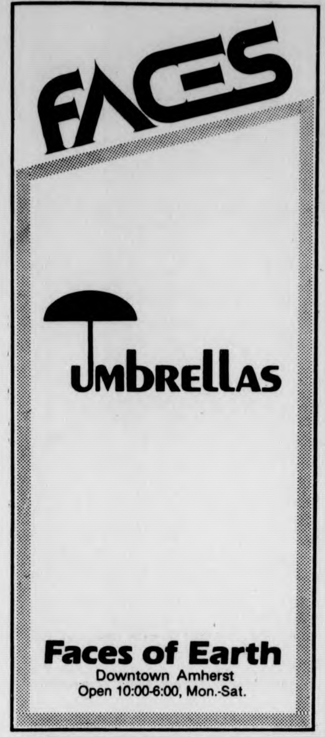
Frank Hatch is the current house minority leader who is running for governor of Mass. Will speak at the SUB on April 25 at 11:00. Frank has saved millions of tax dollars, stopped hit and run bulldozers from paving our wetland. Questions will be welcomed.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!



FACES

Umbrellas

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

FACES

STRAW HATS

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

ATTENTION

All Dorms, Fraternities, and Sororities:

You must have your constitutions written by May 17

Arrange to have an appointment by calling the Senate office at 545-0343.

You're cordially invited to attend:

JOURNALISM CONVENTION '78'

Friday & Saturday April 21 & 22

Featuring

Walter Mears

Associated Press Vice President
Washington, D.C. Bureau Chief

Plus

30 other Professional Journalists from around New England

Join more than 100 College Journalists in round table discussions and workshops.

A World of Opportunity
Globe
Evening Star
News
Times

Call the

Massachusetts Daily Collegian

545-3500
For more information

Notices

LOST
Key lost Thurs. 4-13, near Campus Center. If found please call 546-6360.

POUSETTE-DART BAND
Mt Holyoke College, Chapin Aud., Sat. 4-22, 8 p.m., $5.00 in advance or $5.50 at the door.

low prices — new 'n used albums

The Hip Record Shop

SUN MUSIC
amherst carriage shops

WSYL-FM 97.7
You haven't missed "An Extremely Funny Show" because we'll be on tomorrow night (Wed) 7-10 p.m. on an FM radio near you. Call us at 5-0191

S.V.P.
WANT TO WRITE FOR A TV SHOW?
The UMass Variety Show, a weekly half hour TV show, needs writers for satirical commercials and scenes. Call 545-1336 and leave name or stop by S.V.P.

NO SMOKING PROJECT
Organizational meeting, Tues. April 18 at 7:00 p.m. in the C.E.Q. (306 S.U.)

THANK YOU
To the woman on the Wed. afternoon (12 April) bus who took the time to write to me (the driver) that note; your concern was very much appreciated.

BICYCLE CLUB
Meeting tonight in Campus Center, room 803, 7:00. Slides from a member's transcontinental bike trip. Find out about upcoming tours and the bike coop. Everyone is invited.

ORGANIZER'S WORKSHOP
Fund raising is the topic of Bert DeLevw Founder and Director of the movement for Economic Justice. Machmer Rm. 24W 3:00 p.m.

HEART FUND WALKATHON
A twelve mile walk for April 22, all proceeds to the Heart Fund. Sponsor sheets can be picked up on April 11-20 on the C.C. Concourse.

GAMMA SIMA SIGMA
Meeting Tues.night at 9 p.m. in the office for all sisters and pledges. Nominations for officers.

FOUND IN DEERFIELD
Sweet-tempered, well-behaved black male puppy, about 45 lbs. Cross Shepherd-Lab. Most likely needs original owner or a good home. Call Lynne at 7760612.

AASA
The meeting tonight is cancelled. Instead there will be an AASA workshop tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the New Africa House 3rd floor.

FUTURE STUDIES WORKSHOP
"Exploring Alternative Futures" a 1-credit free (for UMass grads and undergrads) workshop. Three sessions, this Wed to Fri 9-12 a.m. Register with Melena Bonnello at 113 Hasbrouck today, or before the opening session tomorrow at 9 in 801 C.C.

CAASS MEETING
All people wishing to continue participation in Coalition for Alternative Agriculture, mandatory meeting Thurs April 20, 8:00 p.m. in SCER office.

BOTANY SEMINAR
The Department of Biology seminar speaker for Tuesday, Apr. 25 will be Dr. Diana Myles from Harvard Medical School. Her topic will be "Reproductive Biology of the Fern Marsilea." She will speak in Morrill 203 at 4:30 p.m.

CONCERT
Gene & Avrom Bluestein will perform Thurs., April 20 at 3 p.m. at Amherst College and 8 p.m. at UMass in Bartlett Auditorium.

SEDERS
Chabad House, Fri., April 21 at 7:30 p.m.; also Sat., April 22 at 8:00 p.m. Call 549-6722 for information.

KOSHER MEALS
Kosher for Passover meals will be served by the Kosher meal plan in Hampden Dining Commons starting Fri., April 21 through Sat., April 29.

Finals

| COURSE | SECTION | PD. |
|---|---|---|
| YIDDSH | | |
| 102 | 1 | 14 |
| ZOOL | | |
| 101 | 1 | 20 |
| 101S | 1 | 20 |
| 102 | 1 | 20 |
| 190G | 1 | 12 |
| 200 | 1 | 17 |
| 235 | 1 | 20 |
| 338 | 1 | 13 |
| 430 | 1 | 20 |
| 521 | 1 | 9 |
| 523 | 1 | 6 |
| 531 | 1 | 10 |
| 532 | 1 | 2 |
| 535 | 1 | 5 |
| 537 | 1 | 21 |
| 542 | 1 | 11 |
| 544 | 1 | 10 |
| 548 | 1 | 17 |
| 550 | 1 | 22 |
| 560 | 1 | 3 |
| 560A | 1 | 3 |
| 568 | 1 | 13 |
| 570 | 1 | 19 |

Stop & Shop Coupon K15
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop Tomato Ketchup
20 ounce bottle 29¢
267
Good Mon., Apr. 17-Sat., Apr. 22. Limit one bottle per customer.
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K16
with this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Chunk Light Bumble Bee Tuna
6½oz can in oil 49¢
268
Good Mon., Apr. 17-Sat., Apr. 22. Limit one can per customer.
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K17
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Kraft Real Mayonnaise
32 ounce jar 79¢
269
Good Mon., Apr. 17-Sat., Apr. 22. Limit one jar per customer.
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K18
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Betty Crocker Fudge Brownie Mix
22½oz pkg 59¢
270
Good Mon., Apr. 17-Sat., Apr. 22. Limit one pkg. per customer.
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Supermarkets
Get your Stop & Shopsworth
Week after week, our special values are worth going out of your way for!

Happy Passover
Greetings to all our Jewish friends self service deli Choose from national brands and our Stop & Shop Brand.

Nepco Beef Franks or Extra Mild 1 lb. pkg. $1.19
Nepco Knockwurst 1 lb pkg $1.39
Rath Beef Weiners 1 lb pkg $1.19
Bologna or Salami $1.39
Hebrew National Midget-12 ounce pkg
Franks or Knockwurst $1.39
Hebrew National-12 ounce pkg corner deli Pick up the fixings for quick, easy meals.

Genoa Salami Carando Brand $2.39 lb
Carando Pepperoni per lb $2.39
Hot Ham Carando's Ecco Brand per lb $2.79
Stop & Shop Roast Beef lb $1.69
Our Best Quality "Great Beef"
Corned Beef Brisket Half lb $1.69
Stop & Shop-Cooked
Potato Salad Stop & Shop Regular or Oil and Vinegar per lb 55¢
Macaroni Salad Stop & Shop per lb 59¢
Stop & Shop Ham Salad per lb $1.89
Available in stores featuring a service deli

our kitchen Tasty fresh foods
Fresh Cheese Pizza 18oz size $1.09
Over 1,000,000 sold
Fresh Cheese Pizza 32oz size $1.79
Stop & Shop Cole Slaw 15oz pkg 59¢
Macaroni & Cheese 1 pound pkg 69¢ or Delmonico Potatoes
Stop & Shop Parfaits 2 13oz pkgs 89¢

seafood Catch these values!
Fresh Haddock Scrod Fillets $1.99 lb
Fresh Scallops per lb $2.99
Stuffed Clams Matlaw's 30oz pkg frozen $1.79
Breaded Shrimp Stop & Shop 1lb pkg Frozen $1.79
Cooked fish-nics Stop & Shop 20oz pkg Frozen $1.59

frozen meat Save all week.
Beef Patties Countryfine 8-6oz. Dinner Size 3 pound box $3.49
Lovitt Shaved Steak $1.99
Steak-Umm Steak $3.69

Beef U.S.D.A. Choice Top Round Roast $1.39 lb
Stop & Shop "Great Beef"
Beef Round Tip Roast USDA Choice $1.39 lb
Beef Top Round Steak USDA Choice $1.89 lb
Beef Round Tip Steak USDA Choice $1.89 lb
Fresh Brisket of Beef Flat cut $1.69 lb

Fresh Turkey U.S. Grade "A" 69¢ lb
10 to 13 pounds
Drumsticks Fresh Turkey 49¢ lb
Wings Fresh Turkey 59¢ lb Breast Fresh Turkey Whole or Half $1.39 lb
Fresh Turkey Cutlets All week special $1.99 lb

Fresh Ham Whole or Shank Half 99¢ lb
Stop & Shop Breakfast Sausage $1.39 lb

NEW A convenient way to buy & use Ground Beef Countryfine $2.79
3lb. Package Fresh or Frozen
In an enclosed wrapper to seal-in its freshness, natural juices and flavor. Use as much or as little as you want...slice into patties or use whatever you need for meatloaf or casserole.

produce The freshest fruits & vegetables
27 size Extra Large Pink Grapefruit Indian River Seedless 5 for $1
Jumbo White Grapefruit Indian River Seedless 23 size 5 for $1
Squash Green or Yellow 3 lbs $1
Fresh Strawberries Pint 59¢
3 Pound Bag Fancy Carrots 59¢ ea

Special savings on lots of 'basics'... brands known for quality.
2 liter (67.6oz) Sun Glory Soda Regular or Diet Assorted Flavors Non-Returnable Bottle 59¢
Keebler Zesta Saltines 16oz pkg 59¢
Regular or Unsalted
Candy Bars Milkway, Snickers 6 pack or Three Musketeers 9.37oz pkg 89¢
PURE Vegetable Oil Wesson 38 ounce bottle $1.49
Pam Pure Veg. Spray on coating 13oz can $1.29
Bordens Cremora Non-Dairy Creamer 22oz jar $1.49
Apple Juice Apple and Eve 64 ounce bottle 89¢
Sunsweet Prune Juice 40oz btl 69¢
C.W.Post Cereal Plain or with Raisins 15oz pkg 89¢
Smuckers Grape Jelly 2 pound jar 79¢
FREE loaf of Stop & Shop Bread with purchase of 2lb jar of Smuckers Grape Jelly. See details in store for refund by mail certificate
Home Style Beans Campbell's 3 16oz cans $1
Success Rice 4 Boil in Bags 14 ounce package 69¢
Instant Mashed Potatoes 16oz pkg 89¢
Pillsbury Hungry Jack
Meat or Cheese Ravioli BUITONI or Twist and Meatballs 15 oz. can 39¢
Cup O Noodle Soup All Varieties 2 2¼oz cups $1
Flavored Bread Crumbs 59¢
Colonna-15 ounce can
Kleenex Jumbo Towels 102ct-2ply rolls 2 for $1
White Dinner Napkins Vanity Fair 75ct-3ply pkg 69¢
Lawn Clean Up Bags Hefty 5ct pkg 89¢
Dynamo Liquid Detergent 32 ounce bottle $1.19
Dish Detergent Palmolive Liquid 12 ounce bottle 49¢
Dial Soap Bath Size Assorted Colors 3 5oz bars $1
Mighty Dog From Carnation All Varieties 4 6½oz cans $1
Cycle Dog Food All Varieties 3 14oz cans $1
Medium Dog Biscuits Stop & Shop 22oz pkg 59¢
Purina Cat Food Lovin' Spoonfuls All Varieties 5 6½oz cans $1
Kleen Kitty Cat Litter 25lb bag $1.99
Purina Dog Chow 5lb bag $1.39

frozen Stock your freezer from ours with really worthwhile savings!
Shoestring Potatoes Ore Ida 20oz bag 59¢
Rice Fries or Puffs American 10oz pkg 29¢
Fish N'Chips Taste O'Sea Batter Dipped 16oz pkg 99¢
Taste O'Sea Scallops 7oz pkg $1.19
Macaroni & Cheese Stop & Shop 11oz pkg 49¢
Banquet Meat Pies Chicken Beef or Turkey 4 8oz pkgs $1
Freezer Queen Entrees 39¢
Single Serving-Beef Pattie 6½oz, Salisbury Steak or Gravy & Sliced Beef 7oz, Meatball & Gravy or Veal Parmegan 8oz
Sausage Pizza Stop & Shop 16oz pkg 99¢
Jenos Pizza 12 Pack Cheese Pizza or 8 Pack Sausage Pizza 16oz pkg $1.19
Stop & Shop Waffles Our best quality—your best value 5 5oz pkgs $1
Sun Glory Orange Juice 12oz can 69¢
Seneca Apple Juice 3 6oz cans $1
Stop & Shop Corn or Peas & Carrots 24 ounce bag 69¢
Seabrook Vegetables 16oz bag 79¢
Pacific, Coastal or Prairie
Stop & Shop ½ Gal. Tub Ice Cream 100% All Natural Assorted Flavors $1.49
Combo Bars Stop & Shop 20ct 35oz pkg $1.09
Hendries Fudgsicles 12 count 35oz pkg 79¢
Perx Coffee Lightener 3 16oz ctns 89¢
Boston Cream Pie Mrs. Smiths 19oz pkg 89¢ dairy Come get your Stop & Shopsworth of fresh dairy foods, too!

Stop & Shop Yogurt All Natural Assorted Flavors 4 8oz cups $1
Choc. Chip Cookies Pillsbury 16oz pkg 89¢
Whipped Cream Cheese 8oz cup 69¢
Breakstone-Temptee
Blue Bonnet Maragarine 1 lb. pkg. Qtr. lb sticks 49¢
Stella Shredded Cheese Mozzarella or Cheddar 4oz pkg 49¢
Cheese Spread Slices Sun Glory American $1.19
White or Yellow-16 ounce package bakery Our bakers create over 150 goodies for you...try these!

Regular or Split English Muffins Stop & Shop From our ovens! 4 12oz pkgs of 6 $1
Buttermilk Bread Stop & Shop 3 16oz loaves $1
Big Daisy Bread Stop & Shop 3 20oz loaves $1
Lemon Pie Stop & Shop 22 ounce pkg. 79¢
Cranberry Nut Bread Stop & Shop 12 ounce 79¢
Date Nut 13oz or Banana Tea Bread 12½oz pkg
Daisy Donuts Stop & Shop 11½oz pkg of 12 Cinnamon or Assorted 55¢ health & beauty aids

Dial Very Dry Deodorant Unscented, Scented or Fresh Scent 4oz can 99¢
Faberge Organic Shampoo 16oz btl. 99¢

Rent our "Carpet Magic" steam machine and save Clip this coupon save money and avoid the last minute rush
K19
$3.00 off Reg. $12.00
24 hour rental of our "Steam Machine"
Name ______
Address ______
Phone ______
Recipt No. ______ 271
Coupon good April 16-April 29

Funk & Wagnell's The Great Artists $1.99
This week Toulouse Lautrec with each $3.00 purchase
Still avail. Book #1 VanGogh 69¢

Week 3 of second and last cycle
EKCOETERNA Stainless Tableware Teaspoon 19¢ ea.
Satin Finish rinses clean with each $3 food purchase

Sneaker Special Mens, Boys, & Youths Sneakers. Heavy Duty Canvas Uppers & Rubber Soles. Stripes, Solids-Assorted Colors
Mens sizes 6½ to 12
Youth Sizes 2½ to 6
Boys Sizes 11-2
$4.99 pair
$6.99 VALUE

Prices effective Mon., Apr. 17-Sat., Apr. 22 [illegible] Copyright 1978 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

HEY, STUPID CAT! THAT WAS A NICE RAIN WE HAD LAST NIGHT, WASN'T IT?
IT WAS GOOD FOR THE FLOWERS...BUT, OF COURSE, A CLOD LIKE YOU WOULDN'T KNOW ABOUT FLOWERS, WOULD YOU?
SLASH
4-18
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

B.C. by Johnny Hart

DO YOU WANT ME TO TAKE THE FIRST PITCH OR SWING AT IT?
SWING AT IT.
SWISH STRIKE ONE!
IT DON'T MAKE A 'TINKER'S DAMN' ONE WAY OR ANOTHER.
4-18
© FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC., 1978

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

BENB IS A PRISONER ON THE GLEBE PLANE!
BUT, FAR FROM HELPLESS, BENB SIGNALS GERALD FOR HELP ON HIS SPECIAL WRIST BAND!
BENB'S IN HOT WATER!
CLICK!
NIZ!
I'LL TRACE HIS SIGNAL IN THE BENB PLANE!
VROOM!
4/18
LAFLER

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

THE MEANS TO ESCAPE, MY FRIENDS, IS RIGHT AT MY FINGERTIPS
WATCH CLOSELY RRRUFF!
DENNIS HAD CONCEALED SOMETHING FROM THE GUARDS.
THIS WAS ONE OF THE SMALLEST WEAPONS MY FIGHTING SUIT OF ARMOR CARRIED. WATCH AS I BURN THRU THE DOOR
THE DEVICE IS SMALL BUT POWERFUL; IT CUTS RAPIDLY THRU THE THICK WOODEN DOOR GET READY TO FIGHT.
READY? ONE... TWO...
THREE!!
BAM!

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Hey, fish! You're going to die in there without an air pump!
I may be ugly, but I can survive a lot.
Here, Lips, I bought you an air pump.
Ranney 4/18
You cute little bugger, you.
I can't stand it. I just can't STAND IT!

BACK AGAIN by K

I TOLD YOU I FELT A DRAFT!
4-18

Your Birthday

TUESDAY, APRIL 18

Born today, you have a number of talents, any one of which could help you to a great future, and all of which together could get in each others' way and cause chaos. You will have to take time to sort your talents, or you may lose everything before you've had a chance to gain anything.

You have great force of character. What others cannot achieve through effort you can do through will alone. However, sometimes you will what you do not really wish, and you suffer more from your accomplishments than you would had they failed.

You are a tactful individual, patient with the troubled, understanding of the discouraged. Even so, you expect others to do their best to pick themselves up if they fall. It is the same expectation you have of yourself. Know that your talent for getting along with people may bring danger, and you can overcome it.

Also born on this date: Richard Harding Davis, journalist, author; John Young Mason, Virginia legislator.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19

ARIES(March 21-April 19) -- Discrimination is vital to success. Don't let the unprepared to help.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) -- Ups and downs come fast. Try to swim with the tide, especially later.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) -- Your temper may land you in hot water early today. Extricate yourself through good deeds.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) -- Family and pets are key to your happiness today. Stick to what you know at evening.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) -- Keep your ideals high. Standards may be different, but they need not change.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) -- Fondness for expensive clothes may cause difficulties with loved ones late today.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Be an example for the young, but make sure your intentions are above reproach.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) -- Experiences early today may not be pleasant, but may force character growth.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) -- Yearnings go unattended early today, but toward day's end you should be satisfied.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) -- Don't let loneliness cause you to make the wrong decisions. Employment can be fun.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) -- What pertains to your future must be dealt with now. Don't put off what could be troublesome.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) -- Comfort may have to give way to accomplishment. Be prepared to make minor sacrifices.

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Raises
6 Sign of sorrow
10 Alack's partner
14 Estuary
15 Ethnic group
16 Plexus
17 "---- Is Born"
18 ---- school
19 Forceful outburst
20 Wire from an antenna
22 Suggested
24 "Metamorphoses" author
26 Brief encounters
27 Humbled oneself
31 Tax
32 Some poems: Var.
33 Vegetable concoction
35 Animal's foot
38 Chinese isinglass
39 Ran easily
40 Remove covering
41 Music unit
42 Sheep shelters
43 Spreads unchecked
44 AMA man: Informal
45 Most stern
47 Poor thoroughfare: 2 words
51 Mahjong piece
52 Signed up
54 Writing implement
58 Of unknown name: Abbr.
59 Russian name
61 Make reparation
62 Go wild over
63 Forbidden from use
64 NCO: Informal
65 Snowmobile's predecessor
66 Flanders river
67 Golfer Lee -----

DOWN

1 100 dinars
2 Noun ending
3 Where Jasper is: Abbr.
4 Peruse: 2 words
5 Contends
6 Mil. unit
7 Frontier law officer
8 Severe in temper
9 Covered a news event
10 Opulent supply
11 Tether
12 Athel tree
13 Plants in soil
21 Nothing
23 Untainted
25 Where trains come in 27 Seize
28 ---- game: Fix it
29 Persian poet
30 Deceives
34 Adjust anew
35 Congress employee
36 War god
37 ---- End: London section
39 Place
40 Of one's folks
42 Weatherman's word
43 Liberation
44 Spoke monotonously
46 Big shot
47 Large mammals
48 Single year's record
49 Flock of sheep
50 Evacuate a vacuum tube
53 Kind of brick: Informal
55 String
56 "Picnic" author
57 Cunning look
60 Robot drama

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Friday's Puzzle Solved

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| F | A | C | E | | P | A | T | E | S | | J | A | W | S |
| I | D | L | E | | A | B | O | D | E | | A | G | H | A |
| F | O | U | L | | S | E | R | I | N | | R | A | I | L |
| E | S | T | E | R | S | ■ | S | C | O | W | ■ | I | L | L |
| | | T | R | E | A | D | ■ | T | R | A | I | N | E | E |
| P | R | E | S | A | G | E | S | ■ | A | I | D | | | |
| L | A | R | ■ | P | E | A | C | H | ■ | T | O | P | A | Z |
| U | T | E | S | ■ | S | L | O | E | S | ■ | L | E | V | I |
| M | A | D | A | M | ■ | S | L | I | P | S | ■ | N | O | N |
| | | | W | E | B | ■ | D | R | E | A | M | I | N | G |
| C | R | O | S | S | E | D | ■ | S | A | T | I | N | | |
| L | A | X | ■ | A | C | E | R | ■ | K | I | S | S | E | D |
| I | D | I | O | | A | L | A | T | E | | S | U | R | E |
| F | A | D | S | | M | A | L | A | R | | E | L | I | S |
| F | R | E | E | | E | Y | E | R | S | | D | A | N | K |

Relays a success for Minutemen

By KEVIN McCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

There were no gold medals, only T shirts. There was no parade of flags, and there were no torch carriers. This was not the 1978 Olympic Games but the UMass Relays. What Saturday's track meet failed to mimic, it retained with the spirit of competition and the quest for personal achievement.

The shattering of an American record highlighted the events of the cold and windy afternoon. At approximately 4 p.m. Jan Merrill completed her eight laps of the two mile run in 9:49.6, over 13 seconds better than theional mark set by Francie Larrieu in 1973. She wasted no time in finding the pace for her record run, as the first 220 revealed her intentions to the estimated 1200 onlookers. Her finishing time was 59 seconds better than runner up Kathy Whitcomb from Tufts.

Rivaling Merrill's impressive performance was the "home-crowd" efforts of several Minutemen tracksters. Kevin McCusker, Joe Martens, Don Dowden, Mark Healy and the hurdling crew all experienced a midas-touch in their respective events.

For the second year in succuon, McCusker splished and splashed his way to a UMass Relays victory in the 3000 meter steeplechase. His New England championship abilityq evident after the first half mile when he opened up a 40 yard lead that was only to be increased.

"This race does something for me," explained McCusker. "I get psyched seeing people I know in the crowd, I feel like saying hi to everyone."

The conclusion of the steeplechase ended the event which the Minutemen fared best in. Peter Descamps was 17 seconds behind McCusker in second with a time of 9:26.6. Stevie Hilyard finished fifth (9:37.5), and Jay Legere garnered sixth position.

Senior co-captain Joe Martens performed admirably in his last UMass Relays. He covered the quarter mile with relative ease as he won the 440 yard dash in 49.0, almost a full second ahead of the next finisher, Jason Farley from Syracuse. Minutemen Mickey Baugh and Rich Thompson shared the third through fifth positions with a Springfield College performer, as all 440 men recorded identical times of 50.8.

"It's good to come back and win here after winning it my sophomore year," said Martens. "Yes, victory is always nice in front of the hometown crowd."

Senior Mark Healy inscribed his name amongst the winners at the UMass Relays with a sparkling effort in the 440 intermediate hurdles. Healy outdueled two Dartmouth runners to post an impressive time, considering the weather conditions of 53.8.

"I knew I had the race at the 220 mark," stated Healy. "With a little more work on my steps I'll be ready for the New Englands."

The quartet of Paul King, Jay Enis, Dan Keely and Ed Iwanowicz collected their efforts to oust the competition in the 480 shuttle hurdle relay. The team from the Greater Boston Track Club recorded the best time of the afternoon, but was disqualified because of two illegal runners. The vacated top position was awarded to UMass by virtue of the best second place time. Vermont was moved up to the runner up slot with its time of 63.5, two seconds behind the Minutemen.

"The hurdlers ran very well today," commented coach Ken O'Brien. "This is a first year group with a lot of promise. The early season prediction of future strength in this event certainly seems to be coming true."

Freshman Don Dowden has made the transition from indoor-to outdoor-jumping with relative simplicity. Continuing the trend of consistent performances, which included a Yankee Conference high jump championship, Dowden cleared 6'8" with the fewest misses to become the outright victor in his first UMass Relays. Four other competitors cleared 6'6" to fill in four of the next five positions.

Receiving the gold star for the most electrifying confrontation of the eight hour program was the mile relay pitting the Terriers from Boston University against the Minutemen from UMass. Mickey Baugh, Fran O'Keefe and Mark Healy ran stride for stride against the BU relay legs, before each team surrendered the batons to their anchormen.

Joe Martens and BU Olympian Glen Cohen must feel a special affection for the movie "Play it Again Sam." Everytime these two teams do battle against each other, a close encounter between the two star 440 men ensues. After the race BU coach David Hemery motioned to coach O'Brien with a finger held up on each hand signifying the running score between Cohen and Martens. Cohen withstood a furious final charge by the Minutemen co-captain to avenge an earlier duel meet loss. BU's time was 3:17.2, UMass was second with 3:17.3.

Other Minutemen placings included: Steve MacDougall in the 880 (3rd), Tom Wolff in the 10,000 meter run (5th), the two mile and 440 yard relay teams which finished third and fifth respectively, Paul Derby in the javelin (5th), and the 5000 meter efforts of Frank Carroll (3rd) and Mike Morris (5th).

Kevin McCusker, the scourge of New England steeplechasers, clears the water jump on his way to repeating as UMass Relays 3,000 meter steeple champ. (Dave Rodman photo)

Women post 4 wins

by DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

Diana Sealy didn't hit her predicted 56.9, but she did repeat as UMass Relays quarter-mile champ Saturday at the 3rd annual event.

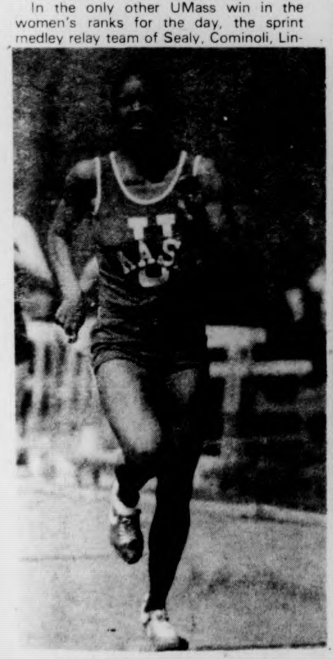
Sealy's 58.8 didn't come close to taking the spotlight for the day, though. That was reserved for U.S. Olympian Jan Merrill, who shattered the American record in the two mile, despite a general lack of moral support from the several hundred fans and some 1,000 athletes in attendance.

Highlights for the Minutewomen were many. Steady soph Cindi Martin raced to a win in the 880, as she is finally getting accustomed to the distance. She ran 2:15.9, and was trailed by Laurie Wolf (2:19.6), who was running a personal best time; and Captain Bonnie Bukowski (5th).

In one of the two most thrilling races of the day for UMass fans, Nancy Cominoli out-leaned Judy Fontaine of the Age Group Athletic Association at the tape to win the 100 meter hurdles in 15 seconds flat.

In the only other UMass win in the women's ranks for the day, the sprint medley relay team of Sealy, Cominoli, Linda Stillman and Martin came from behind to record a 1:52.2. Martin erased a five-yard deficit by running a 59.1 anchor quartermile.

The same quartet had earlier suffered through some bad handoffs on the way to a third place finish in the 4x110 relay. Stillman also took fourth in the long jump with a leap of 16'5½".



Diana Sealy repeated as UMass Relays women's open quarter champ. (Dave Rodman photo)

Hair Shack AMHERST

David Whitman

DAVID WHITMAN HAIR SHACK
and BIBA COSMETICS
proudly present
MS. CINDY
who will share with you
her techniques in personalized
MAKE-UP & COMPLEXION CARE
on the following THURSDAYS
APRIL 6, 13, 20

A FULL SERVICE SALON OFFERING:

- BIBA COSMETICS
- REDKEN PRODUCTS
- HAIR CUTTING
- COLORING
- HENNAS
- PERMS
- HAIR TREATMENTS
- MANICURING

Amherst
124 Amity St.
549-5111

Longmeadow
805 William St.
567-0891

---

★UNH, HC plague batmen

Collins held the Wildcats at bay in his third straight outstanding pitching performance. He allowed only three hits while fanning three and walking the same numbber.

The only run scored off Collins came in the fifth when Mike Hennessey laced his second straight double to drive in Dan Barbin, who had reached on an infield hit.

"My slider worked well," Collins said, whose record is now 2-2. "The wind didn't really bother me. I think it bothered the outfielders more than anyone."

Unfortunately, many people weren't around to see Collins' gem, since the whipping winds had sent most of the diehards home and the curious stragglers from the UMass Relays went back down to the track to see Jan Merrill blow out the field in the two-mile run.

"Overall, I was disappointed," Bergquist said. "We really needed a sweep. We turned it around in the second game, but it was too bad we had to lose the home opener. But Collins did pitch his third straight good game."

The split also began UMass's Yankee Conference season.

But on Sunday, Holy Cross raised its record to an impressive 11-4-2 by knocking starter Mike Yacsysnyn out of the box in the second inning and rattling relievers Dave Tewhill and Jim Lewis around for seven more hits and an additional five runs. Tewhill (0-1) was the loser.

The Minutemen scored a single run in the second inning to tie the score at 3-3 but were shut out the rest of the way by Joe Sinkwewicz and reliever Kevin O'Quinn. Meanwhile, the Crusaders slapped out 12 hits against some shaky UMass hurling. The Minutemen had nine hits.

Paving the way for Holy Cross were Rick Allen, who reached the highway with a left field homer and also socked a double; Rick Jasinski, who had two RBI's , two doubles and a single in four times up; John Holiver, who had two hits and two RBI's; and Neil Solomon, who drove in a run and also scored once.

UMass got a two RBI's out of Doug Welence, whom Bergquist played at first, and another ribbie from Leo Kalinowski. The final Minuteman run was unearned.

Jasinski, who is among the top 10 hitters in ECAC play, was happy with his devasting performance.

"Today was the first day since our southern trip that I had my concentration," he said. "I had a problem with overswimming but I straightened it out in batting practice."

Aylward was especially impressive in the three games. The sophomore, who seems to have earned himself a permanent place in the lineup, had seven hits in 11 at bats. In addition, Oleksak enjoyed a good weekend as he nabbed potential runners with a strong arm and also reached base in each of his two games.

McEvilly, who had three hits in the doubleheader, was disgusted with his hitting against Holy Cross. He went 0-for-four and also whiffed twice, but still leads UMass with an average above .300.

So this somewhat frustrating season continues along its merry way today. The Minutemen, now 8-14, greet a vastly-improved Boston College at Lorden Field in a 3 p.m. game. Maybe a little more home cooking will alleviate the stomach pains caused by Sunday's loss.

Stickwomen face Smith

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

Weather conditions may be gloomy today, but as the UMass-Smith College women's lacrosse teams face off at NOPE at 4 p.m., a win for either would be sunshine enough.

Smith comes hoping to break a two year losing streak to UMass. Their record now stands at 1-1, with one win over Mt. Holyoke, and one loss to Wesleyan.

UMass, undefeated after three games this season, comes hoping to continue with their top-notch playing.

"We expect to win, definitely," said UMass star center and co-captain Judy Kennedy. "Smith is not that strong a team."

Kennedy cited last year's game score, UMass-20, Smith-2, as an example. She also spoke of Smith as an improved team, however, pointing to new players on the Smith squad.

Co-captain Gayle Hutchinson, leading the UMass defense, agreed. "If we keep things in perspective and really put our minds to it, then yes, we should win," she said.

UMass' record in play so far lends credence to their predictions.

In competition against Northeastern Thursday, the stickers trounced Northeastern University, 10-2. Wednesday they defeated a top-ranked, undefeated Brown University team 8-3, and the week before they defeated Boston University 7-0, in their season opener.

Twenty-five goals in three games makes offensive power look strong. UMass' defense, however, is not to be ignored either. In each game strong defensive play has played a key factor in the team's overall play and scoring power.

Weather providing, goaltender Robin Jennings will be in the net in today's game.

Smith College Coach, Pauly Keener, said of today's game, "It will be interesting ... one never knows."

"Teams are different every year," she added.

HC Crusaders meet netmen

The UMass men's tennis team expects few problems from Holy Cross today in a match on the Boyden lower courts at 3 p.m.

The Minutemen, seeking their third win against no losses, clobbered Holy Cross last year, 8-1. UMass coach Steve Williams said he would "go light in the doubles" and use spare players if his top men can clinch the match in the singles.

Williams had praise for te early season play of his top singles player Alan Green, and freshmen Mark Huetteman, Keith Hovland and Sergio Strepman. The three newcomers have given UMass strength in the lower singles (fourth through sixth).

"Alan is consistent," he said, "and (the freshmen) on the whole are winning the tough matches. You might not expect freshmen to get up for those matches that well."

Williams, looking past today's match to Thursday's encounter with Tufts, said he may give Strepman the day off and play Dave Nowak at sixth singles.

NHL playoffs

at Boston
Bruins 6
Black Hawks 1

at Montreal
Canadians 6
Red Wing 2

at Uniondale, L.I.
Islanders 4
Maple Leafs 1

at Philadelphia
Flyers 4
Sabers 1

Bosox breeze to 5th straight, rout Brewers, 9-2

BOSTON (UPI)— Butch Hobson cracked his third home run of the season and added a two-run double yesterday in leading the Boston Red Sox to their fifth consecutive triumph, a 9-2 rout of the Milwaukee Brewers.

After the Brewers jumped on Mike Torrez for a pair of first-inning runs, Boston countered with six runs in its half of the first to spoil Randy Stein's major league debut.

Jerry Remy started the inning with a single and Rick Burleson walked before Jim Rice belted a triple over centerfielder Gorman Thomas' head for two runs. Rice scored on Carl Yastrzemski's single and, after two outs, George Scott walked and Dwight Evans reached on an error to set up Hobson's two-run double. Hobson added a homer in the fiftliever Mike Caldwell.

Torrez, 2-0, lasted seven innings before giving way to rookie reliever Jim Wright.

RECORD TOWN
Records & Tapes at Super Discount Prices

On ABC Records and GRT Tapes abc Records

GRT MUSIC TAPES

4.99
798 Series LPs
5.49
798 Series
8-Track or Cassette

ORLEANS Before The Dance featuring John Hall
Orleans is probably the best and most diverse rock and roll dance band you can find in the country. — ROLLING STONE

JIMMY BUFFETT Son of a Son of a Sailor

Choose from these pictured titles! — sale good through 4/22

aja STEELY DAN

THE FLOATERS Magic

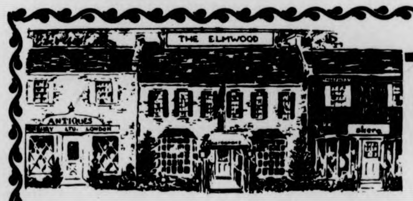
RUFUS AND CHAKA KHAN Street Player

CLASSICAL STEREO ALBUMS
Titles Pictured Various Series

RECORD TOWN
Records & Tapes at Super Discount Prices.

Open
10-9:30
Mon.-Sat.

MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
ROUTE 9, 584-1653
(Take Rt. 91 North to Rt. 9 EAAS)



The Elmwood Inn

DINNER

TUES.-WED.-THURS.

STUFFED FILET OF SOLE 3.25
LAMB STEW 3.25

FRIDAY-SATURDAY

LOBSTER NEWBURG 5.95
BROILED SCHROD 5.50

SUNDAY

ROAST LOIN OF PORK W/HOME DRESSING 5.50
ROAST TURKEY W/STUFFING 5.25

Batsmen drop 2 of 3 weekend games

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

In a weekend more befitting hockey competition than baseball games, the UMass baseball team presevered through the raw weather and wound up splitting a doubleheader with New Hampshire Saturday and losing to Holy Cross Sunday.

The Minutemen were defeated by the Wildcats, 5-3, in the first game Saturday, but rebounded to take the nightcap easily, 9-1. The Crusaders proved to be anything but gracious hosts Sunday as they walloped UMass,9-3, in the shadow of Route I-290.

In the midst of mid-40 temperatures and a 25 mile per hour wind, UMass opened its home season in anything but tidy style Saturday. Despite collecting 10 hits and putting runners on base in every inning the Minutemen could not sustain their hitting attack long enough to plate any more than three runs.

It seemed New Hampshire desperately wanted to let UMass win before the frozen few at Earl Lorden Field. A very shaky infield defense committed three errors and directly contributed to one run, ut thnuemen were unable to take the game and run away with it.

Meanwhile, the Wildcats sent nine men to the plate in the second inning and scored all of their runs off a shaky Tom Nigro (2-4). The senior righty, who has been,plagued by the one bad inning syndrome twice this year contributed to his own downfall in the frame with three walks.

New Hampshire loaded the bases with none out on consecutive free passes to Terry Williams and Mike Belzil and an intended sacrifice bunt by Greg Jablonski which turned into a hit when no one could handle it cleanly.

John Walker then lined a single that glanced off Nigro's glove and into center field, scoring two runs and sending Jablonski to third. Another walk, this time to Eric Fraser, filled the bases again, and Jablonski came across when Jim MacDonald hit into a fielder's choice.

The runners stayed put on second and third when Jeff Whitty grounded out, but Steve Wholley applied the kiss of death when he laced a double to left field to drive in the final two runs. The inning was mercifully ended when Peter Karamourtopoleus (say that three times fast) grounded out.

Meanwhile, on the mound Wholley treaded on eggs all game long. After allowing a run in the first - caused by an error - he was touchable but not beatable the rest of the way.

UMass chipped away at the Wildcats' lead, but was continually frustrated. The Minutemen left runners on in each inning but the third, when Wholley sent them down in order.

UMass finally scored in the sixth when Charlie Ciccone belted a wind-aided home run over the right field fence. And in a last-gasp seventh inning, the Minutemen scored once but again squandered a chance for more.

George Kelley, who reached on a force out, was sent home on an opposite field double by Mike McEvilly. When Dale Stone reached on an infield single, things looked hopeful. But John Gallagher fouled out and Ciccone looked at a third strike to finish matters.

Strikeouts plagued the Minutemen. Although Wholley fanned only five in his complete game win, three came as the last outs of innings. The Minutemen left 10 runners stranded.

"Wholley's given us fits the last couple of years," UMass coach Dick Berquist said. "Their defense lookd zutwe didn't hit enough."

"Nigro couldn't get loose," Berquist noted. "Pitching on the fourth day, he walked six."

But in the second game, the Minutemen turned things around. They scored single runs in the first and sixth innings and added three in the the second and two in each of the fourth and fifth to enable Chris Collins to breeze to his second win of the season.

Mark Sullivan pounded a two-run homer to left center to highlight a 13-hit attack off three different New Hampshire pitchers. Strangley, Sullivan's blow on an RBI double by Doug Aylward (who tore the colar off the ball all weekend) were the only to go for extra bases.

Hitting heroes abounded in game two. Sullivan went three-for-four, Aylward went two-for-four, and Mike McEvilly, Ed Skribiski, and Dave Oleksak each had two hits. Inon, Oleksak turned in a fine defensive performance behind the plate as he threw one runner out attempting to steal by a mile and also picked a Wildcat off second.

Gorillas gobble BC

Garber's Gorillas ventured to Chestnut Hill last night to demolish Boston College, 21-3. The Eagles proved to be just what the doctor ordered for the struggling UMass lacrosse team, who dropped an important game to Rutgers over the weekend, 14-6. That loss cripples UMass' chances for a playoff invitation at the end of the season. The Gorillas are currently unranked in the national poll and their record stands at 3-3.

B's club Black Hawks in NHL playoff opener

BOSTON [UPI]--Peter McNab scored two goals and assisted on a third yesterday when the Boston Bruins whipped the Chicago Black Hawks 6-1 in the opening game of a best-of-seven Stanley Cup playoff series.

Terry O'Reilly scored a goal and had three assists. Wayne Cashman, Brad Park and Bobby Schmautz had theoher BVOALS. Grant Mulvy tallied for the Black Hawks.

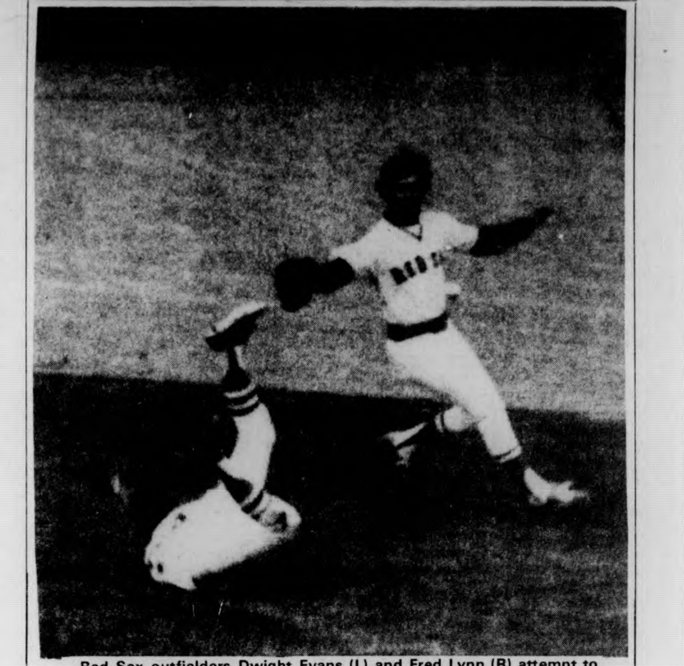
The Bruins, who hadn't played for a week since wrapping up the regular season, began the game with a goal 24 seconds into the first period.

Park blasted a slap shot from just inside the blue line on a rebouxf an O'Reilly shot. McNab also had an assist on the tally.

Cashman then tipped in a Schmautz blue-line blast on a power play at 6:04 of the first period before Mulvy brought Chicago to within one goal at 2-1 with a power play tally from in front of the net.

The second period beloned to McNab, who had eight of Boston's 13 shots on goal in the 20-minute stanza.

He set up his own goal 21 seconds into the period. After taking a pass along the boards from Mike Milbury, McNab found John Wensink all alone on the right side of the ice. Wensink's shot took Hawk goalie Tony Esposito down and McNab lifted the rebound over Esposito s prone body.



Red Sox outfielders Dwight Evans (L) and Fred Lynn (R) attempt to catch up with the elusive baseball on a Don Money double in 2nd inning action at Fenway Park yesterday. The Sox defeated the Brewers, 9-2 for fifth straight win.(UPI)

Rozelle to speak here

Pete Rozelle, Commissioner of the National Football League, will speak on campus tomorrow at 11 a.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Rozelle spent two years in the Navy, then entered Compton Junior College in California in 1946. While attending Compton he first became affiliated with the Rams by editing their game program.

In 1948 he enrolled in the University of San Francisco. During his senior year he held the positions of publicity director and assistant director of athletics.

In 1952 Rozelle was named publicity director of the Rams. After three years he accepted a position with an international public relations firm, but returned to the Rams in 1957 to become general manager.

Russ Smith

Catching z's and stats

Thoughts while sleeping...

To the student-know-it-alls who get off on statistics and impress upon their friends, acquaintances, and other in-btdpter knowledge of trivial numbers. You've memorized the batting averages of the Bill Lees, the salaries of the Dave Kingmans, and the fielding percentages of the Reggie Jacksons, eh? Well, here's one for you baseball freaks: who was the last pitcher in Fenway Park to throw a hanging moonball curve onto the backstop? (This skyhook pitch allowed the winning run to score.)

Maybe it is a good thing the Celtics didn't make the playoffs. I'd hate to think what I'd be saying as a Boston fan if my basketball team lost a playoff game by 40 pts. (Note: see library microfilm of entitled "Philly-130 New Jersey Nets' cousin's-90").

And while on the subject of bores, why do television stations waste their money to put things like golf and pro bowling on the set? Isn't it possible to find something even a little more exciting-that won't force you into an afternoon nap? Personally, I find commercials more entertaining.

Last night started ABC's Monday Night Baseball series. With any luck the viewers in this part of the country will get to see some decent matchups such as Cincinnati-Los Angeles, Boston-New York and Kansas City-Texas.

If the programming gods do what they did for the viewing audience of Monday night hockey (Montreal at Minnesota, for example) we could be seeing Mets-Astros, Padres-Braves, Orioles-Indians and Mariners-Angels. Loyalty keeps me from picking on the Oakland A's.

Can't you find some sympathy for Earl Weaver and his boys down in Maryland? Usually in contention for the Al East pennant, the Orioles have fallen upon hard times this year. Not only is attendakah tways), but the pitching staff has acquired a habit of giving up grand slams—three to the Brewers the first three games of the season. So, the once strong Orioles are fighting off the Bluejays for the cellar, and the Brewers are the hottest thing since the Pub mug.

Why is it good teams always win by one run, and bad teams are always losing by the same margin? And will baseball doubleheaders all be split this year?

In case you're wondering-and even if you're not-here's the supposed rationale behinxy NHL's playoff system, which allows almost half of their teams to make the post—season play: more money during the regular season (remember, fans will go to the games because their team is heading to the playoffs) and the more teams in the playoffs the more $$$$ they bring in. Because the playoffs are diluted people don't really care about the preliminary best of three series. When a team like the Rockies makes the playoffs, something is wrong.

And I'd like to apologize for being so easy on the Yankees last week..slip of the pen...

Intramural softball, soccer and tennis finally got the green light last week. Look for arguxeie' bum calls (or umps missing the play completely), and crowded tennis courts everywhere: rememberin esty is the best policy. If the ball hits the line, it's good no matter how many games down you are (and even if it is match point of a six-zero set)....

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 122 Wednesday, April 19, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Senate ratifies canal treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a businesslike ritual that signaled the end of a historic era, the Senate yesterday ratified the Panama Canal treaty 68-32 and pledged the United States to give up Teddy Roosevelt's waterway on the last day of the 20th Century.

"This is a day of which Americans can always feel proud, for now we have reminded the world and ourselves of the things we stand for as a nation," an exultant President Carter said, accepting the biggest political victory of his presidency.

He indicated he would travel to Panama City in the next few weeks to present formal ratification to Panamanian Leader Omar Torrijos. Carter said he had talked with Torrijos by telephone after the vote, and been assured Panama will accept the treaties with reservations placed by the Senate.

The razor-thin ratification decision — one vote more than the two-thirds majority needed — set U.S.-Latin American relations onto a new course by formally replacing the 1903 treaty that was the centerpiece of Roosevelt's "Big Stick" diplomacy in the Americas.

Panama quickly dispelled fears it might reject the pacts by sending its ambassador, Gabriel Lewis, to the White House "to tell the President that we accept the treaty."

"Now I really feel that Panama is an independent country," Lewis jubilantly told reporters as he headed for the executive mansion.

Carter, too, was jubilant. The vote delivered him the most important policy victory, foreign or domestic, he has yet achieved, and he quickly announced his pleasure — and Panama's notification it would accept the pacts — in a nationally televised appearance.

He watched the roll-call on a television set in the office of his personal secretary, then telephoned his gratitude to Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, who steered the treaties through one potentially fatal controversy after another and cast the deciding 67th vote Tuesday.

"You're a great man, that was a beautiful vote!" he told Byrd, according to a White House spokesman.

In brief, the main treaty commits the United States to gradually dismantle the Canal Zone authority run until now as an American fiefdom; lower its flag over the 51-mile AtlanticPacific waterway; and gradually turn over full control to Panama by Dec. 31, 1999.

The neutrality treaty — approved by the identical 68-32 vote on March 16 — pledges both nations to keep the waterway free and open to the ships of all nations.

As amended by the Senate, it also says the United States may use military force if necessary to reopen the canal if it is shut down for any reason.

Torrijos warns US against intervention

PANAMA CITY, PANAMA (UPI) - Panamanian Chief of State Omar Torrijos said yesterday his army would have "intervened" in the Canal zone "tomorrow morning" if Congress had refused to ratify the Panama Canal treaty.

As Torrijos spoke to a news-conference, opponents of the treaty chanted slogans accusing the Panamaian leader of being "a puppet of the oligarchy."

"The armed forces had decided that if the treaty had been rejected or not acceptable to Panama, they would have intervened in the canal by tommorow morning," Torrijos said. "Tomorrow morning we would have started our fight for liberation or possibly the canal would not have been in operation."

Torrijos warned that if the United States tried to intervene in Panama under the so called Deconcini amendment, Panama would destroy the 50-mile-long canal.

That amendment, sponsored by Sen. Dennis Deconcini, D-Ariz., would authorize the United States to use military force if necessary to reopen the canal if it is shut down for any reason, including the Panamanians even after the turnover.

"We are capable of destroying it," Torrijos said. "The National Guard has the capability of destroying it and we don't intend to lose that capability.

"Yes, they can intervene, but when they get here, they'll find that the canal has been destroyed. Therefore, their intervention would not be to defend the canal.

Convention fails; Sylvan,Greeks scarce

By Jon Klein
Collegian Staff

The Student Government Association Electoral Convention failed again last night to meet a quorum at the sixth scheduled session of the convention.

The Convention is scheduled to meet again next Tuesday at 7:00 p.m. in the Hatch.

Three delegations showed up. Five delegations are needed for a quorum. There are seven delegations in all Southwest Area Government, Central Area government and Northeast Area Government were the only delegations which had a quorum.

Attorney General Jeff Lutsky said that "Certain factions within the Area Governments such as Sylvan and the Greeks have their own interest to serve and want to see their own candidates win."Greek Vice President Robert Davidson said "the Greeks don't have a candidate." He said part of the reason Greeks were not coming was the convention's time conflict with other events.

Lutsky suggested one possible solution to the problem would be for Jon A. Hite and Marion L. Batiste , SGA co-presidents, to resign so there would be a new popular election.

Others contend that Hite and Batiste left office on April 1, the traditional exit date of student government presidents. Hite and Batiste say they will hold the office.

Sylvan Area Treasurer James O'Connell cited Academics and delegates being "tired of coming" for the lack of a quorum. O'Connell challenged the convention that delegates were not showing up because they favored a candidacy and wanted to prevent a differnt winner.

O'Connell said he expects the convention will vote a popular election. "Its not a question of whether or not we can have it (the election) its a question of whether or not we can get the people to show up and vote on it."

Inside

NEWS

He was called a sonavabitch for his reporting on a UMass scandal, but Monday he won the Pulitzer Prize for work on a Philadelphia paper. To find out who he is, see Joe Quinlan's feature on page 2.

Jonathan Kozol chided and derided the American public school system last night in the Fine Arts Center. Mary Brown has the story on page 3.

UMass is the site of the only sports co-op in the country. For more information on the student-run organization, turn to Garde Welles's feature on page 3.

SPORTS

The UMass baseball team got back on the winning track yesterday behind Leo Kalihoski's two RBI's and Doug Welenc's fine pitching ... Mel Webster reports, page 20.

The women's lacrosse team won its fourth straight game yesterday by walloping Smith College. Pam Lindmark reports, page 20.

The softball team prepped for its big game against Springfield College tomorrow by taking a doubleheader from Westfield State. Beth Collins was there and has the scoop ... page 19.

The sun came out for Spring day but the puddles created a rather mucky situation. (Staff photo by John LeJeune)

'Learning Tomorrows'

Illich to talk on education

by Mark Leccese
Collegian Staff

Ivan Illich, the internationally renowned educator and author, will be speaking tonight at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Auditorium as part of "Learning Tomorrows," the UMass conference on the future of education.

Peter Wagschal, head of the UMass Future Studies department, which sponsored the conference said, "It is impossible to over-estimate Illich's impact. He has sensitized many people to the radically different role education might play in the lives of our children."

Illich's speech, "The Limits to Bureaucratic Motherhood: Taught Mother Tongue," is expected to deal with Illich's idea that the "helping professions" in our bureaucracy have reached the point in their development where they are doing society more harm than good.

Toward a History of Needs, Illich's recently published book, is a critique of the over-industrialization and excessive professionalism of modern society.

Also featured today will be the premiere of a video-tape made exclusively for the "Learning Tomorrows" conference entitled "A Conversation On The Future of American Education."

The conversation was between R. Buckminster Fuller, futurist, Henry Steele Commager, an historian who teaches at Amherst College, Archibald MacLeish, a poet and critic who lives in Conway, and Jonathan Kozol, educator and author.

The tape will be shown at 10 a.m. and 12 p.m. in Room 168 of the Campus Center.

Nat Hentoff, a columnist for the New York based Village Voice and author of books on education, poverty in America, and jazz, will speak in the Campus Center Auditorium at noon today. The topic of Hentoff's talk will be "The Only Lasting Way to Integrate the Upper Classes."

Films being shown in Campus Center today include "Lovejoy's Nuclear War," and "A Minor Altercation," a film on the racial conflict in the Boston schools.

All of the events and speeches at the conference are free to students, staff, and faculty at the University.

World needs more nukes, energy official claims

By MARIA MESSITT
Collegian Staff

World electricity needs cannot be met in the year 2000 unless 60 per cent is produced by nuclear power plants, a World Energy Conference official said yesterday.

Ioan D. Stancescu, member of the WEC Energy Conservation Commission and international energy expert, addressed a small audience in Herter yesterday on the subject of the "World Wide View of the Energy Dilemma."

The world's uranium supply will run out by the year 2000 if 300 or more mines are not opened by then, according to Stancescu.

Nuclear, solar, biomass, and hydro power will become increasingly important, while coal, oil, and gas will decrease in importance, said Stancescu.

It will be possible to meet our future energy needs and maintain high living standards and labor productivity in the developed countries, but we must change our attitude towards energy, he said.

Stancescu advocated tightening our energy belts by "making a distinction between our energy needs and demands."

The WEC did a study on potential world energy needs in 2020 by extrapolating statistics on population growth, and economic and social growth.

The study predicts energy consumption in developed countries will increase at the same rate as economic and sccial development.

But future for developing countries is not as bright. The study predicts that energy consumption demands will be four to five times as high as the rate of development.

Stancescu suggested a strategy in which public opinion, and government regulations plus incentives would push for a world in which all humanity have the same standard of living and economic and social develoment, but based on less energy.

Stancescu ended with an ultimatum stating that unless immediate steps for world-wide conservation of resources are taken, the world energy picture "looks not very bright."

Romanian-born Stancescu graduated from the Berlin Technical Institute in 1936 with a degree in engineering. He worked for many years in energy-related industry, and was a professor at the Bucharest Technical Institute in Romania.

He has lectured on energy in many European and South American countries and has been associated with the United Nations since 1971 during which he was the Energy Consultant to the Peruvian Governement.

Ion D. Stancescu, a member of the Energy Development and Conservation office of the United Nations, talks of the world-wide view of the energy dilemma. (Staff photo by Julie Del Frate.)

Insights on Neumann

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

"Jonathan Neumann was a first class sonavabitch, but the best reporter in all my experience," said Peter Gluckler, the UMass public relations director in 1975 when Neumann broke a local newspaper's investigative series that lead to state and federal audits of the UMass School of Education.

The 28-year-old Neumann and another reporter with the Philadelphia Inquirer this week were awarded the Pulitzer Prize for writing news stories that have led to convictions of Philadelphia police officers for violating constitutional rights of suspects in homicide cases.

Neumann, a graduate of City College in New York, had worked for the Daily Hampshire Gazette in the Amherst bureau for two years when he discovered that a police report of a rock being thrown into a North Amherst home was part of a scandal at the School of Education involving abuses of federal funds by faculty and staff.

Gluckler, as director of the UMass News Bureau, was a "stonewall" to Neumann's inquiries during his investigation of the School of Education.

Neumann received the national Education writers Award for his series at UMass and within a year left the Gazette for the Inquirer where now he reports on court news.

Neumann, Gluckler said last night, "has an attorney's ability to interrogate in order to acquire information. He has the style similar to that of an attorney in a courtroom."

"Those of us at the University who suffered (during theinvestigation) look at it (the Pulitzer award) as an honor and privilege," Gluckler said.

Gluckler had just left an editor's job with an Eastern Massachusetts daily for the public relations job at UMass when the education scandal surfaced. He is now the public relations director at Hampshire College in South Amherst.

Gluckler said as a former newspaper editor he had the "inclination to give him (Neumann) information not entitled him," but his judgement prohibited him.

The dean of the School of Education during Neumann's series, Dwight Allen, and other members of the school resigned and another indicted during the investigation, which lasted from late 1974 through early 1976. Allen could not be reached for comment last night.

Neumann had been nominated for a Pulitzer after writing the School of Education and again for reporting about a Philadelphia murder.

Gluckler said that when Neumann left the Gazette he told another reporter that if anyone will win a Pulitzer, it would be Neumann.

"Pulitzer's are not given for kindness and generosity," but good reporting, Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery last night said of Neumann's award.

"I'm not arguing he's not a good reporter," Bromery said. "He got an award for being good." Bromery was chancellor during the scandal.

Neumann last night in a telephone interview said he was "absolutely ecstatic" when he heard he received the Pulitzer prize. Neumann yesterday also received a public service award from the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain for the Philadelphia series.

Neumann said the investigation of the Philadelphia courts and police department and the investigation of the School of Education are similar in that both took four months of work to generate initial stories.

Gazette reporters Frederick Cusick and Martha Oravecz last night both said they enjoyed working with Neumann during his four years at the Gazette.

Neumann's "frightening sometimes, he's so good," said Cusick, who added this year's Pulitzer "won't be the last one" for Neumann.

The lighter-than-air Floating Spectrum Structure is presented for the UMass people by the Art Research Center Group yesterday by the Campus Pond. (Staff photo by Lynn Marion)

. . . newslines . . .

No skateboards at FAC

Frisbee, skate boarding, and other sports activities have been declared illegal in the concrete Fine Arts Center patio area, according to FAC Director John Jenkins.

Wide expanses of concrete create a high accident potential for skate boarders, says Jenkins. The university security department will enforce the decision, he says.

Signs have been posted around the FAC, and local schools have been informed of the decision.

MARIA MESSITT

Cement canoes to sail

A civil engineering class this afternoon christens and launches four cement canoes in the campus pond for the fourth annual time as part of a special projects class.

The two-man canoes were made by 17 students in the class out of wire mesh, fiberglass mesh and concrete. This weekend the canoes will be raced in Maine and the engineering students will return to write a report on the project.

"It's a challenge to build something like that out of unconventional material" said Douglas Burkhardt, a participant in the event. Burkhardt said the canoers will use outing club canoes to practice for their race against other colleges, in Maine.

The pep club band will play during the christening ceremony.

Wimpout tourney

Calling all wimps.

The Bluewall's Third Annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament will take place towmorrow starting at 2 p.m.

The tournament features many prizes, with the first place finisher walking away with $100. The Bluewall will have people wearing cosmic-wimpout T-shirts teaching novice players the rules.

Anyone is welcome but there is a fifty-cent entrance fee.

MARK HORAN

DC goes kosher

Kosher Passover meals will be served in Hampden dining Commons from Friday, April 21 up to and including dinner on Saturday, April 29. Three meals per day are available for the entire period.

For regular (non-kosher) meal ticket holders; just present meal tickets for kosher breakfasts and lunches at no extra cost; dinners are .75 extra.

For Kosher meal ticket holders, present tickets for all three meals at no extra cost.

For students not on any meal plan; Kosher meal tickets must be purchased for all meals in advance by April 20. Breakfast-$1.45; lunch-$2.40; dinner;-$3.60.

Meal hours will be: breakfast-7:30-9:00; lunch-11:15-1:00; dinner-5:00-6:30.

Services will be on Thursday, April 27 at 8:00 in S.U. 302, Friday, April 28 at 7 p.m. in room TBA, and Saturday, April 29 at 10:30 a.m. in the Suffolk Room

Today's Staff

| | |
|---|---|
| Issue Editor | Judy Van Handle |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |
| Copy Desk | Megan O'Reilly |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dale Griswold |
| Photo Staff | Amira Rahman, Judie Del Frate,Diane Crawford, Donna Platt |
| Sports Layout | Mike McHugh |
| Clutch Hitting | Jack Brohamer |

"It's going to be Wednesday morning and everything is just fahn ... "

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Kozol criticizes US schools

By MARY BROWN
Collegian Staff

Jonathan Kozol has, at various times, earned his living as a school teacher, author, and proponent of the Free Schools movement.

But last night, before a crowd of 300 in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, Kozol was a critic of America's public school system, which he claims indoctrinates its students to an ethic of domestication instead of inspiring them to seek out new knowledge and new truths.

Teachers graduating in the 1970's, he said, should not be afraid to "change a school to a vehicle of social change that it was never meant to be."

Kozol, 41, a native of Boston and former elementary school teacher in the Boston and Newton school systems, pointed to the Cuban educational system as one where students are allowed to openly criticize any doctrine and belief, and to put their knowledge to practical use even during their school years.

Kozol paid several visits to Cuba during the past two years, both as an observer and then as an English teacher. A new book on the Cuban educational system authored by Kozol was sent to the printer Monday night at 10 p.m., he told the audience.

Currently Cuba has an illiteracy rate of less than two percent, Kozol said, lower than any country in the Americas, even the U.S. Cuba was able to achieve this by teaching a "we shall overcome" ethic, he said.

"In Cuba, the word for 'state' is 'revolution,' " Kozol said, and the revolution is continually occurring.

Kozol told the audience that New York City spent millions of dollars to build a school in Harlem that was without windows.

"They walled out the real world," he said, and then spent $5 million to buy "simulation games" so the students could learn what the real world was like.

One of the games they played was "Ghetto", he said, which taught the Harlme students what it was like to live in a Northeast ghetto.

In America the "payoff" on a student's education is received only after the student leaves the system, he said, but in Cuba, the payoff occurs every afternoon when the students go out and run the farms surrounding their schools.

"I am convinced there is a groundswell of people who are willing to subvert the indoctrination of domestication."

"I don't hate the flag. I don't hate America. I don't even hate my father," he said, "You're supposed to if you're a radical. I don't even hate the teaching of hard skills."

But when it comes to the American flag, he doesn't like to see the flag stained with lies," said Kozol of the Pledge of Allegiance, which he said was subtle political indoctrination.

Kozol also chided the teaching of "the myth of history," which dictates that progress will occur with or without man's assistance.

"It lifts us up and sets us down outside history," he said.

Jonathan Kozol, a headline speaker for the Learning Tomorrows conference, discusses "Education for Liberation" in the FAC last night. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Beer sales low as Spring Day crowd flows

By ROBERT FALETRA
Collegian Staff

Allen Mahoney, vice-president of Beta Chi said, "We run one big event in the spring to support us the rest of the year. This year the four bands are Puaranna, Mystical Traveler, Bricker Band and Cash."

"All of the groups are good and the turnout is big," Mahoney said, "but nobody is drinking beer."

Mahoney said, "We use the money we make on spring Day every year to sponsor other social events and to bring the disabled veterans from Leeds Hospital to Patriot football games and other sporting events."

"The sound system and the bands cost us $1,050," Mahoney said, "and with the cost of the dogs, beer and police, we'll make about $150 this year."

"We have 25 active members who planned this back in early February and along with the volunteers we have about 80 persons helping out today," said Mahoney.

With a collection of sots, sows and those who don't drink before noon, Beta Chi, a UMass fraternity, hosted its annual spring Day yesterday amidst mud and puddles behind Alumni stadium.

The yearly event starting at 11:00 a.m. featured four rock bands, 7,000 hot dogs, and 140 kegs of beer.

Spectators filtered in and out of the area all day and most left a little happier than when they came.

Mahoney said, "we are not a Greek fraternity and we don't have a house." The only requirement we have is that you have to be a veteran and come to our weekly meetings."

Mahoney said one person was a little too drunk and had to be taken to the infirmary around 6:30 p.m.

Infirmary officials would not comment on the condition of the patient but did say that someone was brought up from the stadium.

Watroba warrant remains dubious

by SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

Amherst Selectmen remain undecided whether to support the town meeting warrant article dealing with a trade of land sites between the town and the owner of Watroba's store.

Monday night the board split in its vote over support of the article as it is written to go before the Amherst voters in next month's town meeting.

Selectmen Roger C. Jacque and William C. Atkins voted in favor of support while Nathaniel Reed and Diana H. Romer voted against supporting the article. Selectman Nancy B. Eddy abstained from voting on the issue.

In a memorandum dated April 14, Town Manager A. Louis Hayward recommended non-support of the article on the grounds "such a proposal is at least premature as far as the interests of the Town are concerned."

The memorandum also states, "Article 54 proposes a scheme which, in our opinion, does not provide a net benefit to the Town. There would be a susbtantial loss in equity in return for relatively minor public benefits.".

The article proposes:

—The exchange of the Watroba Store building and part of its lot and the former North Amherst School building and a portion of its lot. The exchange would take place May 1, 1979.

—Demolition of the corner store building on or before May 1, 1984.

—Construction of a curb, sidewalk and planting strip along Meadow Street by the Town.

—Discontinuance of the curb cut and driveway entrance at the northeast corner of the existing store and the establishment of a new cut and driveway entrance north of the old school.

—Creation of an easement along the west side of the existing store to allow access between the school lot and Meadow Street.

UMASS SPORTING GOODS CO-OP

The Sports Co-op holds its grand opening celebration yesterday. The UMass co-op is located on the first floor of the Campus Center. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Campus Center houses US' only sports co-op

By GARDE WELLS
Collegian Staff

Another UMass first.

"As far as we know, this is the only sporting goods co-op in the country," according to Andrew Sheinman, a Sports Management major and co-founder of the co-op.

The UMass Sports Cooperative, located next to the Collegian Office downstairs in the Campus Center, sells frisbees, tennis balls, basketballs, track shoes, tennis shoes, basketball sneakers, shorts, baseball bats, sweatsuits, and ping-pong equipment.

The student-funded co-op depends on funds provided by the Student Senate.

"I got the idea and spoke to sports management people, such as teachers and sports management majors," said Sheinman. "We've been working on this since September."

The aim of the Sports Co-op is to sell "the best possible product at the lowest possible price," according to Sheinman.

The UMass Sports Co-op is a recognized Student Organization, which means it is eligible for student funding and it has a written constitution.

"Depending on the response we get, the administration will either cut us out or give us better space," said Sheinman.

"The co-op is made up mostly of sports management students," according to undergraduate member Clare Halvey, who helped found the co-op.

Any person can use the co-op, now open Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"It's pretty much a voluntary organization," said Halvey, "everybody chips in as much time as possible."

"The co-op isn't necessarily geared to athletes, more so it's directed to the everyday person who finds the need to use sporting goods," according to member Andrew Sheinman.

Another main emphasis of the Sporting Goods Co-op is to utilize the co-op as a learning tool to gain practical experience for students, Sheinman said.

"For example, we have an accounting student, Peter Rich, working as our treasurer, and we're always looking for people to take advantage of this great educational opportunity," said Sheinman.

The space used for the co-op is rent-free.

"We're not out to sell name brands, said member Clare Halvey, "we're out to service the students the best we can and get them the best possible product at the best possible price," said member Clare Halvey.

"A lot of students need sporting goods and they can't leave campus," she said.

The co-op is not just for sports management students, according to Halvey. One undeclared major, as well as Engineering and Economics majors are now working in the Sports Co-op.

"It took us a whole semester to get space and R.S.O. status," she added.

Black Affairs

10,000 strong against the Bakke decision

March on D.C.

by BROOKE STATES
Revolutionary Student Brigade

Though the regular national media works overtime to paint a picture of a "happy America" where everyone is equal, they conveniently suppressed all news of the powerful march against the Bakke decision which united thousands in opposition to this view — a march that was living testimony to the continued oppression of minorities in this country and the determination to change this situation.

On April 15 in Washington, D.C. some 10,000 people took a stand against Alan Bakke and the system that stands behind him. Under the phony charge of reverse discrimination, Bakke, a 34 year old white engineer, is claiming that he was denied admission into U. California Medical School at Davis. Currently there are 2,000 cases of "Reverse Dsicrimination" pending in the Supreme Court, waiting for the Bakke Decision to be made. A pro-Bakke decision would set the precedent to wipe out all affirmative action programs across the country. This situation demanded a response from the people, and the response was made on April 15, loud and clear.

The march started about 1:00 at the elipse by the White House. Groups of students, community organizations, working people and professionals from as far away as Wisconsin and Florida were there. Some 103 buses came from New York City alone. Thirty-four students from UMass Amherst went down with the Revolutionary Student Brigade to join with 600 other students under the banner, Soweto Brigade. The theme of this contingent was "Fight National Oppression and Imperialism from the Union of South Africa to the United States of America, "bringing out links between the struggle against oppression in Sosuth Africa and discrimination in this country, and what causes them both.

As the marchers swung down past the Supreme Court, thousands of voices yelled out, "Hey, hey have you heard, What is the people's verdict; People of every race, Unite to smash the Bakke case." We then moved to the Capitol Building where we attended a second rally of speakers and music, which brought out the need to keep active in the fight against oppression, particularly the Bakke case. The case is presently sitting before the Supreme Court and a decision is expected before the end of the June session. Whichever way it goes, we can be sure the issue of affirmative action will continue to be one the agenda, and it cannot be settled without the kind of united, determined action that took place in D.C. last weekend.

New director for CCEBS

Dr. Michael L. Jackson (Photo by Edward Cohen)

At the February 16, 1978 meeting of the CCEBS Board of Directors Dr. Michael L. Jackson announced that he would be resigning as the program's Director effective august 1, 1978. He said that he would be leaving to return to California to either attend Law School and-or to take a position in his father's company. Chairperson Dr. Donald St. Mary expressed deep regret on hearing this news and praised Dr. Jackson for the leadership that he has provided the program during the past three years.

The Board of directors' March 16, 1978 meeting concerned itself with determining how it should proceed in the replacement of Dr. Jackson. It was agreed that it is the intention of the Board to recommend to the Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs that Dr. Carol Carter (Brooks), the Associate Director of the Program, be promoted to Director with full responsibility for administering the CCEBS Program for academic year 1978-79 effective August 1, 1978.

The next meeting of the Board will take place on Thursday, May 11 in Room 805-809 of the Campus Center at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Carol Carter (Brooks) (Photo by Miriam Carter)

Jackson faults media

Rev. Jessie Jackson (UPI)

BOSTON (UPI) The Rev. Jesse Jackson Tuesday critiziced the news media and television for helping perpetuate debilitating stereotypes of blacks. "The main image projector remains a haven for Americn racism," Jackson told an audience of about 500 blacks and whites at Roxbury High School, in one of Boston's poorest neighborhoods. He said stereotypes of blacks as atheletes, entertainers or violent criminals is constantly reinforced on television and in print. He challenged the young audience to overcome poverty and ignorance through eduction and hard work. "I may be in the slum, but the slum is not in me!" Jackson shouted during his 40-minute revival-like speech. "We are better than our enviornment! No one will do more for you than you will do for yourself."

Supreme Court grants judges immunity in sterilization suits

WASHINGTON AP -The Supreme Court, despite angry disagreement by three members, said Tuesday that judges virtually are immune from lawsuits by women they have ordered sterilized -even when such orders are mistakes.

Judges cannot be sued for damages unless they act in "a clear absence of all jurisdiction," the court said in adhering to a judicial immunity doctrine fashioned in an 1871 Supreme Court decision.

Judges ' mistakes -even malicious mistakes -are shielded by immunity, that doctrine says, so judges facing difficult consequences.

Tuesday's decision re versed a federal appeals court's ruling that DeKalb County, Ind., Circuit Judge Harold D. Stump could be sued for his sterilization order.

The 7th U.S Circuit Court of Appeals had ruled that Stump's order was not a judicial act "because of his failure to comply with elementary principles" of constitutional law.

An opinion by Justice Byron B. White said that Stump had the authority to issue the order so any possible misuse of authority is beyond legal challenge.

Breaking down the barriers leading to friendship

By Angela Thomas
Black Affairs Editor

Feeling misunderstood, lonely, or isolated? Desire the company of other women who also feel this way, and want to begin to correct this situation? If your answer is yes, this article is for you.

The flyer to the right has been posted in various locations around UMass by Vickie Mays, a Ph.D. candidate in Clinical Psychology at UMass, and organizer of the support group. "Many black women have expressed feelings of isolation and loneliness. Besides the superficial greeting of hello to one another, too many of us really don't know really don't know each other," said Mays.

It is an established fact that traditional university counseling services are not used by the majority of black women. The purpose of the support group is to provide a means for women to get together.

Mays stresses the fact that the support group is not a therapy group. Said Mays, "I am there to facilitate and serve as a resource person to direct and guide women to other women. Once the group is formed and functioning it is my hope that the group will go on whether I'm there or not."

Though designed with UMass women in mind, the support group is not open only for women here, but also for those women who may be outside the UMass community.

Speaking about the actual structure of the support group, Mays commented that, "Because of the number of responses received, there will be two groups, one for those under the age of 25 , and one for those over the age of 25.

Explaining the reason for the two groups Mays said, "Both groups have some issues in common such as beginning and ending a relationship, yet there are issues that differ in nature because of age, and this is what the two groups will allow for."

Mays speculated that the under 25 group will probably consist of undergraduates and graduate students, as well as young married women. The over 25 group is expected to consist of professional staff, and married women.

Mays is currently engaged in research on Black Women Relationships and the impact upon their interpersonal relationships. Over the last few years she has taught courses at the Malcolm X Center in Southwest on the Development of the Black Child, been a dorm counselor in the Upward Bound Program at UMass and has seminars on child development and health care issues. She has also been involved in the Personal Counseling Component of the Collegiate Committee for the Education of Black students (CCEBS).

Women interested in becoming part of the support group can contact Mays at 545-0041 or by leaving a message at the Everywomen's Center at 545-0883.

BLACK WOMEN

I AM A BLACK WOMAN CURRENTLY FORMING A SUPPORT/WORK GROUP FOR BLACK WOMEN OVER 25 YEARS OF AGE, BUT NOT LIMITED TO THAT AGE RANGE. THE PURPOSE OF THIS GROUP WILL BE TO SHARE AND DEAL WITH MANY OF THE DAY TO DAY SURVIVAL ISSUES FACED BY BLACK WOMEN. WE WILL LOOK AT HOW OUR AGE, OUR SEX, AND OUR RACE AFFECT OUR DEALINGS WITH OURSELVES AND OTHERS. WE WILL EXPLORE THE EXPERIENCE OF WOMEN BEING WITH WOMEN AND HOPE A NATURAL SUPPORT SYSTEM FOR BLACK WOMEN DEVELOPS. IT IS HOPED THAT THE MEMBERS OF THIS GROUP WILL BE DIVERSE IN TERMS OF AGE, CLASS, LIFE-STYLES AND POLITICAL ORIENTATIONS AS A WAY OF OPENING UP LINES OF COMMUNICATION.

THIS GROUP WILL MEET ONCE A WEEK (PROBABLY SUNDAY EVENINGS) FOR TWO HOURS AT EVERYWOMAN'S CENTER, 506 GOODELL HALL, AND WILL BEGIN APRIL 9TH. I CAN BE CONTACTED AT 545-0041 OR WILL ACCEPT MESSAGES AT EVERYWOMAN'S CENTER, 545-0883.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

LILY!
HAVE YOU READ ALEX HALEY'S BOOK?
NO, MARY FRANCES!
WHY?
WHY NOT? YOU HAVE DARK ROOTS!
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate
BRANDON JR
4-4

Black Affairs

Greek-Turk dispute

By JAMES LEWIS

President Carter is attempting to get Congress to lift the three year old U.S. arms embargo on Turkey, that has been in effect since the 1974 Turkish takeover of the island of Cyprus from Greece. At present, Turkey controls approximately 40 percent of the island.

According to reports from the Christian Science Monitor, "Turkish officials, the United States and Turkey may start to negotiate a new bases treaty immediately after Congress lifts the embargo and approves President carter's proposal to grant Turkey $175 million in military aid and $50 million in economic aid for the 1979 fiscal year." The United States wants "military base installations at Sinop, on the Black sea Coast, and Pirinilik, near Dyarbakir, in southeastern turkeyk... Still of vital importance," are these areas in Turkey.

The island of Cyprus has a population of 649,000.

Turkey has a population of 34,375,000. The Prime Minister of Turkey is Bulent Ecevit, the Prime Minister of Greece is Constantine Caramanlis.

Turkey is considered a strong ally in Asia, it is considered a strong democratic power and was discouraged over the U.S. arms embargo and threatened withdrawal from NATO. The United states wants to maintain Allied Power.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) was established March 18, by U.S. Canada and 10 Western European nations, including Turkey, agreeing that "an armed attack against one or more of them in Europe and North America shall be considered an attack against all," quoted from The World Almanac.

The island of Cyprus was 40 percent taken over by Turks on August 16, 1974, after a series of internal strife. With the Greeks of that island who maintained 80 percent of the population of Cyprus.

T is presently beginning to withdraw some of its troops from Cyprus. The Turkish Foreign Ministry stated that a total of 13,000 troops, constituting 30 percent of the total forces that invaded Cyprus in 1974, have been pulled back.

Prime Minister of Turkey, Bulen Ecevit, leader of the moderate leftist Republican People's Party (RPP) has been designated to form Turkey's new government to replace Premier Suleyman Demirel's rightwing coalition Cabinet, which was toppled by a vote of no confidence December 31. Ecevit's new administration is attempting to straighten out its poor economy by establishing business relations with the United States.

THE LATIN AMERICAN SYMPOSIUM

PRESENTS

WED. - APRIL 19,

"THIRD WORLD PEOPLE IN MEDIA"-
RADIO PROGRAMMING IN THE VALLEY
VICTORIA HERNANDEZ-WMUA
MIGUEL CONTRERAS-WMUA
4:00 pm CENTRUM GALLERY, HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

FILM - "TENTH WORLD FESTIVAL OF YOUTH AND STUDENTS"
7:30 and 9:00 pm MAIN LECTURE HALL, HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

THURS. - APRIL 20,

"ON BEING A THIRD WORLD ARTIST"
ROBERTO LASANTA-- POET, MUSICIAN
BRENDA WALCOTT-- POET, ARTIST
KEVIN JONES-- PERCUSSIONIST
7:30 pm CENTRUM GALLERY, HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

ALL EVENTS FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC
SPONSORED BY------LA FAMILIA
THIRD WORLD ORGANIZATION(H.C.)
SAAA(H.C.)

Native American leaders see hope in new unity

Reprint From The Christian Science Monitor
Window Rock, Arizona

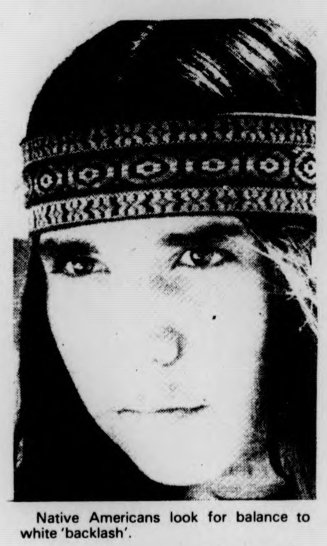
An Indian parable helps explain the unprecedented unity forged here among tribal leaders to combat what they see as white backlash against increased Indian demands for greater recognition of economic and legal rights.

According to the Seneca Indian legend, a tribe of woodland Indians once was threatened by two monstrous white serpents. After a period of initial apathy, members of the tribe came up with a multitude of plans for killing the beasts. But because each Indian thought his plan was the best, nothing was done.



Native Americans look for balance to white 'backlash'.

The serpents continued to draw near—until the entire tribe finally got together to make a gigantic bow and arrow to dispatch the beasts.

In this parable, the white serpents represent what many of today's Indians see as greed and materialism of American society, despoiling their land and threatening their very existence.

UNITY RARE IN PAST

A period of disunity and inaction bespeaks the recent past. National Indian organizations, many Indians seem to feel, have not been effective in combating the growing white anti-Indian forces, which they seek to take away many of the tribes' treaty rights. Even members of the largest tribe in the U.S., the Navajos, with a 14.5 million acre reservation and annual income of $23 million, feel threatened.

Meetings of the National Congress of American Indians and the National Tribal Chairman's Association typically bring some 30 tribal leaders together. But at a meeting just concluded here, more than 130 tribes were officially represented, according to Navajo host Bobby George.

The outcome of this recent council was a unanamous resolution to form a committee to fight "white backlash." Navajo Chairman Peter MacDonald likens this to a traditional Indian conference to coordinate war efforts. It will be made up of representatives of 10 national Indian organizations, including those of Hawaiian and Alaskan antives.

"The greatest threat to our treaties is an uninformed and misinformed American public." says Wendell Chino, head of the Mescalero Apaches.

EDUCATION GIVEN PRIORITY

One of the activities of the new committee will be a national effort to educate the American people about the present-day plight of the tribes, including an open letter to President Carter to be published in several major newspapers. Mr. Chino says that although Mr. Carter has proclaimed the importance of human rights in the Middle East, in Africa, and in South America, he has been unresponsive to the "minority of the minorities" here at home.

The Indians also plan a mass rally in Washington, D.C. where a group of Indians now crossing the U.S. on foot as a demonstration of protest reaches the capital.

Says Bobby George: "It is the best that has been done since Tecumseh," the great Shawnee chief who attempted to weld Indian tribes into a confederacy to oppose white expansion in the early 1800's.

Announcements
CCEBS

All CCEBS students should note that on Wednesday, April 26, from 3:00-5:00 p.m., there will be an informational workshop held in the Placement Office. Various topics, such as job-search techniques and resume writing, will be covered. The Placement Office is located in Hampshire House. This is a unique opportunity for CCEBS students to learn more about campus services available to them. Anyone interested in this event should sign up with Brian Maher in Room 209 of the New Africa House immediately.

All CCEBS students interested in going to medical school should note that on Wednesday, April 19, CCEBS is sponsoring a trip to the UMass Medical School in Worcester, Mass. This trip is crucial to anyone who is considering a career in medicine. Sign up for the trip in room 209 New Africa House immediately.

Molcgatle to speak

Barney Mokgatle, past secretary of the Soweto Students Rep. Council, will be speaking at UMass at the CC Aud, Tuesday, april 25 at 7:30. For more information call Michael Egan, between 5 and 8 at 549-5904.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

PEE WEE HAD A CLOSE ENCOUNTER LAST NIGHT!
YOU DID, PEE WEE?
OREO, I HAVE A CLOSE ENCOUNTER EVERY NIGHT...
...WITH FIVE OF US SLEEPING IN ONE BED!
4-3
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate
BRANDON JR

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $6.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

GO
STUDENT ONE-STOP TRAVEL SERVICE
FREE STUDENT TRAVEL CATALOG
FLIGHT CATALOG
•
CHARTER FLIGHTS
•
STUDENT DISCOUNTS ON TRAINS, SHIPS, CARS, HOTELS
•
INTERNATIONAL STUDENT ID CARD
•
TOURS AND TREKS
INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS OFFICE
239 WHITMORE

low prices – new 'n used albums
The Hip Record Shop
SUN MUSIC
amhest carriage shops

Justices halt sale of Watergate tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court yesterday blocked a plan to let the public buy copies of White House tape recordings played at the 1974 Watergate cover-up trial of Richard Nixon's top aides.

The justices' 7-2 decision forecloses "for the near future" commercial distribution or broadcast of the tapes in the custody of U.S. District Judge John Sirica, a lawyer for Nixon said.

The lawyer, William Jeffress Jr. said Nixon was "gratified" and "pleased" about the ruling — the first one favorable to him at the high court since Watergate.

The tapes — profanities and all — still may be made available to Americans some day through terms of a 1974 law under which Congress seized Nixon's presidential materials and ordered release of those which shed light on the scandal that drove him from office.

But because regulations to implement the statute are being contested in court, it could be years before any materials are released. And archives officials are uncertain in what form they will be made available.

Printed transcripts of the cover-up tapes long have been sold in stores, but these particularly recordings never have been played in public except during the trial of Nixon aides H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and former Attorney General John Mitchell, all eventually jailed for their Watergate roles.

Major networks and a record company sought public distribution of the recordings — which take 22 hours to play and include John Dean's warning to Nixon of "a cancer on the presidency."

They proposed to have the National Archives sell the tapes to the public at $3.75 to $5.75 per one-hour segment, and for radio and television to broadcast the Oval Office conversations. Archives officials had been prepared to start selling the tapes 10 weeks following final court action.

But Justice Lewis Powell, speaking for the court, rejected the networks' argument that copies of the tapes — like the transcripts — may be publicly distributed under a commonlaw right of access to court records.

RSO groups to protest

By CINDY REGET
Collegian Staff

Members of several RSO groups are planning to hold a demonstration at the Undergraduate Student Senate meeting tonight, over the denial of budget request hearings.

The groups announced their decision through a statement which was circulated throughout campus yesterday and signed: Ad Hoc Group to Open Up the Budgets Committee.

The senate tonight will also hold elections for senate treasurer and Senate Speaker Brian DeLima and other senate staff are scheduled to brief the senate on current issues.

The Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa, Earth Foods, the Alternative Energy Coalition and other R.S.O. groups are protesting the policy of the Budgets Committee which states groups that had not received a budget for this year would not even receive a hearing on their budget requests for next year.

The Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa, the Students United For Public Education Organization and the Alternative Energy Coalition received a budget hearing for April 18.

The meeting was not called to order due to a lack of quorum and therefore the budget request hearings were never held.

"It is a sad thing that people who are committed to informing the UMass community about issues of vital importance must spend time fighting with our student government," said Cathy Shuman, member of the Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa.

According to DeLima, the other briefings will include the lease negotiation, the results of the occupation of Whitmore, the proposed bus fees for next semester and other "vital issues" now facing the senate.

DeLima said the purpose of this briefing is to decide which issues the senate should concentrate on for the remainder of the semester.

Israel partially withdraws from Lebanon

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israeli forces in southern Lebanon will withdraw to within six miles of the border in the next two weeks, turning over to U.N. peacekeeping forces about half the territory captured in last month's invasion of Lebanon, Israeli defense sources said Tuesday.

Word that the Israelis had agreed to make the pullback called for by the Security Council last month followed a meeting in Jerusalem Tuesday between Prime Minister Menachem Begin and visiting U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim.

Waldheim left the meeting to tour U.N. positions in south Lebanon, saying that Begin had promised a complete withdrawal but giving no details.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, who also attended the meeting, said afterward an agreement is "really within reach and can be achieved."

The Israeli defense sources said Israeli troops, who now control nearly all of south Lebanon up to the Litani River 12 miles north of the frontier, would pull back some six miles to positions held March 18, two days after their initial invasion.

The new positions will stretch from Ras Bayada on the Mediterranean coast to Marjayoun in the eastern sector, the sources said.

The troops will also move back from their positions around the guerrilla-held port of Tyre and the adjacent Rashadiye Palestinian refugee camp, the sources said.

One source, stressing that Israel has "no intention" of remaining in south Lebanon once its forces have cleared the area of Palestinian guerrillas, said the decision to pull back was not taken primarily "because of Waldheim."

But he acknowledged that Waldheim's promise to ask the Security Council to increase the size of the U.N. force in Lebanon from 4,000 to 6,000 men was "a factor" in the decision.

"Now it's up to the U.N. to prove itself," one source said.

The new lines coincide with the "security belt" Israel intended to seize at the beginning of the incursion mounted in retaliation for a guerrilla raid last month that took 35 lives on the coastal highway north of Tel Aviv.

REGISTER TO VOTE HERE & NOW!!
SO YOU CAN COUNT IN SEPT.
BY SUPPORTING PROGRESSIVE
CANDIDATES AND ISSUES

JONATHAN
SOUWEINE
FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

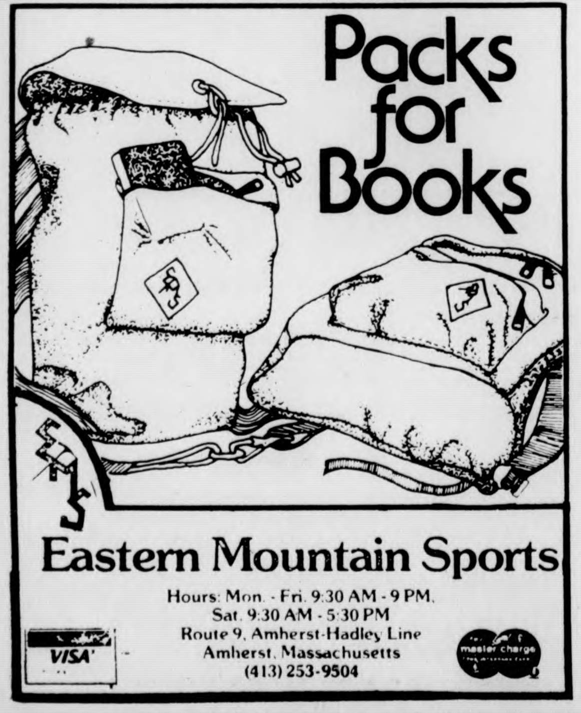
Paid for by people who want to elect
Jonathan Souweine D.A.
In the Amherst Carriage Shops 549-6694

Mike Sullivan Laura Stickel

the SALE is coming!

the University Store
Campus Center

Camp Young Judaea, Amherst, New Hampshire (resident, co-ed, 1 hour from Boston) is in need of Department Directors and Activity Specialists for this summer in: Athletics, Waterfront, Arts & Crafts, Israeli Dance, Drama, Israeli Folk Song, Riflery, Tennis, Office Personnel and Nurses (RN). Please contact Dr. Charles B. Rotman, Director, 81 Kingsbury Street, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181, (617) 237-9410.

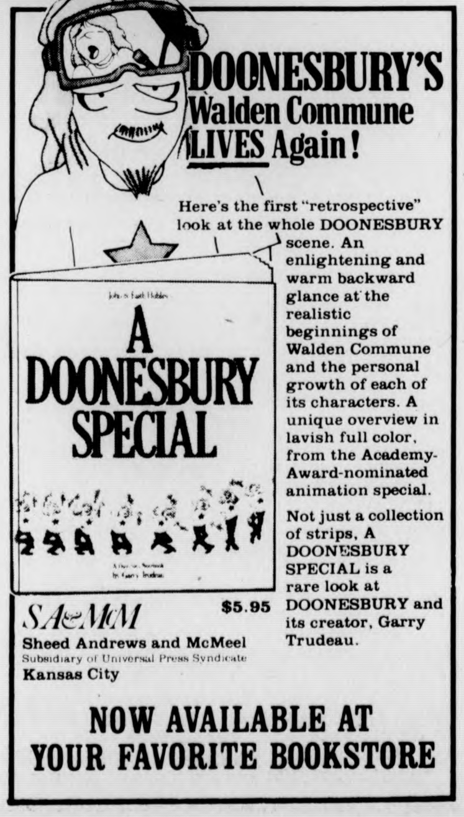


Packs for Books

Eastern Mountain Sports

Hours: Mon. - Fri. 9:30 AM - 9 PM.
Sat. 9:30 AM - 5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504

VISA
master charge



DOONESBURY'S Walden Commune LIVES Again!

Here's the first "retrospective" look at the whole DOONESBURY scene. An enlightening and warm backward glance at the realistic beginnings of Walden Commune and the personal growth of each of its characters. A unique overview in lavish full color, from the Academy-Award-nominated animation special.

Not just a collection of strips, A DOONESBURY SPECIAL is a rare look at DOONESBURY and its creator, Garry Trudeau.

A DOONESBURY SPECIAL

$5.95

SA&McM
Sheed Andrews and McMeel
Subsidiary of Universal Press Syndicate
Kansas City

NOW AVAILABLE AT YOUR FAVORITE BOOKSTORE

Moro still missing

CORVARO, Italy (AP) — Frogmen scoured a mountain trout-fishing lake Tuesday for the body of Aldo Moro after a message purportedly from his terrorist kidnappers said the former premier had been killed and dumped into the icy waters.

But the search in shallow Lake Duchessa, 72 miles northeast of Rome, was suspended at dusk and officials said the message, which also threatened other politicians, may have been a ruse to divert the attention of the police.

Rome police said that earlier in the day they had found what appeared to be a hideout used by the Red Brigades, the feared urban guerrillas who kidnapped the 61-year-old Moro and killed his five guards in a Rome street ambush March 16.

The failure to find any trace of Moro "might lead us to think that nobody or anything like a body has been thrown into the lake," one searcher was reported to have told Rome headquarters of Moro's Christian Democratic Party. Still, the hunt was to resume Wednesday.

Search parties were dispatched by helicopter to the lake, in a hollow of the Apennine Mountains three miles from Corvaro village, after the Rome newspaper Il Messagero received a message bearing the signature of the Red Brigades. The terrorists announced three days ago that Moro had been convicted in a "people's trial" and sentenced to die.

Police and colleagues of Moro said the new message, delivered the same way as others from the Red Brigades since the kidnapping, doubtless was authentic. But they said it may have been intended as a diversionary tactic or a cruel psychological joke.

The Italian news agency ANSA also noted that Tuesday was the 30th anniversary of the Christian Democrats' rise to national leadership and said: "Perhaps the Red Brigades wanted to solemnize this ... by heightening tension."

The Merrill Lynch brokerage office at Grand Central Station draws a lunchtime crowd as the stock market continues to make news. A blue-chip rally fizzled and stocks headed lower in profit taking. Trading slowed from the record pace of the past three sessions.

Lesbian rapists get life

DEDHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Norfolk Superior Court Judge Henry Chmielinski today sentenced two women to two concurrent life terms at MCI Framingham after they were convicted of lesbian rape of an 18-year-old Boston woman.

"I will extend the same degree of compassion to them as they gave to their victim," Chmielinski said as he pronounced sentence. "The studied brutelity in this case is unprecedented in my experience."

He said the assault was "savage. To call it inhuman would be the understatement of the year. To call it animalistic would be an insult to the animal kingdom."

Denise Whitehead, 21, of Brockton, and Mary Connolly, 21, of Somerville, were found guilty last Thursday of rape, unarmed robbery and two counts of assault and battery. It took an all-male jury 10 hours to reach a verdict.

Assistant Dist ict Attorney Gerald Kirby had testified two women and three men picked up the victim at a bar in Boston's adult entertainment district on Oct. 15.

Kirby said they drove her around the city, forced her to egage in various sex acts in the back seat of the car, cut her throat, then left her to die in a Quincy cemetery.

Two co-defendants in the case are still awaiting trial. A third was found innocent on some counts, and a mistrial was declared on other charges against him.

The victim, whose identity was withheld, crawled to a nearby house where residents notified police. She spent 35 days recovering in Quincy City Hospital.

Don't get caught with high
winter heating bills!

2 bedroom garden apartments from $255
Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE-
heat and hot water

NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS

For Your Convenience:
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

★ Minimum 10 month
lease available

Our new rental office is located
at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours — Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

Soft & Lacey

BUS STOP ...sensuous fashion for Spring

ATTENTION OLDER AND COMMUTING STUDENTS

The professional staff of the Career/Life Development Team of the Community Development Center — Berkshire House — has a professional counselor/psychologist available each Thursday evening from 6:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m.

You can receive counseling assistance and information about:

Personal and Career Objectives
Interest and Ability Testing
Resume Writing
Employment Interviews
Personal and Family Stress

The Career Information and Resource Library is also open during the above hours.

CHECK US OUT

Graduate Student Senate
Elections
May 11, 1978

Nominations are open for positions of:

President
Vice-President
Secretary
Treasurer

For information on duties, salaries, and eligibility contact the Graduate Student Senate in Rm. 919, Campus Center

Elections held in
Campus Center Rm. 804-808

Minority and women graduate students are urged to run for office;
we take affirmative action seriously

256 apprehended

FBI busts crime ring; $42 million recovered

LOS ANGELES (UPI) Federal and local authorities announced yesterday the arrest of 256 persons and recovery of property and contraband worth $42 million "in the most successful anti-fencing operation in the nation's history."

A dozen of those arrested were believed to be organized crime figures from outside the area, according to authorities who worked undercover at seven phony store fronts in the metropolitan Los Angeles area during the past 22 months.

The Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said the $42 million recovery was the largest of 47 operations — nicknamed "stings" — that the LEAA has financed in 35 cities during the past three years.

Those arrested face both local and federal charges for receiving stolen property and interstate transportation of stolen property. Other arrests stemming from the investigation were for robbery, grand theft and sale of narcotics.

"We think we have injected one monstrous note of uncertainty into everyone who engages in the 'fencing' business," said Sheriff Peter Pitchess. "To keep them nervous, we should add that we expect the arrest figures to rise to close to 300."

The Los Angeles sting, dubbed "Operation Tarpit," was set up in July 1, 1976, under a $450,000 federal grant. The money was used to set up phony store fronts, apartments and warehouses equipped with microphones and cameras to get evidence against criminal customers.

Thirty three FBI agents and sheriff's deputies posed as underworld "fences" to purchase stolen cars, jewelry, guns, liquor, airline tickets, movies, painted lead bars passed off as platinum, drugs and other property.

"This is the most significant undercover law enforcement operation in the history of the United States," said Ted Gunderson, special agent in charge of the FBI's Los Angeles office.

Authorities said the 46 other "stings" conducted across the nation netted $74 million in stolen property and the arrest of 2 top organized crime figures.

The Los Angeles operation was hailed as the most successful, boosting the national program to $116 million in recovered stolen property and contraband.

Harry Golden, LEAA director of enforcement, said 95 percent of the defendants were believed to be career criminals, 12 of them organized crime figures from other areas.

Notices

LOST
Women's Seiko watch, Fri., April 7. If found please call 546—9864. Reward $$.

MEET THE YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLAINCE
at a pot luck dinner, to be held at 241 Main St., Northampton at 7 p.m. RSVP and for rides Lee, 586—1891

ROISTER DOISTERS DRAMA SOCIETY (bar and grill) There will be a general membership meeting of the Roister Doisters Drama Society tonight, April 19 at 5:30 in Campus Center 805, to discuss the fall production. New members always welcome.

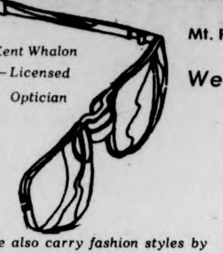
SPEECH
Massachusetts House Minority Leader Frank Hatch will be speaking in the SUB April 25 at 11 a.m.

REGISTER TO VOTE IN CAMPUS CENTER
On the concourse from 10 a.m. on April 25,26,27.

BIKE—ATHON
Ride for the United Way, April 23. 26—mile route around Amherst community. Over 50 prizes; pledge sheets and more info available on the C.C. concourse. April 14, 19,20, 21.

WSYL—FM97.7
Tune in "An Extremely Funny Show". Tonight 7—10. For comedy and trivia. We'll be back to our regular MONDAY NIGHT slot next week. Request line 5—0191.

ISRAELI DANCING
Every Wednesday in the Cape Cod Lounge. Beg. 7:30—8:30, Adv.: 8:30—9:15, Requests 9:15—end. All welcome.



Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

Kent Whalon
—Licensed
Optician

We are Specialists in:
•FASHION EYEWEAR
•CONTACT LENSES
• Emergency Replacements
• Free Adjustments Anytime
• We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

SCHOOL OF ART
LAKE PLACID

A community of serious visual performing artists and students in the Adirondack Mountains of New York.

GOAL: To provide an ideal environment for the development of artistic skills.

MEANS:

1. The School offers a unique and rigorous all-art curriculum based on a structured interdisciplinary study in Painting, Drawing, Ceramics, Photography, Screenprint, Etching and Lithography.
2. Small, demanding, well-oriented classes with a faculty of highly qualified, professional artist/teachers.
3. Twenty-four hour a day access to spacious, well-equipped studios.
4. Access and involvement in the Center for Music, Drama and Art including its professional Acting Company, music and dance programs.
5. The School is located in the Olympic Village of Lake Placid in the midst of 6,000,000 acres of State Forest.

PLACID ART SUMMER

SIX-WEEK WORKSHOPS in Intro to Photo, Fine Art Photo, Stone Lithography, Screenprint, Advanced Printmaking, Drawing Skills, Drawing and Design, Realistic Painting, Abstract Painting, Ceramics. VISITING ARTIST WORKSHOPS: William Larson/Catherine Jansen: Color Concepts/Sculptural Attitudes. Robert Heinecken: Alteration of the Image. Melanie Walker/John Craig: Photo-related Media (Non-Silver and Photo Gravure). Helmmo Kindermann/Jack Sal: Non-Camera Photography (found imagery). CERAMICS: Richard Peeler: Functional Pottery, Production and Marketing. Toshiko Takaezu/Fred Olsen: Clay Workshops/Throwing. Fred Olsen: Kiln Building. PRINTMAKING: Herb Fox/Jack Lemon: Advanced Lithography. Nancy Dahlstrom/Melody Weiler. PAINTING: Jennifer Bartlett: Painting Techniques. John Gallucci: Watercolor.

For information regarding full-time, two-year program, one-year advanced study program, evening programs and Placid Art Summer, write or call LAKE PLACID SCHOOL OF ART, CENTER FOR MUSIC, DRAMA AND ART, SARANAC AVENUE, LAKE PLACID, N.Y. 12946. PHONE (518) 523-2591. BRIAN GORMLEY, DIRECTOR.

COLLEGIAN STAFF MEETING

WHO: All staff from all departments: News, Sports, Op-ed, Below the Salt, Black Affairs, Women's, Business, Graphics, and Photo

WHAT: Topic of discussion will be Women's pages in the Collegian

WHERE: Campus Center Rooms 174-176

WHEN: 7:30 p.m.

All staff are urged to attend

House approves bottle bill

BOSTON [UPI] — The Massachusetts House yesterday gave near final approval to a bill which would impose five and 10 cent deposits on soft drink and beer containers.

The measure, which must still be acted upon by the Senate, was approved on a 119-109 roll call vote after two and a half hours of debate in which opponents attempted to attach several amendments which would have weakened the bill.

The effective date of the bill would be Oct. 1, 1979, three months before similar legislation enacted this year would go into effect in Connecticut.

In passing the bill yesterday the House adopted an amendment that would provide retraining of workers who lose their jobs because of enactment of the the so-called bottle bill. The amendment would guarantee economically dislocated workers full pay and fringe benefits for three years during the retraining period.

The amendment, proposed by Rep. Louis P. Bertonazzi, D-Milford, came at the end of parliamentary maneuvering that saw the defeat of several other attempts to weaken support for the bill.

Earlier yesterday the House defeated, 115-112, a proposal that would have given state money to bottling and related industries for 75 percent of their losses incurred as a result of enactment of the bill.

Another amendment that would have given adversely affected industries half of the money they spend to retool their factories to conform to the terms of the bill was defeated by a 103-122 margin.

Opponents predicted the bill would mean the loss of one thousand or more bottling industry jobs. But supporters said it would result in a net increase in jobs. They also said it would mean significant reductions in litter and savings in energy.

In addition to requiring deposits on bottles and cans, the bill calls for a ban on plastic rings and other non-biodegradable devices used to package beverage containers.

Proponents of the bill noted that enactment of the bill would make Massachusetts the fourth New England state to adopt bottle legislation. Similar measures are in effect in Vermont and Maine, with the effective date of the New Connecticut law scheduled for Jan. 1, 1980.

Lobbyists for the nationwide bottling and brewing industries view Massachusetts as a key state in their battle to prevent the spread of beverage container deposit legislation. Environmentalists have conducted a major campaign for the Massachusetts bill. They see it as an important step toward their goal of national bottle legislation.

Outside New England, only Oregon and Michigan have bottle bills.

The Massachusetts bill won preliminary approval in the House last wek following several hours of emotional debate. Yesterday was the first time the House has ever passed a bottle bill and sent it to the Senate.

A bottle bill was defeated a few years ago in the Senate. Massachusetts voters defeated a bottle bill referendum by only 20,000 votes out of 2.5 million cast in a 1976 statewide election.

NE Telephone plans to charge for info calls

BOSTON (AP) — Claiming it can save up to $35 million a year in New England, the telephone company for the first time in Massachusetts plans to put a price on "information" calls.

Massachusetts customers will get three free calls to information a month and will be charged 20 cents per call for all others they make in search of forgotten or unknown numbers, according to William C. Mercer, president of New England Telephone & Telegraph. Mercer outlined the scheme before the company's annual meeting yesterday.

Mercer said the company plans to ask state approval of the scheme later this year.

It already is in effect in Vermont, a request is pending in Rhode Island, the company is in the Maine Supreme Court battling state insistence on granting ten free information calls. No action is planned yet for New Hampshire.

"Eighty percent of calls to directory assistance are made by 20 percent of customers," said Mercer.

On the commercial side, credit companies tracking down applicants are big information users, he said; at home, it's the kids.

"The young people today don't believe it is the 'In' thing to look up a number in the telephone directory," said Mercer.

Charging for information calls is part of an examination of costs that also may result eventually in more than doubling local unlimited service rates, said Mercer.

Mercer linked higher local rates with the fact the phone company all across the country faces competition in virtually every other sector of its business. It will have to lower prices to meet the competition, but will seek increases in local service in which it has a monopoly, he said.

Soviet forced to immigrate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Soviet war hero Pyotr Grigorenko, stripped of his citizenship while in America to undergo surgery, said yesterday he was now "a man without a country" and tearfully appealed to President Carter for refuge in the United States.

Grigorenko, 70, a Red Army general who was twice wounded in World War II but later reduced to private for his human rights activities, handed in his petition for political asylum at the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in New York.

"I became an immigrant against my will," Grigorenko said, showing reporters the decree signed by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev that deprived him of his Soviet citizenship for "behavior that has damaged the prestige of the Soviet Union."

"I don't think the American people will be offended if I say I could never forget my homeland. I could never forget the suffering of my native Ukraine and the suffering of all the other nations of the U.S.S.R."

He said he hoped the world would not forget "the sufferings of my closest friends, the Crimean Tatars, who live under the constant threat of true ethnocide."

During World War II, Russian dictator Josef Stalin deported thousands of Crimean Tatars to Siberia, charging them with collaboration with the Nazi invaders. It was principally Grigorenko's efforts to have the Tatars returned to their Crimean homeland which earned him the disfavor of the Soviet authorities.

The much-decorated Grigorenko spent several years in psychiatric clinics in the Soviet Union because of his dissident activities.

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE, INC.
all make car and truck transmissions
Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged
236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

Announcing a new shipment of
Leather Jackets
If first quality, selling elsewhere at $100 - $175
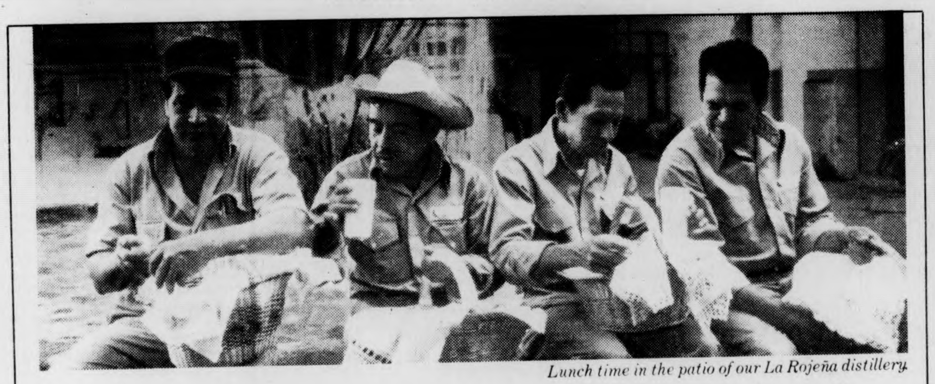
Faces Price: $48.50
Excellent Condition
FACES
Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.



Lunch time in the patio of our La Rojeña distillery.

When our workers sit down to lunch they sit down to a tradition.
When they make Cuervo Gold it's the same.

Every day at just about eleven the wives from Tequila arrive at the Cuervo distillery bearing their husbands' lunches.

Lunches that have been lovingly prepared in the same proud manner since men first began working here in 1795.

It is this same pride in a job well-done that makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Now Showing At Two Area Theatres, Ends Tuesday
"A WORK OF REMARKABLE QUALITY, UNPRETENTIOUS AND MEMORABLE."
BLACK AND WHITE IN COLOR
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
PG
The AMHERST Cinema
Eves. 7:15 and 9:00
Mat. Sat/Sun 5:30
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in northampton
Eves. 7:15 and 9:00

CHINA AFTER MAO
a socialist analysis
DON GUREWITZ
Boston organizer of the socialist workers party
THUR., APRIL 20
8:00 pm
168 cc
umass
sponsored by:
u. mass. young socialist alliance

from our perspective

Bear with us

The Collegian is embarking on a new production process which means many things for the newspaper that we thought the students should know.

Starting this week, the Collegian will be doing all the paste up and typesetting, making the galleys ready for our printer to engrave and print. This is called camera ready.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

With the old system of production, the Collegian would lay out space for stories on mark up pages, then send the typewritten copy to the printer in Ware, Mass. The printer would typeset the copy, paste it up on galley sheets, and have it engraved on an offset plate which would go into the printing press to produce the final copy of the Collegian that comes out [ideally] at 9 a.m.

This means many things for the student community. For one, the Collegian budget will be less a burden on SATF money beacause doing our own paste up saves money. It also means that the Collegian will be offering a greater variety of learning experiences for students in the field of graphic design and paste up.

Unfortunately, it also means that there will be problems for a few weeks until we get used to the new system. As this week's copy will attest, there are problems with making sure that thingsget in without too many spelling mistakes, and that things get in with the right headlines and the right headline typeface.

With any luck, though, we'll be able to work out the bugs that any new system entails, and produce a good Collegian. We ask that you bear with us until that time.

All unsigned editorials are the opinion of the majority of the Board of Editors.

Letters

Would-be cartoonist corrected

To the Editor:

Regarding Mr. Joseph Carroll's recent ramblings in the comic strip situation in the Collegian, I wish to set a few of the opinions straight.

1] Mr. Carroll refers to 50 "Deserving applicants." In fact, there were about half that many who applied, and very few of them rated the description "deserving." Most of the strips I received were pitiful attempts at either art, comedy, or both. My colleagues at the Collegian with whom I shared these entries will echo my feelings. Frankly, I was surprised that people had the intestinal fortitude to sign their names to them, in any instances.

2] Mr. Carroll, like most of the others, suffers from the delusion that he is the next coming of Garry Trudeau. While Carroll's strip was not one of the pitiful ones, it was superior to very few.

3] Like the others, Carroll also finds it necessary to dump on the strips ccurrently in the paper. The reason they are in there, and [in some cases] have been there for so long, is that nobody has come up with anything better. Apparently cartoonists need to boost their own egos by criticizing the work of others. That is dangerous for someone of Carroll's "talents."

4] The fact that Mark Rollins gave me six weeks worth of strips did influence my decision. It showed he had some direction, and that he wouldn't die out in a week. As for the assertion that I admitted that Carroll's work was superior th Rollin's, I may have said that— but only to pacify Carroll's immature rantings. Rollins' work is far superior.

While it may not always succeed, the Collegian always attempts to use material of the highest quality. A group of cartoonists much more talented than Carroll come along, then perhaps more space should be found for them. Until then, I agree with my successor that the current space is more than adequate.

Bob Higgins
Ex-Managing Editor

More to life than money

To the Editor:

Bob Melia's article "Clarifying the Boycott" states clearly that there is something more than economic justice important as it is, that is needed. The system he mentions has shackled man in his adventure through life. Many have wrestled with its problems in the past. St. James, in showing man how to live, called this system the 'world' from which he warned people from being spotted. This warning seems to have been forgotten by those who should be shouting it from the hilltops.

John Q. Adams in his message to congress announcing "that the great object of the institution of civil government is the improvement of those who are partners to the social compact" wished to create a United States that would be free from ignorance and poverty. Others thought otherwise. Adams failed in this plan and the forces for quick profit soon put the country into a financial panic. Brooks Adams afterwards writes: "The test had been crucial. Democracy had failed to justify itself. Man alone, unaided by a supernatural power, could not resist the pressure of self-interest and greed."

Keep it up Bob; we all need more than material wealth. We all need the understanding of what we should be, before our self-wills bring us all to defeat.

Henry Bubar

Students hurt themselves

To the Editor,

Recently, I have been noticing articles in the Collegian letters to the editor proclaiming the occupation of Whitmore a great victory. It was not; the students have only hurt themselves.

For the past four years state schools have been in tight financial straits. Budgetary cuts by the legislature have forced the University to also cut back on services. But where do you cut? Do you want to lay off physical plant employees? Do you cut instructors? Do you limit incoming students? The choice seems to be obvious; the university, being an educational institution, the last thing to be cut should be educational personnel and materials. What are cut are the extraneous services such as dormatory maintenance.

Now come back to the present. The state is now in better economic conditions. The state has money to spend on higher education and UMass. This being so, the students could mot have chosen a worse time to demonstrate. The state legislature is in the process of designing a new budget, they are deciding whether more funds should be spent on higher education or some other state agencies such as the welfare department. UMass is merely another state agency competing for more funds.

But along comes the occupation of Whitmore, attracting a lot of media attention and broadcasting a very bad image of UMass. Vying for an increased budget, the universtiy administration had been painting, through a public-relations, lobbying effort, a picture of how important UMass is and how beneficial it is to Massachusetts. The students in their occupation have smeared this picture with an image of dissatisfied students.

Now what do those legislators in Boston see; how are they impressed? Unfortunatly they did not see a need for more money for dorm repairs as those occupants would have wished, that was smothered by the other so-called issues. What legislators did perceive from the media coverage was an image of dissatisfied, radical students. This image is not one to inspire the benevolence of a somewhat conservative legislature. It did not create a favorable atmosphere for the requesting of more funds. This creation of a favorable image is simply part of the political nature of the university-state relationship. It is not a question of how the legislature should have viewed the occupation but how they did view it. This unfavorable atmosphere has hurt the chances of a larger budgetary increase and in turn, hurt the students.

Name witheld by request

Letters Policy

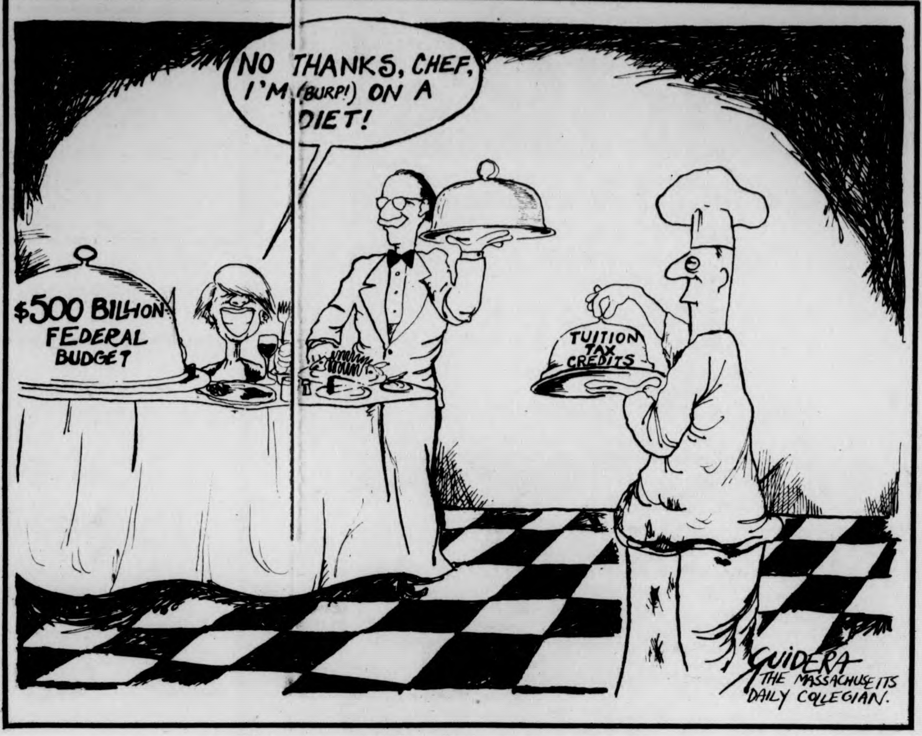
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters fo a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



NO THANKS, CHEF, I'M (BURP!) ON A DIET!
$500 BILLION FEDERAL BUDGET
TUITION TAX CREDITS
GUIDERA THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN.

Speech is power

julie melrose

In introducing Adrienne Rich at a poetry reading last Friday night, Women's Studies instructor Janice Raymond pointed out that the relationship between speechlessness and powerlessness has long been recognized. For a person or group to have the ability to communicate ideas to others is for them to have power.

It is for this reason that the "powers that be" put so much time and energy into making sure that groups calling for social and political change do not have access to the mass media. Such access by these groups poses a realistic threat to the status quo.

The media often become battlegrounds for the struggles of political groups who recognize the significance of media power. This is what happened last Wednesday night when close to 100 people occupied the Collegian office in support of the Women's staff's demands for separate pages and editorial control.

At face value, it might seem that the struggle was truly only one of how space in a particular publication was to be allocated. In fact, that was only the material form of the real struggle: the struggle of women on campus to gain "speech" and hence power.

In the past, women have been silenced in many different ways. They have been kept in isolation in the home, out of the public sphere. They have been tranquilized, institutionalized and lobotomized. They've been told that intellect or public expression in a women is "unfeminine". But mostly, they've simply been ignored,

If a woman does express her views in a public way, her voice usually falls on deaf ears. To communicate involves a receiver as well as a message—sender. If the woman manages to express her ideas but those ideas are not "received", the process of communication remains incomplete and the woman remains powerless.

The traditional defense for not listening to women has been to say that they have nothing of value to express. But women, themselves, are finally recognizing the value of their own and each others' words.

Women are learning to speak without waiting for men to tell them they have something important to say. And they are learning to really listen to what other women have to say, which completes the communication process and creates both "speech" and power.

With this new potential for communication between women, it is essential that women have places in which to address each other in a public way. The idea for "women's pages" in the Collegian was created in the hope that those pages might become such a forum for women.

Women need space to speak to each other, address those concerns that they have identified as high-priority, incite their own riots, create their own visions of the future. Those communications will give them the power they need to gain control over their own lives.

The Collegian staff will be meeting this Thursday to discuss the situation of women's news in the paper. Some staff members, dissatisfied with the results of last Wednesday's occupation, have called a staff meeting in order to ask the Board of Editors to reconsider their decision to create Women's pages.

I believe such an attempt is being made because some people recognized the threat of women having speech and power. It is true that "women's pages" are likely to have some effect on the people who read them. By keeping women on campus speechless, the threat of such effects does not loom large, although it should be known that women will find other ways of reaching each other; they always have.

I hope the women on this campus will recognize the significance of their new-found speech and power and protect it against those who would render them silent again. I hope that they will beleive in the value of what thay have to say to each other enough to fight to maintain a space in which to say it. I hope that "suffer and be still" will very soon cease to be the rule for women, at UMass and everywhere

JULIE MELROSE is the Collegian's Women's Editor

Considering the human factor

By PETER COX

It is unfortunate the Professor Noam Chomsky, in his lecture last week "Human Rights and American Foreign Policy: focus Latin America," used human rights as part of his theme. For if the professor's intention was to use human rights as his point of focus in castigating American imperialism and condemning the evils of capitalism, then he was a tremendous success. Conversely if his intention was not only to enlighten his audience on the issue of human rights, but to transcend ideologies and political persuasions in order to understand what are human rights and how best to secure them, then he was a miserable failure.

Certainly Prof. Chomsky was correct in his analysis that American imperialism in Latin America is a factor, a very big factor, in the poverty, the hunger, and the repressiveness of the governments in that region of the world. One could readily agree with Prof. Chomsky that the Carter Administration is being hypocritical in its human rights campaign if it does not address the issue of American imperialism and our exploitation of the world's resources and people. And Prof. chomsky calling for a reassessment of our national goals, in that American affluence at the expense of world proverty and survival can no longer be our guiding principal, merits praise.

Yet one expected much more from such a distinguished lecturer as Prof. Chomsky. Perhaps he underestimated the political awareness of his audience, but did he truly feel it necessary to expound on the evils of American capitalism, on the devious intrigues of the CIA, on the hypocricy of our political leaders, and the influence and bias of the media? Was his audience so ill informed that it needed an hour and a half lecture on the faults of our society and economic system, when such faults are repeatedly exposed, analyzed and criticized to oblivion by any number of critics? What we expected, or at least this author did, was some depth, some knowledge this man might have that he could share with us. Whjwhqe got instead was an ideological ball game, where his side tried to score the most points, where each issue [human rights in this instance] is turned into rhetoric for the sake of political righteousness, where truth is garbled.

Human rights is a profound issue. It entails two basic elements that are often in conflict. One element is the individual; his freedom, dignity, and the value of his life. The other element is the community; the necessity of humanity to physically survive. Many societies, notably socialist and third world nations have oped to repress individual rights for the sake of community survival. Population and food production crises often necessitate these repressive actions.

This conflict is becoming one of monumental stature due to the pressures that have engendered it. And the conflict is not one of ideologies and politics in the sense that the dispute is between theoretical arguments alone, rahter it is a conflict of tension between individual survival and community survival.

To these complex questions and issues that has as its common denominator the survival of humanity, no human questions have been posed, no human answers have been offered. Instead we are offered ideology, the barrel of a gun, the simple solutions, the badges of Marxism, conservatism, liberalism, and the bullshit. Such is the like of Professor Chomsky.

Both sides are guilty

by SALLY REES

Yitzak Santis, a Collegian commentator and a blind supporter of Israel and the Begin government, has got some nerve to talk about the crimes of the Palestine LIBERATION Organization (PLO). I and the other members of the Young Socijalist Alliance are opposed to terrorism by any group on the right or the left. Btu as the old saying goes "two wrongs don't make a right". And in this case Israel is the perpetrator of the far greater wrong.

Israel has perpetrated mass terrorist activities; Begin, the head of the Israeli government, is in fact a self proclaimed terrorist. Among Begin's more glorious feats in his early days was the bombing of the Jerusalem King David Hotel; where 91 men and women were killed; another feat was the razing of Deir Yassin where 250 Arab men, women and children were massacred. And Israel today carries on in his footsteps with their latest attack on Southern Lebanon; where 1168 humans were murdered; 265,000 were made homeless, with no means to support themselves now. One thousand one hundred and sixty-eight people dead in less than a week and Santis points the finger at the victims. Begin and the Israeli government are attempting to commit genocide of the Palestinians. And what of the Israeli governments concern for civilians. There is no concern if they are Lebanese civilians. A glimpse of the horror unleashed by the Begin government is given in the dispatch from Beirut in the March 16th New kYork Daily News "Despite Israeli claims that they sought only military targets, many reporters reaching Beirut said that civilian centers, including hospitals in Damour were hit.

Dr. (Fahti) Arafat pointed to bleeding women and white sacks containing the bodies of two children.

Even Pope Paul VI was moved by the brutality of the Israeli attack to protest. Civilians, innocent people, murdered in the name of ending terrorism. Ouzai, a refugee camp, was bombed by six Israeli planes. What is Ouzai? The New York Daily News, March 17th, described Ouzai, and showed what Begin means when he calls a refugee camp a terrorist base. "Ouzai, is not a Palestinian fortress, complete with drill fields, massed tanks, and elaborate barricades." Pete Hamill reported, "It is a neighborhood within the city limits of Beirut, made of wood and brick houses. The houses climb a hill, and the Israeli planes had smashed away several blocks of buildings in the center of the slope. From the road, it was obvious that any pilot that bombed that neighborhood had to know that some innocent people would die."

Israel's government is an imperialist government; i.e. they, for economic reasons, are extending and expanding the state of Israel. Israel is now seven times the size of when it was established in 1948. Israel continues to expand. To take over land and build settlements on them. Settlements that they know will be attacked. Because they are a scar, an ever present stabbing pain for the people who had to flee the land that they are built on. And that benefits the Israeli government and the U.S. government, because it gives the Israeli government the perfect excuse to keep on expanding. (To prevent terrorist attacks on these settlements, of course.) In an interview with the New York Times, March 23rd, Israeli Chief of Staff Lieut. Gen. Mardechar Gur confirmed that the invasion (of Lebanon) was planned well in advance: "when pressed by questions, the general acknowledged that contingency plans for the invasion of Lebanon had been made before the March 11 Palestinian terrorist attack ... saying that a good army always has "lots of options" ...

The faces of imperialism is the same the world over. Grabbing land and resources and slaughtering thousands of people in the process. Using any and all excuses for their actions. There is no justification for what Israel is doing. The Young Socialist Alliance is not alone in our belief that there is no possible explanation for the latest Israeli terrorism. Israeli citizens, 45,000 of them, with much more support, demonstrated in Tel Aviv, April 1st. They protested Israel's actions, and Begin's policies of expansion at all costs. The demands were for "Peace Now" and a return of territories occupied by Israel after the 1967 war. Kapeliouk, a correspondent for the Paris daily, Le Monde, described how the protest came about. "Among the leaders of this new movement are the 'flower' of Israeli youth. Students at the University of Jerusalem, they were for the most part officers in elite units, during their military service and were, in some cases, awarded medals after the 1973 war. Today they believe that the great hope evoked by the visit of President Sadat has been lost by the refusal to make necessary territorial concessions.

In their letter to Mr. begin, they wrote, "We are perplexed by a government that prefers a Greater Israel (i.e., an Israel that would stretch to its 'biblical borders') to peace. We urge you to take the road to peace ... The settlements do not justify the horrors of a new war."

We in the Young Socialist Alliance want peace, a lasting peace, for the Israeli citizens and for the Jewish peoples of this world. Support of aggressive, imperialist, countries won't bring peace. Stop collecting money for bloodshed and start warking for a democratic, nonreligious state where Jewish people and Palestinians can live together — in peace.

Sally Rees is a member of the Amherst Young Socialist Alliance.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; [illegible] P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press international. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Letters

Spring Concert 'info' corrected

To the Editor:

On Friday, April 14, the Collegian printed on its letters page a letter entitled "Missing info on Spring Concert". It was a letter obviously intended to kindle flames of antagonism and mistrust around the upcoming "Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival".

It is somewhat frightening that the Collegian should print such a pompous collection of misinformation without taking the time to certify at least the monetary reports it contained. I believe in freedom of the press, but I also believe in responsibility of the press.

To begin with Mr. Traugott's less than inspiring letter reports that "so far the concert is scheduled to lose at least $40,000." This is simply ridiculous! This is the first year that the student senate will be sponsoring a concert in the stadium that even has a chance of breaking even, as this is the first y ear that tickets will be sold to the outside.

Mr. Traugott then alledges "horrendous mismangement" in regards to the talent booking. The form of these accusations reflect an almost militant ignorance. On the one hand we are presented with a cost break—down of the contracted talent which is completely inaccurate. We are then forced to suffer through Mr. Traugott's personal assessment of "the second—rate acts scheduled to appear". If Mr. Traugott would be willing to remove his cultural blinders for just one moment he would be able to see that the talent acquired for the "Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival" maintains an aggregate following of millions the world over. If these names are not household ones here in America as they are, for instance, across most of Europe and in Japan, it is because the American media and recording agencies refuse to spend sufficient energy promoting Black cultural heroes.

I would like to close by saying that the "Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival" was never meant to replace the "Spring Concert." The goals and rationale for this affair diverge greatly from those of the "Spring Concert". One of these goals is to educate, to begin to deal with the many misconceptions and non—conceptions of Black American music. I hope the student population will take advantage of this effort and respond enthusiastically on May 6.

Kwaku Gyata

Let's turn out for The Crusaders

To The Editor:

In the midst of this controversy over the Black American Music Festival, I feel many people forget that there will be quality music played which should not go unappreciated.

In particular, my congratuwations go to the Black American Music Festival Committee for bringing The Crusaders, formerly ,'Jazz" Crusaders, to perform for the Duke Ellington Spring Music Festival. The Crusaders are relatively unheralded oc thz east coast, but the group is composed of some of the finest jazz musicians in America. Group members Wilton Felder (saxes and bass), Joe Sample (keyboards), and "Stix' Hooper on drums, have played together on since the beginning of the original "Jazz" Crusaders. Joining the trio on guitar have been such talents as Larry Coryell and Johnny Rodgers.

Don't let these unfamiliar names deceive you! This group is superb. Let's turn out and give The Crusaders areceptive welcome on May 6th. . . . . Doug Simmons

'Shoplifters pay enough already'

To the Editor:

I am entreating the editors of the Collegian to modify the policy concerning the reporting of court procedures involving shoplifting here at UMass. In particular, I object to the listing of offenders' names, their addresses, and their punishments.

This practice is grossly unfair to students who have adequately paid for their usually impulsive mistake, through court and legal fees [not to mention a permanently tarnished legal record.] Apparently the editors of the Collegian do not agree with me on this matter. By printing such articles as Police Beat [April 10, 1978] the Collegian perpetuates the moralistic journalism characteristic of a small—town, worthless tabloid.

I certainly do not condone shoplifting or any other crime in any way. However, I do feel that these people pay adequately for a crime that is, at many times, tempting to us all. Please, please discontue this humiliating, tattle—tale journalism. I, for one, would much rather read about the developments concerning the Spring Concert, or a good record review. Thank you.

Karen Lindquist

The Undergraduate Student Government Association Electoral Convention will reconvene tonight at 7:00 pm in the Hatch.

An Evening of Entertainment at:

Charlie's

Presenting:
This Wednesday evening,
April 19
NO COVER CHARGE
The Live Sounds of
RAINTREE
The Best of Country-Bluegrass
(old & new) music
1 Pray St., Amherst, 549-5403

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY Miles From Northampton Miles From Amherst

OPEN: MON.-FRI. 9:30 to 5:30 p.m., SAT. 9:30 to 3 p.m.

TIRES

CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.

MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.

SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

SPRING INSPECTION
SPECIALS

FIRESTONE, B.F. GOODRICH, GOODYEAR
LEE, ARMSTRONG, ZENITH, and many more first quality

BIASPLY - 4-PLY POLYESTER

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 600x12 | Lee Ltr. Bk. | 19 95 |
| 615x13 | Lee Ltr. Wht. | 21 95 |
| A78x13 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 16 95 |
| B78x13 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 20 95 |
| C78x14 | General White | 21.95 |
| D78x14 | Fire. Dlc. Bk. | 22.95 |
| E78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 23.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 24.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Pe. Bk. | 25.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 27.95 |
| 560x15 | Goodyear Bk. | 19.95 |
| 600x15 | Pirelli Bk. | 23.95 |
| 685x15 | Fire. M/Sport | 26.95 |
| G78x15 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 25.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire. Pe. Bk. | 27.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire. Pe. Wht. | 32.95 |

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX.

BIAS PLY - FIBERGLASS BELTED

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| A78-13 | Lee Wht. | 25.95 |
| B78x13 | Fire. Wht. | 26 95 |
| C78x13 | Cust. Wht. | 26.95 |
| C78x14 | Fire. SRB Wht. | 29.95 |
| E78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 27 95 |
| E78x14 | B.F.G. Wht. Blem | 26.95 |
| F78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Fire. SRB Bk. | 31.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 36.95 |
| G78x15 | B.F.G. Bk. Blem. | 28.95 |
| G78x15 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 31.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire. SRB Blk. | 34.95 |
| H78x15 | Prowler Wht. | 35.95 |
| J78x15 | Fire. SRB. Wht. | 37.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire. SRB. Bk. | 36.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire SRB RWL 6P | 39.95 |

WHITEWALLS $2.00 MORE PER TIRE.

RADIALS

MICHELIN, GENERAL, B.F. GOODRICH, DUNLOP, CONTINENTAL, LEE, FIRESTONE, ARMSTRONG, AND MANY MORE. ALL AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

BFGoodrich

BELTED T/A 70/60

Bold raised white letters and 70/60-series profile give the Belted T/A an aggressive performance appearance mileage and stability of polyester/glass construction wide nine rib tread for handling and traction

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. Tax and Sales Tax.

T/A
PERFORMANCE TIRES

| SIZE | SALE PRICE | F.E. TAX | RIM WIDTH | TREAD WIDTH |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| F60x14 | 40.00 | 2.85 | 6-9" | 8" |
| G60x14 | 42.00 | 3.04 | 6-9" | 8½" |
| L60x14 | 46.00 | 3.57 | 7-10" | 9½" |
| G60x15 | 43.00 | 3.07 | 6-9" | 8¼" |
| L60x15 | 48.00 | 3.69 | 7-10" | 9½" |
| B70x13 | 31.00 | 2.06 | 5-6½" | 6" |
| E70x14 | 35.00 | 2.44 | 5½-7" | 6" |
| F70x14 | 36.00 | 2.57 | 5½-7" | 6½" |
| G70x14 | 37.00 | 2.73 | 6-8" | 6¾" |
| G70x15 | 38.00 | 2.80 | 5½-8" | 6¾" |
| H70x15 | 42.00 | 2.99 | 6-8" | 7" |

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY Cash and Carry or Bank Americard (VISA) Master Charge
OPEN Mon.-Fri. 9:30 to 5:30 p.m. SAT 9:30-3 p.m.
586-2544

Phi Mu Delta
and
Sigma Phi Epsilon

present

BUSCH FEST

Saturday, April 22
1 p.m. - 10 p.m.

Featuring:

Albatross/P.F. and the Flyers

BUSCH BEER 3/$1
150 kegs—hot dogs

Fraternity/Sorority Park
East Pleasant St.
On Orchard Hill Bus Route

Transit buses circling campus
Rain date: Sunday, April 23

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo w/ AM/FM, 8-tr., turntable, speakers, great condition, $75 or BO, 549-3814, eves.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

AUTO FOR SALE

67 VW Fastback, just tuned, good body, good engine, Michelin radials. Call after 7 p.m., 549-5650, asking $500.

1972 MGB conv., rebuilt eng. and new clutch, batteries, muffler and 4 good radials. Needs shocks and some body work, $1100 or best offer. Shrewsbury, (617) 842-6540, call after 5 p.m.

1973 VW bug, car has been well kept, runs well, body good, AM-FM-Pioneer stereo, $1700, call 546-5000, early a.m.

68 Dodge Dart, dependable slant 6, exc. cond., body fair, $450 or best. 546-6286.

We buy and sell cars for cash. 253-5384.

70 VW bug. Good engine, new muffler, batteries. Tapedeck. Body needs repair. $300 or BO. 549-3541, evenings.

68 Mustang V8, std., good condition, $550, can be seen on weekends, call 546-4182.

Classic 60 Caddy, no work needed, 70,000 orig. mi., new brakes & battery, see 665-4234.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

64 Falcon sedan, $200 or BO. 549-6613.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

FOR RENT

Own rm., Cliffside, for May, $75, can renew lease if want, 6/1/78, 1 bd. apt., 665-3412.

For rent—Brittany Manor, June 1-Aug. 31, 2 large bdrms., fully furnished, AC, $225 mo. or best offer, 253-5529.

1 bed. Avail. 6/1, Puffton, 549-5939 p.m.

Hyannis—whole summer near beach and town cottages, apts., rooms with frig. & kit., priv., 2-in rm., reas., 1-617-775-8615.

Rooms: two upstairs rooms in family household, 4 miles from UMass. Quiet, rural setting. No children, no pets. One person $110, two persons $85 each. Includes utilities. Nites, 256-0546.

FOR SALE

Tarantula—the world's most adorable pet. Complete with cage, $15, call 6-9048.

Akai G360 7½" open reel deck, with auto-reverse. $200. Call Mark, 1-698-2278.

Wilson T2000, $25 or best offer, 4½L strung with gut, 6-4748.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

HELP WANTED

Internship—Hampshire Franklin Association for Mental Health. Assist counselor Halfway House, serving clients from State Hospital in Northampton and Greenfield. Experience/training in mental health. Summer/fall internships are available. Volunteer: 3 mo.-40 hr. wk. Paid: 6 mo.-40 hr. wk. $25.00-$50.00 wk. Office of Internships, 545-0727 or HFAFMH, 584-7329.

Orchard Hill Women's Center is now accepting applications for co-coordinators for Fall '78. Applications are available in 112 Field House. Due April 21.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

Student supervisor positions are available at Belchertown t-School—entails implementation and supervision of programs and volunteers—one year commitments (July-May)—must be full-time college student—for info, call Cindy A. Rogers, 323-6311. BSS is an equal opportunity employer.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of convetales for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

LOST

Lost gold woman's watch near CC. Call 6-8293, sentimental value.

Lost calculator—TI SR51-II, lost near or in Whitmore, if found, please call 6-5075.

Lost—set of keys, somewhere in Southwest. If found, please call 546-5360!

Gold ID bracelet, no engraving, lost 4/11, has much sentimental value. If found, please call Margie, 256-6945.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda CB350, exc. cond. Red w/ crash bar, rack, padded backrest, lock & chain and helmet. $600, call Ken, 546-9793.

Honda 550—four, 1974, 14,935 miles, good cond., $1000 or BO, call Neil, 546-6929.

1975 Honda 400F SS, bought new in 77, 4500 mi., perfect condit., sis barpad, ask $950, call 256-2052 or 549-0251.

75 Honda MT250, 4000 miles, good shape, asking $500, will bicker, must sell. If interested, call Dave at 367-9984.

PERSONALS

Underexposed & obscure classics of rock related music are aurally revealed late Sat. nite on WMUA 91.1 FM, 2-6 a.m. by Ze Unknown DJ. Be there!

Rock & bop & pogo with Perry Adler, 2-5:30 p.m., Mon. afternoon, WMUA 91.1 FM, and rock out & space out with Lisa Wait, Wed. afternoon, 2-5:30, WMUA 91.1 FM.

Last year's winner of the Cosmic Wimpout tournament learned to play that day. Tourn. Thurs. in the Bluewall. Prizes!

Winner of the Wimpout tournament gets $100. Many other prizes. Anyone can win. Thurs. in the Bluewall. Start after 2 p.m.

Whoever stole my blue bag from B'wall, please return Fluid Mechanics notes.

Cosmic Wimpout lessons today in the Campus Center. Ask the people wearing Cosmic Wimpout T-shirts. Takes 4 minutes.

The 3rd Annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament is today—in the Bluewall. Start after 2:00. 1st prize is $100! Many other prizes. Anyone can win!!

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Amherst votes, register to vote in the Campus Center from 10-4 on April 25, 26 and 27. Vote Jonathan Souweine for District Attorney on primary, Sept. 12, plan ahead, register to vote.

Bus to Grateful Dead in Providence. $6 round trip, 41 spaces available. Call Brian, 5-2525 days or John, 6-9667. "They're a band beyond description."

SERVICES

Typing—60 cents/page. Call 549-6655.

Resumes—Professionally prepared to meet individual needs. Included are sample cover letters and our guide to job interviewing. For free details write: New England Resume LTd., Box 443, Essex Sta., Boston, Mass. 02112.

Peugot bicycle now at Pioneer Valley Moped. Also 5 branes of Mopeds. 10-6 Mon.-Sat., 4 Conz Street (behind City Hall), Northampton, 586-1054.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

TO SUBLET

1 bdr. apt., beaut. loc., AC, util. pd., cats OK, avail. 6/1, fall opt. $165/mo., 549-1582.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

1 bdrm. in 3 bdrm. in Puffton, avail. end of finals, rent negotiable, 549-5860.

Own rm. in 3 bdrm. South Meadow apt., 6/1 or earlier. $100/month. 253-7961.

To sublet—1 bdrm. in Riverglade twnhs. apts., many extras, price neg., fall opt. Call Steve, 253-9697.

Large bedroom in Puffton 3 bedroom apt. Woman—June 1 thru Aug. 31. Own bathroom, pool, tennis and laundry facilities. Rent negotiable. Call evenings, 549-6321.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green: townehouse apt., AC, DW, pool, furnished, carpeted, 1½ baths, on busline. 6/1-8/31, $260, util. incl. 546-5080.

Rol. Grn.—avoid waiting lists for next yr. 2 br. apt., avl. June to June—poss. summer sublet, util. incl., 256-8455.

For summer, 2 bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Pufton apt., rent neg., call nites, 549-1338.

2 bdrm. townhouse, Sunderland, on bus route, baths, AC, pool, 6/1-8/31, $200, 665-2242.

Puffton apt. for summer, 1 lg., 1 sm. bedroom, semi-furnished, $207/mo., 549-6413.

3 bedrm. Presidential, avail. 6/1-8/31, w/ option to rent in Sept. ¼ mi. from campus. Bus route, 549-0692.

Sublet: 1 bdrm. apt., June/Aug., $140/mo., util. included, call 549-5425, evenings.

Calling all students—da da da da da—253-3695—da da da da da: Attention!! Summer sublet with fall option: Colonial Village, 2 bedroom apartment, utilities included—negotiable, call 253-3695.

Lrge., fully furn. 2 level 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-9/1, $220/mo.—negotiable. 50 yds. to bus, 2 min. walk to store, air cond., dishwasher. Call 549-6966.

Don't hassle with waiting lists! Brand. apt., 2 bedroom, to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31. Option to lease in fall. Call 549-1680.

6/1-8/31—2/bedroom apt., 7/minute walk to campus, AC, $225—negotiable. Call: 549-6340.

2 br. apt., Col. Vlg., bus, pool, ut. incl., fall opt., $230—neg., avail. 5/28-8/31, 253-2216.

2 lg. bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all qte on bus rt., laundry fac., pool. Available for June, July, August, price negotiable. Rolling Green, 546-9647, Bruce, or 546-9641, Rob.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green apt., furnished. Avail.5/31-8/31. Air cond., etc. 253-3071.

Subletting room in a large fully furnished 2 bdrm. apt.—5/25-8/31—3 blocks frm. Amherst ctr., rent neg., call 253-3165.

Summer sublet, avail. 5/20, 3 bdrm., call 549-0106 or come by 103 Puffton.

1 bdrm. apt. in Puffton, ½ mi. from campus, for 6/1 to 8/31 with option to renew avail. Some furn. call 549-3837.

Room for summer in spacious apartment. Amherst center, opening for one person, kitchen, full bath. $85 per month. Call 253-3014, after 6 p.m.

3 bdrm. Twnehse. Apt., avl. 6/1, close to bus st., Watroba's, laundry. Rent reduced to $250/mo. Partly furnished, opt. to renew lease. Call 549-6820.

To sublet: 3 bedroom Puffton apt.; semi-furnished. Available June 1; rent negot. Call 549-5621.

2 bdrm. Townehouse, w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-1019.

2 bdrm. Brandy., w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-0712.

June 1-Sept. 1—2 bdrm., fully furnished, all util. incl., $200/mo., on rte., Lantern Ct. Apts., call 665-4737, option to renew in Sept.

Summer living in Puffton Vlg., 549-0730.

Puffton apt.—2 bedroom; sublease summer; take over lease Sept. 1. Call after 4 p.m., 549-5868.

Sublet our 2 br. apt. for the summer—the lease is yours in Sept. Negotiable rent for summer. Walk or bus to campus. 549-6152—keep trying!

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

WANTED

Looking for 2 women to share great Cottage in W. Dennis, minutes to beach, $300, for 5/26-9/5, call Nancy at 5-0162.

Quiet female rmmate. for 2 bed. Col. Vil. apt., June-Aug., rent neg., 253-2420, aft. 5 p.m.

Used flute. Call Tobie, 549-5941, eves.

Wanted: one backpack w/ frame and sleeping bag. Cheap. Call Carol, 6-8947.

Woman wanted to share apt. on Cape, 5/24-9/24, w/ 2 women. Call Kim, 549-0630.

F. rmte. for furn. apt., Wash., DC. 6/11-8/31, nr. Gtown. & Metro, call eve., 549-1732.

People to share house on Martha's Vine. June-Sept.; $450/season. Call 256-8460.

4th person needed for W. Yarmouth cottage, Mem.-Labor Day. Good living sit., call us! Kathy, 6-5112, Lou, 6-5117.

WANTED TO RENT

Responsible couple will house/apt. sit June 1-31, care for plants, pets, yard, 253-2131.

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

ARE YOU CONCERNED?

Frank Hatch is the current house minority leader who is running for governor of Mass. Will speak at the SUB on April 25 at 11:00. Frank has saved millions of tax dollars, stopped hit and run bulldozers from paving our wetland. Questions will be welcomed.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

Mountaineering #3.

METHODOLOGY

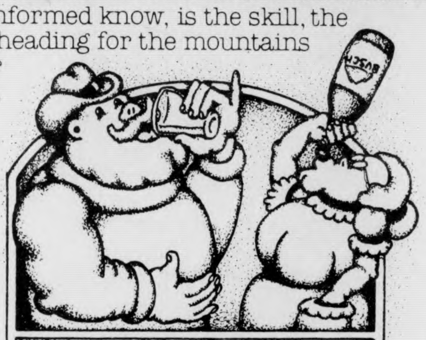
TAVERN
BUSCH BEER
BUSCH

Heading for the mountains
Fig. 1

Mountaineering, as all but the chronically misinformed know, is the skill, the science and the art of drinking Busch Beer. It begins by heading for the mountains (i.e., a quick jaunt to your favorite package emporium or wateringhole) and ends by downing the mountains (i.e., slow slaking swallows of the brew that is Busch).

¶ However, between those two points lies a vast area of personal peccadilloes sometimes called technique and sometimes called methodology (depending on your major). Hence, this ad. ¶ Sipping vs. chugging. Both have their merits, of course. But generally speaking, except for cases of extreme thirst or a leaking glass, sipping is the more prudent practice for serious, sustained mountaineering. ¶ Next, the proper position. Some swear by sitting; others by standing. Suffice it to say that the most successful mountaineers are flexible, so you'll find both sitters and standers. (Except on New Year's Eve, when it's almost impossible to find a sitter.) ¶ Which brings us to additives. Occasionally a neophyte will sprinkle salt in his Busch; others mix in tomato juice; and a few on the radical fringe will even add egg. While these manipulations can't be prohibited (this is, after all, a free country), they are frowned upon. Please be advised that purity is a virtue, and the natural refreshment of Busch is best uncompromised.



Sipping vs. chugging
Fig. 2

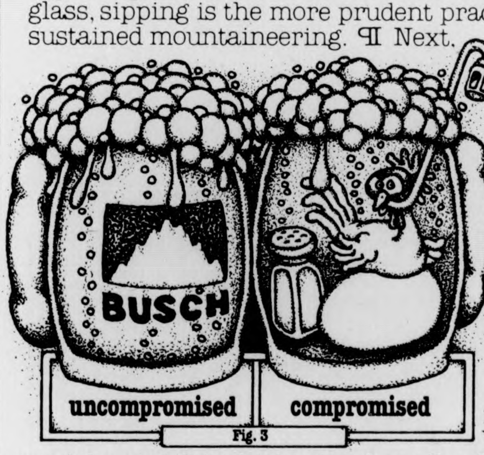


Fig. 3

Standing vs. sitting
Fig. 4

¶ Finally, there's the issue of containers. Good taste dictates a glass be used. But bad planning sometimes prevents that. If you find yourself forced to drink from the can, you should minimize this breach of etiquette. Be formal. Simply let your little finger stick out stiffly (see Fig. 4). Happy Mountaineering!

Don't just reach for a beer. BUSCH® Head for the mountains.

©Anheuser-Busch, Inc. St. Louis, Mo.

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

Sir Walter Scott's most famous novel was Ivanhohoho.
I WONDER IF THAT'S RIGHT...
©1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 4-19
YOU THINK MAYBE I SHOULD ADD ANOTHER "HO"?
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

OK, THOR, GO OUT THERE AND GO FOR THE SEATS!
RIGHT CHIEF
I'M AFRAID WE HAVE A PROBLEM, SIR,...
WHAT'S WRONG?
HE'S SITTING WITH CHARLIE FINLEY.
4-19

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD FLIES AFTER THE GLEBES TO RESCUE BENB!
LAFLER
BUT AFTER WORKING ON HIS BONDS FOR HOURS BENB HAS FREED HIMSELF!
4/19
BENB DELIVERS HIS SUNDAY PUNCH TO A GLEBE GUARD!
BOOM!
WE'RE SAVED!

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

DENNIS AND KRUSTIL LOOK AROUND. THERE ARE NO GUARDS, JUST THE POOL OF WATER.
THERE AREN'T ANY GUARDS, NONE AT ALL.
THEY MUST THINK THE FISH IN THE WATER WILL EAT US
WE CAN'T CROSS WITHOUT A BRIDGE, SO I'LL HAVE TO MAKE ONE.
DENNIS AIMS AT A SECTION OF THE WALL.
THAT PART OF THE WALL MELTS, AND FLOWS INTO THE WATER.
AS IT COOLS DOWN, IT SENDS UP CLOUDS OF STEAM.
THEY NOW HAVE A MAKE-SHIFT BRIDGE, WHICH THEY WILL LET COOL DOWN BEFORE USING HOW ARE WE GONNA FIND OUR STUFF?
LET'S JUST HOPE THEY'RE IN THE SAME PLACE AS MY "ARMOR"
WHY?

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Sarah also said that there are a lot more pregnancy tests done in the spring.
Warm weather, you know, Eleanor.
Or maybe it's the studying.
Ranney 4/19
No, it's knowing whom you'll never have to see again.
Yeah. I hate to admit it, Kate, but yeah.
Don't think it, Ace.
C'mon, Jim, you know better by now.

BACK AGAIN by K

PLEASE DEPOSIT QUARTER
4/19
PLEASE DEPOST QUARTER
KLUNK
DOUT EAT YELLOW PAINT
PLEASE DEPOSIT QUARTER
THANK YOU...

Your Birthday

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19

Born today, you possess varied artistic talent: painting, music, and writing all intrigue you and take your time. You may never be able to make a career from them, but you will always take satisfaction from your involvement in them. Your ability to enjoy without making material profit lets you indulge your inclinations fully in hobbies.

You enjoy all intellectual endeavors, and are good at physical activities, taking great pleasure in sports as a participant and a spectator. You take the greatest pleasure in contact with others, and for this reason you accept all invitations to become involved in joint enterprise.

You tend to participate over-generously in other people's lives. It is important to you that you help those less fortunate than yourself. You will therefore always be engaged in charitable activities. You cannot always give materially, but you never refuse moral support to a good cause.

Also born on this date: Don Adams, actor; Anthony Bliss, executive director of the Metropolitan Opera.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) -- Fondness for life's mysteries leads you down strange paths today. Be careful later.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) -- You love luxury and may have a chance to gain more of it today.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) -- Don't give the impression that you are a spoiled child. Employees may be keeping track.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) -- Mental discipline is important to success with new projects. Further adult education.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) -- You may have to provide another with a statement of your financial situation. Do so.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Reconsider efforts to make ends meet. You may not be making the most of funds.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) -- Take advantage of a present opportunity. There may not be another chance.

SAGITTAR?US(Nov.22-Dec.21) -- Keep correspondence current. Keep friends and family apprised of your situation.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) -- Personal problems and a change of scene keep you from working at your peak.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) -- Cooperate with coworkers, or you may find yourself below superiors' expectations.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) -- Handle personal problems immediately and quietly. Keep the unsavory to yourself.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) -- You may be lonely early today. Make no move you will regret later.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Bank customer
6 Greek goddess
10 Greek commune
14 Deft
15 Convict's quarters
16 Enthusiasm
17 Within the law
18 "I'm of ---- ---- to"
20 Hockey great --- Blake
21 Constantly
23 Not compact
24 Well-grounded
26 Teased
28 Lacking strength
30 Ground swell
31 Rich tapestry
32 Certain timekeepers
36 Poetic contraction
37 Seize as prey
38 Driving area
39 Beaches
42 Reverse
44 Loathed
45 Attractive gals
46 Took it easy
49 Wealthy one
50 Burst forth
51 Prefix for mum or mize
52 Tree
55 Painter's accessory
58 "-----": Puccini work
60 Abstract being
61 Feeling pain
62 WW-II highway
63 Lecherous look
64 Urn
65 Inclines

DOWN

1 Food preservative
2 Exchange premium
3 Reverse order: 2 words
4 Judge of Israel
5 Narrates again
6 Had pangs
7 Father of Regan and Cordelia
8 Letter
9 Man's nickname
10 Lowered in rank
11 "Silas Marner" author
12 Rectory
13 Concluded
19 Adjust precisely
22 Strive for victory
25 Arab garment
26 Back-country: Informal
27 Architect Christopher ----
28 Waller or Minnesota
29 Polluted lake
30 Accumulated money
32 Had thought for 33 Alberta river
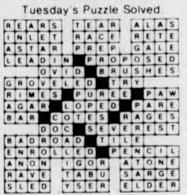
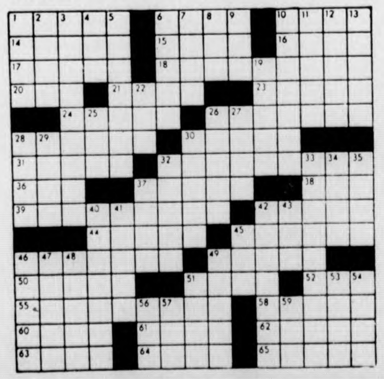
34 Oboe
35 E. Indian weights
37 Kyle ---- NFL star
40 Bargain seeker
41 ----- la vista: Sp. good-bye
42 Of eye sockets
43 --- little, --- late
45 Public edict
46 In reply to your wire: Abbr.
47 Obliterate
48 Coin container
49 Forty- -----
51 Soil with mud
53 Scrutinize
54 Man's name
56 Function
57 Below average
59 Grand --- Opry

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved



REARS TEAR ALAS
INLET RACE RETE
ASTAR PREP GALE
LEADIN PROPOSED
OVID BRUSHES
GROVELED TRY
RIMES PUREE PAW
AGAR LOPED PARE
BAR COTES RAGES
DOC SEVEREST
BADROAD TILE
ENROLLED PENCIL
ANON IGOR ATONE
RAVE TABU SARGE
SLED YSER ELDER



CALVIN Theatre
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310
Academy Award Winner
WOODY ALLEN
DIANE KEATON
"ANNIE HALL" PG
EVES AT 7 & 9, SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 - SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

LARCENY! MYSTERY!
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' CANDLESHOE
DAVID NIVEN HELEN HAYES JODIE FOSTER
STARTS FRIDAY
G
1 MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

STARTS FRIDAY
WOODY ALLEN
DIANE KEATON
"ANNIE HALL"
WINNER OF 4 ACADEMY AWARDS
A nervous romance.
PG
2 MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00

Vanessa Redgrave
Jane Fonda
JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG
3 MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15

the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG
4 MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15) 7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

The rusty nail Inn

APRIL 19
GEORGE T. GREGORY
$2.00

APRIL 24-25
MIDNIGHT SHIFT

APRIL 20
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
$2.00

APRIL 23
RAINTREE
$1.00

COMING WEDNESDAY APRIL 26
BUDDY RICH

FRIDAY and SATURDAY, APRIL 21-22
JAMES MONTGOMERY
and FAT
$4.00

FRIDAY and SATURDAY, APRIL 28-29
TOM RUSH
and ZONKARAZ
$4.00

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER Best Foreign Film
"REMARKABLE AND MEMORABLE." —Judith Crist, Saturday Review
BLACK AND WHITE IN COLOR
PG
EVES 7:15 & 9:00, SAT & SUN 5:30, 7:15 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

EARTH FOODS IS HIRING
—2 positions open
—deadline April 21
Affirmative Action Employer

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
Thursday
LOWENBRAU NITE
65¢ Bottles
Prizes & Gifts
Sunday HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

UMASS
UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL
PRESENTS
ROBERT PALMER

Monday, May 1

Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall, UMass

8 p.m.

Tickets: students $3.50, 4, 4.50
non-students $5.50, 6, 6.50

Tickets on sale April 18

No cans, bottles or smoking in the hall

Tickets available at Fine Arts Center Box Office
and all Ticketron outlets

Bluewall Bar
Bricker Band
Wednesday-Saturday,
April 19-22

Gorillas back at home for three game stand

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

Having spent the last three weekends in motels and hotels, and hours on buses, the UMass lacrosse team is home for a 3-game stand which could not only tell what the remainder of the season will be like, but just how good the team actually is. Brown drops in today for a 3 p.m. contest, before Williams College is here Saturday (2 p.m.) with Hofstra next Wednesday (3 p.m.)

Currently Garber's Gorillas have gotten into a rut; they've lost to three good teams in Cornell, Syracuse, and Rutgers, while smashing three weak opponents, Connecticut, Vermont, and the hated Eagles of Boston College.

Before taking a look at Brown, today's opponent, a quick review of the UMass vs. Rutgers-Boston College weekend.

The defense from Roger Coe to Rich Donovan; from Peter Klement to Billy Coke; from 'Duck' Goldstein to Eric Banhazl (in goal); and those in between, played EXCELLENT! One tends to take for granted the defense and watch for who scores the goals — who got the assists etc. In fact, if it wasn't for the defense, the Rutgers game could've been a lot worse.

It was unfortunate that while the defense was playing so well, the offense was out to lunch: missed ground balls and bad passes stymied any offensive threat. In essence, bad breaks, no luck, and Rutgers' goals — all led to a long afternoon in Piscataway.

Rutgers, in fact was stunned to be ahead 3-0 after the first quarter; but with the momentum on their side, pounded six more goals by the posts and piled up a 9-0 halftime lead. UMass' offense played better in the second half but could never really put a dent in Rutgers' big lead.

Under the lights at BC Monday, the defense continued its job against the Eagles, while the offense broke out of its one-game slump. Tied at 2-2 ten minutes into play, UMass finished the quarter up 4-2, then added five more scores in the second period to take a 9-2 halftime lead. The Minutemen fired in 12 goals in the second half to BC's one, accounting for the final margin of 21-3.

Actually, it could have been much worse: with the UMass shots that were hitting posts — in particular Skip Vosburgh rung two consecutive shots off the post — and Toby Rice hit the crossbar; not to mention some of the shots BC goalies Bob Martin was forced to stop: at the other end both Banhazl and Goldstein made a couple decent saves.

So in come the Brown University Bruins (if it doesn't rain). Last year UMass smoked Brown 18-10. But this is a different year. The UMass offense isn't what it used to be. The team itself still has the potential to be as good as last year, if not better. But they have to put everything together — they have to work for everything they want to achieve; they have to play as a team — and good — to beat a good team. To prove they're good is to pass, shoot, score, and beat a decent team.

The next couple games should tell.

Sports calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Baseball 5 Boston College 2
Softball 9 Westfield State 2 (first game)
Softball 11 Westfield State 6 (second game)
Men's tennis 9 Holy Cross 0
J. V. Baseball 6 Assumption 0 (first game)
J. V. Baseball 13 Assumption 1 (second game)
Men's golf 399 Amerst 389 Dartmouth 404
Women's lacrosse 16 Smith 3
Women's JV. lacrosse 9 Smith 1

TODAY

Baseball vs. SMU (2) home 1:00 p.m.
Men's lacrosse vs. Brown home 3:00 p.m.
Men's J.V. lacrosse vs. Brown home 3:00 p.m.

TOMORROW

Baseball at Fairfield 3:00 p.m.
Softball vs. Springfield home 2:30 p.m.
Women's lacrosse at Williams College 4:00 p.m.
Men's golf vs. Boston College and Holy Cross at Pleasant Valley 1:00 p.m.
JV softball vs Springfield home 2:30 p.m.
JV baseball vs. UConn home 3:00 p.m.
JV women's lacrosse at Williams College 4:00 p.m.

Volleyballers close out season

The UMass volleyball team closed out their first season on a successful note as they went 8-4 last Saturday beating Westfield three games (15-8, 15-4, 15-8), Amherst twice (10-15, 15-9, 15-11), top ranked Middlebury once (15-10, 11-15, 12-15) and the University of New Hampshire twice (3-15, 17-15, 15-6).

The team finished their season at 31-23 and peaked in their performance in their last match, a 15-6 win over UNH.

Both Arnie Roberts and Steve Richter have been selected to represent UMass in the Northern Division New England Collegiate All-Star game at Holyoke High School, April 30.

Linksters finish second

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

It was a frustrating afternoon for the UMASS men's golf team yesterday, as they "Just did not have it together," in the words of coach Ed Vlach, and wound up having to settle for second place behind Amherst College in a triangular match played in perfect weather at Hickory Ridge C.C. in South Amherst.

Amherst College had all five of its scores that counted in the 70's, and finished with a 389 aggregate. The Minutemen, who had an off day on their home course, finished at 399, four strokes ahead of Dartmouth who finished third at 404.

For the Minutemen, the low scorer was team captain Jim McDermott, who had an up and down round, featuring four birdies and two double bogies, and ended up with a 75, tieing him for low score of the day with Jim Collins of Amherst College.

Rounding out the UMass scoring, freshman Steve Channen, playing in his first match for the Minutemen, started off with a triple bogey, but got his game together and wound up with a 77. Chuck Dempsey fired a 79, John Lien and Victor Lahteine shot 81's, Jeff Orr had a disappointing 83, John Czernicki and John Cibrowski fired 85's and Bill Campbell soared to an 86.

Channen's fine round did not figure in the final scoring because he was playing in the ninth position for UMass, and because Dartmouth only had seven people in the match, the tournament became a best five of seven scores affair.

Tomorrow UMass takes on Boston College and Holy Cross in a triangular match at Pleasant Valley C.C. in Sutton.

Are You Sick Of The Dorms?
Check out

ZETA NU......

The casual fraternity, no pledging
Stop by tonite, 9 p.m.

PIZZA AND BEERS
336 No. Pleasant St.
ENTERING BOSTON

MAKE THIS YOUR
Green Mountain Summer

The Vermont State Colleges' Babcock Nature Preserve in Eden, Vermont is offering a special field program with courses in:

FIELD ORNITHOLOGY (June 5-16)
GREEN MOUNTAINS NATURAL HISTORY (June 19-30)
CHEMISTRY OF AQUATIC ECOSYSTEMS (June 19-30)
INTRODUCTION TO AQUATIC PLANTS (August 7-18)
ECOLOGY OF FRESH-WATER INVERTEBRATES (July 3-14)

Cost per course: $175 (Vermont residents $130) plus $100 for room and board. For details and application materials, write: Summer Session Office, Pearl House Johnson State College, Johnson, Vermont 05656.

nobody asked!

He was in his twenties.
So was she.
Both were Catholic, unmarried,
prayerful, creative.
Both cared about people
and cared for them.

How come he never thought
of the priesthood?
How come she never thought
of being a nun?

"No one ever asked me,"
they said.

Is this your story?
No one ever asked you?
Well, we're asking.

Mail Coupon Today! 1·20
Please send information on:
☐ Diocesan Priests ☐ Religious Priests
☐ Brothers ☐ Nuns ☐ Lay Ministries
Name
Address
City State ZIP
VOCATIONS COMMITTEE/SUPREME COUNCIL
KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
New Haven, CT 06507

Netmen take third straight

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

Yesterday was perfect for tennis. Lots of sunshine, warm weather and no wind. And the UMass men's tennis team had a perfect score to go with it — a 9-0 trouncing of Holy Cross. Even UMass' record is a perfect 3-0.

Unfortunately, the tennis played didn't match the day's perfection.

UMass triumphed quickly and easily in the lower singles, but first and second players Alan Green and Ricky Sharton — the "strength" of the team — had to fight to stay in matches against lesser opponents.

Green eventually squeezed past a human backboard named Tom Murray in a 7-5, 5-7, 6-4 marathon match.

Sharton recovered from a lack of concentration, which nearly cost him the first set, and defeated Kevin Koellner, 7-5, 6-2.

"It's sad," said UMass coach Steve Williams, "that we have the talent we do at one and two (singles) and they feel they can slide by."

Harsh words for a coach whose team just clobbered the opposition? Possibly. But it was evident to the small crowd of spectators gathered at the Boyden lower courts that Green and Sharton brought themselves down to the opposition's level of play.

Minuteman captain Steve Heyl came back after being down 4-1 in the second set to defeat Crusader Jim McCann 6-0, 6-4 in the third singles. Heyl was "hitting everything good" at the start, but McCann was determined to even the match in the second Heyl exploited McCann's weak backhand to win the match.

At fourth singles Mark Hutteman made quick work of Holy Cross' Chris Lyons, 6-1, 6-0, Minuteman Keith Hovland didn't take much longer in his triumph over Bob Ditomassi, 6-3, 6-1 in the fifth pairing. Dave Nowak, substituting for an injured Sergio Strepman, cruised to a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Crusader Tom Smith in the sixth watch.

Similarly, UMass swept the doubles: Hutteman and Nowak over Koellner and Lyons, 6-1, 6-2; UMass' John Klein and Mark McGinnis over John Reidy and Peter Londrigen, 6-2, 6-0.

Heyl and Hovlan split sets with Murray and McCann and won in a tie breaker instead of a third set because of darkness, 5-7, 6-1 (5-1).

Green's match with Murray was an exciting three-set cliffhanger, but it seemed that Green was playing with a handicap (overconfidence?).

Green opened the first set blazing serves and slugging ground strokes which immediately put Murray in a retrieving position. But a pattern emerged that lasted the entire match. Green hit the ball with abandon — often past the base line — and made mistakes at net ("Lazy, lazy," muttered Williams after Green mis-hit a volley.).

Meanwhile, Murray returned almost everything Green kept in the court.

Neither player could break the other's serve in the first set until Green, leading 6-5, attacked Murray's serve in the next game to win the set 7-5.

After trading service breaks early in the second set, Green and Murray again forged a stalemate by winning their own serve. With a 5-4 lead, Green had three match points against Murray's serve, but Murray hung tough to even the match at 5-5. He then broke Green's serve and won his own to take the second set 7-5.

Things looked grim for Green in the third set. He was tired and making sloppy shots, while Murray, sensing he was close to a victory no one thought possible, covered the court with tenacity.

But Green gained a 5-4 lead and his serve and volley came alive. He began hitting crisp approach shots deep into the corners and followed them up with solid volleys. He passed a net-bound Murray with a forehand down the line to win the match.

Judy Kennedy led the UMass Minutewomen charge with four goals, as the Gazelles trounced Smith, 16-3. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Women sweep Westfield St. doubleheader

by Beth Collins
Collegian Staff

A team effort put the UMass women's softball squad back on the winning track yesterday, as they traveled to Westfield State to sweep a doubleheader, 9-2 and 11-6.

The two wins were important psychological victories for the UMies, confidence builders before arch-rival Springfield College invades UMass this Thursday.

Second year coach Dianne Thompson was obviously pleased with her team and attributed yesterday's success to, "the most consistent defense I've seen this season."

Here's what happened in Game 1: Senior Trish O'Connor stepped up to the mound against her old colleagues at Westfield and furnished her third victory with an impressive two-hitter.

O'Connor wasn't the whole story, however, as the UMass batting order came up with 16 hits.

The biggest attack came in the third inning, as UMass pulled way out in front, 6-0.

Cheryl Meliones led the inning off with a single and was followed by the hard-hitting Sue Peters, who lined a double to center. Five consecutive singles by Sue DiRocco, Pat Oski, Carol Bruce, Jen Parker and Fran Cornnachioli provided insurance for the first victory.

Fran Cornachioli contributed four RBI's and a two-run homer in the fifth inning.

Game two was won in anything but tidy style by the Minutewomen, 11-6. Despite collecting 13 hits and putting important people on base, the Minutewomen could not sustain their hitting attack long enough to put them ahead on the scoreboard.

Young freshman Kathy O'Connell, the savior from the bullpen, emerged victorious on the mound after replacing starter Jen Parker.

The fourth frame found UMass down 5-1, but the UMies pulled one of their better comebacks of the season, and went on to win 11-6.

Thesis Binders and Report Folders

at A.J. Hastings
newsdealer and stationer
45 S. Pleasant St.
Amherst

JVs sweep Assumption; Brown excels on mound

by Walt Cherniak
Collegian Staff

Pitching was the name of the game for the JV baseball team here yesterday, as they limited Assumption College to one run and seven hits on the afternoon in sweeping a doubleheader 6-0, 13-1 for their fourth and fifth victories in a row.

Righthander Mark Brown was simply magnificent in the first game, as he surrendered only two hits and garnered 14 strikeouts in picking up the shutout win, his first for the JV's after opening the season on the varsity squad.

"Mark threw as hard as I've ever seen him," remarked coach Jim Bedard, "He had a good high fastball and showed a potentially good curve."

Doug Yacek gave Brown all the runs he needed with a booming three-run homer to right-center in the second inning. Jeff Hoffman also singled home a run in the inning, as the Minutemen collected four runs and added two more in the third to win 6-0.

Starting pitcher Scott Hildreth had plenty of offense to work with in the hightcap, as his mates tallied four times in the bottom of first, three of them coming on a bases-loaded triple by designated hitter Don Roeder. They added single runs in the third and fourth, and then exploded for seven runs and six hits in the fifth inning.

Frank Latizia singled home two runs to spark the inning, and finished three for three on the day, with a triple, two singles and three RBI's. Roeder went two for four and drove in four runs, and catcher Phil Small went two for two with a couple of walks and a run batted in.

Hildreth picked up the win, surrendering only three hits in his four innings of work and yielding a single first inning run, Assumptions's only tally of the doubleheader. "Hildreth threw hard," said Bedard,. "but he was around the plate a lot and threw a lot of pitches."

Sox win 7-6

76ers top NY

A World of Opportunity
Globe
Star
Evening Star
News
Times

You're cordially invited to attend: JOURNALISM CONVENTION '78'
Friday & Saturday
April 21 & 22
Featuring
Walter Mears
Associated Press Vice President
Washington, D.C. Bureau Chief
Plus
30 other
Professional Journalists
from around New England

Join more than 100 College Journalists in round table discussions and workshops.

Call the
Massachusetts Daily Collegian
545-3500
For more information

Kalinowski knocks in two

Batmen slip by top rated BC

Minutemen Mike Stockley and Ed Skribiski cross paths behind second base pursuing a ground ball. The Minutemen upset BC, 5-2. (Pat Dobbs photo)

By MEL WEBSTER
Collegian Staff

Leo Kalinowski smashed a seventh inning double off the center field wall scoring two runs to lead the UMass baseball nine to a 5-2 victory over a highly rated Boston College team yesterday afternoon at Lorden Field

The win was highlighted by the continued fine pitching of sophomore Doug Welenc who upped his record to 4-2. Welenc allowed seven hits, while striking out five and walking two.

"Every time out Doug has had a good outing and he could easily be 6-0 this season," said a happy UMass Coach Dick Bergquist. Welenc took a .79 ERA into the game which was tops in New England.

Welenc and BC pitcher Bob Meara dominated the first five innings of the game as neither team got on the scoreboard. Welenc struck out BC catcher Tim Dachus in the top of the first with runners on second and third to work out of his only trouble in the first five, while Meara was limiting the Minutemen to two hits.

The Eagles pushed a run across in the sixth inning on a pop fly double to right by center fielder Bruce Johnson and a sharp single by Gary Anderson to right. Anderson went to second on a bad throw and then to third on a groundout. Welenc then avoided further trouble when Anderson was thrown out at the plate by Kalinowksi on a strange play.

UMass catcher Dave Oleksak dropped the throw by Kalinowski, but Anderson missed the plate and was tagged out about ten feet behind. The Minutemen tied the game in their half of the sixth when Doug Aylward hit a sacrifice fly to left scoring Kalinowski who had reached on an infield hit.

BC went ahead again in the seventh on a single by Greg Juiffre and a double by ninth batter Tim Conroy. Conroy was stranded at second as Welenc induced Johnson to ground to third.

Then came the Minutemen's big inning. John Gallgher doubled and Neil Lojek was sent in to pinch run. Ed Skribiski reached on an error by the Eagles shortstop and then Kalinowski struck his big blow to make it 3-2. Kalinowski then scored on a single to ceter by Mike Stockley.

The Minutemen scored their final run in the eighth on a sacrifice fly by Skribiski.

"BC was a very good team for us to beat and it shows that we can beat anyone in New England," said Bergquist.

"This is a very pivotal week for us as we must beat the Fairfields and the Maines," he added.

Weather permitting, the Minutemen will host Southeastern Mass. this afternoon at 1 in a doubleheader. Bergquist will send Dave Tewhill and Pete Rankowitz to the mound.

The Minutemen split two games with Southeastern early in the season.

FOUL TIPS — The Minutemen had eight hits including three doubles off two Eagle pitchers ... The UMass infield looked sharp turning over two double plays ... Meara forced the Minutemen to hit 11 groundouts in his 6 2-3 innings.

Rozelle to talk

Pete Rozelle, Commissioner of the National Football League, will speak at the University of Massachusetts-Amherst today at 11 a.m. in Bowker Auditorium. His talk is part of the UMass Sports Management program's spring lecture series of prominent sports people.

Future speakers will include baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn on Thursday, May 4, at 7:45 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium. The lectures are open to the public without charge.

Collegian Sports

Gazelles lash Smith fourth straight win

by Pamela Lindmark
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's lacrosse team yesterday afternoon won its fourth consecutive game of the season, outplaying, passing, and scoring Smith College for a 16-3 victory.

Led by co-captain Judy Kennedy's four goals and a hat trick by attack wing Cari Nickerson, the stickers surged forward upon Smith's defense from the starting whistle.

They did not let up until the games end, scoring an even eight goals each half.

Coach Frank Garahan expressed pleasure with the team's overall play. "There was some very good passing and unselfish play," he said. "People weren't hotdogging it."

The game was also a good opportunity to see some new people in the game, he said. With a tough and busy schedule ahead of them this month, equal experience by all will be needed.

Scoring action opened just three minutes into the game as Sue Kibling tossed in an underhand shot.

Judy Kennedy followed with her first goal of the game(UMass' second), as she handled a pass from Allyson Toney, passed to July Hall, reappeared to grab the ball again, and scored.

UMass offensive passing was having a good day.

Five more consecutive UMass goals were to be made before Smith was able to counter-attack with a score of their own.

Kibling again was there, as she took a pass from the stick of Laura O'Neill, to shoot it in from a right angle.

Kennedy, too, continued to score, adding two more points to the UMass' tally, as did Carri Nickerson.

A Smith goal by Mary Wagley (who was to score all three of Smith's goals) put Smith on the scoreboard with just 4 minutes left in the half.

A final goal by Carri Nickerson ended the half, giving both her and Kennedy hat tricks, and UMass a score of 8-1.

Second half play continued much the same, with UMass dominating offensive action. Julie Hall and Fiona McAllister were to take over in scoring, each scoring two goals.

Judy Kennedy, Laura O'Neill, Kathy Gipps, and Allyson Toney each added four scores of their own, with two additional scores by Smith's Mary Wagley, the final score stood UMass 16, Smith 3.

Defensively, the UMass squad was not under the pressure it has been in previous games. Led by co-captain Gayle Hutchinson, making some fine defensive plays, Smith College found scoring opportunities scarce.

In other action, the JV squad also played some good, hard lacrosse to beat Smith 9-1.

Last week having won their first game against Northeastern 8-0, the JV team is also undefeated with two wins under its belt, having only one goal scored against them.

"It was a good, team effort," said Coach Mary Murray. Murray also cited goalie Karen Keough as having played a super game in the net.

Both teams travel to Williams College on Thursday.

Steve Zack

A commercial break

With the ownership of the Boston Red Sox fairly assured to the contingent of Leroux, Sullivan, and Yawkey and company, front office tranquility is beginning to arrive on Thomas Yawkey Way.

But I wonder, couldn't an owner have been attained more quickly and with less confusion if the Yawkey estate, Joseph LaCour executor, had launched a massive media ad campaign covering newspapers and television to find a suitable owner for the Sox?

I believe so and thus I present my ad campaign in search an owner.

Let me start with the newspaper angle. A simple classified ad might do the trick.

Wanted. Baseball owner. Must be wealthy and likeable in the Boston area. Send financial proposals to Joseph LaCour, Yawkey Estate.

or

For sale. Baseball team. Few chan ships, high potential. Asking $15,000,000 or best offer. Contact Boston Red Sox c/o Joseph LaCour, Yawkey Estate.

Turning my efforts towards television, perhaps an ad similar to that of Saladmaster cookware....

"The Boston Red Sox, the perfect gift for millionaires and millionaires to be.

Hello, my name is Joseph LaCour, executor of the Thomas A. Yawkey Estate and I'm here to tell you about the Boston Red Sox.

They run, hit, score, play solid defense, and what's more--they win. Just put them on the playing field and watch them go to work.

Now you can buy the Red Sox on the Player-à-Month Payment Plan and for a short time I'll include, at no extra cost, base stealing. That's right, base stealing.

Remember, that's the Player-A-Month Payment Plan and I'll throw in the base stealing extra for free

Just contact me, Joe LaCour, Yawkey Estate.

Don't wait, operators are on duty now to take your calls.

Thank you."

Here is one presented in the used car vein a la Ernie Boch.

"Looking for a good used ball club? Then come down to Yawkey Way and Fenway Park and take a look at what I have for you.

This team can run, hit, and win ball games like you've never seen before.

Skeptical? You have every right to be so come down and take this baby out for an exhibition game and judge for yourself.

Right now I'm asking the low, low price of $15,000,000.

Why ahould you trust me? My name is Joseph LaCour."

---

Playoff notes: At first glance it appeared that the Lakers lost their series to the Supersonics because of a putrid offense and Seattle's hot shooting. Would you believe that the Lakers lost because they were forced into using a man-to-man defense for one of the few times this season. LA is noted for using a strong zone defense designed to force everything into the middle and the waiting Abdul-Jabbar. Seattle's tremendous outside shooting led by Fred Brown, Gus Williams, and Dennis Johnson forced the Lakers to go into a man-to-man defense which they were totally unprepared for, note the mismatch of Jamaal Wilkes and Jack Sikma.

Bill Walton is expected back into the Portland lineup for the series against Seattle but how effective can a slowed up Walton be against super-psyched Marvin Webster who lived up to his nickname of the "Human Eraser" in the series against LA.

I predict the Celtics will make Arkansas' Ron Brewer their number one pick and hardship case James Hardy of San Francisco pick number two.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 123
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

SGA rescinds funding vote

Two members of the UMass concrete canoe team paddle a canoe made of concrete in the Campus Pond yesterday. This year marks the fourth annual launching of the canoes, which are built by students in the department of engineering. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night rescinded its vote of last week's motion to repossess the equipment anf freeze the funds of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian.

The Senate also voted to support Women's news pages in the Collegian. The senate tables for one week a proposal for all student publishing groups use of Collegian equipment. Moves to establish a new newspaper were also tabled for a week.

In other business, the Senate voted to have the Senate Budgets Committee review the budgets of groups complaining that they were in danger of losing their money since their budgets were not reviewed by the committee. The proposal also called for an examination of the practices of the committee.

Other Senate action included support of efforts for a Spanish Enrichment program in local schools. (See related story, page three.) Another motion expressed support for expanding handicap van service and equipping buses with lifts for handicapped students. The senate also voted to endorse a recommendation to the Administration on funding the UMass bus system and proposals on parking policy.

Senate Speaker Brian DeLima was subpoenaed to appear in court with Student Government Co-presidents Jon Hite and Marion Batiste. All were named co-defendants in a complaint arising from the senate's action last week to freeze Collegian funding and confiscate its equipment. Chancellor Randolph Bromery and Recognized Student Organization office coordinator Armand Demers were also named in the complaint. Bromery and Demers were named because of their positions and not because of any direct involvement in the case.

The Senate vote last week was made after the Collegian Board of Editors voted down two proposals for separate women's pages. The Senate voted to freeze the papers funds and repossess its equipment unless the editors voted to establish women's pages. Later that evening the editors voted 5-0-2 for women's pages for the paper.

The Collegian staff will discuss the matter tonight.

DeLima said he was supporting the move to rescind because "to tell you the truth we are probably in violation of the law," he said. DeLima and Hite said they were advised by their attorneys to rescind last week's motion.

DeLima said he felt that the Senate had "no authority to freeze funds". However, he added, "the equipment was bought for everyone's use." Women's Editor Julie Melrose told the senate, "people are forgetting the real issue is women's issues." Melrose added that some women felt that they were becoming "pawns in a power struggle between two male institutions."

The Senate voted to support the move for the enrichment program in Spanish which was rejected by the Amherst School Committee. The course would in part "give Spanish speaking children the opportunity to gain an appreciation of their history and social customs" and give children the opportunity "to develop skills in their native language," according to a letter distributed to the senate from a Hispanic parents group.

The proposal on funding of the UMass bus system includes taking out $7.75 per capita from the Student Activities Trust Fund to finance the system.

UM director of security leaving for Harvard post

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

UMass Director of Security Saul L. Chafin will be leaving UMass in late spring to direct security as chief-of-police at Harvard-Radcliffe University in Cambridge, the Collegian learned yesterday.

Harvard Director of Personnel Daniel Cantor said the appointment "would have to be approved by the Corporation of Harvard," and it will meet in the next two weeks, he said.

Chafin declined comment saying it is "too premature" to give any information.

Acting UMass Vice Chancellor of student affairs Robert L. Woodbury, Chafin's immediate superior, said his understanding is that "Harvard is not in the position to formalize it (the appointment as Chief-of-Police)," but added that Chafin would not be leaving until after this May's graduation exercises. "He (Chafin) has indicated that he has expected to go," Woodbury said.

"They've picked the best person they could, that's good for them, and bad for us," Woodbury said.

"It's going to be a real loss to the university — he is one of the best in this field. He'll be very difficult to replace," he said.

The position at Harvard has been open since March 1977 when David Gorski, then chief-of-police resigned because of a contract dispute. William T. Lee has served as acting chief since Gorski's resignation, a Harvard Crimson spokesman said.

Gerald T. O'Neil is next in line for the Director of Security post under Chafin. O'Neil is presently associate director of security. The 20-year veteran of the UMass security force said he hasn't considered the position of Director.

"There are some serious questions, I'd have to think about it," O'Neil said.

Student Government Association President Jon Hite said, "I think Chafin will do very well there as he did here. Probably his major achievement has been as a mediator in demonstrations. He has had close ties with the Third World community. He has done a lot during his years for the police department."

'Collective bargaining': term cause conflict

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

Current lease negotiations between students and the UMass administration constitute "collective bargaining on one issue" a Student Organizing Project leader last night said.

However, the administration does not share the same view on the negotiations.

"There's really no basis for viewing collective bargaining between the students and administration as feasible," Vice-Chancellor of Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury yesterday said.

Collective bargaining between students and the administration was the one point administrators refused to negotiate during the Whitmore occupation two weeks ago in which students presented a list of demands concerning their rights as student tenants in dormitories.

Umass student unionization

"Most collective bargaining situations are based on industrial models and are circumscribed by state or federal law," Woodbury said. "Neither of these situations are present in the students' case." He said he did not consider the current lease negotiations to be in the form of collective bargaining.

David Barenberg of the Student Organizing Project termed the negotiations collective bargaining because "two sides meet on opposite sides of the table."

Woodbury said he did not consider the students and administrators to "start from opposite ends of the pole," a term he used to distinguish collective bargaining from the lease negotiations.

"I think the negotiations are an attempt to develop a document that will serve as some kind of workable contract for the university in relation to housing," Woodbury said.

Barenberg said the students and administration do not have similar interests in regard to the housing situation. "The housing conditions which spurred the occupation wouldn't be there if everyone had the same interests," he said.

"People feel poweriess when they have no input into the institution," Barenberg added. He said the SOP would continue to organize students and act as a resource for student groups wishing to have input into university policy.

The input would be through "whatever level is necessary to increase student voice in policy," Barenberg said. He said current negotiations, as well as future efforts to organize students will be used to try to reverse the administration's refusal to bargain collectively with the students.

Woodbury said the students, through the student senate, "have had a lot of input into university policy in past years and I expect it to continue."

Although the administration has said it will not consider a collective bargaining situation with students, Barenberg said the SOP will "resort to tactics that will make them (the administration) deal with us." He cited mass action, rent withholding and legislative action as a few "of a whole range of tactics possible."

The SOP this year received $52,000 in funding from the Student Government Association.

Staff Meeting

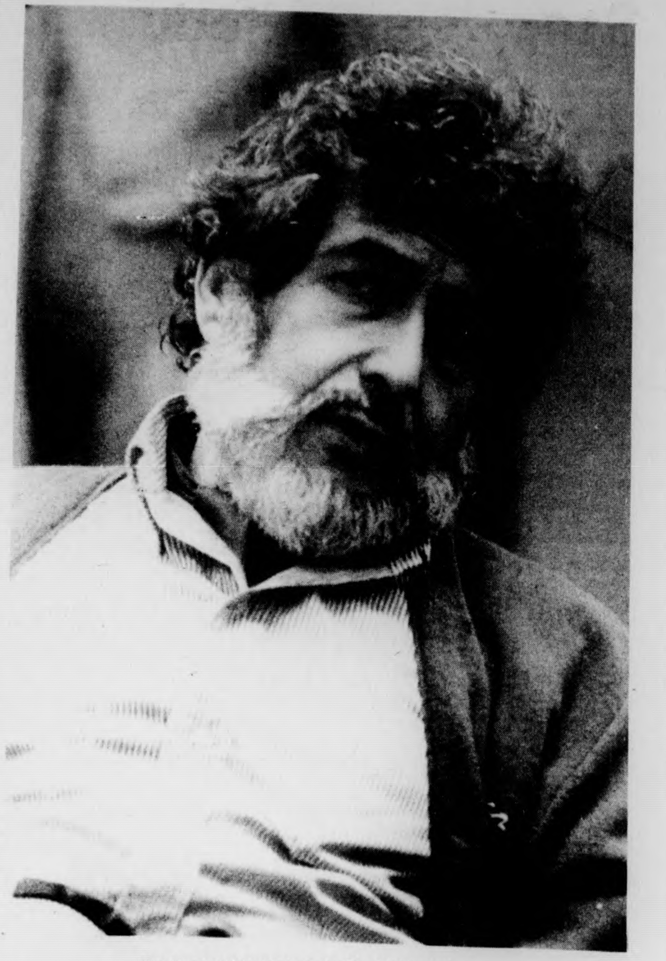
Collegian staff members, all members from all departments, are reminded of tonight's staff meeting in Campus Center 174-176 at 7:30 p.m. Topic of discussion will be Women's pages in the Collegian.

Journalist speaks on educational injustices at learning conference



Nat Hentoff (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Hentoff didn't tell this story to the 200 people who attended his lecture for the Learning Tomorrows conference in the Campus Center Auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Instead, he told a host of stories similar to that of the abused child, all ending in the same bitter irony which left the audience, not merely feeling sorry for the victims, but ready to do something about the injustices just exposed.

From research he had done for Voice articles, a conversation he had with a public school teacher last summer during a teacher's institute at Stony Brook, Long Island.

The teacher told him about a mentally disabled woman, unable to handle a traditional classroom situation, but who had already been given tenure. Because the procedures for firing a tenured teacher are complex and time-consuming, the principle instead made her the learning disabilities teacher for the school.

The teacher told Hentoff she refused to send any of her students to this woman, for fear of their being mis-diagnosed, although the other teachers in the school were sending their kids.

Hentoff said he asked the teacher why she hadn't complained to the principle, the school board, or the Parent-Teacher's group about this woman.

"Who's going to be responsible for the kids," Hentoff asked her, and she replied — "That's not my responsibility."

But Hentoff told the crowd about a school in the Crown Point section of Brooklyn, where in spite of a bad neighborhood environment, the students were scoring significantly higher than students in other sections of the city.

Hentoff attributed the school's success to "a formidable work ethic" cultivated by the principle there, with "an insistence that teachers teach."

" 'So long as we have kids in school, we have to do our best,' " Hentoff quoted the principal as saying.

By contrast, he pointed to a completely different ethic which dominates other schools. He quoted a letter which appeared in last week's New York Times, authored by several public school teachers, which declared that teachers "can only build on what is there to start with."

According to Hentoff, the next decade should see a mounting caseload of teacher malpractice suits.

He told the story of a malpractice suit against a Florida principal where a student had graduated high school reading at a low elementary school level, he said.

The parents' questions had gone unanswered by the teachers and administration during the years the boy was in school. But once the suit was over, the principal was ordered to pay $25,000 in personal damages out of his own pocket, Hentoff said.

"Most of the malpractice suits that have been lost since have been due to inept legal work," he said.

Due to his adamant opinions about how a public educational system should be run, Hentoff has quickly fallen out with New York's new mayor, Edward I. Koch.

Hentoff, together with Diane Ravitch, publically asked Koch to make two major reforms in New York's schools — to first end automatic promotion through the grades, so that students would have to be taught to read and write to graduate; and also develop a specific learning goal for each student, so that teachers would be forced to give attention to all their students.

"I'm embarrassed to call it a plan," he said, but claimed Koch doesn't read the Voice any more because of it.

He also called the Monyhan-Jenks bill to give a $500 tax credit for families paying tuition to private or parochial schools "unconstitutional."

Because Jenks included parochial schools in the bill, it has everybody against it "except kids and parents," he said.

Hentoff began his writing career as a jazz critic. From there, he says, "various musicians around the country would tell me about racism," something he said he had no idea about, and then he got interested in writing about education.

He has four children, and he said his two daughters .maybe read one newspaper a month." He also said that when his two daughters, now 23 and 21, reached school age, he chose not to send them to public schools.

"A journalist should indicate his interests if he has any," Hentoff says.

Hentoff speaks proudly of the reporter's union recently organized by the staff of the Voice, now owned by Australian Rupert Murdoch.

In addition to establishing minimum wages and providing health coverage, he said "we can bargain for freelancers who submit stories." The Newspaper Guild, the prevailing reporter's union, is opposed to that clause, he said, since theoretically freelancer's work takes away jobs from regular staff.

The Guild is currently in financial straits, he said, largely due to the Washington Post strike, and if a strike occurs among the staff of the New York Post, the guild's financial resources will be "largely broken."

Hentoff, who was once editor of the Northeastern News at Northeastern University, said the most "disheartening thing" about writing for publication today is that the age at which most people don't regularly read a newspaper steadily is climbing — now up to 35.

"If they don't read the newspaper, how are they going to find out what's going on?" he asked.

...newslines...

SBA planning seminars; budgeting, management

A series of three one-day seminars is being planned by the UMass School of Business Administration in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education.

"Budgeting; Key to Planning and Control" will be held April 25 and will demonstrate how a budgeting process works.

"Managing Time Effectively" on May 5 will be an introduction to practical time saving techniques for planning.

"Electronic Data Processing: Security, Control, and Auditing" on May 19 is designed to bring participants up to date on the state of computer controls and security.

All seminars will be in the Campus Center.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Amy Kaplan

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Myrna Hershman |
| Copy Editor | Fran Basche |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Marilyn Mankowsky |
| Sports Layout | Stephanie Richardson |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Senior gets fellowship from Phi Kappa Phi

A UMass senior has been awarded a $3000 fellowship for graduate study by the national honor society Phi Kappa Phi.

Peter Laurence, one of 30 students selected nationwide, plans graduate study in business administration at Harvard University.

Phi Kappa Phi is a national scholastic society with 202 chapters throughout the nation.

UM geologists report new research findings

Research findings that could change the way scientists study magnetic features under the earth's surface were reported yesterday by UMass geologists at the American Geophysical Union conference in Miami Beach.

The findings were included in papers presented to the conference by Associate Professor Stephen Haggerty and a group of graduate students.

One application of the findings would be in aeromagnetic surveys, which chart the earth's underground magnetic patterns and are used to locate mineral ores or geothermal power sources.

Massachusetts Secretary for Educational Affairs Paul Parks speaks yesterday in a Learning Tomorrows workshop. Parks said today's "schooled-out" population is a form of social inequality. (Staff photo by Stephen G. Robinson)

---

Stocks assailed; protest probable

By BERNARD DAVIDOW
Collegian Staff

Amherst College President John W. Ward last night abruptly ended a meeting with 255 students when he walked offstage amid a flurry of questions about the college's investment policy in U.S. corporations doing business in South Africa.

Meanwhile, it appears some Amherst College students may skip classes tomorrow to protest the college's investment policy.

Ward had for an hour responded to student inquiries by restating the college trustee's decision of last weekend not to deviate from its stance to retain the stocks in an effort to influence the corporation from within.

The meeting, characterized for the most part by an orderly question and answer approach, became emotional when members of the Amherst College South Africa Support Committee at times interrupted Ward to ask questions and keep him from what they said was evading the issue.

At this point, Ward said he thought it had been a good meeting, and walked out of the room.

"He couldn't answer our questions," said Stephen McMahon, an Amherst junior on the support committee's five-member coordinating committee. The group is asking the 1,400 Amherst students to skip classes tomorrow to attend a demonstration at 10 a.m. to protest the trustee's policy.

Committee member Jonas Pontusson, who spoke at the meeting shortly before Ward walked out, after the meeting said the president "did in the final analysis the only thing he could do."

"I hope everybody became aware that Ward really had nothing to tell us," Pontusson said. The Amherst senior also said, "for the most part, discussion with the trustees has come to an end."

Ward had called for last night's meeting to report to students on the most recent board of trustees meeting, as he normally does, according to McMahon. McMahon said 25 of the approximately 60 support committee members at the college picketed outside the trustees meeting last Friday and Saturday in Washington D.C.

At that meeting, the trustees announced they had decided only to modify their statement of Oct. 8, 1977 concerning their stock investments in corporations operating in South Africa. ONe modification recommended corporations institute a reporting system of their efforts to change the system of apartheid in South Africa. The other modification was to urge corporations to recognize the right of South African individuals through labor unions.

A statement from the trustees at the meeting reiterated its stance of divesting a stock only if the corporation refuses to respond or gives an inadequate response to questions concerning their operations in South Africa and whether they adhere to principles of equality known as the Sullivan Principles.

"While not precluding the sale of securities of a corporation as an appropriate step," the text states, "the board continues to prefer examination of each case on its own merits."

Tomorrow's demonstration was still being planned at press time last night, but is supposed to start at the library and then move to the president's office. At the demonstration, students will "set the groundwork for more radical action," according to Joshua Nessen, support committee member and former coordinating committee member.

National Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle signs autographs for members of the Sports Co-op yesterday. Rozelle yesterday paid a visit to campus and spoke to a crowd of 300 in Bowker Auditorium. Story page 23. (Staff photo by Geoff Coehler)

Illich speaks on education and language

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

Ivan Illich spoke to 750 people at the Fine Arts Center last night, and they listened closely. They had to.

Illich, a well-known thinker on the subject of education and society, delivered his amusing and intricate lecture as part of "Learning Tomorrows," the UMass conference on the future of education.

Speaking in a heavy Austrian accent and smiling at the crowd as he tried to explain his theories, Illich addressed the problem of what he calls "bureaucratic" motherhood."

According to Illich, the word "education," in its Latin root, meant the teaching of children strictly through women-their mothers.

Taking education of out of the hands of women and mothers and turning the responsibility over to male educators, Illich says, "implies that the classroom is a womb into which a child is reborn.

Illich says this shows that we "don't trust mothers to educate our children."

Language plays an important part in Illich's conception of Western society's problems today. The mother tongue, Illich says, is a commodity that is a large part of our Gross National Product. People in this country are taught, from the beginning of their schooling, a single way of communicating.

Teaching people their mother tongue, said Illich, "is without precedent." Illich said that normal man is multi-lingual, that people have different ways of speaking for different places they are and the different company they are in.

The most natural kind of language, according to Illich, is the vernacular. He defined vernacular as coming from the Greek word meaning anything that was home-oriented. "Language grew on the speakers," he said, "it wasn't planted there."

Modern society does not concentrate enough on letting vernacular language develop, said Illich, but instead teaches the mother tongue through not only the teacher, but also "The announcer of news, the actor of gags, and the stammer of a ghost-written president."

Illich compared our society's dependence on teachers and the commodity of words with our dependence on fuel.

Illich sees the ubiquitous teaching of the mother tongue as "an instrument to make people good--and to make good people. This is what we call by the euphemism of education."

Hispanics protest denial of language program

By CAROLYN MOONEY
Collegian Staff

Approximately 40 members of Amherst's Hispanic community last night staged a second demonstration at the Fine Arts Center in protest of the Amherst School Committee's decision not to approve the proposed Mark's Meadow elementary school Spanish Language Enrichment Program.

The program, which seeks to give Hispanic children the opportunity to develop skills in their native language and to study their history and culture, has the support of the superintendent of Amherst Schools Donald Frizzle. Mark's Meadow Principal Michael Greenebaum, Dean of the UMass School of Education Mario D. Fantini, and the school's council. It would be funded by the UMass School of Education's Bilingual Program, and also be federal and state money.

The school committee last Tuesday voted 4-1 against the program. Newly elected school board Chairman Casey Clark, who voted in favor of the proposal, last night said the committee has not yet met to reconsider its decision.

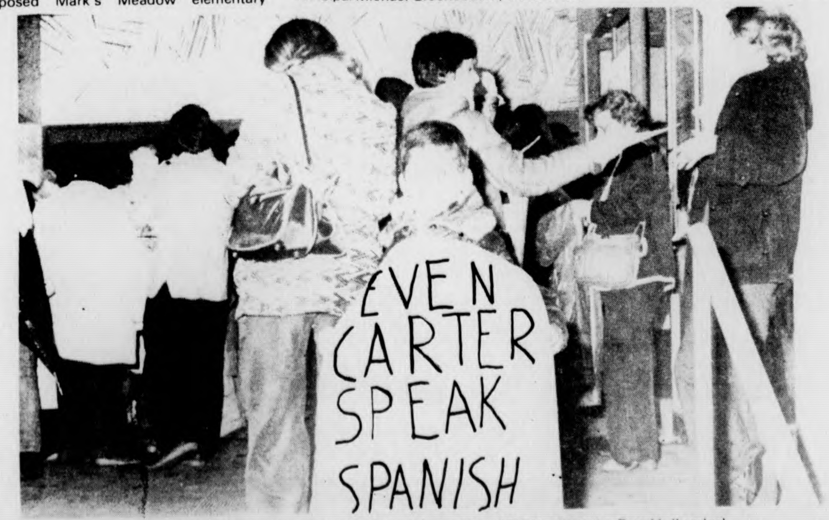
Iris Zavala, a spokeswoman for the Hispanic group, said that the group had been flexible and reasonable working within the Mark's Meadow system, and that the school committee rejected the proposal implying it is "un-American" to teach children in public schools a language other than English.

The demonstrators, Hispanic parents, children, professionals, and UMass students, protested with signs proclaiming "The Amherst School Committee cannot vote on personal reasons" and "Parents should have a voice in the education of their children." To point out the advantages of being bilingual, other demonstrators carried more humorous signs reading "Even Carter speaks Spanish" and "Cervantes is alive."

According to Miguel Rivera, a doctoral student and teacher at UMass, the Fine Arts Center was a strategic location because educator and author Ivan Illich spoke there last night as part of the Learning Tomorrows conference.

Rivera said the rejection of the program would be "dangerous to the future of education, and would produce students who were monolingual and monocultural."

The Hispanic Parents Coordinating Council proposes that the Mark's Meadow school be designated as the elementary component of the program because 16 Hispanic children already attend school there, because it is a "laboratory school" of the School of Education, and because it can utilize the resources of the Bilingual-Bicultural Program of the School of Education. The program would also be initiated in the junior and senior high schools.



Demonstrators protest outside the Fine arts Center last night. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

‘Learning Tomorrows’ educates

Higher ed: back-to-basics

An instructor shows a child some basic construction facts as part of a workshop in the Learning Tomorrows conference yesterday. The conference continues today when Henri Dieuzeide, director of structures, content, methods, and techniques of education for UNESCO will speak at 3 p.m. in Campus Center 174-76 on the "Future of Education in an International Context." Also, "I'll Do It", a television series for pre-school (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

The future of higher education appears to be geared toward a non-alternative back-to-basics approach, a UMass School of Education graduate said yesterday.

Bernadine Young made the remark in a discussion on "The Future of Student Affairs in Higher Education" as part of the Learning Tomorrows conference, which began Tuesday.

"The alternative ideas of the 60's and early 70's are going out," said Young, "Just recently Yale dropped its pass fail option."

Young conducted a study last year on future improvements of student affairs in higher education. Included were interviews with students, faculty, and administrators from various colleges.

Young defined student affairs as "a very broad area that deals with anything that traditionally has been concerned with the student outside the classroom."

She cited mental and physical health, and counseling on campus and various career development workshops as examples.

"Student affairs deals with providing for each individual student's needs," said Young.

The increasing number of older students attending college now shows "a lot of potential for the future of higher education," Young said.

"There really has been a change. The 18-21 year old group is still here, but there are more older students now too. It's the whole concept of life long learning," said Young.

She said Hampshire College is a good example of an alternative form of higher education.

"They have a good portfolio system of students expressing themselves," said Young.

Residential living will undergo a big change in the next ten to 20 years, according to Young.

"Dormitories are going to have to turn into realistic living quarters, like apartments. Students don't like living in cubicles and can't wait to be able to move off campus," she said.

University control of student housing on campus will have to be given up and students will gain control of the leases, according to Young.

"From a financial and psychological perspective, dorm living will definitely have to change," said Young.

CONTROL DATA CORPORATION
PLATO

Sheila Meehan explains the Control Data Computer "Plato" during a Learning Tomorrows exhibit in the Campus Center yesterday. (Staff photo by Peter Lee).

Collegian sponsored

Journalism conference set

A two-day journalism conference sponsored by the Collegian exploring current topics of importance in the newsroom will open tomorrow.

The convention will feature workshops on topics such as "The Changing Press," "Technology in the Newsroom," and "Editorial Ethics and Responsibility."

"We believe we have a comprehensive program scheduled, said William Mills, a conference organizer. "Input from both students and professionals should provide a valuable forum for educational exchange."

The conference will feature noted professionals, among them Walter Mears, a vice-president of The Associated Press, and Nina McCain of the Boston Globe.

Technical workshops will be held on newspaper layout, photography, graphics, and copyediting.

The convention is also the kick-off of an effort by the organizers to establish a new group, The New England Association for College Journalists.

"The conference is being sponsored by the Collegian," said Mills, "but the attending schools become part of the society."

Some 110 students from 35 schools across New England and New York are expected to participate.

Spring Convention '78 will begin with a dinner tomorrow after a keynote address by Mears. All workshops will be held Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Campus Center.

BC threatens newspaper

NEWTON, (UPI) – Jesuit-run Boston College has threatened to kick the student-operated newspaper off campus if it continues to run advertisements for abortion services in the state.

"What we have objected to are paid advertisements which solicit conduct diametrically opposed to the college's reverence for human life," Vice President for Student Affairs Kevin P. Duffy said in a lengthy letter to editors of The Heights.

In the letter, approved by BC President Rev. J. Donald Monan, Duffy said the 13,500-student private school wants "to remain a strong and distinctively Catholic University in recognition of the unique dignity and sacredness that characterizes human life.

"This tradition is an integral part of the fabric that makes up Boston College," Duffy said.

The college has told the editors of the 24-page weekly newspaper if they continue to run the ads, they must vacate their on-campus office by June 30 when their lease runs out.

Paul McPartland, 20, Heights editor, said the newspaper began running ads last September for Preterm and New England Women's Service two clinics which provide abortions in the Boston Suburb of Brookline.

WOMEN ON CAMPUS

Meeting at 6:30 p.m. tonight at the bottom of the escalator on the first level of the Campus Center. Topic will be women's pages in the Collegian.

You're cordially invited to attend: JOURNALISM CONVENTION '78'

Friday & Saturday
April 21 & 22

Featuring

Walter Mears
Associated Press Vice President
Washington, D.C. Bureau Chief

Plus
30 other
Professional Journalists
from around New England

Join more than 100 College Journalists in round table discussions and workshops.

A World of Opportunity
EVENING STAR
Globe
STAR
Times
NEWS

Call the

Massachusetts Daily Collegian
545-3500
For more information

Oil industry reports on energy

Dependence on foreign oil down

NEW YORK (AP) – The United States appears to have made a "staggering" cut in its growth of energy consumption and has pared its reliance on foreign oil, the oil industry said yesterday.

The trend developed despite the failure by Congress to yet pass President Carter's energy plan and is likely to bolster the dollar.

Imports of crude oil and oil products, which jumped 18 percent in 1977 and 20 percent in 1976, are down a surprising 14 percent for the first three months of 1978, according to statistics released by the American Petroleum Institute.

In addition, preliminary data indicates that the United States last year significantly reduced its growth of energy use, according to the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an independent study group.

"In previous years, every 1 percent jump in the gross national product was matched by a 1 percent jump in energy consumption," said Lawrence Goldstein, a foundation economist.

"Last year, each 1 percent increase in the gross national product was matched by a 0.5 percent increase in energy use," he said. "That is absolutely staggering."

The developments are likely to help strengthen the U.S. dollar overseas, might help reduce the balance of payments deficit and should blunt some political criticism of the United States.

The dollar has been losing value during the past year, and analysts have attributed much of the problem to the United States' $26.7 billion trade deficit last year. For foreign oil alone last year, the U.S. spent $44.3 billion.

In addition, foreign business and political leaders have criticized the United States for not slacking its thirst for energy.

Although the level of oil imports is expected to rise slightly during the second half of the year, most analysts expect total imports at year-end to be below the 1977 level – perhaps as much as 5 percent lower. They expect imports to rise again in 1979 or 1980, but at a much slower rate than in recent years.

They cite several factors for this turnaround:

– Each barrel of oil produced in Alaska replaces a barrel that would have been imported. About 1.1 million barrels of Alaskan oil are being produced each day, with 1.5 million barrels a day expected by 1985. Alaskan oil production began last summer.

– In 1977, to combat natural gas shortages and severe winter weather, huge quantities of crude oil and heating fuel were imported. "We had a couple of weeks when distillate (heating oil) imports went over a million barrels a day, which was outrageous," Goldstein said.

When that crisis ended, U.S. refiners – who also were facing a glut of crude oil – kept refineries going full blast. That resulted in large inventories going into last winter, which also reduced imports.

Graduate Student Senate
Elections
May 11, 1978

Nominations are open for positions of:

President
Vice-President
Secretary
Treasurer

For information on duties, salaries, and eligibility contact the Graduate Student Senate in Rm. 919, Campus Center

Elections held in
Campus Center Rm. 804-808

Minority and women graduate students are urged to run for office; we take affirmative action seriously

Lunch time in the patio of our La Rojeña distillery.

When our workers sit down to lunch they sit down to a tradition.
When they make Cuervo Gold it's the same.

Every day at just about eleven the wives from Tequila arrive at the Cuervo distillery bearing their husbands' lunches.

Lunches that have been lovingly prepared in the same proud manner since men first began working here in 1795.

It is this same pride in a job well-done that makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Yippies plan smoke-in on Commons

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

A Yippie-sponsored smoke-in planned for Saturday on the Amherst Common will take place, with a possible location change, despite a meeting yesterday between UMass and Amherst police and Yippie leader Russ Swan and three other Yippies.

"We had a discussion about the smoke-in, and the smoke-in will not be cancelled under any circumstances whatsoever," Russ Swan, a spokesman for the local Youth International party said.

UMass Police Director Saul Chafin, Amherst Chief-of-Police Donald Maia, UMass Police-Chief Robert Joyce, Dean of Students William F. Field and three other Yippies met at Chafin's office to discuss the smoke-in. The Yippies plan to meet at the Fine Arts Center and march to the current site of the sit in, Amherst Commons. The group will meet again today.

"Chafin doesn't like the idea of a smoke-in because he said it was a blatant violation of the law and does not condone or approve ot it," Swan said.

Chafin told the UMass News bureau that no decision regarding the smoke-in had been made.

The location of the smoke-in, which will feature two bands, "Angels Society" from San Francisco, and "Cold Attack" from Maine, is still tentative, Swan said. He said the UMass campus is also being considered.

"It could change as a result of tomorrow's meeting to make it easier for those involved," Swan said, "because the march and smoke-in could cause a lot of disruption and congestion in amherst Center."

Of Maia, who was unavailable for comment, Swan said, "Maia does not want to see a smoke-in at Amherst Commons."

The Yippies, a national organization formed in the '60's by Abbie Hoffman and others, are organizing 24 smoke-ins across the country to take place between April 1 and July 4 of this year.

Two other Yippie-sponsored smoke-ins are planned for next week on April 22 in Ashland Oregon, and on April 23 in Tucson, Arizona.

The Yippies have also announced that May 6 is National Marijuana Day, which will be marked by a march on Fifth Avenue in New York City, according to Swan.

FACES

spring scarves

Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

from our perspective

First Amendment Rights

The UMass student Senate will be considering curtailing funding of the Collegian next Wednesday night, as well as setting up an alternative newspaper which would use the Collegian space and equipment. This is not only illegal according to their own constitution, it is illegal according to the first amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

In a legally efficacious move last night, the student Senate rescinded a motion they made last week to repossess the Collegian's equipment and stop Collegian funding if the Collegian Board of Editors did not vote to accept the demands of the women who were occupying the Collegian office at the time. Their action was caused by the serving of a subpeona to Brian DeLima and the co-presidents of the Student Government Association, who were to appear in court this morning in response to a restraining order the Collegian had asked for so that the staff could decide on the issue of women's pages without the threat of having our equipment and funding taken away. The Collegian will be bowing out of this case this morning, as the rescinding by the Student Senate makes this particular restraining order not necessary.

Two things should be noted about thse recent developments. First, the whole issue of women's pages had nothing to do with the Collegians legal action against the student senate. Last week's vote was clearly an action taken to stop the publication of this newspaper, and to set editorial policy for it. This is clearly against any idea of press freedom.

It was sincerely regretted by both members of the women's community and the Collegian Board of Editors that the Senate used the women's pages issue as a device to get back at a paper that does not support the corrupt and unethical power structure they choose to call a Senate.

Second, the Collegian will fight, in court if necessary, any attempts by the SGA to abridge our rights as a newspaper.

If this campus is to have any discussion of the legitimate issues facing us, it is clear that the Student Senate and the SGA power structure has got to keep their hands of the press, and realize that freedom of the press is not a right to be toyed with.

All unsigned Editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Letters

Afro-Am Spring Concert; a change

To the Editor:

We would like to respond to the letter written by the many concerned residents of Johnson House. [Friday, April 14].

To begin with, the Black American Music Festival is not taking the place of our annual Spring Concert: rather, it is our Spring Concert. We support it for these reasons; many students on campus actually enjoy Black Classical Music. This is proven by the existence of various jazz programs such as, WMUA's Black Mass Communications Project, the recent addition of the Afro-American Music Degree Program, and the appearance on campus of such jazz masters as Sarah Vaughan, Oscar Peterson, Dexter Gordon, Max Roach, etc.

Granted many students on campus do not support the concept of an Afro-Am Spring Concert, however, there have also been many students who have not been happy with the selection of performing artists in the past Spring Concerts. These people did not feel represented by the white acid rock hippy yippy UMIE culture, or one that may be happier with Boston or Peter Framptin as the main attraction.

If the residents of Johnson House have asked why the SGA has not selected someone who "everyone has heard of," then talent obviously does not matter to them. Talent should be the criteria used in evaluating an artist, rather than a name, "everyone has heard of." It is important that students gain experience and insight at the University. That is why we are here.

It seems that your attitudes are the result of proglonged exposure to a racist, Capitalist society, one which has continuously attempted to repress the development of the Afro-American culture. Racism is integral to this Capitalist social formation as the reproduction of this economic system depends on exploitation of minorities. This has been defined in history by the existence of slavery, segregation, and general apathy towards the rise of the Afro-Am culture, a culture influential in all aspects of life, including music. Could you deny the important role that jazz has played in the development of music as it exists today?

You are not to be blamed for your "ignorance", not everyone knows who McCoy Tyner is. Howewver, it is important that you are open to change and the positive exposure to different cultures. This is why we support the Afro-Am Spring Concert.

McCoy Tyner is not a big name in the rock circles. He is a black jazz pianist. He has played with such greats as John Coltrane, Miles Davis, Elvin Jones, etc. We sincerely hope that you enjoy the Spring Concert as it is palnned, and that you find it enlightening and culturally educational.

B. Roth
C. Petroph

Buy Gallo wines now

Repeatedly untrue reports that the UFW boycott was over have made many socially conscious shoppers suspicious of the latest reports. Especially in view of Gallo's failure to bargain in good faith with UFW, some of us have wondered whether this is another cynical attempt to break the boycott.

Many persons have asked me, as a long time supporter of local UFW organizing efforts, whether it is really OK to buy Gallo before they sign a UFW contract. After much thought, my advice is: Yes, by all means buy Gallo now. If there is enough of an upsurge in sales in the wake of the boycott, Gallo will be more cautious about provoking Chavez into reinstating the boycott later. At least one local package store which resisted the boycott admitted that Gallo sales had picked up following the official end of the boycott. Justice for farmworkers will not come of out of the goodness of Ernest and Julio's hearts but from a positive sales curve. So be it.

F. Peter Sabey, Campus Minister, UCF

Sports columnist questioned

To the Editor:

Probably the most important function of any newspaper is reporting the facts. The key to successful journalism is credibility. considering that, and the Collegian's questionable reputation for accuracy. I found Steve Buckley's column on the sports page April 6, "Opening Day Memories" downright insulting. Mr. Buckley's self-proclaimed expertise first becomes suspect when he declines to mention opening day, 1968. If he doesn't remember what Carl Yastrzemski did on that day, he doesn't deserve to be called a diehard. He did, after all, claim he has a "vivid recollection of every Red Sox opener since 1966."

But the worst part is his description of opening day, 1970. I do not understand why he says "Aparicio and Griffin make great fielding plays," considering that in 1970, Aparicio batted .313 for the White Sox, and that Griffin was in Hawaii, playing for the Angels minor league team there. Buckley goes on to say that the play of the game was made by Duane Josephson, who didn't join the Sox until the next season, either. The Red Sox started Rico Petrocelli, Mike Andrews and Gerry Moses at short, second and catcher.

Perhaps I would be nitpicking if I pointed out that the Sox "rolled" by the awesome score of 4-3 [Bill Lee in relief of Gary Peters,] or that it was Yaz, batting third, who caught up with Aaricio, [batting second] at third base in 1972.

I think I've made my point. If the Collegian wants credibility, then Mr. Buckley and everyone else had better get their facts straight.

Jeffry R. Zagihailafb

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters fo a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

Keep

kevin knobloc

I expect most of the radicals will end
Civil Service burearcats.
Daniel Patrick Moynihan, 19

The American press is fond of dismissi the Seventies as a decade of docile, almo non-existent campus political activity. Wi a visible lack of explosive and controvers media events, of riots, sit-ins and protest bored journalists remain faithful to t popular images they helped to create decade ago.

Needless to say, strong nation movements working towards social a political change at both public and priva campuses on both coasts are being ignor by the media. An occasional event, such the Seabrook occupation staged by t
Clamshell Alliance last summer attracts t media's eye, but student organizatio working to update and change legislati and policy relating to the environme human rights and consumer protecti have yet to be regarded as "newsworthy."

The bulk of today's students, we are to are working diligently at thier studies that the job of their choice will be awaiti them upon graduation. Similarly, it h become common knowledge that t foremost leaders of the Sixtie's Count Culture have long since been assimilated i to the "establishment" they loudly pr tested against.

To a great extent, the theory that many the student radicals of the Sixties end their controversial activities soon aft

Conscious

In the midst of a campus full of home grown humanism and self-made soybea lovers, it is often difficult to spot the advances of "modern technology" for which this decade will be renowned. Naturalism has served to emphasize another aspect of this era, however. "Awareness" is the standard of the age.

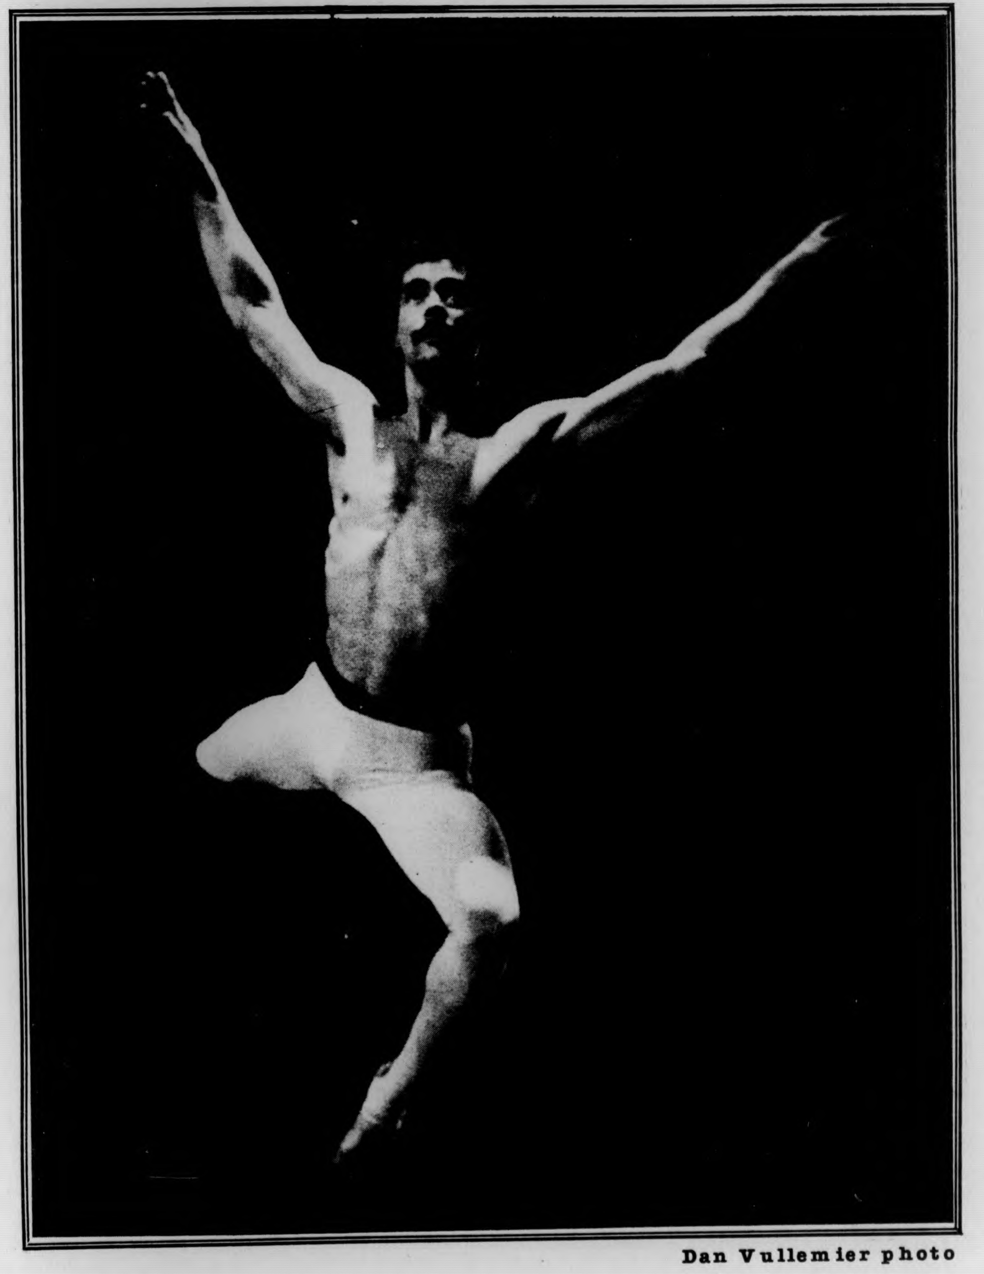
The consciousness I refer to is that manifestation of spirtual achievement flaunted by so many poor and underdeveloped incarnations. It seems that every guru and altar boy has discovered some hitherto unknown short-cut to nirvana. Most of them locate it somewhere between the liver and the esophagus.

In this lofty and rarified atmosphere, one could conceiveably anticipate love, tolerance, and an occasional metaphysical brownie point. This is not the case, however, for many of the uninitiates. Recently, for instance, several unsavory, "enlightened" opinions were rendered loudly to a gospel rock band performing on campus.

Perhaps the disenchanted were feeling threatend by "competition." Maybe they accept only empirical "truths." It is possible that the band was perpetuating a tradition of oppression by the church. If such is

---

Below The Salt
Massachusetts Daily Collegian Thursday, April 20, 1978



Dan Vullemier photo

Everything comes out HOT

The VFW, Post 754
457 Main St., Amherst
253-9286

By LAUREN TRAUB

Walking down the red-carpeted flight of stairs to enter the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post for your first time, and entering the long room where you are subject to the interested scrutiny of the beer and shot crowd who sit watching the game on the tube, you may ask yourself, "What am I getting into here?" But after sampling the fare and warming up to the non-traditional ambiance, you may become a permanent fan. The VFW is not in the business of serving food and drinks to the public for profit, but more as a service to its members and the lucky non-members who take advantage of the fact.

Diners give their orders at the bar and are served at their tables by a waitress. The seven red upholstered booths have beautiful rich inlaid wood around them, and are illuminated by light bulbs in clear glass lanterns that can be either romantic or glaring, depending on how high they're turned up. Sturdy plastic-paper plates and classy smoked clear plastic forks and spoons are used. The clientele is a mix of mostly Amherst residents.

Lunches are served Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. catering to the lunch hour crowd, and each day there is a different featured dish and a selection of a few sandwiches. A typical menu for the week may feature one dish like meat loaf, baked pork chop, liver and onions, corned beef, or seafood each day. The highlight of the week is the fish fry featured every Friday night from 5 p.m. "til whenever" (the food runs out). Baked stuffed haddock ($1.95), fish and chips ($1.50), shrimp in a basket ($2.25), fried clams ($3.50), and fried scallops ($2.75) are the usual fare, with clam chowder, onion rings, cheeseburgers, and sandwiches to round out the menu. Sometimes steamers, lobster, fried chicken, or steak are available.

Chowder ($.80 bowl) is a thick, creamy version laden with potato chunks and clams or seafood. Those who attempt to just sample the large portion of soup in order to "save room" for the rest will have a hard time not devouring every last drop of this delicious appetizer. The fish and chips are notably excellent with the large filet of perfectly cooked fish and sides of fries and creamy cole slaw which accompany this and all other main dishes. The slaw was coarsely grated and crisp, tasting as if it had been made no more than a few hours earlier. Baked stuffed haddock is actually baked to order, and so takes about a half hour. All fried seafood is coated with a wonderful batter that fries to a crisp golden brown, and everything comes out HOT, a tribute to the chef's precision timing. The only thing not quite up to par was our side order of onion rings ($.75) which tasted like they were pre-made or frozen. They were soft instead of crisp, and would have been so much better and not much harder to make fresh.

We also experienced the Saturday chili which goes from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., or when it runs out. The chili ($.80 bowl) is not too spicy, with kidney beans and large chunks of browned hamburg in a rich tomato sauce. A bargain priced lunch for a blustery spring day.

An occasional Sunday special is homemade pizza made by a VFW member who once presided over a local pizzeria. Pizzas about 11 inches in diameter replete with pepperoni, onions, green peppers, and hamburger cost $2.50, and oh, sooo good straight out of the oven. The crust is thin and crisp in the center, and thick and bready around the edges. Pizzas can be ordered to take out, and are advertised as being served from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m., but they go fast, and you should get there by 6 p.m. to insure getting one.

A wide selection of domestic and imported bottled beers is served at the VFW, with Beck's, Holstein Lager, and St. Pauli Girl, the highest priced at a very reasonable $.90. Lambrusco, California burgundy, chablis, and rose are $.65 a glass. Draft Michelobs are $.45, and most brand name liquors are $.75 or $.85 a shot, with Jack Daniels for $.90. Our dinner of two clam chowders, fried scallops, fish and chips, side of onion rings, glass of wine, and milk came to $7.55. The food can easily compete with the best in town, and the value for the money is a sure winner.

Below The Salt

records

Records come down from the sky. Page 10,11 & 14.

dance

Dance in motion and print. Page 12

theater

"Same Time" seems fine. Page 12

music

Levitans's bluegrass roundup: Part two. Page 17.

culture

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A sst. Editor | Mary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacy Belkind |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |
| Food Editor | Lauren Traub |

Below The Salt takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requires that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt."

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topic of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submission can be made at the Collegian offices 113 Campus Center, 545-3500.

It's The Sporting Life

Bare Traps
Leather and wood sandals for women.
$18.00

India Print Wrap Skirts
100% cotton prints.
$10.95

Chinos
Lightweight poplin for men and women.
Tan, navy, light blue and light green.
$12.95

Gym Shorts
In a rainbow of colors.
$3.95

Women's Tank Tops
Lodge's own brand in rose, kelly, yellow and white.
$3.95

Dancewear
Danskin Milliskins and Capezios.

Jogging Shoes
For men, in different styles.
$11.00 and $13.00

Amherst — Route 9 next to McDonald's. 584-9690.
Store hours: Monday through Friday 10-9.
Saturday 10-6.

THE LODGE at harvard square ®

---

Local guitarist offers self in packaged song

Vincent Mitchell
Solo Jass Guitar
Blue Crescent Records

Reviewed by K. STEPHEN SHAIN

It is rare these days to find culture forms that indeed encourage participation, thrusting creation out of its mystified realm of spectation to its real and passionate role as a popular performance. Participation indeed, and what could be more natural than a guitar teacher taking his pedagogy to viny, inspiring, lick by lick, you the listener! "C'mon, you can do it too ..." he makes those guitar scales say, " ... and I'll show you how!"

Vincent Mitchell is one such enterprising and talented guitar player. Rather than to opt for fame and fortune as a superstar guitar player for anybody's favorite rock band, Vin has decided to take his message to the people and let them hear what committment sounds like. Though his lessons on Solo Jass Guitar are in swing, his students and listeners will undoubtedly recognize not only Vin's famous Movable Position Scales For Guitar, but a handful of classics arranged for swing-guitar soloing performed with a high degree of intensity and integrity, once again separating the music lovers from the fans, the musicians from the bands, and the soloists from the scams.

Songs like "Red Roses for a Blue Lady," "The Way We Were," and "When Sunny Gets Blue" usually conjure up in my mind images of rows of canned corn in the local supermarket under the influence of muzak but, not from Vinnie. Through documented (in his books) techniques, Vin has arranged these to sound not only pleasant, not only entertaining, but downright accessible to you, the average hi-fi listener and already-now if-not-could-be guitar player and potential student of the art. And this, I think, is ultimately what Vin wants. To be able to affect the listener in ways that loaded talent couldn't even dream of doing, let alone without ever having once to compromise taste and integrity.

"Here, There and Everywhere," is sure to attract some young listeners to the depth and variation of the swing sound while, and I'm not kidding, "When You Wish Upon A Star," will affect a whole budding young generation of dub-rockers, providing they get the chance to listen. "Cabaret," was arranged as if by an author, who, after surveying the length and breadth of all known stage adaptations of a particular story, comes up with yet another original adaptation, revealing yet another facet of the original author's intended matrix.

And Vin is an author, too. Besides his prior mentioned collaborative effort with Fran Ferry, Moveable Positions Scales For Guitar, (this guitar student's long awaited moveable scale book at last!) Vin has authored Side by Side, an instruction book of songs and compositions for the instrumental finger-style guitar. Designed to complement the recording, these books become, for the student, an indispensable key to the arrangements on the record, and might help you, the listener, to achieve the heights of rock and roll superstardom that Vin has so valiantly shrugged.

Though Vin is a teacher in UMass' Division of Continuing Education and his records are available at nearly every record shop in town including The Guitar Workshop (where you may also purchase the books) they should be available to all throughout the free world, and anywhere else aspiring young musicians could use an even break.

Class struggle...

"1900"
directed by Bernardo Bertolucci cast: many Italian workers, Gerard Depardieu, Robert DeNiro, Sterling Hayden, Bert Lancaster, Dominique Sanda, Donald Sutherland.

Reviewed by SKIP TENCZAR

Almost two years after its European premier, Bernardo Bertolucci's "1900" had its first area showing at the Academy of Music in Northampton last week. "1900" was a film that was doomed to slow distribution in the U.S. from its beginning, and its no surprise that it took two years to get to us. It seems that Paramount was extremely aprehensive about distributing a film directed by an Italian which depicts 45 years of class struggle in his homeland.

Then hangups in the film's distribution were simple; Paramount contracted with Bertolucci for a three hour film, and when the film premiered at the Cannes film festival in the spring of 1976 it was 5 hours 10 minutes in length. Paramount, who was one of the prime financiers of the film, wanted to cut it down to three hours for U.S. distribution. Ertolucci then refused to let them touch the film, for he must have known of Hollywood's reputation of butchering editting habits. [The finishing and changing of Eisenstein's "Que Viva Mexico!" beyond all recognition, and Otto Preminger's running battle with producer's who want to re-edit his films are two examples out of many which built this reputation of butchery.] Out of this disagreement emerged a court battle between the studio and the filmmaker. Finally a compromise was reached between them, and Bertolucci was to cut the film for U.S. distribution himself. A year and a half after the Cannes premier, "1900" came to the U.S. in an aproximately four hour version of the original.

"1900" is a film about class struggle in Italy from 1900 to 1945. It is a historical study of two families over this 45 year span. One family is rich and landowning, the second is comprised of working peasants who cultivate the others land. Bertolucci exposes the contradictions of the socio-economic relationship between the two, and out of all the film's characters only the peasants truly understand these contradictions. Because they are the only ones who recognize them, they are the only ones to struggle against the relationship. And boom, given this filmic framework, conservative and liberal critics alike were accusing Bertolucci of being a propagandist. Well Bertolucci is no mere a propagandist than any other filmmaker, as a matter of fact "1900" is more true to history than many films released in the U.S. (Viva Zapata, The Green Berets, and most Hollywood westerns are some examples that are nothing more than Historical manipulation and conjuring) Propaganda no, a moving tale about people which just so happens to include their economic relations, yes.

...battles distribution

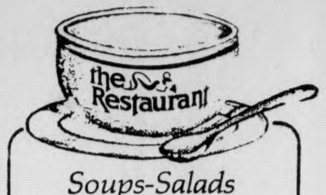
"1900", because of its length, is divided into two parts. The first is a beautifully moving poetic view of the two families and the farm which they both inhabit. The lives of the people who work on and rule this piece of land are intimately shown, the camera all the while moves slowly, a participatory observer not wanting to miss an incident. We see the peasants, in their tattered clothes, one room huts, cultivating the land, and surviving in an extended family unit in which all share and care for each other. We see the landowning family who employs the peasants, in their finely tailored garments, luxurious home, planning their farm-business, and living in a small family in which each does their own activity at their leisure. We see there relationships with each other, the old patron and the oldest worker, the children of both families, their contempt for each other and their respect.

The film starts with two children being born on the same day, one in each family. Both children are fatherless, and rely on their grandfathers, who are each the respective family heads. These two men have a relationship which is under constant strain; the peasant leader trying to gain power, the landowner trying to maintain it. As the two boys who share the same birthdate grow up, they have a relationship with each other that is similar to their grandfathers. Though these two characters the class relationship is retained only because through time it has not changed, only reformed. They grow together, even become friends, but the power placement never really changes.

"1900" continues to trace these characters through time, birth, puberty, war, marriage, middle age, and death. In the second part of the film, which is of a gloomy, ominous texture, Bertolucci shows us the building of facism by the landowners who fund the blackshirts. The workers at this time becoming active, striking, rebelling, and building a socialist consciousness. Facism is a way of putting down the workers attempted rise to power by the use of tyranny.

TURN TO PAGE 14



the Restaurant

Soups-Salads
Sandwiches
Quiches
Bagels and Spreads
Baked Goods

Homemade
and Always Fresh

at Faces next to the Amherst Post Office
hours: 9:30 to 6:00 256-8955

Get it on your chest.

Any design or logo Screen Printed on T-Shirts for dorms, teams, clubs, concerts, parties, etc. 20 colors, 15 styles including reg. T's, sweats, shorts, trim T's, French and European cut, and long sleeve T's, etc. No order too large or too small. Write for catalog or call

FORTE PRINTING
P.O. BOX 211
FLORENCE, MA 01060

Campus Rep
Steve Milligan
545-3539

Announcing
a new shipment of

Leather
Jackets

If first quality,
selling elsewhere at $100 - $175

Faces Price: $48.50
Excellent Condition

FACES

Faces of Earth
Downtown Amherst
Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

albums

Steve Hackett
Please Don't Touch
Chrysalis

Reviewed BY TOM AVERSA

Steve Hackett left Genesis last year in order to devote his full time to exploring other musical styles. "Please Don't Touch" is the culmination of four months in the recording studio with such varied musicians as Richie Havens (believe it or not), Steve Walsh and Phil Ehart (of Kansas), Tom Fowler, Chester Thompson, John Hackett and Randy Crawford. Steve has real balls to have left Genesis, a band which was at the peak of its commercial success, for an unsure solo venture which could go nowhere. Fortunately, however, on "Please Don't Touch", Hackett manages to integrate various types of music with extremely satisfying results.

Although "Please Don't Touch" is Hackett's first album since leaving Genesis, "Voyage of the Acolyte", a 1976 release, previously demonstrated his ability to write fine music. Whereas Voyage struck mainly to the space music which Hackett is so familiar with, "Please Don't Touch" blends madness with straight out rock, jazz, love songs, soul and fine acoustic guitar work.

Side on opens with "Narnia", a tune which is based on the first book of the "Chronicles of Narnia" by C.S. Lewis. Steve Walsh is featured on vocals. "Carry on up the Vicarage" is a real strange number which utilizes vocal tape loops and other technology to achieve a make-believe atmosphere. "Racing in A" is the other cut which utilized Steve Walsh's fine vocals. However, it is Hackett's incredible guitar which really makes it work. "Kim" an acoustic guitar interlude precedes "How Can I", a song on which Richie Haven sings with satisfactory results. "Hoping Love Will Last" on side two, is a love song sung by Randy Crawford which, although different, is a nice tune. "Land of 1000 Autumns", "Please Don't Touch" and "The Voice of Necam", all instrumental, show Hackett's main strengths. His guitar's unique sound, as well as a variety of synthesizers create some of the finest space music released in a while. "Icarus Ascending" another cut which utilizes Haven's vocals, closes the album out.

"Please Don't Touch" should appeal to Genesis fans as well as other fans of good music. Although not as consistently good as "Voyage of the Acolyte", the album still contains some amazing material.

Uriah Heep
Innocent Victim
Warner Brothers

Reviewed by ROSS NERENBERG

A once first-rate heavy metal quintet that has been musically impotent for years goes to extraordinary lengths in trying to whip up some new fire, but alas, all is in vain. Recent personnel changes and personality conflicts have combined to strip Heep of any hope for the future. Their best work (and contrary to much critical opinion, they have produced some good stuff) is all too obviously behind them now. Therefore, this, their thirteenth album, unluckily earns itself a "don't you become the Innocent Victim who unluckily purchases it D.

Focus
Focus con Proby
Harvest

Reviewed by LARRY LEE

The addition of P. J. Proby to Focus is a step in the wrong direction for such a fine band. Proby's vocals tend to dominate what would otherwise be good tunes. On "Tokyo Rose" Proby comes across as Mr. Soul Train singing about how "WWII was no fun if you didn't even have a gun." It's difficult to understand how any record company could waste the vinyl on such trash.

The instrumental tunes, however are excellent. Steve Smith, drummer for Jean-Luc Ponty, does a fine job but he holds back for some reason. Philip Catherine plays rhythm and lead guitar in typical fasion; great. When you hear lead guitarist, Eef Albers, you want to ask questions like, who is he? Where did he come from? He has a clean flowing style that won't quit. Eef is going places. Bert Riter, on bass, puts in an about average performance. He doesn't do anything very spectacular. Thijs van Leer, behind the operation, sits back too much. It is too bad because he is capable of more.

My advice to Focus, dump Proby. Their music is too good to have to pull Proby's dead weight.

FACES' SPECTACULAR SPRING SALE
SAVE 88%
BUSH JACKETS
100% cotton, brand new, good size selection. Color: rust. Reg. $16.50
Sale Price $1.99
SAVE 67%
SHIRTS
100% cotton, brand new, good size selection, many designs. Reg. $6.00
Sale Price $1.99
SAVE 48%
LEVI JACKETS
Sizes 38 and 40 only. These jackets are brand new, pre-washed, and have a small hole in one cuff. Reg. $23.95
Sale Price $12.95
Save 65%
LEATHER JACKETS
Manufacturer's returns, excellent condition. Reg. $100.—$175.
Sale Price $48.75
Save 25%
DANSKIN LEOTARDS
Style 9190
Reg. $8.50
Sale Price $5.95
HATS and CAPS, TOTES, BASKETS, and a selection of BEDSPREADS at SUPER SAVINGS!
We also have an end-of-season surplus offering of the following labels, from one of New England's most prestigious women's retail stores: Bagatelle, Craig, Ellen Tracy, Gil Aimber Genre, Mr. Judd, Ms. Arkin, Outlander, Ruffin Knit, and Springer and Spicer. Reg. $40.-$105. SALE PRICE $16.-$28.
Sale Days: Thurs., Fri., Sat., April 20-22
FACES
Faces of Earth. Downtown Amherst. Open 10:00-6:00. Mon.-Sat.

JONATHAN SOUWEINE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY
REGISTER
VOTE
UMASS CAMPUS CENTER
25-27 APRIL 78
HAMPSHIRE LIBRARY

"Some people think Army Nursing is the rifle range and pulling K.P. It's really amazing how little they know."
—Lieutenant Mary Ann Hepner

"Though I'm an Army Nurse, I can also pursue outside interests like dress-designing and sailing.

"One of the pluses of Army Nursing is the nature of the nurse/patient relationship. I don't treat patients like numbers. I follow their progress. I visit them after the acute part of their illness is over. They are so appreciative. It's really part of a nurse's job to help the patient through an illness.

"To me, it's an important job . . . My family is very proud of me. I'm the first person in the family to join the military.

"The Army is a place of self-discovery. It's a total learning experience."

If you'd like to join Mary Ann Hepner in the Army Nurse Corps, here are a few facts you should know. Army Nursing is open to both men and women, under the age 33, with BSN degrees. Every Army Nurse is a commissioned officer.

You are not required to go through the Army's standard basic training: instead you attend a basic orientation course. Your initial tour is three years—just enough to try the job on for size.

For more information about opportunities for Registered Nurses in the Army Nurse Corps, you may write: Army Nurse Opportunities, Northeast Region, U.S. Army Recruiting Command, Fort George G. Meade, MD 20755. Or, you may telephone the nearest Army Nurse Opportunities office. Call collect to . . .
In Boston: 617-542-6000, Ext. 122
In New York: 212-986-7613
In Pittsburgh: 412-644-5881
In Philadelphia: 215-597-9588
In Baltimore-Washington, D.C.: 301-677-5001
Ask for information about . . .
The Army Nurse Corps

more albums

Jethro Tull
Heavy Horses
Chrysalis

Reviewed by ROSS B. NERENBERG

Having now survived the rigors of rock for nearly a decade, Ian Anderson has grown both older and wiser as the leader of Jethro Tull. It is he who has been forced to shoulder the wrath of spiteful music critics who have ruthlessly found it "camp" to dump on Tull for reasons more personal than musical. But he still remains true to his diehard followers as he continues to march to the beat of his own wishes and desires, not those of his crudely contemptible critics who continually heap harsh words of abuse upon him as they hide lecherously behind their Typhoean typewriters.

I, happily, disclaim membership in the above group and am most overwhelmed by the sound of Heavy Horses, Tull's newest release. Horses sticks to the basic blend of material which made last year's Songs From The Wood so enjoyable. Masterfully mixing acoustic ballads with lush orchestrations ("Moths," "One Brown Mouse," "Rover") and hard rockers with Aqualungish heavy-metal riffing ("And The Mouse Police Never Sleeps"), the entire six-man crew plays with a dynamic sense of style and conviction, not to mention instrumental virtuosity. Best results are achieved when the two styles — acoustic and electric — meet head on, as they do within the confines of the disc's two most ambitious (and longest) cuts, "No Lullaby" (7:54) and the title track, "Heavy Horses" (8:57). "No Lullaby" sounds as if it may well have been written as tongue-in-cheek advice to "Young Master James," Ian's infant son. Reminding the tiny tot that life is something more than just a bowl of cherries, Anderson sings, "Let no sleep bring false relief from the tension of the fray/Come wake the dead with the scream of life/Do battle with ghosts at play."

The title track pays nostalgic tribute to the ever-steady workhorses of Britain whose place in the English countryside has lately been taken over by modern machinery. So, to the "indigenous working horses" he sings, "The Suffolk, the Clydesdale, the Percheron vie, with the Shire on his feathers floating/Hauling soft timber into the dusk, to bed on a warm straw coating."

Jethro Tull has once again returned to the forefront of rock, recording music which is meant to be listened to; really listened to; no mere pop ditties to flow in one ear and out the other. Ian Anderson, our contemporary version of Shelley, Byron, and Keats all rolled into one, has once again graced the world of rock music with a masterpiece. Heavy Horses is definitely among this band's finest works. It romps on home with a "Jethro Tull's doing more than just horsing around" (A.)

Aztec Two Step
Adjoining Suites
RCA

Reviewed by R. C. ALVORD

Aztec Two Step's new release, Adjoining Suites, has found the two out of the barroom and into your parlor. Instead of their usual well accepted "backstreet barroom strummin" style, Aztec Two Step has moved into the parlor with a sit and listen motif. It seems that they have finally recognized their affluence and choose to show it on their new album. So they got a back-up band of studio musicians, wrote some mediocre songs, and came out with a professionally over-produced album. They refurbished their style and arrived at a perfectly flawless album. But they lost the impact that their previously released material contained. Why do they want to move into the FM, mellow-out-rock, easy listening category? Is it affluence gone to their heads? Are they afraid to be different? Or maybe they have been sitting in their plush Beverly Hills type apartments snorting coke too much?

There is nothing wrong with the album musically; it just isn't the Aztec Two Step of the past. Perfection for the duo has definitely resulted in sterility. My advice to them is to get out of their suites and stop snorting cocaine — take off those fancy clothes and put on our faded jeans again — put down your wine glass and grab a beer — get out of our parlors and return to our barrooms. Refinement is not always a step ahead. Now that you've made it, don't forget your roots ... because without roots you can't stand up!

Tower of Power

CBS

Reviewed by DAVE RODMAN

Since 1972, when I first became acquainted with T of P, via their "Bump City" lp to their present effort, the group has undergone wholesale personnel changes.

It seems lead singers change with every new recording, with the result being, after five albums have passed through my hands, only the quartet of Mic Gillette, Steve Kupka, Emilio Castillo and Greg Adams remain from the original (for me) recording.

However, holding to the watchwords "we're just compensatin' for the pigment that we lack;" throughout that period, T of P has consistently dished out a hard-driving, funky, rockin' soul style distinguished mainly by its brash, brassy, "horny horns" wielded by the aforementioned foursome, among others.

"We came to Play" continues the trend begun with "Ain't nothing stoppin' us Now," the group's last effort. That is, more towards a repetitous, disco-type beat, with T of P's funky flair.

"We came to play," the title track; "Lovin' you is gonna see me through," the most disco-fied song; Yin-yang thang," vintage T of P; and "Share my life," another disco number, are all "get off your ass and jam" rockers.

Side one's ballad, "Let me touch you," stays with the tradition established with "You're still a young man," but it is with the remaining ballads that the album's major weakness lies. They are pretty weak, without smoothness or substance. "Come back baby," "What happened to the world that day," and "It's so nice" have it all over the ballads on "We came..."

However, who ever listened to T of P to mellow out, anyway?

Lenny White

The Adventures of Astral Pirates
Elektra

Reviewed by TOM AVERSA

The Adventures of Astral Pirates, Lenny White's third solo album, is an ambitious project produced by Lenny and Al Kooper. All three of White's albums have been consistently strong, displaying the former Return to Forever drumm riting as well as drumming ability.

Whereas Lenny's albums featured an amazing assortment of jazz-rock luminaries, including Al DiMeola, Brian Auger, Ray Gomez, Herbie Hancock and Jan Hammer, Astral Pirates employs Lenny's own band. Don Blackman does a fine job on a variety of keyboards. Nick Moroch plays lead guitar, while Jeff Sigman plays rhythm. Alex Blake, a fine bassist who's been with Lenny for a while, makes his presence felt. Of course, White's drumming is phenomenal. If he is not the best drummer around, he's definitely one of the top five.

The Adventures of Astral Pirates comes replete with a sci-fi story, which the music follows very vividly. Only one song, "Universal Love", includes lyrics, and yet most of the others get the plot across without the aid of words. The music is a blend of funk, space rock, jazz, and imagination. "Climax: Theme for the Astral Pirates", the eight minute opus that ends the album, is such a jass-rock masterpiece, that it alone is worth the price of the album. Jazz-rock fans know that few can do it better than Lenny White.

BUST OUT FOR THE WEEKEND
Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer frequent service to Boston, New York and many other great, get-away-from-it-all places.
CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES
MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.
For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549 6000

Four Seasons
Package Store
DISCOUNT LIQUORS
RUSSELL ST. HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall
Genesee Beer
12 oz. N.R. bottles
$4.99
case
Jim Beam Bourbon
$5.99
Quart
Colonial Club Amaretto
$2.99
Quart
Andre Champagnes
Cold Duck-Extra Dry-Pink
$2.09
Fifth
Tuesday, April 18 To Saturday, Aprill 22
We reserve the right to limit quantities

Dance / a series of rhythmic and patterned bodily movements usually performed to music

Improvisation art

By SHARON TRUE

"People are non-committal when it comes to art. They are afraid that what they think isn't right, that what a critic says is the way it really was. We want people to acknowledge their response and to make their own connections. To know that you don't have to apologize for what you feel."

So said Cynthia Lawton after the performance she, Catherine Clairemont and musicians Tim Moran (saxophone, bass clarinet) and Tim Wiener (percussion) gave April 12 in the Cape Cod Lounge. It was a very informal performance, with no special lighting, simple costumes, and close proximity to the audience. The choreographed dances had titles such as "Ambivilence," "Fall", and "Recovery," and one that was improvised incorporated themes suggested by the audience — hysteria, a new relationship, spring.

Apparently, the informal context of the performance and the dancers' and the musicians' request for feedback allowed people to open up and respond to what they saw.

"She's so light!" said Barbara Goldfarb or Cynthia in her opening dance. "It's interesting, people expressing," commented Donald Boy. A group of 10-year-olds said "It's good!," "Especially the saxophone," added one.

What were the dancers' feelings about the performance? Catherine said, "The dance changed when I performed it! It didn't turn out like I expected at all." Cynthia said that the people walking by were somewhat distracting, but that it was important and exciting to her that she could see them, see their faces.

Most people agreed that events such as this were a good idea. "It sends you flying," said one woman. Jon Epstein remarked that it was a good trying-out place, and that the dancers' movement was fluid, flowing, and nice.

The performance was part of series of artistic events planned by Mark Purcelli in connection with Earthfoods. Part of the performance will be used as material for Cynthia's independent concert in Northhampton in May.

A dancer at mid-career

Baryshnikov at Work
Mikhail Baryshnikov
Discusses His Roles
Text Edited and Introduced by Charles Engell France
1978 New York
Alfred A. Knopf
Paperback $11.95 252 pages

Reviewed By SHARON TRUE

Most books artists write about themselves represent ending-points — a reflecting-back on their careers, a discussion of their theories, experiences and accomplishments. It is rare that a book is written right smack in the tumultuous middle of an artist's burgeoning career. Baryshnikov at Work is one of those rare books. And Mikhail Baryshnikov, a brilliant classical ballet dancer, is the rare artist who enlivens its pages.

In brief passages, sparkling with spontaneity, he discusses his roles in 26 (!!) of the ballets he has appeared in since coming to the west two years ago. He writes, for example, about how he approaches a role, what it's like working with various choreographers and in different styles, what he likes best and least about particular roles. The text (edited and introduced by Charles Engell France) is magnificently illustrated with 350 stunning, beautiful, "telling" performance and rehearsal photographs (by Martha Swope).

Baryshnikov's enthusiastic, unfettered prose, the dramatic, dynamic photographs, the large, simple typeface set off by the classy, curly-cue scripting of the ballet titles — all aspects of this book harmonize and reveal Baryshnikov as a gifted, hard-working, conscientious classical dance artist. No self-glorification, no pretentious rhapsodies. Just an honest, earnest description of his approach to a role:

"When I prepare a role, I naturally learn the steps first; however, I try to find the appropriate style from the beginning, and then rehearse the steps in it. As a young dancer I had a quite developed, secure technique, but my sense of style was often appalling. I now know that style is what gives blood and color to the bones of the piece, the technique. It is of utmost importance to work very hard to make technique and style one."

In reading the book, I was most struck by Baryshnikov's voracious appetite for "as large a variety of challenges as possible." Like Rudolf Nureyev, he has enthusiastically explored styles (like Twyla Tharp and Alvin Ailey's) other than his own classical ballet, and his candid remarks about the experience would hearten any frustrated dancer. Of Ailey's "Pas de Duke" composed for he and Judith Jamison he writes, "Alvin would do Judy's part and the assistant would do my part, and for hours I would stand behind them copying the steps in my own clumsy fashion. All I could ever think of was 'This isn't dancing, what I'm doing, this is sheer klutz!.... eventually it became more natural, and I felt less and less like a cow."

Baryshnikov at Work is not for those seeking profound pronouncements on the art of dance. Nor is it for those seeking art world glamour or gossip. It's a book about what dance really is to a dancer — hard work, dedication, thrills and frustration, and challenge, as one extraordinary artist has paused mid-career to relate it.

Brown: breaking down traditional barriers

Reviewed By SHARON TRUE

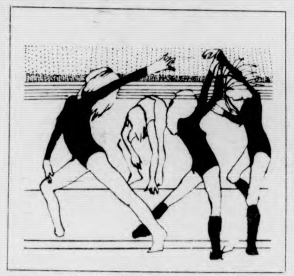
The things I enjoyed most about the performance that the Beverly Brown Dancensemble gave last Friday night (at the Hampshire College dance studio) were the close physical proximity of the audience to the dancers, some very pleasant swooping, scooping, spiraling movement, the deep, dark tones of the string bass contrasting with the biting resonance of a cow-bell-type percussion instrument in the first piece, and especially Ms. Brown's fascinating, informative lecture demonstration entitled "The Choreographic Process: From Inspiration into Form." The lec-dem took place between the two works she choreographed and performed in this evening, "Voices of the Becalmed" and "Life in a Drop of Pond Water."

The closeness gave an air of immediacy to the performance — you could hear the dancers breathing and feel their effort or their repose. Ms. Brown's lecture further broke down the traditional barriers between the audience and the dancers by letting us in on the choreographic process; the sources of inspiration, the reasons for particular movement images and why they were arranged in a particular way, plus the quirky choreographic coincidences that just happen, that so often give a dance its special character.

For example, in "Voices," the inspiration came in part from her learning that the expression "in the doldrums" referred to a place in the mid-Atlantic equitorial belt of quick weather changes, or calms and squalls. The image became a metaphor for her own emotional life experience, where she found that a storm is not always a bad thing, for the calm that follows it is wonderful. The syllables from the word "doldrums" also found their way into the singing parts of the dance.

She said the reason that there are so many diagonal patterns in the dance is because the only stage exit in the place where they rehearsed was in the downstage left corner. The long, flexible wooden poles that wer first held horizontally and clattered percussively on the floor (storm), then stood up and gently slid back and forth in an arcing motion (calm) — these just happened to be in the rehearsal studio one day and the dancers began to play around with them.

In addition to describing what inspired her dances, Ms. Brown had the dancers (Ellen Elias, Anita Feldman, Carter McAdams, Roger Tolle) demonstrate how the images were given form. The dancers showed how the feeling of the dance could be changed entirely by altering the rhythm, meter, spatial arrangement and movement sequence of certain sections of the two dances they performed. It was a unique educational experience.



Beverly Brown is noted for her use of the voice in her dance. At times (mostly the calm, blithe and harmonious sections) the vocal expression seemed natural and it complemented the quality of the movement. But more often, it seemed to me, the various syllables and vowels and pitches that were sung were not always organic to the movement or to the dancers themselves. Strident vocalizations sometimes became a substitute for clear, effective movement.

Taken as a whole, Brown's choreography was pleasant and fresh, but there were some dead spots, occurring at transitions from one movement idea to another.

Choreography for and by students

By SHARON TRUE

The University Dancers and the Concert Dance Group are presenting their Spring Concert this weekend at Bowker Auditorium. Thirteen dances are to be performed, the majority of them choreographed by students.

Learning about how a dance was created can often be as interesting as the dance itself. The Salt interviewed several student choreographers last week who gave a behind-the-scenes account of what creating dances is all about.

Patti Bradshaw, Susan Mahler, and Karen Niedish co-choreographed "Masq." "The dance was inspired by the music we chose — flute music from baroque to modern," said Susan, "and also by the masks we made and the different uses of them." The three women decided to work together because they noticed that they danced similarly. Susan said that the only real difficulty they had was that "since we're all in it, it was hard to get an outside eye. But we've been getting some good feedback from other people..."

Michael Colbert's "From Droop to Jump and Halfway Back" has a compositional or ideological framework dealing with two contrasting movement qualities, energy and lack of energy. The dance is for five women, and music student Bill Karl composed music for piano, french horn, trumpet, and trombone for it. "This is the first time I tried choreographing at rehearsal time instead of ahead of time. I got feedback from the choreography itself, working with it and against it. The dance changed direction from its original concept," Michael said.

"Doing the dance has taught me a lot about who I am, and what people mean to me," said Yves Toussaint of his solo "Ase's Death." "My dance is about my experience here at UMass, about how all people can become an overture over you." Diana Ramos' dance "Here, Now," a work about leaders like Duke Ellington and Lester Young was a source of inspiration to him, as was Richard Jones of the dance faculty, to whom Yves gives "many thanks for being more than a teacher."

"You Don't Have to Come Down" is a goofy dance, about senioritus and going crazy," said Steve Gibbons about the dance he and four others created. What inspired it? "We were going to so many rehearsals we didn't have time to party. So we partied at rehearsals, and ended up doing a dance about it. It's been really fun."

Sounds like an interesting show...

Dance concert opens tonight

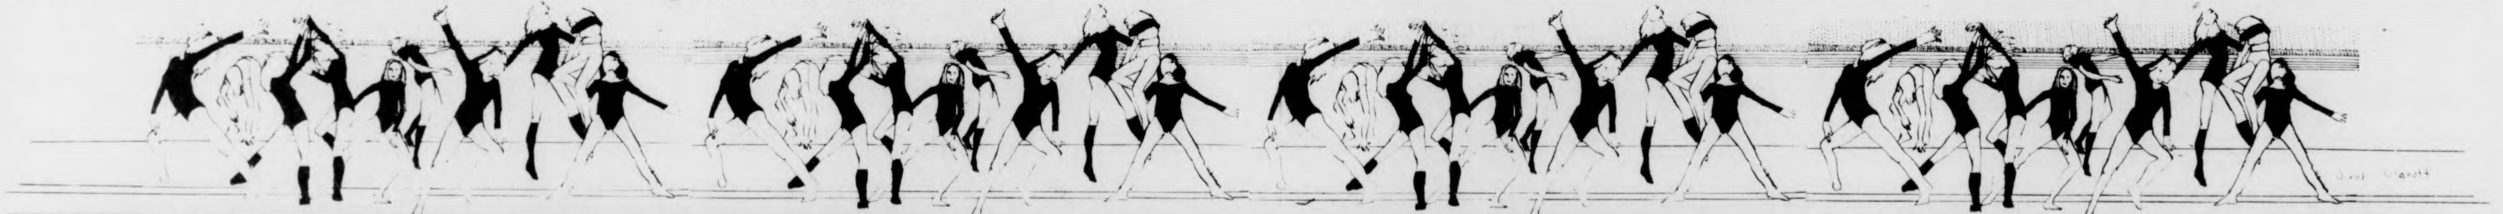
The University Dancers, Concert Dance Group, and the UMass Dance Faculty are inviting you the general public to celebrate spring by attending their annual Spring Dance Concert, April 21-22, 8 p.m. at Bowker Auditorium.

The refreshing new choreography to be presented ranges from the abstract to the classical, with some exciting jazz pieces rounding out the program. One piece, "Masq", co-choreographed by Karen Neidish, Susan Mahler and Patti Bradshaw incorporates medeival music, poetry, and masks. Jeff Coyne and Beth Hirschaut will appear in her new jazz duet, which promises to be a great crowd pleaser. Another jazz piece to be presented is the popular "Salute to Duke", choreographed by Richard Jones. This piece is currently in the repetoire of "Les Ballets Jazz", a company in residence in Montreal, Quebec. The work has been performed in Europe, Canada, and the U.S. and has received excellent reviews by Anna Kisselgoff of the New York Times. Marilyn Patton is presenting an interesting abstract piece, which features shapes moving through space accompanied by electronic music.

Everyone who attends a concert by the University Dancers is treated to a variety of new choreography in diverse dance styles. The Spring Dance Concert is certain to be an enjoyable evening of dance for all ages.

Tickets are available at the Fine Arts Center box office or at the door before each performance.



---

theater

'Same Time, Next Year': an exploration of sexual myths

"Same Time Next Year"
By Bernard Slade
at the UMass Fine Arts Center
April 14

Reviewed by JANIE PORTNOY

"Same Time Next Year" is good, clean fun about sex, Bernard Slade's comedy featuring Kathryn Crosby (Doris) and Tony Russel (George) is a refreshing depiction of adultery, insecurity, impotence, pregnancy, political contagions, and death — just to name a few of the complexities that can enter a person's life over a 25 year span. Claiming to be a comedy, "Same Time Next Year" holds true to its convictions.

The play is divided into two acts and six scenes, all of which are set in a guest cottage of a country inn in Northern California. In this room, once a year, for 25 years, Doris and George have a love affair.

This ongoing tradition by no means can be described as 'hot' or 'torrid'. Both of these people love their respective mates, but seek one other for that little, missing spice in life. Doris and George genuinely care about each other, making "Same Time Next Year" a benign look at adultery.While he's pretending to be balancing a client's books, she hides behind the facade of a religious retreat.

Having an often sinister and evil connotation, adultery involves cheating on one's partner, or 'illegal sex'. Doris and George justify their behavior by being so lovable, vulnerable, and guilty. The omnipresent cornucopia of guilt is what makes this extramarital rendezvous a little less wrong, especially when it is juxtaposed with such a likable pretext of innocence.

A day in February, 1951 opens post-intercourse. George hops out of bed, trying to hide his private parts behind boxer shorts and a pillow. This is ironic (and what makes George so likably innocent) because after you've done "it" what else is there to hide?

Trying to find some way to invalidate his feelings for Doris, he asks, "Why do you have to look so luminous? Why can't you wake up with puffy eyes like everyone else?" Doris replies, "I guess God thought chubby thighs were enough."

This interplay of insecurities is eloquently portrayed. At a time when George can't come to grips with his manifestation of guilt, Doris says, "Are you Jewish?" When George says "no", she remarks, "Then how come you're so guilty?"

What perplexes George while simultaneously amusing the audience, is that while he's thinking of his children and how awful he is for betraying his wife, Helen, he also admits to having a "tremendous hard-on."

They exchange positive and negative stories about their spouses ("Harry was in the army four years — three of them he spent in a Japanese concentration camp.") and glance at proud Mama and Papa pictures of their children.

A day in February, 1956 reveals a more confident, debonnaire George, and a more womanly, bleached blond Doris. George is still guilt-ridden, prompting an argument when he attempts to leave Doris and fly to his toothless little girl. Inevitably, love overrides guilt, and he succumbs to the passionate temptations of his woman.

The passage of time between scenes was a wonderful display of how innovative theater can be. Period-piece clips of music and dialogue kept me well entertained until the curtain opened for the next scene.

A day in February, 1961 is rather all-inclusive as far as personal inadequacies are concerned. Poor George can't get it up with his wife anymore. Naturally, he longs for the impotence cure-all — Doris. In she waddles...eight months pregnant. George exclaims, "What have you done to yourself?"

Doris tells him that she has had dreams about him involving sex under water; interesting that he can't swim, and the news of his impotency, er...leaks out. Well, wouldn't you know that a little foreplay cures George and induces Doris' childbirth (or so he thinks). Out come the towels and their brothel of a cottage doubles as a delivery room.

The trouble with a two-hour play that encompasses 25 years of time, is that it can become cliche-ridden and chock full of colloquialisms and stereotypes. "Same Time Next Year" is guilty of this, but the quality of the play is not effected. It purports to be a 'light' comedy; nonetheless succeeding in its endeavor.

A day in February, 1965 has Ms. Crosby hippie clad; a liberal student at a radical college, saying such free, uninhibited things like, "Wanna get laid?" and "You look kind of shitty. Are you alright?"

There stands George, a suit-and-tie conservative and Goldwater devotee. Doris won't sleep with a "fascist." The hostility between them comes to a head when, as George talks about how his son was killed in the war, he grabs Doris in an emotional embrace, and cries...for the first time since Michael's death.

A day in February, 1970 opens as the song "When I'm Sixty-Four" fades out. The once inhibited George hops out of bed in bikini briefs and dresses in butterfly patched jeans. Now, it's his turn for let-it-all-hang-out psychoanalytical phrases like "bad vibes" and "negative feedback."

Good ol' Doris has turned into a conservative business woman. We get a slight twinge of Women's Lib when George refers to her career as a "hobby" and the audience groans right on cue. Yeah, well as George says, "That's cool."

Doris says, "George, you're full of shit." (We must remember that this is a woman who was once on her way to a religious retreat.) He confirms her statement when her husband Harry calls, and she isn't there. The new, youth, non-morality conscious George decides to finally lay it on the line with Harry. The key, he says, is "...total honesty...me? oh..My name is Father Michael O'Hearly." — Nothing like honesty, eh George?

What impressed me most about this scene is that George may have been depicting a stereotypcial, middle aged man, but stereotypes have to start somewhere, right?

A day in February, 1976 finally brings this liberal-conservative, personality swapping to a close. George teaches at UCLA, and Doris sold her business out, when Harry had a mild heart attack. After a steady regime of exercise, Doris says that now, "He has a body like Mark Spitz and a face like Ernest Borgnine."

She loves him, though, just as George loved Helen (we learn that she has passed away). George proposes marriage, and Doris refuses because of her feelings for George. However, their once-a-year affair is destined to continue, and the play ends with all of us having good feelings about extra-marital sex and deception.

For those of you who are not looking for deep heated, ego destroying dialogue that can be found in something like "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" or the frustrating mental disorders that are depicted in plays like "Equus" and "The Prisoner of Second Avenue", then "Same Time Next Year" is right up your alley.

If things like adultery and deception happen every day, we may as well be able to laugh about it.

more albums

Genesis
And Then There Were Three
Atlantic
Reviewed by BRETT MILANO

Genesis has in many ways become the definitive band of the British art-rock genre. Their major strengths have always been a flair for songwriting coupled with a willingness to be adventurous with their instrumental arrangements. These tendencies create a perfect balance — their songwriting talent keeps their instrumental excursions from becoming self-indulgent, and their adventuresome spirit keeps their overall style well above the level of the mundane. But what makes most progressive music, and that of Genesis in particular, meaningful is the band's ability to make a one-to-one connection with their audience. I always get the impression that Genesis's music is tailored specifically for me, the listener, rather than for some FM programmer's playlist. This would explain why there are no commercial concessions on this album, although the last two happened to make the top 20. Genesis may now be able to ride to their gigs in limousines instead of having to hitchhike to them, but it's still the people inside the hall that matter most.

The band is now a threesome, but they have now become expert in flourishing through setbacks. When guitarist Steve Hackett left the band, bassist Mike Rutherford simply found a double-necked guitar which would allow him to play both — there you go, another crisis solved. Rutherford isn't quite as assertive a guitarist as Hackett was, but his technique is admirable and the band still sounds unmistakably like Genesis. Unlike Genesis's previous post-Gabriel albums, which featured many extended instrumental sections, this is more of a narrative album. There are separate songs here, and the emphasis is on fantasy and storytelling. My favorite here is an ethereal serenade called "Snowbound," which brings Genesis's music closer to the realm of traditional balladry than it has ever been. At the opposite end of the musical spectrum is "Deep in the Motherlode," which has the band rocking along with great exuberance — definite proof that complex arrangements and emotional content are not mutually exclusive. "Follow You Follow Me" is a love song which brings the album to a joyous finale. These three are my own choices, but I could easily see any of these eleven pieces becoming somebody's favorite Genesis song.

Genesis's music continues to be far more inventive than it is fashionable to be in the current music industry. For that reason I won't guarantee that everyone who hears Genesis's music will share my appreciation — but I challenge you to remain indifferent towards it.

★Class struggles in Italy

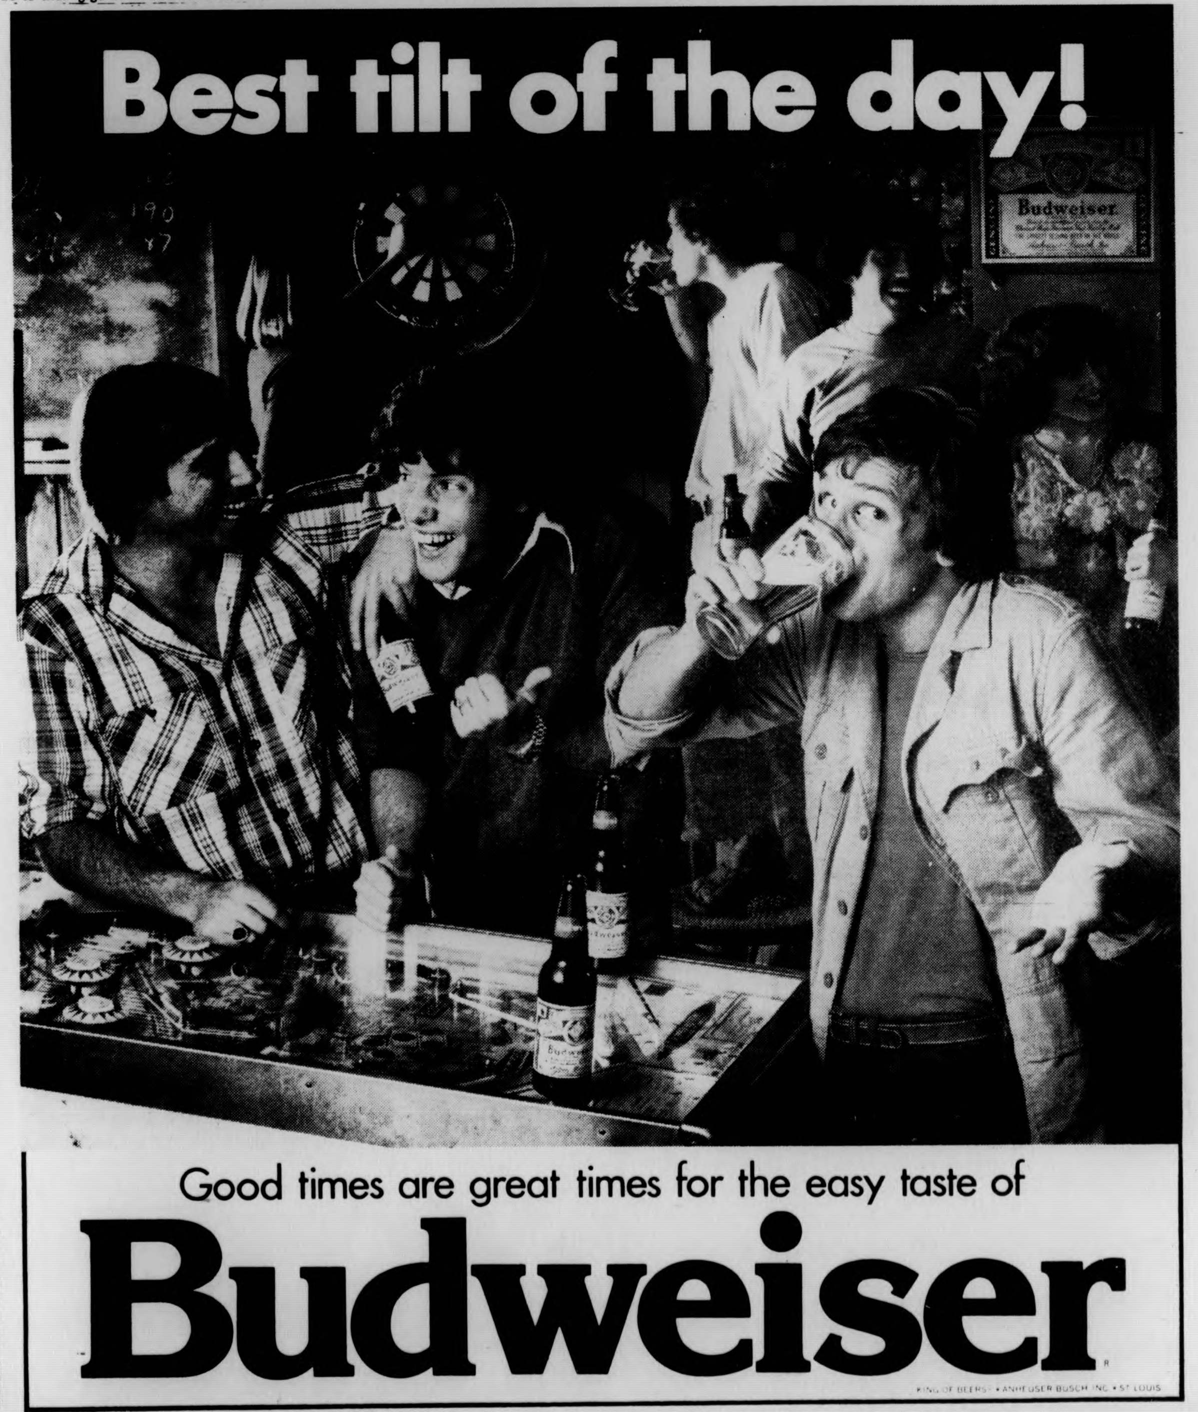
CONTD. FROM PAGE 9

Ultimately by the end of World War II we see the workers overcoming the facists, but for some reason they are easy on the landowners who funded and worked with the blackshirts. Bertolucci ends the film by showing us that the struggle between the classes will never be resolved until the workers sufficiently hound and force the rulers to resign their power. The end is optimistic and clearly sides with the working class struggle to give strength, vision and hope.

"1900" integrates many elements to show and teach us many things, the class struggle is only the ideological framework. If you like cinema that is multi-faceted, then this film is for you. It combines fine acting (particularly Donald Sutherland as a small time facist leader), directing, writing, sound work, and cinematography. "1900" when all is said and done, will be one of the most remembered films of the 1970s. All those involved with "1900" have worked to build a film which many will consider a masterpiece, if not now, then twenty years from now. The two year wait was not nice, but its certain that we didn't wait in vain.



Best tilt of the day!
Good times are great times for the easy taste of Budweiser®
KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER BUSCH INC • ST LOUIS

CALVIN Theatre
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON 584-2310
Academy Award Winner
WOODY ALLEN
DIANE KEATON
"ANNIE HALL" PG
EVES AT 7 & 9, SAT & SUN MAT 1:30
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

SUMMER STUDY IN NEW YORK CITY
Columbia University offers over 350 undergraduate, graduate and professional school courses. Write for bulletin: Summer Session, Columbia University, 102C Low Library, NY, NY 10027.

The Guitar Workshop and Music House
In the Amherst Carriage Shops
549-1728
Largest selection of strings and accessories at the lowest prices. Large selection of music for all instruments.
GURIANGUITARS

Now Showing At Two Area Theatres, Ends Tuesday
"A WORK OF REMARKABLE QUALITY, UNPRETENTIOUS AND MEMORABLE."
BLACK AND WHITE IN COLOR
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER
PG
The AMHERST Cinema
Eves. 7:15 and 9:00
Mat. Sat/Sun 5:30
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in northampton
Eves. 7:15 and 9:00

Billy Jack
Friday, April 21
7:00, 9:15, 11:30
Mahar Auditorium

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

"The Place that made Amherst Famous"
OLE'
40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS
(16 Draft)
MEXICAN & AMERICAN FOOD
NEW ENGLAND FRIED CHICKEN
SANDWICHES & SNACKS
"THE DRAKE VILLAGE INN"
85 Amity St. Amherst 253-2548

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
Thursday
LOWENBRAU NITE
65¢ Bottles
Prizes & Gifts
Sunday HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 – SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS
① LARCENY! MYSTERY! WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' CANDLESHOE
DAVID NIVEN HELEN HAYES JODIE FOSTER
G STARTS FRID...
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00
② STARTS FRIDAY WOODY ALLEN DIANE KEATON "ANNIE HALL"
WINNER OF 4 ACADEMY AWARDS
A nervous romance
PG MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:00
③ Vanessa Redgrave Jane Fonda JULIA
Based on a true story
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS
PG MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15
④ the GOODBYE GIRL
RICHARD DREYFUSS
MARSHA MASON
WINNER OF BEST ACTOR AWARD
PG MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:30-9:55
MATINEES( SAT.-TUE. )2:15
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

The rusty nail Inn
APRIL 20 WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION $2.00
APRIL 23 RAINTREE $1.00
APRIL 24-25 MIDNIGHT SHIFT $1.00
APRIL 27 RAMONES AND FAT $4.00
APRIL 28-29 TOM RUSH AND ZONKARAZ $4.00
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, APRIL 21 & 22
JAMES MONTGOMERY AND FAT $4.00
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26
BUDDY RICH
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

A rare showing of the film:
FREAKS
"A horrifying look at the circus sideshow."
Once banned in Britain
Plus A Chaplin Short
$1
Tonight Mahar Aud. 7, 9, 11 p.m.

Charlie's

HAPPY HOUR 4-7

35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢

TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID

1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

Mount Holyoke College Presents
The Pousette-Dart Band
Sat. April 22 8:00 p.m.
Mary E. Woolley Hall - Chapin Auditorium
—Tickets: $5.00 in advance and $5.50 at the door
—On sale at:
—Faces of Earth - Amherst
—Country Comfort &
—Platterpus Records - Northampton
—Goodbodies - South Hadley

Bluewall Bar
Bricker Band
Wednesday-Saturday,
April 19-22

Phi Mu Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon
PRESENT
BUSCH FEST
Saturday, April 22 1 p.m.-10 p.m.
Featuring:
Albatross
P.F. and the Flyers
BUSCHBEER 3/$1
150 Kegs HotDogs
Fraternity/ Sorority Park East Pleasant St.
On Orchard Hill Bus Route Transit Buses Circling Campus
Rain Date: Sunday, April 23

Rounding up 'newgrass'

Bluegrass II

By MARK HARRIS LEVITAN

Editors Note: This is the second in a two-part series on country music. The first article appeared in the April 13 issue of Salt.

Last week I discussed the role of small labels in the continuing quest for quality country, blues, traditional and folk music. I also described the emergence of newgrass from bluegrass and its main proponents. This time I'd like to introduce some recently released records in country, blues, bluegrass and traditional music to let the world know that these things do get produced regularly. Most of the records are from Flying Fish (FF) or Kicking Mule (KM), two active companies. Some of the selection is tripe, but there are some gems, too. I've rated them on the following scale, in the context of similar types of music: a 'classic' is worth 10 points, a 'genuinely good' is 7.5, 'average' rates 5 points, 'tedious' is 2.5 and 'hurting' rates a 0.

RED CLAY RAMBLERS, Merchant's Lunch [FF]
Quintet with guitar, banjo, piano, bass, fiddle, mandolin, trumpet, vocals.

The Rambler's latest is a lively mixture of bluegrass, reels, swing, and old-style pop. They play a potpourri of old styles with current sensibility. Their original compositions show an imagination that keeps them beyond the mere restyling of older material. The Ramblers also bring a bright sense of humor to the music, whether in lyrics or licks. (7.6)

VARIOUS BANJOISTS, Melodic Clawhammer Banjo [KM]
Five banjoists [solo] with piano, guitar, concertina.

I don't play banjo, but I don't want to spoil it for serious banjoists. There's a lot to learn from this disc, especially if you buy the tab book available. Clawhammer, by the way, is a strumming method. (2.1)

FRANK WAKEFIELD AND THE GOOD OLD BOYS, [FF]
Banjo, guitar, mandolin, bass, fiddle, vocals.

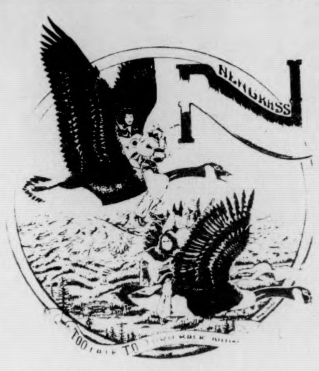
The current Good Old Boys keep churning out traditional bluegrass a la Bill Monroe and Flatt and Scruggs. If the name's familiar it's because the original group included New Rider, Dave Nelson, and the Dead's Jerry Garcia produced an album for them once. The music on this disc is very straightforward, but the vocals sound muddy. Not that exciting. (4.2)



NEWGRASS
Too Late To Turn Back Now

NEW GRASS REVIVAL, Too Late To Turn Back Now [FF]
Ac. and elec. mandolin, fiddle, guitar; elec. bass; banjo; group vocals.

Clearly the most lively band on the newgrass scene, this veteran group really takes the music to its limits on this set of "Fly Through The Country," with Sam Bush on electric slide mandolin is explorative bluegrass with jazz and rock influence that really breaks the barriers of the labels. "Red Man Blues" is another energetic blend of acoustic and electric "bluegrass." (9.4)

NORMAN BLAKE, Blackberry Blossom [FF]
Norman — guitar, fiddle, mandolin, vocals; Nancy — cello, guitar.

The King of the Flatpick put out this record to reaffirm his reign over the world of acoustic guitar. Blake's credits are endless, with his best work being with John Hartford, Vassar Clements, and the Dirt Band's "Circle" album; his solo work notwithstanding. They say Norman writes instant classics, so sweet and lonesome, and they're right. No need to say more, Norman says it best. (9.0)

DALE MILLER, Guitarist's Choice [KM]
Dale Miller, guitar.

This is a very peaceful and tasteful record. Miller fingerpicks a wide variety of musical styles. From the Beatles to Thelonious Monk to ragtime to swing to folk to "Zip A Dee Doo Dah" to "As Time Goes By", he does it with class and distinction. You'll relax to this, but you won't fall asleep. (7.8)

MICKEY BAKER, Blues and Jazz Guitar [KM]
Mickey, guitar, vocals; Stefan Grossman, guitar.

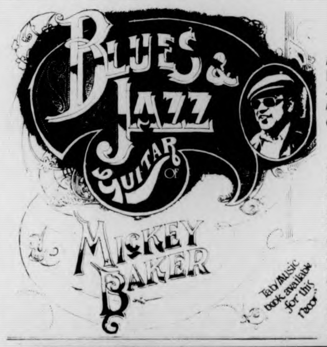
Back in the fifties, Mickey Baker was a hot R&B and rock and roll guitarist, then was one-half of Mickey and Sylvia ("Love is Strange"). In '62 he split for Paris for to play jazz, and since then he has delved into so many styles that his own can't be labelled. He works in jazz, delta blues, R&B, folk, rock etc., into his music, and he weilds a mean bottleneck. This album is based on the blues, but all these influences and more ooze out of the speakers, especially the jazz overtones. His chordings and use of harmonics are truly unique. Grossman ain't so bad himself. (8.0)



BLUES & JAZZ GUITAR
MICKEY BAKER
Tab/Music book available for this record

PETER WERNICK AND FRIENDS, Dr. Banjo Steps Out [FF]
Banjo, vocals w/guitar, mandolin, fiddle, flute, synthesizer, bass.

Innovation makes the world spin. That's why bluegrass lives. This record features a hard to describe phase-shifted banjo. Any banjo enthusiast will surely check this out. It's not gimmicky — it produces a full rounded tone as the ultimate banjo might make. Sparse accompaniment keeps the sound clean. Check out that bbbanhjjjhoo. (6.3)

HARGUS "PIG" ROBBINS, Pig In A Poke [Elektra]
Keyboards, vocals with guitar, steel, fiddle, bass, drums.

This album pays tribute to one of Nashville's steadiest and most imaginative session piano players. That's all. It's a waste of vinyl, an indulgent misuse of non-biodegradable resources. Pig's alright, but he'll never make another record, if I have my way. (0.8)

HARGUS PIG ROBBINS
A PIG IN A POKE

BRYAN BOWERS, The View From Home [FF]
Autoharp and vocals, with occasional guitar, mandolin, bass, banjo, accordian, bandura, dobro.

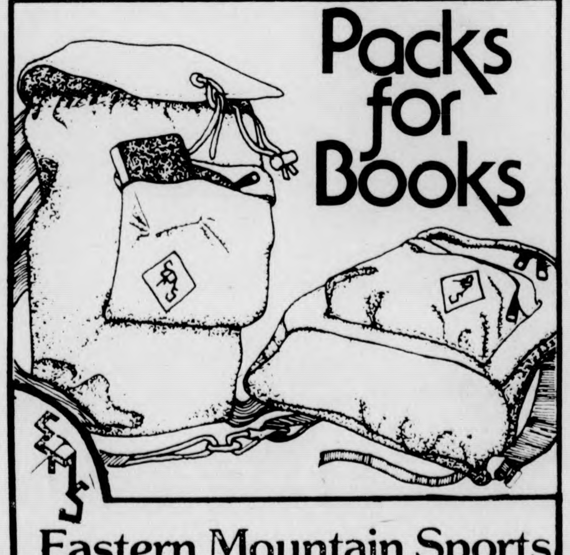
I had my doubts about a solo album by an autoharpist. The general experience we've had with the autoharp was the elementary school music teacher who strummed a big black board that made "music". Now it's Bryan Bowers' turn to do the teaching. He explores the tone and variability of the autoharp as it should be — a light, yet powerful sweep of tonality and harmony. Whether in an autoharp duet, or backed by the New Grass Revival for a full sound, herein lies a whole 'nother realm of traditional music. (7.0)



Packs for Books
Eastern Mountain Sports
Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 AM-9 PM.
Sat 9:30 AM-5:30 PM
Route 9, Amherst-Hadley Line
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9504
VISA
master charge

Men's & Women's
ALL-COTTON
Plaid, Gauze SHIRTS
$6.88
Long & Short Sleeve!
WEAR-HOUSE the Levi's store amherst/westfield/chicopee

Calendar

film

Friday, April 21

"Billy Jack" and cartoons at Mahar Auditorium at 7, 9:15, and 11:30 p.m.

"The Tenant" at the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

"Tale of Two Cities" in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7:30 p.m.

"The Glittering Prizes" on WGBY Channel 57 at 9:30 p.m. Oscar-winning semi-autobiographical study of the lives of a group of Cambridge University students from the early '50's to the '70's.

April 21, 22, 23

"Silver Streak" at 8 and 10 p.m. in Merrill I, Amherst College.

Saturday, April 22

"The Return of the Pink Panther" in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7:30 and 10 p.m.

Sunday, April 23

"Njangaan" presented by the Afro-American Society and the Black Cultural Committee. In Penny Cultural Center, Octagon, Amherst College at 3 p.m.

Monday, April 24

"Eugene Onegin" in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7:30 p.m.

"The Silence" by Ingmar Bergman in the Main Lecture Hall of Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College. At 7 and 9:15 p.m. Admission $1.

"Dersu Uzala: The Hunter" at 7 and 9:30 p.m. at the Pleasant St. Theater, 27 Pleasant St., Northampton. Akira Kurosawa's 1975 Academy Award winning film.

April 25

"Revolution Until Victory" and "To Live in Freedom" in Thompson 104 at 8 p.m. Showings by the Progressive Film series, sponsored by the Commuter Collective.

Wednesday, April 26

"The Twelve Chairs" in Russian with English subtitles in Herter 231 at 8 p.m.

music

Friday, April 21

Smith College Orchestra at 8:15 p.m. in John M. Greene Hall, Smith College.

Asian Studies and Hamilton Fund Concert with Liza Crihfield. "Kouta" (traditional Japenese songs) with "Shamisen" accompianment. At 4:30 p.m. in Room 3, Music Center, Amherst College.

Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22

The Amherst-Mount Holyoke Orchestra performs in Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 8:15 p.m.

Walt Michael and Tom McCreesh at the Chelsea House Folklore Center, Brattleboro, Vermont. Admission is $2.50 for the shows at 8 and 10 p.m. Box office at 802-257-1482.

Sunday, April 23

Jade and Sarsaparilla, duo of piano and vocals for jazz and blues at 8 p.m. at the Academy of Music, Main Street in Northampton. Benefit for Kids 'n Such, Inc., preschool and day care center.

Monday, April 24

The Group for New Music at 8 p.m. in the Bezanson Recital Hall Fine Arts Center.

Wednesday, April 26

The Symphony Band at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

April 28, 29, 30

Sixth Annual Five College Folk Festival at Hampshire College. Tickets in advance are $6 for three days or $7 at the door. Single day tickets are available at the door.

theater

April 20, 21, 22

"Arabic Two", a comedy by Smith graduate Ruth Wolff. Admission is $1.50 for students at the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith College. Box office at 548-2700, ext. 840, open noon to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

Friday, April 21

"Eminent Spanish playwright Jose Ruibal will lead an informal discussion on the Avant-Garde theater in Spain both prior to and after the death of Franco. Refreshments will be served. Herter Hall third floor lounge at 3 p.m.

April 28, 29, 30

"The Homecoming" by Harold Pinter. Presented by the Amherst College Masquers, also the weekend of May 5, 6, 7. Admission $2.50 at the Kirby Theater, Amherst College at 8 p.m. Box office is 542-2277 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

April 27, 28, 29, 30

"The Crucible" by Arthur Miller, presented by the Mount Holyoke College, Alice Withington Booke Laboratory Theatre. Dramatization of the Salem witch trials of the late 17th century. Also, May 2 through May 4. Tickets at 538-2406 beginning April 24. Admission $1 for students, $2.50 others.

"Home Again", a new play written and directed by Ellis B. Baker at the Williston-Northampton School in Easthampton. A psychological drama of youth and adults in conflict. Also, May 5 and 6. Box office at 527-1520. Curtain at 8 p.m.

April 28, 29, 30

"Anastasia" featuring veteran statge and screen actress Gale Sondergaard. University Ensemble Theatre production. Sunday matinee at 2 p.m., also May 4, 5, 6. Tickets at the Rand Theater box office open Monday through Friday, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at 545-3511. Students $2.

art

Tuesday, April 25

"Frocks and Curls" an exhibit of clothing and Hampshire County textile industry artifacts from 1850 to 1900. At the Harold F. Johnson Library Center gallery at Hampshire College. Open 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. daily.

Through June 6

"Antiquity in the Renaissance", a major international loan exhibition in honor of Phyllis Williams Lehmann. Smith College Museum of Art. Tuesdays through Saturdays 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 4:30 p.m.

dance

April 20, 21, 22

Spring Dance Concert by the University Dancers, Concert Dance Group and the UMass Dance Faculty at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Friday, April 21

International folkdancing instruction from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union building, and dancing until midnight.

Wednesday, April 26

Israeli Folkdancing with insruction in the Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union Building at 7:30 p.m. ## misc.

Friday, April 21

Fifty-fifth Annual Kathryn Irene Glascock Intercollegiate Poetry Contest. Friday night reading by six poets at 8 p.m. in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke. Saturday morning reading by the judges at 10:30 a.m.

Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22

Swim Show featuring the award winning entries in the national creative swimming competition, Kendall Gym Pool Gallery, Mount Holyoke.

Wednesday, April 26

Hillel discussion with Russian Jews now residing in Springfield, Mass. "Living as a Jew in Russia" at 4 p.m. in Herter Hall 102.

"The Cultural Interdependence of East and West. Lecture by H.W. Janson in the West Lecture Hall of Franklin Patterson Hall at 8 p.m. Janson is an eminent art historian and has written several histories of painting, sculpture and the fine arts.

Benefit concert scheduled

"An Evening of Pan-Afrikan Theatre, Dance, Music, and Folk Stories" will take place Tuesday, May 6, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. Admission is $2. Proceeds from the event will fund area residents to travel to Havana, Cuba in July as part of the U.S. delegation to the 11th World Festival of Youth and Students.

Director for the evening is Eno Washington, accomplished Pan-Afrikan dancer of 18 years, who has studied and performed nationally. He will be performing a number of dances including "Beautiful Black Women" and a street dance to James Brown's "Papa's Got a Brand New Bag".

Other performers will be: Pamela Benn, percussionist, dancer, and vocalist; Jorge Medina, percussionist of Sunlight and Shade; Brandon Ross, bassist; Eon John, vocalist; and Eshu Elegba, painter and vocalist.

Also performing are Chris Henderson, percussionist of the well known Unity Ensemble, Ima Henderson, narrator of West African Folk Tales, mimest, and dancer, and Valerie Stevens, actress, vocalist, and poet.

Musical director for the evening is David Jackson, pianist, vocalist, and Acting Director of the Voices of New Africa House Choir. Music for the program includes compositions by Nat "Canonball" Adderly, John Coltrane, Edward Kennedy "Duke" Ellington, and Billie Holiday.

Eno Washington and Pamela Benn choreographed the dance number based upon Afrikan, West Indian, and American dances.

The Amherst preparatory committee of the 11th World Youth Festival will be sending ten delegates to Havana. In order for delegates to be selected regardless of their financial resources, $4250 must be raised in travel costs alone. It is hoped that "An Evening of Pan-Afrikan Theatre, Dance, Music, and Folk Stories" will raise a substantial amount of the total travel costs.

Young people between the ages of 15 and 35 from more than 140 countries are expected to participate in the Youth festival, a sharing of histories, cultures, and struggles. These people will come from many different walks of life and hold many different beliefs.

There will also be a benefit disco for the Youth Festival at Mackimmie House in Southwest on Saturday, May 6, at 9 p.m. Donation will be $1.50 and the D.J. is "Mackimmie Joe" Andrews.

The public is urged to attend these two events.

the SALE is coming!

the University Store
Campus Center

SOUTH AMHERST LIQUOR MART
OPEN 9 TO 11 DELIVERIES TILL 10
Offer good until 4/26
— COUPON SPECIAL —
10% OFF ON FOLONARI LAMBRUSCO
34 OZ. AND 67 OZ.
We deliver kegs - large assortment
FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
RT 116 256-6996 SOUTH AMHERST

CHINA AFTER MAO
a socialist analysis

DON GUREWITZ
Boston organizer of the socialist workers party

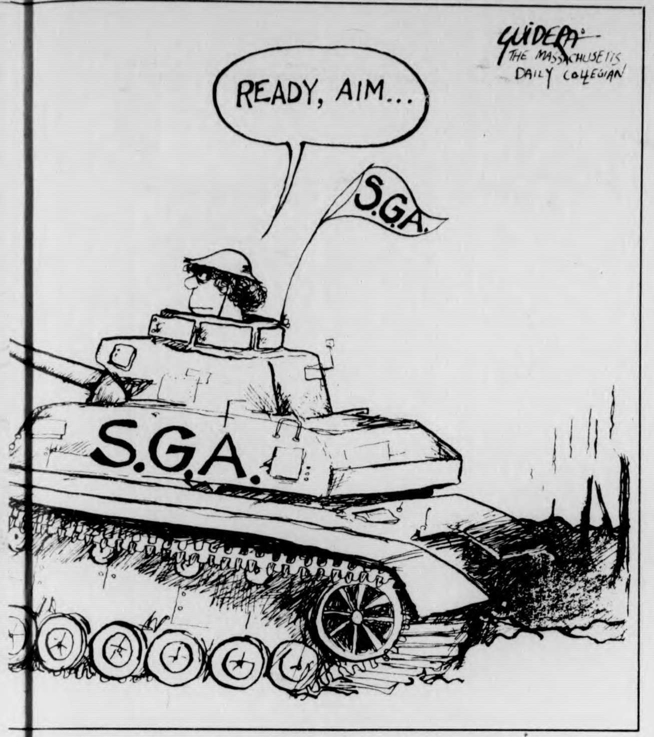
THUR., APRIL 20
8:00 pm
162 cc
umass

sponsored by:
u. mass. young socialist alliance



GUIDERA
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
READY, AIM...
S.G.A.
S.G.A.

ing the spirit alive

graduation to pursue a lucrative job, is true. Real Paper reporter E. J. Kahn III recently sought support for this theory by tracking down a number of former radical Harvard University students to discover "if their college radicalization was having any effect on their lives." Kahn eventually contacted seven of the sixteen seniors who were arested on April 10, 1969, when strikingstudents staged an occupation of University Hall on the Cambridge campus. Not to his surprise, he discovered that all seven had begun professional careers in law, business, medicine and education.

Yet, despite this seemingly massive assimilation of retired radicals into the status quo, it is difficult to believe the ideas and concepts of the Movement dead. The quiet visit of Carl Oglesby, author and lecturer, to the UMass campus last week, hints that the spirit of 1968 is still alive. Oglesby, an early president of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and author of several books pertaining to the activities of the "new left", is presently hard at work researching the assasination of John F. Kennedy. Oglesby, it might be said, represents that segment of the Counter Culture which has quietly and assiduously continued its work towards the change that began over a decade ago.

Another segment of the Counter Culture, those who often received the brunt of the media's attention while playing but a marginal role and who has also continued to resist absorbtion into the "establishment," must include Allen Ginsberg. Ginsberg, a noted poet and vocal advocate for the use of mind altering drugs, has arrived in Boston and is scheduled to recite his poetry at the City Hall Main Gallery this week.

It is not difficult to understand why the colorful Ginsberg and Counter Culture figures like him garnished much of the media coverage.

According to Ginsberg, the Central Intelligence Agency initially turned him on to LSD.

"I first took LSD in 1959 at the Stanford Institute of Mental Health," Ginsberg recently told a Boston reporter, "and it turns out that the program was funded by the CIA."

Because Ginsberg and Ken Keasy, another Counter Culture heavy and author of One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, as well as other Sixtie's celebrities, first took LSD in tests secretly sponsored by the government and then went on to become leaders in the hippie and anti-war movement, Ginsberg feels the CIA inadvertently triggered the strife of the sixties.

Currently writing and publishing books, the poet is also planning to hold an "LSD conference" at Santa Cruz College with poet Gregory Corso, Keasy, and Doctors Timothy Leary, Richard Alpert and Albert Hoffman. Leary and Alpert, the reader will remember, were thrown out of Harvard in 1963 for experimenting with LSD and preaching its use.

While Oglesby and Ginsberg represent two separate factions of the former Counter Culture, they continue today to keep the spirit of a decade past alive, each in their own way. Who the press of the seventies latches onto during the near future will be interesting to note.

Kevin Knoblock is a Collegian columnist.

usness-raising decade

the case, comments should be addressed to issues, not ancestries.

Firstly, Jesus was not a competitor in the consciousness-raising field, but was independent of it. He denied that introspection would bring anyone to the truth and stated flatly that a person would always fall short of any standard of perfection. Jesus taught that only through his God could one know what truth really is and that only through Jesus could one really know his God, since Jesus claimed to be the only son of said God. He advocated responsible love, not self-awareness.

Secondly, many people seem to feel that any group expatiating faith in an intangible is not worth a mustard seed. Perhaps they are right. Perhaps people should throw away religion and start using alcolhol, nitrous oxide, and euphoric herbs for crutches. I find it ironic, however, that such devices must change neural perceptions of the "real world" before the user can interant (intervegetate?) with it.

The issue of oppression by the church is an important one. To deny its existance would be ignorant or dogmatic or both. It is expedient, however, to note that nothing Jesus said condoned the methods used in later centuries to obtain followers. If anything, Yeshua HaMushiach (as he is known in Hebrew) was against oppression, critizing the authorities of his time for their oversight of the poor and politically empty while painstakingly following the letter of the law. He did not advocate revolution, but claimed to be fulfillment of an age of expectancy. He was killed, incidentally, because the authorities feared the size of his following.

What the Christian rock band heard because of the sensitivities and rationale of the angry enlightened was not unique in form or tone to them. The royal keepers of student awreness have also been heard to disparage Hare Krishnas, Zionism, and Transcendtal Meditation in favor of the theory of evolution. It comes as little surprise, then, to find them aping discontent professors and self-righteous celebrities.

What have we learned from this decade of consciousness-raising? We have learned that anything that contradicts us is "evil." We have learned that if we complain with enough conviction, someone will redress our supposed injuries. We have learned to let our minds slumber while our consciousness rambles on. We have falsely equated consciousness with conscience. Heaven help us if we wake from our unrest.

Frank Denton is a Collegian Columnist

Denied budgets

bob melia

We resent that groups like ourselves, committed to informing the UMass community about various issues of wide importance, must spend time fighting with our own student government.

This sentence appeared on flyers distributed by members of RSO groups that had been illegally denied budget hearings and lied to by senate officers. These groups appeared at last night's senate meeting and made five demands (this column was written before the meeting, so I am engaging in predicting what is already history, a risky if not irrational enterprize. But it's fun). It's very doubtful that the senate will grant them (in good faith), even though the demands are modest; perhaps too much so.

It seems logical that our own student government would not want to screw student groups that go to them for aid. Unfortunately, though, our own student government is not our own: it is theirs. By 'theirs' I am referring to that handful of junior Halderman and Erlichman's that control the SGA. It is, by and large, their government, run for their benefit. The five demands threaten to expose and undermine their grip on the fourth-floor, which is why the senate will be reluctant to concede them. A check of the demands will reveal just why and how they are threatening.

1) Budget hearings for all groups that were denied them. Adequate budgets for these groups are unlikely to be granted, for that would leave less money for the senate, which is growing by expensive leaps and bounds, to play with. In the past two years, the president, speaker and treasurer have all received paid assistants. And last summer the SGA-SOP complex spent many thousands of dollars to hire themselves to create a reorganization plan, a plan which never even reached the senate floor for debate. Everybody seems to have forgotten it, along with all the student dollars wasted on it.

Even worse, from the senate's point of view, a lot of these groups, if funded, could make the senate look awfully bad. These independent RSO groups accomplish a great deal with very little money. Buckminster Fuller would call that 'ephermeralization'. The SGA, on the other hand, does very little with quite a lot. Fuller would probably call that idiocy. The bottom line is that the dinosaur that is the senate wants to control or render ineffective all campus groups that can compete with it for legitimacy.

2) An end to the Budgets Committee's policies that discriminate against student groups not previously funded. That would leave the Budgets committee with very few policies.

3) An ethics investigation of the Budgets Committee. It is very difficult to investigate something which does not exist. Moreover, anybody that would elect as its chief officer an individual under indictment cannot be trusted to investigate itself. But an investigation conducted by outsiders might be very interesting.

It is conceivable that an investigation could culminate in jeopardy, or even (oh wishful thinking!) provide grounds for suspension. If this were to occur, the targets of the investigation would likely implicate others in an attempt to divert attention from themselves, or at least drag down their enemies with them. The spectabcle would be similar to that of rats abandoning a sinking ship.

4) That all budget information, including the amount of money requested by each group, be pulished in the Collegian. Informing students sets a dangerous priority. Before you know it there might be demands to open up other parts of the process, and who knows what the fourth-floor Pandors's Box holds?

One thing publication would reveal is that the senate, its burearucracy and its advocacy arms eat up almost half of the 1.1 million dollar budget. When budgets committee heavies say there just isn't enough to fund every group, that's true, but only because their own operation is so expensive. When those same people plead poverty when student groups come for funding, you can be sure that they don't mention that there is plenty of money every summer to put politico's who want to spend a summer in Amherst on the payroll.

5) That all Budgets Committee meetings be open to the public for viewing purposes and fully publicized. Since most of the scheming over the superbudgets is done before the official budget hearing, casual observers would be unable to understand the 'rationale' behind seemingly inexplicable moves.

It is great to open up budgets to the light of day, but that is only the tip of the iceberg. To fully understand any part of the process, the entire operation must be aired out in public. If that ever happens I suggest you hold your nose.

Bob Melia is a Collegian Columnist

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; MICHAEL P. SMOLENS, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Walter Cherniak, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Jeffrey Weisberg, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Stereo w/ AM/FM, 8-tr., turntable, speakers, great condition, $75 or BO, 549-3814, eves.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

AUTO FOR SALE

1974 Fiat 128 wgn., AM-FM, rustproofed, luggage rack, $1200, Tom, 549-4600 X263.

68 Dodge van, 6 cylinder, gd. run. cond., must sell fast, $550, call Anne, 6-5503.

67 VW Fastback, just tuned, good body, good engine, Michelin radials. Call after 7 p.m., 549-5650, asking $500.

1973 VW bug, car has been well kept, runs well, body good, AM-FM-Pioneer stereo, $1700, call 546-5000, early a.m.

68 Dodge Dart, dependable slant 6, exc. cond., body fair, $450 or best. 546-6286.

We buy and sell cars for cash. 253-5384.

70 VW bug. Good engine, new muffler, batteries. Tapedeck. Body needs repair. $300 or BO. 549-3541, evenings.

68 Mustang V8, std., good condition, $550, can be seen on weekends, call 546-4182.

Classic 60 Caddy, no work needed, 70,000 orig. mi., new brakes & battery, see 665-4234.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

64 Falcon sedan, $200 or BO. 549-6613.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

FOR RENT

4 br. house—N'ham. Avail. 6/1. $300. Call eves., 584-4568. Avoid fall rush.

Own rm., Cliffside, for May, $75, can renew lease if want, 6/1/78, 1 bd. apt., 665-3412.

For rent—Brittany Manor, June 1-Aug. 31, 2 large bdrms., fully furnished, AC, $225 mo. or best offer, 253-5529.

1 bed. Avail. 6/1, Pufftson, 549-5939 p.m.

Hyannis—whole summer near beach and town cottages, apts., rooms with frig. & kit., priv., 2-in rm., reas., 1-617-775-8615.

FOR SALE

One used fraternity house. Omnicron chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa, Commonwealth Ave. in Boston. Call anytime.

Tarantula—the world's most adorable pet. Complete with cage, $15, call 6-9048.

Akai G360 7½" open reel deck, with auto-reverse. $200. Call Mark, 1-698-2278.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm E spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

HELP WANTED

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern US, July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, NY 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Political activists: statewide consumer action organization is looking for energetic articulate people to fundraise and educate public around economic reform issues. Summer position, call Mass Fair Share, 781-4110 or interview on campus April 28, call 5-1951.

Internship—Hampshire Franklin Association for Mental Health. Assist counselor Halfway House, serving clients from State Hospital in Northampton and Greenfield. Experience/training in mental health. Summer/fall internships are available. Volunteer; 3 mo.-40 hr. wk. Paid: 6 mo.-40 hr. wk. $25.00-$50.00 wk. Office of Internships, 545-0727 or HFAFMH, 584-7329.

Orchard Hill Women's Center is now accepting applications for co-coordinators for Fall '78. Applications are available in 112 Field House. Due April 21.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of conversation tapes for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

LOST

A week or so ago, pair of brown leather gloves with gray knit glove liner. One is stained. Very high sentimental value. Please call 549-2856. Reward.

Lost—soft contact lenses in case, April 6. If found, call 536-8649, reward.

Lost gold woman's watch near CC. Call 6-8293, sentimental value.

Lost calculator—TI SR51-II, lost near or in Whitmore, if found, please call 6-5075.

Gold ID bracelet, no engraving, lost 4/11, has much sentimental value. If found, please call Margie, 256-6945.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda CB350, exc. cond. Red w/ crash bar, rack, padded backrest, lock & chain and helmet. $600, call Ken, 546-9793.

Honda 550—four, 1974, 14,935 miles, good cond., $1000 or BO, call Neil, 546-6929.

1975 Honda 400F SS, bought new in 77, 4500 mi., perfect condit., sis barpad, ask $950, call 256-2052 or 549-0251.

75 Honda MT250, 4000 miles, good shape, asking $500, will bicker, must sell. If interested, call Dave at 367-9984.

PERSONALS

Sisters and pledges of Kappa Kappa Gamma—32 Nutting Ave.—invite all university women to a spaghetti dinner on April 20 at 5:00, call 5-0321 for more info.

Underexposed & obscure classics of rock related music are aurally revealed late Sat. nite on WMUA 91.1 FM, 2-6 a.m. by Ze Unknown DJ. Be there!

Rock & bop & pogo with Perry Adler, 2-5:30 p.m., Mon. afternoon, WMUA 91.1 FM, and rock out & space out with Lisa Wait, Wed. afternoon, 2-5:30, WMUA 91.1 FM.

Last year's winner of the Cosmic Wimpout tournament learned to play that day. Tourn. Thurs. in the Bluewall. Prizes!

Winner of the Wimpout tournament gets $100. Many other prizes. Anyone can win. Thurs. in the Bluewall. Start after 2 p.m.

Cosmic Wimpout lessons today in the Campus Center. Ask the people wearing Cosmic Wimpout T-shirts. Takes 4 minutes.

The 3rd Annual Cosmic Wimpout Tournament is today—in the Bluewall. Start after 2:00. 1st prize is $100! Many other prizes. Anyone can win!!

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs—Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Amherst voters, register to vote in the Campus Center from 10-4 on April 25, 26 and 27. Vote Jonathan Souweine for District Attorney on primary, Sept. 12, plan ahead, register to vote.

Bus to Grateful Dead in Providence. $6 round trip, 41 spaces available. Call Brian, 5-2525 days or John, 6-9667. "They're a band beyond description."

SERVICES

Typing—60 cents/page. Call 549-6655.

Resumes—Professionally prepared to meet individual needs. Included are sample cover letters and our guide to job interviewing. For free details write: New England Resume LTd., Box 443, Essex Sta., Boston, Mass. 02112.

Peugot bicycle now at Pioneer Valley Moped. Also 5 brands of Mopeds. 10-6 Mon.-Sat., 4 Conz Street (behind City Hall), Northampton, 586-1054.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

TO SUBLET

Sick of living in an apt. complex? 2 xtra large bdrm. apt., 10 min. walk to campus, 30 sec. from bus stop. Partly furnished, $275 mo. Avail. 6/1. Call 549-6416.

Col. Vill.—2 bdrm. fully furn., pool, exc. bus rt., $200, neg. 6/1-8/31, 253-3446, 5—.

Only $70/rm., 3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Gr. apt. Furn., util. incl. Call 256-8887.

2 bdrm., 5/31-8/31, opt. to renew, Prez. Apts., bus/walk, AC, util. incl. Call 549-6863!

Furnished 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-8/31. AC & pool right next door. 549-0393.

Puffton apt.—3 bedroom; furnished. Available June 1, rent $240/mo. Call 549-5966.

1 br. in 3 br. townhouse apt. in N. Amh. Avail. 5/1, call 549-0611.

2 br. Brandy. w/ option to renew. Pool, DW, Ac, $190 mo. Avail. 5/31, 549-5128.

1 bdr. apt., beaut. loc., AC, util. pd., cats OK, avail. 6/1, fall opt. $165/mo., 549-1582.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

1 bdrm. in 3 bdrm. in Puffton, avail. end of finals, rent negotiable, 549-5860.

Own rm. in 3 bdrm. South Meadow apt., 6/1 or earlier. $100/month. 253-7961.

To sublet—1 bdrm. in Riverglade twnhs. apts., many extras, price neg., fall opt. Call Steve, 253-9697.

Large bedroom in Puffton 3 bedroom apt. Woman—June 1 thru Aug. 31. Own bathroom, pool, tennis and laundry facilities. Rent negotiable. Call evenings, 549-6321.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green townehouse apt., AC, DW, pool, furnished, carpeted, 1½ baths, on busline. 6/1-8/31, $260, util. incl. 546-5080.

Rol. Grn.—avoid waiting lists for next yr. 2 br. apt., avl. June to June—poss. summer sublet, util. incl., 256-8455.

For summer, 2 bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt., rent neg., call nits, 549-1338.

2 bdrm. townhouse, Sunderland, on bus route, baths, AC, pool, 6/1-8/31, $200, 665-2242.

Puffton apt. for summer, 1 lg., 1 sm. bedroom, semi-furnished, $207/mo., 549-6413.

3 bedrm. Presidential, avail. 6/1-8/31, w/ option to rent in Sept. ¼ mi. from campus. Bus route, 549-0692.

Sublet: 1 bdrm. apt., June/Aug., $140/mo., util. included, call 549-5425, evenings.

Calling all students—da da da da da—253-3695—da da da da da: Attention!! Summer sublet with fall option: Colonial Village, 2 bedroom apartment, utilities included—negotiable, call 253-3695.

Lrge., fully furn. 2 level 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-9/1, $220/mo.—negotiable. 50 yds. to bus, 2 min. walk to store, air cond., dishwasher. Call 549-6966.

Don't hassle with waiting lists! Brand. apt., 2 bedroom, to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31. Option to lease in fall. Call 549-1680.

6/1-8/31—2/bedroom apt., 7/minute walk to campus, AC, $225—negotiable. Call: 549-6340.

2 br. apt., Col. Vlg., bus, pool, ut. incl., fall opt., $230—neg., avail. 5/28-8/31, 253-2216.

2 lg. bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all utilities pd., on bus rt., laundry fac., pool. Available for June, July, August, price negotiable. Rolling Green, 546-9647, Bruce, or 546-9641, Rob.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green apt., furnished. Avail. 5/31-8/31. Air cond., etc. 253-3071.

Subletting room in a large fully furnished 2 bdrm. apt.—5/25-8/31—3 blocks frm. Amherst ctr., rent neg., call 253-3165.

Summer sublet, avail. 5/20, 3 bdrm., call 549-0106 or come by 103 Puffton.

1 bdrm. apt. in Puffton, ½ mi. from campus, for 6/1 to 8/31 with option to renew avail. Some furn. call 549-3837.

Room for summer in spacious apartment. Amherst center, opening for one person, kitchen, full bath. $85 per month. Call 253-3014, afte 6 p.m.

3 bdrm. Twnehse. Apt., avl. 6/1, close to bus st., Watroba's, laundry. Rent reduced to $250/mo. Partly furnished, opt. to renew lease. Call 549-6820.

To sublet: 3 bedroom Puffton apt.; semi-furnished. Available June 1; rent negot. Call 549-5621.

2 bdrm. Townehouse, w/ option for fall, 5/31-8/31, call 549-1019.

June 1-Sept. 1—2 bdrm., fully furnished, all util. incl., $200/mo., on rte., Lantern Ct. Apts., call 665-4737, option to renew in Sept.

Puffton apt.—2 bedroom; sublease summer; take over lease Sept. 1. Call after 4 p.m., 549-5868.

Sublet our 2 br. apt. for the summer—the lease is yours in Sept. Negotiable rent for summer. Walk or bus to campus. 549-6152—keep trying!

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

WANTED

F. rmmate., nonsmoker, $125 mo., Puffton, 549-4869.

Looking for 2 women to share great Cottage in W. Dennis, minutes to beach, $300, for 5/26-9/5, call Nancy at 5-0162.

Quiet female rmmate. for 2 bed. Col. Vil. apt., June-Aug., rent neg., 253-2420, aft. 5 p.m.

Used flute. Call Tobie, 549-5941, eves.

Wanted: one backpack w/ frame and sleeping bag. Cheap. Call Carol, 6-8947.

4th person needed for W. Yarmouth cottage, Mem.-Labor Day. Good living sit., call us! Kathy, 6-5112, Lou, 6-5117.

WANTED TO RENT

Responsible couple will house/apt. sit June 1-31, care for plants, pets, yard, 253-2131.

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

ARE YOU CONCERNED?

Frank Hatch is the current house minority leader who is running for governor of Mass. Will speak at the SUB on April 25 at 11:00. Frank has saved millions of tax dollars, stopped hit and run bulldozers from paving our wetland. Questions will be welcomed.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

©1977 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

STATE
S
Now comes Miller time.
Miller High Life

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

4-20
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

I STRUCK OUT
I KNOW.
WHY DID YOU GIVE ME THE TAKE SIGN ON THE 3 AND 2 COUNT?
I DIDN'T WANT TO LOOK BAD
BUT I TOOK A STRIKE IN FRONT OF ALL THOSE PEOPLE!
THANK GOODNESS THEY CAN'T READ SIGNS.
4-20

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

ONE NIGHT, THOB DRANK THIRTY-SEVEN BOTTLES OF BUD!
4/20
THE NEXT DAY, THOB HAD A BELLY ACHE!
LAFLER
THIS LED TO FRUIT POOPS!

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

DENNIS PULLS OUT A DEVICE HE HID BEHIND HIS EAR
THIS WILL GLOW BRIGHTLY IF THE ARROW IS POINTED IN THE DIRECTION OF MY SUIT
I GUESS WE GO UP THESE STAIRS
QUICK THERE'S SOMEONE COMING UP THOSE STAIRS
THEY EVADE THE GUARDS.
THIS WAY
KRUSTIL SURPRISES THE APPROACHING GUARD...
WUMP!
THEY MUST BE VERY NEAR THE FIGHTING SUIT; THE LITTLE DISK HAS STARTED TO FLASH.
DENNIS STOPS IN FRONT OF THE NEAREST DOOR, AND REMOVES A SMALL CAPSULE WHICH WAS TAPED IN HIS ARM PIT.
ROLLINS 4-20
THIS WAY
KEEP A LOOK OUT FOR ANY GUARDS STAY BACK!
AND PUTS HIM DOWN FOR A TEN-COUNT!
KRAK
HE PLACES IT IN THE KEYHOLE OF THE DOOR, AND STEPS BACK!
FOOM
THE DOOR IS NOW UNLOCKED
BUT ARE THERE GUARDS WAITING INSIDE??

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Roll roll roll roll Lick!
bash!
whoops!
Ranney 4/20
I'll never get the knack of this.

BACK AGAIN by K

HEY THERE!
HI TEST
CHOICE
REG IS MY CAR READY YET?
WELL, UHH...
THE MEN FEEL THERE'S AN EVIL SPIRIT IN YOUR CLUTCH HOUSING, SO WE'VE CALLED A PRIEST.
4/20

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, APRIL 20

Born today, you are fond of society. You enjoy others' company so much that you may jeopardize important things -- career, money, friendships -- to indulge yourself in this. Crowds hold a special appeal. You believe yourself able to sway a crowd by your words; you are an excellent speaker and thrill to the applause of an audience.

You may find it hard to keep to one line of work for a long while. You thrive on change. While others continue in a single field, you tend to make a complete change after a success and to seek subsequent success in an entirely new area.

You concentrate on personally satisfying ends, whether or not they are materially profitable. It matters little whether you have great personal buying power; if you can provide for yourself and loved ones, you are content. You may not realize, however, that those dependent upon you may not be.

Also born on this date: Adolph Hitler, German dictator; Nina Foch, actress.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, APRIL 21

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) -- Plain sailing is ahead if you trim sails and use the prevailing wind.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) -- Some of life's minor lessons can be learned today. Take a leaf from a child's book.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) -- A reprimand from an old friend may hurt, but may also spur you to new success.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) -- Watch the way others do what you want to do. Copy essentials and remain original.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) -- It will be important later to share responsibilities now. Tomorrow brings relief.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Interest in nature shows you new endeavors. Friends give opportunity for gain.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) -- Introspection may not be as productive as you hoped. Enter society.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) -- The luxurious and beautiful intrigue you today, but may also cause you loss.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) -- Present conflicts may lose you what you thought a sure thing. Study the situation.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) -- Side issues interfere with goals today. Try to stick to the initial direction.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) -- Take care in relationships with children. Don't assume bravery or cowardice.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) -- You will certainly grow through an unpleasant incident early today. Expect later gains.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Animal's dwelling
5 ----- toothed tiger
10 ---- off
Unhappy
14 A single time
15 Green as grass
16 Nimbus
17 Alone
19 Of Gaels
20 Cream of ------ 21 Tall structures
23 USSR city
25 Lily
26 ------ -- one's own shadow
30 Time period
34 Weight allowances
35 Subdued
37 Numerical prefix
38 Wood
39 Hunting dogs
42 Heart
43 Toby beverages
45 Increase abnormally
46 Beautify
48 Zany
50 Reading desks
52 Cain's victim
54 Tanker
55 Wave
59 Battery poles
63 Uproar
64 "You are wrong!": 4 words
66 English composer
67 Role player
68 Work to get
69 Fruit
70 Yorkshire city
71 ---- Scott Historic slave

DOWN

1 Boor
2 "The King and I" character
3 Froster
4 Return to normal
5 Breathed noisily
6 European river
7 Small amounts
8 Newts
9 One who wins back
10 Ducks on --- ---- 11 Nobleman
12 Otherwise
13 Suffices
18 Gentle touch
22 I
24 Game of chance
26 Water vapor
27 "---- - spade ..."
28 Furnished guns
29 Disastrous
31 Ornamentation
32 Fruit of the oak
33 Tales
36 Boundaries
40 Outstanding
41 Satisfying fully 44 Disperse
47 Removed from office
49 Mr. Burrows
51 Furniture items
53 Footballer ----- Alworth
55 Encase
56 Put on the payroll
57 Inner Hebrides island
58 Party spread
60 Not cheap
61 "Jane ----"
62 Enable to go
65 Seed vessel

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| S | A | V | E | R | | A | L | E | A | | D | E | M | E |
| A | G | I | L | E | | C | E | L | L | | E | L | A | N |
| L | I | C | I | T | | H | A | L | F | A | M | I | N | D |
| T | O | E | | E | V | E | R | | | L | O | O | S | E |
| | | V | A | L | I | D | | T | W | I | T | T | E | D |
| F | E | E | B | L | E | | S | U | R | G | E | | | |
| A | R | R | A | S | | C | A | L | E | N | D | A | R | S |
| T | I | S | | | R | A | V | E | N | | | T | E | E |
| S | E | A | S | H | O | R | E | S | | O | T | H | E | R |
| | | | H | A | T | E | D | | B | R | O | A | D | S |
| R | E | P | O | S | E | D | | N | A | B | O | B | | |
| E | R | U | P | T | | | M | I | N | I | | A | S | H |
| T | A | R | P | A | U | L | I | N | | T | O | S | C | A |
| E | S | S | E | | S | O | R | E | | A | L | C | A | N |
| L | E | E | R | | E | W | E | R | | L | E | A | N | S |

Rozelle finds success troublesome for NFL

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

The biggest problem facing the National Football League today is living with success, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle said yesterday.

Rozelle spoke before a crowd of 300 in Bowker Auditorium as part of the Sports Management Sprin 1978 Lecture Series.

We've been through a tough period with the FCC, FTC, IRS and court cases," he said. "And then I read in the papers that we're an unregulated monopoly.

"Our biggest problem in the past has been anti-trust cases," he continued. "But now that we've got a bargaining agreement and a sizeable four-year TV contract, we're not under any specific pressure.

"Now is the time to work instead of wait for problems," he said. "We've got to adjust to a new period of success."

After five minutes of introductory remarks, Rozelle threw the floor open for questions. The audience asked Rozelle about topics ranging from instant replay in officiating next season to the growth of soccer as a possible football competitor.

Rozelle, who has been NFL commissioner for 18 years, said instant replay will be used in the upcoming pre-season on a "dry-run" basis to see if it would be feasible for the regular campaign.

He added that it would create a number of problems, including having to call upstairs to review a questionable call or judging whether a fumble occurred before or after the whistle blew.

He did admit that instant replay would eliminate controversy.

Officiating, which was an especially popular topic with the audience due to the New England Patriots-Baltimore Colts game last season which embroiled the referees in controversy, came up for discussion again.

In answer to a question on the quality of officiating, Rozelle said, "It's not below par, it's just that instant replay is above par.

"They (the officials) die when something like that (the non-fumble call on Bert Jones) happens," he added. "We're adding a seventh official, but with 22 big, healthy people out there, they're bound to get screened off a lot. The more prominent mistakes in officiating stick out."

Rozelle said referees are chosen on the merit of their work in major collegiate conferences and high schools. They are put through a series of clinics and representatives from the league office travel with them, he said.

He said if officiating were their only jobs, the NFL would lose good referees because they would quit because they would lose their permanent jobs.

When asked if George Atkinson was a "criminal element" in the game, he replied, "I don't think he is a criminal element, but there are some very aggressive defensive backs in the league."

low prices -- new 'n used albums
The Hip Record Shop
SUN MUSIC
amherst carriage shops

Sports Notice

ULTIMATE FRISBEE — UMass Ultimate Frisbee players will be meeting by the Campus Center pond on Friday afternoon at 3:30 to finalize the formation of a team to play in Boston on Saturday. UMass is to play Brandeis in an attempt to gain entry to the Eastern Ultimate Frisbee Championships.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Men's lacrosse | 13 | Brown | 8 |
| Men's JV lacrosse | 15 | Brown | 5 |

Baseball vs. SMU postponed

TODAY

Baseball at Fairfield 3 p.m.
Softball vs. Springfield home 2:30 p.m.
Men's tennis vs. Tufts home 3 p.m.
Women's lacrosse at Williams 4 p.m.
Men's golf vs. Boston College-Holy Cross at Pleasant Valley
JV softball vs. Springfield home 2:30 p.m.
JV baseball vs. UConn home 3 p.m.
JV women's lacrosse at Williams 4 p.m.

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

relay race. UMass managed to finish respectfully with 68 points, UNH(62) and Hartford (45) trailed in that order.

Roger Williams, a private four year college located in Rhode Island, won five of the six events which included an obstacle course, volleyball game, 6-pack pitch-in, 880 yard relay, frisbee throw, and a tug of war.

The UMass eight person contingent which included Captain Peter Deane, Paul Glynn, Steve Lang, Mike Dowd, Jim Donovan, Nancy Raymond, Jana McGill, and Karen Ort, won one event (tug of war), and placed second in two events and placed third in three others.

Roger Williams in the lead 60-42, following the volleyball round-robin tournament, "turned on the jets" and won the 880 relay, and thus clinched the first prize trip to Florida.

The trip will be paid for by Anheuser-Busch, and a private distributing company selling Anheuser-Busch products.

UMass club sports

Waterpolo faces BC

The UMass men's and women's water polo teams take on their number one rival BC tonight at NOPE. The games, beginning at 6 p.m., are part of a two game series began last Thursday at BC.

In last week's game, the men's A team defeated BC 9-8, with the final goal scored in the last minute of the game. UMass was one man short in the last twenty seconds of the game, according to a member Ric Notini. BC set up a power play led by its captain, but failed to score.

The Minutewomen played the top-ranking BC women also on Thursday night. UMass, losing 5-4 at half-time, eventually went down to an 8-4 defeat under BC's greater experience, according to Notini.

Crewmen undefeated

The UMass Men's crew won an exciting home regatta Saturday against Trinity and the University of Rhode Island to remain undefeated.

The major competition in the varsity race came from Trinity as they finished the wind swept course on the Connecticut River in 6:40.7 minutes. This was two seconds and a boat length behind the UMass crew who registered a time of 6:38.4. The URI crew brought up the rear finishing in 7:01.

There were some anxious moments despite the victory. Trinity gained a half boat length lead at the start of the race before UMass could work their way to the front of the pack. Trinity also had a fast sprint at the end of the race, but were unable to make up the difference on the UMass Eight.

Crewwomen romp

The UMass women's crew team remained undefeated last weekend by posting victories over Assumption College and Connecticut College in New London, Conn.

UMass won the varsity race in 5:40.8 seconds, defeating Conn. College by eight and a half seconds. Assumption finished more than a minute later at 6:50.

Bike club challenges

Dan Linnehan of the UMass Bicycle Club placed ninth in a field of 46 at the West Point Challenge Cup Bicycle Race Sunday.

ATTENTION

Graduate Teaching Assistantship applications are now being accepted by the Communications Skills Center, 609 Goodell. We need people to teach writing, coordinate testing, and instruct a cross-cultural communication course. Applications should be submitted by Friday, April 21. Contact Connie for details.

RENEW THAT EXPENSIVE SHOE!
POWER-SOLER
Authorized Dealer
POWER-SOLER
SPECIALIZING IN
sport shoe Resoling
FAST 3-5 DAY SERVICE
Power-Soler System of Amherst
363½ Main St. Amherst, Mass. 01002 Tel. 413-253-5229

Molson $2.50 six
Karlsbrau Beer $1.35 three
Miller 12 oz. cans & bottles $6.89 case
Cott Soda cans $3.59 case
Perrier Water 89 cents
Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
338 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384 256-8438

Soft & Lacey
BUS STOP
...sensuous fashion for Spring

Gorillas get wet; games still hot

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

... Rainy days and Mondays,
Always get me down.

"It wasn't a picturesque game," commented UMass coach Dick Garber. "But there were a lot of good plays."

O.K., so UMass did fail to pick up a couple ground balls here and there. And so they did miss a couple open players which could have led to easy goals. But the fact still remains that the Gorillas played super defense (again) and the offense looked decent. It was a total team effort that produced the outcome of UMass-13 Brown University-8.

FIRST QUARTER

Brooks Sweet put the good guys in white on the board a few minutes into the period. Norm Smith's (from Sweet) and Billy Anderson's (from Dave Martin) goals outnumbered Brown's only score of the period (Ricky Handelman-assist to John Meister) putting UMass ahead 3-1.

The ground ball plague which has surfaced in past encounters is slowly dimin[illegible] from the scene, though UM fans hardly could get over some of the missed scoops. Dougie White showed the crowd some moves. 'Duck' shut the door on Brown's Henry Pippins low drive.

SECOND QUARTER

Ahh ... Brown, they never say die. They hit and ran with UMass, in this battle of evenly matched squads. Brown's Mike Dabrowski closed the gap to 3-2 early in the period before his linemate Bill Ohlson knotted it on a man-up score at the seven minute mark.

Good passing put UMass ahead to stay when Harry Confortti hit Ed Murray with a pass, who in turn, generously handed it to Chris Corin all alone for the score.

Murray and Skip Vosburgh executed a beautiful 'I'll (Skip) cut-the-crease-you- hit-me-with-a-perfect-pass' play to put UMass up 5-3 just before the half ended. Goldstein held off a quick get-that-goal-back play by Brown, stopping Meister's bid.

THIRD QUARTER

Goldstein guarded the post and made a chest save on a hard drive off the stick of Handelman. Vosburgh walked in on Brown goalie Charlie Meister, and showed no mercy on the poor soul. After two minutes, UMass was up 6-3.

But Brown fought back. Speedster John Meister cut around Pete Klement to make it 6-4, before Pippins made the margin one again by flipping in the third rebound of a shot.

After Sweet lifted the team to a 7-5 lead, J. Meister got one back for Brown. In the last minute of the period, the trio of Anderson-Murray-Sweet hit for a man-up goal. Murray dented the crossbar with a rocket shot. after three, UMass-8, Brown-6.

FOURTH QUARTER

Though Brown scored at 33 seconds into trhe period (Handelman) narrowing UMass lead to one again, the Minutemen slowly pulled away. Murray's scorcher was barely seen by Brown goalie Meister. Then Murray left Pippins in his trail, swinging by him, towards yet another goal. And the crowd went nuts when Confortti hit Sweet, who did a 180 degree circle in mid-air, zipping a shot past Meister. 11-8, UMass, and school was out.

The quintet passes of Vosburgh to Smith to Confortti to Bruce Nagle to Sweet to goalstrings made it 12-8. Toby Rice closed the book with his shot past Meister's (hamstring pull) substitute Doug Desimore.

OVERTIME ... good to see some of the wet crew of the BC game (The Coke Family-Draper, Fran, Jan, Nancy, Rorkie etc.) at yesterday's damp contest ... along with the rest of the diehards ....

Minuteman Rich Donovan cautiously starts a play. [Staff photo by John LeJeune]

Collegian Sports

Rain washes out Batmen

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

It took awhile for it to rear its ugly head, but once again New England college baseball's biggest enemy has come out of hiding.

The rain began just a little into the afternoon yesterday, and is not expected to stop until late tonight or early tomorrow morning. The weather forced postponement of yesterday's UMass-Southern Massachusetts University doubleheader at Lorden Field, and also put today's game at Fairfield (3 p.m. start) in serious jeopardy.

The Minutemen have basically lucked out this season in terms of postponements. Aside from yesterday's development, only one other game was postponed due to wet grounds. In addition, an early season game was against Harvard was shifted from Lorden Field to Cambridge because of wet grounds.

Only one inning was completed yesterday before the umpires called the games after a half-hour wait. There was no score when the players went home at 2 p.m.

"We were really looking forward to playing," UMass coach Dick Bergquist said. "After beating Boston College, we really wanted to get the games in."

Indeed, beating the Eagles, one of the top teams in New England, was a big psychological lift to UMass. And the postponement of the twinbill stymied Bergquist's chances of seeing how Dave Tewhill and Pete Rankowitz performed in starting pitching roles.

Tewhill, who has been strictly a reliever, came out of the bullpen to help out a starting staff which played four games in four days.

Rankowitz, who was not even listed in the pre-season brochure, joined the team after the Florida trip and was up for his first appearance of the season. He had been playing in the UMass system (varsity and junior varsity) for three years with varying degrees of success.

Bergquist is not sure whether or not yesterday's doubleheader will be rescheduled.

"SMU had to pay $100 to rent a bus, and we had to pay the umpires, so we don't know if we can afford to play again," he explained.

Cramped schedules on both schools' part may also play a part in the decision. SMU, although just a Division III team, has an active program and plays a 54-game slate, Bergquist said.

Today's game with Fairfield is important in UMass's, now 9-14, drive to make the ECAC playoffs. The Stags are among the top three teams in the region.

Bergquist said he plans on starting Chris Collins. The sophomore righthander is 2-2, but has pitched three straight outstanding games. Most recently, he beat New Hampshire, 9-1, Saturday on a six-hitter.

Roger Williams wins brewer's superstar tourney

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

The name "Budweiser College Superstars" naturally connotated the products of Anheuser-Busch, but last weekends co-ed athletic competition held in Boyden Gym exhibited examples of teamwork, organization and competition, before an estimated 75 spectators.

Roger Williams College won the first prize of a free trip to Tampa Florida to compete in the nationals by holding the top spot over UMass, UNH, and University of Hartford, respectively, with 75 points.

UMass battled Roger Williams for most of the six-event competition, but fell in the

TURN TO PAGE 23

Bruins nip Hawks in OT

Boston AP - Terry O'Reilly flipped home a rebound from just beyond the crease at 1:50 of sudden death overtime last night. boosting the Boston Bruins to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven National Hockey League quarter-final playoff

Philadelphia (UPI) --Rick MacLeish, who assisted on two earlier goals, scored the game winner off a second-period face-off last night to give the Philadelphia Flyers a 3-2 win over the Buffalo Sabres and a 2-0 lead in their NHL playoff series.

Montreal [UPI] -- Errol Thompson's goal only 22 seconds into the final period proved to be the winner last night when the Detroit Red Wings defeated the Montreal Canadiens 4-2 and evened the best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter final series at one game apiece.

Uniondale, N.Y. [UPI] -- Mike Bossy scored at 2:50 of sudden-death overtime last night, giving the New York Islanders a 3-2 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs and a 2-0 lead in their Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

Steve Buckley

Whether you win or lose

by STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

The other day I finished reading Oliver's Story. For those of you not endowed in the literary arts by the way, this is a novel by Erich Segal which is a sequel to Love Story.

Now I realize that this is a subject far removed from the usual sports column you expect to see in this space on your average morning, but there was a line in this book which still rings in my mind.

Oliver Barrett IV and his father had just come from the annual Harvard-Yale game and the mighty Crimson had won the contest. The younger Barrett says that for the first time in his life the annual clash between the two schools meant something to him. According to Oliver Barrett, college sports are for alumni....

Well, the point here is that this reporter will leave the safe confines of UMass come May 27 and up until now I have never really worried about the outcome of games involving our beloved Minuteman teams. Oh sure, I have gone to the events and cheered on my fellow students but I never before really cared who won. I confess that.

But lately I have been telling my friends that come autumn I'll go to all the Minuteman sporting events that take place in the Boston area (that is, road games at Harvard, BU, BC, and Northeastern.)

I am deeply concerned about how the hoop team will do unless they recruit a few top-notch freshmen. Come on, Doctor J., keep taking those recruits out to dinner...

And, oh, the football team. I pray to the Almighty that Mr. Pickett can perform as well as Mac did...

I also worry about the wrestling team. They had all those exciting freshmen this past season, and I only can hope that as sophomores they can, along with captain Larry Otsuka, provide adequate competition for Rhode Island, or at least Springfield College...

I hope that Women's Gymnastics sprouts the talents of more people like Jones and Cantwell...

Do you get the point? I'm going to miss this damned place and I'm saying it now so that I won't have to write one of those boring "last columns" next month. After all, you have enough to worry about on your own.

It all started last week when I was surprised with a combination birthday-graduation party thrown by thirty or so of the best people that ever walked the earth.

I am very excited about graduating and I really look forward to jumping headlong into the job market but I must confess that I will miss those people...and those Sue Peters jump shots...and football plays like that John Romboli punt against UNH last Fall...and Alex Eldridge, in spite of everything ...and, lest I forget, those Russ Smith columns.

But there are regrets. I flunked French in my sophomore year. Last January I saw the basketball team play a game in which they should have beaten Providence, but, oh well...

Hey, you don't want to hear this nonsense, after all, the lacrosse team is suddenly lacking in a national ranking and I'm still kind of excited about the baseball team's win over Boston College the other day.

Just accept this column as the goodbye piece from me so that I can get down to more important things in the coming weeks.

And next year I can go to those Minuteman road games at Harvard, BU, BC, and Northeastern. See you there, Oliver...

---

Rumors abound on name of next UM prez

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

"Rumors of those names have been floating through the windows and under the doors," said UMass Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery last night. He was referring to five names which yesterday were published in a local paper and reported to be the final list of University presidential candidates.

Members of the presidential search committee, who have been looking for a replacement for former UMass President Robert C. Wood, agree there is no final list of candidates. Wood stepped down in January. The committee has been conducting the presidential search in utmost secrecy since last fall.

Those associated with the search said the five candidates reported were not the final candidates although they have all been considered and some will continue to be considered.

The five listed were Marilyn Gittell of Brooklyn College, Charles H. Foster of Yale, David Knapp of Cornell, James Varenberg of Harvard, and UMass Chancellor Bromery.

Bromery said those names have been rumored in Whitmore for the past three or four days. "The only one I know anything about is me," he said. Bromery said he assumes he is a final candidate because of a series of interviews the committee has requested. "I figure when everyone stops talking to me, then I'm out," he said.

Search Committee Chairman Stephen G. Breyer said there is no final list. "Don't even read me the names," he said. "I won't comment on any of them." Breyer said no one had asked him to confirm the five names.

Last month it was reported by the Collegian that Albert H. Bowker, chancellor of UCal Berkley, led the list of candidates for president. Bowker said he had been asked to visit UMass and declined the invitation. He said he did not consider himself an active candidate.

The search committee has been conducting its business in secret because they are dealing with personnel matters. An open meeting law recently went into effect which would force some meetings of the committee to be conducted in public. The exact ramifications of the law have not yet been determined.

It has been said the names of the final candidates will be known as a matter of course when various groups on and off campus are asked to conduct interviews. Breyer said he hopes to recommend finalists to the board sometime this month or next.

Sources have said that some candidates, including a part of the published list, have been looking the University over and are deciding whether they wish to be included in the final selection. It has also been said that some members of the published list should not be considered as finalists. Bromery was cited as an exception.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 124
FRIDAY, APRIL 21, 1978
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

Collegian staff votes

Women's pages will not appear

By BERNARD T. DAVIDOW
Collegian Staff

Protesters were still deciding what action to take late last night after the Massachusetts Daily Collegian staff voted to reject a proposal for four advertisement free women's pages weekly in the newspaper.

The staff overturned a decision made last week by its board of editors to approve the pages. The pages were to be allocated beginning in Monday's issue.

More than 250 people attended the staff meeting, which was moved to the Campus Center Auditorium from a smaller conference room. At least half of them were non-staffers demanding that the staff uphold the vote of its editors.

That group adjourned to discuss strategy in another room shortly after Collegian Editor in Chief William A. Sundstrom announced the results of the staff's secret-ballot vote — 98 for overturning last week's vote, 28 against.

After brainstorming on what action to take against the Collegian the group split into several small groups and elected spokespeople who then left to meet in a private residence.

Suggestions to keep issues of the Collegian from being distributed, to take over the Collegian office and to organize a boycott from reading the newspaper were all discussed.

Collegian Women's Editor Julie Melrose said after the meeting she thought the women's community felt "betrayed" by the newspaper, since it was never mentioned after last week's board meeting that the decision was conditional on a staff vote.

Sundstrom said a chart in the paper's constitution indicates that the staff can overturn the board's vote, providing it achieves a quorum of a simple majority. There are 198 members of the Collegian staff, according to Sundstrom.

"They've got to understand," he said earlier last night, "the staff of the paper is sovereign and has the right to appeal the board's decision."

Melrose said she questions the validity of last night's vote, and that it was "assumed" from a chart. "What happened tonight was another example of the extent to which people will go to deny women access to the mass media," she said.

The board of editors voted 5 - 0 - 2 at its April 13 meeting to submit to the demands of about 75 people, mostly women, for four advertisement-free pages per week dedicated solely to women's news. Only seven of the board's 10 members were present for the decision.

Earlier that night, the group asking for women's pages had occupied the Collegian office and vowed to remain there until their demands were met.

The board had already voted down a proposal for four ad-free pages per week, a compromise proposal for two ad-free pages, and a motion to table the issue for a week.

The demands called for "four pages of ad-free space per week, editorial control over that space, and space for important women's news on days on which women's pages do not appear."

Collegian staffer Fran Basche reads a statement prepared by several Collegian staff members to the audience at the staff meeting last night.

BOG to review Collegian space

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

The Campus Center-Student Union Board of Governors last night voted to review its allocation of space in the Campus Center for Collegian offices.

The vote came after a motion to revoke the Collegian's space allocation if the newspaper did not grant four ad-free pages per week to women's affairs failed to pass the governors.

The original motion said the governors would "revoke the allocation of Campus Center rooms 112 and 113 if at least four ad-free pages per week are not women's pages."

Board of Governors Co-chairman Herb Tyson called the original motion a "typographical error."

Campus Center Director William M. Harris last night said the governors were within their rights in their actions.

The motion passed by the governors said the board of governors would review the utilization of Collegian offices, located in Campus Center rooms 105, 112, and 113, to see if the spaces would be "better used by other RSO groups and graduate student organizations."

The original motion resembles a motion passed by the Undergraduate Student Senate last week. That motion called for the freezing of senate funding of the Collegian and the confiscation of the newspaper's equipment.

The Collegian Board of Editors this week attempted to obtain an injunction against the senate, but the suit was dismissed when the senate rescinded its motion Wednesday.

Harris said there was "no doubt" the board of governors' original motion resembled the senate motion.

Tyson said the governors were not infringing on First Amendment rights because the governors were not telling the newspaper not to print, but to freedom of the press where to print.

"If the Collegian owned its space we couldn't throw them out," Tyson said. "I personally have no problems with the Collegian. Some of my best friends work there."

Harris said early in the evening that if the governors passed their original motion, it would most likely prompt a "recourse" on the part of the Collegian.

"You're protected by some Constitutional amendments," Harris told a reporter. "You always have the recourse to go to court. I hope it's resolved before it goes to court."

B.A. at 17 - now on to Ph.D.

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

Like any 17-year-old nearing graduation, Karen Hermann is anticipating commencement exercises and her next venture in academia.

But, unlike most Amherst area seniors her age, Hermann won't be participating in a high school graduation ceremony this spring or thinking about what college she will attend this September.

Hermann, on May 27, will receive a bachelor of arts degree from UMass, and later this summer with the financial aid of a fellowship will begin studying science and linguistics in the graduate program at the University of California at Berkeley.

Hermann began her accelerated drive to academic success after what she calls eight years of oppression and boredom in Amherst elementary schools.

Development, Not Advancement

Elementary school teachers "didn't give me any extra things to do," she said this week. They stressed "social development and peer relations," and not intellectual advancement.

And so Hermann began to teach herself, by reading Sigmund Freud and R.D. Lainge and studying German at age 6.

"But my mother took it away," she said about the college level German text.

Hermann has since studied a dozen languages, half of which she said she can read fluently. She has never travelled abroad, she said, so she is not sure how well she can converse in the languages.

Hermann skipped the ninth grade and took double course loads at Amherst-Pelham Regional High School before tackling college classes at UMass when she was 14.

She never took Scholastic Aptitude Tests, achievements, advance placement courses or college level equivalency tests. She said her IQ has never been measured. She did score an 810 in verbal and 600 in math in the Graduate Record Exam.

And, before she turns 18 this summer, Hermann will be enrolled in a linguistics graduate program at UCal-Berkeley, backed by a $3,900 National Science Foundation three-year fellowship, full tuition and travel allowance scholarship.

She has to reject similar awards from Cornell and the University of Michigan.

When Hermann attains a Ph.D. in linguistics, she plans to work toward another in neuroscience, a branch of science that relates learning and behavior to the biological aspects of nerves and nerve tissue, so that she can relate the "function of the brain to the linguistics of the brain," through independent research financed by grants.

Independent in School

Her independence in the academic world began in elementary school and high school.

"Kids hated me," she recalls, saying some may have considered her a "school weirdo" with a "behavior problem," because she was bored with school work.

Hermann said she doesn't have many friends her own age — she never associated with many students in high school. She said most of her acquaintances now are graduate students with whom she shares classes.

She didn't attend high school graduation, but plans to attend commencement this May.

"I consider it a privilege to attend this university," Hermann said.

Some high school teachers didn't know how to handle Hermann as a teenage genius.

"We sometimes get in the way of students," Eleanor Fillmore, the former guidance director at Amherst high school said about how some high school faculty reacted to teaching Hermann.

"So what she's done, she's done herself," added Fillmore.

Karen's mother, Carolyn Hermann, admits she too tried to contain Karen's academic yearning until about "a year or so ago."

Was Encouraged

Fillmore, one of the few high school personnel Hermann says encouraged her academic goals, said Amherst high school is "not set up" for Hermann's "non-traditional" progress in education.

"She has a way of managing you to gain her objectives" said Fillmore.

Hermann acquired 50 credits in UMass courses as a 14-year-old attending high school. But the credits would not be recognized by the University, Hermann said, so she signed up for as many as 36 credit hours for four semesters and one summer session to earn the 120 credit hours required for a bachelor of arts degree.

The average credit load is 15 for UMass undergraduates, and the usual overload request is 24, according to Nancy Lamb, a dean in CASIAC whom Hermann approached.

"She has an intense desire to learn," Lamb said of Hermann. "She's very organized."

Hermann mentioned that her family situation — she's the oldest of three and her father died a few years ago — has influenced her desire to educate herself quickly. But neither she nor her mother who works at the state welfare office in Northampton, wanted to elaborate on their family situation.

Karen Hermann graduates this spring along with other seniors yet this senior is only seventeen years old. After receiving her bachelor of arts, she plans this summer to go to the University of California at Berkeley to earn a doctorate in linguistics.

Karen in an interview didn't even acknowledge half her extra-curricular activities she has had while maintaining a 3.6 cum with as many as 36 credits of honor and graduate level courses.

Her mother said Karen raises a cockatoo, an exotic bird, and also has a flock of doves. She's a former satirical columnist for the Collegian and she corresponds with others about academics, her mother said.

She commutes daily to UMass from her Belchertown home, where she lives with her mother and two younger brothers, one an artist who once wrote a Collegian cartoon strip, the other a mathematician.

She said she has achieved her bachelor's degree in a program she designed herself by studying 30 hours a week after attending 30 hours of classes.

Her spending money in the past has come from tutoring people in foreign language and washing dishes in a UMass science laboratory. She has also received scholarships from the University and a private foundation for Hampshire and Franklin county students.

. . . newslines . . .

Program begins on hypertension

The University Health Services and the Student Health Advisory Board are conducting a screening program for hypertension on Monday from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Campus Center concourse.

Blood pressure will be read in 804-808 Campus Center.

Hypertension, more commonly referred to as high blood pressure, is a common problem in the Uited States, contributing to an estimated 250 deaths each year. Physicians estimate that there are over 23 million people in this country who have high blood pressure although half of them are unaware of it.

While hypertension is more prevalent among older people, it also afflicts people of college age. There are no special symptoms but if your blood pressure goes up and stays high, it may be cause for concern. Hypertension can be detected by having a simple blood pressure reading. Although one reading is not enough to indicate high blood pressure, it may be a sign to seek appropriate medical diagnosis.

— SHEILA RIORDAN

Course guides available today

Five thousand more course selection booklets should be available today outside the Bluewall in front of the University Store and in other Student Union Campus Center locations, according to Chairperson for Academic Affairs Steven H. Kropp.

Kropp said "approximately 20,000 copies of the booklet were published" which will be distributed among the returning undergraduates and administrative persons.

Kropp also said the student senate pushed to have the booklet contain the combined evaluation and description guide.

No estimate of the cost of production was available due to an error in publication. The final cost for the booklets will be influenced by the decision on who was responsible for the error.

— MARY MATSON

Grad student found injured in Central

A UMass graduate student was found Wednesday evening in Central Area lying on the ground moaning in front of Clark Hall. The causes of her injuries are still unknown, a police spokesman said yesterday.

Graduate student Jill A. Dickinson, 25, of Belchertown sustained head injuries and was moved to a Springfield Hospital, Wednesday night, a University Health Center spokesman said.

"The tentative results based on our information so far, is that it doesn't appear to be a robbery and does not appear to be a sexaul offense," Saul Chafin, director of security said.

"We are still continuing the investigation," Chafin said.

— CAROL ROSENBERG

Amherst students to protest stocks

A demonstration sponsored by the South African Support Committee will take place today in front of the Robert Frost Library at Amherst College from 10 a.m. to noon.

There will be four speakers, one from UMass, and cultural music at the demonstration.

According to a member of the Amherst College South African Support Committee, "the trustees have continuously ignored student and faculty opinion. South Africa is not the only issue, but it is the immediate issue." He added that "half of the student body had signed a petition in favor of corporate withdrawal."

The demonstration is meant to be a "show of student solidarity," according to the committee member.

— PATRICIA KEEFE

Arlington offices are on schedule

Renovation of 100 Arlington Street-Boston, where the new University Presidential offices will be located, is coming along on schedule according to Vice President for management George Kaludis.

Four floors of the 13 floor building are being renovated at a cost of $980,000 to house the presidential offices and the College of Public Community Service. Funding is coming from state outlay appropriations.

This building originally housed UMass Boston before the Columbia Point Campus was constructed.

— GAYLE YOUNG

Master-director search continues

A search committee of Orchard Hill and Central area representatives is trying to find a replacement for Norman Aitken, OH-Central master-director, the Central Area Government announced this week.

Aitken's resignation is effective at the end of this semester.

Search Committee member Jim Degnim announced that nominees from the UMass faculty are needed. The master-director may devote one-third of his time to teaching, and will be provided with one or two teaching assistants.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| News desk | Laura Kenney |
| Copy editor | Mary Matson |
| Sports layout | Steve Zack |
| Editorial layout | Fifi Ball |
| Black Affairs | Terrell Evans |
| HDT | Dave Rodgers |
| Pizza and Beer Eds | Fran and Sean |

Subscription Rates

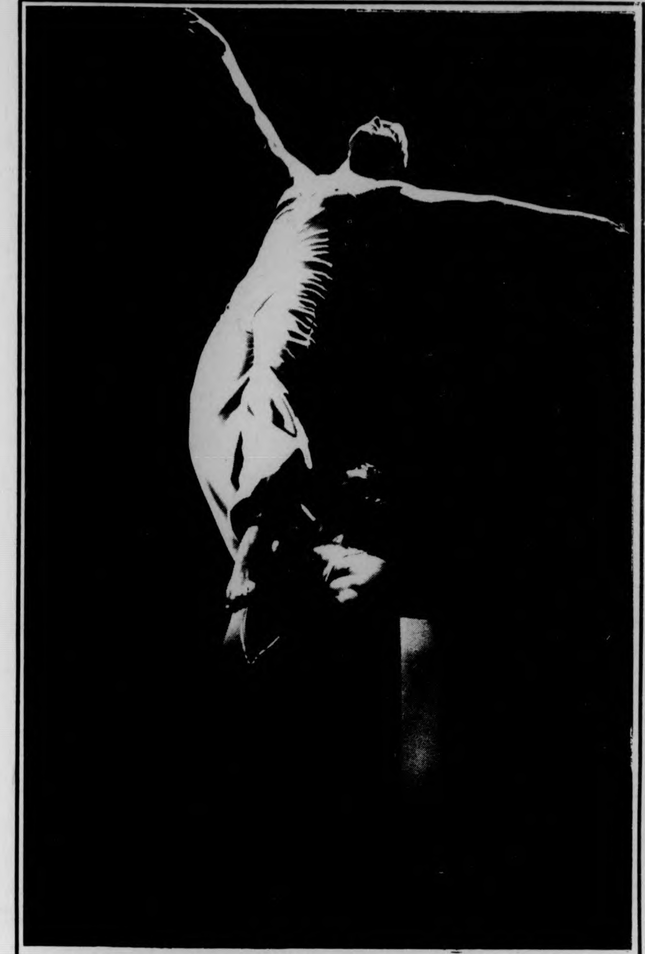
| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---



The University Dancers and UMass dance faculty will be appearing Friday and Saturday nights at Bowker Auditorium for the final two performances of the Spring Dance Concert. Tickets are still available at the box office. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

'Holocaust ' image disturbs Boulding

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

Wednesday night Elise Boulding could not sleep.

The feminist, futurist, sociologist, peace educator, and author yesterday afternoon told an audience of 350 she had been kept awake by the last "disturbing image" which flashed across the TV screen during the final installment of WBZ's mini-series, "Holocaust."

The image of "this young man with utter joy — a plastic football star happily dashing to victory — was inappropriate to the social realities that had been dealt with in the film," which depicted the World War II methodical annihilation of six million Jews.

"It was a comment on how out of touch we are with the authenticity of human experience," said Boulding, who spoke as a participant in the Learning Tomorrows Conference.

Boulding said there is a "need to recapture authenticity," and focused her speech on alternatives for doing so. She also told the audience why "re-introducing these alternatives" is vital to the improvement of today's social and educational systems.

"Loss of authenticity has been accompanied by a one-dimensionality which makes us not able to compare one social system to another, one school to another," Boulding said.

Boulding cited the experience of Nomadic tribes around 12,000 B.C. as one which provided "human beings with a very special feeling of making choices and observations ... because they had to be continually reading every aspect of their environment because their survival depended on it."

She said, "The experiences of the Nomads of making comparative judgements ... are something children and teachers today are crippled by lack of."

Boulding also cited "encounters with the stranger," i.e., preachers and missionaries, as an important factor in a child's understanding of the world.

"I think we have vastly underestimated ... the one-to-one encounter with a person who has 'been there'; hearing things filtered through the person's experience paints a picture, and is the next best thing to the real experience," Boulding said.

Boulding cited "growing up on a farm" as yet another alternative which allows children to interpret the world with a degree of authenticity. She said she recently spoke to a group of Oklahoma teenagers from rural areas who said they were "resented" by their urban classmates because they had skills learned on the farm which the city youths lacked.

Boulding said children today are alienated from society — they are "surpluse personnel" — and one way of perhaps improving this situation is to look into the future.

Within every experience of alienation, "there's a crevice where the alternative can be perceived ... but not everyone can say 'I don't want to live in today's society, but I want to create a future society that I would like to live in."

Elise Boulding

Boulding's vision of a future society is one where "the school becomes the place where the teacher and learner are connected and learn the skills that the community represents."

Boulding said in this society everyone would learn under apprenticeships the skills of others.

"There would be no age limit," she said. "An important part of life's apprenticeship is to apprentice through all lives stages."

Boulding said all societies demand a "commitment to human goodness — without having that growth in goodness, there's no future."

Watroba's store may move half of business

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

The owner of Watroba's Store said he will move half of his operations if the proposed land site trade with the town is defeated at next month's town meeting.

"By trading land sites we could keep the center of business in North Amherst right here (at the intersection of North Pleasant and Meadow Streets), otherwise I will have to split my operations and move up to Sunderland Road," owner Chester W. Watroba said.

Watroba last week bought close to three acres of land on the east side of Sunderland Road, and said he would move his entire grocery line there if the town turns down his proposal.

His proposal, which is Article 54 on the warrant for the upcoming town meeting, asks the town to exchange the old North Amherst School building and a portion of its lot for the Watroba Store and part of its lot.

Selectman Monday night were divided in their vote on whether to support the article when it goes before the Amherst voters May 1. Selectmen Roger C. Jacque and William C. Atkins voted in favor of support while Nathaniel Reed and Diana H. Romer voted against supporting the article. Selectman Nancy B. Eddy abstained from voting on the issue.

Eddy said she felt it is "too premature to make the decision now."

Watroba, who said he is willing to buy the old school building if the town decides not to trade, disagrees with Eddy.

"All I will be getting is a shell of a building," he said.

Watroba said if the plans for an exchange fall through, he will move the grocery section of his store to the new site on Sunderland Road, but will continue to sell wine and beer at the present location.

He also said other business in the North Amherst area are interested in moving to the Sunderland Road site, including the Rooster's restaurant.

Former dean calls for new educational attitude

By ARNOLD WARSHAW
Collegian Staff

Stressing the need for a societal change in attitude toward our educational system, former Dean of the UMass School of Education Dwight Allen last night said there must be "a transition of education as a selection device to educations as an inclusion device."

"If education is an inclusion process, you start with the kid ... you start designing the institutions around the individual," Allen said.

Allen spoke to a crowd of about 100 at the Fine Arts Center as part of the Learning Tomorrows Conference being held this week at UMass.

He is presently a professor in the school of education and has been an international leader in developing innovative education techniques.

Yippies plan smoke-in

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

The Seventh Yippie smoke-in of the year will be held Saturday at noon on the UMass Campus on the Metawampe lawn behind the Student Union.

Russ Swan, an area Yippie spokesman, applied to the Activities Council and received approval yesterday for the activity, Swan said.

"I don't think there are enough cops in the state of Mass. to bust all the dope smokers who will be there," Swan said. 1000 to 1500 people are expected at the second Yippie smoke-in in the Amherst area, he said.

Swan expects support from New England, Washington, D.C. and New York City in addition to Amherst area students and supporters.

"I don't think people should be worried about Paraquat, people will be getting up and explaining" about the chemical which has been found in marijuana originating in Mexico, he said.

"Maia doesn't really care about it, it is out of his hands, it's within the University's jurisdiction," Swan said.

Featured at the smoke-in will be three bands, "Cold Attic," "Sweet Pie," and "Angel's Society," Swan said, adding that no marijuana would be sold at the event.

Although this is the second smoke-in in Amherst, and the seventh of the year, the Yippies hold one annually at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the anniversary of J. Edgar Hoover's birthday, according to Swan.

Tickets are still available to tonight's R. Buckminister Fuller lecture on a first come, first serve basis. Fuller is pictured above on the right talking with Dean of Education Mario D. Fantini. Individuals who purchased Friday's conference tickets may pick up tickets for the Fuller Keynote Address at the Information Desk on the first floor of the Campus Center today between noon and 3 p.m. Fuller will speak at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. UMass students with a validated I.D. may pick up tickets today at the Information Desk between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. or at the Fine Arts Center until 8 p.m.

Black Affairs

The Rhodesian dilemma

By JAMES LEWIS

The leaders of the Patriotic Front are Robert Mugabe and Jashua Nkomo. Jashua Nkomo is the leader of the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU), which represents about 20 percent of the Rhodesian black population. Robert Mugabe is the leader of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU), which represents about 75 percent of the Rhodesian black population, together they formed the Patriotic Front.

The transition-government plan instated by Ian Smith, Prime Minister of Rhodesia, includes nine white officials and nine black officials. Two of them are Nkomo and Mugabe. The Patriotic Front has the backing of the Five Frontline States, the Organization of African Unity, Cuba, the Soviet Union and China.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance went to the conference at Dar es Salaam, Tanzania to try to get the Patriotic Front and Ian Smith to agree to an American-Anglo plan for transition settlement of the government. This plan was worked out between the U.S. and Great Britain. They are opposed to Smith's settlement because it is expected to cause a military free-for-all in 1979, and thus the new government could get support from Cuba, China, or the Soviet Union. They are sure the guerillas fighting forces will be stepped up. Mugabe and Nkomo are backed by an estimated 20,000 guerillas each. The United States and Great Britain want some kind of United Nations peace-keeping force in Rhodesia, among other things and both countries were seriously disappointed at the conference. The Patriotic Front demands that it be given the dominant role in the new government. They will retaliate if they are not satisfied with the agreements. The United States is especially interested in this as preparatory actions for trying to get South Africa to begin making concessions on South West Africa (Nambia). South Africa is supporting Smith.

The United Nations are afraid of an ensuing race war between the two governments and Africans within and without the entire South African area. The Five Front Line States has pledged support of The Patriotic Front and has been supplying guerilla troops.

Announcements

International Weekend

The International Students Association will be holding an International Weekend starting Friday 21st April with the film "Swept Away" which will be shown at the Campus Centre Auditorium at 7 p.m., 9 p.m. and 11 p.m., the entrance fee will be $1. This cross-cultural event continues on through Saturday with the 13th Annual International Fair which again, will be held in the Campus Centre Auditorium from 11 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. There will be exhibitions of food crafts and customs from throughout the world with at least 13 countries participating. Continuous live entertainment will be provided throughout the day with musicians and dance groups from countries as varied as Mexico, India and Greece. The day will end with an open invitation for all students to come to the disco which will take place in the C.C.A. and is absolutely FREE.

Through the Fair and other events the International Students Association hopes to make other students on campus aware of the different cultural backgrounds of foreign students at the University and to provide information on those different ethnic backgrounds. Thus we hope that a better understanding will be fostered and stimulated.

High Notes

as the Letters Go By...

The Collegian Letters To the Editor section has been very busy lately. I guess it's due to the supposed coming of Spring. Some of the letters have seen fit to address the upcoming Duke Ellington Music Festival. While everyone has a right to express their views, no one has the right to generalize, misinform etc., under the guise of "concerned" individual, resident, or what have you.

One letter addressed the question of the "anonimity" of some of the acts contracted for the Festival. This person claimed that not only he but no one else had ever heard of people like McCoy Tyner, Buddy Guy and Junior Wells. This assumption isn't only an insult to those artists but also to the people of this community.

I think McCoy Tyner has recorded enough music with other artists and on his own that "justifies" his appearance on the slate. I doubt that you could walk into a record store, ask for his latest LP and have the clerk say, "Who's that?" Neither could you go into a discussion of modern jazz keyboardists and not mention his name.

Buddy Guy and Junior Wells merely play some of the best blues on the planet. However, the "anonimity equals marginality" attitude displayed by Axel Traugott and the Concerned Residents (Who? I've never heard of that group?) has kept them from getting a recording contract. It's funny though because there's a very good chance that you have heard these two gentlemen's work. You see, various "Knowns" like Mick Jagger and The Beatles readily admit to incorporating much of their blues styles in vocals and guitar in their thoroughly marketable work. To be able to see these men perform is an invaluable experience for anyone who can.

These "concerned" people have all neglected to mention that the Crusaders (formerly the Jazz Crusaders) are also on the bill. Maybe because they're contribution to the music makes them "knowns" thus making them an exception in this case.

The type of thought displayed by the "concerned" on this campus is exactly what warrants these artists and others having to perform on this campus. In ending, I'd like to note that there are a lot of people that enjoy Black music and are removing their "blinders" to support the Duke Ellington Music Festival and allow themselves to be enriched from it.

— mario

[IPI] — Ishongo Checkobi Hakeem, a member of the radical back to nature group MOVE, located in Philadelphia, held a news conference on Tuesday, April 18. Ishongo surrendered to police last Sunday and became the first member to leave the blockaded MOVE headquarters. The city and MOVE have been at odds since last May over weapons violations and the police have been blockading MOVE headquarters since March 17.

Leftfield

Too much for my mind

By TERRELL EVANS
Black Affairs Staff

This past week has left me with ideas that have been somewhat confusing in my mind. At times like this it is difficult to write an even half-way decent article on any subject. Thus, I have choose to write about a few different topics.

— This past weekend, the National Council for Black Studies (NCBS) held its second annual conference at UMass. Partly I saw it as a small gathering of a few members of "Black Middle Class America." They were nothing special.

— I saw students attempting to force their input into some of the policies of the NCBS conference and the national organization. I have mixed feelings about this because students had enough opportunity to be a recognized interest group in the conference and national organization without waiting until last moments. I also seriously question the NCBS because it is difficult for me to understand how the conference and the national organization can precede at the pace it does without more student participation.

— James Baldwin, in an article on the op-ed page (an opinion editorial page) of the N.Y. Times writes: "The news from all the northern cities is to understate it, grim; the state of the Union is catastrophic."

— The Infant Mortality rate in Harlem in New York City is 13% higher than the city's average, cirrhosis of the liver 97% higher than the city's average and Trauma (murder, accidents, suicide, etc) 73% higher than the city's average. It is no wonder that James Baldwin says the "state of the Union is catastrophic".

— I read in the papers about Rhodesia, South Africa, Uganda, Somalia, Cuba, Nigeria, and Indonesia. I would like to meet any UMass student that is capable of explaining to me what is really happening in these countries, I have realized that the papers are written intentionally to keep us confused.

— We hear news of a rising Nazi party in the western United States and read of Nazi members being evicted from their office in Detroit. I think it is important for us to learn to digest the things that come our way, we must learn from all experiences and begin to see that things that seem to be a million miles away affect us somehow.

BLACK AMERIKA,

BLACK
SOUTH AFRIKA:

SAME STRUGGLE-SAME FIGHT

BEGHI LANGA of (near) DURBAN, SOUTH AFRIKA
DIR. CENTER FOR RACIAL STUDIES, U. MASS.
SALADIN MUHAMMED OF PHILADELPHIA
SEC. GEN. AFRICAN PEOPLES' PARTY

7:30 p.m.
MONDAY, APRIL 24

MAHAR AUDITORIUM
U. MASS.

SPONSORED BY NATIONAL BLACK STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION
U MASS AFRO-AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
U MASS MALCOLM X CENTER

---

Spring Day '78

Fun, mud, and beer

Staff photos by Dan Vullimier, Donna Platt and John LeJeune.

BUSCH.
BUSCH.
BUSCH

MASS. VIETNAM-ERA-VETS CONFERENCE

Sat., April 22, 1978 at 9 in 174-176 CC.

Coffee & donuts, box lunch & dinner provided.

$5.00 registration fee

Key note speaker:
Rep. James Collins (D-Amherst), member of House Education Committee.

For more information contact V.S.O. 411 S.U.B. (545-0712).

Join the fight for veterans rights! Get involved-for yourself and fellow veterans!

---

Phi Mu Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon

PRESENT

BUSCH FEST

Saturday, April 22 1 p.m.-10 p.m.

Featuring:

Albatross
P.F. and the Flyers

BUSCH BEER 3/$1

150 Kegs HotDogs

Fraternity/ Sorority Park East Pleasant St.
On Orchard Hill Bus Route Transit Buses Circling Campus
Rain Date: Sunday, April 23

---

Mountaineering #3.

METHODOLOGY

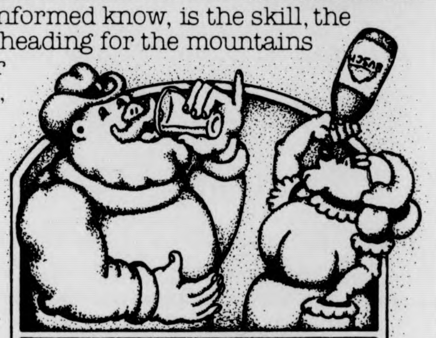
Heading for the mountains
Fig. 1
TAVERN
BUSCH BEER
BUSCH

Mountaineering, as all but the chronically misinformed know, is the skill, the science and the art of drinking Busch Beer. It begins by heading for the mountains (i.e., a quick jaunt to your favorite package emporium or wateringhole) and ends by downing the mountains (i.e., slow slaking swallows of the brew that is Busch).

¶ However, between those two points lies a vast area of personal peccadilloes sometimes called technique and sometimes called methodology (depending on your major). Hence, this ad. ¶ Sipping vs. chugging. Both have their merits, of course. But generally speaking, except for cases of extreme thirst or a leaking glass, sipping is the more prudent practice for serious, sustained mountaineering. ¶ Next, the proper position. Some swear by sitting; others by standing. Suffice it to say that the most successful mountaineers are flexible, so you'll find both sitters and standers. (Except on New Year's Eve, when it's almost impossible to find a sitter.) ¶ Which brings us to additives. Occasionally a neophyte will sprinkle salt in his Busch; others mix in tomato juice; and a few on the radical fringe will even add egg. While these manipulations can't be prohibited (this is, after all, a free country), they are frowned upon. Please be advised that purity is a virtue, and the natural refreshment of Busch is best uncompromised.

¶ Finally, there's the issue of containers. Good taste dictates a glass be used. But bad planning sometimes prevents that. If you find yourself forced to drink from the can, you should minimize this breach of etiquette. Be formal. Simply let your little finger stick out stiffly (see Fig. 4). Happy Mountaineering!



Sipping vs. chugging
Fig. 2

uncompromised compromised
Fig. 3

Standing vs. sitting
Fig. 4

Don't just reach for a beer. BUSCH® Head for the mountains.

©Anheuser-Busch Inc. St. Louis, Mo.

Bill outlines tuition plan

BOSTON [UPI] — Boston University President John R. Silber and Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., Thursday announced they have filed legislation to make paying for an expensive college education as simple as buying a car.

The program, which would allow college students to "mortgage" their tuition payments during their working years after graduation, was described as a "new option for helping families pay the cost of college tuitions."

The measure — called the Tuition Advance Fund — was filed in the U.S. House Thursday and was described as a "joint effort" between Silber and Harrington.

Under the program, a self-sustaining $100 million trust fund would be created to advance to the student the full cost of tuition and $1,000 in education-related expenses such as room and board, up to a maximum of $5,000 per year.

Under TAF, the student would repay the advance, plus a surcharge that would make the fund fiscally sound, at the rate of about two percent of yearly income.

The surcharge would serve as insurance against death and disability and as an offset against those who will not make enough money to completely repay their advance. Deductions from paychecks would be made by the Internal Revenue Service until the obligation is paid.

The rusty nail Inn

| | |
|---|---|
| APRIL 23RAINTREE$1.00 | APRIL 27RAMONESANDFAT$4.00 |
| APRIL 24-25MIDNIGHT SHIFT$1.00 | APRIL 28-29TOM RUSHANDZONKARAZ$4.00 |

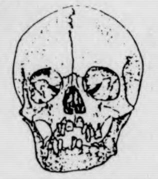
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, APRIL 21 & 22
JAMES MONTGOMERY
AND FAT $4.00

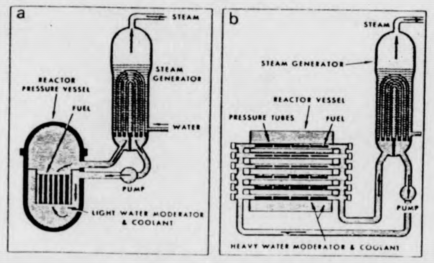
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26
BUDDY RICH

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665·4937

JONATHAN SOUWEINE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

REGISTER
VOTE





UMASS CAMPUS CENTER
25-27 APRIL 78

People Who Want To Elect Jonathan Souweine, DA

The 15th Annual
A cross-cultural event.

INTERNATIONAL FAIR

Food, exhibits and live entertainment from around the world.

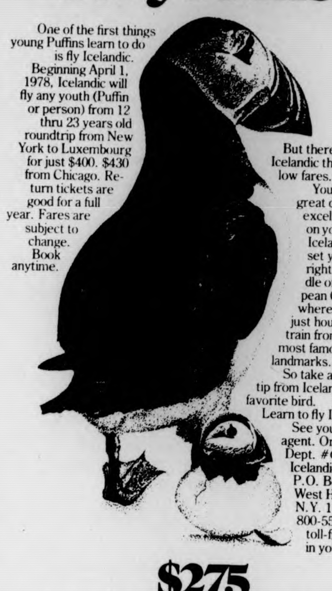
Sat., April 22
from 11a.m. - 4:30p.m.
CCA

Disco at 8:00 p.m.-Free

---

The Puffin fare for youths.



One of the first things young Puffins learn to do is fly Icelandic. Beginning April 1, 1978, Icelandic will fly any youth (Puffin or person) from 12 thru 23 years old roundtrip from New York to Luxembourg for just $400. $430 from Chicago. Return tickets are good for a full year. Fares are subject to change. Book anytime.

But there's more to Icelandic than just low fares.

You'll get a great dinner and excellent service on your trip. And Icelandic will set you down right in the middle of the European Continent, where you'll be just hours away by train from Europe's most famous landmarks.

So take a travel tip from Iceland's favorite bird.

Learn to fly Icelandic. See your travel agent. Or write Dept. #C352, Icelandic Airlines, P.O. Box 105, West Hempstead, N.Y. 11552. Call 800-555-1212 for toll-free number in your area.

$275
Roundtrip 14-45 day APEX fare from N.Y.*
$400
Roundtrip Youth Fare. Good thru age 23.
Icelandic to Europe

*$295 from Chicago. Tickets must be reserved 45 days prior to departure and paid for within 8 days of reservation. Add $15 each way for travel on weekends.

John Adams Lower turns down volume

By CLAUDE S. TETRAULT
Collegian Staff

John Adams Lower Dormitory has improved living conditions in the Southwest Residential area by implementing a new noise policy reducing loud noise conditions in the area.

Southwest is a ten-year-old dorm project consisting of five high-rise buildings and eleven low-rises, presently housing 5,106 students. John Adams Lower is a student-run dorm which is comprised of the first nine residential floors of John Adams Tower.

"Noise is the major reason for students leaving J.A. Lower," said J.A. Lower Head of Residence Robert Jacobs. "Many students have voiced frustrations, complaining with special urgency about the dangerous effects of shouting and loud music.

Loud noise is a violation of University regulations and the Southwest Endangering Behavior Act. Severe cases result in removing the student from the dormitory. Many dorms have some restrictions concerning study hours yet emphasis on regulations is low-keyed.

"Each student becomes responsible for the private rights of others," said Floyd Martin, associate director of Southwest Residential Area.

What makes the J.A. Lower noise policy unique? through a questionnaire-survey conducted by J.A. Lower staff members, each student had an opportunity to express his viewpoint concerning a noise policy. This student response was vital to the noise policy and its implementations.

"The J.A. Lower staff encouraged students to be active," said J.A. Lower Head of Residence James Barbiei. "Since J.A. is a student run dorm, cooperation and direct contact were essential."

The J.A. noise policy is a written amendment to the Southwest Endangering Behavior Act. Instituted several years ago, the Endangering Behavior Act prohibits behaviors more typical to Southwest, especially the towers. Throwing objects out the window, possession of firearms and use of fireworks are examples. The maximum penalty is suspension from the dorm and, in severe cases, suspension from the University.

According to J.A. noise policy, anyone making excessive noise (loud stereos, slamming and bouncing things, yelling) will first receive an oral warning from a resident assistant or head of residence. On the second offense, the violator will receive an official written warning and will be required to appear before the weekly R.A. meeting. On the third offense, excessive noise will be automatically considered a violation of the Endangering Behavior Act, and will cause immediate expulsion from the dorm.

"Southwest Residential Area is oftentimes ridiculed for loud noise and excessive partying," said Martin.

"J.A. Lower's effort is a good example to the Southwest community. With cooperation, enforcement, and proper discretion, the noise policy will be effective," he said.

Former governors testify to jury's M-B-M probe

BOSTON [AP] — A grand jury investigating alleged political payoffs by a New York consulting firm heard some 90 minutes of testimony yesterday from former Republican Govs. Francis W. Sargent and John A. Volpe.

The Suffolk County grand jury is probing allegations that McKee-Berger-Mansueto paid out $20,000 in illegal corporate campaign contributions to the Sargent campaign through Worcester businessman Albert "Toots" Manzi.

Stephen Delinsky, chief of the attorney general's criminal division, said following the session that "the investigation is continuing."

Emerging from nearly an hour of testimony before the grand jury, Sargent commented. "I've said from the very beginning I've never heard of McKee-Berger-Mansueto and the charges about "Toots" Manzi I found hard to believe."

Sargent was accompanied by his lawyer, Richard F. McCarthy. The former governor declined to comment about the substance of his grand jury testimony.

Asked, however, if he were aware of the alleged 1972 extortion demand by Manzi on MBM, Sargent simply shook his head no.

Volpe entered and left the grand jury room by a rear door, avoiding waiting reporters and photographers.

June Grads
Outstanding career marketing opportunities in West. Mass.
Send resume to PO Box 854, Amherst

Don't get caught with high winter heating bills!

2 bedroom garden apartments from $255
Included in your rent at NO EXTRA CHARGE-heat and hot water

NOW ACCEPTING DEPOSITS FOR FALL RENTALS

For Your Convenience
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

★ Minimum 10 month lease available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.
Take first entrance.
Rental Hours—Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

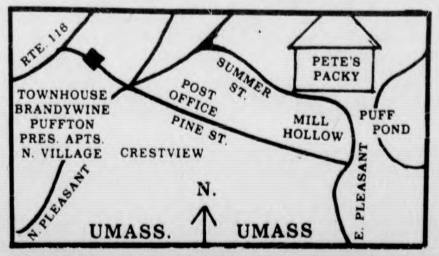
Brittany Manor

PETE'S PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST

FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)

NIGHTLY 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. 6:00 p.m.-10:30 p.m.



| SCHAEFER 12 oz. cans | FALSTAFF 12 oz. cans |
|---|---|
| $5.80 | $5.25 |

LATE, BUT WORTH THE WAIT!!

THE 1977 INDEX has finally arrived on campus.

Distribution will be today through Wednesday, April 26 (excluding the weekend) from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., from the truck in front of the Student Union.

Students with a class year of 1980 and below are entitled to a book. Please bring some form of university identification stating your year of graduation (I.D. cards will not be accepted) such as a class schedule, infirmary appointment card, semester bill or your INDEX card (if by some chance you still have it!) This identification, plus one dollar equals a '77 INDEX.

Pick it up early, distribution is on a first-come, first-serve basis!

Don Gleason's

KNOWN FOR QUALITY TENTS, CAMPING EQUIPMENT, & BACKPACKING GEAR.

Tents of all shapes, styles and sizes are one of our specialties. At Don Gleason's you don't buy a tent by looking at a picture and getting handed a box. On display the year-round we have over 30 tents set up for your inspection. Also, when you pick the tent you want, we will help you get acquainted with it on our tent check-out table.

Don Gleason's offers the largest selection and display of camping and backpacking gear available in Western Massachusetts and Connecticut. If you are thinking of going camping or backpacking, come to Gleason's.

Store Hours April thru July 1978
Weekdays 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
Thursday & Friday Nights till 9 p.m.
Saturday 9 to 5

FREE 96 PAGE CATALOG UPON REQUEST WITH COPY OF THIS AD

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
CAMPUS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA

From Amherst, take Rt. 9 to Northampton; at center of town (where lights are) take a left. Pearl St. is one block south and a left of Rt. 5.

PHONE (413) 584-4895

Lunch time in the patio of our La Rojeña distillery.

When our workers sit down to lunch they sit down to a tradition. When they make Cuervo Gold it's the same.

Every day at just about eleven the wives from Tequila arrive at the Cuervo distillery bearing their husbands' lunches.

Lunches that have been lovingly prepared in the same proud manner since men first began working here in 1795.

It is this same pride in a job well-done that makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY ©1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

"BACK WHEN I WAS IN SCHOOL, I COULD'VE USED A LESS FILLING BEER. ON WEEKDAYS I CARRIED 21 CREDITS. ON WEEKENDS I CARRIED DEFENSIVE TACKLES, LINEBACKERS AND WEAK STRONG SAFETIES."

Matt Snell
Former All-Pro Fullback

LITE® BEER FROM MILLER.
EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED
IN A BEER. AND LESS.

©1978 Miller Brewing Co. Milwaukee, Wis.

Letters

Grad Senate on bus funding

To the Editor:

I wish to clarify a statement attributed to me in Monday's Collegian article on transportation services for handicapped persons. The reasons for the Graduate Student Senate's concern over the administration's covert decision to purchase buses that cannot be fitted with front-door hydraulic wheel-chair lifts extend beyond our immediate need to appropriate funds for the Transit Service for FY '79.

In addition, we are deeply concerned that:

1) the decision will profoundly undermine the civil rights of handicapped people in the Pioneer Valley and at the University over the next 12 years, -bus life-span

2) if not in violation of Section 504 of the National Rehabilitation Act, the Administration's decision contravenes the spirit of the law, that is to provide integrated community services to mobility-impaired and handicapped persons,

3) students, vis-a-vis the student senates, in partially underwriting the Transit Service, may be considered equally liable as defendents in the event of a law suit, and

4) to my knowledge, neither handicapped persons nor the community at large were consulted by the Administration prior to their decision.

It is for these reasons that the Graduate Student Senate may choose to fund Transit Service only on the condition that the submitted order for buses be cancelled, and replaced with an order for buses fitted during manufacture, or at least capable of being retrofitted, with "state-of-the-art" front-door wheel-chair lifts. It is in this broad context that the Senate has requested the Legal Services Office to explore the legality of the University's decision.

David J. Biggers
Secretary, Graduate Student Senate

Students unite around budget cuts

To the Editor:

We would like to respond to the Collegian's editorial stand of last Monday regarding student collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is based on the idea that there is a given set of funds and relationships which should be bargained over by participants in a certain process; in this case the educational process at UMass. The participants must at the same time possess a characteristic which will give them leverage in the negotiation process. For example, workers have the potential to strike. If this happens the workplace closes down. Students must also have such an option. We all realize, however, that a student strike would not have the same impact as that of a worker's strike. Although our organization is not based on the question of collective bargaining rights, we do operate on two basic notions which are entirely relevant to the issue:

1. Funding for Public Higher Education: We are against tuition hikes, budget cuts, and public monies going to private colleges and universities. We are united around the idea that there is not enough money being channeled into public higher education in this state, and without more support high quality public higher education will remain a dream in the minds of the state's working and middle class people. Ironically enough, if ever achieved, student collective bargaining would be meaningless in the face of a meagre operating budget and a subsequently deteriorating set of living and learning conditions at UMass. Our philosophy is that the root of the problems on this campus and on other public campuses across the state, whether residential or academic, is the attitude of politicians towards public higher education. We need only look to the fact that public higher education in this state is 48th in the country in funding, or look to the splendor down the road.

2. Organizing and Educating the Student Body: Given that we came to the university to receive an education, not to provide a particular service, our only real bargaining power is the ability to organize ourselves. As we all witnessed in some form or another during the days of the Whitmore occupation, the student body's most effective tool is the ability to organize itself in a concerted and disciplined fashion. The Whitmore occupation proved better than anything else that the organization of those being effected by negative policies should never take a back seat to high-level negotiations. Our program is based on the understanding that any student organization, whether it be senate or union, will be ineffective if it cannot fulfill the job of educating and organizing those effected by legislative or administrative measures. Our objectve is to go out among our peers and help to educate and organize ourselves around the issues of increased funding for UMass and all institutions of public higher education in this state.

Students United for Public Education [SUPE] sees all of the struggles on this campus for higher standards of living and learning as indisolubly linked to the problems of funding for the state college and university system.

Our program is founded upon the philosophy that quality education is a right, not a privelege, and that in order to attain the funding sufficient for quality education we must create a broad based organization. The issues we are concerned with effect all students, so it is to all students that we direct our efforts. Thus, we are adamantly opposed to all forms of special interest separatism when it comes to the university budget and the public system in general. That is why we are both a campus and state-wide organization. Presently SUPE has a chapter at Westfield State and we are trying to reach students in other state and community colleges around SUPE.

Our program reads as follows:

1. No tuition hikes or budget cuts.

2. No public money going to private schools.

3. No faculty or students sitting on budget-cutting committees.

4. No to Park's plan for reorganization of higher education or any similar.

Beginning last week we started an education-organizing campaign in the dormitories. We will continue to do so throughout the semester. We are also making contacts with the other state schools. We have a table in the Campus Center every Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with information relevent to our program. Our next meeting is Sunday at 7 p.m. in E-33 Machmer. Everyone is invited to drop by the table or come to our meetings. If you can't make it to either put a note in our mailbox on the fourth floor SUB, RSO box 464.

The problem of funding for the university and state college system is not an isolated one. It is the concern of all students intent on developing the tools of critical thinking and the ability to find adequate employment upon graduation. No longer can we allow the conditions to exist upon which department after department is being threatened by cuts, only to be halted by the separate actions of those in the department and their supporters. Our focus must be broad based as any department or program could be cut next. We must unite around the above program.

Greg Tarpinian
Carol Lubin
And all members of SUPE

Budgets Committee clarification

To the Editor:

The following letter is in response to Adam Auster's commentary on the Senate's budget process.

When I first read the commentary "SGA Budget Games" I could not believe someone would write something so outrageous. Normally I would not give credibility to trash editorials such as this by writing a response, but this editorial is just an attempted scam on one portion of the SGA, to mislead students.

Again we see the names DeLima and Doyle mentioned. How much power and influence do you imagine these two people have? I think you are stretching this a bit too far.

I have been a member of the Budgets Committee for the past year and have recently become co-chairperson of the committee. As such, I feel I should mention these points:

1. The SATF [student tax] did not increase for the next fiscal year.

2. The amount the Budgets Committee has to allocate is approximately $1.13 million.

3. The total requested for the next fiscal year by all RSO groups is 1.7 million dollars.

4. The university is forcing the student senate to pay for 85 percent of the bus service, or an approximate increase of $75,000.

5. The state of Massachusetts has mandated a 6 percent 'cost-of-living' increase for all state employees or an approximate increase of $12,000.

These are just a few examples of unanticipated increases that must come out of stagnated student monies. Obviously, there are bound to be cuts and deletions.

It is unknown to me if any groups were mislead by any "SGA officials" last fall, but it is clear several groups did miss the much advertised deadlines and were not granted hearings. You present your information about the appeals process as a loyal patriot; one sided. You failed to mention that the Coordinating Committee has the authority to direct the Budgets Committee to conduct budget hearings for any RSO groups. Nor did you point out that two of the groups that you mentioned, plus a third [SUPE], utilized this process and were granted hearings.

After reading your editorial one would deduct that DeLima-Doyle controlled Al Drewes, and that Al Drewes, by some process of osmosis, could manipulate the votes of the nine committee members to DeLima-Doyle satisfaction. How absurd!

The members of the Budgets Committee have a variety of personal and political backgrounds but they all share one common goal; to serve in the students' best interests by being prepared to meet the new and present financial obligations fairly and adequately.

The responsibilities of each and every member of the Budgets Committee are many. Considering everything, I think they are doing a great job and I congratulate every one of them for their dedication and openmindedness to the process.

Daniel Salce
Co-chairperson,
Budgets Committee

He enjoys reading fiction

To the Editor:

The commentary by Adam Auster "SGA budget games" deserves comment. Although Adam gets caught up in the continuing SGA conspiracy theory, his comment that the SGA Budgets Committee made a mistake in not granting a hearing to all groups that requested funds is correct. I do support the right for all groups to have a hearing and believe that the mistake of the Budgets Committee be corrected. However, it is a difficult task to fund a total of $1.7 million plus budget requests with only $1.1 million budget. The committee members are confirmed by the senate and its report to the senate is only a recommendation.

Hopefully, the Collegian in the future would view meetings of the Budgets Committee as worthy of news coverage so that the student body would be aware of the budget hearings and decisions that are being made. It's unfortunate that groups experience difficulty in their simple request for information and clarification. I personally will do everything possible to insure this mess-up does not occur again, and I apologize for any inconvenience this has caused any student and student organization.

As for the conspiracy of Adam Auster's junta, I still enjoy reading fiction!

Brian Delima

Fantasy Island
april edition
NO ONE SUFFERS TERMINAL ILLNESS FROM D.C. CHICKEN INFIRM
NOTHING DROPS SUDDENLY FROM THE TOWERS (or the birds)
NEAR-SIGHTED, UNDER-PAYED, CARTOONIST GAINS FUN, PROFIT, AND INNER-HAPPINESS WHEN HE GETS PAUL SZEP'S JOB AT THE GLOBE
ALL TERM PAPERS ARE HANDED IN ON TIME
ACADEMIC NON-SENSE
TERM PAPERS
RANDY "THE BROM" BECOMES PRESIDENT OF UMASS FRUIT
GUIDERA
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN

Attacking women's advances

charles bagli

It's ironic that in the wake of International Women's Year many of the things won by the women's movement are under attack. In particular, the right to a safe and voluntary abortion. In Massachusetts this means the Boyle-Flynn bill now pending in the State Legislature.

In response to the growing women's liberation movement the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1973 that the decision to have an abortion must be left solely to the choice of a woman and her physician. This brought tremendous relief for the more than 900,000 women that were forced into dangerous back alley abortions every year prior to 1973. During 1973, the first year abortions were legal nationwide, there was a 40 per cent drop in maternal mortality from abortions. Women were beginning to get higher quality health care.

This and the broader dissemination of birth control information allows women and their families greater freedom for family planning.

However, this advance for women is now under attack. In June, 1977 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that federal and state funds did not have to be available for women on Medicaid programs. Medicaid currently finances three out of every ten abortions and to cut Medicaid funds for abortions would drastically effect the ability of poor and working women to get a safe legal abortion. In line with the June, 1977 Supreme Court ruling, legislative action has been taken on both the federal and state level to prohibit the use of public funds for abortions. In Massachusetts it is the proposed Doyle-Flynn amendment.

These moves have not come out of any new found morality by local, state and federal politicians, or else they wouldn't be supporting the South African government, the forced sterilization of more than 30 per cent of Puerto Rican women or forcing women back into butcher shops for abortions. It is linked though to the overall need of the capitalists to cut back on the unprofitable public sector, like human services, in the economic crisis. This comes down particularly hard on working class and minority people.

In particular these anti-abortion rulings are an attack on working class and minority women in a number of respects. First, the Medicaid cuts mean forcing women away from their ability to get quality health care. It is estimated that without Medicaid support there would be 125 to 250 deaths per year due to illegal and self-induced abortions as well as 12,500 to 25,000 serious medical cases requiring hospitalization.

Secondly it is a political attack in the sense of reaffirming the myths that a "woman's place is in the home." And it continues to legitimize the oppression of women bound to the household and its drudgery by tradition and the organization of society itself. More than one-third of all adult women, many of whom are heads of households, bear a double burden of working full time to keep their family going and the responsibility for cooking, cleaning and raising children.

The attemps to take back the gains women have won have various justifications from saving money to moral platitudes, to right-wing vilification that justifies attacks on all steps toward equality. This is an attack on women that must be taken up by all of us, men and women, and pointed at the source.

Charlie Bagli is a Collegian Columnist.

The equalization of conditions

By Preston H. Smith II

At this point a good number of people on campus know something of the Bakke case and the respective positions of the pro and con forces. What has not been addressed is the self— defeating limits of both arguments and the ominous implications for the majority of the population, more specifically for the progressive forces for social change in this country. Essentially, to rule in favor of either position will pit the white working class against minorities — bBlacks, Latins, Orientals, and others.

The central agrument of the anti—Bakke forces is this: if the Supreme Court rules in favor of Alan Bakke being denied his civil rights because of the minority quota at University of California at Davis' medical school, then the implications for minority opportunities would be inauspicious. The feeling is the gains by civil rights activists in the 60's for minorities will be effaced an preclude any filtering down of those fought for opportunities to the larger minority populations. To the extent that filtering down occurs it is limited by this country's equal opportunity policy which inherently promotes inequality by its separate emphasis on equality of opportunities and not of conditions. The character of this policy has been borne out historically with the former — equality of opportunities — never leading fully to the latter — equality of conditions.

What the equal opportunity policy has led to is the emergence of elite sectors — primarily professionals and managers — out of the minority populations. The opportunities are not available to the larger minority population but to its upwardly noble members and even then promoting vicious competition between them. Thus the rallying concern for the anti—Bakke forces betrays the class interest of those elite minorities and their interest groups.

For those leftist groups it at best exhibits shortsightedness and at worst, an opportunism that seeks to cash in politically for its participation in promoting this "social cause". Of course, this class interest and opportunism is not the sole possession of elite minorities and some leftist groups but is embraced by the pro—Bakke forces as well.

It is evident that the pro—Bakke forces' argrment that minorities have gained too much, too soon is absurd as data on black unemployment clearly indicates. But the concern of the white working class of being excluded from educational opportunities because of minority quotas is real. To be sure the pro— Bakke forces are not devoid of class interest. This is apparent in the knowledge that these opportunities are only limited to certain privileged sectors of the white population. It would certainly be in the interest of the white meddle and upper classes to weed out as much competition as possible be it minorities or white working and lower classes.

The concern should not be promoting class and sectarian interests and capitalizing on the hopes of the disadvantaged but asserting the right of everyone to enjoy an affordable higher education be it liberal, technical, or professional. To settle for anything less is to accept the limits of society's policies (and legitimacy) and more importantly, the suppression of any alternative policies. It's time for the left and other pgggressive forces to get off the treadmill of limited reform and promoting short-range goals that never get lengthened. Those forces concerned with the advancement of human development for all people should call and fight for the qualitative upgrading of all public education, and open admissions at minimal cost to all liberal arts, technical, and professional schools. Thus one's ability to remain at these institutions will depend one one's skills and determination not on one's class position or a race or sex quota.

To remain encapsulated in the relative anti or pro arguments of the Bakke debate is to put oneself or group on the side of division and to promote one's narrow interests in the place of a potentially shared interest of the whole population in the equalization of conditions.

Senate was wrong

paul cronin

A week ago Wednesday the Collegian's Board of Editors was confronted by a number of women's groups who were seeking expanded Collegian coverage of women's news. The women felt the Collegian was unresponsive in addressing the issue, and proceeded to occupy the paper's offices. Seeing that the Student Senate was holding its weekly meeting next door, the women sought senate support for their position. A motion was made to freeze the Collegian's funds and repossess equipment purchased partly by SATF money, if the Board of Editors did not agree to the women's demands. The motion passed by a wide margin on a roll call vote. There has been discussion whether or not the vote was technically legal, in that freezing the budget of an SATF funded group is an amendment to the Budget Act, and therefore must sit on the agenda for a week.

However, the real issue is whether or not the senate should have even considered the motion. The contention here is that the senate seriously overstepped any reasonable use of its authority. There is no doubt that the Senate has the raw power to freeze a budget and to repossess equipment. However, having power, and using it with discretion and self-restraint, are two different things, as the majority of the senate failed to realize.

> "The senate...mustt offer... autonomy to all the groups it funds... Some senators voted for the motion (Collegian fund-freezing) on less than rational grounds... As one senator put it in a private conversation, "'It's a good poke at them (the Collegian), just to let them know we're still here."

This writer has been involved in the SGA for four years. During that time relations between the senate and the Collegian have often been strained. About three years ago the paper did a long series on the establishment and activities of the Student Organizing Project. The series caused quite a furor, with some senators charging that the Collegian was biased against the Project, while others branded it a whitewash.

The SGA, specifically the area governments, has said the Collegian is lax in its coverage of events in the areas, a charge which holds some validity. Some members of the Senate still hold a grudge from last year against the paper for endorsing Pinky Batiste and John Hite for SGA Co-Presidents. More recently the Collegian has come under fire for its news stories and editorials concerning Brian Delima. Many have questioned the ratio of national to campus news the paper carries.

All this tension, coupled with support for the women, lead the senate to attempt to shut down the Collegian. The senate was wrong. Occasionally the senate suffers from a Jeckel and Hyde syndrome. Time after time the senate talks about establishing a more decentralized student association to take the place of the present structure. However, it will turn right around the next week, as it did in the case of the Collegian, and play the all powerful, central government heavy.

The area governments have been telling the senate for quite some time not to infringe on area government autonomy. While this "autonomy" is not constitutionally guaranteed, custom has dictated it. The senate has to realize it must offer this autonomy to all the groups it funds. It can not ride herd over an organization simply because the senate gave it money. It must allow the group to perate on its own. The only instance when the Senate should step in is when there is a violation of the Constitution or By-Laws. The Collegian did not violate any section of those documents. The Collegian is not similar to senate agencies such as SOP, SCER, or LSO. It is not an arm of the SGA governing apparatus. It is not, and should not be, a propaganda sheet of the senate, nor should it bend to any passing whim of the senate.

Now the senate has left itself wide open to lawsuits and has solidified the feeling in the Collegian that the paper should become self-sufficient, free from senate money and interference. Some senators voted for the motion on less than rational grounds. As one senator put it in a private conversation, "It's a good oke at them (the Collegian), just to let them know we're still here. There are limits to what we'll do."

Are there limits? What happens when the senate is upset with an editorial or a news story? After last Wednesday, will the senate feel any restraint in censoring the Collegian? The senate is playing a very dangerous game. College administrations have been taken to court over issues of censoring student newspapers, and the students win more often than not. The issue is freedom of the press, something which a majority of the senate forgot about. Holy Hell would have been raised if the administration stepped in on this issue. Instead, the senate played the role of the heavy hand.

The senate must make up its mind. With all the talk about decentralized decision making and giving the general student body more influence over their SGA, it seems the senate would have left the resolution of the women's pages up to the concerned parties, the women's groups and the Collegian. However, the senate didn't, and it lost a good chance to show its willingness to pull back on its Big Brother iaage.

Paul Cronin is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Sundown marks Passover observance

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

Passover (Pesah in Hebrew), a national, agricultural, and family festival, will begin tonight at sundown, and last eight days for Jewish people all over the world.

It is the anniversary of the Jews' exodus from Egypt over three thousand years ago, as well, as the beginning of the Jewish calendar and the start of the agricultural cycle.

The pharoah of Egypt kept the Jews in slavery and refused to release them from bondage. Egypt was stricken with plagues to make pharoah change his mind. The plagues swarmed Egypt with frogs, lice, boils, hail and fire, locusts, darkness and the killing of the first born, which was a turn-about of pharoah's plan to kill all first-born Jewish children.

The term Passover reflects on the ritual slaughter of a lamb which every Jewish household in Egypt was told to perform. Some of the lamb's blood was to be smeared on their doorposts, and at the sight of the blood, God "passed over" the Jewish houses when he killed the Egyptians.

Moses led the Jews from slavery out of Egypt and into the desert where they received God's ten commandments, and after 40 years were taken to their promised land, Israel. The exodus marks the birth of a Jewish nation and national and religious independence. It is also an affirmation of belief in the future redemption of all Jews, and an explanation of how an oppressed people attained their freedom.

The Passover Haggadah, a book with the rituals and history of the departure from Egypt is read on the first two nights of the holiday. It is important that Jews pass down this heritage from generation to generation. The ceremonial dinner is called a seder. Seder means order, and there is a definite order to the readings and rituals which are performed.

The seder plate is a plate with certain foods which represent aspects of the suffering of the Jews, and the exodus from Egypt. A roasted shankbone of lamb is symbolic of the lamb offering in which the Jews sacrificed to God.

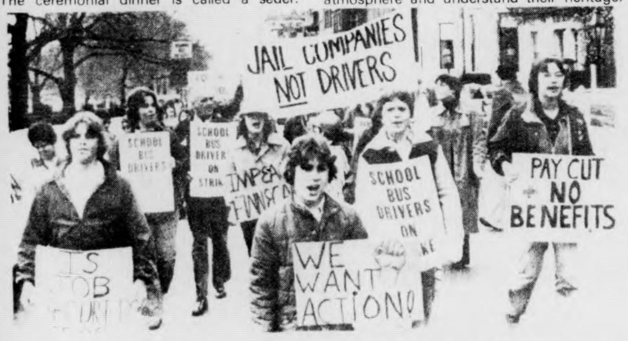
Bitter herbs, horseradish is eaten to commemorate the bitterness the Jews in slavery were tormented with. Choroses, a mixture of chopped apples, wine and nuts represents a brick-like mixture in which Jews were killed and added to, for the construction of Pharoah's buildings. Karpas, which is celery, lettuce or parsley is dipped in salt water, which represents the tears of the enslaved Jews.

Unleavened bread, or Matzohs, is eaten throughout the eight days, and is significant because the Jews did not have enought time to let their bread rise when they were led out of Egypt.

Even though it is a time of reflection on the bitterness of Jewish ancestors who were slaves, it is a celebration of freedom. Jews are told to think of the exodus, as if they personally were led out of slavery, to remember they would still be slaves if their ancestors were not freed.

The Passover dinner is a time to share with others. Not only do families share this special time together, but anyone who needs a place to eat is encouraged to join. Wine is another part of the rejoicing, and represents sweetness and good times; it is part of the feast which represents Jewish freedom.

For the eight days of Passover all food is prepared in a special manner which makes it kosher for Passover. It is a happy time for Jewish people to enjoy the warm family atmosphere and understand their heritage.



Striking school bus drivers and their families march towards the state house protesting the jailing of 15 drivers for refusing to obey an injunction ordering them back to work.

Alcohol topic of conference

By PATRICIA KEEFE
Collegian Staff

The director of the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, Monday will be the keynote speaker for a three-day conference on alcohol education.

Ernest P. Noble will speak on the importance of alcohol prevention from a national perspective, its implications for and relationship to programs on the college level, and its increasing role in the institute's activities.

The conference is presented by the Demonstration Alcohol Education Project, Mental Health, and University Health Services. Peer Educators from Room to Move will assist in presenting workshops.

The patterns of alcohol consumption and the types of problem behaviors reiated to alcohol use by college students will be discussed. Judy Feinstein, conference coordinator and project research assistant, said "for prevention to be effective, you need to look at problems other than alcoholism that relate to alcohol abuse, such as the social environment."

Objectives of the conference are to share information, build skills and identify problem areas. The format will consist of general sessions later broken down into specific workshops. The general sessions are open to the public but the workshops are reserved for conference participants, according to Feinstein. She said "the workshops would not be appropriate for those with no previous training."

The Look of Today,
The Style of Spring,
Get it all with Precision Styling
at Ye Curling Iron
239 Triangle St.
Amherst 549-4412

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
SUMMER CHARTERS
1-13 WEEKS

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| London | from $269 | Dusseldorf | from $339 |
| Geneva | from $339 | Frankfurt | from $319 |
| Rome | from $359 | Munich | from $359 |
| Vienna | from $369 | Amsterdam | from $319 |
| Zurich | from $339 | Brussels | from $289 |
| Cairo | from $469 | Poland | from $425 |
| Greece | from $339 | | |

Campus Travel Center, Campus Center
University of Mass., Amherst 545-0500

Is there someone you'd like to hear speak on campus?
Do you want to become more involved in campus activities and meet new friends and notable speakers?

JOIN DVP!!

The Distinguished Visitors Program would like to see you become a new member.

Come to one of our ORIENTATION MEETINGS!
April 26 and 27 7:30 p.m. CC165

Notices

PRO ABORTION ACTION COALITION

There will be a very important meeting on Monday night at 8:00 in Campus Center room 904-906. All members are strongly urged to attend because there are some recent happenings that you should know about. New members are welcome. For more info, call Julie at 545-0800.

PARKING PRE-REGISTRATION NOTICE

Parking pre-Registration for Fall 1978 begins April 24. Renewal and change registration forms will be mailed on April 20 to all people with vehicles presently registered with the Parking Office. If you do not receive a registration form by April 28, come into the Parking Office, Room 1 Munson Hall. Office hours are 8:30-4:00. The renewal and change deadline is May 12, 1978. If you have unpaid parking tickets, through the end of the fall semester you cannot apply for Parking pre-registration until all tickets are paid. Contact the Parking Office for more details.

TOWER OF POWER TICKETS

Good seats for the Tower of Power are still available for Sunday's concert at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. The show is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. with an opening act Lenny White former drummer for Chic Corea. Tickets will be sold at the Fine Arts Center box office (5-2511) Friday 9-4, Saturday 1-4, Sunday 1-4 and Sunday night at the concert. All Ticketron outlets will be selling tickets during their regular hours.

LOST

Head tennis racket, vicinity of Prince House. Reward! Please call 546-9976.

LOST

Kingspoint calculator last week. Important for work. Reward, call 546-6808.

LOST

To anyone who picked up a black paperback book entitled "Dunlop III. Encyc. of Facts," in rm. 307 ELab on April 18 or 19, please call 546-6808.

FOUND

Gold ID bracelet, woman's April 19. Call John 667-5792. Please leave name and-or phone no.

FOUND

Unclaimed basketball found in NOPE gym two weeks ago after evening hours. To claim call Fred, 546-6317.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB

Important meeting, Monday, April 24 at 7:30. Nominations of officers for next semester will be held. PLEASE attend.

AQUATIC ART

Performance of Aquatic Art by the Naiads, 8:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday night at NOPE pool. Tickets 75 cents for students on sale by the Hatch and at the door.

ARTISTS AND CRAFTSPERSONS

Needed for Spring Crafts Fair in the bowl to be held Sat., April 29, 12-5 p.m. Tables free for OH-C residents, five dollars for all others. Food concessions also needed. Call Jon 546-6626.

ATTENTION PROCTORS FOR MGT. 301

You are required to attend a lecture given by Marty Lisberger on Monday, April 24 at 9 a.m. in SBA 116 or 4 p.m. in SBA 120.

BATIK LESSONS

Learn Batik dying, Mon. and Wed. 5-8 p.m., UMass Craft Shop in Student Union lower level.

BLOCK PARTY

The 2nd annual Springmania is May 5. 150 kegs of Miller on hand.

BRUCE LEE LIVES

Bruce Lee in "Enter the Dragon," Wed., April 26 — 7, 9, 11 p.m., Campus Center Aud. Admission $1.00.

CAFFEINE CAFE

The Amherst Youth Center on Sunderland Road, North Amherst will hold its first coffee house of the Spring this Sunday from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Admission is 25 cents. All welcome.

CAR WASH

Spring is here, get your car washed. Saturday, April 22, 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m. at Zayre's Parking Lot, Rt. 9, Hadley. Only $1.00. Proceeds help student Dietetic Assoc.

CAR WASH

The Amherst Youth Center will hold a car wash tomorrow Sat. from 9-3 on the P-Lot of the Amherst Town Commons.

CAR WASH — BAKE SALE

There will be a car wash and bake sale this Sat., April 22 in the NOPE parking lot. It will run most of the day. Bring your appetite and dirty car. Cost, $1.00 per car.

BEEN RIPPED-OFF LATELY?

The UMass Consumer Action Center can help you. Call 545-0781, Mon.-Fri., 12-5 p.m. or stop by Rm. 423B, Student Union Building, (across from S.O.P. office).

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Available at the UMass student Fed. Credit Union. Must be able to start by May 30. Applications must be in by April 29.

SUNDAY JAZ BRUNCH

April 23, 1:00 Field Main Lounge. Featuring the Bridges, Rurnelli, Mikkola Trio. Free coffee, cider, donuts.

ULTIMATE FRISBEE

The Eastern National Qualifying Tournament is being held this Sat., April 22. It starts at 9:00 a.m. at Smith Field, which is off of Western Ave. near Harvard Stadium. Any questions call Andra 546-9311.

ALL UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Are invited to a Sundae Night at 6:30 p.m., 405 No. Pleasant St. For rides and info call 545-0082 or 545-1542.

WIZ TRIP TO NEW YORK

People who signed up on interest list and other people interested in going to play 4-23rd. Ticket passes can be purchased at the Malcolm X Center Berkshire D.C. in S.W. 5-2819.

WEEKEND WORKSHOP

April 21-23 at the Berkshire Forum Stephentown, N.Y. Anthropologist Steven Marqusee discusses "Encounters with Pseudoscience" a scientific and social critique of cult movements and parapshchology — past and present. Phone 518 733-5497 for info and reservations.

PASSOVER SEDERS

Open to everyone, will be held at the CHABAD HOUSE both Fri. and Sat. nights. Call 253-9040 and let us know you plan to attend.

PLANT AND SOIL BARBECUE!!!

May 7, 1-5 p.m., Farley Lodge, Games, Chicken Free beer, awards ... Tickets real cheap on sale this week and next. See MaryAnne Manita.

IMPORTANT MEETING FOR PRO CHOICE ABORTION ACTION COALITION

On April 24, Rm. 904-908 C.C., 8:00 p.m. All supporters are urged to attend. We need help in lobbying, call Julie 545-0800 or Joanna 253-3356.

SCHLITZ-A-RAMA

Sat., April 20, 12-9 p.m. Phi Sigma Kappa. 510 No. Pleasant St. Image and Chirs Rhodes Band.

SPEECH

Mass House Minority Leader, Frank Hatch will be speaking at UMass on Tues., April 28 at 11:00 in the S.U.B.

STOCKBRIDGE LIVESTOCK CLASSIC

Stockbridge and UMass student will be showing various types of livestock on April 21 at 7 p.m. and all day Sat., April 22. Refreshments available.

STUDENT CONSUMER AFFAIRS COUNCIL

Mandatory meeting Mon., 4-24, 6:00 p.m. Skinner Hall.

INTERNATIONAL FOLKDANCING

Will be held in the Grace Church Parish Hall in Amherst, not in the Cape Cod Lounge tonite. All are welcome. Teaching 8-9:30. Requests: 9:30-11:00.

MEET A FAMOUS PLAYWRIGHT

Jose Ruibal will be holding a conference for discussion and comments on his own plays and the contemporary theatre in Spain. Fri. April 21 at 3 p.m. in the 3rd fl. lounge, Herter. All welcome. Refreshments.

MEETING

Student Health Advisory Bd., SGA, and Collegian Editors on Fri., April 21 from 1:30-2:30 in the CC 101 to meet with the American College Health Association Accreditation Team.

TURN TO PA[illegible] 17

UNITED TRANSMISSION EXCHANGE INC.
all make car and truck transmissions
Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged
236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

ATTENTION!!
People who signed up for the Wiz Trip to New York, ticket passes for admission for the bus and play tickets can be purchased at the Malcolm X. Center, Berkshire D.C. in Southwest, 5-2819.
This is on a first come first serve basis.

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
You'll be surprised to find such excellent authentic Chinese cooking right here in Amherst. The only restaurant in the area to receive the American Dining Society's Good Dining Award.
Lunch Specials 1.15 and up
Closed Wednesday
62 Main St., Amherst
253-7835

FACES
Faces of Earth Downtown Amherst Open 10:00-6:00, Mon.-Sat.

A World of Opportunity
EVENING STAR
Globe
Star
Times
News
You're cordially invited to attend: JOURNALISM CONVENTION '78'
Friday & Saturday
April 21 & 22
Featuring
Walter Mears
Associated Press Vice President
Washington, D.C. Bureau Chief
Plus
30 other
Professional Journalists
from around New England
Join more than 100 College Journalists in round table discussions and workshops.
Call the
Massachusetts Daily Collegian
545-3500
For more information

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

Pioneer—amp-SA-500 Criterion2SA speakers and Garrard turntable, $100. 253-8843.

Stereo w/ AM/FM, 8-tr., turntable, speakers, great condition, $75 or BO, 549-3814, eves.

Exc. stereo, exc. cond. $350. Call 256-6106.

AUTO FOR SALE

1971 Vega GT, 4 spd., original owner, new shocks, valves, brakes & radials, runs well, body excellent, AM-FM, 27 mpg, 665-3452.

71 Ply. Cricket, 4 spd., gd. cond., 253-3963, $400, Bob, after five.

76 Fiat 128 wagon, front drive, AM-FM, immaculate 15,000 miles, extras, 549-5941.

1973 Opel Manta, 25 + mpg, 4 spd., FM, many new parts, 7 tires, $1400—665-3367, nites.

442 convertible, engine great, very reliable, $800 or best offer, will consider trade for motorcycle of equal value, 253-2980.

1968 Rover TC2000, good mileage, good condition, $850, 584-4447, after 7 p.m.

1974 Fiat 128 wgn., AM-FM, rustproofed, luggage rack, $1200, Tom, 549-4600 X263.

68 Dodge van, 6 cylinder, gd. run. cond., must sell fast, $550, call Anne, 6-5503.

67 VW Fastback, just tuned, good body, good engine, Michelin radials. Call after 7 p.m., 549-5650, asking $500.

1973 VW bug, car has been well kept, runs well, body good, AM-FM-Pioneer stereo, $1700, call 546-5000, early a.m.

68 Dodge Dart, dependable slant 6, exc. cond., body fair, $450 or best. 546-6286.

We buy and sell cars for cash. 253-5384.

70 VW bug. Good engine, new muffler, batteries. Tapedeck. Body needs repair. $300 or BO. 549-3541, evenings.

68 Mustang V8, std., good condition, $550, can be seen on weekends, call 546-4182.

Classic 60 Caddy, no work needed, 70,000 orig. mi., new brakes & battery, see 665-4234.

71 VW van, $1250, call 533-5356, keep trying.

1968 VW, dependable, $500 or BO, 253-7619.

69 Pontiac LeMans V—PS/PB/AC, exc. cond., new pts., stereo, $750, Jodi, 256-0677.

FOR RENT

Person/s wtd., Puf. Vlg., 2 bedrm., Jun.-Aug. 31, opt. to rent, fal., call Pete, evs., 549-0582.

Sublet—large bdrm. in 2 bdrm. apt., June-Aug., 2 closets, air cond., pool, bus line, $176/mo., util. included, 253-3307, eve.

Own room in apt. on UMass bus line, air cond., swimming pool, dishwasher, cable TV, cellar storage space in South Amherst area. $70 + /month. Call 253-5478, nights.

4 br. house—N'ham. Avail. 6/1. $300. Call eves., 584-4568. Avoid fall rush.

For rent—Brittany Manor, June 1-Aug. 31, 2 large bdrms., fully furnished, AC, $225 mo. or best offer, 253-5529.

1 bed. Avail. 6/1, Puffton, 549-5939 p.m.

FOR SALE

2 person tent. Nylon ripstop, lightwt. $90. Used twice. Pioneer receiver #535. $180. Advent speakers, walnut cab. $175. Glenburn turn. & cartridge. $50. Pioneer 8-track. $40. 253-2980.

One used fraternity house. Omnicron chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa, Commonwealth Ave. in Boston. Call anytime.

Tarantula—the world's most adorable pet. Complete with cage, $15, call 6-9048.

Akai G360 7½" open reel deck, with auto-reverse. $200. Call Mark, 1-698-2278.

Marantz 2230B receiver with Technics turntable SC23, and Ohm F spkrs., asking $400. Bought last fall. Call 549-1330.

HELP WANTED

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern US, July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, NY 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Political activists: statewide consumer action organization is looking for energetic articulate people to fundraise and educate public around economic reform issues. Summer position, call Mass Fair Share, 781-4110 or interview on campus April 28, call 5-1951.

Internship—Hampshire Franklin Association for Mental Health. Assist counselor Halfway House, serving clients from State Hospital in Northampton and Greenfield. Experience/training in mental health. Summer/fall internships are available. Volunteer; 3 mo.-40 hr. wk. Paid: 6 mo.-40 hr. wk. $25.00-$50.00 wk. Office of Internships, 545-0727 or HFAFMH, 584-7329.

Judges needed to evaluate emotional tone of conversation tapes for patient provider interaction study. Approx. 2 hrs. work. Pay $5. Early eunas, wkday., starts Apr. 18. Dr. Roter, 545-1313.

$180-$480 weekly stuffing envelopes on campus. Information: rush stamped addressed envelope. Southern Publishing, Box 171802-MD, Memphis, Tenn. 38117.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seeks qualified counselors for 90 member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Travel this summer and make $315/week. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope: Box A48, 845 Boylston St., Boston 02116.

LOST

Head tennis racket, vicinity of Prince House. Reward. Please call 546-9976.

A week or so ago, pair of brown leather gloves with gray knit glove liner. One is stained. Very high sentimental value. Please call 549-2856. Reward.

Lost—soft contact lenses in case, April 6. If found, call 536-8649, reward.

Lost gold woman's watch near CC. Call 6-8293, sentimental value.

Lost calculator—TI SR51-II, lost near or in Whitmore, if found, please call 6-5075.

Gold ID bracelet, no engraving, lost 4/11, has much sentimental value. If found, please call Margie, 256-6945.

MOTORCYCLES

74 Honda 250, exc. cond., $475, xtras, Dan, 323-5504.

Honda 450, $475 or BO, 584-8890.

1976 Honda 360, 9000 mi., backrest, luggage rack, crash bar, exc. cond., $850, 546-9407.

73 Honda CB350, exc. cond. Red w/ crash bar, rack, padded backrest, lock & chain and helmet. $600, call Ken, 546-9793.

Honda 550—four, 1974, 14,935 miles, good cond., $1000 or BO, call Neil, 546-6929.

1975 Honda 400F SS, bought new in 77, 4500 mi., perfect condit., sis barpad, ask $950, call 256-2052 or 549-0251.

75 Honda MT250, 4000 miles, good shape, asking $500, will bicker, must sell. If interested, call Dave at 367-9984.

PERSONALS

Boarders wanted, women only, reasonable cost, good atm. Call 545-0939.

To the man of my dreams: better late than never. Hope you had a happy 21st. Congratulations on the 2nd, you'll beat him someday. Love always, FWT.

Springmania is May 5. See you there!

Underexposed & obscure classics of rock related music are aurally revealed late Sat. nite on WMUA 91.1 FM, 2-6 a.m. by Ze Unknown DJ. Be there!

Rock & bop & pogo with Perry Adler, 2-5:30 p.m., Mon. afternoon, WMUA 91.1 FM, and rock out & space out with Lisa Wait, Wed. afternoon, 2-5:30, WMUA 91.1 FM.

Stick it in your ear—we'll pierce them free if you buy the studs. Silverscape Designs, 264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-3324.

Amherst voters, register to vote in the Campus Center from 10-4 on April 25, 26 and 27. Vote Jonathan Souweine for District Attorney on primary, Sept. 12, plan ahead, register to vote.

Bus to Grateful Dead in Providence. $6 round trip, 41 spaces available. Call Brian, 5-2525 days or John, 6-9667. "They're a band beyond description."

SERVICES

5 College Typing Serv.—specializing in dissertations, theses, term papers, 549-2637.

Typing—60 cents/page. Call 549-6655.

Resumes—Professionally prepared to meet individual needs. Included are sample cover letters and our guide to job interviewing. For free details write: New England Resume LTd., Box 443, Essex Sta., Boston, Mass. 02112.

Peugot bicycle now at Pioneer Valley Moped. Also 5 brands of Mopeds. 10-6 Mon.-Sat., 4 Conz Street (behind City Hall), Northampton, 586-1054.

Research, writing, editing—proposals, reports. All subjects, formats, lengths. Confidential! Professional team! Research, Drawer 500, Dayton, Washington 99328.

Typing—Five College Typing Service, professional, reasonable. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Typing—fast, accurate, experienced typist & proofreader. Low rates. 549-0826.

TO SUBLET

Room in Brandywine, apt. for summer, female, rent negotiable, call 549-5951.

2 br. on bus rt., June 1 for summer, opt. to renew, furn. and util. incl. $230, 665-3025.

Sublet June 1 with option for fall, one bedroom apt. located ½-way between campus and Amherst center, on bus route, rent neg., 253-3356.

For sublet—large, sunny one bedroom Cliffside Apt. Available June 1-Sept. 1. After that can get new lease. $190, including utilities. Phone, 665-3682.

Sublet—2 bdrm. S. Meadown townhouse on bus route, opt. for fall. Rent negotiable, avail. mid-May. Rent starts June 1. 256-8904.

Sublet—1 bdrm. in 2 bdrm. Riverglade apt., move in anytime—8/31 w/ option. Cheap free April rent, pool, bus, furnished, many extras, call Rollo before 5, 256-6637.

Sublet—2 bdr. apt., AC, pool, semi-furnished, avail. 6-1, call 253-3641, evenings!

Sick of living in an apt. complex? 2 xtra large bdrm. apt., 10 min. walk to campus, 30 sec. from bus stop. Partly furnished, $275 mo. Avail. 6/1. Call 549-6416.

Col. Vill.—2 bdrm. fully furn., pool, exc. bus rt., $200, neg. 6/1-8/31, 253-3446, 5-.

Only $70/rm., 3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Gr. apt. Furn., util. incl. Call 256-8887.

2 bdrm., 5/31-8/31, opt. to renew, Prez, Apts., bus/walk, AC, util. incl. Call 549-6863!

Furnished 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-8/31. AC & pool right next door. 549-0393.

Puffton apt.—3 bedroom; furnished. Available June 1, rent $240/mo. Call 549-5966.

1 br. in 3 br. townhouse apt. in N. Amh. Avail. 5/1, call 549-0611.

2 br. Brandy. w/ option to renew. Pool, DW, Ac, $190 mo. Avail. 5/31, 549-5128.

1 bdr. apt., beaut. loc., AC, util. pd., cats OK, avail. 6/1, fall opt. $165/mo., 549-1582.

Fully furn. 2 bdrm. apt., avble. June 1 to Aug. 31. $230/mo.—negotiable. On bus rt., util. included. Colonial Village. 546-5550.

1 bdrm. in 3 bdrm. in Puffton, avail. end of finals, rent negotiable, 549-5860.

Own rm. in 3 bdrm. South Meadow apt., 6/1 or earlier. $100 month. 253-7961.

To sublet—1 bdrm. in Riverglade twnhs. apts., many extras, price neg., fall opt. Call Steve, 253-9697.

Large bedroom in Puffton 3 bedroom apt. Woman. June 1 thru Aug. 31. Own bathroom, pool, tennis and laundry facilities. Rent negotiable. Call evenings, 549-6321.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green townehouse apt., AC, DW, pool, furnished, carpeted, 1½ baths, on busline. 6/1-8/31, $260, util. incl. 546-5080.

Rol. Grn.—avoid waiting lists for next yr. 2 br. apt., avl. June to June poss. summer sublet, util. incl., 256-8455.

For summer, 2 bdrms. in 3 bdrm. Puffton apt., rent neg., call nits, 549-1338.

2 bdrm. townhouse, Sunderland, on bus route, baths, AC, pool, 6/1-8/31, $200, 665-2242.

Puffton apt. for summer, 1 lg., 1 sm. bedroom, semi-furnished, $207/mo., 549-6413.

3 bedrm. Presidential, avail. 6/1-8/31, w/ option to rent in Sept. ¼ mi. from campus. Bus route, 549-0692.

Calling all students—da da da da da 253-3695—da da da da da: Attention!! Summer sublet with fall option: Colonial Village, 2 bedroom apartment, utilities included—negotiable, call 253-3695.

Sublet: 1 bdrm. apt., June/Aug., $140/mo., util. included, call 549-5425, evenings.

Lrge., fully furn. 2 level 2 bdrm. apt., avail. 6/1-9/1, $220/mo.—negotiable. 50 yds. to bus, 2 min. walk to store, air cond., dishwasher. Call 549-6966.

Don't hassle with waiting lists! Brand. apt., 2 bedroom, to sublet June 1 to Aug. 31. Option to lease in fall. Call 549-1680.

6/1-8/31—2/bedroom apt., 7/minute walk to campus, AC, $225—negotiable. Call: 549-6340.

2 br. apt., Col. Vlg., bus, pool, ut. incl., fall opt., $230—neg., avail. 5/28-8/31, 253-2216.

2 lg. bdrm. apt., beaut. loc., AC, all utilities pd., on bus rt., laundry fac., pool. Available for June, July, August, price negotiable. Rolling Green, 546-9647, Bruce, or 546-9641, Rob.

3 bdrm. Rolling Green apt., furnished. Avail.5/31-8/31. Air cond., etc. 253-3071.

Subletting room in a large fully furnished 2 bdrm. apt.—5/25-8/31—3 blocks frm. Amherst ctr., rent neg., call 253-3165.

Summer sublet, avail. 5/20, 3 bdrm., call 549-0106 or come by 103 Puffton.

1 bdrm. apt. in Puffton, ½ mi. from campus, for 6/1 to 8/31 with option to renew avail. Some furn. call 549-3837.

Apt., Riverglade, furn. Modern—pool—full cellar, June, July, August w/ option to stay. Call 256-8413.

Apt.—walking distance, good view, 549-3518.

Summer w/ apt. fall, Puft., 549-1536.

1 or 2 rooms for summer at Brandywine, rent/dates negot. 549-6852.

Large 3 bdrm. apt. w/w crpt. On bus route, hr Swiss, $270 mo. Avail. bfr. Jun., 253-7859.

Lg. 2 bdrm., $220/mo., util. incl., avail. 6/1, Col. Vlg., opt. to renew, call eve., 256-6489.

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland, on bus route, avail. immediately, $175, 665-3508.

Subletting for summer. Brandywine Apt., $70 a month. Brad, 545-3500 or 549-4834.

TRAVEL

Bike trip! Wt. to bike with a group through Eastern Europe this summer? Brussels to Budapest. 7½ wks. No experience assumed. I did it last summer and it was great. Write: Alex Lipson, 2 Garden Terr., Cambridge, MA 02138, tel.: (617) 547-1127.

Want to spend this summer sailing the Caribbean? The Pacific? Europe? Cruising other parts of the world aboard sailing or power yachts? Boat owners need crew! For free info, send a 13 cent stamp to SKOKO, Box 20885, Houston, Texas 77025.

WANTED

Need ride to Louisville KY weekend of May 5, will share expenses, call Debi, 549-0148.

F. rmmate., nonsmoker, $125 mo., Puffton, 549-4869.

Quiet female rmmate. for 2 bed. Col. Vil. apt., June-Aug., rent neg., 253-2420, aft. 5 p.m.

Used flute. Call Tobie, 549-5941, eves.

Wanted: one backpack w/ frame and sleeping bag. Cheap. Call Carol, 6-8947.

4th person needed for W. Yarmouth cottage, Mem.-Labor Day. Good living sit., call us! Kathy, 6-5112, Lou, 6-5117.

WANTED TO RENT

Women seeking house to rent in Amherst area. Needed either May 15 or June 1. Please call 549-1053.

Responsible couple will house/apt. sit June 1-31, care for plants, pets, yard, 253-2131.

3 wmn. for 4 bdrm. Rol. Grn., 256-6673.

ARE YOU CONCERNED?

Frank Hatch is the current house minority leader who is running for governor of Mass. Will speak at the SUB on April 25 at 11:00. Frank has saved millions of tax dollars, stopped hit and run bulldozers from paving our wetland. Questions will be welcomed.

1975 GMC VAN

6 cyl. std., custom interior, stereo, mags, sunroof, 46,000 mi., $4000, 584-5733, evenings.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

IBM still wants to talk with you about a career in Engineering or Computer Programming.

